n Heweth how the people shall with praise and thanksgiving acknowledge this benefite.

o Meaning, Zerubbabel, who was the figure of Christ, in whom this was accomplished.

p Signifying, that Christ doth willingly submit himselfe to the obedience of God his father, q Left the wicked hypocrites should flatter themselves with these promises, the Prophet sheweth what shall be their portion.

19 And out of them shall proceed a thanksgiving, and the voice of them that are ioyous, and I will multiply them, and they shall not be few: I will also glorifie them, and they shall not be diminished.

20 Their children also shall be as aforetime, and their congregation shall be established before me: and I will visit all that were there.

21 And their noble ruler shall be of themselves, and their gouernour shall proceed from the middes of them, and I will cause him to draw neere, and approach vnto me: for who is this that directeth his heart to come vnto me, saith the Lord?

22 And ye shall be my people, and I will be your God.

23 Behold, the tempest of the Lord goeth forth with wrath: the whirlwind that bangerth ouer, shall light vpon the head of the wicked.

24 The fierce wrath of the Lord shall not returne vntill he haue done, and vntill hee haue performed the intents of his heart: in the latter dayes ye shall vnderstand it.

r When this Messiah and deliverer is sent.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 Hee rehearseth Gods benefites after their returne from Babylon, 23 and the spiritual ioy of the faithful in the Church.

AT the same time, saith the Lord, will I bee the God of all the families of Israel, and they shall be my people.

2 Thus saith the Lord, The people which escaped the sword, found grace in the wilderness: he walked before Israel to cause him to rest.

3 The Lord hath appeared vnto me of olde, say they: Pea, I haue loued thee with an eueralsting loue, therefore with mercy I haue drawn thee.

4 Again, I will build thee, and thou shalt be builded: O virgin Israel: thou shalt still be adorned with thy rimbells, and shalt go forth in the dance of them that be ioyfull.

5 Thou shalt yet plant vines vpon the mountaines of Samaria, and the planters that plant them shall make them common.

6 For the dayes shall come that the watchmen vpon the mount of Ephraim shall cry, Arise, and let vs goe vnto Zion to the Lord our God.

7 For thus saith the Lord, Reioyce with gladnesse for Iacob, and shout for ioy among the chiefe of the Gentiles: publish praise, and say, O Lord, save thy people, the remnant of Israel.

8 Behold, I will bring them from the North countrey, and gather them from the coasts of the world, with the blinde and the lame among them, with the woman with child, and her that is deliuered also: a great company shall returne hither.

9 They shall come weeping, and with mercy will I bring them againe: I will leade them by the rivers of water in a straight way, wherewith they shall not stumble: for I am a father to Israel, and Ephraim is my first borne.

10 Heare the word of the Lord, O ye Gentiles, and declare in the yles afarre off, and say, He that scattered Israel, will gather him, and will keepe him as a shepheard doth his flocke.

11 For the Lord hath redeemed Iacob, and ransomed him from the hand of him, that was stronger then he.

12 Therefore they shall come and reioyce in the height of Zion, and shall run to the bountifullnesse of the Lord, euen for the wheate, and for the wine, and for the oyle, and for the increafe of sheepe and bullockes: and their soule shall be as a watered garden, and they shall haue no more sorrow.

13 Then shall the virgin reioyce in the daunce, and the yong men, and the old men together: for I will turne their mourning into ioy, and will comfort them, and giue them ioy for their sorowes.

14 And I will replenish the soule of the deserts with fatnesse, and my people shall be satisfied with my goodnesse, saith the Lord.

15 Thus saith the Lord, A voyce was heard on high, a mourning and bitter weeping: Rachel weeping for her children, refused to be comforted for her children, because they were not.

16 Thus saith the Lord, Refraine thy voyce from weeping, and thine eyes from teares: for thy worke shall be rewarded, saith the Lord, and they shall come againe from the land of the enemy.

17 And there is hope in thine end, saith the Lord, that thy children shall come againe to their owne borders.

18 I haue heard Ephraim lamenting thus, Thou hast corrected mee, and I was chastised as an vntamed calfe: conuert thou me, and I shall bee conuerted: for thou art the Lord my God.

19 Surely, after that I conuerted, I repented: and after that I was instructed, I smote vpon my thigh: I was ashamed, yea, euery confounded, because I did beare the reproch of my youth.

20 Is Ephraim my deare sonne or pleasant child? yet since I spake vnto him, I still remembered him: therefore my bowels are troubled for him: I will surely haue compassion vpon him, saith the Lord.

21 Set thee vp signes: make thee heaps:

that thou shouldst haue found none remaining.

n That is, the people that were led captive. x Which was wanton, and could not bee subiect to the yoke. y He sheweth how the faithfull use to pray: that is, desire God to turne them, forasmuch as they cannot turne of themselves. z In signe of repentance, and detestation of my sinne.

a As though he would say, No: for by his iniquity he did what lay in him to cast mee off.

b To wit, in pitying him for my promise sake.

c Marke by what way thou diddest goe into captiuitie, and thou shalt turne againe by the same.

m That is, lamenting their sins, which had not giuen eare to the Prophets, and therefore it followeth that God receiued them to mercy.

Chap 50.4. Some take it that they should weepe for ioy.

n Where they found no impediments, but abundance of all things.

o That is, my dearly beloued, as the first child is to the father.

p That is, from the Babylonians and other enemies.

q By these temporal benefites he meaneth the spiritual graces which are in the Church, and whereof there should be euery plenty, Isa 58.

r In the company of the faithful, which euer praise God for his benefites.

1 Meaning, the spirit of wisdom, knowledge, and zeale.

t To declare the greatnes of Gods mercy in deliuering the Iewes, he sheweth them that they were like to the Beniamites, or Israelites: that is, venterly destroyed, and caried away, insomuch that if Rahel the mother of Benjamin could haue risen againe to seeke for her children, u That is, the people that were led captive.

x Which was wanton, and could not bee subiect to the yoke.

y He sheweth how the faithfull use to pray: that is, desire God to turne them, forasmuch as they cannot turne of themselves.

z In signe of repentance, and detestation of my sinne.

a As though he would say, No: for by his iniquity he did what lay in him to cast mee off.

b To wit, in pitying him for my promise sake.

c Marke by what way thou diddest goe into captiuitie, and thou shalt turne againe by the same.

d Because their deliuerance from Babylon was a figure of their deliuerance from sinne, he sheweth how this should be procured, to wit, by Iesus

Christ, whom a woman should conceive and beare in her wombe. Which is a strange thing in earth, because he should be borne of a virgin without man: or, he meant that Ierusalem which was like a barren woman in her captiuitie should be fruitful, as she that is ioynd in marriage, and whom God blesteth with children.

e Having vnderstood this vision of the Messiah to come, in who the two houses of Israel and Iudah should be ioyned, I reioiced, f I will multiply and enrich them with people and cattell. g The wicked vied this proverbe, when they did murmur against Gods iudgements pronounced by the Prophets, saying that their fathers had committed the fault, and that the children were punished, Ezek. 18. 3.

h Though the couenant of redemption made to the fathers, and this which was given after, seeme diuers, yet they are all one, and grounded on Iesus Christ, saue that this is called new, because of the manifestation of Christ, and the abundant graces of the holy Ghost giuen to his Church vnder the Gospel. i And so were the occasion of the rowne diuorcement through their infidelity, Isa. 50. 1. || Or, master. k In the time of Christ, my Law shall in stead of tables of stone, be written in their hearts by mine holy Spirit, Heb. 8. 10. l Vnder the kingdome of Christ there shall none be blinded with ignorance, but I will giue them faith and knowledge of God for remission of their sinnes, and dayly increase the same, so that it shall not seeme to come so much by the preaching of my ministers, as by the instruction of my holy Spirit, 1 Io. 5. 13. but the full accomplishment hereof is referred to the kingdome of Christ, when we shall be ioyned with our head.

22 How long wilt thou go astray, O thou rebellious daughter: for the Lord hath created a new thing in the earth: A WOMAN shall compass a man.

23 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Yet shall they say this thing in the land of Iudah, and in the cities thereof, when I shall bring againe their captiuitie, The Lord blesse thee, O habitation of iustice, and holy mountaine.

24 And Iudah shall dwell in it, and all the cities thereof together, the husbandmen and they that goe forth with the flocke.

25 For I haue satiate the weary soule, and I haue replenished euery forrowfull soule.

26 Therefore I awaked, and beheld, and my sleepe was sweet vnto me.

27 Behold, the dayes come, saith the Lord, and I will sow the house of Israel, and the house of Iudah with the seede of man, and with the seede of beast.

28 And like as I haue watched vpon them, to plucke vp, and to roote out, and to throw downe, and to destroy, and to plague them, so will I watch ouer them, to build and to plant them, saith the Lord.

29 In those dayes shall they say no more. The fathers haue eaten a foule grape, and the childrens teeth are set on edge.

30 But euery one shall die for his owne iniquitie: euery man that eateth the foule grape, his teeth shall be set on edge.

31 Behold, the dayes come, saith the Lord, that I will make a new couenant with the house of Israel, and with the house of Iudah.

32 Not according to the couenant that I made with their fathers, when I tooke them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt, the which my Couenant they brake although I was || an husband vnto them, saith the Lord.

33 But this shall be the couenant that I will make with the house of Israel, After those dayes, saith the Lord, I will put my Law in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts, and will be their God, and they shall be my people.

34 And they shall teach no more euery man his neighbour, and euery man his brother, saying, Know the Lord, for they shall all know mee from the least of them vnto the greatest of them, saith the Lord: for I will forget their iniquitie, and will remember their sinnes no more.

35 Thus saith the Lord, which giueth the Sunne for a light to the day, and the courses of the Moone and of the starres for a light to the night, which breaketh the sea, when the waues thereof roare: his Name is the Lord of hosts.

36 If these ordinances depart out of my sight, saith the Lord, then shall the seed of Israel cease from being a nation before me, for euer.

37 Thus saith the Lord, If the heavens can be measured, or the foundations of the earth be searched out beneath, then will I cast off all the seed of Israel, for all that they haue done, saith the Lord.

38 Behold, the dayes come, saith the Lord, that the citie shall be built to the Lord from the towne of Pananeel, vnto the gate of the corner.

39 And the line of the measure shall goe forth in his presence vpon the hill Gareb, and shall compass about to Soath.

40 And the whole valley of the dead bodies, and of the ashes, and all the fields vnto the brooke of Kidron, and vnto the corner of the hedge toward the East, shall bee holy vnto the Lord, neither shall it be plucked vp, nor destroyed any more for euer.

41 Thus saith the Lord, The dayes come, saith the Lord, that I will build the house of Ierusalem, and shall compass about to Soath.

CHAP. XXXII.

Jeremiah is cast into prison, because hee prophesied that the citie should be taken of the king of Babilonia. He sheweth that the people should come againe to their owne possession. 38 The people of God are his seruants, and he is their Lord.

The word that came vnto Jeremiah from the Lord, in the tenth yeere of Zedekiah King of Iudah, when he was in the eighteenth yeere of Nebuchad-nazzar.

2 For then the king of Babels hoste besieged Ierusalem: and Jeremiah the Prophet was shut vp in the court of the prison, which was in the king of Iudahs house.

3 For Zedekiah King of Iudah had shut him vp, saying, Whether doe thou prophesie, and say, Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will giue this citie into the hands of the king of Babel, and he shall take it?

4 And Zedekiah the king of Iudah shall not escape out of the hand of the Caldeans, but shall surely be deliuered into the hands of the king of Babel, and shall speake with him mouth to mouth, and his eyes shall beholde his face,

5 And he shall leade Zedekiah to Babel, and there shall he be, vntill I visit him, saith the Lord: though pee fight with the Caldeans, ye shall not prosper.

6 And Jeremiah said, The word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

7 Behold, Panameel the sonne of Shalum thine vncle shall come vnto thee, and say, Buy vnto thee my field that is in Anathoth: for the title by kindred appertaineth vnto thee to buy it.

2. Of the possession of the Levites, read Leviticus 25. 32. f Which mounteth to of our money about ten shillings six pence, if this shekel were the common shekel, read Gen. 23. 15. for the shekel of the Temple was of double value, and ten pieces of silver were halfe a shekel: for twentie made the shekel. g According to the custome, the instrument, or evidence was sealed up with the common seale, & a copie thereof remained, which contained the same in effect, but was not so authentically as the other, but was left open to be seen, if anything should be called into doubt. h And to hide them in the ground, that they might be preserved as a token of their deliverance. || Or, hid. Exod. 34. 7. deut. 5. 9. i Because the wicked are subiect to the curse of God, he sheweth that their posterity which by nature are vnder this malediction, shall be punished both for their owne wickednes, and that the iniquities of their Fathers, which is likewise in them shall be also revenged on their head. k Meaning, that his miracles in delivering his people, should never be forgotten.

to me in the court of the prison, according to the word of the Lord, and said unto me, Buy my field, I pray thee, that is in Anathoth, which is in the countrey of Benjamin: for the right of the possession is thine, and the purchase belongeth unto thee: buy it for thee. Then I knew that this was the word of the Lord.

9 And I bought the field of Hanameel, mine uncles sonne, that was in Anathoth, and weighed him the silver, even seven shekels, and ten pieces of silver.

10 And I writ in the booke, and signed it, and tooke witnesses, and weighed him the silver in the balances.

11 So I tooke the booke of the possession being sealed according to the Law and custome, with the booke that was open.

12 And I gave the booke of the possession unto Baruch the sonne of Neriah, the sonne of Naafeiah, in the sight of Hanameel mine uncles sonne, and in the presence of the witnesses, written in the booke of the possession, before all the Jewes that sat in the court of the prison.

13 And I charged Baruch before them, saying,

14 Thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israel, Take the writings, even this booke of the possession, both that is sealed, and this booke that is open, and put them in an earthen vessel, that they may continue a long time.

15 For the Lord of hostes the God of Israel saith thus, Houses and fields, and vineyards shall be possessed againe in this land.

16 ¶ Now when I had delivered the booke of the possession unto Baruch, the sonne of Neriah, I prayed unto the Lord, saying, 17 Ah Lord God, behold, thou hast made the heauen and the earth by thy great power, and by thy stretched out arme, and there is nothing hard unto thee.

18 ¶ Thou shewest mercy unto thousands, and recompenseth the iniquity of the fathers into the bosome of their children after them, O God the great and mightie, whose name is the Lord of hostes.

19 Great in counsell, & mightie in worke, (for thine eyes are open upon all the wayes of the sonnes of men, to give to every one according to his wayes, and according to the fruit of his workes.)

20 Which hast set signes and wonders in the land of Egypt unto this day, and in Israel, and among all men, and hast made thee a Name, as appeareth this day.

21 And hast brought thy people Israel out of the land of Egypt with signes, and with wonders, and with a strong hand, with a stretched out arme, and with great terrour.

22 And hast given them this land, which thou diddest sweare to their Fathers to give them, even a land that floweth with milke and honey.

23 And they came in, and possessed it, but they obeyed not thy voice, neither walked in thy Law: all that thou commandedst them to doe, they have not done: therefore thou hast caused this whole plague to come upon them.

24 Behold, the mountains, they are come into the city to take it, and the city is given into the hand of the Caldeans, that fight against it, by means of the sword, and of the famine, and of the pestilence, and what thou hast spoken, is come to passe, and behold, thou seest it.

25 And thou hast said unto me, O Lord God, Buy unto thee the field for silver, and take witnesses: for the citie shall be given into the hand of the Caldeans.

26 ¶ Then came the word of the Lord unto Jeremah, saying, 27 Behold, I am the LORD GOD of all flesh: is there any thing too hard for me?

28 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will give this city into the hand of the Caldeans, and into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babel, & he shall take it.

29 And the Caldeans shall come and fight against this city, and set fire on this city, and burne it, with the houses, upon whose roofes they have offered incense unto Baal, & powred drinke offerings unto other gods, to prouoke me to anger.

30 For the children of Israel, and the children of Judah have surely done euill before me from their youth: for the children of Israel have surely prouoked mee to anger with the workes of their handes, sayeth the Lord.

31 Therefore this citie hath bene unto me as a prouocation of mine anger, and of my wrath, from the day that they built it, euen unto this day, that I should remooue it out of my sight.

32 Because of all the euill of the children of Israel, & of the children of Judah, which they haue done to prouoke mee to anger, euen they, their Kings, their Princes, their Priestes, and their Prophets, and the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Ierusalem.

33 And they haue turned unto mee th backe and not the face: though I taught them rising vpearly and instructing them, yet they were not obedient to receiue doctrine.

34 But they set their abominations in the house, (whereupon my Name was called) to defile it.

35 And they built the high places of Babel, which are in the valley of Ben-hinnom, to cause their sonnes and their daughters to passe through the fire unto Molech, which I commanded them not, neither came it into my minde, that they should doe such abomination to cause Judah to sinne.

36 And now therefore, thus hath the Lord God of Israel spoken concerning this city, whereof ye say, It shall be delivered into the hand of the king of Babel by the sword, and by the famine, and by the pestilence.

37 ¶ Behold, I will gather them out of all countreys, wherein I haue scattered them in mine anger, and in my wrath, and in great indignation, and I will bring them againe unto this place, and I will cause them to dwell safely.

The word signifieth any thing that is call vp, as a mount or rampart, and is also used for engines of warre, which were laid on an high place to shooote into a citie, before that gunnes were in vse.

CHAP. XXXIII.

1 The Prophet is moued of the Lord to pray for the deliuerance of the people, which the Lord promised. 8 God forgiveth sinnes, for his owne glory. 15 Of the birth of Christ. 20 The Kingdome of Christ in the Church shall neuer be ended.

2 Thus saith the Lord, the maker * thereof, the Lord that formed it, and established it, the Lord is his name.

3 Call vnto me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great & mighty things, which thou knowest not.

4 For thus saith the Lord God of Israel, concerning the houses of this citie, and concerning the houses of the Kings of Iudah, which are destroyed by the * mounts, and by the sword.

5 They come to * fight with the Caldeans, but it is to fill themselves with the dead bodies of men, whom I haue slaine in mine anger and in my wrath: for I haue hid my * face from this citie, because of all their wickednesse.

6 Beholde, I will give it health and amendement: for I will cure them, and will reuente vnto them the aboundance of peace, and truth.

7 And I will cause the captiuitie of Iudah, and the captiuitie of Israel to returne, and will build them as at the first.

8 And I will cleanse them from all their iniquity, where by they haue sinned against mee: yea, I will pardon all their iniquities, whereby they haue sinned against me, and whereby they haue rebelled against me,

9 And it shall be to mee a name, a * (ay, a praise, and an honour before all the nations of the earth: which shall heare all the good that I doe vnto them: and they shall feare, and tremble for all the goodnesse, and for all the wealth that I shew vnto this citie.

10 Thus sayth the Lord, Againe, there shall be heard in this place, which ye say shall bee desolate, without man, and without beast, even in the cities of Iudah, and in the streets of Ierusalem, that are desolate without man, and without inhabitant, and without beast.)

11 The voice of ioy and the voice of gladnesse, the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride, the voyce of them that shall say, Praise the Lord of hostes, because the Lord is good: for his mercy endureth for euer, and of them that offer the sacrifice of praise in the house of the Lord, for I will cause to returne the captiuitie of the land, as at the first, saith the Lord.

12 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Againe in this place, which is desolate without man, and without beast, and in all the cities thereof, there shall be dwelling for shepherds to rest their flockes.

13 In the cities of the * mountaines, in the cities in the plaine, & in the cities of the South, and in the land of Benjamin, and about Ierusalem, and in the cities of Iudah shall the sheepe passe againe, vnder the hand of him that telleth them, sayth the Lord.

14 Beholde, the dayes come, sayth the Lord, that I will performe that good thing, which I haue promised vnto the house of Israel, and to the house of Iudah.

15 In those dayes and at that time will I cause the branch of righteousness to grow vnto Dauid, and hee shall execute iudgement and righteousness in the land.

16 In those dayes shall Iudah be saved, and Ierusalem shall dwell safely, and he that shall call vpon her, is the Lord our * righteousness.

17 For thus saith the Lord, Dauid shall neuer want a man to sit vpon the throne of the house of Israel.

18 Neither shall the Priests and Leuites want a man before mee to offer * burnt offerings, and to offer meat offerings, and to doe sacrifice continually.

19 And the word of the Lord came vnto Jeremiah, saying,

20 Thus sayeth the Lord, If you can breake my covenant of the * day, and my covenant of the night, that there should not be day and night in their season,

21 Then may my covenant bee broken with Dauid my seruant, that hee should not haue a sonne to reigne vpon his throne, and with the Leuites, and Priests my ministers.

22 As the army of heauen cannot be numbred, neither the sand of the Sea measured: so will I multiply the seed of Dauid my seruant, and the Leuites, that minister vnto mee.

23 Moreover, the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah, saying, 24 Considerest thou not what * this people haue spoken, saying, The two families,

C H A P. XXXIII.

2 Hee threatneth that the City and the King Zedekiah shall bee giuen into the hands of the King of Babylon. 11 He rebuketh their crueltie toward their seruants.

The word which came vnto Ieremias from the Lord (when Nebuchad-rezzar King of Babel, and all his hoste, and all the kingdomes of the earth, that were vnder the power of his hand, and all people fought against Ierusalem, and against all the cities thereof) saying,

2 Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, God, and speake to Zedekiah king of Iudah, and tell him, Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will giue this City into the hand of the king of Babel, and he shall burne it with fire,

3 And thou shalt not escape out of his hand, but shalt surely be taken, and deliuered into his hand, and thine eyes shall beholde the face of the king of Babel, and he shall speake with thee mouth to mouth, and thou shalt go to Babel.

4 Yet heare the word of the Lord, O Zedekiah king of Iudah: Thus saith the Lord of thee, Thou shalt not die by the sword.

5 But thou shalt die in peace: and according to the burning for thy fathers the former kings which were before thee, so shall they burne odours for thee, and they shall lament thee, saying, Oh, Lord: for I haue pronounced the word, saith the Lord.

7 (When the king of Babels hoste fought against Ierusalem, and against all the Cities of Iudah that were left, euen against Lachish, and against Azekah: for these strong Cities remained of the Cities of Iudah)

8 This is the word that came vnto Ieremias from the Lord, after that the King Zedekiah had made a couenant with all the people which were at Ierusalem, to proclaime libertie vnto them, 9 That euery man should let his seruant goe free, and euery man his handmaid, which was an Hebrew or an Hebrewesse, and that none should serue himselfe of them, to wit, of a Jew his brother.

10 Now when all the princes, and all the people which had agreed to the couenant, heard that euery one should let his seruant goe free, and euery one his handmaid, and that none should serue themselves of them any more, they obeyed and let them goe.

11 But afterward they repented, and caused the seruants and the handmaidens, whom they had let goe free, to returne, and helde them in subiection as seruants and handmayds.

12 Therefore the word of the Lord came vnto Ieremias from the Lord, saying,

13 Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, I made a couenant with your fathers, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of seruants, saying,

14 At the terme of ten yeeres let ye goe euery man his brother an Hebrew which hath bene sold vnto thee: and when hee hath serued thee sixe yeeres, thou shalt let him goe free from thee: but your fathers obeyed mee not, neither enclined their eares.

15 And ye were now turned, and had done right in my sight, in proclaiming libertie euery man to his neighbour, and ye had made a couenant before mee in the house, whereupon my Name is called.

16 But ye repented, and polluted my Name: for ye haue caused euery man his seruant, and euery man his handmaid, whom ye had let at libertie at their pleasure, to returne, and hold them in subiection to be vnto you as seruants, and as handmaidens.

17 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Ye haue not obeyed me, in proclaiming freedom euery man to his brother, and euery man to his neighbour: behold, I proclaime a liberty for you, saith the Lord, to the sword, to the pestilence, and to the famine, and I will make you a terror to all the kingdomes of the earth.

18 And I will giue those men that haue broken my couenant, and haue not kept the wordes of the couenant, which they had made before mee, when they cut the calf in twaine, and passed betwene the parts thereof:

19 The princes of Iudah and the princes of Ierusalem, the Eunuches, & the Priests, and all the people of the land, which passed betwene the parts of the calf, 20 I will euen giue them into the hand of their enemies, and into the hands of them that seeke their life: and their dead bodies shall be for meat vnto the fowles of the heauen, and to the beastes of the earth.

21 And Zedekiah king of Iudah, and his princes will I giue into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of them that seeke their life, and into the hand of the King of Babels host, which are gone hy from you.

22 Beholde, I will commaund, saith the Lord, and cause them to returne to this city, and they shall fight against it, and take it, and burne it with fire: and I will make the Cities of Iudah desolate without an inhabitant.

their Father. k I have most diligently exhorted and warned you both by my selfe, and my Prophets, Chap 18, 11, and 25, 5.

2 Soe unto the house of the Rechabites, and speake unto them, and bring them into the house of the Lord, into one of the chambers, and give them wine to drinke.

3 Thenooke I Iazaniah, the sonne of Jeremiah the sonne of Zabazziah, and his brethren, and all his sonnes, and the whole house of the Rechabites.

4 And I brought them into the house of the Lord, into the chamber of the sonnes of Danan, the sonne of Igdaiah a man of God, which was by the chamber of the Princes, which was above the chamber of Sha-lath the sonne of Shalum, the keeper of the treasure.

5 And I set before the sonnes of the house of the Rechabites, pots full of wine, & cups, and said unto them, Drinke wine.

6 But they sayd, Wee will drinke no wine: For Jonadab the sonne of Rechab our Father commanded vs, saying, We shall drinke no wine, neither you nor your sonnes for ever.

7 Neither shall you build house, nor sow seed, nor plant vineyard, nor have any, but all your dayes yee shall dwell in tents, that ye may live a long time in the land where yee be strangers.

8 Thus have we obeyed the voice of Jonadab the sonne of Rechab our Father in all that hee hath charged vs, and wee drinke no wine all our dayes, nei her wee, our wives, our sonnes, nor our daughters.

9 Neither build we houses for vs to dwell in, neither have wee vineyard, nor field, nor seed,

10 But wee have remained in tents, and have obeyed, and done according to all that Jonadab our Father commanded vs.

11 But when Sennacherib king of Babel came up into the land, wee sayd, Come, and let vs goe to Ierusalem, from the house of the Caldeans, and from the house of Aram: so we dwell at Ierusalem.

12 Then came the word of the Lord unto Jeremiah, saying,

13 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Soe, & tell the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Ierusalem, Will yee not receiue doctrine to obey my words, saith the Lord?

14 The commandment of Jonadab the sonne of Rechab that hee commanded his sonnes, that they should drinke no wine, is surely kept: for vnto this day they drinke none, but obey their Fathers commandement: notwithstanding I have spoken unto you, rising early, and speaking, but yee would not obey me.

15 I have sent also unto you all my ser-uants the Prophets, rising vp early, and sending them, saying, Returne now euery man from his euill way, and amend your workes, and goe not after other gods, to serue them, and yee shall dwell in the land which I have giuen vnto you, and to your fathers, but yee would not incline your eare, nor obey me.

So Baruch the sonne of Neriah did according vnto all, that Jeremiah the Prophet commanded him, reading in the booke the words of the Lord in the Lords

16 Surely, the sonnes of Jonadab the sonne of Rechab, haue kept the commandment of their father, which hee gaue them: but this people hath not obeyed mee.

17 Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Behold, I will bring vpon Iudah, and vpon all the inhabitants of Ierusalem, all the euill that I haue pronounced against them, because I haue spoken unto them, but they would not heare, and I haue called vnto them, but they would not answer.

18 And Jeremiah sayd vnto the house of the Rechabites, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Because yee haue obeyed the commandments of Jonadab your father, and kept all his precepts, and done according to all that he hath commanded you,

19 Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Jonadab the sonne of Re-chab shall not want a man to stand before me for ever.

CHAP. XXXVI.

Baruch writeth, as Jeremiah indisteth, the booke of curses against Iudah and Israel. 9 He is sent with the booke vnto the people, and readeth it before them al.
14 He is called before the rulers, and readeth it before them also. 23 The king casteth it in the fire. 28 There is another written at the commandment of the Lord.

And in the fourth yee of Iehoiakim the sonne of Josiah king of Iudah, came this word vnto Jeremiah from the Lord, saying,

2 Take thee a roll or booke, and write therein all the words that I haue spoken to thee against Israel, and against Iudah, and against all the nations, from the day that I spoke vnto thee, even from the dayes of Jo-shab vnto this day.

3 It may be that the house of Iudah will heare of all the euill, which I determined to doe vnto them, that they may returne euery man from his euill way, that I may forgive their iniquitie and their finnes.

4 Then Jeremiah called Baruch the son of Neriah, and Baruch wrote at the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the Lord, which hee had spoken vnto him, vpon a roll or booke.

5 And Jeremiah commanded Baruch, saying, I am shut vp, and cannot goe into the house of the Lord.

6 Therefore goe thou, and read the roll wherein thou hast written at my mouth the words of the Lord in the audience of the people in the Lords house vpon the fasting day:
also thou shalt reade them in the hearing of all Iudah, that come out of their cities.

7 It may be that they will pray before the Lord, and euery one returne from his eu-ill way, for great is the anger, & the wrath that the Lord hath declared against this people.

8 So Baruch the sonne of Neriah did according vnto all, that Jeremiah the Prophet commanded him, reading in the booke the words of the Lord in the Lords

Lords house.

9 And in the first 5 yeere of Iehoiakim the sonne of Iohiah King of Iudah, in the ninth moneth, they proclaimed a Fast before the Lord to all the people in Ierusalem, and to all the people that came from the cities of Iudah vnto Ierusalem.

10 Then read Baruch in the booke the words of Ieremias in the House of the Lord, in the chamber of Semariah the sonne of Shaphan the Secretary in the higher Court at the entry of the new gate of the Lords house, in the hearing of all the people.

11 When Michajah the sonne of Semariah the sonne of Shaphan had heard out of the booke all the words of the Lord, 12 Then hee went downe to the Kings house into the Chancellours chamber, and for all the Princes sate there, even Elishama the Chancellour, and Delatah the sonne of Semariah, and Elnathan the sonne of Achob, and Semariah the sonne of Shaphan, and Zedekiah the sonne of Hananiah, and all the princes.

13 Then Michajah declared vnto them all the words that hee had heard when Baruch read in the booke in the audience of the people.

14 Therefore all the princes sent Iehudi the sonne of Artanah, the sonne of Shelemiah, the sonne of Chushi, vnto Baruch, saying, Take in thine hand the roule, where in thou hast read in the audience of the people, and come. So Baruch the sonne of Neriahooke the roule in his hand, and came vnto them.

15 And they said vnto him, Sit downe now, and read it, that wee may heare. So Baruch read it in their audience.

16 Now when they had heard all the wordes, they were afraid, both one and other, and said vnto Baruch, We will certifie the King of all these words.

17 And they examined Baruch, saying, Tell vs now, how diddest thou write all these words at his mouth?

18 Then Baruch answered them, Hee pronounced all these words vnto mee with his mouth, and I wrote them with inke in the booke.

19 Then said the Princes vnto Baruch, See, hide thee, thou and Ieremias, and let no man know where ye be.

20 And they went in to the King to the court, but they laide vp the roule in the chamber of Elishama the Chancellour, and told the King all the words, that hee might heare.

21 So the king sent Iehudi to fetch the roule, and hee tooke it out of Elishama the Chancellours chamber, and Iehudi read it in the audience of the king, and in the audience of all the Princes, which stood beside the king.

22 Now the king sate in the winter house in the ninth moneth, and there was a fire burning before him.

23 And when Iehudi had read three or foure sides, he cut it with the pen knife, and cast it into the fire that was on the hearth, buttill all the roule was consumed in the fire, that was on the hearth.

24 Per they were not afraid, nor rent their garments, neither the king, nor any of his seruants that heard all these wordes.

25 Neuertheless, Elnathan, and Delatah, and Semariah had besought the king, that hee would not burne the roule, but hee would not heare them.

26 But the king commanded Ierahmeel the sonne of Hammelech, and Seraiah the sonne of Azriel, and Shelemiah the sonne of Abdiel, to take Baruch the scribe, and Ieremias the Prophet: but the Lord hid them.

27 Then the word of the Lord came to Ieremias (after that the king had burnt the roule and the words which Baruch wrote at the mouth of Ieremias) saying,

28 Take thee againe another roule, and write in it all the former words that were in the first roule which Iehoiakim the king of Iudah hath burnt, 29 And thou shalt say to Iehoiakim king of Iudah, Thus saith the Lord, Thou hast burnt this roule, saying, Why hast thou written therein, saying, that the king of Babel shal certainly come and destroy this land, and shall take thence both man and beast?

30 Therefore thus saith the Lord of Iehoiakim king of Iudah, He shal haue none to sit vpon the throne of David, & his dead body shall bee cast out in the day to the heat, and in the night to the frost.

31 And I will visit him and his seed, and his seruants for their iniquitie, and I will bring vpon them, and vpon the inhabitants of Ierusalem, and vpon the men of Iudah all the euill that I haue pronounced against them, but they would not heare.

32 Then tooke Ieremias another roule, and gaue it Baruch the scribe, the sonne of Neriah, which wrote therein at the mouth of Ieremias all the words of the booke which Iehoiakim King of Iudah had burnt in the fire, and there were added besides them many like words.

CHAP. XXXVII.

Zedekiah succedeth Ieconiah. 3 He sendeth vnto Ieremias to pray for him. 12 Ieremias going into the land of Benjamin, is taken. 15 He is beaten, and put in prison.

AND King Zedekiah the sonne of Iosiah reigned for Coniah the sonne of Iehoiakim, whom Nebuchad-rezzar King of Babel made King in the land of Iudah.

2 But neither hee, nor his seruants, nor the people of the land would obey the words of the Lord, which he spake by the minister of the Prophet Ieremias.

3 And Zedekiah the king sent Iehucal the sonne of Shelemiah, and Sephaniah the sonne of Maaseiah the Priest to the Prophet Ieremias, saying, Pray now vnto the Lord our God for vs.

4 (Now Ieremias went in and out among the people: for they had not put him into the prison.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

1 By the motion of the rulers Ieremiah is put into a dungeon. 10 At the request of Ebedmelech the king commandeth Ieremiah to be brought forth of the dungeon. 17 Ieremiah sheweth the King how his might escape death.

Then Shephatiah the sonne of Mattan, and Gedaliah the son of Iahshur, and Iucal the sonne of Shelemiah, and Iahshur the son of Balchiah, heard the words that Ieremiah had spoken vnto all the people, saying,

2 Thus saith the Lord, Vee that remaineth in this city, shall die by the sword, by the famine and by the pestilence: but he that goeth forth to the Caldeans, shall liue: for he shall haue his life for a pray, and shall liue.

3 Thus saith the Lord, This city shall surely be giuen into the hand of the king of Babels army which shall take it.

4 Therefore the Princes said vnto the king, Vee beseech you, let this man bee put to death: for thus he || weakeneth the hands of the men of warre that remaine in this city, and the hands of all the people, in speaking such wordes vnto them: for this man seeketh not the wealch of this people, but the hurt.

5 Then Zedekiah the king said, Behold, he is in your hands, for the King can deny you nothing.

6 Then tooke they Ieremiah, and cast him into the dungeon of Balchiah the son of Hammelech, that was in the court of the prison: and they let downe Ieremiah with coards: and in the dungeon there was no water but mire: so Ieremiah sticke fast in the mire.

7 Now when Ebed-melech the blacke Moore, one of the Eunuches, which was in the Kings house, heard that they had put Jeremlah in the dungeon (then the King sate in the gate of Benjamin)

8 And Ebed-melech went out of the kings house, and spake to the king, saying,

9 O Lord the King, these men haue done euill in all that they haue done to Jeremlah the Prophet, whom they haue cast into the dungeon, and he dieth for hunger in the place where he is: for there is no more bread in the city.

10 Then the king commanded Ebedmelech the blacke Moore, saying, Take from hence thirty men with thee, and take Jeremlah the Prophet out of the dungeon before he die.

11 So Ebed-melech tooke the men with him, and went to the house of the king vnder the treasury, and tooke there old rotten ragges and olde woone cloutes, and let them downe by coards into the dungeon to Jeremlah.

12 And Ebed melech the blacke Moore sayd vnto Ieremiah, Put now these olde rotten ragges and woone, vnder thine armeholes, betwene the coards. And Ieremiah did so.

and Jeremiah remained in the court of the prison.

14 Then Zedekiah the king sent, and tooke Jeremiah the Prophet vnto him, into the third entry that is in the house of the Lord, and the king said vnto Jeremiah, I will aske thee a thing: hide nothing from mee.

15 Then Jeremiah said to Zedekiah, If I declare it vnto thee, wilt not thou slay mee? and if I giue thee counsell, thou wilt not heare me.

16 So the king sware secretly vnto Jeremiah, saying, As the Lord liueth, that made vs these soules, I will not slay thee, nor giue thee into the hands of those men that seeke thy life.

17 Then said Jeremiah vnto Zedekiah, Thus sayeth the Lord God of hostes, the God of Israel, If thou wilt goe forth vnto the king of Babels^h princes, then thy soule shall liue, and this citie shall not be burnt vp with fire, and thou shalt liue, and thine house.

18 But if thou wilt not goe forth to the king of Babels princes, then shall this citie be giuen into the hand of the Caldeans, and they shall burne it with fire, and thou shalt not escape out of their hands.

19 And Zedekiah the king said vnto Jeremiah, I am careful for the Jewes that are fled vnto the Caldeans, lest they deliuer mee into their hands, and theyⁱ mocke me.

20 But Jeremiah sayd, They shall not deliuer thee: hearken vnto the voyce of the Lord, I beseech thee, which I speake vnto thee: so shall it bee well vnto thee, and thy soule shall liue.

21 But if thou wilt refuse to goe forth, this is the word that the Lord hath shewed mee.

22 And beholde, all the women that are left in the king of Iudahs house, shall bee brought forth to the king of Babels princes: and those women shall say, Thy friends haue perswaded thee, and haue preuailed against thee: thy feete are fastened in the mire, and they are turned backe.

23 So they shall bring out all thy wiues, and thy children to the Caldeans, and thou shalt not escape out of their hands, but shalt bee taken by the hand of the king of Babel: and this citie shalt thou cause to bee burnt with fire.

24 Then said Zedekiah vnto Jeremiah, Let no man know of these words, and thou shalt not die.

25 But if the princes vnderstand that I haue talked with thee, and they come vnto thee, and say vnto thee, Declare vnto vs now, what thou hast said vnto the king, hide it not from vs, and we will not slay thee: also what the king said vnto thee, 26 Then shalt thou say vnto them, I humbly^k besought the king that hee would not cause mee to returne to Achonathans house to die there.

27 Then came all the Princes vnto Jeremiah and asked him. And hee tolde them according to all these wordes that the King had commaunded: so they left off speaking with him, for the matter was not percerined.

28 So Jeremiah abode still in the court of the prison, vntill the day that Ierusalem was taken: and hee was there, when Ierusalem was taken.

CHAP. XXXIX.

1 Nebuchad-nezzar besiegeth Ierusalem. 2 Zedekiah fleeing is taken of the Caldeans. 6 His sonnes are slaine. 7 His eyes are thrust out. 11 Jeremiah is provided for. 15 Ebed melech is deliuered from captiuitie.

In the ninth yere of Zedekiah king of Iudah, in the tenth moneth came Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel and all his hoste against Ierusalem, and they besieged it.

2 And in the eleuenth yere of Zedekiah, in the fourth moneth, the ninth day of the moneth, the citie was broken^a vp.

3 And all the princes of the king of Babel came in, and late in the middle gate, euen Neregal, Sharczer, Samgar nebo, Sarlichim, Rab-saris, Neregal, Sharczer, Rabmag, with all the residue of the princes of the king of Babel.

4 And when Zedekiah the king of Iudah sawe them, and all the men of warre, then they fledde, and went out of the citie by night, through the kings garden, and by the gate betweene the two walles, and he went toward the wilderness.

5 But the Caldeans hoste pursued after them, and ouertooke Zedekiah in the desert of Iericho: and when they had taken him, they brought him to Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel vnto Riblah in the land of Hamath, where he gaue iudgement vpon him.

6 Then the King of Babel slew the sonnes of Zedekiah in Riblah before his eyes: also the King of Babel slew all the nobles of Iudah.

7 Moreover hee put out Zedekiahs eyes, and bound him in chaines, to cary him to Babel.

8 And the Caldeans burnt the Kings house, and the houses of the people with fire, and brake downe the walles of Ierusalem.

9 Then Nabuzar-adan the chiefe steward caried away captiue into Babel the remnant of the people, that remained in the citie, and those that were fled and fallen vnto him with the rest of the people that remained.

10 But Nabuzar-adan the chiefe steward left the vineyard that had nothing, in the land of Iudah, and gaue them vineyards and fields at the same time.

11 Now Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel gaue charge concerning Jeremiah vnto Nabuzar-adan the chiefe steward, saying, 12 Take him, and looke well to him, and doe him no harme, but doe vnto him as he shall say vnto thee.

15 Now the word of the Lord came vnto Jeremiah, while he was shut vp in the court of the prison, saying, 16 Goe and speake to Ebed-melech the blacke Moze, saying, Thus sayeth the Lord of hostes the God of Israel, Behold, I will bring my words vpon this citie for euill, and not for good, and they shall bee accomplished in that day before thee.

17 But I will deliuer thee in that day, sayeth the Lord, and thou shalt not bee giuen into the hand of the men whom thou fearest.

18 For I will surely deliuer thee, and thou shalt not fall by the sword, but thy life shall be for a pray vnto thee, because thou hast put thy trust in me, saith the Lord.

CHAP. XL.

4 Jeremiah hath licence to goe whither he will: 6 Hee dwelleth with the people that remaine with Gedaliah.

The word which came to Jeremiah from the Lord, after that Nebuzar-adan the chiefe steward had let him go from Ramath, when hee had taken him being bound in chaines among all that were caried away captiue of Ierusalem and Iudah, which were caried away captiue vnto Babel.

2 And the chiefe steward tooke Jeremiah, and sayde vnto him, The Lord thy God hath pronounced this plague vpon this place.

3 Now the Lord hath brought it, and done according as he hath said: because ye haue sinned against the Lord, and haue not obeyed his voyce, therefore this thing is come vpon you.

4 And now behold, I loose thee this day from the chains which were on thine hands: if it please thee to come with me into Babel, come, and I will looke well vnto thee: but if it please thee not to come with mee into Babel, tarry still: behold, all the land is before thee: whither it seemeth good, and convenient for thee to goe, thither goe.

5 For yet hee was not returned: therefore he sayde, Returne to Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam, the sonne of Shaphan, whom the King of Babel hath made gouernour ouer all the cities of Iudah, and dwell with him among the people, or goe wheresoeuer it pleaseth thee to goe. So the chiefe steward gaue him victuals and a reward, and let him goe.

6 Then went Jeremiah vnto Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam to Mizpah, and dwelt there with him among the people that were left in the land.

7 Now when all the captiues of the hoste, which were in the fieldes, euen they and their men heard that the king of Babel had made Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam gouernour in the land, and that hee had committed vnto him men, and women, and children, and of the poore of the land, that were not caried away captiue to Babel,

8 Then they came to Gedaliah to Mizpah, euen Iſhmael the sonne of Netthaniah, and Iohanan and Jonathan the sonnes of Kareah, and Seraiah the sonne of Tanhumeth, and the sonnes of Eſhai the Netophathite, and Jezaniah the sonne of Maachath, they and their men.

9 And Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam, the sonne of Shaphan sware vnto them, and to their men, saying, Feare not to serue the Caldeans: dwell in the land, and serue the king of Babel, and it shall be well with you.

10 As for mee, beholde, I will dwell at Mizpah to serue the Caldeans, which will come vnto vs: but you, gather you wine, and summer frutes, and oyle, and put them in your vessels, and dwell in your cities that ye haue taken.

11 Likewise when all the Iewes that were in Moab, and among the Ammonites, and in Edom, and that were in all the countreys, heard that the king of Babel had left a remnant of Iudah, and that hee had set ouer them Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam the sonne of Shaphan, 12 Euen all the Iewes returned out of all places where they were diuined, and came to the land of Iudah to Gedaliah vnto Mizpah, and gathered wine and summer frutes very much.

13 Moreover, Iohanan the sonne of Kareah, and all the captiues of the hoste, that were in the fieldes, came to Gedaliah to Mizpah.

14 And said vnto him, Knowest thou not that Baalis the King of the Ammonites hath sent Iſhmael the sonne of Netthaniah to slay thee: but Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam beleecued them not.

15 Then Iohanan the sonne of Kareah spake to Gedaliah in Mizpah secretly, saying, Let me goe, I pray thee, and I will slay Iſhmael the son of Netthaniah, and no man shall know it. Wherefore should hee kill thee, that all the Iewes which are gathered vnto thee, should be scattered, and the remnant in Iudah perishe?

16 But Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam sayde vnto Iohanan the sonne of Kareah, Thou shalt not doe this thing: for thou speakest falsly of Iſhmael.

At in the seventh moneth came Iſhmael the sonne of Netthaniah, the sonne of Elishama of the seed royall, and the princes of the King, and tenne men with him, vnto Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam to Mizpah, and there they did eate bread together in Mizpah.

3 Ithmael also slew all the Iewes that were with Gedaliah at Mizpah, and all the Caldians that were found there, and the men of warre.

4 Now the second day that he had slaine Gedaliah, and no man knew it,

5 There came men from Shechem, from Shiloh, and from Samaria, even fourescore men, hauing their beards shauen, and their clothes rent & cut, with offerings and incense in their hands to offer in the house of the Lord.

6 And Ithmael the sonne of Nethaniah went forth from Mizpah to meete them, weeping as he went: and when he met them, he said vnto them, Come to Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam.

7 And when they came into the middes of the cite, Ithmael the sonne of Nethaniah slew them, and cast them into the midst of the pit, hee and the men that were with him.

8 But ten men were found among them, that said vnto Ithmael, Slay vs not: for we haue treasures in the field, of wheat, and of barley, and of oyle, and of hony: so hee stayed, and slew them not among their brethren.

9 Now the pit wherein Ithmael had cast the dead bodies of the men (whom hee had slaine because of Gedaliah) is it, which Aza the King had made, because of Basa king of Israel, and Ithmael the sonne of Nethaniah filled it with them that were slaine.

10 Then Ithmael caried away captiue all the residue of the people that were in Mizpah, euen the kings daughters, and all the people that remained in Mizpah, whom Nebuzar-adan the chiefe steward had committed to Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam, and Ithmael the sonne of Nethaniah caried them away captiue, and departed to goe ouer to the Ammonites.

11 But when Iohanan the sonne of Kareah, and all the captaines of the hoste that were with him, heard of all the euill that Ithmael the sonne of Nethaniah had done, 12 Then they all tooke their men, & went to fight with Ithmael the sonne of Nethaniah, and found him by the great waters that are in Gibeon.

13 Now when all the people whom Ithmael caried away captiue, saw Iohanan the sonne of Kareah, and all the captaines of the hoste that were with him, they were glad.

14 So all the people that Ithmael had caried away captiue from Mizpah, returned, and came againe, and went vnto Iohanan the sonne of Kareah.

15 But Ithmael the sonne of Nethaniah escaped from Iohanan with eight men, and went to the Ammonites.

16 Then tooke Iohanan the sonne of Kareah, and all the captaines of the hoste that were with him, all the remnant of the people, whom Ithmael the sonne of Nethaniah had caried away captiue from Mizpah, (after that he had slaine Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam) euen the strong men of warre, and the women and the children, and the eunuches whom he had brought againe from Gibeon:

17 And they departed and dwelt in Geruth Chimham, which is by Beth-lehem, to goe and to enter into Egypt, 18 Because of the Caldians, for they feared them, because Ithmael the sonne of Nethaniah had slaine Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam, whom the king of Babel made gouernour in the land.

CHAP. XLII.

1 The captaines aske counsell of Ieremiah, what they ought to doe. 7 He admonisheth the remnant of the people not to goe into Egypt.

Then all the captaines of the hoste, and Iohanan the sonne of Kareah, and Iezaniah the sonne of Hoshaiah, and all the people from the least vnto the most came,

2 And said vnto Ieremiah the Prophet, Hear our prayer, we beseech thee, and pray for vs vnto the Lord thy God, euen for all this remnant (for we are left but a few of many, as thine eyes doe behold.)

3 That the Lord thy God may shew vs the way wherein we may walke, and the thing that we may doe.

4 Then Ieremiah the Prophet sayd vnto them, I haue heard you: behold, I will pray vnto the Lord your God, according to your words, and whatsoeuer thing the Lord shall answer you, I will declare it vnto you: I will keepe nothing backe from you.

5 Then they sayd to Ieremiah, The Lord be a witnesse of tructh, and faith betwene vs, if we doe not, euen according to all things, for the which the Lord thy God shall send thee to vs.

6 Whether it be good or euill, we will obey the voice of the Lord God, to whom we send thee, that it may be well with vs, when we obey the voyce of the Lord our God.

7 And so after thre dayes came the word of the Lord vnto Ieremiah.

8 Then called he Iohanan the sonne of Kareah, and all the captaines of the hoste, which were with him, and all the people from the least to the most,

9 And said vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, vnto whom ye sent me to present your prayers before him,

10 If ye will dwell in this land, then I will build you, and not destroy you, and I will plant you, and not roote you out: for I repent me of the euill that I haue done vnto you.

11 Feare not for the King of Babel, of whom ye are afraid: hee not afraid of him, saith the Lord: for I am with you to saue you, and to deliuer you from his hand.

CHAP. XLIII.

Iohanan carrieth the remnant of the people into Egypt contrary to the minde of Ieremiah. 8 Ieremiah prophesieth the destruction of Egypt.

a Who was also called Iezaniah, Chap. 41. 1.

b This declareth that pride is the cause of rebellion, and contempt of Gods ministers.

c When the hypocritise of the wicked is discovered, they burst forth into open rage: for they can abide nothing but flatteries, reade Isa. 30: 10. d He sheweth what is the nature of hypocrites: to wit, to saine that they would obey God, and embrace his word, if they were assured that his messengers spake the truth: though indeed they be most farre from all obedience.

Now when Ieremiah had made an ende of speaking vnto the whole people all the words of the Lord their God, for the which the Lord their God had sent him to them, euen all these words,

2 Then spake Azariah the sonne of Ho-shaiah, and Iohanan the sonne of Kareah, and all the proud men, saying vnto Ieremiah, Thou speakest falsely: the Lord our God hath not sent thee to say, Goe not into Egypt to dwell there,

3 But Baruch the sonne of Neriah prophesieth thee against vs, for to deliuer vs into the hand of the Caldeans, that they might slay vs, and carie vs away captiues into Babel.

4 So Iohanan the sonne of Kareah, and all the captiues of the hoste, and all the people obeyed not the voice of the Lord, to dwell in the land of Iudah.

5 But Iohanan the sonne of Kareah, and all the captiues of the hoste, tooke all the remnant of Iudah, that were returned from all nations, whither they had been diuined, to dwell in the land of Iudah:

6 Euen men and women and children, and the Kings daughters, and euery person that Nebuzar-adan the chiefe steward had left with Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam the sonne of Shaphan, and Ieremiah the Prophet, and Baruch the sonne of Neriah.

7 So they came into the land of Egypt: for they obeyed not the voyce of the Lord: thus came they to Tahpanhes.

8 Then came the word of the Lord vnto Ieremiah in Tahpanhes, saying, 9 Take great stones in thine hand, and hide them in the clay in the brick-kil which is at the entrie of Pharaohs house in Tahpanhes in the sight of the men of Iudah.

10 And say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, Behold, I will send and bring Nebuchad-rezzar the king of Babel my seruant, and will set his throne vpon these stones that I haue hid, and he shall spread his pavilion ouer them.

11 And when he shall come, he shall smite the land of Egypt: such as are appointed for death, to death, and such as are for captiuitie, to captiuitie, and such as are for the sword, to the sword.

12 And I will kindle a fire in the houses of the gods of Egypt, and hee shall burne them, and cary them away captiues, and he shall aray himselfe with the land of Egypt, as a shepherd putteth on his garment, and shall depart from thence in peace.

13 Hee shall breake also the images of Beth-shemesh that is in the land of Egypt, and the houses of the gods of the Egyptians shall be burne with fire.

CHAP. XLIIII.

Hee reprooueth the people for their idolatry. 15 They that sit light by the threatening of the Lord, are chastened. 26 The destruction of Egypt and of the Iewes therein is prophesied.

The word that came to Ieremiah concerning all the Iewes which dwell in the land of Egypt, and remained at Migdol and at Tahpanhes, and at Noph, and in the countrey of Pathros, saying,

2 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, Ye haue seene all the euill that I haue brought vpon Ierusalem, and vpon all the cities of Iudah: and behold, this day they are desolate, and no man dwelleth therein, there is no hold so strong, that can preserue them from Gods vengeance.

e Thus the wicked doe not one-ly contemne and hurt the messengers of God, but slander & speake wickedly of all them that support or fauour the godly.

n These were all famous and strong cities in Egypt, where the Iewes that were fled, dwelt for their safetie: but the Prophet declareth that 4 Howbeit I sent vnto you all my seruants the Prophets ^b rising early, and sending them, saying, Oh doe not this abominable thing that I hate.

5 But they would not heare nor incline their eare to turne from their wickednesse, and to burne no moze incense vnto other gods.

6 Therefore ^c my wrath, and mine anger was powred forth, and was kindled in the cities of Iudah, and in the streets of Ierusalem, and they are desolate, and wasted, as appeareth this day.

7 Therefore now thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israel, Therefore commit ye this great euill against your soules, to cut off from you man and woman, child and suckling out of Iudah, and leaue you none to remaine?

8 In that yee prouoke mee vnto wrath, with the workes of your hands, burning incense vnto other gods in the land of Egypt whither yee be gone to dwell: that ye might bring destruction vnto your selues, and that ye might be a curse and a reproch among all nations of the earth.

9 Haue yee forgotten the wickednesse of your fathers, and the wickednesse of the Kings of Iudah, and the wickednesse of their wiues, and your own wickednesse, and the wickednesse of your wiues, which they haue committed in the land of Iudah and in the streets of Ierusalem?

10 They are not humbled vnto this day, neither haue they feared nor walked in my Law nor in my Statutes, that I set before you, and before your fathers.

11 Therefore thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israel, Behold, I will set my face against you ^a to euill, and to destroy all Iudah, 12 And I will take the remnant of Iudah, that ^c haue set their faces to goe into the land of Egypt there to dwell, and they shall all be consumed and fall in the land of Egypt: they shall euen be consumed by the sword, and by the famine: they shall die from the least vnto the most, by the sword, and by the famine, and they shall bee a detestation, and an astonishment, and a curse and a reproch.

13 For I will visit them that dwell in the land of Egypt, as I haue visited Ierusalem, by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence.

14 So that none of the remnant of Iudah which are gone into the land of Egypt to dwell there, shall escape or remaine, that they should returne into the land of Iudah, to the which they haue a desire to returne to dwell there: for none shall returne, but such as shall escape.

15 Then all the men which knew that their wiues had burne incense vnto other gods, & all the women that stood by, a great multitude, euen all the people that dwell in the land of Egypt in Pathos, and wored Ieremiah, saying,

16 The word that thou hast spoken vnto vs in the Name of the Lord, we will not heare it of thee,

17 But we will doe what former thing goeth out of our owne mouth, as to burne incense vnto the Queene of heauen, and to pouze out drinke offerings vnto her, as wee haue done, both wee and our fathers, our Kings and our Princes in the cities of Iudah, and in the streetes of Ierusalem: for then ^d had wee ^e plenty of victuals, and were well, and ^f felt none euill.

18 But since wee left off to burne incense to the Queene of heauen, and to pouze out drinke offerings vnto her, wee haue had ^g scarcenesse of all things, and haue bin continued by the sword and by the famine.

19 And when wee burnt incense vnto the Queene of heauen, and pouzed out drinke offerings vnto her, did we make her cakes to ^h make her glad, and pouze out drinke offerings vnto her without our husbands?

20 Then said Ieremiah vnto all the people, to the men, and to the women, and to all the people which had giuen him that answer, saying,

21 Did not the Lord remember the incense that yee burnt in the cities of Iudah, and in the streetes of Ierusalem, both you, and your fathers, your kings, and your princes, and the people of the land, and ⁱ hath he not considered it?

22 So that the Lord could no longer forbear, because of the wickednesse of your inventions, and because of the abominations, which ye haue committed: therefore is your land desolate and an astonishment, and a curse, and without inhabitant, as appeareth this day.

23 Because ye haue burnt incense, and because ye haue sinned against the Lord, & haue not obeyed the voice of the Lord, nor walked in his Law, nor in his statutes, nor in his testimonies, therefore this plague is come vpon you, as ^j appeareth this day.

24 Whereouer Ieremiah said vnto all the people, and to all the women, heare the word of the Lord, all Iudah that are in the land of Egypt.

2 Hee prophesieth the destruction of Egypt. 27 Deliueraunce is promised to Israel.

The wordes of the Lord, which came to Jeremiah the prophet against the Gentiles,

2 As against Egypt, against the army of Pharaoh Necho King of Egypt, which was by the riuier Berath in Carchemish, which Nebuchadnezzar King of Babel smote in the fourth yere of Iehoiakim the sonne of Josiah king of Iudah.

3 Awake ready buckler and shield, and goe forth to battell.

4 Awake ready the horses, and let the horsemen get vp, and stand vp with your sallets, furbish thy speares, and put on the brigandines.

5 Wherefore haue I seene them a fraide, and driuen backe: for their mighty men are smitten, and are fled away, & look not backe: for feare was round about, saith the Lord.

6 The swift shall not flee away, nor the strong men escape: they shall stumble and fall toward the north by the riuier Berath.

7 Who is this, that commeth vp as a flood, whose waters are mooued like the riuers?

8 Egypt riseth vp like the flood, and his waters are mooued like the riuers, and hee saith, I will goe vp, and will couer the earth: I will destroy the city with them that dwell therein.

9 Come vp, ye horses, and rage ye chariots, and let the valiant men come forth, the blacke Hozes, and the Lybians that beare the shield, and the Lydians that handle and bend the bow.

10 For this is the day of the Lord God of hostes, and a day of vengeance, that hee may auenge him of his enemies: for the sword shall deuoure, and it shall be satiate, and made drunke with their blood: for the Lord God of hostes hath a sacrifice in the north country by the riuier Berath.

11 Goe vp vnto Gilead, and take balm: virgin, the daughter of Egypt: in vaine shalt thou vse many medicines: for thou shalt haue no health.

12 The nations haue heard of thy shame, and thy cry hath filled the land: for the strong hath stumbled against the strong, and they are fallen both together.

13 The word that the Lord spake to Jeremiah the Prophet, how Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel should come and smite the land of Egypt.

14 Publish in Egypt, and declare in Migdol, and proclaim in Moph, and in Tahpanhes, and say, Stand still, and prepare thee: for the sword shall deuoure round about thee.

15 Why are the valiant men put backe? they could not stand, because the Lord did driue them.

16 He made many to fall, & one fell vpon another: and they said, Arise, let vs goe againe to our own people, and to the land of our natiuitie from the sword of the violent.

17 They did cry there, Pharaoh king of Egypt, and of a great multitude hath passed the time appointed.

18 As I liue, saith the King, whose name is the Lord of hostes, Surely as Eabor is in the mountaines, and as Carmel is in the sea, so shall it come.

19 O thou daughter dwelling in Egypt, make thee geare to goe into captiuitie: for Moph shall be waste and desolate, without an inhabitant.

iust iudgement. p To wit, that the Egyptians shall be destroyed.

c Hee warneth the Egyptians to prepare themselves to warre. d The Prophet had this vision off Egyptians, which should be put to flight by the Babylonians at Carchemish. e The Babylonians shall discomfit the at the riuier Euphrates. f He derideth the boastings of the Egyptians, who thought by their riches and power to haue overcome all the world, alluding to the riuier Nilus, which at certaine times ouerfloweth & couereth Egypt. g For these nations tooke part with the Egyptians. h He calleth the slaughter of Gods enemies, a sacrifice, because it is a thing that doth please him, Isa 34. 9. i That is, at Carchemish. k For at Gilead did grow most foueraigne balmes for wounds. l So called, because Egypt had not yet been overcome by the enemy. m He sheweth that no salue or medicine can preuaile, whereas God giueth the wound. n As they that should repent that they helped the Egyptians. o He derideth them which shall impute their overthrow to lack of counsell and policie, or to fortune, and not obseruing of time: not considering that it is Gods will. 20 Egypt

c Baruch mooued with an inconsiderate zeale of Ieremiahs imprisonment, but chiefly for the destruction of the people, and the Temple, maketh this lamentation, as I. sal. 6. 6.

d Meaning, that God might destroy this people because he had planted them.

That is, nine nations, which were round about land of Egypt. Reade 2. King. 17. 39 and 24. 7. and 2. Chron. 28. 10.

x To wit, Nebuchad-nezzars army.

y Some take the Ebrew word Amon for the kings name of No, that is, of Alexandria.

z Meaning, that after the space of fortie yeeres, Egypt should be restored, Isa. 19.

23. Ezek. 29. 11.

a God comforteth all his that were in captiuitie but specially the small Church of the Iewes, whereof were Ieremiah and Baruch, which remained among the Egyptians: for the Lord neuer forsaketh his, Isa. 44. 3. chap. 30. 10. b Reade Chap. 10. 24.

20 Egypt is like a faire calfe, but destruction cometh out of the North it cometh.

21 Also her hired men are in the midst of her like fat calves: they are also turned backe and fled away together: they could not stand, because the day of their destruction was come vpon them, and the time of their visitation.

22 The voice thereof shall go forth like a serpent: for they shall march with an army, and come against her with axes, as hewers of wood.

23 They shall cut downe her forrest, saith the Lord: for they cannot be counted, because they are more then the grasshoppers, and are innumerable.

24 The daughter of Egypt shall be confounded: she shall be deliuered into the hands of the people of the North.

25 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, Behold, I will visit the common people of No, and Pharaoh, & Egypt, with their gods, and their kings, euen Pharaoh, and all them that trust in him.

26 And I will deliuer them into the hands of those that seeke their liues, and into the hand of Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel: and into the hands of his seruants, and afterward they shall dwell as in the old time, saith the Lord.

27 But feare not thou, O my seruant Iacob, and bee not thou afraid, O Israel: for behold, I will deliuer thee from a faire countrey, and thy seede from the land of their captiuitie, and Iacob shall returne and be in rest and prosperitie, and none shall make him afraid.

28 Feare thou not, O Iacob my seruant, saith the Lord: for I am with thee, and I will utterly destroy all the nations, whither I haue deliuered thee: but I will not utterly destroy thee, but correct thee by iudgement, and not utterly cut thee off.

CHAP. XLVII.

The word of the Lord against the Philistims.

The wordes of the Lord that came to Ieremias the Prophet against the Philistims, before that Pharaoh smote Azzah.

2 Thus saith the Lord, Behold, waters rise vp out of the North, and shall bee as a swelling flood, and shall ouerflow the land, and all that is therein, and the cities with them that dwell therein: when the men shall cry, and all the inhabitants of the land shall howle.

3 At the noise and stamping of the hooves of his strong horses, at the noise of his charrets, and at the rumbling of his wheels: the fathers shall not looke backe to their children, for feeblenesse of hands.

4 Because of the day that cometh to destroy all the Philistims, & to destroy Tyne, and Sidon, and all the rest that take their part: for the Lord will destroy the Philistims, the remnant of the Isle of Caphtor.

a Which was also called Gaza a citie of the Philistims.

b He meaneth the army of the Caldeans, Isa. 8. 7. 8.

c The great feare shall take away their naturall affection.

d Their heart shall so faile the.

e For the Captiuities, which are also called Cappadocians, had destroyed in old time the Philistims, and dwelt in their land, euen to Gaza, Deut. 2. 33.

5 Baldneke is come vpon Azzah: Azzah is cut vp with the rest of their balleyes. How long wilt thou cut thy selfe?

6 O thou sword of the Lord, how long wilt it be, thou cease? turne againe into thy scabbard, rest and be still.

7 How can it cease, seeing the Lord hath giuen it a charge against Azzah, and against the sea banke? euen there hath he appointed it.

it is not possible that the wicked should by any means escape or stay the Lord when he will take vengeance.

CHAP. XLVIII.

The word of the Lord against the Moabites, 26 because of their pride and crueltie.

Concerning Moab, thus saith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, Moab vnto Nebo: for it is wasted: Kiriat-haim is confounded and taken: Dilgab is confounded and afraid.

2 Moab shall boast no more of Heshbon: for they haue deuised euil against it. Come, and let vs destroy it, that it bee no more a nation: also, thou shalt be destroyed, O Madmen, and the sword shall pursue thee.

3 A voice of crying shall be from Moab, with desolation and great destruction.

4 Moab is destroyed: her little ones haue caused their cry to be heard.

5 For at the going vp of Luhith, the mourner shall goe vp with weeping: for in the going downe of Moab, the enemies haue heard a cry of destruction.

6 Flee and saue your liues, and be like vnto the heath in the wilderness.

7 For because thou hast trusted in thy works, and in thy treasures, thou shalt also be taken, and Chemosh shall goe forth into captiuitie with his Priests and his Princes together.

8 And the destroyer shall come vpon all cities, and no citie shall escape: the balley also shall perish, and the plaine shall be destroyed, as the Lord hath spoken.

9 Give wings vnto Moab, that it may flee and get away: for the cities thereof shall be desolate, without any to dwell therein.

10 Cursed be he that doeth the worke of the Lord negligently, and cursed be he that keepeth backe his sword from blood.

11 Moab hath bin at rest from his youth, and hee hath settled on his lees, and hath not bene powred from vessell to vessell, neither hath he gone into captiuitie: therefore his taste remained in him, and his sent is not changed.

12 Therefore behold, the dayes come, saith the Lord, that I will send vnto him such as shall carry him away, and shall empty his vessels, and breake their bottels.

h He sheweth that God would punish the Caldeans, if they did not destroy the Egyptians, and that with a courage & called this executing of his vengeance against his enemies, his work: though the Caldeans sought an other end, Isa. 10. 12. Or, deceitfully. Hath not bene remoued as the Iewes haue, but hath liued at ease, and as wine that feedeth it selfe on his lees.

f They haue pulled off their haire for sorrow and heauinesse. g As the heathen vied in their mourning, which the Lord forbade his people to do, Deut. 14. 1.

h Meaning, that means escape or stay the Lord when he will take vengeance.

a These were cities of the Moabites which Nebuchad-nezzar tooke before he went to fight against Necho king of Egypt.

b Thus shall the Babylonians encourage one another.

c Reade Isa. 25. 10.

d Horonaim and Luhith were two places whereby the Moabites should flee, Isa. 15. 5.

e Hide your selues in barren places, where the enemy will not pursue after you, Chap. 17. 6.

f That is, the idoles which are the workes of thine hands.

Some reade, in thy possessions: for for the word may signifie, as 1. Sam. 25. 2.

g Both thy great idol & his maintainers shall be led away captiues, so that they shall then know that it is in vaine to looke for helpe at idoles, Isa. 15. 2.

h He sheweth that God would punish the Caldeans, if they did not destroy the Egyptians, and that with a courage & called this executing of his vengeance against his enemies, his work: though the Caldeans sought an other end, Isa. 10. 12. Or, deceitfully.

i Hath not bene remoued as the Iewes haue, but hath liued at ease, and as wine that feedeth it selfe on his lees.

k As the calfe of Bethel was not able to deliuer the Israelites: no more shall Chemosh deliuer the Moabites.

l How are they destroyed that put their trust in their strength and riches.

m Thus they that flee shall answer.

n That is, his power & strength.
o He willed the Caldeans to lay afflictions ynow upon them, till they belike drunken men that fall downe so their shame, and are derided of all.

p Thou reioycst to heare of his miserie.
Isa. 16. 6.

q He shall not execute his malice against his neighbours.
Read Isa. 16. 7.

r Which city was in the vtmost border of Moab: and her by he signifieth that the whole land should be destroyed and the people carried away.

13 And Moab shall be ashamed of Chemosh, as the house of Israel was ashamed of Berbel their confidence.

14 How thinke you thus, we are mighty and strong men of warre?

16 The destruction of Moab is ready to come, and his plague hasteth fast.

17 All ye that are about him, mourne for him, and all ye that know his name, say, How is the strong staffe broken, and the beautifull rod!

18 Thou daughter that doest inhabit Dibon, come downe from thy glory, and sit in chit: for the destroyer of Moab shall come vpon thee, and he shall destroy thy strong holdes.

19 Thou that dwellest in Arer, stand by the way, and behold: as he him that fleeth and that escapeth, and say, What is done?

20 Moab is confounded: for it is destroyed: howle, and cry, tell ye it in Arnon, that Moab is made waste.

21 And iudgment is come vpon the plain countrey, vpon Heslon, and vpon Jahazah, and vpon Mephath, 22 And vpon Dibon, and vpon Bebo, and vpon the house of Diblathaim, 23 And vpon Kiriat ha'im, & vpon Beth-gamul, and vpon Beth-meon, 24 And vpon Kerioth, and vpon Bozrah, and vpon all the cities of the land of Moab farre & neere.

25 The horne of Moab is cut off, and his arme is broken, sayth the Lord.

26 Make ye him drunken: for he magnified himselfe against the Lord: Moab shall wallow in his vomite, and he also shall be in derision.

27 For didst not thou deride Israel, as though he had bene found among cheeches: for when thou speakest of him, thou art moved.

28 O ye that dwell in Moab, leaue the cities, and dwell in the rockes, and bee like the doue that maketh her nest in the sides of the holes mounth.

29 We haue heard the pride of Moab, (he is exceeding proud) his stoutnes, and his arrogancie and his pride, and the haughtines of his heart.

30 I know his wrath, sayeth the Lord, but it shall not be so: and his dissimulations, for they doe not right.

31 Therefore will I howle for Moab and I will cry out for all Moab: mine heart shall mourne for the men of Kir-heres.

32 Wine of Sibmah, I will weepe for thee as I wept for Iazer: thy plants are gone ouer the sea, they are come to the sea of Iazer: the destroyer is fallen vpon thy summer fruites, and vpon thy vintage, 33 And toy and gladnesse is taken from the plentiful field, and from the land of Moab: and I haue caused wine to faile from the wine presse: none shall tread with shouting: their shouting shall be no shouting.

34 From the cry of Heshbon vnto Eleh, and vnto Jahaz haue they made their noyse: from Zoar vnto Horonaim, the brifer of three yeeres old shall goe lowing: for the waters also of Nimrim shall be wasted.

35 Moreover, I will cause to cease Moab, sayth the Lord, him that offereth in the high places, and him that burneth incense to his gods.

36 Therefore mine heart shall sound for Moab like a shawme, and mine heart shall sound like a shawme for the men of Kir-heres, because the riches that he hath gotten, is perished.

37 For every head shall be bald, and every beard plucked: vpon all the bandes shall be cuttings, and vpon the loynes lackecloth.

38 And mourning shall bee vpon all the house tops of Moab, and in all the streets thereof: for I haue broken Moab like a vessel wherein is no pleasure, sayth the Lord.

39 They shall howle, saying, How is hee destroyed? how hath Moab turned the back with shame? so shall Moab be a derision and a feare to all them about him.

40 For thus sayth the Lord, Behold, he shall flee as an eagle, and shall spread his wings ouer Moab.

41 The cities are taken, and the strong holds are wonne, and the mighty mens hearts in Moab at that day, shall bee as the heart of a woman in trauaile.

42 And Moab shall be destroyed from being a people, because he hath let vpon himselfe against the Lord.

43 Feare, and pit, and snare shall be vpon thee, O inhabitant of Moab, sayth the Lord.

44 He that escapeth from the feare, shall fall in the pit, and he that getteth vp out of the pit, shall be taken in the snare: for I will bring vpon it, even vpon Moab, the peere of their visitation, sayth the Lord.

45 They that fled, stood vnder the shadow of Heshbon, because of the force: for the fire came out of Heshbon, and a flame from Sihon, and deuoured the corner of Moab, and the top of the seditious children.

46 How be vnto thee, O Moab: the people of Chemosh perisheth: for thy stronges are taken captiues, and thy daughters led into captiuitie.

47 Yet will I bring againe the captiuitie of Moab in in the latter dayes, sayeth the Lord. Thus saith the Lord of the iudgment of Moab.

CHAP. XLIX.

1 The word of the Lord against the Ammonites, 7 Idumea, 23 Damascus, 28 Kedar, 34 and Elam.

Vnto the children of Ammon thus sayth the Lord, Hath Israel no sonnes? or hath he none heire? Why then hath their King possessed Gad? and his people dwelt in his cities?

2 Therefore beholde, the dayes come, sayeth the Lord, that I will cause a noyle of invaded the countrey of Gad. b To wit, of the Ammonites. c Meaning of the Israelites, Read Ma. 15. 5.

u Their custome was to play on flutes or instruments heauy and graue tunes at burials and in the time of mourning, as Mat. 9. 13. Isa. 15. 2, 3. Ezek. 7. 18. Or, shawme.

x That is, Nebuchad-nazzar, as Chap. 49. 32.

z They fled thither, thinking to haue succour of the Amorites, d Which was one of the chiefe cities of the Ammonites as were Heshbon & Ai: there was also a city called Heshbon among the Moabites, e In thy plentiful country, f Signifying that power & riches cannot preuaile, when as God wil execute his iudgements, g That is, without looking backe, and as euery one can finde a way to escape, h In the time of Christ, when the Gentiles shall be called, i Which was a citie of Edom called by the name of Teman Eliphaz sonne, who came of Esau, k The enemies that shall dissemble as though they fled away, shall turne backe, and inuade your land and possesse it, l Meaning, that God would utterly destroy them, and not spare one, though the grape gatherers leaue some grapes, & theeees seeke but till they haue enough, Obad. 1. 5. m The destruction shall be so great, that there shall be none left to take care ouer the widowes and fatherlesse, n I haue not spared mine owne people, and how should I pitie thee? o Which was a chiefe citie of Edom, p That is, Bozrah, Not idle.

warre to bee heard in Rabbah of the Ammonites, and it shall be a desolate heape, and her daughters shall be burnt with fire: then shall Israel possesse those that possessed him, saith the Lord.
3 Woe to Heshbon, for Ai is wasted: cry ye daughters of Rabbah: gird you with sackcloth: mourne and runne to and fro by the hedges: for their king shall goe into captivity, and his priests, and his Princes likewise.
4 Wherefore gloiest thou in the valleys: thy valley floweth away, O rebellious daughter: shee trusted in her treasures, saying, Who shall come vnto me?
5 Behold, I will bring a feare vpon thee, saith the Lord God of hosts, of all those that be about thee, and ye shall be scattered euery man & right forth, and none shall gather him that is left.
6 And afterward I will bring againe the captivity of the children of Ammon.
7 O To Edom thus saith the Lord of hosts, Is wisdom no more in Teman: Is counsell perished from their children: Is their wisdom vanished?
8 Flee, ye inhabitants of Dedan (they are turned backe, and haue consulted to dwell) for I haue brought the destruction of Esau vpon him, and the time of his visitation.
9 If the grape gatherers come to thee, would they not leaue some grapes: if theeees come by night, they will destroy till they haue enough.
10 For I haue discouraged Esau: I haue vncouered his secrets, and hee shall not be able to hide himselfe: his seed is wasted, and his brethren and his neighbours, and there shall be none to say, 11 Leauethy fatherlesse children, and I will persecute them alme, and let the widowes trust in me.
12 For thus saith the Lord, Behold, they whose iudgement was not to drinke of the cup haue assuredly drunken, and art thou he that shall escape free: thou shalt not go free, but thou shalt surely drinke of it.
13 For I haue sowne by my selfe, sayeth the Lord, that Bozrah shall be waste, and for a reproach, and a desolation, and a curse, and all the cities thereof shall be perpetual desolations.
14 I haue heard a rumour from the Lord, and an ambassadoz is sent vnto the heathen, saying, Gather you together, & come against her, and rise vp to the battell.
15 For loe, I will make thee but small among the heathen, and despised among men.
16 Thy feare & the pride of thine heart hath deceiued thee, thou that dwellest in the clefts of the rocke, and keepest the bright of the hill: though thou shouldest make thy nest as high as the eagle, I will bring thee downe from thence, saith the Lord.
17 Also Edom shall be desolate: euery one that goeth by it, shall be astonished, and shall bisse at all the plagues thereof.
18 As in the overthrow of Sodome, and of Gomorrah, and the places thereof neere about, sayeth the Lord: no man shall dwell there, neither shall the sonnes of men remaine in it.

19 Behold, he shall come by like a lion from the swelling of Iordan vnto the strong dwelling place: for I shall make Israel to rest, when I will make him to haste away from her, and who is a chosen man that I may appoint against her: for who is like me: and who will appoint mee the time: and who is the shepheard that will stand before mee?
20 Wherefore heare the counsell of the Lord that hee hath deuised against Edom, and his purpose that hee hath conceived against the inhabitants of Teman: surely the least of the flock shall draw them out: Surely he shall make their habitations desolate with them.
21 The earth is moued at the noyse of their fall: the cry of their voyce is heard in the red sea.
22 Behold, hee shall come by, and flee as the eagle, and spread his wings ouer Bozrah, and at that day shall the heart of the strong men of Edom be as the heart of a woman in trauell.
23 Vnto Damascus he saith, Hamath is confounded, & Arpad, for they haue heard euill tidings, and they are faint hearted as one in the fearefull sea that cannot rest.
24 Damascus is discouraged, & turneth her selfe to flight, and feare hath seized her: anguish and sorowes haue taken her as a woman in trauell.
25 How is the glorious city not respected, the city of my toy?
26 Therefore her yong men shall fall in her streetes, and all her men of warre shall be cut off in that day, saith the Lord of hosts.
27 And I will kindle a fire in the wal of Damascus, which shall consume the palaces of Benhadad.
28 Vnto Kedar and to the kingdoms of Hazor, which Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel shall smite, thus saith the Lord, Arise, and goe by vnto Kedar, and destroy the men of the East.
29 Their tents and their flocks shall they take away: yea, they shall take to themselves their curtains, and all their vessels, and their camels, and they shall cry vnto them, Feare is on euery side.
30 Flee, get you farre off (they haue consulted to dwell) O ye inhabitants of Vazor, sayeth the Lord: for Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel hath taken counsell against you, and hath deuised a purpose against you.
31 Arise, and get you by vnto the weathynation, that dwelleth without care, saith the Lord: which haue neither gates nor bars, but dwell alone.
32 And their camels shall be a booty, & the multitude of their cattell a spoyle, and I will scatter them into all winds, & to the utmost corners, and I will bring their destruction from all the sides thereof, saith the Lord.
I will dwell in your places. f Hee sheweth that they of Hazor will flee to the Arabians for succour, but that shall not auaille them.

q To wit, Nebuchad-nezzar, after he hath overcome Iudah, which is sent by the swelling of Iordan, shall come against mount Seir, and Edom.
r That is, the Israelites, whom the Edomites kept as prisoners to haste away, from thence.
s The captaine and gouernour of the armie, meaning Nebuchad-nezzar.
t They shall not be able to resist his perie captaines.

y Which was the chiefe citie of Syria, whereby he meaneth the whole country.
z When shee heard the sudden coming of the enimie.
a Hee speaketh this in the person of the king, and of them of the country, who shall wonder to see Damascus the chiefe citie destroyed.
b Who was king of Syria, x King. 20, 26. and had built these palaces, which were still called the palaces of Benhadad.

g That is, Persia, so called of Elam the sonne of Shem.

h Because the Persians were good archers, he sheweth that the thing wherein they put their trust, should not profit them.

i I will place Nebuchad-nezzar there. And in these prophecies Jeremiah speaketh of those countreys, which should be subdued vnder the first of those foure monarchies, whereof Daniel maketh mention.

k This may be referred to the Empire of the Persians and Medes after the Caldeans, or vnto the time of Christ, as Chap. 48. 47.

33 And Haze shall be a dwelling for dragons, and desolation for ever: there shall no man dwell there, nor the sonnes of men remaine in it.

34 ¶ The words of the Lord that came to Jeremiah the Prophet, concerning Elam in the beginning of the reigne of Zedekiah king of Iudah, saying, 35 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Behold, I will breake the bow of Elam, even the chiefe of their strength.

36 And vpon Elam I will bring the foure winds from the foure quarters of heauen, and will scatter them towards all these winds, and there shall be no nation whither the fugitives of Elam shall not come.

37 For I will cause Elam to be afraid before their enemies, and before them that seeke their liues, and will bring vpon them a plague, even the indignation of my wrath, saith the Lord, and I will send the sword after them till I haue consumed them.

38 And I will set my throne in Elam, and I will destroy both the king & the princes from thence, saith the Lord: but in the latter dayes I will bring againe the captiuitie of Elam, saith the Lord.

CHAP. L.

Hee prophesieth the destruction of Babylon, and the deliuerance of Israel which was in captiuitie.

The word that the Lord spake concerning Babel, and concerning the land of the Caldeans, by the ministry of Jeremiah the Prophet.

a After that God hath vsed the Babylonians seruice to punish other nations, he sheweth that their turne shall come to be punished.

b These were two of their chiefe idoles.

c To wit, the Medes and the Persians.

e Reade Chap. 31. 9.

f Their gouernors & ministers by their examples haue prouoked them to idolatry.

g They haue committed idolatry in euery place.

h For the Lord dwelt among them in his Temple, and would haue maintained them by his iustice against their enemies.

2 Declare among the nations, and publish it, and set vp a standart, proclaime it and conceale it not: say, Babel is taken, Bel is confounded, Merodach is broken downe: her idoles are confounded, and their images are burst in pieces.

3 For out of the North there cometh by a nation against her, which shall make her land waste, and none shall dwell therein: they shall flee and depart, both man & beast.

4 In those dayes, and at that time, saith the Lord, the children of Israel shall come, they, and the children of Iudah together, going, and weeping shall they go, and seeke the Lord their God.

5 They shall aske the way to Zion, with their faces thitherward, laying, Come, and let vs cleaue to the Lord in a perpetuall covenent that shall not be forgotten.

6 ¶ My people haue been as lost sheepe: their shepheards haue caused them to go astray, and haue turned them away to the mountaines: they haue gone from mountaine to hill, and forgotten their resting place.

7 All that found them, haue deuoured them, & their enemies said, Wee offend not, because they haue sinned against the Lord, the habitation of iustice, even the Lord the hope of their fathers.

8 ¶ Flee from the midst of Babel, and depart out of the land of the Caldeans, and be ye as the he goats before the flocke.

9 For loe, I will raise, and cause to come vp against Babel a multitude of mighty nations from the North country, and they shall set themselves in aray against her, whereby she shall be taken: their arrowes shall be as of a strong man which is expert, for none shall returne in batne.

10 And Caldea shall bee a spoile: all that spoyle her, shall bee satisfied, sayeth the Lord.

11 Because ye were glad and reioyced in destroying mine heritage, and because ye are grown fat, as the calves in the grass, and neyed like strong horses, 12 Therefore your mother shall bee sore confounded, and she that bare you shall bee shamed: behold, the uttermost of the nation shall be a desert, a dry land and a wilderness.

13 Because of the wrath of the Lord, it shall not be inhabited, but shall be wholly desolate: euery one that goeth by Babel, shall be astonished, and hisse at all her plagues.

14 ¶ But your selues in aray against Babel round about: all ye that bend the bow, shoot at her, spare no arrowes: for she hath sinned against the Lord.

15 Crie against her round about: shee hath given her hand: her foundations are fallen, and her walles are destroyed: for it is the vengeance of the Lord: take vengeance vpon her, as shee hath done, doe vnto her.

16 Destroy the tower from Babel, and him that handleth the sterbe in the time of haruck: because of the sword of the oppressour they shall turne euery one to his people, and they shall see euery one to his owne land.

17 Israel is like scattered sheepe: the lions haue disperled them: first the king of Asshur hath deuoured him, and last this Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel hath broken his bones.

18 Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Behold, I will visite the king of Babel and his land, as I haue visited the king of Asshur.

19 And I will bring Israel againe to his habitation: he shall feed on Carmel and Bashan, and his soule shall bee satisfied vpon the mount Ephraim and Gilead.

20 In those dayes, and at that time, saith the Lord, the iniquitie of Israel shall bee sought for, and there shall be none: and the finnes of Iudah, and they shall not be found: for I will bee mercifull vnto them, whom I reuerse.

21 Goe vp against the lande of the rebels, even against it, and against the inhabitants of it: ¶ Dekeu: destroy, and lay it waste after them, sayeth the Lord, and doe according to all that I haue commaunded thee.

22 A cry of battell is in the land, and of great destruction.

23 How is the hammer of the whole world destroyed and broken! how is Babel become desolate among the nations!

¶ Or, of them that should be visited, u Nebuchad-nezzar, who had smitten down all the princes and people of the world.

24 I haue snared thee, and thou art taken, O Babel, and thou wast not aware: thou art found, and also caught, because thou hast striven against the Lord.

25 The Lord hath opened his treasure, and hath brought forth the weapons of his wrath: for this is the worke of the Lord God of hostes in the land of the Caldeans.

26 Come against her from the utmost border: open her store-houses: tread on her as on sheaues, and destroy her utterly: let nothing of her be left.

27 Destroy all her bullockes: let them go downe to the slaughter. Woe vnto them, for their day is come, and the time of their visitation.

28 The voice of them that flee, and escape out of the land of Babel to declare in Zion the vengeance of the Lord our God, and the vengeance of his Temple.

29 Call vp the archers against Babel: all ye that bend the bow, beliege it round about: let none thereof escape: recompense her according to her worke, and according to all that shee hath done, doe vnto her: for she hath bene proud against the Lord, euen against the holy One of Israel.

30 Therefore shall her young men fall in the streets, and all her men of warre shall be destroyed in that day, sayth the Lord.

31 Behold, I come vnto thee, O proude man, sayth the Lord God of hostes: for thy day is come, euen the time that I will visite thee.

32 And the proud shall stumble and fall, and none shall raise him vp: and I will kinde a fire in his cities, and it shall deuoure all round about him.

33 Thus sayth the Lord of hostes, The children of Israel, and the children of Iudah were oppressed together: and all that tooke them captiues, held them, and would not let them goe.

34 But their strong Redemer, whose Name is the Lord of hostes, hee shall maintaine their cause, that he may giue rest to the land, and disquiet the inhabitants of Babel.

35 A sword is vpon the Caldeans, sayth the Lord, and vpon the inhabitants of Babel, and vpon her princes, and vpon her wise men.

36 A sword is vpon the slayers, and they shall dote: a sword is vpon her strong men, and they shall be afraid.

37 A sword is vpon their horses, and vpon their chariots, and vpon all the multitude that are in the middes of her, and they shall bee like women: a sword is vpon her treasures, and they shall be spoiled.

38 A drought is vpon her waters, and they shall be dried vp: for it is the land of grauen images, and they dote vpon their idoles.

39 Therefore the strong with the strong, shall dwell there, and the strictes shall dwell therein: for it shall be no more inhabited, neither shall it be inhabited from generation to generation.

40 As God destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah with the places thereof neere about, sayth the Lord: so shall no man dwell there, neither shall the sonne of man remaine therein.

41 Behold, a people shall come from the North, and a great nation, and many Kings shall be raised vp from the coasts of the earth.

42 They shall hold the bow and the buckler: they are cruell and vnnmercifull: their voice shall roare like the Sea, and they shall ride vpon horses, and be put in aray like men to the battell against thee, O daughters of Babel.

43 The king of Babel hath heard the report of them, and his hands are wared feeble: sorrow came vpon him, euen sorrow as of a woman in trauaile.

44 Behold, hee shall come vp like a lion from the swelling of Jordan vnto the strong habitation: for I will make Israel to rest, and I will make them to haste away from her: and who is a chosen man that I may appoint against her? for who is like mee, and who will appoint mee the time? and who is the shepheard that will stand before me?

45 Therefore heare the counsell of the Lord that hee hath deuised against Babel, and his purpose that hee hath conceived against the land of the Caldeans: surely the least of the flocke will draw them out: surely hee shall make their habitation desolate with them.

46 At the noise of the winning of Babel the earth is moued, and the cry is heard among the nations.

CHAP. LI.

6 Why Babylon is destroyed. 41 The confidence of the Babylonians. 43 The vanity of idolaters. 59 Ieremiah giueth his booke to Sereiah.

Thus sayth the Lord, Behold, I will raise vp against Babel, and against the inhabitants that lift vp their heart against me, a destroying wind.

2 And will send vnto Babel fanners that shall fanne her, and shall empy her land: for in the day of trouble they shall be against her on every side.

3 Alas to the bender that benderth his bow, and to him that lifeth himselfe vp in his brigandine, wil I say, Spare not her young men, but destroy all her hoste.

4 Thus the slaine shall fall in the land of the Caldeans, and they that are thrust through in her streets.

5 For Israel hath been no widow, nor Iudah from his God, from the Lord of hostes, though their land was filled with sinnes against the Holy one of Israel.

6 Flee out of the mids of Babel, and deliuer every man his soule: be not destroyed in her iniquitie: for this is the time of the Lords vengeance: hee will render vnto her a recompense.

7 Babel hath been as a golden cup in the Lords hand, that made all the earth drunken: the nations haue drunke of her wine, therefore doe the nations rage.

8 Babel is suddenly fallen and destroyed: howle for her, bring balme for her sore, if she may be healed.

11 Make bright the arrowes: gather the shields: the Lord hath raised up the spirit of the King of the Medes: for his purpose is against Babel to destroy it, because it is the vengeance of the Lord, and the vengeance of his Temple.

12 Set vp the standard vpon the walles of Babel, make the watch strong: set vp the watchmen: prepare the skoutes: for the Lord hath both deuised, and done that which he spake against the inhabitants of Babel.

20 Thou art mine hammer, and weapons of warre: for with thee will I breake the nations, and with thee will I destroy Kingdomes.

21 And by thee will I breake horse and horseman, and by thee will I breake the charret, and him that rideth therein.

22 By thee also will I breake man and woman, and by thee will I breake olde and young, and by thee will I breake the young man and the matide.

23 I will also breake by thee the shepheard and his flocke, and by thee will I breake the husbandman and his yoke of oxen, and by thee will I breake the Dukes and Princes.

24 And I will render vnto Babel and to all the inhabitants of the Caldeans according to that they haue done in Zion, even in your sight, sayeth the Lord.

25 Behold, I come vnto thee, O destroying mountaine, saith the Lord, which destroyest all the earth: and I will stretch out mine hand vpon thee, and rolle thee downe from the rocks, and will make thee a burnt mountaine.

26 They shall not take of thee a stone for a corner, nor a stone for foundations, but thou shalt be destroyed for euer, sayeth the Lord.

27 Set vp a standard in the land: blow the trumpets among the nations: prepare the nations against her: call vp the Kingdomes of Ararat, Minni, and Aschenaz against her: appoint the prince against her: cause horses to come vp as the rough caterpillars.

28 Prepare against her the nations with the Kings of the Medes, the dukes thereof, and the Princes thereof, and all the land of his dominion.

29 And the land shall tremble and sorrow: for the deuice of the Lord shall be performed against Babel, to make the land of Babel waste without an inhabitant.

30 The strong men of Babel haue ceased to fight, they haue remained in their holds: their strength hath failed, and they were like women: they haue burnt her dwelling places, and her barres are broken.

31 A poste shall runne to meete the poste, and a messenger to meete the messenger, to shew the King of Babel, that his city is taken on a side thereof.

32 And that the passages are stopped, and the reedes burnt with fire, and the men of warre troubled.

33 For thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israel, The daughter of Babel is like a threshing flooze: the time of her threshing is come: yet a little while, and the time of her haruelt shall come.

34 Nebuchad-nezzar the King of Babel hath deuoured me, and destroyed mee: hee hath made me an empty vessel: he swallowed me vp like a dragon, and filled his belly with my delicates, and hath cast me out.

35 The spoile of me, and that which was left of me, is brought vnto Babel, shall the inhabitant of Zion say: and my blood vnto the inhabitants of Caldea, shall Ierusalem say.

36 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will maintaine thy cause, and take vengeance for thee, and I will dry vp the sea, and dry vp her springs.

37 And Babel shall be as heapes, a dwelling place for dragons, an astonishment, and an hissing, without an inhabitant.

38 They shall roare together like lions, and yell as the Lyons whelpes.

39 In their heate I will make them feasts, and I will make them drunken that they may reioyce, and sleepe a perpetuall sleepe, and not wake saith the Lord.

40 I will bring them downe like lambs to the slaughter, and like rammes and goats.

41 How is Shephach taken! and how is the glorie of the whole earth taken! how is Babel become an astonishment among the nations!

44 I will also visite Bel in Babel, and I will bring out of his mouth, that which he hath swallowed vp, and the nations shall runne no more vnto him, and the wall of Babel shall fall.

45 My people, goe out of the mids of her, and deliuer ye every man his soule from the fierce wrath of the Lord, 46 Lest your heart euen faint, and ye feare the rumoz: that shall be heard in the lands: the rumoz shall come this yeere, and after that in the other yeere shall come a rumoz, and crucitie in the land, and ruler against ruler.

47 Therefore behold, the dayes come, that I will visite the images of Babel, and the whole land shall be confounded, and all her flaine shall fall in the mids of her.

48 Then the heauen and the earth, and all that is therein, shall reioyce for Babel: for the destroyers shall come vnto her from the North, saith the Lord.

49 As Babel caused the flaine of Israel to fall, so by Babel the flaine of all the earth did fall.

50 Ye that haue escaped the sword, goe away, stand not still: remember the Lord afarre off, and let Ierusalem come into your minde.

51 We are confounded because we haue heard reproch: shame hath couered our faces, for strangers are come into the Sanctuaries of the Lords house.

52 Wherefore behold, the dayes come, saith the Lord, that I will visite her grauen images, and through all her land the wounded shall grone.

53 Though Babel should mount vp to heauen, and though shee should defend her strength on high, yet from mee shall her destroyers come, saith the Lord.

54 A sound of a cite commeth from Babel, and great destruction from the land of the Caldeans, 55 Because the Lord hath layde Babel waste, & destroyed from her the great voyce, and her waues shall roare like great waters, and a sound was made by their noise:

56 Because the destroyer is come vpon her, euen vpon Babel, and her strong men are taken, their bowes are broken: for the Lord God that recompenseth, shall surely recompense.

57 And I will make drunke her Princes, and her wise men, her dukes and her nobles, and her strong men: and they shall sleepe a perpetuall sleepe, and not wake, saith the King, whose name is the Lord of hostes.

58 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, The thicke wall of Babel shall be broken, and her high gates shall be burnt with fire, and the people shall labour in vaine, and the folke in the fire, for they shall be wearie.

59 The word which Ieremias the Prophet commanded Sheraiah the sonne of Ne-riiah, the sonne of Baasiah, when he went with Zedekiah the king of Iudah into Babel, in the fourth yeere of his reigne: and this Sheraiah was a peaceable prince.

60 So Ieremias wrote in a booke all the euill that should come vpon Babel: euen all these things that are written against Babel.

61 And Ieremias said to Sheraiah, When thou comest vnto Babel and shalt see, and shalt reade all these words, 62 Then shalt thou say, O Lord, thou hast spoken against this place to destroy it, that none should remaine in it, neither man nor beast, but that it should be desolate for euer.

63 And when thou hast made an end of readeing this booke, thou shalt binde a stone to it, and cast it in the midst of Euphrates, 64 And shalt say, Thus shall Babel be drownded, and shall not rise from the euill, that I will bring vpon her, & they shall be wearie. Thus saith the Lord.

They shall not be able to resist, but shall labour in vaine.

CHAP. LII.

4 Ierusalem is taken, 10 Zedekiahs sonnes are killed before his face, and his eyes put out. 13 The cite is burned. 31 Iehoiachin brought forth of prison and fed like a King.

Zedekiah was one and twenty yeere old when he began to reigne, and he reigned eleuen yeeres in Ierusalem, and his mothers name was Hamutal, the daughter of Ieremias of Libnah.

2 And he did euill in the eyes of the Lord, according to all that Iehoiakim had done.

3 Doubtlesse because the wrath of the Lord was against Ierusalem and Iudah, till hee had cau them out from his presence, therefore Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babel.

4 But in the ninth yeere of his reigne, in the tenth moneth, the tenth day of the moneth came Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel, hee and all his hoste against Ierusalem, and pitched against it, and built forts against it round about.

5 So the cite was besieged vnto the eleuenth yeere of the king Zedekiah.

6 Now in the fourth moneth, the ninth day of the moneth, the famine was sore in the cite, so that there was no more bread for the people of the land.

7 Then the cite was broken vp, and all the men of warre fled, and went out of the cite by night, by the way of the gate betwene the two walles, which was by the kings garden: (now the Caldeans were by the cite round about) and they went by the way of the wilderness.

8 But the armie of the Caldeans pursued after the king, and tooke Zedekiah in the desert of Iericho, and all his host was scattered from him.

9 Then they tooke the king, and caried him vp to the king of Babel to Riblah in the land of Hamath, where he gaue iudgement vpon him.

10 And the king of Babel slew the sonnes of Zedekiah before his eyes: he slew also all the princes of Iudah in Riblah.

11 Then he put out the eyes of Zedekiah, the balins, and the pots, & the candlestickes, and the incense dishes, and the cups, and all that was of gold, & that was of siluer, tooke

the chiefe steward away;

20 With the two pillars, one Sea, and twelue brassen buls, that were vnder the bases, which King Salomon had made in the house of the Lord: the brasle of all these vessels was without weight.

h It was so much in quantitie.

21 And concerning the pillars, the height of one pillar was eightene cubites, and a third of twelue cubites did compasse it, and the thicknes thereof was foure fingers; it was hollow.

22 And a chapter of brasle was vpon it, and the height of one chapter was fve cu-bites with networke, and pomegranates vpon the chapters round about, all of brasle, the second pillar also, and the pomegranates were like vnto these.

23 And there were ninetie and fixe pomegranates on a side: and all the pomegranates vpon the networke were an hundred round about.

24 And the chiefe steward took Sheraiah the chiefe Priest, and Sephantiah the second Priest, and the three keepers of the doore.

25 He tooke also out of the city an eunuch which had the ouersight of the men of warre and seven men that were in the kings presence which were found in the city, and So-pher captaine of the hoste who mustred the people of the land, and threescore men of the people of the land, that were found in the mids of the citie.

them, and brought them to the King of Babel to Riblah.

and slew them in Riblah, in the land of Ba-bath: thus Judah was caried away captiue

Nebuchad-nezzar, Nebuzar-adan the chiefe steward caried away captiue of the Iewes seven hundred fourtie and fve persons: all the persons were foure thousand and fixe

31 And in the seven and thirtieth yeere of tieth day of the moneth, Evil-merodach king of Babel, in the first yeere of his reigne, li-¶ Lamentations.

CHAP. I.

1 The Prophet bewaileth the miserable estate of Ierusalem, & sheweth that they are plagued because of their finnes. The first and second Chapter begin every verse according to the letters of the Hebrew Alphabet. The third hath three verses for every letter, and the fourth is as the first.

a The Prophet wondereth at the great iudge-ment of God, seeing Ierusalem, which was so strong and so full of people, to be now destroyed and desolate.

How doth the citie remaine solitarie that was full of people, she is as a widow: she that was great among the nations, and princesse among the prouinces, is made tributarie.

2 Shee weepeth continually in the night, and her teares runne downe by her cheekes: among all her louers, shee hath none to comfort her: all her friends haue dealt vnfaithfully with her, and are her enemies.

3 Iudah is caried away captiue, because of affliction, and because of great seruitude: shee dwelleth among the heathen, and findeth no rest: all her persecutors tooke her in the straits.

4 The wayes of Zion lament, because n Thus Ierusalem lamenteth, mouing others to pittie her, and to learne by her example.

o This declareth that we should acknowledge God to be the author of all our afflictions, to the intent that wee might seeke to him for remedy.

no man commeth to the solemne feasts: all her gates are desolate: her Priests sigh: her virgins are discomfited, and there is in heauineffe.

5 Her aduersaries are the chiefe, and her enemies prosper: for the Lord hath afflicted her for the multitude of her transgressions, and her children are gone into captiuitie before the enemye.

6 And from the daughter of Zion all her beautie is departed: her Princes are become like harts that finde no pasture: and they are gone without strength before the pursuer.

7 Ierusalem remembered the dayes of her affliction, and of her rebellion, and all her pleasant things that shee had in times past, when her people fell into the hand of the enemye, and none did helpe her: the aduersaries saw her, and did mocke at her. Sabbathys.

8 Ierusalem hath grievously sinned, therefore she is in derision: all that honour her, despise her, because they haue seene her filthynesse: yea, shee sigheth and turneth backward.

9 Her filthynesse is in her skirts: she remembered not her last end, therefore she came downe wonderfully: she had no comforter: O Lord, behold mine affliction: for the enemye is proud.

10 The enemye hath stretched out his hand vpon all her pleasant things: for shee hath seene the heathen enter into her Sanctuary, whom thou diddest command, that they should not enter into thy Church.

11 All her people sigh and seeke their bread: they haue giuen their pleasant things for meate to refresh the soule: see, O Lord, and consider: for I am become vile.

12 Haue ye no regard, all ye that passe by this way: behold, and see, if there be any sorrow like vnto my sorrow, which is done vnto me, wherewith the Lord hath afflicted me in the day of his fierce wrath.

13 From aboue hath he sent fire into my bones, which preuaileth against them: hee hath spread a net for my feet, and turned my backe: he hath made me desolate, and daily in heauineffe.

14 The yoke of my transgressions is bound vpon his hand: they are wrapped, and come vpon my necke, he hath made my strength to fall: the Lord hath deliuered me into their hands, neither am I able to rise vp.

15 The Lord hath troden vnder foote all my valiant men in the mids of mee: he hath called an assembly against me to destroy my young men: the Lord hath troden the wine presse vpon the virgins the daughter of Iudah.

16 For these things I weep: mine eye, even mine eye casteth out water, because the Comforter that should refresh my soule, is farre from me: my children are desolate, because the enemye preuailed.

17 Zion stretched out her handes, and there is none to comfort her: the Lord hath appointed the enemies of Iacob round about him, Ierusalem is as a menstruous woman in the mids of them.

18 The Lord is righteous: for I haue rebelled against his commandement: heare, I pray you all people, and behold my sorrow: my virgins and my yong men are gone into captiuitie.

19 I called for my louers, but they deceiued me: my Priests and mine Elders perished in the citie, while they sought their meate to refresh their soules.

20 Behold, O Lord, how I am troubled: my bowels sweet: mine heart is turned within me: for I am full of heauineffe: the sword spoileth abroad, as death doeth at home.

21 They haue heard that I mourne, but there is none to comfort me: all mine enemies haue heard of my trouble, and are glad that thou hast done it: thou wilt bring the day that thou hast pronounced, and they shall be like vnto me.

22 Let all their wickednesse come before thee: Doe vnto them, as thou hast done vnto me, for all my transgressions: for my sighs are many, and mine heart is heauie.

CHAP. II.

How hath the Lord darkened the daughter of Zion in his wrath: and hath cast downe from heauen vnto the earth the beauty of Israel, and remembered not his footstool in the day of his wrath!

2 The Lord hath destroyed all the habitations of Iacob, and not spared: hee hath thrown downe in his wrath the strong holds of the daughter of Iudah: he hath cast them downe to the ground: he hath polluted the kingdome, and the princes thereof.

3 He hath cut off in his fierce wrath all the home of Israel: he hath drawen backe his right hand from before the enemye, and there was kindled in Iacob like a flame of fire, which deuoured round about.

4 He hath bent his bow like an enemy: his right hand was stretched vp as an aduersary, and slew all that was pleasant to the eye in the Tabernacle of the daughter of Zion: he powred out his wrath like fire.

5 The Lord was as an enemy: he hath deuoured Israel, and consumed all his palaces: he hath destroyed his strong holds, and hath increased in the daughter of Iudah lamentation and mourning.

6 For he hath destroyed his Tabernacle, as a garden he hath destroyed his congregation: the Lord hath caused the feasts and Sabbathys to be forgotten in Zion, and hath despised in the indignation of his wrath the King and the Priest.

7 The Lord hath forsaken his altar: he hath abhorred his Sanctuary: hee hath giuen into the hand of the enemye the wallies of her palaces: they haue made a noise in the house of the Lord, as in the day of solennitie.

8 The Lord hath determined to destroy the wall of the daughter of Zion: hee stretched out a line: he hath not withdrawn his hand from destroying: therefore hee made

10 The Elders of the daughter of Zion sit vpon the ground, and keepe silence: they haue cast vp dust vpon their heades: they haue girded themselves with sackcloth: the virgins of Ierusalem hang downe their heads to the ground.

11 Mine eyes doe fayle with teares: my bowels swell: my liver is powred vpon the earth, for the destruction of the daughter of my people, because the children & sucklings in woone in the streets of the citie.

13 What thing shall I take to witnesse for thee: What thing shall I compare to thee, O daughter Ierusalem: what shall I liken to thee, that I may comfort thee, O virgin daughter Zion: for thy breach is great like the sea: who can heale thee?

14 Thy prophets haue looked out vaine and foolish things for thee, and they haue not discovered thine iniquitie, to turne away thy capriuitie, but haue looked out for thee false prophecies, and causes of banishment.

15 All that passe by the way, clappe their hands at thee: they hisse and wagge their head vpon the daughter Ierusalem, saying, Is this the citie that men call, The perfection of beautie, and the top of the whole earth?

16 All thine enemies haue opened their mouth against thee: they hisse and gnash the teeth, saying, Let vs deuoure it: certainly this is the day that we looke for: wee haue found and seene it.

17 The Lord hath done that which hee hath purposed: hee hath fulfilled his word that he hath determined of old time: hee hath thretened downe, and not spared: hee hath caused thine enemies to reioyce ouer thee, and set vp the borne of thine aduersaries.

18 Their heart cryed vnto the Lord, O wall of the daughter Zion, let teares runne downe like a riuer day and night: take thee no rest, neither let the apple of thine eye cease.

19 Arise, cry in the night: in the beginning of the watches powre out thine heart like water before the face of the Lord: lift vp thine hands toward him for the life of thy pong children, that faint for hunger in the corners of all the streets.

20 Behold, O Lord, & consider to whom thou hast done thus: shall the women eate their fruit, and children of a span long: shall the Priest and the Prophet be slaine in the Sanctuary of the Lord?

21 The pong & the old lie on the ground in the streets: my virgins and my young men are fallen by the sword: thou hast slaine them in the day of thy wrath: thou hast killed and not spared.

22 Thou hast called as in a solemn day my terrors round about: so that in the day of the Lords wrath none escaped nor remained: those that I haue nourished & brought vp, hath mine enemy consumed.

CHAP. III.

I Am the man that hath seene affliction in the rod of his indignation.

2 He hath led me, and brought mee into darkenesse, but not to light.

3 Surely hee is turned against mee: hee turneth his hand against me all the day.

4 My flesh and my skin hath hee caused to ware olde, and he hath broken my bones.

5 He hath builded against me, and compassed me with gall and labour.

6 He hath set me in darke places, as they that be dead for euer.

7 Hee hath hedged about mee, that I cannot get out: hee hath made my chaines heauie.

8 Also when I crye and shout, he shuteth out my prayer.

9 Hee hath stopped by my wayes with hewen stone, and turned away my pathes.

10 Hee was vnto me as a beare lying in wait, and as a lyon in the secret places.

11 He hath stopped my wayes, and pulled me in pieces: he hath made me desolare.

12 He hath bent his bowe, and made mee a marke for the arrow.

13 He caused the arrowes of his quier to enter into my reins.

14 I was a derision to all my people, and their song all the day.

15 He hath filled me with bitterness, and made me drunken with wormewood.

16 Hee hath also broken my teeth with stones, and hath couered me with ashes.

17 Thus my soule was farre off from peace: I forgot prosperitie.

18 And I sayd, my strength and my hope is perished from the Lord.

19 Remembering mine affliction, and my mourning, the wormewood and the gall.

20 My soule hath them in remembrance, and is humbled in me.

21 I consider this in mine heart: therefore haue I hope.

22 It is the Lords mercies that wee are not consumed, because his compassions faile not.

55 I called vpon thy Name, O Lord, out of the low dungeon.

56 Thou hast heard my voyce: stop not thine eare from my sigh, and from my cry.

57 Thou dyest neere in the day that I called vpon thee: thou saydest, Feare not.

58 O Lord, thou hast maintained the cause of my soule, & hast redeemed my life.

59 O Lord, thou hast seene my wrong, iudge thou my cause.

60 Thou hast seene all their vengeance, and all their deuises against me.

61 Thou hast heard their reproch, O Lord, & all their imaginations against me.

62 The lips also of those that rose against me, and their whispering against me, continually.

63 Behold their sitting downe, and their rising vp, how I am their song.

64 Give them a recompence, O Lord, according to the worke of their hands.

65 Give them sorrow of heart, euen thy curse to them.

CHAP IIII.

How is the golde become so dimme? The most fine golde is changed, and the stones of the Sanctuary are scattered in the corner of euery street.

2 The Noble men of Zion comparable to fine golde, how are they esteemed as earthen pitchers, euen the worke of the hands of the potter?

3 Euen the Dragons draw out the breasts, and giue sucke to their yong, but the daughter of my people is become cruell like the Asps in the wilderness.

4 The tongue of the sucking child cleaueth to the roote of his mouth for thirst: the yong children aske bread, but no man breaketh it vnto them.

5 They that did feede delicately, perish in the streets: they that were brought vp in scarlet, embrace the dung.

6 For the iniquitie of the daughter of my people is become greater then the sinne of Sodome, that was destroyed as in a moment, and none pitched campees against her.

7 Her Nazarites were purer then the snow, and whiter then the milke: they were more ruddy in body, then the red precious stones: they were like polished Sapphir.

8 Now their vilage is blacker then a cole: they cannot know them in the streets: their skinne cleaueth to their bones: it is withered like a stocke.

9 They that be slaine with the sword are better then they that are killed with hunger: for they fade away as they were stricken through for the fruites of the field.

10 The hands of the pitifull women haue sodden their own children, which were their meate in the destruction of the daughter of my people.

11 The Lord hath accomplished his indignation: hee hath powred out his fierce wrath, he hath kindled a fire in Zion, which hath deuoured the foundations thereof.

CHAP. V.

The prayer of Ieremiah.

a This prayer as is thought, was made when some of the people were caried away captiue, others, as the poorest, remained, and some went into Egypt and other places for succour: albeit it seemeth that the Prophet foresaw their miseries to come, thus prayed.

Remember, O Lord, what is come vpon vs: consider and behold our reproch.

2 Our inheritance is turned to the stranger, our houses to the altars.

THE ARGUMENT.

After that Iehoiachin by the counsell of Ieremiah and Ezekiel had yeelded himselfe to Nebuchad-nezzar, and so went into captiuitie with his mother and diuers of his princes, and of the people, certaine beganne to repent, and murmure that they had obeyed the Prophets counsell, as though the thing which they had prophesied should not come to passe, and therefore their estate should bee still miserable vnder the Caldeans. By reason whereof he confirmeth his former prophesies, declaring by new visions and reuelations shewed vnto him, that the citie should molt certainly be destroyed, and the people grievously tormented by Gods plagues, in so much that they that remained should bee brought into cruell bondage. And lest the godly should despaire in these great troubles, he assureth them that God will deliuer his Church at his time appointed, and also destroy their enemies which either afflicted them, or reioyced in their miseries. The effect of the one and the other should chiefly be performed vnder Christ, of whom in this booke are many notable promises, and in whom the glory of the new Temple should perfectly be restored. He prophesied these things in Caldea at the same time that Ieremiah prophesied in Iudah, and there beganne in the fift yeere of Iehoiachins captiuitie.

CHAP.

C H A P. I.

1 The time wherein Ezekiel Prophesied, and in what place. 2 His inward. 3 The vision of the four beasts. 4 The vision of the thrones.

a After that the booke of the Law was found, which was the eighteenth yeere of the reigne of Iosiah, so that five and twenty yeeres after this booke was found, leconiah was led away captiue with Ezekiel (and many of the people) who the first yeere after saw these visions. b Which was a part of Euphrates so called.

c That is notable: and excellent visions, so that it might be known, it was no natural dreame, but came of God. d That is, the spirit of prophesie as Chap. 3. 22. and 37. 1.

e By this diuersitie of words he signifieth the fearefull iudgement of God, and the great afflictions that should come vpon Ierusalem. f Or pale yellow. Which were the four Cherubims that represented the glory of God, as Chap. 3. 23.

g The wing of the one touched the wing of the other.

h Every Cherubim had four faces, the face of a man, and of a lion on the right side, and the face of a bullocke, and of an eagle on the left side.

i Ebr. whether their spirit or will was to goe.

l That is, when they had executed Gods will: for afore they returned not, till God had changed the state of things,

E came to passe in the thirtieth yeere, in the fourth moneth, and in the fift day of the moneth (as I was among the captiues by the river Chebar) that the heavens were opened, and I saw visions of God.

2 In the fift day of the moneth (which was the first yeere of king Ioiachins captiuitie.)

3 The word of the Lord came vnto Ezekiel the Priest, the sonne of Buzi, in the land of the Caldreans, by the river Chebar, where the hand of the Lord was vpon him.

4 And I looked, and beheld, a whirlewinde came out of the North, a great cloud and a fire wrapped about it, and a brightness was about it, and in the mids thereof, to wit, in the mids of the fire came out as the likenesse of amber.

5 Allo out of the mids thereof came the likenesse of foure beastes, and this was their forme: they had the appearance of a man.

6 And euery one had foure faces, and euery one had foure wings.

7 And their feet were straight feet, and the sole of their feet was like the sole of a calves foot, and they sparkled like the appearance of bright brasle.

8 And the hands of a man came out from vnder the wings in the foreparts of them, and they foure had their faces, and their wings.

9 They were soyned by their wings one to another, and when they went forth, they returned not, but euery one went straight forward.

10 And the similitude of their faces was as the face of man: and they foure had the face of a lion on the right side, and they foure had the face of a bullocke on the left side: they foure also had the face of an eagle.

11 Thus were their faces: but their wings were spread out aboue: two wings of euery one were soyned one to another, and two covered their bodies.

12 And euery one went straight forward: they went whither their spirit led them, and they returned not when they went forth.

13 The similitude also of the beasts, and their appearance was like burning coales of fire, and like the appearance of lampes: for the fire ranne among the beasts, and the fire gaue a glister, and out of the fire their went lightning.

14 And the beasts ranne, and returned like vnto lightning.

15 Now as I beheld the beasts, beheld, a wheele appeared vpon the earth by the beasts, hauing foure faces.

26 The fashion of the wheeles and their worke was like vnto a chysolite: and they foure had one forme, and their fashion, and their worke was as one wheele in another wheele.

17 When they went, they went vpon their foure sides, and they returned not when they went.

18 They had also rings, and height, and were fearefull to behold, and their rings were full of eyes round about them foure.

19 And when the beasts went, the wheeles went with them: and when the beasts were lift vp from the earth, the wheeles were lift vp.

20 Whither their spirit led them, they went, and thither did the spirit of the wheeles leade them, and the wheeles were lifted vp besides them: for the spirit of the beasts was in the wheeles.

21 When the beasts went, they went, and when they stood, they stood, and when they were lifted vp from the earth, the wheeles were lifted vp besides them: for the spirit of the beasts was in the wheeles.

22 And the similitude of the firmament vpon the heads of the beasts was wonderful, like vnto chysall, spread ouer their heads aboue.

23 And vnder the firmament were their wings straight, the one toward the other: euery one had two, which covered them, and euery one had two which covered their bodies.

24 And when they went forth, I heard the noyse of their wings, like the noyse of great waters, and as the voyce of the Almighty, when the voyce of speech, as the noyse of an hoste: and when they stood, they let downe their wings.

25 And there was a voyce from the firmament that was ouer their heads, when they stood, and had let downe their wings.

26 And aboue the firmament that was ouer their heads, was the fashion of a throne like vnto a saphire stone, and vpon the similitude of the throne was by appearance, as the similitude of a man aboue vpon it.

27 And I saw as the appearance of amber, and as the similitude of fire round about within it to looke to, euen from his loynes upward: and to looke to, euen from his loynes downward, I saw as a likenesse of fire, and brightnesse round about it.

28 As the likenesse of a bow, that is in the cloud in the day of raine, so was the appearance of the light round about.

29 This was the appearance of the similitude of the glory of the Lord: and when I saw it, I fell vpon my face, and I heard a voyce of one that spake.

4 For they are † impudent children, and stiffe hearted: I do send thee vnto them, and thou shalt say vnto them, Thus sayeth the Lord God.

5 But surely they will not heare, neither indeed will they cease: for they are a rebellious house: yet shall they know that there hath bene a Prophet among them.

6 And thou sonne of man, feare them not, neither bee afraid of their wordes, although rebels, and thornes be with thee, and thou remainest with scorpions: feare not their wordes, nor be afraid at their lookes, for they are a rebellious house.

7 Therefore thou shalt speake my wordes vnto them: but surely they will not heare, neither will they indeede cease: for they are rebellious.

8 But thou sonne of man, heare what I say vnto thee: bee not thou rebellious, like this rebellious house: open thy mouth, and eate that I giue thee.

9 And when I looked by, beholde, an hand was sent vnto me, and loe, a roule of a booke was therein.

10 And he spread it before me, and it was written within and without, and there was written therein, Lamentations, and mourning, and woe.

11 And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, eate that I giue thee: and thou shalt be able to speake my wordes vnto the house of Israel.

CHAP. III.

1 The Prophet being fed with the word of God, and with the constant boldnesse of the Spirit, is sent vnto the people that were in captivity. 17 The office of true ministers.

MOREouer he sayd vnto mee, Sonne of man, eate that thou findest: a eate this roule, and goe, and speake vnto the house of Israel.

2 So he opened my mouth, and he gaue me this roule to eate.

3 And he said vnto mee, Sonne of man, cause thy belly to eate, and fill thy bowels with this roule that I giue thee. Then did I eate it, and it was in my mouth as sweete as hony.

4 And he said vnto mee, Sonne of man, goe, and enter into the house of Israel, and declare them my wordes.

5 For thou art not sent to a people of an vnknown tongue, or of an hard language, whose wordes thou canst not vnderstand: yet if I should send thee to them, they would obey thee.

6 But the house of Israel will not obey thee: for they will not obey mee: yea, all the house of Israel are impudent and stiffe hearted.

8 Behold, I haue made thy face strong against their foreheades.

9 I haue made thy forehead as the adamant, and harder then the flint: feare them not therefore, neither bee afraid at their lookes: for they are a rebellious house.

10 He said moreover vnto me, Sonne of man, receiue in thine heart all my wordes that I speake vnto thee, and heare them with thine eares.

11 And go, and enter to them that are led away captiues, vnto the children of thy people, and speake vnto them, & tell them, Thus saith the Lord God: but surely they will not heare, neither will they indeede cease.

12 Then the spirit tooke mee vp, and I heard behind mee a noyse of a great rushing, saying, Blessed be the glory of the Lord out of his place.

13 I heard also the noyse of the wings of the beasts that touched one another, and the rattling of the wheelles that were by them, euen a noyse of a great rushing.

14 So the spirit lift me vp, and tooke me away, and I went in bitterness, and indignation of my spirit, but the hand of the Lord was strong vpon me.

15 Then I came to them that were led away captiues to Tel-abib, that dwelt by the riuier Chebar, and I sate where they sate and remained there astonishd among them seuen dayes.

16 And at the ende of seuen dayes, the word of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying, 17 Sonne of man, I haue made thee a watchman vnto the house of Israel: therefore heare the word at my mouth, and giue them warning from me.

18 When I shall say vnto the wicked, Thou shalt surely die, and thou giuest not him warning, nor speakest to admonish the wicked of his wicked way, that he may liue, the same wicked man shall die in his iniquitie: but his blood will I require at thine hand.

19 Yet if thou warne the wicked, and hee turne not from his wickednes, nor from his wicked way, hee shall die in his iniquity, but thou hast deliuered thy soule.

20 Likewise if a righteous man turne from his righteousness, and commit iniquitie, I will lay a stumbling blocke before him, and he shall die, because thou hast not giuen him warning: he shall die in his sinne, and his righteous deedes, which hee hath done, shall not be remembered: but his blood will I require at thine hand.

21 Neuerthelesse, if thou admonish that righteous man, that the righteous sinne not, and that hee doth not sinne, hee shall liue because he is admonished: also thou hast deliuered thy soule.

22 And the hand of the Lord was there vpon me, and hee said vnto mee, Arise, and goe.

Thou also sonne of man, take thee a brick, and lay it before thee, and pourtray vpon it the citie, euen Ierusalem.

2 And lay siege against it, and builde a fort against it, and cast a mount against it:
 set the campe also against it, and lay engines of warre against it round about.

3 Moreover, take an^a piron panne, and set it for a wall of piron betwene thee and the citie, and direct thy face toward it, and it shall be besieged, and thou shalt lay siege against it: this shall be a signe vnto the house of Irael.

4 Sleepe thou also vpon thy left side, and lay the iniquitie of the house of Irael vpon it, according to the number of the dayes that thou shalt sleepe vpon it, thou shalt beare

5 For I haue layd vpon thee the yeeres house of Irael.

6 And when thou hast accomplished

7 Therefore thou shalt direct thy face

8 And behold, I will lay bands vpon thee, and thou shalt not turne thee from one side to another till thou hast ended the dayes of thy siege.

9 Thou shalt take also vnto thee wheate, and barley, and beanes, and lentiles, and mil-and make thee bread therof according to the number of the dayes, that thou shalt sleepe

11 Thou shalt drinke also water by mea-to time shalt thou drinke.

12 And thou shalt eate it as barley cakes, and thou shalt bake it in the dung that com-dren of Irael eate their defiled bread among the Gentiles whither I will cast them.

14 Then sayde I, Ah, Lord God, behold, my soule hath not bene polluted: for from my youth vp, euen vnto this houre, I haue not eaten of a thing dead, or toane in peeces, neither came there any vncleane flesh in my mouth.

15 Then hee sayde vnto mee, Lo, I haue and thou shalt prepare thy bread therewith.

16 Moreover he said vnto mee, Sonne of man, behold, I will breake the staffe of bread in Ierusalem, and they shall eate bread by weight and with care, and they shall drinke water by measure, and with astonishinto wickedness more then the nations, and my statutes more then the countreys that are round about her: for they haue refused my iudgements and my statutes, and they haue not walked in them.

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because your multitude is greater then the nations that are round about you, and ye haue not walked in my statutes, neither haue ye kept my iudgements: no, ye haue not done according to the iudgements of the nations that are round about you,

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold I, euen I come against thee, and will execute iudgement in the midst of thee, euen in the sight of the nations.

9 And I will doe in thee, that I neuer did before, neither will doe any more the like, because of all thine abominations.

10 For in the middes of thee, the fathers shall eat their sons, and the sonnes shall eate their fathers, and I will execute iudgement in thee, and the whole remnant of thee will I scatter into all the winds.

11 Therefore as I liue, saith the Lord God, Surely, because thou hast defiled my Sanctuary with all thy filthinesse, and with all thine abominations, therefore will I also destroy thee, neither shall mine eye spare thee, neither will I haue any pittie.

12 The third part of thee shall die with the pestilence, and with famine shall they bee consumed in the middes of thee: and another third part shall fall by the sword round about thee: and I will scatter the last third part into all winds, and I will draw out a sword after them.

13 Thus shall mine anger bee accomplished, and I will cause my wrath to cease in them, and I will be comforted: and they shall know, that I the Lord haue spoken it in my zeale, when I haue accomplished my wrath in them.

14 Moreover, I will make thee waste and abhorred among the nations that are round about thee, and in the sight of all that passe by.

15 So thou shalt be a reproch and shame, a chastisement and an astonishment vnto the nations that are round about thee, when I shall execute iudgements in thee, in anger and in wrath, and in sharpe rebukes: I the Lord haue spoken it.

17 So will I send vpon you famine, and euill beasts, and they shall spoyle thee, and pestilence, and blood shall passe thorow thee, and I will bring the sword vpon thee: I the Lord haue spoken it.

CHAP. VI.

^a Hee sheweth that Ierusalem shall be destroyed for their idolatry. 8 He prophesieth the repentance of the remnant of the people, and their deliuerance.

Again the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, set thy face towards the mountaines of Israel, and prophesse against them.

3 And say, Ye mountains of Israel, heare the word of the Lord God: thus saith the Lord God to the mountaines & to the hills, to the riuers, and to the valleys, Behold, I euen I will bring a word vpon you, and I will destroy your high places:

4 And your altars shall bee desolate, and your images of the sunne shall bee broken: and I will cast downe your flaine men before your idoles.

5 And I will lay the dead carkeises of the children of Israel before their idoles, and I will scatter your bones round about your altars.

6 In all your dwelling places the cities shall bee desolate, and the high places shall bee laid waste, so that your altars shall bee made waste and desolate, and your idoles shall bee broken and cease, and your images of the sunne shall be cut in pieces, and your workes shall be abolished.

7 And the flaine shall fall in the middes of you, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

8 Per will I leaue a remnant, that you may haue some that shall escape the sword among the nations, when you shall be scattered thorow the countreys.

9 And they that escape of you shall remember me among the nations, where they shall be in captiuitie, because I am grieved for their whorish hearts, which haue departed from mee, and for their eyes which haue gone a whoring after their idoles, and they shall be displeased in themselves for the euills which they haue committed in all their abominations.

10 And they shall know that I am the Lord, and that I haue not sayd in vaine, that I would doe this euill vnto them.

11 Thus saith the Lord God, I smite with thine hand, and stretch forth with thy foote, and say, Alas, for all the wicked abominations of the house of Israel: for they shall fall by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence.

12 He that is farre off, shall die by the pestilence, and he that is neere, shall fall by the sword, and hee that remaineth and is besieged, shall die by the famine, thus will I accomplish my wrath vpon them.

13 Then ye shall know that I am the Lord, when their flaine men shall be among their idoles round about their altars, vpon every high hill in all the toppes of the mountaines, and vnder every greene tree, and vnder every thicke oake, which is the place where they did offer sweete sauour vnto all their idoles.

14 So will I stretch mine hand vpon them, and make the land waste and desolate, from the wilderness vnto Diblath in all their habitations, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

2 Also thou sonne of man, thus saith the Lord God, An end is come vnto the land of Israel: the end is come vpon the four corners of the land.

3 Now is the end come vpon thee, and I will send my wrath vpon thee, and will iudge thee according to thy wayes, and will lay vpon thee all thyne abominations.

4 Neither shall mine eye spare thee, neither will I haue pittie: but I will lay thy wayes vpon thee: and thine abomination shalbe in the mids of thee, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

5 Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, one euill, euen one euill is come.

6 An end is come, the end is come, it is watched for thee: behold, it is come.

7 The morning is come vnto thee, that dwellest in the land: the time is come, the day of trouble is neere, and not the founding againe of the mountaines.

8 Now I will shortly powre out my wrath vpon thee, and fulfill mine anger vpon thee: I will iudge thee according to thy wayes, and will lay vpon thee all thyne abominations.

9 Neither shall mine eye spare thee, neither will I haue pittie, but I will lay vpon thee according to thy wayes, and thine abominations shall be in the mids of thee, and ye shall know that I am the Lord that smiteth.

10 Behold, the day, behold, it is come: the morning is gone forth, the rod flourisheth: pride hath budded.

11 Cruelty is risen vp into a rod of wickednesse: none of them shall remaine, nor of their riches, nor of any of theirs, neither shall there be lamentation for them.

12 The time is come, the day draweth neere, let not the buyer reioyce, nor let him that selleth, mourne: for the wrath is vpon all the multitude thereof.

13 For he that selleth, shal not returne to that which is sold, although they were yet aliue: for the vision was vnto all the multitude thereof, and they returned not, neither doeth any incourage himselfe in the punishment of his life.

14 They haue blowen the trumpet, and prepared all, but none goeth to the battell: for my wrath is vpon all the multitude thereof.

15 The sword is without, and the pestilence and the famine within: hee that is in the field, shal die with the sword, and he that is in the citie, famine and pestilence shal deuoure him.

16 But they that flee away from them, shall escape, and shall be in the mountaines, like the doues of the valleys, all they shall mourne, euery one for his iniquitie.

17 All hands shalbe weake, and all knees shall fall away as water.

18 They shal also gird themselves with sackcloth, and feare shal couer them, and shame shal be vpon all faces, and baldnesse vpon their heads.

19 They shall cast their silver in the streets, and their gold shall be cast farre off: their silver and their golde cannot deliuer them in the day of the wrath of the Lord: they shall not satisfie their soules, neither fill their bowels: for this ruine is for their iniquitie.

20 We had also set the beautie of his ornament in matrie: but they made images of their abominations, and of their idoles therein: therefore haue I set it farre from them.

21 And I will giue it into the handes of the strangers to be spoiled, and to the wicked of the earth to be robbed, and they shall pollute it.

22 My face will I turne also from them, and they shall pollute my secret place: for the destroyers shal enter into it, and defile it.

23 I will make a chaine: for the land is full of the iudgement of blood, and the citie is full of crueltie.

24 Therefore I will bring the most wicked of the heathen, and they shall possesse their houses: I will also make the pompe of the mightie to cease, and their holy places shalbe defiled.

25 When destruction commeth, they shal seeke peace, and shall not haue it.

26 Calamitie shall come vpon calamitie, and rumour shall be vpon rumour: then shal they seeke a vision of the Prophet: but the Law shall perish from the Priest, and counsell from the ancient.

27 The king shal mourne, and the prince shal be clothed with desolation, and the hands of the people in the land shal be troubled: I will do vnto them according to their wayes: and according to their iudgements will I iudge them, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

2 An appearance of the similitude of God, 3 Ezekiel is brought to Ierusalem in the spirit, 6 The Lord sheweth the Prophet the idolatries of the house of Israel.

AND in the first yeere, in the first moneth, and in the first day of the moneth, as I late in mine house, and the Elders of Iudah late before me, the hand of the Lord God fell there vpon me.

2 Then I beheld, and loe, there was a likeness, as the appearance of a fire to looke to, from his loynes downward, and from his loynes upward, as the appearance of brightness, and like vnto amber.

3 And he stretched out the likenesse of an hand, and tooke mee by an haytie locke of mine head, and the Spirit lift mee vp betwene the earth and the heauen, and brought mee by a diuine vision to Ierusalem, into the entrie of the inner gate that lieth toward the North, where remained the idole of indignation, which prouoked indignation.

4 And behold the glory of the God of Israel was there according to the vision that I saw in the field.

5 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, lift

6 Hee said furthermore vnto me, Sonne of man, seest thou not what they do? euen the great abominations that the house of Israel committeth heere to cause me to depart from my Sanctuary; but yet turne thee and thou shalt see greater abominations.

7 And he caused mee to enter at the gate of the court: and when I looked, behold, an hole was in the wall.

8 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, dig now in the wall. And when I had digged in the wall, behold, there was a doore.

9 And hee said vnto mee, See in, and behold the wicked abominations that they do heere.

10 So I went in, and saw, and behold, there was euery similitude of creeping things and^a abominable beastes, and all the idoles of the house of Israel painted vpon the wall round about.

11 And there stood before them seuentie men of the Ancients of the house of Israel, and in the mids of them stood Jaazaniab, the sonne of Shaphan, with euery man his censer in his hand, and the vapour of the incense went by like^m a cloud.

12 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, hast thou seene what the Ancients of the house of Israelⁿ doe in the darke, euery one in the chamber of his imagery? for they say, The Lord seeth vs not, the Lord hath forsaken the earth.

13 Again hee said also vnto mee, Turne thee againe, and thou shalt see greater abominations that they doe.

14 And hee caused mee to enter into the entry of the gate of the Lords house, which was toward the North: and behold, there sate women mourning for^o Tammuz.

15 Then said he vnto me, Hast thou seene this, O sonne of man? Turne thee againe and thou shalt see greater abominations then these.

16 And he caused me to enter into the inner court of the Lords house, and behold, at the doore of the Temple of the Lord, between the porch and the altar, were about fise and twentie men with their backs toward the Temple of the Lord, and their faces toward the East, and they worshipped the Sonne toward the East.

17 Then he said vnto me, Hast thou seene this, O sonne of man? Is it a small thing to the house of Iudah to commit these abominations which they doe heere? for they haue filled the land with crueltie, and haue returned to prouoke me: and so, they haue cast out^p stinke before their noses.

18 Therefore will I also execute my wrath: mine eye shall not spare them, neither will I haue pittie, and^q though they cry in mine eares with a loud voice, yet will I not heare them.

1 The destruction of the citie. 4 They that shall be saved, are marked. 8 A complaint of the Prophet for the destruction of the people.

Hee cried also with a loud voyce in mine eares, saying, The visitations of^a the citie draw neere, and euery man hath a weapon in his hand to destroy it.

2 And behold, lires^b men came by the way of the hie gate, which lieth toward the North, and euery man a weapon in his hand to destroy it: and one man among them was clothed with linen, with a writers^c inke-horne by his side, and they went in and stood beside the brazen altar.

3 And the glorie of the God of Israel was^d gone vp from the Cherub, wherupon hee was, and stood on the^e doore of the house, and hee called to the man clothed with linen, which had the writers inke-horne by his side.

4 And the Lord said vnto him, Goe thorow the middes of the citie, euen thorow the mids of Ierusalem, and^f set a marke vpon the foreheads of them that^g moune and cry for all the abominations that bee done in the mids thereof.

5 And to the other hee said, that I might heare, Goe yee after him through the citie, and smite: let your eye spare none, neither haue pittie.

6 Destroy utterly the old, and the young, and the maidens, and the children, and the women, but touch no man vpon whom is the^h marke, and begin at my Sanctuary. Then they began at theⁱ Ancient men, which were before the house.

7 And hee layd vnto them, Defile the house, and fill the courts with the slaine, then go forth: and they went out, and slew them in the citie.

8 Now when they had slaine them, and I had escaped, I fell downe vpon my face, and cried, saying, Ah Lord God, wilt thou destroy all the residue of Israel, in pouring out thy wrath vpon Ierusalem?

9 Then said he vnto me, The iniquity of the house of Israel and Iudah, is exceeding great, so that the land is full^k of blood, and the citie full of corrupt iudgement: for they say, The Lord hath forsaken the earth, and the Lord seeth vs not.

10 As touching mee also, mine eye shall not spare them, neither will I haue pittie, but will recompense their wayes vpon their heads.

AND as I looked, behold, in the firmament that was above the head of the Cherubims, there appeared vpon them like vnto the similitude of a throne, as it were a Sapphir stone.

2 And hee spake vnto the man clothed with linnen, and sayd, Goe in betwene the wheeles, euen vnder the Cherub, & fill thine hands with coales of fire from betwene the Cherubims, and scatter them ouer the city. And he went in in my sight.

3 Now the Cherubims stood vpon the right side of the house when the man went in, and the cloud filled the inner court.

4 Then the glory of the Lord went vpon the Cherub, and stood ouer the doore of the house, and the house was filled with the cloud, & the court was filled with the brightness of the Lords glory.

5 And the sound of the cherubims wings was heard into the vtter court, as the voyce of the Almighty God when he speaketh.

6 And when he had commanded the man clothed with linnen, saying, Take fire from betwene the wheeles, and from betwene the Cherubims, then he went in and stood beside the wheele.

7 And one Cherub stretched forth his hand from betwene the Cherubims vnto the fire, that was betwene the Cherubims, and tooke thereof, and put it into the hands of him that was clothed with linnen: who tooke it and went out.

8 And there appeared in the Cherubims the likenesse of a mans hand vnder their wings.

9 And when I looked vp, behold, foure wheeles were beside the Cherubims, one wheele by one Cherub, and another wheele by another Cherub, and the appearance of the wheeles was as the colour of a Chrysolite stone.

10 And their appearance (for they were all foure of one fashion) was as if one wheele had bene in another wheele.

11 When they went forth, they went vpon their foure sides, and they returned not as they went: but to the place whither the first went, they went after it, and they turned not as they went.

12 And their whole body, & their || rings, and their handes and their wings, and the wheeles were full of eyes round about, euen in the same foure wheeles.

13 And the Cherub cryed to these wheeles in mine hearing, saying, O wheele.

14 And euery beast had foure faces: the first face was the face of a Cherub, and the second face was the face of a man, and the third the face of a lion, and the fourth the face of an Eagle.

15 And the Cherubims were lifted vp: this is the beast that I saw at the riuer Chebar.

16 And when the Cherubims went, the wheeles went by them: and when the Cherubims lift vp their wings to mount vp from the earth, the same wheeles also turned not from beside them.

17 When the Cherubims stood, they stood: and when they were lifted vp, they lifted themselves vp also: for the spirit of the beast was in them.

18 Then the glory of the Lord departed from about the doore of the house, and stood vpon the Cherubims.

19 And the Cherubims lift vp their wings, & mounted vp from the earth in my sight: when they went out, the wheeles also were besides them: and euery one stood at the entry of the gate of the Lordes house, at the East side, and the glory of the God of Israel was vpon them on high.

20 This is the beast that I saw vnder the God of Israel by the riuer Chebar, and I knew that they were the Cherubims.

21 Euery one had foure faces, and euery one foure wings, and the likenesse of mans hands was vnder their wings.

22 And the likenesse of their faces was the selfe same faces which I saw by the riuer Chebar, and the appearance of the Cherubims was the selfe same, and they went euery one straight forward.

1 Who they were that seduced the people of Israel.

2 Against these he prophesieth, shewing them how they shalbe disperſed abroad. 3 The renewing of the heart cometh of God. 21 He threatneth them that leane vnto their owne counsells.

MEANWHILE, the spirit lift me vp, & brought mee vnto the East gate of the Lordes house, which lieth Eastward, and behold, at the entrie of the gate were five and twentie men: among whom I saw Baazantah the sonne of Azur, and Delatiah the sonne of Benaiab, the princes of the people.

2 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, these are the men that imagine mischief, and deuise wicked counsell in this citie.

3 For they say, It is not neere, let vs build houses: this citie is the caldron, and we be the flesh.

4 Therefore prophesie against them, son of man, prophesie.

5 And the Spirit of the Lord fell vpon me, and said vnto me, Speake, Thus saith the Lord, O ye house of Israel, this haue ye said, and I know that which riseth vp of your minds.

6 Many haue ye murdered in this citie, and ye haue filled the streets thereof with the slaine.

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, They that ye haue slaine, and haue layd in the mids of it, they are the flesh, and this citie is the caldron, but I will bring you forth of the mids of it.

8 Ye haue feared the sword, and I will bring a sword vpon you, saith the Lord God.

12 And ye shall know that I am the Lord: for ye have not walked in my statutes, neither executed my iudgements, but have done after the manners of the heathen, that are round about you.

13 And when I prophesied, Belatiah the sonne of Benatiah died: then fell I downe vpon my face, and cried with a loude voice, and sayd, Ah Lord God, wilt thou then utterly destroy all the remnant of Israel?

14 Against the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

15 Sonne of man, thy brethren, even thy brethren, the men of thy kindred, and all the house of Israel, wholly are they vnto whom the inhabitants of Ierusalem haue said, Depart ye farre from the Lord: for the land is giuen vs in possession.

16 Therefore say, Thus sayeth the Lord God, Although I haue cast them farre off among the heathen, and although I haue scattered them among the countreys, yet will I bee to them as a little ^b Sanctuary in the countreys where they shall come.

17 Therefore say, Thus sayeth the Lord God, I will gather you againe from the people, and assemble you out of the countreys where ye haue bene scattered, and I will giue you the land of Israel.

18 And they shall come thither, and they shall take away all the idoles thereof, and all the abominations thereof from thence.

19 And I will giue them one heart, and I will put a new spirit within their bowels: and I will take the stone heart out of their bodies, and will giue them an heart of flesh, 20 That they may walke in my statutes, and keepe my iudgements, & execute them: and they shall bee my people, and I will bee their God.

21 But vpon them whose heart is toward their idoles, and whose affection goeth after their abominations, I will lay their way vpon their owne heads, sayeth the Lord God.

22 Then did the Cherubims lift vp their wings, and the wheeles besides them, and the glory of the God of Israel was vpon them on high.

23 And the glory of the Lord went vp from the mids of the citie, and stood vpon the mountain which is toward the East side of the citie.

24 Afterward the Spirit tooke me vp, and brought me in a vision by the Spirit of God into Caldea, to them that were led away captiues: so the vision that I had seene, went vp from me.

25 Then I declared vnto them that were led away captiues, all the things that the Lord had shewed me.

CHAP. XII.

¹ The parable of the captiuitie. ¹⁸ Another parable whereby the distresse of hunger and thirst is signified.

The word of the Lord also came vnto me, saying,

2 Son of man, thou dwellest in the mids of a rebellious house, which haue eyes to see, and see: not: they haue eares to heare, and heare not: for they are a rebellious house.

3 Therefore thou sonne of man, prepare thy stuffe to goe into captiuitie, & goe forth by day in their sight, and thou shalt passe from thy place to another place in their sight, if it be possible that they may consider it: for they are a rebellious house.

4 Then shalt thou bring forth thy stuffe by day in their sight, as the stuffe of him that goeth into captiuitie: and thou shalt goe forth at euen in their sight, as they that goe forth into captiuitie.

5 Digge thou thow the wall in their sight, and cary out thereby.

6 In their sight shalt thou beare it vpon thy shoulders, and cary it forth in the darke: thou shalt couer thy face, that thou see not the earth: for I haue set thee as a ^b signe vnto the house of Israel.

7 And as I was commanded, so I brought forth my stuffe by day, as the stuffe of one that goeth into captiuitie: and by night I digged thow the wall with mine hand, and brought it forth in the darke, and I bare it vpon my shoulder in their sight.

8 And in the morning came the word of the Lord vnto me, saying,

9 Sonne of man, hath not the house of Israel, the rebellious house sayd vnto thee, What doest thou?

10 But say thou vnto them, Thus sayeth the Lord God, This ^b burden concerneth the chiefe in Ierusalem, and all the house of Israel that are among them.

11 Say, I am your signe: like as I haue done, so shall it be done vnto them, they shall goe into bondage and captiuitie.

12 And the chiefe that is among them, shall beare vpon his shoulder in the darke, and shall goe forth: they shall digge thow the wall, to cary out thereby: he shall couer his face, that hee see not the ground with his eyes.

13 My net also will I spread vpon ^d him, and hee shall be taken in my net, and I will bring him to Babel to the land of the Caldeans, yet shall he not see it, though hee shall see there.

14 And I will scatter toward euery wind, all that are about him to helpe him, and all his garisons, and I will draw out the sword after them.

15 And they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall scatter them among the nations, and disperse them in the countreys.

16 But I will leaue a little number of them from the sword, from the famine, and from the pestilence, that they may declare all these abominations among the heathen, where they come, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

17 Whereouer the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

18 Sonne of man, eate thy bread with trembling, and drinke thy water with trouble, and with care: thus shall I be to thee, and thou shalt be to the people of the land.

19 And say vnto the people of the land, Thus sayeth the Lord God of the inhabitants of Ierusalem, and of the land of Israel, They shall eate their bread with care.

f It seemeth that this noble man died of some terrible death, and therefore the Prophet feared some strange iudgment of God toward the rest of the people.

g They that remained till at Ierusalem, thus reproched them that were gone into captiuitie, as though they were cast off, and forsaken of God.

21 And the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

22 Sonne of man, what is that prouerbe that you haue in the land of Israel, saying, The dayes are prolonged, and all visions shall faile?

23 Tell them therefore, Thus sayeth the Lord God, I will make this prouerbe to cease, and they shall no more vse it as a prouerbe in Israel: but say vnto them, The dayes are at hand, and the effect of euery vision.

24 For no vision shall bee any more in baine, neither shall there be any flattering diuination within the house of Israel.

25 For I am the Lord: I will speake, and that thing that I shall speake, shall come to passe: it shall bee no more prolonged: for in your dayes, O rebellious house, will I say the thing, and will performe it, saith the Lord God.

26 Again the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

27 Sonne of man, behold, they of the house of Israel say, The vision that hee seeth is for many dayes to come, and he prophesieth of the times that are farre off.

28 Therefore say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, All my words shall no longer be delayed, but that thing which I haue spoken, shall be done, saith the Lord God.

2 Sonne of man, prophesie against the prophets of Israel, that prophesie, and say thou vnto them, that prophesie out of their owne hearts, Heare the word of the Lord.

3 Thus saith the Lord God, Alas vnto the foolish prophets that follow their owne spirit, and haue seene nothing.

4 O Israel, thy prophets are like the fores in the waste places.

5 Ye haue not risen vp in the gaps, neither made vp the hedge for the house of Israel, to stand in the battell in the day of the Lord.

6 They haue seene vanity, and lying diuination, saying, The Lord saith it, and the Lord hath not sent them: and they haue made others to hope that they would confirm the word of their prophesie.

7 Haue yee not seene a baine vision? and haue yee not spoken a lying diuination? yee say, The Lord saith it, albeit I haue not spoken.

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because yee haue spoken vanity, and haue seene lies, therefore behold, I am against you, saith the Lord God.

9 And mine hand shall be vpon the Prophets that see vanity, and diuine lies: they shall not be in the assembly of my people, neither shall they be written in the booke of life, neither shall they enter into the land of Israel: and ye shall know that I am the Lord God.

10 And therefore, because they haue deceived my people, saying, Peace, and there was no peace: and one built vp a wall, and behold, the others daubed it with vntempered mortar, 11 Say vnto them which daube it with vntempered mortar, that it shall fall: for there shall come a great shewe: and I will send hailstones, which shall cause it to fall, and a storme winde shall breake it.

12 For, when the wall is fallen, shall it not be said vnto you, Where is the daubing wherewith ye haue daubed it?

13 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, I will cause a stormy winde to breake forth in my wrath, and a great shewe shall bee in mine anger, and hailstones in mine indignation to consume it.

14 So I will destroy the wall that ye haue daubed with vntempered mortar, and bring it downe to the ground, so that the foundation thereof shall be discovered, and it shall fall, and ye shall be consumed in the midst thereof, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

15 Thus will I accomplish my wrath vpon the wall, and vpon them that haue daubed it with vntempered mortar, and will say vnto you, The wall is no more, neither the daubers thereof, 16 To wit, the prophets of Israel, which prophesie vpon Ierusalem, and see visions of peace for it, and there is no peace, saith the Lord God.

17 Likewise thou son of man, let thy face against the daughters of thy people, which prophesie out of their owne heart: and prophesie thou against them, and say,

18 Thus saith the Lord God, Alas vnto the women that sowe pillows vnder all arme-holes, & make bails vpon the head of euery one that standeth vp to hunt soules: will ye hunt the soules of my people, and will ye giue life to the soules that come vnto you?

19 And will ye pollute me among my people for handfuls of barley, and for pieces of bread to slay the soules of them that should not die, and to giue life to the soules that should not liue, in lying to my people, that heare your lies?

20 Wherefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will haue to doe with your pillows, wherewith yee hunt the soules to make them to flee, and I will reare them from your armes, and will let the soules goe, even the soules, that yee hunt to make them to flee.

21 Your bails also will I teare, and deliver my people out of your hand, & they shall bee no more in your hands to bee hunted, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

22 Because with your lies yee haue made the heart of the righteous sad, whome I they should depart from the body. By threatening them that were godly, and vpholding the wicked.

That is, in the booke of life, wherein the true Israelites are written.

Read Ierem, 6. 14.

Whereas the true Prophets prophesied the destruction of the city to bring the people to repentance, the false prophets spake the contrary, and flattered them in their vanities, so that what one false prophet said, (which is here called the building of the wall) another false prophet would affirme though he had neither occasion nor good ground to beare him.

Whereby is meant what soeuer man of himselfe setteth forth vnder the authority of Gods word.

These superstitious women for lucre would prophesie, and tell euery man his fortune, giuing them pillows to leane vpon, and kerchiefs to couer their heads, to intent they might be the more allure them and bewitch them.

Will ye make my word to serue your bellies?

These forerers made the people beleeue that they could preserue life, or destroy it, & that it should come to euery one according as they prophesied.

That is, to cause them to perish, and that f Because they did not immediately see the prophesies accomplished, they contemned them, as though they should neuer be fulfilled. For, sake none off.

g That is, it shall not come to passe in our dayes, and therefore we care not for it: thus the wicked euer abuse Gods patience and benignitie.

4 The Lord sendeth false prophets for the ingratitude of the people, 22 He reuerfeth a small portion for his Church.

Then came certaine of the Elders of Israel vnto me, and late before me.

2 And the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

3 Sonne of man, these men haue set vp idoles in their heart, and put the stumbling blocke of their iniquitie before their face: should I, being required, answere them?

4 Therefore speake vnto them, and say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Every man of the house of Israel that setteth vp his idoles in his heart, and putteth the stumbling blocke of his iniquitie before his face, and commeth to the Prophet, I the Lord will answere him that commeth, according to the multitude of his idoles:

5 That I may take the house of Israel in their owne heart, because they are all separated from me through their idoles.

6 Therefore say vnto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God, Returne, and withdraw your selues, and turne your faces from your idoles, and turne your faces from all your abominations.

7 For every one of the house of Israel, or of the stranger that sojourneth in Israel, which departed from me, and setteth vp his idoles in his heart, and putteth the stumbling blocke of his iniquitie before his face, and commeth to a Prophet, for to inquire of him for mee, I the Lord will answere him for my selfe.

8 And I will set my face against that man, and will make him an example and prouerbe, and I will cut him off from the mids of my people, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

9 And if the Prophet be deceiued, when he hath spoken a thing, I the Lord haue deceiued that prophet, and I will stretch out mine hand vpon him, and will destroy him from the mids of my people of Israel.

10 And they shall beare their punishment, the punishment of the prophet shall be euen as the punishment of him that asketh:

11 That the house of Israel may goe no more astray from me, neither be polluted any more with all their transgressions, but that they may be my people, and I may be their God, sayth the Lord God.

13 Sonne of man, when the Lord stretcheth against me, by committing a trespass, then will I stretch out mine hand vpon it, and will breake the staffe of the bread thereof, and will send famine vpon it, and I will destroy man and beast forth of it.

14 Though these three men, Noah, Daniel, and Job were among them, they should deliuer but their owne soules by their righteousnesse, saith the Lord God.

15 If I bring noisome beasts into the land, and they spoile it, so that it be desolate, that no man may passe thorow, because of beasts, 16 Though these three men were in the mids thereof, as I liue, saith the Lord God, they shall saue neither sonnes nor daughters: they onely shall be deliuered, but the land shall be waste.

17 If I bring a sword vpon this land, and say, Sword, goe thorow the land, so that I destroy man and beast out of it, 18 Though these three men were in the mids thereof, as I liue, saith the Lord God, they shall deliuer neither sonnes nor daughters, but they onely shall be deliuered themselves.

19 If I send a pestilence into this land, and poure out my wrath vpon it in blood, to destroy out of it man and beast, 20 And though Noah, Daniel and Job were in the mids of it, as I liue, saith the Lord God, they shall deliuer neither sonne nor daughter: they shall but deliuer their owne soules by their righteousnesse.

21 For thus saith the Lord God, How much more when I send my foure sore iudgements vpon Ierusalem, euen the sword, and famine, and the noisome beast, and pestilence, to destroy man and beast out of it?

22 Yet behold, therein shall be left a remnant of them that shall be carried away, both sons and daughters: behold, they shall come forth vnto you, and ye shall see their way, and their enterpises: and ye shall be comforted, concerning the enill that I haue brought vpon Ierusalem, euen concerning all that I haue brought vpon it.

23 And they shall comfort you, when ye see their way and their enterpises, and ye shall know, that I haue not done without cause all that I haue done in it, saith the Lord God.

3 Shall wood be taken thereof to doe any worke? or will men take a pinne of it to hang any vessel thereon?

The Prophet declareth the benefits of God toward Ierusalem: 15 These vnkindnesse. 16 He iustifieth the wickednesse of other people in comparison of the sinnes of Ierusalem. 19 The cause of the abominations into which the Sodomites fell. 20 Meryu promised to the repentant.

Again the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying, a Thou boastest to be of the seed of Abraham, but thou art degenerate, and followest the abominations of the wicked Canaanites as children doe the manners of their fathers, Isa. 1. 4. and 57. 3.

b When I first brought thee out of Egypt, and planted thee in this land to be my Church, c Being thus in thy filthinesse & forsaken of all men, I toke thee and gaue thee life, whereby is ment that before God wash his Church, and giue life, there is nothing but filthinesse & death. d These words, as blood, pollution, nakednesse, & filthinesse, are oftentimes repeated, to beare downe their pride and to cause them to consider what they were before.

God receiued them to mercie, fauoured them, and covered their shame. e That thou shouldst be a chaste wife vnto me, and that I should maintaine thee and endue thee with all graces. f I washed away thy sinnes. g I sanctified thee with mine holy Spirit.

2 Sonne of man, cause Ierusalem to know her abominations,

3 And say, Thus saith the Lord God vnto Ierusalem, Thine habitation, & thy kinred is of the land of Canaan: thy father was an Amorite, and thy mother an Hittite.

4 And in thy nativitie when thou wast borne, thy nauill was not cut: thou wast not washed in water to soften thee: thou wast not salted with salt, nor swadled in clouts.

5 None eye pitied thee to doe any of these vnto thee, for to haue compassion vpon thee, but thou wast cast out in the open field, to the contempt of thy perion in the day that thou wast borne.

6 And when I passed by thee, I saw thee polluted in thine owne blood, & I said vnto thee, when thou wast in thy blood, Thou shalt liue: when thou wast in thy blood, I said vnto thee, Thou shalt liue.

7 I haue caused thee to multiplie, as the bud of the field, and thou hast increased and warren great, and thou hast gotten excellent ornaments: thy breasts are fashioned, thine haire is grown, whereas thou wast naked and bare.

8 Now when I passed by thee, and looked vpon thee, behold, thy time was the time of loue, and I spread my skirts ouer thee, and covered thy filthinesse: yea, I swore vnto thee, and entered into a covenant with thee, saith the Lord God, and thou becomest mine.

9 Then washed I thee with water: yea, I washed away thy blood from thee, and I anointed thee with oyle.

10 I clothed thee also with broyded worke, and shod thee with badgers skinner, and I girded thee about with fine linnen, and I covered thee with silke.

11 I decked thee also with ornaments, and I put bracelets vpon thine hands, and a chaine on thy necke.

12 And I put a frontlet vpon thy face, and earerings in thine eares, and a beautiful crowne vpon thine head.

13 Thus wast thou deckt with gold and silver, and thy raiment was of fine linnen, and silke and broyded worke: thou diddest eate fine flowre, and hony and oyle, and thou wast very beautifull, and thou diddest grow up into a kingdome.

14 And thy name was spread among the heathen for thy beautie: for it was perfect through thy beautie, which I had set vpon thee, saith the Lord God.

15 Now thou dost trust in thine owne beautie, and playedst the harlot, because of thy renowne, and hast powred out thy fornications on euery one that passed by, thy desire was to him.

16 And thou diddest take thy garments, and deckedst thine high places with diuers colours, and playedst the harlot thereupon: the like things shall not come, neither hath any done so.

17 Thou hast also taken thy faire jewels made of my gold and of my silver, which I had giuen thee, and made it to thy selfe images of them, and diddest commit whoredome with them.

18 And tookest thy broyded garments and coueredst them: and thou hast let mine oyle and my perfume before them.

19 My meate also which I gaue thee, as fine flour, oyle & hony wherewith I fed thee, thou hast euen set it before them for a sweet savour: thus it was, saith the Lord God.

20 Whereouer, thou hast taken thy ionnes and thy daughters, whom thou hast borne vnto mee, and these hast thou sacrificed vnto them, to bee deuoured: is this thy whoredome a small matter?

21 That thou hast slaine my children, and deliuered them to cause them to passe thorow fire for them?

22 And in all thine abominations and whoredomes, thou hast not remembered the dayes of thy youth, when thou wast naked, and bare, and wast polluted in thy blood.

23 And beside all thy wickednesse, (woe vnto thee, sayth the Lord God.)

24 Thou hast also built vnto thee an hie place, and hast made thee an hie place in ierury street.

25 Thou hast built thine hie place at euery corner of the way, and hast made thy beauty to bee abhorred: thou hast opened thy feet to euery one that passed by, and multiplied thy whoredome.

26 Thou hast also committed fornication with the Egyptians thy neighbours which haue great members, and hast increased thy whoredome to prouoke me.

27 Behold, therefore I did stretch out mine hand ouer thee, and will diminish thine ordinarie, and deliue thee vnto the will of them that hate thee, even to the daughters of the Ishiittins, which are ashamed of thy wicked way.

the Assyrians, because thou wast insatiable: yea, thou hast played the harlot with them, and yet couldest not be satisfied.

29 Thou hast moreover multiplied thy fornication from the land of Canaan unto Caldea, and yet thou wast not satisfied herewith.

30 How wake is thine heart, saith the Lord God, seeing thou dost all these things, even the worke of a presumptuous whoreson woman?

31 In that thou buildest thine high place in the corner of every way, and makest thine high place in every street, and hast not become as an harlot: that despiseth a reward,

32 But as a wife that playeth the harlot, and taketh others for her husband:

33 They giue gifts to all other whores, but thou giuest gifts vnto all thy louers, and rewardest them, that they may come vnto thee on every side for thy fornication.

34 And the contrary is in thee from other women in thy fornications, neither the like fornication shall be after thee: for in that thou giuest a reward, and no reward is giuen vnto thee, therefore thou art contrary.

35 Wherefore, O harlot, heare the word of the Lord.

36 Thus saith the Lord God, Because thy shame was powred out, and thy filthinesse discovered through thy fornications with thy louers, and with all the idols of thine abominations, and by the blood of thy children, which thou diddest offer vnto them,

37 Behold, therefore I will gather all thy louers, with whom thou hast taken pleasure, and all them that thou hast loued, with all them that thou hast hated: I will euē gather them round about against thee, and will discover thy filthinesse vnto them, that they may see all thy filthinesse.

38 And I will iudge thee after the manner of them that are harlots, and of them that shed blood, and I will giue thee the blood of warre and ielousie.

39 I will also giue thee into their hands, and they shall destroy thine high place, and shall breake downe thine high places: they shall stripe thee also out of thy clothes, & shall take thy faire iewels, & leaue thee naked and bare.

40 They shall also bring by a compaignie against thee, and they shall stone thee with stones, and thrust thee through with their swords.

41 And they shall burne by thine houses with fire, and execute iudgements vpon thee in the sight of many women: and I will cause thee to cease from playing the harlot, & thou shalt giue no reward any more.

42 So will I make my wrath toward thee to rest, and my ielousie shall depart from thee, and I will cease and bee no more angry.

43 Because thou hast not remembered the dayes of thy youth, but hast prouoked me with all these things, behold, therefore I also haue brought thy way vpon thine head, saith the Lord God: yet hast not thou had consideration of all thine abominations.

44 Behold, all that vse monerbs, shall vse this prouerbe against thee, saying, As is the mother, so is her daughter.

45 Thou art thy mothers daughter, that hath cast off her husband and her children, and thou art the sister of thy sisters, which forsooke their husbands and their children: your mother is an Hittite, and your father an Amorite.

46 And thine elder sister is Samaria, and her daughters, that dwell at thy left hand, and thy yonger sister that dwelleth at thy right hand is Sodom, and her daughters.

47 Yet hast thou not walked after their wayes, nor done after their abominations: but as it had bene a very little thing, thou wast corrupted more then they in all thy wayes.

48 As I liue, saith the Lord God, Sodom thy sister hath not done, neither shee nor her daughters, as thou hast done and thy daughters.

49 Behold, this was the iniquitie of thy sister Sodom, Pride, fulnesse of bread, and abundance of idleness was in her, and in her daughters: neither did shee strengthen the hand of the poore and needy.

50 But they were haughty, and committed abominations before mee: therefore I tooke them away, as pleased me.

51 Neither hath Samaria committed halfe of thy sinnes, but thou hast exceeded them in thine abominations, and hast iustified thy sisters in all thine abominations, which thou hast done.

52 Therefore thou which hast iustified thy sisters, beare thine owne shame for thy sinnes that thou hast committed more abominable then they which are more righteous then thou art: be thou therefore confounded also, and beare thy shame, seeing that thou hast iustified thy sisters.

53 Therefore I will bring againe their captiuitie with the captivity of Sodom, and her daughters, and with the captivity of Samaria, and her daughters: euē the captiuitie of thy captiues in the midst of them.

54 What thou mayest beare thine owne shame, and mayest be confounded in all that thou hast done, in that thou hast comforted them.

55 And thy sister Sodom and her daughters shall returne to thier former state: Samaria also and her daughters shall returne to their former state, when thou and thy daughters shall returne to your former state.

The parable of the two Eagles.

And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, put forth a parable, and speake a prouerbe vnto the house of Israel,

3 And say, Thus saith the Lord God, The great Eagle with great wings, and long wings, and full of feathers, which had diuers colours, came vnto Lebanon, and tooke the highest branch of the cedar,

4 And brake off the toppe of his twigge, and caried it into the land of merchants, and set it in the city of merchants.

5 He tooke also of the seed of the land, & planted it in a fruitful ground: he placed it by great waters, and set it as a willow tree.

6 And it budded up, and was like a spreading vine of low stature, whose branches turned toward it, and the rootes thereof were vnder it: so it became a vine, and it brought forth branches, and shot forth buds.

7 There was also another great Eagle with great wings, and many feathers, and behold, this vine did turne her rootes toward it, and spread forth her branches toward it, that shee might water it by the trenches of her plantation.

8 It was planted in a good soyle by great waters, that it should bring forth branches, and beare fruit, and bee an excellent vine.

9 Say thou, Thus saith the Lord God, Shall it prosper? Shall he not pull vp the rootes thereof, and destroy the fruit thereof, and cause them to dry? all the leaues of her bud shall wither without great power, or many people to plucke it vp by the rootes thereof.

10 Behold, it was planted: but shall it prosper? Shall it not be dried vp, and wither? when the East winde shall touch it, it shall wither in the trenches where it grew.

11 Whereouer the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

12 Say now to this rebellious house, Know ye not what these things meane? tell them, Behold, the king of Babel is come to Jerusalem, and hath taken the king thereof, and the princes thereof, and led them with him to Babel,

13 And hath taken one of the kings seed, and made a covenant with him, and hath taken an oath of him: he hath also taken the princes of the land,

14 That the kingdome might be in subjection, and not lift it selfe vp, but keepe their covenant, and stand to it.

15 But he rebelled against him and sent his Ambassadors into Egypt, that they might giue him horses, and much people: shall he prosper? shall he escape, that doth such things? or shall he breake the covenant, and be deliuered?

16 As I live, saith the Lord God, he shall die in the mids of Babel, in the place of the King, that had made him King, whose oath he despised, and whose covenant made with him, he brake.

17 Neither shall Pharaoh with his mighty host, and great multitude of people, maintaine him in the war, when they haue cast vp mounts, and builded ramparts to destroy many persons.

18 For he hath despised the oath and broken the covenant: (yet so, he had giuen his hand) because he hath done all these things, he shall not escape.

19 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, As I live, I will surely bring mine oath that he hath despised, and my covenant that hee hath broken, vpon his owne head.

20 And I will spread my net vpon him, and he shall be taken in my net, and I will bring him to Babel, & will enter into iudgement with him there for his trespass that he hath committed against me.

21 And all that flee from him with all his hoste, shall fall by the sword, and they that remaine, shall be scattered toward all the windes: and yee shall know that I the Lord haue spoken it.

22 Thus saith the Lord God, I will also take of the top of this high cedar, and will set it, and cut off the top of the tender plant thereof, and I will plant it vpon an high mountaine and great.

23 Euen in the high mountaine of Israel will I plant it: & it shall bring forth boughs and beare fruit, and bee an excellent cedar, and vnder it shall remaine all birds, and euery soule shall dwell in the shadow of the branches thereof.

24 And all the trees of the field shall know that I the Lord haue brought downe the high tree, and exalted the low tree: that I haue dried vp the Greene tree, and made the drie tree to flourish: I the Lord haue spoken it, and haue done it.

n This promise is made to the Church, which shall be as a small remnant, and as the top of a tree. o I will trimme it and dresse it. p Both the Iewes and Gentiles shall be gathered in to it.

q All the world shall know that I haue plucked downe the proud enemies, and set vp my Church which was low and contemned sinne. 21 To him that amendeth, is saluation promised. 24 Death is prophesied to the righteous, which turneth backe from the right way.

The word of the Lord came vnto mee againe, saying,

2 What meane yee that yee speake this prouerbe, concerning the land of Israel, saying, The fathers haue eaten sowre grapes, and the childrens teeth are set on edge?

3 As I liue, saith the Lord God, ye shall vse this prouerbe no more in Israel.

4 Behold, all soules are mine, both the soule of the father, and also the soule of the sonne are mine: the soule that sinneth, it shall die.

5 But if a man bee iust, and doe that which is lawfull and right,

6 And hath not eaten vpon the mountaines, neither hath lift vp his eyes to the idoles of the house of Israel, neither hath defiled his neighbours wife, neither hath liened with a menstruous woman,

7 Neither hath oppressed any, but hath restored the pledge to his debtour: hee that hath spoiled none by violence, but hath giuen his bread to the hungry, and hath couered the naked with a garment,

8 And hath not giuen foorth vpon vsurie, neither hath taken any increase, but hath withdrawen his hand from iniquitie, and hath executed true iudgment betwene man and man, 9 And hath walked in my statutes, and hath kept my iudgements to deale truly, he is iust, he shall surely liue, saith the Lord God.

10 If hee beget a sonne, that is a chiefe, or a shedder of blood, if he do any one of these things,

11 Though hee doe not all these things, but either hath eaten vpon the mountaines, or defiled his neighbours wife,

12 Or hath oppressed the poore and needy, or hath spoiled by violence, or hath not restored the pledge, or hath lift vp his eyes vnto the idoles, or hath committed abomination,

13 Or, hath giuen foorth vpon vsurie, or hath taken increase, shall he liue: he shall not liue: seeing he hath done all these abominations, he shall die the death, and his blood shall be vpon him.

14 But if he beget a sonne, that seeth all his fathers sinnes, which hee hath done, and feareth, neither doth such like,

15 That hath not eaten vpon the mountaines, neither hath lift vp his eyes to the idoles of the house of Israel, nor hath defiled his neighbours wife,

16 Neither hath oppressed any, nor hath withholden the pledge, neither hath spoiled by violence, but hath giuen his bread to the hungry, and hath couered the naked with a garment, 17 Neither hath withdrawen his hand from the afflicted, nor receiued vsurie nor increase, but hath executed my iudgements, and hath walked in my statutes, he shall not die in the iniquitie of his father, but he shall surely liue.

18 His father, because he cruelly oppressed and spoiled his brother by violence, and hath not done good among his people, loe, euen he dieth in his iniquitie.

19 Yet say yee, Wherefore shall not the sonne beare the iniquitie of the father? because the sonne hath executed iudgment and iustice, and hath kept all my statutes, and done them, he shall surely liue.

20 The same soule that sinneth, shall die: the sonne shall not beare the iniquitie of the father, neither shall the father beare the iniquitie of the sonne, but the righteousness of the righteous shall be vpon him, and the wickednes of the wicked shall be vpon himselfe.

21 But if the wicked will returne from all his sinnes that hee hath committed, and keepe all my statutes, and doe that which is lawfull and right, he shall surely liue, and shall not die.

22 All his transgressions that hee hath committed, they shall not be mentioned vnto him, but in his righteousness that he hath done, he shall liue.

23 Haue I any desire that the wicked should die, saith the Lord God? or shall he not liue, if he returne from his wayes?

24 But if the righteous turne away from his righteousness, and commit iniquitie, and doe according to all the abominations, that the wicked man doeth, shall hee liue? all his righteousness that hee hath done, shall not be mentioned: but in his transgression that he hath committed, and in his sin that he hath sinned, in them shall he die.

25 Yet yee say, The way of the Lord is not equal: heare now, O house of Israel. Is not my way equal? or are not your wayes vnequall?

26 For when a righteous man turneth away from his righteousness, and committeth iniquitie, he shall euen die for the same, he shall euen die for his iniquity that he hath done.

27 Again, when the wicked turneth away from his wickednes that he hath committed, and doth that which is lawfull and right, he shall saue his soule aloue.

28 Because hee considereth, and turneth away from all his transgressions that hee hath committed, he shall surely liue, and shall not die.

29 Yet saith the house of Israel, The way of the Lord is not equal. O house of Israel, are not my wayes equal? or are not your wayes vnequall?

30 Therefore I will iudge you, O house of Israel, every one according to his wayes, saith the Lord God: returne therefore & cause others to turne away from all your transgressions: so iniquitie shall not be your destruction.

31 Cast away from you all your transgressions, whereby yee haue transgressed, and make you a new heart and a new spirit: for why will ye die, O house of Israel?

32 For I desire not the death of him that dieth, saith the Lord God: cause therefore one another to returne, and liue yee.

CHAP. XX.

3 The Lord denieth that hee will answere them when they pray, because of their unkindnesse. 33 Hee promisth that his people shall returne from captivity. 46 By the forest that should bee burnt, is signified the burning of Ierusalem.

And in the seventh yeere, in the fift moneth, the tenth day of the moneth, came certaine of the Elders of Israel to enquire of the Lord, and saie before me.

2 Then came the word of the Lord vnto me, saying,

3 Sonne of man, speake vnto the Elders of Israel, and say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Are ye come to enquire of me? as I liue, saith the Lord God, when I am asked, I will not answere you.

4 Wilt thou iudge them, Sonne of man, wilt thou iudge them? cause them to understand the abominations of their fathers,

5 And say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, In the day when I chose Israel, and I lift vp mine hand vnto the seede of the house of Iacob, and made my selfe knowne vnto them in the land of Egypt, when I lift vp mine hand vnto them, and said, I am the Lord your God,

6 In the day that I lift vp mine hand vnto them to bring them forth of the land of Egypt, into a land that I had provided for them, flowing with milke and honey, which is pleasant among all lands,

7 Then said I vnto them, Let every man cast away the abominations of his eyes, and desile not your selues with the idoles of Egypt: for I am the Lord your God.

8 But they rebelled against me, & would not heare me: for none cast away the abominations of their eyes, neither did they forsake the idoles of Egypt: then I thought to powze out mine indignation vpon them, and to accomplish my wrath against them in the midst of the land of Egypt:

9 But I had respect to my Name, that it should not be polluted before the heathen, among whom they were, and in whose sight I made my selfe knowne vnto them in bringing them forth of the land of Egypt.

10 Now I caried them out of the land of Egypt, and brought them into the wilderness, 11 And I gaue them my statutes, and declared my iudgements vnto them, which if a man doe, he shall liue in them.

12 Moreover, I gaue them also my Sabbaths to be a signe betweene mee and them, that they might know that I am the Lord, that sanctifie them.

13 But the house of Israel rebelled against mee in the wilderness: they walked not in my statutes, and they cast away my iudgements, which if a man doe, he shall liue in them, and my Sabbaths haue they greatly polluted: then I thought to powze out mine indignation vpon them in the wilderness to consume them:

14 But I had respect to my Name, that it should not be polluted before the heathen, in whose sight I brought them out.

15 Yet neuertheless I lift vp mine hand vnto them in the wilderness, that I would not bring them into the lande, which I had giuen them, flowing with milke and honey, which was pleasant about all lands, 16 Because they cast away my iudgements, and walked not in my statutes, but haue polluted my Sabbaths: for their heart went after their idoles.

17 Therefore, mine eye spared them, that I would not destroy them, neither would I consume them in the wilderness.

18 But I said vnto their children in the wilderness, Make ye not in the ordinances thereby take an occasion to blaspheme my Name, and to accuse me of lacke of abilitie, or else that I had sought a means to destroy them more commodiously. h That is, my true religion, which I haue commanded them, and gaue themselves to serue mee, according to their owne fantasies.

b This declareth the great lenity and patience of God, which calleth sinners to repentance before hee condemne them, c I tware that I would be their God, which manner of othe was obserued from all antiquity, where they used to lift vp their hands toward heaven, acknowledging God to be the author of truth, and the defender thereof, and also the Iudge of the heart, wishing hee should take vengeance, if they concealed any thing which they knew to be truth.

d God had forbidden them to make mention of the idols, Exod. 34. 13. psa. 16. 4.

e Which thing declareth the wickednesse of mans heart, which iudge Gods seruice by their eyes and outward senses. f God had euer this respect to his glory, y he would not haue his Name euill spoken of among the Gentiles for the punishment that his people deserued, in confidence whereof the godly euer prayed, as Exod. 32. 12. numb. 14. 13. Leuit. 18. 5. rom. 10. 5. gal. 3. 12. Exod. 30. 8. and 31. 13. deus. 5. 12. Num. 14. 28. and 26. 65.

g Who might thereby take an occasion to blaspheme my Name, and to accuse me of lacke of abilitie, or else that I had sought a means to destroy them more commodiously. h That is, my true religion, which I haue commanded them, and gaue themselves to serue mee, according to their owne fantasies.

i Whereby the holy Ghost convince them that say that they will follow the religion & example of their fathers, and not measure their doings by Gods word, whether they be approveable thereby or no.

of your fathers, neither observe their manners, nor defile your selves with their idoles.

19 I am the Lord your God: walke in my statutes, and keepe my iudgements and doe them.

20 And sanctifie my Sabbaths, and they shall be a signe betwene me and you, that ye may know that I am the Lord your God.

21 Notwithstanding the children rebelled against mee: they walked not in my statutes, nor kept my iudgements to doe them, which if a man doe he shall live in them, but they polluted my Sabbaths: then I thought to powre out mine indignation upon them, and to accomplish my wrath against them in the wilderness.

22 Nevertheless I withdrew mine hand, and had respect to my Name, that it should not be polluted before the heathen, in whose sight I brought them forth.

23 Yet I lift up mine hand unto them in the wilderness, that I would scatter them among the heathen, & disperse them through the countries.

24 Because they had not executed my iudgements, but had cast away my statutes, and had polluted my Sabbaths, and their eyes were after their fathers idoles.

25 Wherefore I gave them also statutes, that were not good, and iudgements, where in they should not live.

26 And I polluted them in their owne gifts, in that they caused to passe by the fire all that first openeth the wombe, that I might destroy them, to the end that they might know that I am the Lord.

27 Therefore sonne of man, speake unto the house of Israel, & say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Yet in this your fathers have blasphemed me, though they had before grievously transgressed against me.

28 For when I had brought them into the land, for the which I lifted up mine hand to give it to them, then they saw every high hill, and all the thicke trees, and they offered there their sacrifices, and there they presented their offering of pronunciation: there also they made their sweet savour, and powred out there their drinke offerings.

29 Then I said unto them, What is the high place wherunto you go? and the name thereof was called Bamah unto this day.

30 Wherefore say unto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God, Are ye not polluted after the manner of your fathers? and commit ye not whoredome after their abominations?

31 For when you offer your gifts, & make your sonnes to passe through the fire, you pollute your selves with all your idoles unto this day: shall I and were you when I am asked, O house of Israel? As I live, sayeth the Lord God, I will not and were you when I am asked.

Which signifieth an high place, declaring that they wanted themselves of their idolatrie and were not ashamed thereof, though God had commanded them expressly that they should have no altar lifted up on high by staires, Exod. 20. 26. † Ebr. in the way. p Hee sheweth that the ingratitude of the people deserteth that God should cut them off, and that they should not have the comfort of his word.

32 Neither shall that be done that cometh into your minde: for ye say, We will be as the heathen, and as the families of the countreys, and serue wood and stone.

33 As I live, saith the Lord God, I will surely rule you with a mighty hand, and with a stretched out arme, and in my wrath powred out.

34 And will bring you from the people, and will gather you out of the countreys, wherein ye are scattered, with a mighty hand, and with a stretched out arme, and in my wrath powred out.

35 And I will bring you into the wilderness of the people, and there will I plead with you face to face.

36 Like as I pleaded with your fathers in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so will I plead with you, saith the Lord God.

37 And I will cause you to passe vnder the rod, and will bring you into the bond of the covenant.

38 And I will chuse out from among you the rebels, and them that transgress against me: I will bring them out of the land where they dwell, and they shall not enter into the land of Israel, and you shall know that I am the Lord.

39 As for you, O house of Israel, thus saith the Lord God, Go ye, and serue every one his idole, seeing that ye will not obey mee, and pollute mine holy Name no more with your gifts and with your idoles.

40 For in mine holy mountaine, even in the high mountaine of Israel, saith the Lord God, there shall all the house of Israel, and all in the land serue me: there will I accept them, and there will I require your offerings and the first fruites of your oblations, with all your holy things.

41 I will accept your sweet savour, when I bring you from the people, and gather you out of the countreys, wherein ye have beene scattered, that I may be sanctified in you before the heathen.

42 And ye shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall bring you into the land of Israel, into the land, for the which I lifted up mine hand to give it to your fathers.

43 And there shall ye remember your wayes, and all your works wherein ye have beene defiled, and ye shall iudge your selves worthy to be cut off, for all your evils that ye have committed.

44 And ye shall know that I am the Lord, when I have respect unto you for my Names sake, and not after your wicked wayes, nor according to your corrupt works, O ye house of Israel, saith the Lord God.

45 Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

46 Some of man, set thy face toward the way of Teman, and drop thy word toward the South, and prophesie toward the forest of the field of the South,

47 And say to the forest of the South, Heare the word of the Lord: thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will kindle a fire in thee, & it shall deuoure all the greene wood in thee, and all the drye wood: the continuall flame shall not be quenched, and every face

3 He threatneth the sword and destruction to Ierusalem. 25 He sheweth the fall of King Zedekiah. 28 He is commanded to prophesie the destruction of the children of Ammon. 30 The Lord threatneth to destroy Nebuchad-nezzar.

The word of the Lord came to me againe, saying,

2 Sonne of man, set thy face toward Ierusalem, and drop thy word toward the holy places, and prophesie against the land of Israel,

3 And say to the land of Israel, Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I come against thee, and will draw my sword out of his sheath, and cut off from thee both the righteous and the wicked.

4 Seeing then that I will cut off from thee both the righteous and wicked, therefore shall my sword goe out of his sheath against all flesh from the South to the North,

5 That all flesh may know that I the Lord haue drawn my sword out of his sheath, and it shall not returne any more.

6 Mourne therefore, thou sonne of man, as in the paine of thy reines, and mourne bitterly before them.

7 And if they say vnto thee, Wherefore mournest thou? then answer, Because of the bruit: for it cometh, and every heart shall melt, and all hands shall be weak, and all minds shall faint, and all knees shall fall away as water: behold, it cometh, and shall be done, saith the Lord God.

8 Again, the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

9 Sonne of man, prophesie, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, Say, A sword, a sword, both sharpe and furbished.

10 It is sharpened to make a sore slaughter, and it is furbished that it may glitter: how shall we reioyce? for it concerneth the rod of my sonne, as all other trees.

11 And hee hath giuen it to bee furbished, that he may handle it: this sword is sharpe, and is furbished, that he may giue it into the hand of the slayer.

12 Cry, and howle, sonne of man: for this shall come to my people, and it shall come vnto all the Princes of Israel: the terrors of the sword shall bee vpon my people: since therefore vpon thy thigh.

13 For it is a reftall, and what shall this be, if the sword continue such the rod? It shall be no more, saith the Lord God.

14 Thou therefore, sonne of man, prophesie, and smite hand to hand, & let the sword bee doubled: let the sword that hath killed, returne the third time: it is the sword of the great slaughter entering into their priuite chambers.

15 I haue brought the feare of the sword into all their gates to make their heart to faint, and to multiply their rutnes. Ah it is made bright, and it is dressed for the slaughter.

16 Get thee alone: go to the right hand, or get thy selfe to the left hand, whither soeuer thy face turneth.

17 I will also smite mine hands together, and will cause my wrath to cease. I the Lord haue said it.

18 The word of the Lord came vnto me againe, saying,

19 Also thou sonne of man, appoint thee two waies, that the word of the King of Babel may come: both waies shall come out of one land, and chuse a place, and chuse it in the corner of the way of the citie.

20 Appoint a way, that the sword may come to Rabbath of the Ammonites, and to Iudah in Ierusalem the strong citie.

21 And the King of Babel stood at the parting of the way, at the head of the two waies, consulting by divination, and made his arrowes bright: he consulted with idols and looked in the liuer.

22 At his right hand was the divination for Ierusalem to appoint captaines, to open their mouth in the slaughter, and to lift up their voyce with shouting, to lay engines of warre against the gates, to cast a mount, and to build a fortress.

23 And it shall bee vnto them as a false divination in their sight for the othes made vnto them: but he will call to remembrance their iniquitie, to the intent they should bee taken.

24 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because yee haue made your iniquity to bee remembered, in discovering your rebellion, that in all your works your sinnes might appeare: because, I say, that yee are come to remembrance, ye shall be taken with the hand.

25 And thou Prince of Israel polluted, and wicked, whose day is come, when iniquitie shall haue an end, 26 Thus saith the Lord God, I will take away the diademe, and take off the crowne: this shall be no more the same: I will exalt the humble, and will abase him that is high.

27 I will ouerturne, ouerturne, ouerturne it, and it shall bee no more vntill hee come whose right it is, and I will giue it him.

28 And thou sonne of man, prophesie, and say, Thus saith the Lord God to the children of Ammon, and to their blasphemie: say thou, I say, The sword, the sword is drawn forth, and furbished to the slaughter to consume, because of the glittering:

29 Whiles they see banish vnto thee, as I did with the Egyptians to make himselfe big, & able to resist the Babylonians, & some referre this to the Priests attire: for Iehozadak the Priest went into captivity with the King. y That is, vnto the coming of Messiah: for though the Iewes had some signe of gouernement after ward vnder the Persians, Greeks, & Romanes, yet this restitution was not till Christs coming, and at length should be accomplished, as was promised, Gen. 49. 10. z Though the Iewes and Ammonites would not believe, that thou, to wit, the sword, shouldst come vpon them, and said that the Prophets which threatened, spake lies, yet thou shalt as surely come, as though thou werest already vpon their neckes.

n Provide for thy selfe: for thou shalt see Gods plague on all parts of this countrey.

o This was spoken because that when Nebuchad-nezzar came against Iudah, his purpose was also to goe against the Ammonites: but doubting in the way, which enterprise to undertake first, he consulted with his soothsayers, and so went against Iudah, p That is, to the tribe of Iudah, that kept themselves in Ierusalem.

q To knowe whether hee should goe against the Ammonites, or them of Ierusalem, r Heeved conuincing and sorcerie.

s Because there was a league between the Iewes and the Babylonians, they of Ierusalem shall thinke nothing lesse then that this thing should come to passe.

t That is, Nebuchad nezzar will remember the rebellion of Zedekiah, and so come vpon them.

u Meaning, Zedekiah, who pra-and prophesied a lie vnto thee, to bring thee vpon the necks of the wicked that are slaine, whose day is come when their iniquity shall haue an end.

30 Shall I cause it to returne into his sheath? I will iudge thee in the place where thou wast created, euen in the land of thine habitation.

31 And I will powre out mine indignation vpon thee, and will blow against thee in the fire of my wrath, and deliuer thee into the hand of brasie men, and skilfull to destroy.

32 Thou shalt be in the fire to be deuoured: thy blood shall be in the middes of the land, and thou shalt be no more remembered: for I the Lord haue spoken it.

CHAP. XXII.

1 Ierusalem is reproofed for crueltie. 25 Of the wicked doctrine of the false prophets and priests, and of their vnassable couetousnesse. 27 The tyrannie of rulers. 29 The wickednesse of the people.

Moreover, the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Now thou sonne of man, wilt thou iudge, wilt thou iudge this bloody citie? wilt thou shew her all her abominations?

3 Then say, Thus saith the Lord God, The city sheddeth blood in the mids of it, that her time may come, and maketh idols against her selfe to pollute her selfe.

4 Thou hast offended in thy blood, that thou hast shed, and hast polluted thy selfe in thine idols, which thou hast made, and thou hast caused thy dayes to drave neere, and art come vnto thy terme: therefore haue I made thee a reproch to the heathen, and a mocking to all countreys.

5 Those that be neere, and those that be farre from thee, shall mocke thee, which are vile in name, and sore in affliction.

6 Beholde, the princes of Israel euery one in thee was ready to his power to shed blood.

7 In thee haue they despised father and mother: in the mids of thee haue they oppressed the stranger: in thee haue they veried the fatherlesse and the widow.

8 Thou hast despised mine holy things, and hast polluted my Sabbaths.

9 In thee are men that carry tales to shed blood: in thee are they that eate vpon the mountaines: in the mids of thee they commit abomination.

10 In thee haue they discovered their fathers shame: in thee haue they veried her that was polluted in her floures.

11 And euery one hath committed abomination with his neighbours wife, and euery one hath wickedly defiled his daughter in law, and in thee hath euery man forced his owne sister, euen his fathers daughter.

12 In thee haue they taken gifts to shed blood: thou hast taken vsurie & the increase, and thou hast defrauded thy neighbours by extortion, and hast forgotten me, saith the Lord God.

13 Behold, therefore haue I smitten mine hands vpon thy couetousnesse, that thou hast seld, and vpon the blood, which hath bene in the mids of thee.

14 Can thine heart endure, or can thine hands be strong in the dayes that I shall haue to doe with thee? I the Lord haue spoken it, and will doe it.

15 And I will scatter thee among the heathen, and disperse thee in the countreys, and will cause thy filthinesse to cease from thee.

16 And thou shalt take thine inheritance in thy selfe in the sight of the heathen, and thou shalt know that I am the Lord.

17 And the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

18 Sonne of man, the house of Israel is vnto me as dross: all they are brasie, and tinne, and yron, and lead in the middes of the fornace: they are euen the dross of siluer.

19 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because yee are all as dross, behold, therefore I will gather you in the mids of Ierusalem.

20 As they gather siluer and brasie, and yron, and lead, and tinne into the middes of the fornace, to blow the fire vpon it to melt it, so will I gather you in mine anger and in my wrath, and will put you there and melt you.

21 I will gather you, I say, and blow the fire of my wrath vpon you, and you shall bee melted in the mids thereof.

22 As siluer is melted in the mids of the fornace, so shall yee be melted in the middes thereof, and yee shall know that I the Lord haue powred out my wrath vpon you.

23 And the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

24 Sonne of man, say vnto her, Thou art the land that is vnclane, and not rained vpon in the day of wrath.

25 There is a conspiracie of her prophets in the mids thereof like a roaring lion, rauening the pray: they haue deuoured soules: they haue taken the riches and precious things: they haue made her many widowes in the mids thereof.

26 Her priests haue broken my Law, and haue defiled mine holy things: they haue put no difference betwene the holy & prophane, neither discerned betwene the vnclane and the cleane, and haue hid their eyes from my Sabbaths, and I am prophaned among them.

27 Her princes in the mids thereof, are like wolues, rauening the pray to shed blood, and to destroy soules for their own couetous lucre.

28 And her prophets haue dawbed them with vntempered mortar, seeing vanities, and diuining lies vnto them, saying, Thus saith the Lord God, when the Lord had not spoken.

29 The people of the land haue violently oppressed by spoyling and robbing, and haue veried the poore and the needie: yea, they haue oppressed the stranger against sight.

30 And I sought for a man among them that should make up the hedge, and stand in

CHAP. XXIII.

Of the idolatry of Samaria and Ierusalem, vnder the names of Aholah and Aholibah.

The word of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, there were two women, the daughters of one mother,

3 And they committed fornication in Egypt, they committed fornication in their youth: there were their breasts pleased, and there they bruised the teats of their virginities.

4 And the names of them were Aholah the elder, and Aholibah her sister: and they were mine, and they bare sonnes and daughters: thus were their names: Samaria is Aholah, and Ierusalem Aholibah.

5 And Aholah played the harlot when she was mine, and she was set on fire with her louers, to wit, with the Assyrians her neighbours,

6 Which were clothed with blew silke, both captaines and princes: they were all pleasant yong men, and horsemen riding vpon horses.

7 Thus she committed her whoredome with them, even with all them that were the chosen men of Albur, and with all on whom she doted, and defiled her selfe with all their idoles.

8 Neither left she her fornications, learned of the Egyptians: for in her youth they lay with her, and they bruised the breasts of her virginities, and powred their whoredome vpon her.

9 Therefore I deliuered her into the hands of her louers, even into the hands of the Assyrians, vpon whom she doted.

10 These discovered her shame: they tooke away her sonnes and her daughters, and slew her with the sword, and she had an euill name among women: for they had executed iudgement vpon her.

11 And when her sister Aholibah sawe this, shee marred her selfe with inordinate loue, more then shee, and with her fornications more then her sister with her fornications.

12 Shee doated vpon the Assyrians her neighbours, both captaines and princes clothed with diuers futes, horsemen riding vpon horses: they were all pleasant young men.

13 Then I saw that she was defiled, and that they were both after one sort,

14 And that she increased her fornications: for when shee sawe men painted vpon the wall, the images of the Caldeans painted with vermillion,

15 And girded with girdles vpon their loynes, and with dyed attire vpon their heads, looking all like princes after the manner of the Babylonians in Caldea, the land of their nativite.)

16 Alsoone, I say, as she saw them, she doted vpon them, and sent messengers vnto them into Caldea.

17 Now when the Babylonians came to her into the bed of loue, they defiled her with their fornication, and shee was polluted with them: and her lust departed from them.

18 So shee discovered her fornication, and disclosed her shame: then mine heart forsooke her, like as mine heart had forsaken her sister.

19 Yet she increased her whoredome more, and called to remembrance the dayes of her youth, wherein she had played the harlot in the land of Egypt.

20 For shee doated vpon their seruantes, whose members are as the members of asses, and whose issue is like the issue of horses.

21 Thou calledst to remembrance the wickednesse of thy youth, when thy teates were bruised by the Egyptians: therefore the payes of thy youth are thus.

22 Therefore, O Aholibah, thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will raise vp thy louers against thee, from whom thine heart is departed, and I wil bring them against thee on every side, 23 To wit, the Babylonians, and all the Caldeans, ^hPecked, and Soah, and Roa, and all the Assyrians with them: they were all pleasant yong men, captains and princes: all they were valliant and renowned, riding vpon horses.

24 Euen these shall come against thee with charrets, wagons and wheels, and with a multitude of people, which shall set against thee buckler, and shield, and helmet round about: and I will leane the punishment vnto them, and they shall iudge thee according to their iudgements.

25 And I will lay mine indignation vpon thee, and they shall deale cruelly with thee: they shall cut off thy nose and thine eares, & thy remnant shall fall by the sword: they shall carie away thy sonnes and thy daughters, and thy residue shall be deuoured by the fire.

26 They shall also strypp thee out of thy clothes, and take away thy faire itewels.

27 Thus will I make thy wickednesse to cease from thee, and thy fornication out of the land of Egypt: so that thou shalt not lift vp thine eyes vnto them, nor remember Egypt any more.

28 For thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will deliuer thee into the hand of them, whom thou hatest: euen into the hands of them from whom thine heart is departed.

29 And they shall handle thee despitefully, and shall take away all thy labour, and shall leane thee naked and bare, and the shame of thy fornications shall be discovered, both thy wickednes and thy whoredome.

30 I will doe these things vnto thee, because thou hast gone a whooring after the heathen, and because thou art polluted with their idoles.

31 Thou hast walked in the way of thy sister: therefore will I giue her cup into thyne hand.

ⁱ They shall destroy thy princes and priests with the rest of thy people.

^k All thy treasures and riches which thou hast gotten by labors.

^m I will execute the same iudgements and vengeance against thee, & that with greater severity.

32 Thus

^a Meaning Israel & Iudah, which came both out of one family.

^b They became idolaters after the manner of the Egyptians.

^c Aholah signifieth a mansion or dwelling in herselfe, meaning Samaria which was the royall city of Israel. And Aholibah signifieth my mansion in her, wherby is meant Ierusalem where Gods Temple was.

^d When the Israelites were named the people of God, they became idolaters, and forsooke God, and put their trust in the Assyrians.

^e The holy ghost vseth these termes which seeme strange to chaste eares, to cause this wicked vice of idolatry so to be abhorred, that vnneth any should abide to heare the name thereof mentioned.

^f Meaning, the Assyrians.

^g This declareth that no words are able sufficiently to expresse the rage of idolaters, & therefore holy Ghost there compareth the to those which in their raging loue and filthy lusts doted vpon images & paintings of them after whom they lust.

32 Thus saith the Lord God, Thou shalt drinke of thy sisters cup, deepe & large: thou shalt be laughed to scorne and had in derision, because it containeth much.

33 Thou shalt be filled with drunkennes and sorow, even with the cup of destruction and desolation, with the cup of thy sister Samaria.

34 Thou shalt even drinke it, and wring it out to the dregges, and thou shalt breake the sheards thereof, and teare thine owne breastes: for I haue spoken it, saith the Lord God.

35 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because thou hast forgotten mee, and cast mee behinde thy backe, therefore thou shalt also heare thy wickednesse and thy whoredome.

36 The Lord said moreover vnto mee, Sonne of man, wilt thou iudge Aholah, and Aholibah? and wilt thou declare to them their abominations?

37 For they haue played the whores, and blood is in their hands, and with their idoles haue they committed adulterie, and haue also caused their sonnes, whom they bare vnto me, to passe by the fire to be their meat.

38 Moreover, thus haue they done vnto me: they haue defiled my Sanctuary in the same day, and haue prophaned my Sabbarhs.

39 For when they had slaine their children to their idoles, they came the same day into my Sanctuary to defile it: and lo, thus haue they done in the mids of mine house.

40 And how much more is it that they sent for men to come from far, vnto whom a messenger was sent, and loe, they came? for whom thou diddest wash thy selfe, and paintedst thine eyes, and deckedst thee with ornaments.

41 And latest vpon a costly bed, and a table prepared before it, wherupon thou hast set mine incense, and mine oyle.

42 And a voyce of a multitude being at ease, was with her: & with the men to make the company great, were brought men of Saba from the wilderness, which put bracelets vpon their hands, & beautifull crownes vpon their heads.

43 Then I said vnto her that was old in adulteries, Now shall shee and her fornications come to an end.

44 And they went in vnto her as they go to a common harlot: so went they to Aholah and Aholibah the wicked women.

45 And the righteous men they shal iudge them, after the manner of harlots, and after the manner of murderers: for they are harlots: and blood is in their hands.

46 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, I will bring a multitude vpon them, and will giue them vnto the tumult, and to the spoyle.

47 And the multitude shall stone them with stones, & cut them with their swordes: they shall slay their sonnes and their daughters, and burne by their houses with fire.

48 Thus will I cause wickednes to cease out of the land, that all women may bee taught, not to doe after your wickednesse.

49 And they shall lay your wickednesse vpon you, and yet shall heare the finnes of your idoles, and yet shall know that I am the Lord God.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 He sheweth the destruction of Ierusalem by a parable of a seething pot. 16 The parable of Ezekiels wife being dead.

1 Aaine in the ninth yeere, in the tenth moneth, in the tenth day of the moneth came the word of the Lord vnto mee, saying,

2 Sonne of man, write thee the name of the day, even of this same day: for the King of Babel set himself against Ierusalem this same day.

3 Therefore speake a parable vnto the rebellious house, and say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Prepare a pot, prepare it, and also putte water into it.

4 Gather the peeces thereof into it, euen every good peece, as the thigh and the shoulde, and fill it with the chiefe bones.

5 Take one of the best sheep, and burne also the bones vnder it, and make it boyle well, and seethe the bones of it therein.

6 Because the Lord God saith thus, Alas to the bloody citie, euen to the pot, whose scumme is therein, and whose scumme is not gone out of it: bring it out peece by peece: let no lot fall vpon it.

7 For her blood is in the mids of her: she set it vpon an high rocke, and powred it not vpon the ground to coner it with dust,

8 That it might cause wrath to arise, and take vengeance: euen I haue set her blood vpon an high rocke that it should not be couered.

9 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Alas to the bloody citie, for I will make the burning great.

10 Heape on much wood: kindle the fire, consume the flesh, and cast in spice, and let the bones be burnt.

11 Then let it emptie vpon the coales thereof, that the brasie of it may be hot, and may burne, and that the filthinesse of it may be molten in it, and that the scum of it may be consumed.

12 She hath wearied her selfe with lies, and her great scumme went not out of her: therefore her scumme shall be consumed with fire.

13 Thou remainest in thy filthines and wickednesse: because I would haue purged thee, and thou wast not purged, thou shalt not be purged from thy filthinesse, til I haue caused my wrath to light vpon thee.

14 I the Lord haue spoken it: it shal come to passe, and I will doe it: I will not goe backe, neither will I spare, neither will I repent: according to thy wayes, and according to thy workes shall they iudge thee, saith the Lord God.

16 Some of man, behold, I take away from thee the pleasure of thine eyes with a plague: yet shalt thou neither mourne nor weep, neither shall thy teares ruine thee downe.

17 Cease from sighing: make no mourning for the dead, and binde the type of thine head upon thee, and put on thy shoes upon thy feet, and cover not thy lips, and eat, and not the bread of men.

18 So I spake unto the people in the morning, and at even my wife did: and I did in the morning, as I was commanded.

19 And the people sayd unto mee, Wilt thou not tell vs what these things meane toward vs, that thou doest for?

20 Then I answered them, The word of the Lord came unto me, saying, 21 Speak unto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will pollute my Sanctuary, even the pride of your power, the pleasure of your eyes, and your hearts desire, and your sonnes, and your daughters whom ye have left, that fall by the sword.

22 And ye shall doe as I have done: ye shall not cover your lips, neither shall ye eat the bread of men.

23 And your type shall be upon your heads, and your shoes upon your feet: ye shall not mourne nor weep, but ye shall pine away for your iniquities, and mourne one toward another.

27 In that day shall thy mouth be opened to him which is escaped, & thou shalt speake and be no more dumb, and thou shalt be a signe unto them, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXV.

1 The word of the Lord against Ammon, which rejoiced at the fall of Ierusalem: 8 Against Moab and Seir, Idumea, and the Philistines.

The word of the Lord came againe unto me, saying,

2 Some of man, set thy face against the Ammonites, and prophesie against them,

3 And say unto the Ammonites, Heare the word of the Lord God, Thus saith the Lord God, Because thou saidst, Wa, ha, against my Sanctuary, when it was polluted, and against the land of Israel, when it was desolate, and against the house of Iudah when they went into captivity,

4 Behold, therefore I will destitute thee to the men of the East for a possession, and they shall set their palaces in thee, and make their dwellings in thee: they shall eat thy fruit, and they shall drinke thy milke.

5 And I will make Rabbah a dwelling place for camels, and the Ammonites a sheepe coat, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

6 For thus saith the Lord God, Because thou hast clapped the hands, and stamped with the feet, and rejoiced in heart with all thy despite against the land of Israel,

7 Behold, therefore I will stretch out mine hand upon thee, and will destitute thee to be spoiled of the heathen, and I will roote thee out from the people, and I will cause thee to be destroyed out of thy countrey, and I will destroy thee, and thou shalt know that I am the Lord.

8 Thus saith the Lord God, Because that Moab and Seir do say, Behold, the house of Iudah is like unto all the heathen, 9 Therefore behold, I will open the side of Moab, even of the cities of his cities, I say, in his frontiers with the pleasant countrey Beth-jeshmeth, Baal-meon, and Kir-athaim.

10 I will call the men of the East against the Ammonites, and will give them in possession, so that the Ammonites shall no more be remembered among the nations, 11 And I will execute iudgements upon Moab, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

12 Thus saith the Lord God, Because that Edom hath done evil by taking vengeance upon the house of Iudah, and hath committed great offence, and revenged himselfe upon them, 13 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, I will also stretch out mine hand upon Edom, and destroy man and beast out of it, and I will make it desolate from Teman, and they of Dedan shall fall by the sword.

14 And I will execute my vengeance upon Edom, by the hand of my people Israel, and they shall do in Edom according to mine anger, and according to mine indignation, and they shall know my vengeance, saith the Lord God.

15 Thus saith the Lord God, Because the Philistines have executed vengeance, and revenged themselves with a despitefull heart, to destroy it for the old hatred, 16 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will stretch out mine hand upon the Philistines, and I will cut off the Cherethims, and destroy the remnant of the sea coast.

17 And I will execute great vengeance upon them with rebukes of mine indignation, and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall lay my vengeance upon them.

g The gouernours and rulers of other countreys that dwell by the sea, whereby he signifieth, that her destruction should be so horrible, that all the world should heare thereof, and be afraid.

And in the eleuenth yeere, in the first day of the moneth, the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, because that Tyrus hath said against Ierusalem, Aha, the gate of the people is broken: it is turned vnto me: for seeing thee is desolate, I shall be replenished,

3 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against thee, O Tyrus, and I will bring vp many nations against thee, as the Sea mounteth vp with his waues.

4 And they shall destroy the walles of Tyrus, and breake downe her towers: I will also scrape her dust from her, and make her like the top of a rocke.

5 Thou shalt be for the spreading of nets in the mids of the sea: for I haue spoken it, saith the Lord God, and it shall be a spoile to the nations.

6 And her daughters which are in the field, shall bee slaine by the sword, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

7 For thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will bring vpon Tyrus Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel, a King of Kings, from the North, with horses and with chariots, and with horsemen, with a multitude and much people.

8 He shall slay with the sword thy daughters in the field, and hee shall make a fort against thee, and cast a mount against thee, and lift vp the buckler against thee.

9 He shall set engines of warre before him against thy walles, and with his weapons breake downe thy towers.

10 The dust of his horses shall couer thee for their multitude: thy walles shall shake at the noise of the horsemen, and of the wheelles, and of the chariots, when hee shall enter into thy gates, as into the entry of a citie that is broken downe.

11 With the hooves of his horses shall he tread downe all thy streets: he shall slay thy people by the sword, and the pillars of thy strength shall fall downe to the ground.

12 And they shall robbe thy riches, and spoyle thy merchandise, and they shall breake downe thy walles, and destroy thy pleasant houses, and they shall cast thy stones, and thy timber, and thy dust into the middes of the water.

13 Thus will I cause the sound of thy songs to cease, and the sound of thine harpes shall be no more heard.

14 I will lay thee vpon the top of a rocke: thou shalt be for a spreading of nets: thou shalt bee built no more, for I the Lord haue spoken it, saith the Lord God.

15 Thus saith the Lord God to Tyrus, Shall not the Isles tremble at the sound of thy fall, and at the cry of the wounded, when they shall be slaine and murdered in the mids of thee?

16 Then all the princes of the sea shall come downe from their thrones: they shall lay away their robes, and put off their broidered garments, and shall clothe themselves with astonishment: they shall sit vpon the ground, and be astonished at euery moment, and be amazed at thee.

garments, and shall clothe themselves with astonishment: they shall sit vpon the ground, and be astonished at euery moment, and be amazed at thee.

17 And they shall take vp a lamentation for thee, and say to thee, How art thou destroyed, that wast inhabited of the sea men, the renowned citie which was strong in the sea, both thee and her inhabitants, which cause their feare to bee on all that haunt therein.

18 Now shall the Isles be astonished in the day of thy fall: yea, the Isles that are in the sea, shall be troubled at thy departure.

19 For thus saith the Lord God, When I shall make thee a desolate citie, like the citie that are not inhabited, and when I shall bring the deepe vpon thee, and great waters shall couer thee, 20 When I shall cast thee downe with them that descend into the pit, with the people of olde time, and shall set thee in the low parts of the earth, like the olde ruines, with them, I say, which go downe to the pit, so that thou shalt not be inhabited, and I shall shew my glory in the land of the liuing.

21 I will bring thee to nothing, and thou shalt be no more: though thou be sought for, yet shalt thou neuer bee found againe, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXVII.

2 Sonne of man, take vp a lamentation for Tyrus,

3 And say vnto Tyrus, that is situate at the entrie of the Sea, which is the mart of the people for many Isles, Thus saith the Lord God, O Tyrus, thou hast said, I am of perfect beautie.

4 Thy borders are in the mids of the sea, and thy builders haue made thee of perfect beautie.

5 They haue made all thy ship boards of firre trees of Shennir: they haue brought cedars from Lebanon, to make masts for thee.

6 Of the oakes of Bashan haue they made thine oares: the company of the Assyrians haue made thy banks of purple, brought out of the Isles of Chittim.

7 Fine linnen with broidered worke, brought from Egypt, was spread out thee; to bee thy saille, blue filke and purple brought from the Isles of Elithah, was thy covering.

8 The inhabitants of Sidon and Arvad were thy Mariners, O Tyrus: thy wise men that were in thee, they were thy pilots.

9 The ancients of Gebal, and the wise men thereof were in thee thy calkers: all the ships of the sea with their mariners were in thee to occupie thy merchandise.

11 The men of Arwad with thine arme were vpon thy walles round about, and the Samnadians were in thy towers: they hanged their shields vpon thy walles round about: they haue made thy beautie perfitte.

12 They of Earshish were thy merchants for the multitude of al riches, for siluer, yron, tinne, and leade, which they brought to thy sayres.

13 They of Iauan, Tubal and Meshech were thy merchants, concerning the liues of men, and they brought vessels of brasle for thy merchandise.

14 They of the house of Togarmah brought to thy faires horses, and horsemen, and mules.

15 The men of Dedan were thy merchants: and the merchandise of many yles were in thine hands: they brought thee for a present, hornes, teeth, and peacocks.

16 They of Aram were thy merchants for the multitude of thy wares: they occupied in thy faires with emerauds, purple, and broidered worke, and fine linnen, and corall, and pearle.

17 They of Iudah and of the land of Israel were thy merchants: they brought for thy merchandise wheate of Minich, and Pannag, and hony, and oyle, and balme.

18 They of Damascus were thy merchants in the multitude of thy wares, for thy multitude of all riches, as in the wine of Helbon, and white wooll.

19 They of Dan also and of Iauan, going to and fro, occupied with thy faires: yron, worke, cassia and calamus were among thy merchandise.

20 They of Dedan were thy merchants in precious clothes for the charets.

21 They of Arabia, and all the princes of Redar occupied with thee in lammes, and rammes, and goats: in these were they thy merchants.

22 The merchants of Sheba, and Raamah were thy merchants: they occupied in thy faires with the chiefe of all spices, and with all precious stones and gold.

23 They of Haran and Canneh, and Eden, the merchants of Sheba, Asshur, and Chilmad were thy merchants.

24 These were thy merchants in all sorts of things, in raiment of blue silke, and of broidered worke, and in coffers for the rich apparell, which were bound with cordes: chaines also were among thy merchandise.

25 The ships of Earshish were thy chiefe in thy merchandise, and thou wast replenished, and made very glorious in the mids of the sea.

26 Thy robbers haue brought thee into great waters: the East winde hath broken thee in the mids of the sea.

27 Thy riches and thy faires, thy merchandise, thy mariners and pilots, thy calkers, and the occupiers of thy merchandise, and all thy men of warre that are in thee and all thy multitude which is in the mids of thee, shall fall in the mids of the sea, in the day of thy ruine.

28 The suburbs shall shake at the sound of the cry of thy pilots.

29 And all that handle the oare, the mariners and all the pilots of the sea shall come downe from their ships, and shall stand vpon the land,

30 And shall cause their voice to be heard against thee, and shall crie bitterly, and shall cast dust vpon their heads, and wallow themselves in the ashes.

31 They shall plucke off their haire for thee, and gird them with a sackcloth, and they shall weep for thee, with sorow of heart and bitter mourning.

32 And in their mourning they shall take vp a lamentation for thee, saying, What citie is like Tyru, so destroyed in the mids of the sea?

33 When thy wares went forth of the seas, thou filledst many people, and thou diddest enrich the kings of the earth with the multitude of thy riches and of thy merchandise.

34 When thou shalt be broken by the seas in the depths of the waters, thy merchandise and al thy multitude which was in the mids of thee, shall fall.

35 All the inhabitants of the Isles shall be astonished at thee, and all their kings shall bee lose afraid, and troubled in their countenance.

36 The merchants among the people shall blisse at thee: thou shalt bee a terrour, and neuer shalt be any more.

CHAP. XXVIII.

The word of God against the king of Tyru for his pride. 23 The word of the Lord against Zidon. 25 The Lord promisseth that hee will gather together the children of Israel.

The word of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, say vnto the prince of Tyru, Thus saith the Lord God, Because thine heart is exalted, and thou hast sayd, I am a God, I sit in the seate of God in the mids of the sea, yet thou art but a man and not God, and I thought thou diddest thinke in thine heart that thou wast equall with God, b Thus he speaketh by derision, for Daniel had declared notable signes of his wisdom in Babylon when Ezekiel wrote this, against the beauty of thy wisdom, and they shall desire thy brightness.

8 They shall cast thee down to the pit, and thou shalt die the death of them that are slain in the midst of the sea.

9 Wilt thou say then before him that slayeth thee, I am a god? but thou shalt be a man and no god, in the hands of him that slayeth thee.

10 Thou shalt die the death of the uncircumcised by the hands of strangers: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord God.

11 Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

12 Sonne of man, take by a lamentation upon the king of Tyre, and say unto him, Thus saith the Lord God, Thou sealest up the summe, and art full of wisdom and perfect in beauty, 13 Thou hast bene in Eden the garden of God: every precious stone was in thy garment, the ruby, the topaz, and the diamond, the chrysolite, the onix, and the talper, the sapphir, the emerald, & the carbuncle, and golde: the workmanship of thy timbrels, and of thy pipes was prepared in thee in the day that thou wast created.

14 Thou art the anointed Cherub, that couereth, & I have set thee in honour: thou wast upon the holy mountaine of God: thou hast walked in the middes of the stones of fire.

15 Thou wast perfect in thy wayes from the day that thou wast created, till iniquity was found in thee.

16 By the multitude of thy merchandise they have filled the mids of thee with cruelty, and thou hast sinned: Therefore I will cast thee as profane out of the mountaine of God, and I will destroy thee, & couering Cherub, from the middes of the stones of fire.

17 Thine heart was lifted up, because of thy beauty, and thou hast corrupted thy wisdom by reason of thy brightness: I will cast thee to the ground: I will lay thee before kings, that they may behold thee.

18 Thou hast desired thy sanctification by the multitude of thine iniquities, and by the iniquitie of thy merchandise: therefore will I bring forth a fire from the middes of thee, which shall deuoure thee: and I will bring thee to ashes upon the earth, in the sight of all them that behold thee.

19 All they that knowe thee among the people, shall bee astonished at thee: thou shalt be a terror, and neuer shalt thou bee any more.

20 Again, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

21 Sonne of man, set thy face against Zidon, and prophesie against it, 22 And say, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against thee, O Zidon, and I will be glorified in the mids of thee: and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall have executed iudgements in her, and shall be sanctified in her.

23 For I will send into her pestilence, and blood into her streets, and the slain shall fall in the mids of her: the enimie shall come against her with the sword on every side, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

24 And they shall bee no more a picking thorne unto the house of Israel, nor any grievous thorne of all that are round about them, and despised them, and they shall know that I am the Lord God.

25 Thus saith the Lord God, When I shall have gathered the house of Israel from the people where they are scattered, and shall be sanctified in them in the sight of the heathen, then shall they dwell in the land, that I have giuen to my seruant Iacob.

26 And they shall dwell safely therein, and shall build houses, and plant vineyards: yea, they shall dwell safely, when I have executed iudgements upon all round about them that despise them, and they shall know that I am the Lord their God.

CHAP. XXIX.

He propheseth against Pharaoh and Egypt. The Lord prometh that he will restore Egypt after fouretye years, & Egypt is the reward of King Nebuchad-nazzar for the labour which he hath taken against Tyre.

In the twelfth yere, and in the twelfth moneth, in the twelfth day of the moneth, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, set thy face against Pharaoh the King of Egypt, and prophesie against him, and against all Egypt.

3 Speake, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against thee, Pharaoh king of Egypt, the great dragon that lieth in the middes of his riuers, which hath said, The riuer is mine, and I have made it for my selfe.

4 But I will put hooks in thy lawes, and I will cause the fish of thy riuers to sticke vnto thy scales, and I will drawe thee out of the middes of thy riuers, and all the fish of thy riuers shall sticke vnto thy scales.

5 And I will leaue thee in the wilderness, both thee and all the fish of thy riuers: thou shalt fall vpon the open field: thou shalt not be brought together, nor gathered: for I have giuen thee for meat to the beasts of the field, and to the fowles of the heauen.

6 And all the inhabitants of Egypt shall knowe that I am the Lord, because they haue bene a staffe of reed to the house of Israel.

7 When they took hold of thee with their hand, thou diddest breake, and rent all their shoulder: and when they leaned vpon thee, thou brakest and madest all their loynes to stand upright.

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will bring a sword vpon thee, and destroy man and beast out of thee.

9 And the land of Egypt shall be desolate, and waste, and they shall know that I am the Lord: because he hath said, The riuer is mine, and I have made it.

10 Behold, therefore I come vpon thee, and vpon thy riuers, and I will make the land of Egypt utterly waste and desolate from 13 Yet thus saith the Lord God, * At the end of fourety yeeres will I gather the Egyptians from the people, where they were scattered,

16 And it shall be no more the confidence of the house of Israel, to bring their iniquitie to remembrance by looking after them, so shall they know, that I am the Lord God.

17 ¶ In the seuen and twentiethe yeere also in the first moneth, and in the first day of the moneth, came the word of the Lord unto me, saying,

18 Sonne of man, Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel caused his arme to serue a great service against Tyus: every head was made balde, and every shoulder was made bare: yet had hee no wages, nor his arme for Tyus, for the service that hee serued against it.

19 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will giue the land of Egypt unto Nebuchad-nezzar the king of Babel, and he shall rake her multitude, & spoile her spoile, and take her pray, and it shall be the wages of his arme.

20 I haue giuen him the land of Egypt for his labour, that he serued against it, because they wrought for mee, saith the Lord God.

21 In that day will I cause the horne of the house of Israel to grow, and I will giue thee an open mouth in the middes of them, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXX.

The destruction of Egypt, and the cities thereof.

The word of the Lord came againe unto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, propheticke, & say, Thus saith the Lord God, Houle, and cry, Woe be vnto this day.

3 For the day is neere, and the day of the Lord is at hand, a cloude day, and it shall be the time of the he: then.

4 And the sword shall come vpon Egypt, and feare shall bee in Ethiopia, when the flaine shall fall in Egypt, when they shall take away her multitude, and when her foundations shall be broken downe.

5 * Ethiopia, and Whit, and Lud, and all the common people, and Cub, and the men of the land, that is in league, shall fall with them by the sword.

6 Thus saith the Lord, They also that maintaine Egypt, shall fall, and the pride of her power shall come downe: from the tower of ° Sennacher shall they fall by the sword, saith the Lord God.

7 And they shall be desolate in the middes of the countreys that are desolate, and her cities shall be in the middes of the cities that are wasted.

8 And they shall know that I am the Lord, when I haue set a fire in Egypt, and when all her helpers shall be destroyed.

9 In that day shall there messengers goe forth from me in ships, to make the careless Phoores afraid, and feare shall come vpon them as in the day of Egypt: for loe, it cometh.

10 Thus saith the Lord God, I will also make the multitude of Egypt to cease by the hand of Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel.

11 For he and his people with him, euen the terrible nations, shall be brought to destroy the land: and they shall drawe their swordes against Egypt, and till the land with the flaine.

12 And I will make the riuers dry, and sell the land into the handes of the wicke, and I will make the land waste, and all that therein is, by the handes of strangers: I the Lord haue spoken it.

13 Thus saith the Lord God, I will also destroy the idoles, & I will cause their idoles to cease out of Hoph, and there shall bee no more Prince of the land of Egypt, and I will send a feare in the land of Egypt.

14 And I will make Pathros desolate, and will set fire in Zoan, and I will execute iudgement in No.

15 And I will poyse my wrath vpon Sin, which is the strength of Egypt: and I will destroy the multitude of it.

16 And I will set fire in Egypt: Sin shall haue great sorow: and No shall be destroyed, and Hoph shall haue sorowes dayly.

19 Thus will I execute iudgements in Egypt, and they shall know, that I am the Lord.

20 ¶ And in the eleuenth yeere, in the first moneth, and in the seuenth day of the moneth, the word of the Lord came vnto mee, saying,

Or, thou wast lift vp.
 e That is, of Nebuchad nezzar, who afterward was the monarch and onely ruler of the world.

And in the ^a eleuenth yeere, in the thirde moneth, & in the first day of the moneth, the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, speake vnto Pharaoh king of Egypt, & to his multitude, Whom art thou ^b like in thy greatnesse?

3 Behold, Asshur was like a cedar in Lebanon with faire branches, and with thicke shadowing boughes, and shot vp very high, & his top was among the thicke boughes.

4 The waters nourished him, and the deepe exalted him on high with her riuers running round about his plants, and sent out her ^c little riuers vnto all the trees of the field.

5 Therefore his height was exalted aboue all the trees of the field, and his boughes were multiplied, and his branches were long, because of the multitude of the waters, which the deepe sent out.

6 All the fowles of the heauen made their nests in his boughes, and vnder his branches did all the beasts of the field bring forth their young, and vnder his shadow dwelt all mightie nations.

7 Thus was hee faire in his greatnesse, and in the length of his branches: for his root was neere great waters.

8 The cedars in the garden ^d of God could not hide him: no fire tree was like his branches, and the chekinut trees were not like his boughes: all the trees in the garden of God were not like vnto him in his beaultie.

9 I made him faire by the multitude of his branches: so that all the trees of Eden that were in the garden of God, enuied him.

10 Therefore thus sayeth the Lord God, Because he is lift vp on high, and hath shot vp his top among the thicke boughes, and his heart is lift vp in his height,

11 I haue therefore deliuered him into the hands of the ^e mightiest among the heathen: hee shall handle him, for I haue cast him away for his wickednesse.

12 And the strangers haue destroyed him, euen the terrible nations, and they haue left him vpon the mountaines, and in all the valleys his branches are fallen, and his boughes are broken by all the riuers of the land: and all the people of the earth are departed from his shadow, and haue forsaken him.

13 Upon his ruine shall all the fowles of the heauen remaine, and the beasts of the field shall be vpon his branches.

14 So that none of all the trees by the waters shall be exalted by their height, neither shall shoot vp their top among the thicke boughes, neither shall their leaues stand vp in their height, which drinke so much water: for they are all deliuered vnto death in the nether parts of the earth in the mids of the children of men, among them that go downe to the pit.

15 Thus sayeth the Lord God, In the day when he went downe to hell, I caused them to mourne, and I covered the deep for him, and I did restraine the floods thereof, and the great waters were stayed: I caused Lebanon to mourne for him, and all the trees of the field fainted.

16 I made the nations to shake at the sound of his fall, when I cast him downe to hell, with them that descend into the pit, and all the excellent trees of Eden, and the best of Lebanon: euen all that are nourished with waters, shall be comforted in the nether parts of the earth.

17 They also went downe to hell with him vnto them that be slaine with the sword, and his arme, and they that dwell vnder his shadow in the mids of the heathen.

18 To whom art thou thus like in glory, and in greatnesse among the trees of Eden: yet thou shalt be cast downe with the trees of Eden vnto the nether parts of the earth, thou shalt sleepe in the mids of the ^a vncircumcised, with them that be slaine by the sword: this is Pharaoh and all his multitude, sayeth the Lord.

3 The Prophet is commanded to bewaile Pharaoh King of Egypt. 12 He prophesieth that destruction shall come vnto Egypt through the King of Babylon.

And in the ^a twelfth yeere in the twelfth moneth, & in the first day of the moneth, the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, take vp a lamentation for Pharaoh king of Egypt, and say vnto him, Thou art like a ^b lyon of the nations, and art as a dragon in the sea: thou castest out thy riuers, and troubledst the waters with thy feet, and stampedst in their riuers.

3 Thus sayeth the Lord God, I will therefore spread my net ouer thee with a great multitude of people, and they shall make thee come vp into my net.

4 Then will I leave thee vpon the land, and I will cast thee vpon the open field, and I will cause all the fowles of the heauen to remaine vpon thee, and I will fill sed at thee, and their kings shall be astonied with feare for thee, when I shall make my sword to glitter against their faces, and they shall be afraid at euery moment: euery man for his owne life in the day of thy fall.

11 For thus saith the Lord God, The sword of the King of Babel shall come vpon thee.

12 By the swords of the mightie will I cause thy multitude to fall: they all shall be terrible nations, and they shall destroy the pompe of Egypt, and all the multitude thereof shall be consumed.

13 I will destroy also all the beasts thereof from the great water sides, neither shall the foote of man trouble them any more, nor the howes of beast trouble them.

14 Then will I makeⁱ their waters deere, and cause their rivers to runne like oyle, saith the Lord God.

15 When I shall make the land of Egypt desolate, and the countrey with all that is therein, shall bee layd waste: when I shall smite all them which dwell therein, then shall they know that I am the Lord.

16 This is the mourning wherewith they shall lament her: the daughters of the nations shall lament her: they shall lament for Egypt, and for all her multitude, saith the Lord God.

17 In the twelfth yeere, also in the fifteenth day of the moneth, came the word of the Lord vnto me, saying,

18 Sonne of man, lament for the multitude of Egypt, and cast them downe, even them and the daughters of the mighty nations vnto the nether parts of the earth, with them that goe downe into the pit.

19 Whom dost thou passe^j in beauty? go downe and sleepe with the vncircumcised.

20 They shall fall in the mids of them that are slaine by the sword: there is deliue-red to the sword: vnto her downe, and all her multitude.

21 The most mightie and strong shall speake to^k him out of the mids of hell with them that helpe her: they are gone downe and sleepe with the vncircumcised that be slaine by the sword.

22 Allur is there and all his companie:

their graues are about him: all they are slaine and fallen by the sword.

23 Whose graues are made in the side of the pit, and his multitude are round about his graue: all they are slaine and fallen by the sword, which caused feare to bee in the land of the liuing.

24 There is^l Ham and all his multitude^o Meaning, the round about his graue: all they are slaine Persians.
& fallen by the sword, which are gone downe with the vncircumcised into^p nether parts of the earth, which caused themselves to be feared in the land of the^q liuing, yet haue they borne their shame with them that are gone downe to the pit.

25 They haue made his bed in the mids of the slaine with all his multitude: their graves are round about him: all these vncircumcised are slaine by the sword: though they haue caused their feare in the land of the liuing, yet haue they borne their shame with them that goe downe to the pit: they are layd in the mids of them that be slaine.

26 There is^r Meshech, Tubal, and all their multitude: their graues are round about them: all these vncircumcised were slaine by the sword, though they caused their feare to be in the land of the liuing.

27 And they shall not lie with the balliant^s of the vncircumcised, that are fallen, which are gone downe to the graue, with their weapons of warre, and haue laid their swords vnder their heads, but their iniquitie shall be vpon their bones: because they were the feare of the mighty in the land of the liuing.

28 Pea, thou shalt be broken in the mids of the vncircumcised, and lie with them that are slaine by the sword.

29 There is^t Edom, his kings, and all his princes, which with their strength are layd by them that were slaine by the sword: they shall sleepe with the vncircumcised, and with them that goe downe to the pit.

30 There be all the princes of the^u North, with all the Idonians which are gone downe with the slaine, with their feare: they are ashamed of their strength, and the vncircumcised sleepe with them that be slaine by the sword, and beare their shame with them that goe downe to the pit.

31 Pharaoh shall see them, and he shall be^v comforted ouer all his multitude: Pharaoh and all his armie shall be slaine by the sword, saith the Lord God.

32 For I haue caused my^w feare to be in the land of the liuing: and he shall be layd in the mids of the vncircumcised with them that are slaine by the sword, even Pharaoh and all his multitude, saith the Lord God.

Chap. 18. 22, 24.

h Hereby hee condemneth all the men of hypo- criſie, which pre- tend to forſake wickedneſſe, and yet declare not themſelves ſuch by their fruits, that h, in obey- ing Gods com- mandments, and by godly life.

i bring the ſword vpon a land, if the people of the land take a man h from among them, and make him their watchman,

3 If when hee ſeeth the ſword come vpon the land, hee blow the trumpet, and warne the people,

4 Then hee that heareth the ſound of the trumpet, and wil not be warned, if the ſword come and take him away, his blood ſhall bee vpon his owne head.

5 For he heard the ſound of the trumpet, and would not be admoniſhed: therefore his blood ſhalbe vpon him: but he that receiveth warning, ſhall ſaue his life.

6 But if the watchman ſee the ſword come, and blow not the trumpet, and the people bee not warned: if the ſword come, and take any perſon from among them, hee is taken away for his iniquitie, but his blood will I require at the watchmans hand.

7 So thou, ſonne of man, I haue made thee a watchman vnto the houſe of Iſrael: therefore thou ſhalt heare the words at my mouth, and admoniſh them from me.

8 When I ſhall ſay vnto the wicked, O wicked man, thou ſhalt die the death, if thou doſt not ſpeake, and admoniſh the wicked of his way, that wicked man ſhall die for his iniquitie: but his blood will I require at thine hand.

9 Neuertheleſſe, if thou warne the wic- ked of his way, to turne from it, if he doe not turne from his way, hee ſhall die for his iniquity: but thou ſhalt deliuer thy ſoule.

10 Therefore O thou ſonne of man, ſpeake vnto the houſe of Iſrael, Thus ye ſpeake and ſay, If our tranſgreſſions & our ſinnes be vpon vs, and we are conſumed becauſe of them, how ſhould we then liue?

11 Say vnto them, As I liue, ſayeth the Lord God, I deſire not the death of the wicked, but that the wicked turne from his way and liue: turne you, turne you from your euill wayes, for why will ye die, O ye houſe of Iſrael?

12 Therefore thou ſonne of man, ſay vnto the children of thy people, The righteousneſſe of the righteous ſhall not deliuer him in the day of his tranſgreſſion, nor the wickedneſſe of the wicked ſhall cauſe him to fall therein, in the day that hee reuerteth from his wickedneſſe, neither ſhall the righteous liue for his righteousneſſe in the day that hee ſinneth.

13 When I ſhall ſay vnto the righteous, that he ſhall ſurely liue, if hee truſt to his owne righteousneſſe, and commit iniquitie, all his righteousneſſe ſhall bee no more remembered, but for his iniquity that hee hath committed, he ſhall die for the ſame.

14 Again, when I ſhall ſay vnto the wic- ked, Thou ſhalt die the death: if hee turne from his ſinne, and do that which is lawfull and right, 15 To wit, if hee wicked reſtore the pledge, and giue againe that hee had robbed, & walke in the ſtatutes of life, without committing iniquity, he ſhall ſurely liue and not die.

16 None of his ſinnes that hee hath com- mitted, ſhall be mentioned vnto him, becauſe he hath done that which is lawfull & right, he ſhall ſurely liue.

17 Yet the children of thy people ſay, The way of the Lord is not equall: but their owne way is vnequall.

18 When the righteous turneth from his righteouſneſſe, and committeth iniquitie, hee ſhall euen die thereby.

19 But if the wicked returne from his wickedneſſe, and doe that which is lawfull and right, he ſhall liue thereby.

20 Yet ye ſay, The way of the Lord is not equall. O ye houſe of Iſrael, I will iudge you eueſy one after his wayes.

21 Alſo in the twelfth yeere of our capti- uity, in the tenth moneth, and in the fiſt day of the moneth, one that had eſcaped out of Ieruſalem, came vnto me, and ſayd, The citie is ſieged.

22 Now the hand of the Lord had bene vpon me in the evening afore hee that had eſcaped, came, and had opened my mouth, vntill hee came to me in the morning: and when hee had opened my mouth, I was no more dumbe.

23 Againe the word of the Lord came vnto me, and ſaid,

24 Sonne of man, theſe that dwell in the deſolate places of the land of Iſrael, talke and ſay, Abraham was but one, and hee poſſeſſed the land: but we are many, there- fore the land ſhall be giuen vs in poſſeſſion, 25 Wherefore ſay vnto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, See eate with the blood, and liſt vp your eyes toward your idoles, and ſhed blood: ſhould you then poſſeſſe the land?

26 See leane vpon your ſwords: yee worke abomination, and yee deſile euery one his neighbours wife: ſhould ye then poſſeſſe the land?

27 Say thus vnto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, As I liue: ſo ſurely they that are in the deſolate places, ſhall fall by the ſword: and him that is in the open fields, will I giue vnto the beaſts to be deuoured: and they that be in the forts and in the caues, ſhall die of the peſtilence.

28 For I will lay the land deſolate and waſte, and the pompe of her ſtrength ſhall ceaſe, and the mountaines of Iſrael ſhall be deſolate, and none ſhall paſſe thorow.

29 Then ſhall they know that I am the Lord, when I haue laide the land deſolate and waſte becauſe of all their abominations that they haue committed.

30 Alſo thou ſonne of man, the children of thy people that talke of thee by the walles and in the doores of houſes, and ſpeake one to another, euery one to his brother, ſaying, Come, I pray you, and heare what is the word that cometh from the Lord.

31 For they come vnto thee, as the people vieſh to come: and my people ſit before thee, and heare thy words, but they will not doe than: for with their mouthes they make teſtes, and their heart goeth after their covetouſneſſe.

32 And lo, thou art vnto them, as a leſting ſong of one that hath a pleaſant voice, and can ſing well: for they heare thy words, but

CHAP. XXXIIII.

2 Against the shepherds that despised the flocke of Christ, and seeke their owne gaine. 7 The Lord saith that he will visite his dispersed flocke, and gather them together. 23 He promyseth the true Shepherd Christ, and with him peace.

And the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, prophesie against the shepherds of Israel, prophesie and say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God vnto the shepherds, * Woe bee vnto the shepherds of Israel, that feed themselves: should not the shepherds feed the flockes?

3 Ye eat the fat, and ye clothe you with the wooll: ye kill them that are fed, but yee feed not the sheepe.

4 The weake haue ye not strengthened: the sicke haue ye not healed, neither haue yee bound vp the broken, nor brought again that which was taken away, neither haue yee sought that which was lost, but with cruelty, and with rigour haue ye ruled them.

5 And they were scattered without a shepherd: and when they were dispersed, they were deuoured of all the beasts of the field.

6 My sheepe wandered thorow all the mountaines, and vpon euery high hill: yea my flock was scattered thorow all the earth, and none did seeke or search after them.

7 Therefore yee shepherds, heare the word of the Lord.

8 As I live, saith the Lord God, surely because my flocke was spoiled, and my sheep were deuoured of all the beasts of the field, hauing no shepherd, neither did my shepherds seeke my sheepe, but the shepherds fed themselves, and fed not my sheepe, 9 Therefore heare yee the word of the Lord, O ye shepherds.

10 Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against the shepherds, and will require my sheepe at their hands, and cause them to cease from feeding the sheepe: neither shall the shepherds feede themselves any more: for I will deliuer my sheepe from their mouthes, and they shall no more deuoure them.

11 For thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will search my sheepe, and seeke them out.

12 As a shepherd searcheth out his flock, when hee hath bene among his sheepe that are scattered, so will I seeke out my sheepe, and will deliuer them out of all places, where they haue bene scattered in the cloudes and darke day.

13 And I will bring them out from the people, and gather them from the countreys, and will bring them to their owne land, and feed them vpon the mountaines of Israel, by the riuers, and in all the inhabited places of the countrey.

14 I will feede them in a good pasture, and vpon the high mountaines of Israel shall their folde bee: there shall they lie in a good fold, and in fat pasture shall they feede vpon the mountaines of Israel.

15 I will feed my sheepe, and bring them to their rest, saith the Lord God.

16 I will seeke that which was lost, and bring againe that which was taken away, and will binde vp that which was broken, and will strengthen the weake, but I will destroy the fat and the strong, and I will feede them with iudgement.

17 Also you my sheepe, thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I iudge betwene sheepe and sheepe, betwene the rammes and the goates.

18 Seemeth it a small thing vnto you to haue eaten vp the good pasture, but ye must treade downe with your feete the residue of your pasture: & to haue drunke of the deepe waters, but ye must trouble the residue with your feet?

19 And my sheepe eat that which ye haue troden with your feet, and drinke that which ye haue troubled with your feet.

20 Therefore thus saith the Lord God vnto them, Behold, I, even I will iudge betwene the fat sheepe and the leane sheepe.

21 Because ye haue thrust with side and with shoulder, and pushed all the weake with your hornes, till yee haue scattered them abroad, 22 Therefore will I help my sheepe, and they shall no more be spoiled, and I will iudge betwene sheepe and sheepe.

23 And I will set vp a shepherd over them, and he shall feed them, even my seruant David, he shall feede them, and he shall be their shepherd.

24 And I the Lord will be their God, and my seruant David shall be the prince among them. I the Lord haue spoken it.

25 And I will make with them a covenant of peace, and will cause the euill beasts to cease out of the land: and they shall dwell safely in the wilderness, and sleepe in the woods.

26 And I will set them, as a blessing, euen round about my mountaine: and I will cause raine to come downe in due season, and there shall be raine of blessing.

27 And the tree of the field shall yeelde her fruit, and the earth shall giue her fruit, and they shall be safe in their land, and shall know that I am the Lord, when I haue broken the cords of their yoke, and deliuered them out of the hands of those that serued themselves of them.

28 And they shall no more be spoiled of the heathen, neither shall the beasts of the land deuoure them, but they shall dwell safely, and none shall make them afraid.

29 And I will raise vp for them a plant of renowne, and they shall be no more confounded with hunger in the land, neither heare the reproach of the heathen any more.

30 Thus shall they vnderstand, that I the Lord their God am with them, and that they euen the house of Israel, are my people saith the Lord God.

31 And yee my sheepe, the sheepe of my pasture are men, and I am your God, saith the Lord God.

g Meaning, such as lift vp themselves about their brethren, and thinke they haue no need to be gouerned by me.

h That is, by putting difference betwene the good and the bad, and so giue to either as they deserue.

i By good pasture and deepe waters is meant the pure word of God, and the administration of Iustice, which they did not distribute to the poore till they had corrupted it.

k Meaning Christ, of whom David was a figure, Ier. 30. 9. hofe. 3. 5.

l This declareth that vnder Christ the flock should be truly deliuered from sinne, and hell, and so be safely preserved in the Church where they should neuer perish.

CHAP. XXXV.

^a The destruction that shall come on mount Seir, because they troubled the people of the Lord.

Moreover the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

² Sonne of man, set thy face against mount Seir, and prophesie against it, ³ And say unto it, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I mount Seir, I come against thee, and I will stretch out mine hand against thee, and I will make thee desolate and waste.

⁴ I will lay thy cities waste, and thou shalt be desolate, and thou shalt know that I am the Lord.

⁵ Because thou hast had a perpetuall hatred, and hast put the children of Israel to flight by the force of the sword in the time of their calamitie, when their ^b iniquitie had an end:

¹⁰ Because thou hast said, ^e These two nations, and these two countreys shall bee mine, and wee will possesse them (seeing the Lord was ^f there)

¹¹ Therefore as I live, saith the Lord God, I will do even according to thy ^g wrath, and according to thine indignation which thou hast shed in thine hatred against them: and I will make my selfe known among ^h them when I have iudged thee.

¹² And thou shalt know, that I the Lord have heard all thy blasphemies which thou hast spoken against the mountaines of Israel, saying, They be waste, they are given vs to be deuoured.

¹³ Thus with your mouthes yee haue boasted against mee, and haue multiplied your words against me: I haue heard them.

¹⁴ Thus saith the Lord God, So shall all the world reioyce, when I shall make thee desolate.

¹⁵ As thou didst reioyce at the inheritance of the house of Israel, because it was desolate, so wil I doe vnto thee: thou shalt be desolate, I mount Seir, & all Idumea wholly, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXVI.

⁸ Hee promisseth to deliuer Israel from the Gentiles. ²² The benefites done vnto the Iewes, are to bee ascribed vnto the mercie of God, and not vnto their desertings. ²⁶ God reneweth our hearts, that wee may walke in his Commandments.

Also thou sonne of man, prophesie vnto the ⁱ mountaines of Israel, and say, Ye mountaines of Israel, heare the word of the Lord.

² Thus saith the Lord God, Because the ^j enemy hath said against you, Aha, when the ^k his places of the world are ours in possession,

⁴ Therefore yee mountaines of Israel, heare the word of the Lord God, Thus saith the Lord God to the mountaines and to the hills, to the rivers, and to the valleys, and to the waste and desolate places, and to the cities that are forsaken: which are spoiled and had in derision of the residue of the heathen that are round about.

⁶ Prophecie therefore vpon the land of Israel, and say vnto the mountaines, and to the hills, to the rivers, and to the valleys, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I haue spoken in mine indignation, & in my wrath, because yee haue suffered the ⁿ shame of the heathen, ⁷ Therefore thus saith the Lord God, I haue ^o lifted vp mine hand, surely the heathen that are about you, shall beare their shame.

⁸ But you, I mountaines of Israel, yee shall ^p shoot forth your branches, and bring forth your fruit to my people of Israel: for they are ready to come.

⁹ For beholde, I come vnto you, and I will turne vnto you, and ye shall be ruled and sown.

¹⁰ And I will multiply the men vpon you, even all the house of Israel wholly, and the cities shall be inhabited, and the desolate places shall be builded.

¹¹ And I will multiply vpon you man, and beast, and they shall increase and bring fruit, and I will cause you to dwell after your old estate, and I will bestow benefites vpon you more then ^q at the first, and yee shall know that I am the Lord.

¹² Yea, I will cause men to walke vpon you, even my people Israel, and they shall possesse // you, and yee shall be their inheritance, and yee shall no more henceforth depriue them of men.

¹³ Thus saith the Lord God, Because they say vnto you, Thou ^r land deuourest vp men, and hast beene a waste of thy people,

¹⁴ Therefore thou shalt deuoure men no more, neither waste thy people henceforth, saith the Lord God, ¹⁵ Neither will I cause men to beare in thee the shame of the heathen any more, neither shalt thou beare the reproch of the people any more, neither shalt cause thy folke to fall any more, saith the Lord God.

^a That is, the Idumean.
^b That is Ierusalem, which for Gods promises was the chiefeft of all the world.

^c Ye are made a matter of talke and derision to all the world.

^d They appointed with themselves to haue it, and therefore came with Nebuchadnezzar against Ierusalem for this purpose.
^e Because you haue beene a laughing stocke vnto them.

^f By making a solemne oath, read Chap. 30. 5.
^g God declareth his mercies and goodness toward his Church, who still persecuteth his, even when he destroyeth his enemies.

^h Which was accomplished vnder Christ, to whom all these temporal deliuerances did direct them.

ⁱ That is, vpon the mountaines of Ierusalem.

^k Or, thee. This the enemies imputed as the reproch of the land, which God did for the sakes of the people according to his iust iudgements.

^a Where the Idumeans dwelt,

^b When by their punishment I called them from their iniquitie.
^c Except thou repent thy former crueltie.

^d To wit, to their former estate.
^e Meaning, Idumea and Iudah.
^f And so by fighting against Gods people, they should goe about to put him out of his owne possession.
^g As thou hast done cruelly, so shalt thou be cruelly handled.
^h Shewing, that when God punisheth the enemies the godly ought to consider that hee hath a care ouer them, and so praise his Name: and also that the wicked rage as though there were no God till they seele his hand to their destruction,

16 ¶ Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

17 ¶ Sonne of man, when the house of Israel dwelt in their owne land, they defiled it by their owne wayes, and by their deedes: their way was before me as the filthinesse of the menstruous.

18 ¶ Therefore I powred my wrath vpon them, for the blood that they had shed in the land, and for their idols, wherewith they had polluted it.

19 ¶ And I scattered them among the heathen, and they were dispersed thorow the countreys: for according to their wayes, and according to their deedes I iudged them.

20 ¶ And when they entred vnto the heathen, whither they went, they polluted mine holy Name, when they laid of them, These are the people of the Lord, and are gone out of his land.

21 ¶ But I fauoured mine holy Name, which the house of Israel had polluted among the heathen, whither they went.

22 ¶ Therefore say vnto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God, I doe not this for your sakes, O house of Israel, but for mine holy Names sake, which yee polluted among the heathen, whither ye went.

23 ¶ And I will sanctifie my great Name, which was polluted among the heathen, among whom you haue polluted it, and the heathen shall know that I am the Lord, saith the Lord God, when I shall be sanctified in you before their eyes.

24 ¶ For I will take you from among the heathen, and gather you out of all countreys, and will bring you into your owne land.

25 ¶ Then will I poure cleane water vpon you, and yee shall bee cleane: yea, from all your filthinesse, and from all your idoles will I cleanse you.

26 ¶ A new heart also will I giue you, and a new spirit will I put within you, and I will take away the stonie heart out of your body, and I will giue you an heart of flesh.

27 ¶ And I will put my spirit within you, and cause you to walke in my statutes, and ye shall keepe my iudgements and doe them.

28 ¶ And ye shall dwell in the land that I gaue to your fathers, and ye shall be my people, and I will be your God.

29 ¶ I will also deliuer you from all your filthinesse, and I will call for corne, and will increase it, and lay no famine vpon you.

30 ¶ For I will multiply the fruite of the trees, and the increase of the fildes, that yee shall beare no more the reproach of famine among the heathen.

31 ¶ Then shall yee remember your owne wicked wayes, and your deedes that were not good, and shall iudge your selues worthy to haue bin destroyed for your iniquities, and for your abominations.

32 ¶ Be it known vnto you that I doe not this for your sakes, saith the Lord God: therefore, O ye house of Israel, bee ashamed and confounded for your owne wayes.

33 ¶ Thus saith the Lord God, What time as I shall haue cleansed you from all your iniquities, I will cause you to dwell in the cities, and the desolate places shall be builded.

34 ¶ And the desolate land shall bee tilled, whereas it lay waste in the sight of all that passed by.

35 ¶ For they said, This waste land was like the garden of Eden, and their waste and desolate & ruinous cities were strong, and were inhabited.

36 ¶ Then the residue of the heathen that are left round about you, shall know that I the Lord build the ruinous places, & plant the desolate places: I the Lord haue spoken it, and will doe it.

37 ¶ Thus saith the Lord God, I will yet for this bee sought of the house of Israel, to performe it vnto them: I will increase them with men like a flocke.

38 ¶ As the holy flocke, as the flocke of Jerusalem in their iostonne feastes, so shall the desolate cities be filled with flockes of men, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

q Hee declareth that it ought not to bee referred to the soile or plentifulnesse of the earth that any countrey is rich and abundant, but onely to Gods mercy, as his plagues & curses declare when he maketh it barren.

CHAP. XXXVII.

1 He prophesieeth the bringing againe of the people being in captiuitie. 16 Hee sheweth the vnion of the tenne tribes with the two.

The hand of the Lord was vpon me, and carted mee out in the spirit of the Lord, and set me downe in the midst of the field, which was full of bones.

2 ¶ And hee led me round about by them, and behold, there were very many in the open field, and loe, they were very dry.

3 ¶ And hee said vnto mee, Sonne of man, can these bones liue? And I answered, O Lord God, thou knowest.

4 ¶ Again hee laide vnto mee, Prophecie vpon these bones, and say vnto them, O yee drie bones, heare the word of the Lord.

5 ¶ Thus saith the Lord God vnto these bones, Behold, I will cause breath to enter into you, and ye shall liue.

6 ¶ And I will lay sinewes vpon you, and make flesh growe vpon you, and couer you with skin, and put breath in you, that yemay liue, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

7 ¶ So I prophesied as I was commaunded: and as I prophesied, there was a noise, and behold, there was a shaking, and the bones came together, bone to his bone.

8 ¶ And when I beheld, loe, the sinewes, and the flesh grew vpon them, and about the skin conered them, but there was no breath in them.

9 ¶ Then said he vnto me, Prophecie vnto the winde: prophetic, sonne of man, and say to the winde, Thus saith the Lord God, Come from the foure windes, O breath, and breathe vpon these slaine, that they may liue.

10 ¶ So I prophesied as hee had commaunded me: and the breath came into them, and they liued, and stood vp vpon their feet, an exceeding great armie.

11 ¶ Then he said vnto me, Sonne of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel. Behold, they say, Our bones are dried, and our hope is gone, and we are cleane cut off.

12 ¶ Therefore prophetic, say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, my people, I will open your graues, and cause d Which signifieth the ioyning together of the two houses of Israel and Iudah.

17 And thou shalt toyne them one to another into one tree, and they shall be as one in thine hand.

18 And when the children of thy people shall speake vnto thee, saying, Wilt thou not shew vs what thou meantst by these?

e That is, the house of Israel.

19 Thou shalt answer them, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will take the tree of Ioseph, which is in the hand of Ephraim, and the tribes of Israel his fellows, and wil put them with him, even with the tree of Iudah, and make them one tree, and they shall be one in mine hand.

20 And the pieces of wood whereon thou writest, shall be in thine hand in their sight.

21 And say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will take the children of Israel from among the heathen whither they be gone, and will gather them on euery side, and bring them into their owne land.

22 And I will make them one people in the lande vpon the mountaines of Israel, and one king shall be king to them all: and they shall be no more two peoples, neither be diuided any more henceforth into two kingdoms.

23 Neither shall they bee polluted any more with their idoles, nor with their abominations, nor with any of their transgressions: but I will saue them out of all their dwelling places, wherein they haue sinned, and will cleanse them: so shall they bee my people, and I will be their God.

24 And Dauid my seruant shall be king ouer them, and they all shall haue one shepheard: they shall also walke in my iudgements, and obserue my statutes, and doe them.

25 And they shall dwell in the land, that I haue giuen vnto Iakob my seruant, where your fathers haue dwelt, & they shall dwell therein, euery they and their sonnes, and their sonnes sonnes for ever, and my seruant Dauid shall be their prince for ever.

26 Whereouer, I will make a covenant of peace with them: it shall be an euermore covenant with them, and I will place them, and multiply them, and will let my sanctuary among them for euermore.

27 My tabernacle also shall bee with them: yea, I will bee their God, and they shall be my people.

28 Thus the heathen shall knowe, that I the Lord do sanctifie Israel, when my sanctuary shall be among them for euermore.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

2 Hee propheseth that Gog and Magog shall fight with great power against the people of God, 21 Their destruction.

¶ And the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, set thy face against Gog, and against the land of Magog the chiefe prince of Meshech and Tubal, and prophesie against him,

3 And say, Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I come against thee, O Gog the chiefe prince of Meshech and Tubal.

4 And I will destroy thee, and put hooks in thy lawes, and I will bring thee forth, and all thine hoste, both horses and horsemen, all clothed with all sorts of armor, euen a great multitude with bucklers & shields, all handling swords.

5 They of Paras, of Cush, and Phut with them, euen all they that beare shield and helmet.

6 Gomer and all his bandes, and the house of Togarmah of the North quarters, and all his bands, and much people with thee.

7 Prepare thy selfe, and make thee ready, both thou, and all thy multitude, that are assembled vnto thee, and bee thou their safeguard.

8 After many dayes thou shalt bee visited: for in the latter yeeres thou shalt come into the land, that hath bin destroyed with the sword, and is gathered out of many people, vpon the mountaines of Israel, which haue long lien waste: yet they haue bene brought out of the people, and they shall dwell all safe.

9 Thou shalt ascend and come by like a tempest, and shalt be like a cloud to couer the land, both thou and all thy bands, and many people with thee.

10 Thus saith the Lord God, Euen at the same time shall many things come into thy minde, and thou shalt thinke in thine thoughts.

God, In that day when my people of Israel dwellereth safe, shalt thou not know it,

15 And come from thy place out of the North parts, thou and much people with people of Israel, as a cloud to couer the land:

thou shalt be in the latter dayes, and I will bring thee vpon my land, that the heathen may know me, when I shall be sanctified in thee, O Gog, before their eyes.

of Israel, which prophesied in those dayes come against the land of Israel, saith the Lord God, my wrath shall arise in mine anger.

of my wrath haue I spoken it: surely at that time there shall be a great shaking in the land of Israel.

fowles of the heauen, and the beasts of the field, and all that moue and creepe vpon the earth, and all the men that are vpon the earth shall tremble at my presence, and the mountaines shall be ouerthrowen, and the staires shall fall, and euery wall shall fall to the ground.

21 For I will call for a sword against him throughout all my mountaines, saith the Lord God: euery mans sword shall be against his brother.

22 And I will plead against him with pestilence, and with blood, and I will cause to raine vpon him and vpon his bands, and vpon the great people, that are with him, a sore raine, and hallelstones, fire, and brimstone.

Lord.

gainst Gog, & say, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against thee, O Gog, the chiefe prince of Meshech and Tubal.

2 And I will destroy thee, and leaue but the sixt part of thee, and will cause thee to come vp from the North parts, & will bring thee vpon the mountaines of Israel:

3 And I will smite thy bowe out of thy left hand, and I will cause thine arrowes to fall out of thy right hand,

4 Thou shalt fall vpon the mountaines of Israel, and all thy bands, and the people that is with thee: for I will giue thee vnto the birds, and to euery feathered foule and beast of the field to be deuoured.

5 Thou shalt fall vpon the open field: for
I haue spoken it, saith the Lord God.

6 And I will send a fire on Magog, and among them that dwell safely in the Isles, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

7 So will I make mine holy Name known in the middes of my people Israel, and I will not suffer them to pollute mine holy Name any more, and the heathen shall know that I am the Lord, the Holy one of Israel.

8 Behold, it is come, and it is done, saith the Lord God: this is the day whereof
I haue spoken.

9 And they that dwell in the cities of Israel, shall goe forth, and shall burne and set fire vpon the weapons, and on the shields, and bucklers, vpon the bowes, and vpon the ar-rowes, and vpon the staves in their hands, and vpon the speares, and they shall burne them with fire seuen yeeres.

10 So that they shall bring no wood out of the field, neither cut downe any out of the forests: for they shall burne the weapons with fire, and they shall robbe those that robbed them, and people those that spoiled them,
saith the Lord God.

11 And at the same time will I giue vnto Gog, a place there for buriall in Israel, euen the valley whereby men goe toward the East part of the sea: and it shall cause them that passe by, to stoppe their noses, and there shall they bury Gog with all his multitude: and they shall call it the valley of Hamon-Gog.

12 And seuen moneths long shall the house of Israel be burying of them, that they may cleanse the land.

13 Yea, all the people of the land shall burie them, and they shall haue a name when I shall be glorified, saith the Lord God.

14 And they shall chuse out men to go continually through the land with them that trauile to burye hole that remaine vpon the grauens, to cleanse it: they shall search to the end of seuen moneths.

15 And the traualers that passe thorow the land, if any see a mans bone, then shall he set vp a stone by it, till the buriers haue buried it in the valley of Hamon-Gog.

16 And also the name of the cite shall bee
Hamonah: thus shall they cleanse the land.

17 And thou sonne of man, thus saith the Lord God, Speake vnto euery feathered foule, and to all the beasts of the field, Assemble your selues, and come: gather your selues on euery side to my sacrifice, for I doe sacrifice a great sacrifice for you vpon the mountaines of Israel, that ye may eate flesh and drinke blood.

21 And I will set my glory among the heathen, and all the heathen shall see my iudgement that I haue executed, and mine hand, which I haue laid vpon them.

22 So the house of Israel shall knowe, that I am the Lord their God from that day and so forth.

23 And the heathen shall know, that the house of Israel went into captiuitie for their iniquity, because they trespassed against me: therefore hid I my face from them, and gaue them into the hand of their enemies: so fell they all by the sword.

24 According to their uncleannesse, and according to their transgressions haue I done vnto them, and hid my face from them.

25 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Now will I bring againe the captiuitie of Iacob, & haue compassion vpon the whole house of Israel, and will be ielous for mine holy Name, 26 After that they haue borne their shame, and all their transgression, whereby they haue transgressed against mee, when they dwelt safely in their land, and without feare of any.

27 When I haue brought them againe from the people, and gathered them out of their enemies lands, and am sanctified in them in the sight of many nations, 28 Then shall they know, that I am the Lord their God, which caused them to be ledde into captiuitie among the heathen: but I haue gathered them vnto their owne land, and haue left none of them any more there.

29 Neither will I hide my face any more from them: for I haue powred out my Spirit vpon the house of Israel, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XL.

The restoring of the Citie, and the Temple.

In the fine and twentieth yeere of our being in captiuitie, in the beginning of the yeere, in the tenth day of the moneth, in the fourteenth yeere after that the citie was smitten, in the selfe same day, the hand of the Lord was vpon mee, and brought mee thither.

2 Into the land of Israel brought he me by a diuine vision, and set me vpon a very high mountaine, whereupon was the building of a citie toward the South.

3 And he brought me thither, and behold there was a man, whose similitude was to looke to, like braile, with a linnen theed in his hand, and a reede to measure with: and he stood at the gate.

4 And the man said vnto me, Sonne of man, behold with thine eyes, and heare with thine eares, and let thine heart vpon all that I shall shew thee: for to the intent that they might be shewed thee, art thou brought hither: declare all that thou seest, vnto the house of Israel.

5 And behold, I saw a wall on the outside of the house round about: and in the mans hand was a reede to measure with, of sixe cubites long by the cubite, and an hand breadth: so hee measured the breadth of the building with one reed, and the height with one reed.

6 Then came hee vnto the gate, which looketh towards the East, and went by the staires thereof, and measured the poise of the gate, which was one reed broad, and the other poise of the gate, which was one reed broad.

7 And euery chamber was one reed long, and one reed broad, and betweene the chambers were sixe cubites: and the poise of the gate by the porch of the gate within was one reed.

8 He measured also the porch of the gate within with one reed.

9 Then measured hee the porch of the gate of eight cubites, and the poises thereof, of two cubites, and the porch of the gate was inward.

10 And the chambers of the gate Eastward, were three on this side, and three on that side: they three were of one measure, and the poises had one measure on this side, and one on that side.

11 And hee measured the breadth of the entry of the gate ten cubites, and the height of the gate thirteene cubites.

12 The space also before the chambers was one cubite on this side, and the space was one cubite on that side, and the chambers were sixe cubits on this side, and sixe cubites on that side.

13 Hee measured then the gate from the roofof a chamber to the top of the gate: the breadth was sixe and twenty cubites, doore against doore.

14 He made also postes of threescore cubites, and the postes of the court, and of the gate had one measure round about.

15 And vpon the forefront of the entry of the gate vnto the forefront of the porch of the gate within were fifty cubites.

16 And there were narrow windowes in the chambers, and in their postes within the gate round about, and likewise to the arches: and the windowes went round about within: and vpon the postes were palme trees.

17 Then brought he mee into the outward court, and loe, there were chambers, and a pauement made for the court round about, and thirty chambers were vpon the pauement.

18 And the pauement was by the side of the gates ouer against the length of the gates, and the pauement was beneath.

19 Then hee measured the breadth from the forefront of the lower gate without, vnto the forefront of the court within, an hundred cubits Eastward and Northward.

20 And the gate of the outward court, that looked toward the North, measured he after the length and breadth thereof.

21 And the chambers thereof were, three on this side, and three on that side, and the postes thereof and the arches thereof

22 And their windows and their arches with their palme trees, were after the measure of the gate: & looketh toward the East, and the going up vnto it had seven steps, and the arches thereof were before them.

23 And the gate of the inner court stood ouer against the gate toward the North, and toward the East, & he measured from gate to gate an hundred cubites.

24 After that he brought me toward the South, and loe there was a gate toward the South, and he measured the postes thereof, and the arches thereof according to these measures.

25 And there were windows in it, and in the arches thereof round about like those windows: the height was fiftie cubites, and the breadth five and twentie cubites.

26 And there were seven steps to goe vp to it, & the arches thereof were before them: and it had palme trees, one on this side, and another on that side vpon the poste thereof.

27 And there was a gate in the inner court by the South gate, and hee measured from gate to gate toward the South an hundred cubites.

28 And hee brought mee into the inner court by the South gate, & he measured the South gate according to these measures:

29 And the chambers thereof, and the postes thereof, and the arches thereof according to these measures, and there were windows in it, and in the arches thereof round about, it was fiftie cubites long, and five and twenty cubites broad.

30 And the arches round about were five and twenty cubites long, and five cubites broad.

31 And the arches thereof were toward the better court, and palme trees were vpon the postes thereof, and the going vp to it had eight steps.

32 Again he brought me into the inner court toward the East, and he measured the gate according to these measures.

33 And the chambers thereof, and the postes thereof, and the arches thereof were according to these measures, and there were windows therein, and in the arches thereof round about, it was fifty cubits long, and five and twenty cubites broad.

34 And the arches thereof were toward the better court, and palme trees were vpon the postes thereof, on this side and on that side, and the going vp to it had eight steps.

35 After he brought me to the North gate, and measured it, according to these measures, 36 The chambers thereof, the postes thereof, and the arches thereof, and there were windows therein round about: the height was fifty cubites, and the breadth five and twenty cubites.

37 And the postes thereof were toward the better court, and palme trees were vpon the postes thereof on this side, and on that side, and the going vp to it had eight steps.

38 And every chamber, and the entrie thereof was vnder the postes of the gates: there they washed the burnt offering.

39 And in the porch of the gate stood two tables on this side, and two tables on that side, vpon the which they slew the burnt offering, and the sinne offering, and the trespass offering.

40 And at the side beyond the steppes, at the entrie of the North gate stood two tables, and on the other side, which was at the porch of the gate, were two tables.

41 Foure tables were on this side, and foure tables on that side by the side of the gate, even eight tables wherupon they slew their sacrifice.

42 And the foure tables were of heuven stone for the burnt offering, of a cubit and an halfe long, and a cubite and an halfe broad, and one cubite hie, wherupon also they layd the instruments wherewith they slew the burnt offering and the sacrifice.

43 And within were borders an hand broad, fastened round about, and vpon the tables lay the flesh of the offering.

44 And without the inner gate, were the chambers of the singers in the inner court, which was at the side of the North gate: and their prospect was toward the South, and one was at the side of the East gate, hauing the prospect toward the North.

45 And he said vnto me, This chamber whose prospect is toward the South, is for the Priests that haue charge to keepe the house.

46 And the chamber whose prospect is toward the North, is for the Priests that haue the charge to keepe the Altar: these are the sonnes of Zadok among the sonnes of Levi, which may come neere to the Lord to minister vnto him.

47 So he measured the court an hundred cubites long, and an hundred cubites broad, even square: likewise the altar that was before the house.

48 And he brought me to the porch of the house, and measured the postes of the porch, five cubites on this side, and five cubites on that side: and the breadth of the gate was three cubites on this side, and three cubites on that side.

49 The length of the porch was twenty cubites, and the breadth eleven cubites, and he brought me by the steps wherby they went vp to it, and there were pillars by the postes, one on this side, and another on that side.

CHAP. xli.

1 The disposition and order of the building of the Temple, and the other things thereto belonging.

Afterward hee brought me to the Temple, and measured the posts, five cubites broad on the one side, and five cubites broad on the other side, which was the breadth of the Tabernacle.

2 And the breadth of the entrie was ten cubites, and the sides of the entrie were five cubites on the one side, and five cubites on the other side, and hee measured the length thereof forty cubits, and the breadth twentie cubites.

3 Then went hee in, and measured the postes poles of the entry two cubites, and the entire six cubites, and the breadth of the entry seven cubites.

4 So hee measured the length thereof twenty cubites, and the breadth twenty cubites before the Temple. And he said unto me, This is the most holy place.

5 After, hee measured the wall of the house, six cubites, and the breadth of every chamber four cubits round about the house on every side.

6 And the chambers were chamber upon chamber, three and thirtie foot high, & they entered into the wall made for the chambers which was round about the house, that the poles might be fastened therein, and not be fastened in the wall of the house.

7 And it was large, and went round mounting upward to the chambers, for the staire of the house was mounting upward round about the house: therefore the house was larger upward: so they went up from the lowest chamber to the highest by 3 mids.

8 I saw also the house hee round about: the foundations of the chambers were a full reed of six great cubites.

9 The thicknes of the wall which was for the chamber without was six cubits, and that which remained, was the place of the chambers that were within.

10 And betweene the chambers was the widenesse of twenty cubites round about the house on every side.

11 And the doores of the chambers were toward the place that remained, one doore toward the North, and another doore toward the South, and the breadth of the place that remained, was six cubits round about.

12 Now the building that was before the separate place towards the West corner, was twenty cubites broad, and the wall of the building was six cubites thicke, round about, and the length ninety cubites.

13 So hee measured the house an hundred cubites long, and the separate place, and the building with the walls thereof were an hundred cubites long.

14 Also the breadth of the forefront of the house, and of the separate place toward the East was an hundred cubites.

15 And hee measured the length of the building over against the separate place, which was behinde it, and the chambers on the one side, and on the other side an hundred cubites with the temple within, and the arches of the court.

16 The posts and the narrow windows, and the chambers round about, on three sides enter against the posts, filled with Cedar wood round about, and from the ground up to the windows, and the windows were filled.

17 And from above the doore unto the inner house and without, and by all the wall round about within and without it was filled according to the measure.

18 And it was made with Cherubims and palme trees, so that a palme tree was betweene a Cherub and a Cherub: and every Cherub had two faces.

19 So that the face of a man was toward the palme tree on the one side, and the face of a lyon toward the palme tree on the other side: thus was it made thorow all the house round about.

20 From the ground unto above the doore were Cherubims and palme trees made as in the wall of the Temple.

21 The posts of the Temple were squared, and thus to looke unto was the similitude and forme of the Sanctuary.

22 The altar of wood was three cubites hie, and the length thereof two cubites, and the corners thereof, and the length thereof, and the sides thereof were of wood. And hee said unto me, This is the table that shall be before the Lord.

23 And the Temple and the Sanctuary had two doores.

24 And the doores had two wickets, even two turning wickets, two wickets for one doore, and two wickets for another doore.

25 And upon the doores of the Temple there were made Cherubims, and palme trees, like as was made upon the walles, and there were thicke planks upon the forefront of the porch without.

26 And there were narrow windows and palme trees on the one side, and on the other side by the sides of the porch, and upon the sides of the house, and thicke planks.

CHAP. XLII.

Of the chambers of the Temple for the Priests, and the holy things.

Then brought he mee into the vtter court by the way toward the North, and hee brought me into the chamber that was over against the separate place, and which was before the building toward the North.

2 Before the length of an hundred cubites was the North doore, and it was fifty cubites broad.

3 Over against the twenty cubites which were for the inner court, and over against the pavement, which was for the vtter court, was chamber against chamber in three rows.

4 And before the chambers was a gallerie of ten cubits wide, and within was a way of one cubite, and their doores toward the North.

5 Now the chambers above were narrower: for those chambers seemed to eate up these, to wit, the lower, and those that were in the mids of the building.

6 For they were in three rows, but had not pillars as the pillars of the court: therefore there was a difference from them beneath and from the middlemost, even from the ground.

7 And the wall that was without over against the chambers, toward the vtter court on the forefront of the chambers, was fifty cubits long.

8 For the length of the chambers that were in the vtter court, was fifty cubites, and loe, before the Temple were an hundred cubites.

9 And vnder these chambers was the entrie on the East side, as one goeth into them from the outward part.

10 The chambers were in the thicknesse of the wall of the court toward the East ouer against the separate place, and ouer against the building.

11 And the way before them was after the maner of the chambers, which were toward the North, as long as they, and as broad as they: and all their entries were like, both according to their fashions, and according to their doores.

12 And according to the doores of the chambers that were toward the South, was a doore in the corner of the way, even the way directly before the wall toward the East, as one entereth.

13 Then sayd he vnto mee, The North chambers, and the South chambers which are before the separate place, they be holy chambers, wherein the Priests that approach vnto the Lorde shall eat the most holy things: there shall they lay the most holy things, and the meat offering, and the sinne offering, and the trespass offering: for the place is holy.

14 When the Priests enter therein, they shall not goe out of the holy place into the vnder court, but there they shall lay their garments wherein they minister: for they are holy, and shall put on other garments, and so shall approach to those things which are for the people.

15 Now when hee had made an ende of measuring the inner house, hee brought me forth toward the gate whose prospect is toward the East, & measured it round about.

16 Hee measured the East side with the measuring rodde, five hundred reedes, even with the measuring reede round about.

17 He measured also the North side, five hundred reedes, even with the measuring reede round about.

18 And he measured the South side, five hundred reedes with the measuring reede.

19 He turned about also to the West side, and measured five hundred reedes with the measuring reede.

20 Hee measured it by the four sides: it had a wall round about, five hundred reedes long, and five hundred broad, to make a separation betweene the Sanctuary and the profane place.

CHAP. XLIIII.

2 He seeth the glory of God going into the Temple, from whence it had before departed. 7 Hee mentioneth the idolatry of the children of Israel, for the which they were consumed and brought to nought. 9 Hee is commanded to call them againe to repentance.

Afterward hee brought me to the gate, & euē the gate that turneth toward the East.

2 And behold, the glory of the God of Israel came from out of the East, whose voice was like a noise of great waters, and the earth was made light with his glory.

3 And the vision which I saw was like the vision, even as the vision that I saw when I came to destroy the cite: and the visions were like the vision that I saw by the riuer Chebar: and I fell vpon my face.

4 And the glory of the Lord came into the house by the way of the gate, whose prospect is toward the East.

5 So the Spirit tokke me by, & brought me into the inner court, and behold the glory of the Lord filled the house.

6 And I heard one speaking vnto me out of the house: and there stood a man by me,

7 Which sayd vnto me, Sonne of man, this place is my throne, and the place of the soles of my feet, whereas I will dwell among the children of Israel for ever, and the house of Israel shall no more defile mine holy Name, neither they nor their kings by their fornication, nor by the carkeles of their kings in their high places.

8 Albeit they set their thresholds by my thresholds, and their posts by my posts (for there was but a wall betweene me and them) yet haue they defiled mine holy Name with their abominations that they haue committed: wherefore I haue consumed them in my wrath.

9 Now therefore let them put away their fornication, and the carkeles of their kings farre from me, and I wil dwell among them for ever.

10 Thou Sonne of man, shew this house to the house of Israel, that they may be ashamed of their wickednesse, and let them measure the paterne.

11 And if they be ashamed of all that they haue done, shew them the forme of the house, and the paterne thereof, and the going out thereof, and the coming in thereof, and the whole fashion thereof, and all the ordinances thereof, and all the figures thereof, and all the lawes thereof: and write it in their sight, that they may keepe the whole fashion thereof, and all the ordinances thereof, and doe them.

12 This is the description of the house, it shall bee vpon the top of the mount: all the limits thereof round about shall be most holy. Behold, this is the description of the house.

13 And these are the measures of the Altar after the cubites: the cubite is a cubite and an hand breadth, euen the bottome shalbe a cubite, and the breadth a cubite, and the border thereof by the edge thereof round about shall be a span: and this shall be the height of the Altar.

14 And from the bottome which toucheth the ground to the lower piece, shalbe two cubits, and the breadth one cubite, and from the little piece to the great piece shalbe foure cubites, and the breadth one cubite.

15 So the Altar shalbe foure cubites, and from the altar vppward shalbe foure hornes.

16 And the altar shalbe twelue cubits long and twelue broad, and foure square in the foure corners thereof.

17 And the frame shalbe fourteene cubits long, & foureteene broad in the foure square corners thereof, and the border about it shall be halfe a cubit, and the bottome thereof shall be a cubit about, and the steps thereof shalbe turned toward the East.

Chap. 9 3.
a When I prophesied the destruction of the cite by the Chaldeans.

18 And he said unto me, Sonne of man, thus saith the Lord God, These are the ordinances of the altar in the day when they shall make it to offer the burnt offering thereon, and to sprinkle blood thereon.

19 And thou shalt give to the Priests, and to the Leuites that bee of the seed of Zadok, which approach unto me, to minister unto me, saith the Lord God, a young bullocke for a sinne offering.

20 And thou shalt take of the blood thereof, and put it on the four corners of it, and on the four corners of the frame, and upon the border round about: thus shalt thou cleanse it and reconsecrate it.

21 Thou shalt take the bullocke also of the sinne offering, & burne it in the appointed place of the house without the Sanctuary.

22 But the second day thou shalt offer an hee goat without blemish for a sinne offering, and they shall cleanse the Altar, as they did cleanse it with the bullocke.

23 When thou shalt make an end of cleansing it, thou shalt offer a young bullocke without blemish, and a ramme out of the flocke without blemish.

24 And thou shalt offer them before the Lord, and the Priests shall cast salt upon them, and they shall offer them for a burnt offering unto the Lord.

25 Seven dayes shalt thou prepare every day an hee goat for a sin offering: they shall also prepare a young bullocke and a ramme out of the flocke without blemish.

26 Thus shall they seven dayes purifie the altar, and cleanse it, and consecrate it.

27 And when these dayes are expired, upon the eighth day and so forth, the Priests shall make your burnt offerings upon the altar, and your peace offerings, and I will accept you, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XLIIII.

Hee reproveth the people for their offence. 7 The vncircumcised in heart, and in the flesh. 9 Who are to bee admitted to the service of the Temple, and who to be refused.

When he brought mee toward the gate of the outward Sanctuary, which turneth toward the East, and it was shut.

2 Then sayd the Lord unto mee, This gate shall bee shut, and shall not bee opened, and no man shall enter by it, because the Lord God of Israel hath entered by it, and it shall be shut.

3 It appertaineth to the prince: the prince himselfe shall sit in it to eat bread before the Lord: he shall enter by the way of the porch of that gate, and shall goe out by the way of the same.

4 Then brought hee mee toward the North gate before the house: & when I looked, behold, the glory of the Lord filled the house of the Lord, and I fell upon my face.

5 And the Lord sayd unto mee, Sonne of man, I marke well, and beholde with thine eyes, and heare with thine eares, all that I say unto thee, concerning all the ordinances of the House of the Lord, and all the Lawes thereof, and marke well the entering in of the House with every going forth of the Sanctuary.

6 And thou shalt say to the rebellious, even to the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God, I house of Israel, ye have enough of all your abominations,

7 Seeing that ye have brought into my Sanctuary strangers, vncircumcised in heart, and vncircumcised in flesh, to be in my Sanctuary, to pollute mine house, when ye offer my bread, even fat and blood: and they have broken my covenant, because of all your abominations.

8 For ye have not kept the ordinances of mine holy things: but you your selves have let other to take the charge of my Sanctuary.

9 Thus saith the Lord God, No stranger vncircumcised in heart, nor vncircumcised in flesh, shall enter into my Sanctuary, of any stranger that is among the children of Israel, 10 Neither yet the Leuites that are gone backe from mee, when Israel went astray, which went astray from me after their idols, but they shall beare their iniquitie.

11 And they shall serve in my Sanctuary, and keepe the gates of the House, and minister in the House: they shall slay the burnt offering and the sacrifice for the people, and they shall stand before them to serve them.

12 Because they served before their idols, and caused the house of Israel to fall into iniquity: therefore have I lift up mine hand against them, saith the Lord God, and they shall beare their iniquitie.

13 And they shall not come neere unto me to do the office of the Priest unto me, neither shall they come neere unto any of mine holy things in the most holy place, but they shall beare their shame and their abominations, which they have committed.

14 And I will make them keepers of the watch of the house, for all the service thereof, and for all that shall be done therein.

15 But the Priests of the Leuites, the sonnes of Zadok, that kept the charge of my Sanctuary, when the children of Israel went astray from mee, they shall come neere to me to serve me, and they shall stand before me to offer me the fat and the blood, saith the Lord God.

16 They shall enter into my Sanctuary, and shall come neere to my table to serve me, and they shall keepe my charge.

17 And when they shall enter in at the gates of the inner court, they shall be clothed with linnen garments, and no wooll shall come upon them, while they serve in the gates of the inner court, and within.

18 They shall have linnen bonnets upon their heades, and shall have linnen breeches upon their loynes: they shall not gird themselves in the sweating places.

19 And when they goe forth into the outer court, even to the outer court to the people, they shall put off their garments, wherein they ministered, and lay them in the holy chambers, and they shall put on other garments: for they shall not sanctifie the people

23 And they shall teach my people the difference betweene the holy and profane, and cause them to discern betweene the unclean and the cleane.

24 And in controuersie they shall stand to iudge, and they shall iudge it according to my iudgements: and they shall keepe my lawes and my statutes in all mine assemblies, and they shall sanctifie my Sabbaths.

27 And when he goeth into the Sanctuary vnto the inner court to minister in the Sanctuary, he shall offer his sinne offering, sayth the Lord God.

28 And the Priesthood shall be their inheritance, yea, I am their inheritance: therefore shall ye giue them no possession in Israel, for I am their possession.

29 They shall eate the meat offering, and the sinne offering, and the trespass offering, and every dedicate thing in Israel, shall be theirs.

30 And all the first of all the first borne, and every oblation, even all of every sort of your oblations shall be the Priests. Ye shall also giue vnto the Priest the first of your dough, that he may cause the blessing to rest in thine house.

31 The Priests shall not eat of any thing that is dead, orayne, whether it be foule or beast.

CHAP. XLV.

1 Out of the land of promise are there separate foure portions, of which the first is giuen to the Priests and to the Temple, the second to the Leuites, the third to the citie, the fourth to the prince. 2 An exhortation vnto the heads of Israel. 3 Of iust weights and measures. 4 Of the first fruits, &c.

Moreouer, when ye shall diuide the land for inheritance, ye shall offer an oblation vnto the Lord, an holy portion of the land, sine and twentie thousand reedes long, and ten thousand broad: this shall be holy in all the borders thereof round about.

2 Of this there shall bee for the Sanctuary sine hundredth in length, with sine hundredth in breadth, all square round about, and fiftie cubites round about for the suburbs thereof.

3 And of this measure shalt thou measure the length of sine and twentie thousand, and the breadth of tenne thousand: and in it shall be the Sanctuary, and the most holy place.

4 The holy portion of the land shall be the Priests, which minister in the Sanctuary, which come neere to serue the Lord: and it shall bee a place for their houses, and an holy place for the Sanctuary.

5 And in the sine and twentie thousand of length, and the ten thousand of breadth, shall the Leuites that minister in the house, haue their possession for twenty chambers.

6 Also ye shall appoynt the possession of the citie sine thousand broad, and sine and twentie thousand long ouer against the oblation of the holy portion: it shall be for the whole house of Israel.

7 And a portion shall bee for the prince on the one side, and on that side of the oblation of the holy portion, and of the possession of the citie, even before the oblation of the holy portion, and before the possession of the citie from the West corner Westward, and from the East corner Eastward, and the length shall be by one of the portions from the West border vnto the East border.

8 In this land shall bee his possession in Israel: and my princes shall no more oppress my people, and the rest of the land shall they giue to the house of Israel according to their tribes.

9 Thus saith the Lord God, Let it suffice you, O princes of Israel: leave off crueltie and oppression, and execute iudgement and iustice: take away your exactions from my people, saith the Lord God.

10 Ye shall haue iust balances, and a true Ephah, and a true Bath.

11 The Ephah and the Bath shall be equall: a Bath shall containe the tenth part of an Homer, and an Ephah the tenth part of an Homer: the equalitie thereof shall be after the Homer.

12 And the shekel shall bee twentie gerahs, and twentie shekels, and sine and twentie shekels, and fiftene shekels shall be your Maneh.

13 This is the oblation that ye shall offer, the first part of an Ephah of an Homer of wheat, and ye shall giue the first part of an Ephah of an Homer of barley.

14 Concerning the ordinance of the oyle, even of the Bath of oyle, ye shall offer the tenth part of a Bath out of the Oze, (tenne Baths are an Homer, for ten Baths fill an Homer.)

15 And one lambe of two hundred sheepe out of the fat pastures of Israel for a meate offering, and for a burnt offering, and for peace offerings, to make reconciliation for them, saith the Lord God.

16 All the people of the land shall giue this oblation for the prince in Israel.

17 And it shall be the princes part to giue burnt offerings, and meate offerings, and drinke offerings in the solenne feasts, and in the new moones, and in the Sabbaths, and in all the high feasts of the house of Israel: he shall prepare the sinne offering, and the meate offering, and the burnt offering, and the peace offerings to make reconciliation for the house of Israel.

CHAP. XLVI.

ⁱ The sacrifices of the Sabbath and of the new Moones, 8. Thow which doores they must goe in, or come out of the Temple, &c.

Thus sayth the Lord God, The gate of the inner court, that turneth toward the East, shall be shut the six working dayes: but on the Sabbath it shall be opened, and in the day of the new moone it shall be opened.

2 And the prince shall enter by the way of the porch of that gate without, and shall stand by the post of the gate, and the Priests shall make his burnt offering, and his peace offerings, and hee shall worship at the threshold of the gate, after hee shall goe forth, but the gate shall not be shut till the evening.

3 Likewise the people of the land shall worship at the entry of this gate before the Lord on the Sabbaths, and in the new Moones.

4 And the burnt offering that the prince shall offer unto the Lord on the Sabbath day shall be six lambs without blemish, and a ramme without blemish.

5 And the meat offering shall be an Ephah for a ramme: and the meat offering for the lambs ^a a gift of his hand, and an ^h hin of oyle to an Ephah.

a That is, as much as he will.

6 And in the day of the new moone shall be a young bullocke without blemish, and six lambs and a ramme: they shall be without blemish.

b Meaning, as he shall thinke good.

7 And he shall prepare a meat offering, even an Ephah for a bullocke, and an Ephah for a ramme, and for the lambs ^b according as his hand shall bring, and an ^h hin of oyle to an Ephah.

8 And when the prince shall enter, he shall goe in by the way of the porch of that gate, and he shall goe forth by the way thereof.

9 But when the people of the land shall come before the Lord in the solemn feastes, hee that entereth in by the way of the North gate to worship, shall goe out by the way of the South gate: and hee that entereth by the way of the South gate, shall goe forth by the way of the North gate: hee shall not returne by the way of the gate whereby hee came in: but they shall goe forth over against it.

10 And the prince shall be in the midst of them: hee shall goe in when they goe in, and when they goe forth, they shall goe forth together.

11 And in the feastes, and in the solemnities, the meat offering shall be an Ephah to a bullocke, and an Ephah to a ramme, and to the lambs, the gift of his hand, and an ^h hin of oyle to an Ephah.

12 Now when the prince shall make a free burnt offering, or peace offerings freely unto the Lord, one shall then open him the gate, that turneth toward the East, and hee shall make his burnt offering, and his peace offerings as he did on the Sabbath day: after, he shall goe forth, and when he is gone forth, one shall shut the gate.

13 Thou shalt dayly make a burnt offering unto the Lord of a lambe of one yeere without blemish: thou shalt doe it every morning.

14 And thou shalt prepare a meat offering for it every morning, the first part of an Ephah, and the third part of an ^h hin of oyle, to mingle with the fine flour: this meat offering shall be continually by a perpetuall ordinance unto the Lord.

15 Thus shall they prepare the lambe, and the meat offering, and the oyle every morning, for a continuall burnt offering.

16 Thus sayth the Lord God, If the prince give a gift of his inheritance unto any of his sonnes, it shall be his sonnes, and it shall be their possession by inheritance.

17 But if he give a gift of his inheritance to one of his servants, then it shall be his to the yeere of liberty: after, it shall returne to the prince, but his inheritance shall remaine to his sonnes for them.

18 Moreover, the prince shall not take of the peoples inheritance, nor thrust them out of their possession: but he shall cause his sonnes to inherit of his owne possession, that my people be not scattered: every man from his possession.

19 After, hee brought mee through the entry, which was at the side of the gate, into the holy chambers of the Priests, which stood toward the North: and behold, there was a place at the West side of them.

20 Then sayd hee unto mee, This is the place where the Priests shall seeke the trespass offering, and the sinne offering, where they shall bake the meat offering, that they should not beare them into the inner court, to sanctifie the people.

21 Then he brought mee forth into the outer court, and caused mee to goe by the four corners corners of the court: and behold, in every corner of the court, there was a court.

22 In the four corners of the court there were courts topped of forty cubits long, and forty broad: these four corners were of one measure.

23 And there went a wall about them, even about those four, & kitchens were made under the walls round about.

24 Then said he unto mee, This is the kitchen where the ministers of the house shall see the sacrifice of the people.

CHAP. XLVII.

1 The vision of the waters, that came out of the Temple. 13 The coasts of the land of promise, and the division thereof by tribes.

Afterward he brought me unto the door of the house: and behold, waters issued out from under the threshold of the house Eastward: for the forefront of the house stood toward the East, and the waters ranne down from under the right side of the house, at the South side of the altar.

2 Then brought he mee out toward the Northgate, and ledde mee about by the way without unto the utter gate, by the way that turneth Eastward: and behold, there came forth waters on the right side.

3 And when the man that had the line in his hand went forth Eastward, he measured a thousand cubits, and he brought me through the waters: the waters were to the ancles.

4 Again he measured a thousand, and brought me through the waters: the waters were to the knees: again he measured a thousand, and brought me through: the waters were to the loynes.

5 Afterward he measured a thousand, and it was a river that I could not passe over: for the waters were risen, and the waters did flow as a river that could not be passed over.

6 And he said unto me, Son of man, hast thou seen this? Then he brought me, & caused me to returne to the brink of the river.

7 Now when I returned, behold, at the brink of the river were very many trees on the one side, and on the other.

8 Then said he unto me, These waters issue out toward the East countrey, and run downe into the plaine, and shall goe into one sea: they shall runne into another sea, and the waters shall be wholesome.

9 And every thing that liueth, which mooueth, wheresoener the rivers shall come, shall liue, and there shall bee a very great multitude of fish, because the waters shall come thither: for they shall bee wholesome, and every thing shall liue whither the river cometh.

10 And then the fishers shall stand upon it, & from En-gedi even unto En-eglain, they shall spread out their nets: for their fish shall be according to their kinds, as the fish of the maine sea, exceeding many.

11 But the myrie places thereof, and the marishes thereof shall not be wholesome: they shall be made salt pits.

12 And then he brought me out, and he brought me to the great sea, where there are great abundance as in the great Ocean where they are bred. That is, the wicked and reprobate.

12 And by this river upon the brink thereof, on this side, and on that side shall grow all fruitfull trees, whole lease shall not fade, neither shall the fruit thereof faile: it shall bring forth new fruit according to his months, because their waters runne out of the Sanctuary: and the fruit thereof shall be meate, and the lease thereof shall bee for medicine.

13 Thus saith the Lord God, This shall be the border, whereby ye shall inherit the land according to the twelve tribes of Israel: Joseph shall haue two portions.

14 And ye shall inherit it, one as well as another: concerning the which I lift up mine hand to giue it unto your fathers, and this land shall fall unto you for inheritance.

15 And this shall be the border of the land toward the North side, from the maine Sea toward Bethlon as men goe to Zedadah:

16 Hamath, Berothah, Sibmah, which is betweene the border of Damascus, and the border of Hamath, and Hazer, Hatticon, which is by the coast of Hauran.

17 And the border from the Sea shall be Hazer, Enan, and the border of Damascus, and the residue of the North, Northward, and the border Hamath: so shall be the North part.

18 But the East side shall ye measure from Hauran, and from Damascus, and from Gilead, and from the land of Israel by Jordan, and from the border unto the East sea: and so shall be the East part.

19 And the South side shall be toward Teman from Tamar to the waters of Beriboth in Kadesh, and the river to the maine sea: so shall be the South part toward Teman.

20 The West part also shall be the great sea from the border, till a man come ouer against Hamath: this shall be the West part.

21 So shall ye diuide this land unto you, according to the tribes of Israel.

22 And you shall diuide it by lot for an inheritance unto you, and to the strangers that dwell among you, which shall beget children among you, and they shall bee unto you as borne in the countrey among the children of Israel: they shall part inheritance with you in the middes of the tribes of Israel.

23 And in what tribe the stranger dwelleth, there shall ye giue him his inheritance, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XLVIII.

1 The lots of the tribes. 9 The parts of the possession of the Priests of the Temple, of the Levites, of the cities, and of the Prince are rehearsed.

Now these are the names of the tribes: from the North side, to the coast toward Bethlon, as one goeth to Hamath, Hazer, Enan, and the border of Damascus Northward the coast of Hamath, even from the East side to the West shall be a portion for Dan.

2 And by the border of Dan from the East side to the West side, a portion for Asher.

3 And by the border of Asher from the East part even unto the West part, a portion for Naphtali.

Or, tree for meat.

Or, for bruise and sore.

Gen. 48. 22.

Gen. 13. 7. and 13. 15. and 15. 18. and 26. 4.

dent. 34. 4. k By the land of promise he signifieth the spirituall land, whereof this was a figure.

Or, strife.

1 Meaning, that in this spirituall kingdom there should be no difference betweene Jew nor Gentile, but that all should be partakers of this inheritance in their head Christ.

a The tribes, after that they entered into the land vnder Joshua, diuided the land so: each otherwise then is here set forth by this vision.

a Whereby are meant the spirituall graces that should be giuen to the church vnder the kingdom of christ.

b Signifying, that the graces of God should neuer decrease, but euer abound in his church, c meaning, the multitude of them that should be refreshed by the spirituall waters.

d Shewing that the abundance of these graces should be so great, that all the world should be full thereof which is here meant by the Persian sea, or Genesareth, and the sea called Mediterraeneum, Zech. 14. 8.

e The waters which of nature are salt and vnholefome, shall be made sweet and comfortable. f Signifying, that when God bestoweth his mercies in such abundance, the ministers shall by their preaching winne many.

g Which were cities at the corners of the salt or dead sea. h They shall be here of all sorts and in as great abundance as in the great Ocean where they are bred.

i That is, the wicked and reprobate.

4 And by the border of Naphtali from the East quarter unto the West side, a portion for Manasseh.

5 And by the border of Manasseh from the East side unto the West side, a portion for Ephraim.

6 And by the border of Ephraim, from the East part even unto the West part, a portion for Reuben.

7 And by the border of Reuben, from the East quarter unto the West quarter, a portion for Judah.

8 And by the border of Judah, from the East part unto the West part ^b shall bee the offering which they shall offer of five and twentie thousand reedes broad, and of length as one of the other parts, from the East side unto the West side, and the Sanctuary shall be in the mids of it.

9 The oblation that yee shall offer unto the Lord shall be of five and twentie thousand long, and of ten thousand the breadth.

10 And for them, even for the Priests, shall be this holy oblation, toward the North side and twenty thousand long, and toward the West tenne thousand broad, and toward the East tenne thousand broad, and toward the South side and twenty thousand long, and the Sanctuary of the Lord shall be in the mids thereof.

11 It shall be for the Priests, that are sanctified of the sonnes of Zadok, which haue kept my charge, which went not astray, when the children of Israel went astray, as the Levites went astray.

12 Therefore this oblation of the land that is offered, shall be theirs, as a thing most holy by the border of the Levites.

13 And ouer against the border of the Priests, the Levites shall haue five and twentie thousand long, and ten thousand broad: all the length shall be five and twentie thousand, and the breadth ten thousand.

14 And they shall not sell of it, neither change it, nor abalienate the first fruits of the land: for it is holy unto the Lord.

15 And the five thousand that are left in the breadth ouer against the five and twenty thousand, shall be a prophane place for the citie, for housing, and for suburbs, and the citie shall be in the mids thereof.

16 And these shall be the measures thereof. of the North part five hundred and foure thousand, and the South part five hundred and foure thousand, and the East part five hundred and foure thousand, and the West part five hundred and foure thousand.

17 And the suburbs of the city shall be toward the North two hundred and fiftie, and toward the South two hundred and fiftie, and toward the East two hundred and fiftie, and toward the West two hundred and fiftie.

18 And the residue in length ouer against the oblation of the holy portion shall be tenne thousand Eastward, and tenne thousand Westward, and it shall be ouer against the oblation of the holy portion, and the increase thereof shall be for food unto them that live in the citie.

19 And they that serue in the citie, shall bee of all the tribes of Israel that shall serue therein.

20 All the oblation shall be five and twenty thousand with ^d five and twenty thousand: you shall offer this oblation four square for the Sanctuary, and for the possession of the citie.

21 And the residue shall be for the prince on the one side and on the other of the oblation of the Sanctuary, and of the possession of the city, ouer against the five and twentie thousand of the oblation toward the East border, and Westward ouer against the five and twentie thousand toward the West border, ouer against shall be for the portion of the prince: this shall be the holy oblation, and the house of the Sanctuary shall be in the mids thereof.

22 Moreover, from the possession of the Levites, and from the possession of the citie, that which is in the mids shall be the princes: betweene the border ^e of Judah, and betweene the border of Benjamin shall be the princes.

23 And the rest of the tribes shall be thus: from the East part unto the West part, Benjamin shall be a portion.

24 And by the border of Benjamin, from the East side unto the West side, Simeon a portion.

25 And by the border of Simeon from the East part unto the West part, Issachar a portion.

26 And by the border of Issachar from the East side unto the West, Zebulun a portion.

27 And by the border of Zebulun from the East part unto the West part, Gad a portion.

28 And by the border of Gad at the South side, toward Temath, the border shall be even from ^f Camar unto the waters of Meribah in Kadesh, and to the ^g river that runneth into the same sea.

29 This is the land, which yee shall distribute unto the tribes of Israel for inheritance, and these are their portions, saith the Lord God.

30 And these are the bounds of the citie, on the North side five hundred, and foure thousand measures.

31 And the gates of the citie shall be after the names of the tribes of Israel, the gates Northward, one gate of Reuben, one gate of Judah, and one gate of Levi.

32 And at the East side five hundred and foure thousand, and three gates, and one gate of Joseph, one gate of Benjamin, and one gate of Dan.

33 And at the South side, five hundred and foure thousand measures, and three ports, one gate of Simeon, one gate of Issachar, and one gate of Zebulun.

34 At the West side five hundred and foure thousand, with their three gates, one gate of Gad, one gate of Asher, and one gate of Naphtali.

35 It was round about eightene thousand measures, and the name of the citie from that day, shall be, ^h The Lord is there.

^d Every way it shall be five and twentie thousand.

^e So that Judah was on the North side of the Princes and Levites portions, and Benjamin on the South side.

^f Which is here taken for Idumea.

^g Which was Jericho the citie of Palme trees. ^h Meaning, Nilus that runneth into the sea called Mediterranean.

^b That is, the portion of the ground, which they shall separate & appoint to the Lord, which shall be divided into three parts: for the Priests, for the Prince, and for the citie.

THE ARGUMENT.

THe great providence of God, and his singular mercie toward his Church are most lively here set forth, who neuer leaueth his destitute, but now in their greatest miseries and afflictions giueth them Propheets, as Ezekiel, and Daniel, whom hee adorned with such graces of his holy Spirit, that Daniel aboue all other had most speciall reuelations of such things as should come to the Church, euen from the time that they were in captivity, to the last end of the world, and to the generall resurrection, as of the foure monarchies and Empires of all the world, to wit, of the Babylonians, Persians, Grecians and Romanes. Also of the certaine number of the times euen vnto Christ, when all ceremonies and sacrifices should cease, because he should be the accomplishment thereof: moreover, he sheweth Christs office and the cause of his death, which was by his sacrifice to take away sinnes, and to bring euermaking life. And as from the beginning God euer exercised his people vnder the crosse, so hee teacheth here, that after that Christ is offered, hee will still leaue this exercise to his Church vntill the dead rise againe, and Christ gather his into his kingdome in the heauens.

CHAP. I.

1 The captiuitie of Iehoiakim king of Iudah. 4 The king chauseth certaine young men of the Iewes to learne his law. 5 They haue the kings ordinarie appointed, 8 but they abstaine from it.

a Reade 2 King. 24. 1. and Iere. 25. 1.

b Which was a plaine by Babylon, where was the Temple of their great god, and is here taken for Babylon.

c Who was as master of the wardes.

d Hee collecth them Eunuches whom the King nourished and brought vp to be rulers of other countreys afterward.

e His purpose was to keepe them as hostages, and that he might shew himselfe victorious, and also by their good intreatie and learning of his religion, they might fauour rather him then the Iewes, and so to bee able to serue him as gouernours in their land: moreover, by this means the Iewes might be better kept in subiection, fearing otherwise to procure hurt to these noble men. f The king required three things: that they should be of noble birth, that they should bee witty and learned, and that they should bee of a strong and comely nature, that they might doe him better seruice: this he did for his owne commoditie, therefore it is not to praise his liberalitie: yet in this he is worthy of praise, that hee esteemed learning, and knewe that it was a necessarie meane to gouerne by. g That they might forget their owne religion and Countrey fashions, to serue him the better to his purpose: yet it is not to bee thought that Daniel did learne any knowledge that was not godly: in all points he refused the abuse of things & superstition, inasmuch that hee would not eate the meate which the King appointed him, but was content to learne the knowledge of naturall things. h That by their good entertainment, they might learne to forget the mediocritie of their owne people.

At the third yere of the reigne of Iehoiakim king of Iudah, came Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel vnto Ierusalem, and besieged it.

2 And the Lord gaue Iehoiakim king of Iudah into his hand, with part of the vessels of the house of God, which hee caried into the land of Shinar, to the house of his god, and hee brought the vessels into his gods treasure.

3 And the King spake vnto Ashpenaz the Master of his Eunuches, that hee should bring certaine of the children of Israel, of the Kings seede, and of the Princes:

4 Children in whom was no blemish, but well fauoured, and instructed in all wisdom, and well seene in knowledge, and able to vnderstand knowledge, and such as were able to stand in the kings palace, and whom they might teach the learning, and the tongue of the Chaldeans.

5 And the king appointed them porsion on euery day of a portion of the kings meate, and of the wine which hee dranke, to nourish ing them: three yeres, that at the end thereof, they might stand before the king.

6 Now among these were certaine of the children of Iudah, Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah.

7 Vnto whom the chiefe of the Eunuches gaue other names: for hee called Daniel, Belteshazzar, and Hananiah, Shadrach, and Mishael, and Azariah, Abednego.

8 But Daniel had determined in his heart, that hee would not defile himselfe with the portion of the kings meate, nor with the wine which hee dranke: therefore he required the chiefe of the Eunuches that hee might not defile himselfe.

9 Now God had brought Daniel into fauour, and tender loue with the chiefe of the Eunuches.

10 And the chiefe of the Eunuches sayd vnto Daniel, I feare my lord the king, who hath appointed your meate and your drinke: therefore if hee see your faces worse liking, then the other children, which are of your sort, then shall wee make mee lose mine head vnto the king.

11 Then sayd Daniel vnto Belshazzar, whom the chiefe of the Eunuches had set ouer Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael and Azariah, 12 Proue thy seruants, I beseech thee, ten dayes, and let them giue vs pulse to eat, and water to drinke.

13 Then let our countenances be looked vpon before thee, and the countenances of the children that eate of the portion of should not entise him by this sweere poyson, to forget his religion and accustomed sobriety, and that in his meate and drinke he might daily remember of what people hee was: and Daniel bringeth this in to shew how God from the beginning assisted him with his Spirit, and at length called him to be a Prophet. n He supposed they did this for their religion, which was contrary to the Babylonians: and therefore herein he representeth them which are of no religion, for neither hee would condemne theirs, nor maintaine his owne. o Meaning, that within this space hee might haue the triall, and that no man should be able to discerne it: and thus hee spake, being moued by the Spirit of God. p Not that it was a thing abominable to eate dainty meates and to drinke wine, as both before and after they did, but if they should haue hereby become worse to the King, and haue refused their owne religion, that meate and drinke had become accursed.

i To the intent that in this time they might both learne the manners of the Chaldeans, and also their tongue.

k As well to serue at the table as in other offices.

l That they might altogether forget their religion: for the Iewes gaue their children names, which might ever put them in remembrance of some point of Religion:

therefore this was a great temptation and a signe of seruitude which they were not able to resist.

m Not that he thought any religion to be in the meate or drinke (for afterward hee did eate) but because the King

the kings meate; and as thou seest, deale with thy seruants.

14 So hee consented to them in this matter, and proued them ten dayes.

15 And at the end of ten dayes, their countenances appeared fairer, and in better liking then all the childrens, which did eate the portion of the kings meate.

16 Thus Belshazzar tooke away the portion of their meate, and the wine that they should drinke, and gaue them pulle.

17 As for these foure children, God gaue them knowledge, and vnderstanding in all learning, and wisdom: also hee gaue Daniel vnderstanding of all visions and dreames.

18 Now when the time was expired, that the king had appointed to bring them in, the chiefe of the eunuches brought them before Nebuchad-nezzar.

19 And the king communed with them, and amongst them all was found none like Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah: therefore stood they before the king.

20 And in all matters of wisdom, and vnderstanding that the king enquired of them, hee found them ten times better then all the enchanters & astrologians that were in all his realme.

21 And Daniel was vnto the first yeere of king Cyrus.

¶ This bare feeding, and that also of Moses, when hee fled from the court of Egypt, declared that wee must liue in such sobrietie as God doeth call vs vnto, seeing hee will make it more profitable vnto vs, then all dainties: for his blessing onely sufficeth. † Ebr. faster in flesh. r Meaning, in the liberall sciences, and naturall knowledge, and not in the magicall artes, which are forbidden, Deut. 18. 11. f So that he only was a Prophet, and none of the other: for by dreames and visions God appeared to his Prophets, Num. 12. 6. t Of the three yeeres aboue mentioned, verse 5. u That is, he was esteemed in Babylon as a Prophet, so long as that common wealth stood.

CHAP. II.

1 The dreame of Nebuchad-nezzar. 13 The king commandeth all the wise men of Babylon to bee slaine, because they could not interpret his dreame.

16 Daniel requireth time to solute the question. 24 Daniel is brought vnto the king, and sheweth him his dreame and the interpretation thereof. 44 Of the euermlasting kingdome of Christ.

a The father and the sonne were both called by this name: so that this is meant of the sonne, when he reigned alone: for hee reigned also after a sort with his father. b Not that hee had many dreames, but because many matters were contained in this

AND in the second yeere of the reigne of Nebuchad-nezzar, Nebuchad-nezzar dreamed dreames wherewith his spirit was troubled, and his sleepe was vpon him.

2 Then the king commanded to call the inchanters, and the astrologians, & the sorcerers, and the Caldeans, for to shew the king his dreames: so they came and stood before the king.

3 And the king said vnto them, I haue dreamed a dreame, and my spirit was troubled to know the dreame.

4 Then spake the Caldeans to the king in the Aramites language, O King, liue for euer: shew thy seruants thy dreame, and we dreame, c Because it was so rare and strange a dreame, that he had nor had the like. d He was so heauie with sleepe that he began to sleepe againe. Some reade, and his sleepe was broken from him. e For all these Astrologers and Sorcerers called themselves by this name of honor, as though all the wisdom and knowledge of the country depended vpon them, & that all other countreys were void of the same. f That is, in the Syrian tongue, which differed not much from the Caldeans saue it seemed to be more eloquent, and therefore the learned vied to speake it: as the Iewish writers doeto this day.

5 And the king answered, and said to the Caldeans, The thing is gone from me. If ye will not make me vnderstand the dreame with the interpretation thereof, ye shall be broken in pieces, and your houses shall bee made a takes.

6 But if ye declare the dreame, and the interpretation thereof, ye shall receiue of me gifts and rewards, and great honour: therefore shew me the dreame, and the interpretation of it.

7 They answered againe, and said, Let the king shew his seruants the dreame, and we will declare the interpretation thereof.

8 Then the king answered, and said, I know certainly that ye would gaine the time, because ye see the thing is gone from me.

9 But if ye will not declare mee the dreame, there is but one iudgement for you: for ye haue prepared lying & corrupt words, to speake before me till the time be changed: therefore tell mee the dreame, that I may know, if ye can declare me the interpretation thereof.

10 Then the Caldeans answered before the king, and said, There is no man vpon earth, that can declare the Kings matter: yea, there is neither king, nor prince, nor lord that asked such things at an inchanter or astrologian, or Caldean.

11 For it is a rare thing that the king requireth, and there is none other that can declare it before the king, except the gods whose dwelling is not with flesh.

12 For this cause the king was angry and in great furie, and commanded to destroy all the wise men of Babel.

13 And when sentence was giuen, the wise men were slaine, and they sought Daniel and his fellowes to be put to death.

14 Then Daniel answered with counsell and wisdom to Arioch the Kings chiefe steward, which was gone forth to put to death: he wise men of Babel.

15 Yea he answered, and said vnto Arioch the Kings captaine, Why is the sentence so hasty from the king? Then Arioch declared the thing to Daniel.

16 So Daniel went, and desired the king that he would giue him leasure, and that hee would shew the king the interpretation thereof.

17 Then Daniel went to his house and shewed the matter to Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah his companions, 18 That they should beseech the God of heauen for grace in this secret, that Daniel and his fellowes should not perish with the rest of the wise men of Babel.

19 Then was the secret revealed vnto Daniel in a vision by night: therefore Daniel praised the God of heauen.

20 And Daniel answered and said, The name of God be praised for euer and euer: for wisdom and strength are his.

21 And hee changeth the times and seasons: hee taketh away kings: hee setteth vp kings: hee giueth wisdom vnto the wise, and g This is a iust reward of their arrogancie (which wanted of themselves that they had the knowledge of all things) that they should be proued fooles, and that to their perpetual shame and confusion. h Herein appeared their ignorance, that notwithstanding their brags, yet were they not able to tell the dreame, except hee entred them into the matter, and therefore they would pretend knowledge where was but mere ignorance, and so as deluders of the people, they were worthy to die. † Ebr. redeems the time.

i Which declared that God would not haue his seruant ioyned in the company of these forcerers and Astrologers, whose arts were wicked, and therefore iustly ought to die, though the king did it vpon a rage, and no zeale. || Or, the captaine of the guard.

¶ Psal. 113. 2. and 115. 18.

k He sheweth that man hath neither wisdom nor knowledge, but very darke blindness and ignorance of himselfe: for it cometh onely of God, that man vnderstandeth any thing.

l To whom thou madest thy promise, and who liued in thy feare: whereby he excludeth all other gods.

m Meaning, power to interpret it.

n Whereby appeareth that many were slaine, as verse 13. and the rest at Daniels offer were preserved on condition, not that Daniel fauoured their wicked profession, but that he had respect to equitie, because the king proceeded according to his wicked affection, & not considering if their science were lawfull or no.

o He affirmeth that man by reason and arte is not able to attaine to the cause of Gods secrets, but the vnderstanding onely thereof must come of God: whereby he smiteth the king with a certaine feare and reuerence of God, that he might be the more apt to receiue the high mysteries that should be reuealed. p Because he had said that God onely must reueale the signification of his dreame, the king might haue asked, why Daniel did enterpriue to interpret it: and therefore he sheweth that he was but Gods minister, and had no gifts, but such as God had giuen him to set forth his glory. q By gold, silver, brasse, and yron are meant, the Caldean, Persian, Macedonian and Romane kingdome, which should successiueley rule all the world, till Christ (which is here called the stone) come himselfe and destroy the last: and this was to assure the Iewes, that their afflictions should not end with the Empire of the Caldeans, but that they should patiently abide the coming of the Messiah, which should be at the end of the fourth Monarchie.

22 Hee discouereth the deepe and secret things: hee knoweth what is in the darke nesse, and the light dwelleth with him.

23 I thanke thee, and praise thee, O thou God of my fathers, that thou hast giuen me wisdom and strength, and hast shewed me now the thing that wee desired of thee: for thou hast declared vnto vs the Kings matter.

24 Therefore Daniel went vnto Arioch, whom the King had ordained to destroy the wise men of Babel: hee went and said thus vnto him, Destroy not the wise men of Babel, but bring me before the king, and I will declare vnto the King the interpretation.

25 Then Arioch brought Daniel before the king in all hast, and said thus vnto him, I haue found a man of the children of Iudah that were brought captiues, that will declare vnto the King the interpretation.

26 Then answered the King, and said vnto Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, Art thou able to shewe me the dreame which I haue seene, and the interpretation thereof?

27 Daniel answered in the presence of the King, and said, The secret which the King hath demanded, can neither the wise, the astrologians, the inchanters, nor the soothsayers declare vnto the King.

28 But there is a God in heauen that reuealeth secrets, and sheweth the King. Beluchadnezzar what shall bee in the latter dayes. Thy dreame, and the things which thou hast seene in thine head vpon thy bed, is this.

29 O King, when thou wast in thy bed, thoughts came into thy minde, what should come to passe hereafter, and hee that reuealeth secrets, telleth thee what shall come.

30 As for me, this secret is not shewed me for any wisdom that I haue, more then any other liuing, but onely to shew the king the interpretation, and that thou mightest know the thoughts of thine heart.

31 O king, thou sawest, and beholdest, there was a great image: this great image whose glory was excellent, stood before thee, and the forme thereof was terrible.

32 This images head was of fine gold, his breast and his armes of silver, his belly and his thighes of brasse, 33 His legs of yron, and his feet were part of yron, and part of clay.

34 Thou beheldest it till a stone was cut without hands, which smote the image vpon his feet, that were of yron and clay, and brake them to pieces.

35 Then was the yron, the clay, the brasse, the silver, and the golde broken altogether, and became like the chaffe of the Summer stormes, and the winde carried them away, that no place was found for them: and the stone that smote the image, became a great mountaine, and filled the whole earth.

36 This is the dreame, and we will declare before the King the interpretation thereof.

37 O King, thou art a King of kings: for the God of heauen hath giuen thee a kingdome, power and strength, and glory.

38 And in all places where the children of men dwell, the beasts of the field, and the fowles of the heauen hath he giuen into thine hand, and hath made thee ruler ouer them all: thou art this head of gold.

39 And after thee shall rise another kingdome, inferior to thee, of silver, and another third kingdome shall be of brasse, which shall beare rule ouer all the earth.

40 And the fourth kingdome shall bee strong as yron: for as yron breaketh in pieces, and subdueth all things, and as yron bruiceth all these things, so shall it breake in pieces, and bruiseth all.

41 Whereas thou sawest the feete and toes, part of potters clay, and part of yron: the kingdome shall bee diuided: but there shall be in it of the strength of the yron, as thou sawest the yron mixt with the clay, and earth.

42 And as the toes of the feete were part of yron, and part of clay, so shall the kingdome be partly strong, and partly broken.

43 And whereas thou sawest yron mixt with clay and earth, they shall mingle themselves with the yse of men: but they shall not ioine one with another, as yron cannot be mixt with clay.

44 And in the dayes of these kings, shall the God of heauen set vp a kingdome, which shall neuer be destroyed: and this kingdome shall not be giuen to another people, but it shall breake and destroy all these kingdomes, and it shall stand for euer.

45 Whereas thou sawest that the stone was cut off the mountaine without hands, and that it brake in pieces the yron, the brasse, the clay, the silver and the golde: so the hardnesse thereof, but the vilenesse in respect of silver. u That is, the Romane Empire shall subdue all these other aforesaid, which after Alexander were diuided into the Macedonians, Grecians, Syrians, and Egyptians. x They shall haue ciuill warres, and continuall discords among themselves. y They shall by marriages and affinities thinke to make themselves strong, yet shall they neuer be ioined in hearts. z His purpose is to shew that all the kingdomes of the world are transitory, and that the kingdome of Christ shall onely remaine for euer. a Meaning Christ, who was sent of God, and not set vp by man, whose kingdome at the beginning should be small and without beauty to mans iudgement, but should at length grow and fill the whole earth, which he calleth a great mountaine, as verse 35. And this kingdome which is not onely referred to the person of Christ, but also to the whole body of his Church, and to every member thereof shall be eternall: for the Spirit that is in them is life eternall, Rom. 8. 10.

r Daniel leaueth out the kingdom of the Assyrians which was before the Babylonian, both because it was not a Monarchy and generall Empire, and also because he would declare the things that were to come, to the coming of Christ, for the comfort of the elect among these wonderful alterations: and he calleth the Babylonian kingdome the golden head, because in respect of the other three, it was the best, and yet was of it selfe wicked and cruell.

s Meaning the Persians, which were not inferior in dignitie, power and riches, but were worse touching ambition, cruelty, and all kind of vice: shewing, that the world should grow worse and worse, till it was restored by Christ.

t That is, of the Macedonians, shall be of brasse, not alluding to b Though this humbling of the king seemed to deserue commendation, yet because he ioynd Gods honour with the Prophets, it is to be reprobred, and Daniel herein etred if he suffered it: but it is credie that Daniel admonished him of his fault and did not suffer it.

c This confession was but a sudden motion, as it was also in Pharaoh, Exod. 9. 27, 28. but his heart was not touched, as appeared soone afterward. d Not that the Prophet was desirous of giftes or honour, but because by this meanes he might relieue his poore brethren which were grievously oppressed in this their captiuitie, and also hee received them, lest hee should offend this cruell king, which willingly gaue them. e He did not this for their priuie profite, but that the whole Church which was then there in affliction, might haue some releafe and ease by this benefite. f Meaning, that either he was a Iudge, or that he had the whole authoritie, so that none could bee admitted to the Kings prefence but by him.

CHAP. III.

x The king setteth up a golden image. 8 Certaine are accused because they despised the kings commandement, and are put into a burning ouen. 15 By belife in God they are deliuered from the fire. 26 Nebuchad-nezzar confesseth the power of God after the sight of the miracle.

a Vnder presence of religion & holines in making an image to his idole Bel, he sought his owne ambition and vaine glory: & this declareth, that he was not touched with the true feare of God before, but that he confessed him on a sudden motion, as the wicked, when they are overcome with the greatnesse of his workes. The Greeke interpreters write that this was done eigheteene yeeres after the dreame, and as may appeare, the king feared lest the Iewes by their Religion should haue altered the state of his common wealth, and therefore he meant to bring all to one kinde of religion, and so rather sought his own quietnesse then Gods glory. b Shewing that the idole is not known for an idole so long as he is with the workeman: but when the ceremonies and customes are recited and vsed, and the consent of the people is there, then of a blocke they thinke they haue made a god. c This was sufficient with the wicked at all times to approue their religion, if the kings authoritie were alleaged for the establishment thereof, not considering in the meane season what Gods word did permit.

Nebuchad-nezzar the King made an image of golde, whose height was threescore cubites, and the breadth thereof fire cubites, hee set it vp in the plaine of Dura, in the prouince of Babel.

2 Then Nebuchad-nezzar the king sent forth to gather together the Nobles, the Princes and the Dukes, the Iudges, the receiuers, the counsellers, the officers, and all the gouernours of the prouinces, that they should come to the dedication of the image which Nebuchad-nezzar the king had set vp.

3 So the nobles, princes and dukes, the iudges, the receiuers, the counsellers, the officers, and all the gouernours of the prouinces were assembled vnto the dedicating of the image, that Nebuchad-nezzar the king had set vp: and they stood before the image, which Nebuchad-nezzar had set vp.

4 Then an herald cryed aloud, Bee it knowne to you, O people, nations, and languages,

5 That when yee heare the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, sackbut, psalterie, dulcimer, and all instruments of musike, ye fall down and worship the golden image that Nebuchad-nezzar the king hath set vp.

6 And whosoever falleth not downe and worshippeth, shall the same houre be cast into the mids of an hote fierie fornace.

7 Therefore alioone as all the people heard the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harp, sackbut, psalterie, and all instruments of musike, all the people, nations, and languages fell downe, and worshipped the golden image, that Nebuchad-nezzar the king had set vp.

8 By reason whereof at that same time came men of the Caldeans, and grievously accused the Iewes.

9 For they spake and said to the king Nebuchad-nezzar, O king, lue for euer.

10 Thou, O king, hast made a decree, that every man that shall heare the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, sackbut, psalterie, and dulcimer, and all instruments of musike, shall fall downe and worship the golden image.

11 And whosoever falleth not downe, and worshippeth, that he should bee cast into the mids of an hote fierie fornace.

12 There are certaine Iewes whom thou hast set ouer the charge of the Prouince of Babel, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego: these men, O king, haue not regarded thy commandement, neither will they serue thy gods, nor worship the golden image that thou hast set vp.

13 Then Nebuchad-nezzar in his anger and wrath commanded that they should bring Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego: so these men were brought before the king.

14 And Nebuchad-nezzar spake and said vnto them, What disorder? will not you, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego serue my god, nor worship the golden image that I haue set vp?

15 Now therefore are ye ready when yee heare the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, sackbut, psalterie, and dulcimer, and all instruments of musike, to fall down and worship the image, which I haue made: for if ye worship it not, ye shall be cast immediately into the mids of an hote fierie fornace, for who is that God that can deliuer you out of mine hands?

16 Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego answered, and said to the king, O Nebuchad-nezzar, we are not carefull to answer thee in this matter.

17 Behold, our God whom we serue, is d These are the two dangerous weapons wherewith Satan vseth to fight against the children of God, the consent of the multitude, and the cruelty of the punishment: for though some feared God, yet the multitude which consented to the wickednesse, astonished them: and here the king required not an inward consent, but an outward gesture, that the Iewes might by little and little learne to forget their true Religion.

e It seemeth that they named not Daniel, because he was greatly in the kings fauour, thinking if these three had bene destroyed, they might haue had better occasion to accuse Daniel: and this declareth that this policie of erecting this image, was inuented by the malicious flatterers which sought nothing but the destruction of the Iewes, whom they accused of rebellion and ingratitude.

f Signifying, that he would receiue them to grace, if they would now obey his decree.

g For they should haue done iniurie to God, if they should haue doubted in this holy cause, and therefore they say that they are resolved to die for Gods cause. h ablg

h They ground on two points, first on the power & providence of God ouer them, and secondly on their cause, which was Gods glory, and the testifying of his true religion with their blood, and so make open confession, that they will not so much as outwardly consent to idolatry.

i This declareth that y more than tyrants rage, and the more wittie they shew themselves in inuenting strange and cruell punishments, the more is God glorified by his seruants, to whom hee giueth patience & constancie to abide the cruelty of their punishment: for either hee deliuereth them fro death, or els for this life giueth them a better.

k For the Angels were called the sonnes of God because of their excellency: therefore the King called this Angel, whom God sent to comfort his in these great tormentes, the Sonne of God. l This commendeth their obedience vnto God that they would not for any feare depart out of this furnace, till the time appointed, as Noah remained in the Arke till the Lord called him forth. m Hee was moued by the greatnesse of the miracle to praise God, but his heart was not touched. And here we see that miracles are not sufficient to conuert men to God, but that doctrine must chiefly be adioyned without the which there can be no faith.

n able to deliuer vs from the hott fierie furnace, and hee will deliuer vs out of thyne hand, O King.

18 But if not, bee it knowne vnto thee, O King, that wee will not serue thy gods, nor worship the golden image, which thou hast set vp.

19 ¶ Then was Nebuchad-nezzar full of rage, and the forme of his visage was changed against Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego: therefore hee charged and commaunded that they should heate the furnace at once seuen times more then it was wont to be heat.

20 And he charged the most valiant men of warre that were in his armie, to binde Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, and to cast them into the hott fierie furnace.

21 So these men were bound in their coates, their hosen, and their clokes, with their other garments, and cast into the midst of the hott fierie furnace.

22 Therefore, because the Kings commaundement was strait, that the furnace should be exceeding hott, the flame of the fire slew those men that brought forth Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego.

23 And those three men, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego fell downe bound into the midst of the hott fierie furnace.

24 ¶ Then Nebuchad-nezzar the King was assented and rose vp in haste, and spake, and sayd vnto his counsellers, Did not wee cast these men bound into the middes of the fire? who answered, and said vnto the king, It is true, O King.

25 And hee answered, and sayd, Lo, I see foure men loose, walking in the middes of the fire, and they haue no hurt, and the forme of the fourth is like the Sonne of God.

26 Then the King Nebuchad-nezzar came nere to the mouth of the hott fierie furnace, and spake and sayd, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, the seruants of the High God, goe forth and come hither: so Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego came forth of the middes of the fire.

27 Then the nobles, princes, and dukes, and the Kings counsellers came together to see these men, because the fire had no power ouer their bodies: for not an haire of their head was burnt, neither were their coates changed, nor any smell of fire came vpon them.

28 Wherefore Nebuchad-nezzar spake and sayd, Blessed bee the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, who hath sent his Angel, and deliuered his seruants, that put their trust in him, and haue changed the Kings commaundement, and yeelded their bodies rather then they would serue or worship any god, saue their owne God.

29 Therefore I make a decree, that euery people, nation, and language, which speake any blasphemy against the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, shall be drowen in pieces, and their houses shall be made a lake, because there is no God that can deliuer after this sort.

30 ¶ Then the king promoted Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, in the prouince of Babel.

31 Nebuchad-nezzar King vnto all people, nations and languages, that dwell in all the world, Peace be multiplied vnto you.

32 I thought it good to declare the signes & wonders, that the high God hath wrought toward me.

33 Now great are his signes, and how mighty are his wonders: his Kingdom is an euertasting Kingdome, and his dominion is from generation to generation.

so they suffer double punishment. Meaning, so farre as his dominion extended. p Read Chap. 2.44.

CHAP. IIII.

3 Another dreame of Nebuchad-nezzar, which Daniel declareth. 29 The Prophet declareth how of a proud king hee should become as a beast. 31 After hee confesseth the power of God, and is restored to his former dignitie.

I Nebuchad-nezzar being at rest in mine house, and flourishing in my palace,

2 Saw a dreame, which made mee affraid, and the thoughts vpon my bed, and the visions of mine head troubled me.

3 Therefore made I a decree, that they should bring all the wite men of Babel before me, that they might declare vnto me the interpretation of the dreame.

4 So came the enchanters, the astrologians, the Chaldeans and the soothsayers, to whom I tolde the dreame, but they could not shew me the interpretation thereof.

5 Till at the last Daniel came before me (whose name was Belteshazzar, according to the name of my god, which hath the spirit of the holy Gods in him) and before him I tolde the dreame, saying,

6 O Belteshazzar, chiefe of the enchanters, because I know that the spirit of the holy Gods is in thee, and no secret troubleth thee, tell mee the visions of my dreame, that I haue scene, and the interpretation thereof.

7 Thus were the visions of mine head in my bed. And behold, I saw a tree in the middes of the earth, and the height thereof was great:

8 A great tree and strong, and the height thereof reached vnto heauen, and the light thereof to the ends of all the earth.

9 The boughes thereof were faire, and the fruit thereof much, and in it was meate for all: it made a shadow vnder it for the beastes of the fildes, and the d This no doubt was a great grieve to Daniel. not onely to han his name changed, but to bee called by the name of a vile idell which thing Nebuchad-nezzar did, to make him forge the true religion of God. e Which also was a great grieve to the Prophet, bee numbred among the forcerers, and men whose practises were wicked and contrary to Gods word. f By the tree, is signified the dignity of a King, whom God ordeineth to be a defence for a kind of men, and whose state is profitable for mankind.

2 Moaning, the Angel of God, which neither eateth nor sleepech, but is ever ready to do Gods will, and is not infected with mans corruption, but is ever holy: and in that that he commaundeth to cut down this tree, he knew that it should not be cut down by man, but by God. Hereby he meaneth that Nebuchad-nezzar should not onely for a time lose his kingdome, but be like a beast. God hath decreed this judgement, and the whole army of heauen haue as it were subscribed vnto it, like as also they desire the execution of his decree against all them that lift vp themselves against God. Hee was troubled for the great judgement of God which he saw ordained against the King: and so the Prophets vsed on the one part to denounce Gods iudgments for the zeale they bare to his glory, and on the other part to haue compassion vpon man, and also to consider that they should be subiect to Gods iudgements, if hee did not regard them with pity. Whereby he meaneth a long space, as seven yeeres. Some interpret seven moneths, and others seven weekes: but it seemeth hee meant of yeeres foules of the heauen dwell in the boughes thereof, and all flesh fed of it.

10 I saw in the visions of mine head, vpon my bed, and behold, a watchman, and a hely one came downe from heauen, 11 And cryed aloud, and said thus, Hew downe the tree, and breake off his branches: shake off his leaues, and scatter his fruite, that the beasts may flee from vnder it, and the foules from his branches.

12 Neuertheless leaue the stumpe of his rootes in the earth, and with a band of yron and brasse binde it among the grasse of the field, and let it bee wet with the dew of heauen, and let his portion bee with the beasts among the grasse of the field.

13 Let his heart be changed from mans nature, and let a beasts heart bee giuen vnto him, and let seven times be passed ouer him.

14 The sentence is according to the decree of the watchmen, and according to the word of the holy ones: the demand was answered, to the intent that liuing men may know, that the most High hath power ouer the kingdome of men, and giueth it to whomsoever hee will, and appoynteth ouer it the most abiet among men.

15 This is the dreame, that I King Nebuchad-nezzar haue seene: therefore thou, Belteshazzar, declare the interpretation thereof: for all the wise men of my kingdome are not able to shewe mee the interpretation: but thou art able, for the spirit of the holy gods is in thee.

16 Then Daniel (whose name was Belteshazzar) held his peace by the space of one houre, and his thoughts troubled him, and the King spake and sayd, Belteshazzar, let neither the dreame, nor the interpretation thereof trouble thee. Belteshazzar answered, and said, My lord, the dreame be to them that hate thee, and the interpretation thereof to thine enemies.

17 The tree that thou sawest, which was great and mighty, whose height reached vnto the heauen, and the sight thereof through all the world,

18 Whose leaues were faire, and the fruite thereof much, and in it was meate for all, vnder the which beasts of the field dwell, and vpon whose branches the foules of the heauen did sit,

19 It is thou, O King, that art great and mighty: for thy greatnesse is growen, and reacheth vnto heauen, and thy dominion to the ends of the earth.

20 Whereas the king saw a watchman, and a holy one that came downe from heauen, and sayd, Hew downe the tree, and destroy it, yet leaue the stumpe of the rootes thereof in the earth, and with a band of yron and brasse binde it among the grasse of the field, and let it bee wet with the dew of heauen, and let his portion bee with the beasts of the field, till seven times passe ouer him,

21 This is the interpretation, O King, and it is the decree of the most High, which is come vpon my lord the King,

22 That they shall drine thee from men, and thy dwelling shall bee with the beasts of the field: they shall make thee to eate grasse as the oren, and they shall wet thee with the dew of heauen: & seven times shall passe ouer thee, till thou know, that the most High beareth rule ouer the kingdome of men, and giueth it to whomsoever he will.

23 Whereas they sayd, that one should leaue the stumpe of the tree rootes, thy kingdome shall remaine vnto thee: after that, thou shalt know that the heauens haue the rule.

24 Therefore, O King, let my counsell be acceptable vnto thee, and breake off thy sinnes by righteousness, and thine iniquities by mercie toward the poore: loe, let there bee an healing of thine errour.

25 All these things shall come vpon the King Nebuchad-nezzar.

26 At the end of twelue moneths, hee walked in the royall palace of Babel.

27 And the King spake and sayd, Is not this great Babel, that I haue built for the house of the kingdome by the might of my power, and for the honour of my maiestie?

28 While the worde was in the Kings mouth, a voyce came downe from heauen, saying, O king Nebuchad-nezzar, to thee bee it spoken, Thy kingdome is departed from thee, 29 And they shall drine thee from men, and thy dwelling shall bee with the beasts of the field: they shall make thee to eate grasse, as the oren, and seven times shall passe ouer thee, vntill thou knowest, that the most High beareth rule ouer the kingdome of men, and giueth it to whomsoever he will.

30 The very same houre was this thing fulfilled vpon Nebuchad-nezzar, and hee was drinen from men, and did eate grasse as the oren, and his body was wet with the dew of heauen, till his haire was growen as Eagles feathers, and his nayles like birdes claws.

31 And at the end of these dayes I Nebuchad-nezzar lift vp mine eyes vnto heauen, and mine understanding was restored vnto mee, and I gaue thanks vnto the most High, and I praised and honoured him that liueth for euer, whose power is an euermouing power, and his kingdome is from generation to generation.

32 And all the inhabitants of the earth are reputed as nothing: and according to his will he worketh in the armie of heauen, and in the inhabitants of the earth: and none can stay his hand, and say vnto him, What dost thou?

33 At the same time was mine understanding restored vnto mee, and I returned to the honour of my kingdome: my glory and my beauty was restored vnto mee, and my counsellers, and my princes sought vnto mee, and I was established in my kingdome, and my glory was augmented toward mee.

34 Now therefore, I Nebuchad-nezzar stand content therewith, and giue him the glory, seemeth that he had beene put from his kingdome before,

Not that his shape or forme was changed into a beast, but that he was either stricken mad, and so auoided mans company, or was cast out for his tyranny, and so wandered among the beasts, and ate herbes and grasse.

in Daniel sheweth the cause why God thus punished him, O Cease from prouoking God to anger any longer by thy sinnes, that he may mitigate his punishment, if thou shew by thine vpright life that thou hast true faith and repentance.

Suffer the errors of thy former life to be redressed,

After that Daniel had declared this vision, and this his pride declared that it is not in man to conuert to God except his Spirit moue him, seeing that these terrible threatnings could not moue him to repent.

5 Belshazzar king of Babylon seeth an hand writing on the wall, 8 The soothsayers called of the king cannot expound the writing. 25 Daniel readeth it, and interpreteth it also. 30 The king is slaine. 31
Darius enioyeth the kingdome.

a Daniel reciteth this history of king Belshazzar Euilmerodachs sonne, to shew Gods iudgments against the wicked, for the deli-rance of his Church, & how the prophesie of Ieremiah was true, that they should be deliue-red after seventy yeeres.

b The kings of the East parts then vied to sit alone commonly, and disdained charany should sit in their company: and now to shew his power, and how little he set by his enemy, which then besieged Babylon, he made a solemne banquet, & vied excesse in their company, which is meant here by drinking wine: thus the wicked are most dissolute and negligent when their destruction is at hand.

|| Or, ouercome
with wine.

c Meaning, his grandfather.

d In contempt of the true God
they praised their idoles, not that they thought that the gold or siluer were gods, but that there was a certaine vertue and power in them to doe them good, which is also the opinion of all idolaters.

e That it might the better be seen. f So he char before contemned God was moued by this sight to tremble for feare of Gods iudge-ments. g Thus the wicked in their troubles seeke many means, who draw them from God, because they seek not to him who is the only comfort in all afflictions. h To wit, his grandmother Nebuchad-nezzars wife, which for her age was not before at the feast, but came thither when she heard of these strange newes.

K Ing Belshazzar made a great feast to a thousand of his princes, and dranke wine before the thousand.

2 And Belshazzar || whiles hee tasted the wine, commanded to bring him the golden and silver vessels, which his father Nebuchad-nezzar had brought from the Temple in Ierusalem, that the king and his princes, his wiues, and his concubines might drinke therein.

3 Then were brought the golden vessels that were taken out of the Temple of the Lords house at Ierusalem, and the king and his princes, his wiues and his concubines dranke in them.

4 They dranke wine, and praised the gods of gold and of silver, of brasse, of yron, of wood and of stone.

5 At the same houre appeared fingers of a mans hand, which wrote ouer against the candlestick vpon the plaister of the wall of the kings palace, and the king saw the palm of the hand that wrote.

6 Then the kings countenance was changed, and his thoughts troubled him, so that the loyntes of his loynes were loosed, and his knees smote one against the other.

7 Wherefore the king cried loud, that they should bring the Astrologians, the Calde-ans & the soothsayers. And the king spake, and said to the wise men of Babel, Whosoeuer can read this writing, and declare mee the interpretation thereof, shall bee clothed with purple, and shall haue a chaine of golde about his necke, and shall be the third ruler in the kingdome.

8 Then came all the kings wise men, but they could neither reade the writing, nor shew the king the interpretation.

9 Then was King Belshazzar greatly troubled, and his countenance was changed in him, and his princes were astonished.

10 Now the Queene by reason of the talke of the King and his princes came into the banquet house, and the Queene spake, and said, O King, lue for euer: let not thy thoughts trouble thee, nor let thy countenance be changed.

11 There is a man in thy kingdome, in whom is the spirit of the holy gods, and in the dayes of thy father, light and understanding and wisdom like the wisdom of the gods, was found in him: whom the King Nebuchad-nezzar thy father, the King, I say, thy father made chiefe of the Inchanterers, Astrologians, Caldeans, and Soothsayers.

12 Because a more excellent spirit, and knowledge, and understanding (for hee did expound dreames, & declare hard sentences, and dissolued doubts) were found in him, even in Daniel, whom the king named Bel-teshazzar: now let Daniel be called, and hee will declare the interpretation.

13 Then was Daniel brought before the King, and the King spake, and said vnto Daniel, Art thou that Daniel, which art of the children of the captiuitie of Iudah, whom my father the King brought out of Iury?

14 Now I haue heard of thee, that the spirit of the holy gods is in thee, and that light and understanding, and excellent wis-dome is found in thee.

15 Now therefore, wise men and Astrologians haue bene brought before mee, that they should reade this writing, and shew mee the interpretation thereof, but they could not declare the interpretation of the thing.

16 Then heard I of thee, that thou couldest shew interpretations, & dissolue doubts:
now if thou canst reade the writing, and shew me the interpretation thereof, thou shalt bee clothed with purple, & shalt haue a chaine of gold about thy neck, and shalt be the third ruler in the kingdome.

17 Then Daniel answered, and said before the king, Keepe thy rewards to thy selfe and giue thy giftes to another: yet I will reade the writing vnto the King, and shew him the interpretation.

18 O King, heare thou, The most High God gaue vnto Nebuchad-nezzar thy father a kingdome, and maiestie, and honour, and glory.

19 And for the maiesty that he gaue him, all people, nations and languages trembled and feared before him: hee put to death whom he would: he smote whom he would:
whom hee would hee set vp, and whom hee would hee put downe.

20 But when his heart was puffed up, and his mind hardened in pride, he was deposed from his kingly throne, and they tooke his honour from him.

21 And he was diuine from the sonnes of men, and his heart was made like the beasts, and his dwelling was with the wilde asses:
they fedde him with grasse like oren, and his body was wet with the dewe of the heauen, till hee knew that the most High God bare rule ouer the kingdome of men, and that hee appointeth ouer it whomsoever hee pleaseth.

22 And thou his sonne, O Belshazzar, hast not humbled thine heart, though thou knewest all these things;

m After that God had so long time deferred his anger, and patiently waited for thine amendment, n This word is twise written for the certaintie of the thing: shewing that God had most surely counted: signifying also that God had appointed a terme for all kingdomes, and that a miserable end shall come on all that raise themselves against him.

Or, wanting. o Cyrus his sonne in law gaue him this title of honour, although Cyrus in effect had the dominion.

24 Then was the palme of the hand sent from him, & hath written this writing.

25 And this is the writing that hee hath written, MENE, MENE, TEKEL VPHARSIN.

26 This is the interpretation of the thing, MENE, God hath numbred thy kingdome, and hath finished it.

27 TEKEL, thou art weighed in the balance, and art found too light.

28 PERES, thy kingdome is diuided, and giuen to the Medes and Persians.

29 Then at the commaundment of Belshazzar, they clothed Daniel with purple, and put a chaine of golde about his necke, and made a proclamation concerning him, that he should bee the third ruler in the kingdome.

30 The same night was Belshazzar the king of the Chaldeans slaine.

31 And Darius of the Medes tooke the kingdome, being threescore & two yeres olde.

CHAP. VI.

1 Daniel is made ruler over the gouernours. 2 An act against Daniel. 3 Hee is put into a denne of lions by the commaundment of the King. 4 Hee is deliuered by faith in God. 5 Daniels accusers are put into the lions. 6 Darius by a decree magnifieth the God of Daniel.

IT pleased Darius to set over the kingdome an hundred and twentie gouernours, which should be over the whole kingdome;

2 And ouer these, three rulers (of whom Daniel was one) that the gouernours might giue accompts vnto them, and the King should haue no damage.

3 Now this Daniel was preferred aboue the rulers and gouernours, because the spirit was excellent in him, and the King thought to set him ouer the whole Realme.

4 Therefore the rulers and gouernours sought an occasion against Daniel concerning the kingdome: but they could finde none occasion nor fault: for hee was so faithfull that there was no blame nor fault found in him.

5 Then said these men, Wee shall not find an occasion against this Daniel, except we finde it against him concerning the Law of his God.

6 Therefore the rulers and these gouernours went together to the King, and said thus vnto him, King Darius, liue for euer.

7 All the rulers of thy kingdome, the officers and gouernours, the countellers, and dukes haue consulted together to make a decree for the King, and to establish a statute, that whosoever shall aske a petition of any god or man for thirtie dayes save of thee, O king, he shall be cast into the den of lions.

8 Now, O king, confirme the decree, and seale the writing, that it bee not changed, according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.

9 Therefore king Darius sealed the writing and the decree.

10 Now when Daniel vnderstood that hee had sealed the writing, hee went into his house, and his window being open in his chamber toward Ierusalem, hee kneeled vpon his knees three times a day, and prayed, and praised his God, as hee did aforetime.

11 Then these men assembled, and found Daniel praying, and making supplication vnto his God.

12 So they came, and spake vnto the king concerning the kings decree, Hast thou not sealed the decree, that every man that shall make request to any God or man within thirtie dayes, save to thee, O king, shall bee cast into the denne of lions? The king answered, and said, The thing is true, according to the Lawe of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.

13 Then answered they, and said vnto the king, This Daniel which is of the childe of the captiuitie of Iudah, regardeth not thee, O King, nor the decree that thou hast sealed, but maketh his petition three times a day.

14 When the king heard these words, hee was sore displeased with himselfe, and set his heart on Daniel to deliuer him: and hee laboured till the Sunne went downe, to deliuer him.

15 Then these men assembled vnto the king, and said vnto the king, Vnderstand O King, that the Law of the Medes and Persians is, that no decree nor statute which the king confirmeth, may bee altered.

16 Then the king commaunded, and they brought Daniel; and cast him into the denne of lions: now the king spake, and said vnto Daniel, Thy God, whom thou alway seruest, euen he will deliuer thee.

17 And a stone was brought, and layde vpon the mouth of the denne, and the king sealed it with his owne signet, and with the signet of his princes, that the purpose might not bee changed, concerning Daniel.

18 Then the king went vnto his palace, and remained fasting, neither were the instruments of musike brought before him, and his sleepe went from him.

19 Then the King arose early in the morning, and went in all hast vnto the den of lions.

20 And when hee came to the denne, hee cried with a lamentable voyce vnto Daniel: and d Herein is condemned the wickedness of the king, who would be set vp as a God, and passed not what wicked lawes he approved for the maintenance of the same.

e Because hee would not by his silence shew that hee consented to this wicked decree, hee set open his windowes toward Ierusalem, when hee prayed: both to stirre vp himselfe with the remembrance of Gods promises to his people wher they should pray toward that Temple, and also that other might see, that hee would neither consent in heart nor deed for these few dayes to any thing that was contrary to Gods glory.

f Thus the wicked maintaine quill lawes by constancie and authority, which is oftentimes either lightnesse, or stubbornnesse, when as the innocents thereby perish, & therefore gouernours neither ought to feare nor bee ashamed to breake such, a Reade Ester, Chap. i. i.

b This heathen King preferred Daniel a stranger to all his nobles and familiars, because the graces of God were more excellent in him then in others.

c Thus the wicked cannot abide the graces of God in others, but seeke by all occasions to desire them. therefore against such assaults there is no better remedie then to walke vprightly in the feare of God, and to haue a good conscience.

g This declareth that Darius was not touched with the true knowledge of God, because he doubted of his power, h My iust cause and vprightnesse in this thing, wherein I was charged, is approved of God. i For he did disobey the kings wicked commandement, to obey God, and so did no injury to the king, who ought to command nothing, whereby God should be dishonoured. k Because hee committed himselfe wholly vnto God, whose cause he did defend, he was assured that nothing but good could come vnto him: where in we see the power of faith, as Heb. 11. 33. l This is a terrible example against all the wicked, which doe against their conscience make cruell lawes to destroy the children of God, and also admonisheth Princes how to punish such, when their wickednes is cometo light: though not in every point, or with like circumstances, yet to execute true iustice vpon them. m This proueth not that Darius did worship God aright, or els was conuerted: for then hee would haue destroyed all superstition and idolatry, and not only giuen God the chiefe place, but also haue fet him vp, and caused him to be honoured according to his word: but this was a certaine confession of Gods power, whereunto hee was compelled by this wonderfull miracle. n Which hath not onely life in himselfe, but is the onely fountaine of life, and quickeneth all things, so that without him there is no life.

and the king spake, and said to Daniel, o Daniel, thy seruant of the liuing God, is not thy God (whom thou alway serueth) able to deliuer thee from the lions?

21 Then said Daniel vnto the King, o King, I will for euer.

22 Whp God hath sent his Angel, and hath shut the Lyons mouths, that they haue not hurt mee, for my iustice was found out before him, and vnto thee, o King, I haue done no hurt.

23 Then was the king exceeding glad for him, and commanded that they should take Daniel out of the den: so Daniel was brought out of the den, and no manner of hurt was found vpon him, because hee beleued in his God.

24 And by the commaundement of the king, these men which had accused Daniel, were brought, and were cast into the den of lions, even they, their children, & their wiues: and the lions had the matter of them, and brake all their bones a peeces, or euer they came at the ground of the den.

25 Afterward king Darius wrote, vnto all people, nations and languages, that dwell in all the world: Peace be multiplied vnto you.

26 I make a decree, that in all the dominion of my kingdom, men tremble and feare before the God of Daniel: for he is the liuing God, and remaineth for euer: and his kingdom shall not perishe, and his dominion shall be euermolting.

27 He releueth the distressed, and he wozketh signes and wonders in heauen and in earth: who hath deliuered Daniel from the power of the Lyons.

28 So this Daniel prospered in the reigne of Darius, and in the reigne of Cyrus of Persia.

CHAP. VII.

3 A vision of foure beasts is shewed vnto Daniel. 8 The ten hornes of the fourth beast. 27 Of the everlasting kingdome of Christ.

In the first yere of Belshazzar king of Babel, Daniel saw a dreame, and there were visions in his head, vpon his bed: then hee a Whereas the people of Israell looked for a continuall quietnesse after these seuentie yeeres, as Ieremiah had declared, hee sheweth that this rest shall not be a deliuerance from all troubles, but a beginning, and therefore encouraged them to looke for a continuall affliction till the Messia bee vttered and revealed, by whom they should haue a spirituall deliuerance, and all the promises fulfilled: whereof they should haue a certaine token in the destruction of the Babylonicall kingdome.

wrote the dreame, and declared the summe of the matter.

2 Daniel spake and sayde, I saw in my vision by night, and beholde, the foure windes of the heauen stroue vpon the great sea:

3 And foure great beasts came vp from the sea, one diuers from another.

4 The first was as a lion, and had eagles wings: I beheld, till the wings thereof were pluckt off, & it was lifted vp from the earth, and set vpon his feete as a man, and a mans heart was giuen him.

5 And beholde, another beast which was the secon, was like a beare, and stood vpon the one side: and hee had three ribbes in his mouth betwene his teeth, & and they said thus vnto him, Arise, and deuoure much flesh.

6 After this, I beheld, and loe, there was another like a leopard, which had vpon his backe foure wings of a foule: the beast had also foure heades: and dominion was giuen him.

7 After this, I sawe in the visions by night, and beholde, the fourth beast was fearful, and terrible, and very strong. It had great iron teeth: it deuoured, and brake in peeces, and stamped the residue vnder his feete: and it was unlike to the beasts that were before it: for it had tenne hornes.

8 As I considered the hornes, beholde, there came vp among them another little horne, before whom there were three of and cruell. e They were small in the beginning, and were shut vp in their mountaines, and had no bruit. f That is, destroyed many kingdomes, and was insatiable. g To wit, the Angels by Gods commandement, who by this means punished the ingratitude of the world. h Meaning Alexander the king of Macedonie. i That is, his foure cheife captaines, which had the empire among them after his death. Seleucus had Asia the great, Antigonus the lesse, Cassander, and after him Antipater was king of Macedonie, & Ptolomeus had Egypt. k It was not of himselfe, nor of his owne power that he gate all these countries: for his army contained but thirty thousand men, & he ouer came in one battell Darius, which had ten hundred thousand when he was so heauy with sleepe, that his eyes were scarce open, as the stories report: therefore this power was giuen him of God. l That is, the Romane Empire, which was a monster and could not bee compared to any beast, because the nature of none was able to expresse it. m Signifying the tyrannie and greedinesse of the Romanes. n That which the Romanes could not quietly enioy in other countreys, they would give it to other kings and rulers, that at all times when they would, they might take it againe: which liberality is here called the stamping of the rest vnder the feete. o That is, sundry and diuers prouinces, which were governed by the Deputies and Proconsuls, wherof euery one might be compared to a King. p Which is meant of Iulius Caesar, Augustus, Tiberius, Caligula, Claudius & Nero, &c. who were as kings in effect, but because they could not rule, but by the consent of the Senate, their power is compared to a little horne. For Mahomet came not of the Romane Empire, and the Pope hath no vocation of government: therefore this cannot be applied vnto them. And also in this prophetic the Prophets purpose is chiefly to comfort the Iewes vnto the reuelation of Christ. Some take it for the whole body of Antichrist. q Meaning, a certaine portion of the tenne hornes: that is, a part of the whole estate was pluckt away. For Augustus tooke from the Senate the libertie of chusing the Deputies to send into the prouinces, and tooke the government of certaine countreys to himselfe.

b Which signified that there should be horrible troubles and afflictions in the world, in all corners of the world, and at sundry times.

c Meaning, the Assyrian & Caldean Empire which was most strong and fierce in power and most soone come to their authoritie, as though they had had wings to flee: yet their wings were pulled by the Persians, & they went on their feete, and were made like other men, which is here meant by mans heart.

d Meaning, the Persians, which were barbarous

r These Romane Emperors at the first vsed a certaine humanitie, and gentleness, & were content that other, as the Consuls and Senate should beare the name of dignitie, so that they might haue the profite, and therefore in elections and counsels would behaue themselves according as did other Senators: yet against their enemies, and those that would resist them, they were fierce and cruell, which is here meant by the proud mouth, f Meaning, the places where God and his Angels should come to iudge these Monarchies, which iudgement should begin at the first coming of Christ, t That is, God which was before all times, & is here described as mans nature is able to comprehend some portion of his glory.

u That is, an infinite number of Angels, which were ready to execute his commandment. x This is meant of the first coming of Christ, when as the will of God was plainly reuealed by his Gospel. y Meaning, that hee was astonished when hee saw these Emperours in such dignitie and pride, and so suddenly destroyed at the coming of Christ, when this fourth Monarchy was subiect to men of other nations. z As the three former Monarchies had an end, at the time that God appointed, although they flourished for a time, so shall this fourth haue, and they that patiently abide Gods appointment, shall enioy the promises. a Which is meant of Christ, who had not yet taken vpon him mans nature, neither was the son of David according to the flesh, as he was afterward: but appeared then in a figure, and that in the cloudes: that is, being separate from the common sort of men by manifest signes of his diuinitie. b To wit, when hee ascended into the heauen, and his diuine Maiestie appeared, and all power was giuen vnto him in respect of that that he was our Mediatour. c This is meant of the beginning of Christs Kingdome, when God the Father gaue vnto him all dominion, as to the Mediatour, to the intent that he should gouerne heere his Church in earth continually, till the time that he brought them to eternall life. d Through the strangeness of the vision, e Meaning of the Angels, as vsel 10.

the first hornes pluckt away: and beholde, in this horne were eyes like the eyes of man, and a mouth speaking presumptuous things.

9 I beheld, till the thrones were set vp, and the Ancient of dayes did sit, whose garment was white as snow, and the haire of his head like the pure wool: his throne was like the fiery flame, and his wheel as burning fire.

10 A fiery streame issued, and came forth from before him: thousand thousands ministered vnto him, and tenne thousand thousands stood before him: the iudgement was set, and the bookes opened.

11 Then I beheld, because of the voice of the presumptuous words, which the horne spake: I beheld, vntill the beast was slaine, and his body destroyed, and giuen to the burning fire.

12 As concerning the other beasts, they had taken away their dominion, yet their liues were prolonged for a certaine time and season.

13 As I beheld in visions by night, behold, one like the sonne of man came in the cloudes of heauen, and approached vnto the Ancient of dayes, and they brought him before him.

14 And he gaue him dominion, and honour, and a kingdome, that all people, nations and languages should serue him: his dominion is an euermlasting dominion, which shall neuer be taken away: and his kingdome shall neuer be destroyed.

15 I Daniel was troubled in my spirit in the middes of my body, and the visions of mine heade made mee afraid.

16 Therefore I came vnto one of them that stood by, and asked him the truth of all this: so hee tolde mee, and shewed mee the interpretation of these things.

17 These great beasts which are four, are four kings, which shall arise out of the earth.

18 And they shall take the kingdome of the Saints of the most High, which shall possesse the kingdome for euer, euen for euer and euer.

19 After this I would know the truth of the fourth beast, which was so unlike to all the others, very fearefull, whose teeth were of yron, and his nailes of brasie, which deuoured, brake in peeces, and stamped the residue vnder his feete:

20 Also to know of the tenne hornes that were in his head, & of the other which came vp, before whom three fell, and of the horne that had eyes, and of the mouth that spake presumptuous things, whose looke was more stout then his fellows.

21 I behelde, and the same horne made battell against the Saints, yea and persecuted against them, 22 Vntill the Ancient of dayes came, and iudgement was giuen to the Saints of the most High: and the time approached, that the Saints possessed the kingdome.

23 Then he said, The fourth beast shall be vnlike to all the kingdomes, and shall deuoure the whole earth, and shall treade it downe, and brake it in peeces.

24 And the ten hornes out of this kingdome are ten kings that shall rise: & another shall rise after them, and hee shall be vnlike to the first, and hee shall subdue three kings, 25 And he shall speak words against the most High, and shall consume the Saints of the most High, and thinke that hee may change times and lawes, and they shall be giuen vnto his hand, vntill a time, & times, and the diuiding of time.

26 But the iudgement shall sit, and they shall take away his dominion, to consume and destroy it vnto the end.

27 And the kingdome, and dominion, retained them for terme of life: also the Romans were the strongest of all the other, and were neuer quiet among themselves, i Read vers. 7. k This is meant of the fourth beast, which was more terrible then the other. l Meaning, the Romane Emperors, who were most cruel against the church of God both of the Iewes and of the Gentiles. m Til God shewed his power in the person of Christ, and by the preaching of the Gospel gaue vnto his some rest, and lo obtained a famous name in the world, and were called the church of God, or the kingdom of God. n Read the exposition hereof, vers. 8 o That is, shall make wicked decrees & proclamations against Gods word, & sendethorowout all their dominion, to destroy all that did professe it. p These Emperours shall not consider that they haue their power of God, but thinke it is in their owne power to change Gods lawes and mans, and as it were the order of nature, as appeareth by Octavius, Tiberius, Caligula, Nero, Domitianus, &c q God shall suffer the thus to rage against his Saints for a long time, which is meant by the time and times, but at length he will asswage these troubles, and shorten the times for his elects sake, Matth 24. 22. which is here meant by the diuiding of time. r God by his power shall restore things that were out of order, and so destroy this little horne that it shall neuer rise vp againe. s Hee weth wherefore the beast should be destroyed, to wit, that his Church might haue rest and quietnesse, which though they do not fully enioy here, yet they haue it in hope, and by the preaching of the Gospel enioy the beginning thereof, which is meant by these words, Vnder the heauen: and therefore hee here speaketh of the beginning of Christs kingdome in this world, which kingdome the faithfull haue by the participation that they haue with Christ their head,

and

f Because Abraham was appointed heire of all the world, Rom. 4. 13, and in him all the faithfull, therefore the kingdome thereof, is theirs by right, which these foure beasts or tyrants should inuade, and vsurpe vntill the world were restored by Christ: and this was to confirme them that were in troubles that their afflictions should haue an end at length. g That is, of the most hie things, because God hath chosen them out of this world, that they should looke vp to the heauens, wheron all their hope dependeth. h For the other threemonarchies were gouerned by a king, & the Romane Empire by Consuls: the Romans changed their gouernors yeely, and the other monarchies

That is, some of euery sort that beare rule.

u Though hee had many motions in his heart which moued him to and fro to seeke out this matter curiously yet was he content with that which God reuealed, and kept it in memorie, and wrote it for the vse of the Church.

and the greatnesse of the kingdome vnder the whole heauen shall bee giuen to the holy people of the most high, whose kingdome is an euerlasting kingdome, and all powers shall serue and obey him.

28 Euen this is the end of the matter, I Daniel had many cogitations which troubled mee, and my countenance changed in me: but I kept the matter in my heart.

CHAP. VIII.

1 A vision of a battell betwene a ramme and a goat. 29 The understanding of the vision.

a After the generall vision bee cometh to certaine particular visions, as touching the destruction of the monarchy of the Persians and Macedonians: for the ruine of the Babylonians was at hand, and also he had sufficiently spoken thereof.

b That is, of Persia.

c Which represented the kingdome of the Persians and Medes, which were ioyned together.

d Meaning, Cyrus, which after grow greater in power then Darius his vnckle & father in law.

e That is, no kings, or nations.

f Meaning Alexander that came from Grecia with great speed and expedition.

g Though hee came in the name of all Grecia, yet he bare the title and dignitie of the generall capitaine, so that the strength was attributed to him, which is meant by this horne.

h Alexander overcame Darius in two sundry battells and so had the two kingdomes of the Medes and Persians.

i Alexanders great power was broken: for when he had overcome all the East, he thought to returne toward Grecia, to subdue them that there had rebelled, and so died by the way.

k That is, which were famous: for almost in the space of fiftene yeere there were fiftene diuers successors before this monarchy was diuided to these foure, whereof Cassander had Macedonia, Seleucus Syria, Antigonus Asia the lesse, and Ptolemies Egypt.

l Which was Antiochus Epiphanes, who was of a seruile and flattering nature, and also there were other betwene him and the kingdome: and therefore is here called the little horne, because neither princely conditions, nor any other thing was in him, why he should obtaine this kingdome.

I Belsazzar, a vision appeared vnto mee, euen vnto me Daniel, after that which appeared vnto me at the first.

2 And I saw in a vision, and when I saw it, I was in the palace of Shushan, which is in the prouince of Elam, and in a vision me thought I was by the river of Elat.

3 Then I looked vp and saw, and behold, there stood before the riuer a ramme, which had two hornes: and these two hornes were he: but one was higher then another, and the highest came vp last.

4 I sawe the ramme pushing against the West, & against the North, and against the South: so that no beasts might stand before him, nor could deliuer out of his hand, but he did what he listed, and became great.

5 And as I considered, behold, a goat came from the West over the whole earth, and touched not the ground: and this goat had an horn that appeared betwene his eyes.

6 And he came vnto the ramme that had the two hornes, whom I had seene standing by the riuer, and ranne vnto him in his fierce rage.

7 And I saw him come vnto the ramme, and being moued against him, he smote the ramme, and brake his two hornes, and there was no power in the ramme to stand against him, but hee cast him downe to the ground, and stamped vpon him, and there was none that could deliuer the ramme out of his power.

8 Therefore the goat waxed exceeding great, and when he was at the strongest, his great horn was broken: and for it came vp foure that appeared toward the foure winds of the heauen.

9 And out of one of them came forth a litle horne, which waxed very great toward the South, and toward the East, and toward the pleasant land.

10 Peas, it grew vp vnto the host of heauen, and it cast downe some of the host, and of the starres to the ground, and trode vpon them.

11 And extolled himselfe against the prince of the host, from whom the dayly sacrifice was taken away, and the place of his sanctuary was cast downe.

12 And a time shall bee giuen him over the dayly sacrifice for the iniquity: and it shall cast downe the truth to the ground, & thus shall it doe and prosper.

13 Then I heard one of the Saints speaking, and one of the Saints spake vnto a certaine one, saying, How long shall endure the vision of the dayly sacrifice, and the iniquity of the desolation to treade both the Sanctuary and the armie vnder foote?

14 And hee answered mee, Vnto the evening, and the morning, two thousand and three hundred, then shall the Sanctuary be cleansed.

15 Now when I Daniel had seene the vision, and sought for the meaning, behold, there stood before me like the similitude of a man.

16 And I heard a mans voyce betwene the bankes of Elat, which called and said, Gabriel, make this man to vnderstand the vision.

17 So he came where I stood: and when he came, I was afraid, & fell vpon my face: but he said vnto me, vnderstand, sonne of man: for in the last time shalbe the vision.

18 Now as he was speaking vnto mee, I being asleepe fell on my face to the ground: but he touched me, and set me vp in my place.

19 And he said, Behold, I will shew thee what shall bee in the last wrath: for in the end of the time appointed it shall come.

20 The ramme which thou sawest hauing two hornes, are the kings of the Medes and Persians.

21 And the goat is the king of Grecia, and the great horn that is betwene his eyes, is the first king.

22 And that that is broken, and foure stood vp for it, are foure kingdomes, which shall stand vp of that nation, but not in his strength.

23 And in the ende of their kingdome, when the rebellious shalbe consumed, a king of fierce countenance, and vnderstanding

In the first yeere of Darius the sonne of Ahasuerus, of the seede of the Medes, which was made King ouer the^b realme of the Chaldeans,

2 Euen in the first yeere of his reigne, I Daniel understood by^c bookes the number of the yeeres, wherof the Lord had spoken vnto Ieremiah the Prophet, that he would accomplysh seventy yeeres in the desolation of Ierusalem.

3 And I turned my face vnto the Lord God, and^d sought by prayer and supplications, with fastings, and sackcloth and ashes.

4 And I prayed vnto the Lord my God, and made my confession, saying, Oh Lord God, which art^e great and fearefull, and keepst couenant^f & mercie toward them which loue^g thee, and toward them that keepe thy commandments,

5 We haue sinned, and haue committed iniquitie, and haue done wickedly, yea, wee haue rebelled, and haue departed from thy precepts, and from thy iudgements.

6 For wee would not obey thy seruants the Prophets, which spake in thy Name to our kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, and to all the people of the land.

7 O Lord, righteousnes belongeth vnto thee, and vnto vs^h open shame, as appeareth this day vnto every man of Iudah, and to the inhabitants of Ierusalem: yea, vnto all Israel, both neere and farr off, through all the countreys, whither thou hast driven them, because of their offences, that they haue committed against thee.

8 O Lord, vnto vs appertaineth open shame, to ourⁱ kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, because we haue sinned against thee.

9 Yet compassion and forgiveness is in the Lord our God, albeit we haue rebelled against him.

10 For we haue not obeyed the^j voyce of the Lord our God, to walke in his Lawes, which hee had layd before vs by the ministrerie of his seruants the Prophets.

11 Yea, all Israel haue transgressed thy law, and are turned backe, & haue not heard thy voyce: therefore the^k curle is powred vpon vs, and the oth that is written in the Law of Moses the seruant of God, because wee haue sinned against him.

12 And hee hath confirmed his words, which he spake against vs, and against our Iudges that^l iudged vs, by bringing vpon vs a great plague: for vnder the whole heauen hath not bene the like, as hath bene brought vpon Ierusalem.

13 All this plague is come vpon vs, as it is written in the law of Moses: yet made we not our prayer before the Lord our God, that we might turne from our iniquities, and vnderstand thy trueth.

14 Therefore hath the Lord^m made ready the plague, and brought it vpon vs: for the Lord our God is righteous in all his works, which he doeth: for we would not heare his voyce.

15 And now, O Lord our God, that hast brought thy people out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand, and hast gotten thee renowne, as appeareth this day, wee haue sinned, we haue done wickedly.

16 O Lord, according to all thyⁿ righteousness, I beseech thee let thine anger & thy wrath be turned away from thy citie Ierusalem thine holy mountaine: for because of our finnes, and for the iniquities of our fathers, Ierusalem and thy people are a reproch to all that are about vs.

17 Now therefore, O our God, heare the prayer of thy seruant, and his supplications, and cause thy face to^o shine vpon thy Sanctuary, that lieth waste for the^p Lords sake.

18 O my God, incline thine eare, and heare: open thine eyes, and behold our desolations, and the Citie whereupon thy Name is called: for wee doe not present our supplications before thee for our owne^q righteousness, but for thy great tender mercies.

19 O Lord heare, O Lord forgive, O Lord^r consider & do it: deferre not, for thine owne sake, O my God: for thy Name is called vpon thy citie, and vpon thy people.

CHAP. X.

There appeareth vnto Daniel a man clothed in linen, which sheweth him wherefore he is sent.

I At the third yere of Cyrus king of Persia, a thing was reuealed vnto Daniel, (whose name was called Belteshazzar) and the word was true, but the time appointed was long, and he understood the thing, and had vnderstanding of the vision.

II For howe can the seruant of this my Lord talke with my Lord being such a one? for as for me, straightway there remained no strength in me, neither is there breath left in me.

the holy mountaine of God.

21 Pea, while I was speaking in prayer, euen the man Gabriel whom I had seene before in the vision, came flying, and touched mee about the time of the evening oblation.

22 And he informed me, and talked with mee, and said, O Daniel, I am now come forth to giue thee knowledge and vnderstanding.

23 At the beginning of thy supplications the commandement came forth, and I am come to shew thee for thou art greatly beloved: therefore vnderstand the matter and consider the vision.

24 Seventy weekes are determined vpon thy people, and vpon thine holy citie to finish the wickednesse, and to seale by the sinnes, and to reconcile the iniquity, and to bring in euerslasting righteousness, & to seale vpon the vision and prophesie, and to anoynt the most Holy.

25 Know therefore and vnderstand, that from the going forth of the commandement to bring againe the people, and to build Ierusalem vnto Messiah the prince shall be seuen weekes, and three score and two weekes, and the street shall bee built againe, and the wall euen in a troublous time.

26 And after three score and two weekes, shall Messiah be slaine, and shall haue nothing, and the people of the prince that shall come, shall destroy the city and the Sanctuary, and the end thereof shall be with a flood: and vnto the end of the battell it shall be destroyed by desolations.

26 And hee shall confirme the couenant with many for one weeke: and in the mids of the weeke hee shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease, and for the overspreading of the abominations, hee shall make it desolate, euen vntill the consummation determined shall be powred vpon the desolate.

26 And hee shall confirme the couenant with many for one weeke: and in the mids of the weeke hee shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease, and for the overspreading of the abominations, hee shall make it desolate, euen vntill the consummation determined shall be powred vpon the desolate.

26 And hee shall confirme the couenant with many for one weeke: and in the mids of the weeke hee shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease, and for the overspreading of the abominations, hee shall make it desolate, euen vntill the consummation determined shall be powred vpon the desolate.

26 And hee shall confirme the couenant with many for one weeke: and in the mids of the weeke hee shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease, and for the overspreading of the abominations, hee shall make it desolate, euen vntill the consummation determined shall be powred vpon the desolate.

26 And hee shall confirme the couenant with many for one weeke: and in the mids of the weeke hee shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease, and for the overspreading of the abominations, hee shall make it desolate, euen vntill the consummation determined shall be powred vpon the desolate.

26 And hee shall confirme the couenant with many for one weeke: and in the mids of the weeke hee shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease, and for the overspreading of the abominations, hee shall make it desolate, euen vntill the consummation determined shall be powred vpon the desolate.

26 And hee shall confirme the couenant with many for one weeke: and in the mids of the weeke hee shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease, and for the overspreading of the abominations, hee shall make it desolate, euen vntill the consummation determined shall be powred vpon the desolate.

26 And hee shall confirme the couenant with many for one weeke: and in the mids of the weeke hee shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease, and for the overspreading of the abominations, hee shall make it desolate, euen vntill the consummation determined shall be powred vpon the desolate.

2 At the same time, I Daniel was in headnesse for three weekes of dayes.

3 I ate no pleasant bread, neither came flesh, nor wine in my mouth, neither did I anoynt my selfe at all, till three weekes of dayes were fulfilled.

4 And in the foure and twentieth day of the first moneth, as I was by the side of that great riuer, euen Hiddekel,

5 And I lift vp mine eyes, and looked, and behold, there was a man clothed in linen, whose loynes were girded with fine gold of Ephay.

6 His body also was like the Chrysolite, and his face (to looke vpon) like the lighting, and his eyes as lampes of fire, and his armes and his fette were like in colour to polished brass, and the voyce of his wordes was like the voyce of a multitude.

7 And I Daniel alone saw the vision: for the men that were with me, saw not the vision: but a great feare fell vpon them, so that they fled away and hid themselves.

8 Therefore I was left alone, & saw this great vision, and there remained no strength in me: for my strength was turned in me into corruption, and I retained no power.

9 Yet heard I the voyce of his wordes, and when I heard the voyce of his wordes, I slept on my face: and my face was toward the ground.

10 And beholde, an hand touched me, which set mee vpon my knees, and vpon the palmes of my hands:

11 And he said vnto me, O Daniel, a man greatly beloved, vnderstand the wordes that I speake vnto thee, and stand in thy place: for vnto thee am I now sent. And when he had saide this word vnto mee, I stood trembling.

12 Then said he vnto me, Feare not Daniel: for from the first day that thou diddest set thine heart to vnderstand, and to humble thy selfe before thy God, thy wordes were heard, and I am come for thy wordes.

13 But the Prince of the kingdome of Persia withstood me one and twenty dayes: but loe, Michael one of the chief Princes, came to helpe mee, and I remained there by the kings of Persia.

14 Now I am come to shew thee what shall come to thy people in the latter dayes: for yet the vision is for many dayes.

15 And when hee spake these wordes vnto mee, I set my face toward the ground, and held my tongue.

16 And behold, one like the similitude of the sonne of man touched my lips: then I opened my mouth, and spake, and said vnto him that stood before mee, O my Lord, by the vision my sorowes are returned vpon me, and I haue retained no strength.

17 For howe can the seruant of this my Lord talke with my Lord being such a one? for as for me, straightway there remained no strength in me, neither is there breath left in me.

CHAP. XI.

1 A prophesie of the kingdomes which should be enemies to the Church of God, as of Persia, 3 Of Greece, 5 Of Egypt, 28 Of Syria, 39 and of the Romanes.

a The Angel assureth Daniel that God hath giuen him power to performe these things seeing he appointed him to assist Darius when he ouercame the Caldeans, b Whereof Cambyfes that now reigned, was the first, the second Smerdes, y third Darius the son of Hystaspis, & the fourth Xerxes, which all were enemies to the people of God, and stood against them, c For he raised vp all the East

Also I, in the first yere of Darius of the Medes, euen I stood to encourage and to strengthen him.

2 And now will I shew thee the trueth. Behold, there shall stand vpon yet three kings in Persia, and the fourth shall be farre richer then they all: and by his strength, and by his riches hee shall stirre vp all against the realme of Grecia.

3 But a mightie king shall stand vp, that shall rule with great dominion, and doe according to his pleasure.

4 And when he shall stand vp, his kingdom shall be broken, and shall be diuided toward the foure winds of heauen: and not to his posterity, nor according to his dominion which he ruled: for his kingdom shall be plucked vp, euen to be for others besides those.

5 And the King of the South shall be mightie, and one of his princes, and shall preuaile against him, and beare rule: his dominion shall be a great dominion.

6 And in the end of yeres they shall be joined together: for the kings daughter of the South shall come to the king of the North, to make an agreement, but shee shall not continue the power of the arme, neither shall he continue, nor his arme: but she shall be deliuered to death, and they that brought her and he that begate her, and he that comforted her in these times.

7 But out of the budde of her roots shall one stand vp in his stead, which shall come with an armie, and shall enter into the fortreffe of the King of the North, and doe with them as hee list, and shall preuaile.

8 And shall also cary captiues into Egypt their gods with their molten images, and with their precious vessels of silver and of gold, and he shall continue more yeres then the king of the North.

9 So the king of the South shall come into his kingdom, and shall returne into his owne land.

10 Wherefore his sonnes shall be stirred vp, and shall assemble a mightie great armie: and one shall come and ouerflow, and passe thow: then shall hee returne, and be stirred vp at his fortreffe.

11 And the king of the South shall be angry, and shall come forth and fight with him, euen with the King of the North: for hee shall see forth a great multitude, and the multitude shall be giuen into his hand.

12 Then the multitude shall be proud, and their heart shall be lifted vp: for he shall cast downe thousands: but hee shall not kill preuaile.

13 For the king of the North shall returne, and shall set forth a greater multitude then afore, and shall come forth (after certaine yeres) with a mighty armie, and great riches.

14 And at the same time there shall many stand vp against the king of the South: also the rebellious children of thy people, shall exalt themselves to stablish the vilion, but they shall fall.

15 So the King of the North shall come, and cast vp a mount, and take the strong Citie: and the armes of the South, shall not resist, neither his chosen people, neither shall there be any strength to withstand.

16 But hee that shall come, shall doe vnto him as hee list, and none shall stand a o That force and strength shall not continue: for soone after, Berenice and her young sonne after her husbands death, was slaine of her stepsonne Seleucus Calinicus the son of Laodice, the lawfull wife of Antiochus, but put away for this womans sake.

p Neither Ptolemeus, nor Antiochus, q Some reade, feede, meaning the childe begotten of Berenice.

r Some reade, she that begate her, and thereby vnderstand her wife, which brought her vp: so that all they that were occasion of this marriage, were destroyed.

s Meaning, that Ptolemeus together, after the death of his father Philadelphus, should succede in the kingdom, being of the same stock that Berenice was.

u For this Ptolemeus reigned sixe and fourtie yeeres. x Meaning, Seleucus and Antiochus the great, the sonnes of Calinicus, shall make warre against Ptolemeus Philopater the sonne of Philadelphus. y For his elder brother Seleucus died, or was slaine whiles the warres were preparing. z That is, Philopater, when he shall see Antiochus to take great dominions from him in Syria, and also ready to inuade Egypt. a For Antiochus had sixe thousand horsemen, and threecore thousand footemen. b After the death of Ptolemeus Philopater, who left Ptolemeus Epiphanes his heire. c For not onely Antiochus came against him, but also Philip king of Macedonia, and these two brought great power with them. d For vnder Ontas which falsly alledged that place of Isaiah 19. 19. certaine of the Iewes retired with him into Egypt to fulfill this prophesie: also the Angel sheweth that all these troubles which are in the Church, are by the prouidence and counsell of God. e The Egyptians were not able to resist Stopas Antiochus captaine.

f Hee sheweth that he shal not onely afflicte the Egyptians, but also the Iewes, and shall enter into their countrey, whereof hee admonisheth them before, that they may know that all these things come by Gods providence.

g This was the second battell that Antiochus fought against Ptolemeus Epiphanes.

h To wit, a beautiful woman, which was Cleopatra Antiochus daughter.

i For he regarded not the life of his daughter, in respect of the kingdom of Egypt.

k Shee shall not agree to his wicked counsell, but shall loue her husband as her duey requireth, and not seeke his destruction.

l That is, toward Asia, Grecia, and those yles which are in the sea called Mediterraneum: for the Iewes called all countreys yles, which were diuided from them by sea.

m For whereas Antiochus was wont to contemne the Romanes, and put their ambassadors to shame in all places, Antilius the Consul or Lucius Scipio put him to flight, and caused his shame to turne on his owne head.

n By his wicked life, and obeying of foolish counsell. o For feare of the Romanes hee shall flee to his holdes.

p For when as ynder the pretence of pouertie he would haue robbed the temple of Iupiter Dodonius, the countrey men slewe him.

q That is, Seleucus shall succeed his father Antiochus. r Not by forreine enemies, or battell, but by treason. s Which was Antiochus Epiphanes, who as is thought, was the occasion of Seleucus his brothers death, & was of a vile, cruel, and flitting nature, and defrauded his brothers sonne of the kingdom, and vsurped the kingdom without the consent of the people.

t Hee sheweth that great forreine powers shall come to helpe the young sonne of Seleucus against his vnkle Antiochus, and yet shall bee ouerthrowen.

u Meaning Ptolemeus Philometor, Philopaters sonne, who was this childes cousin germane, and is here called the prince of the covenant, because hee was the chiefe, and all other followed his conduct. x For after the battell, Philometor and his vnkle Antiochus made a league. y For hee came vpon him at vnawares, and when he suspected his vnkle Antiochus nothing. z Meaning, in Egypt. a Hee will content himselfe with the small holdes for a time, but euer labour by craft to attaine to the chiefe. b Hee shall be overcome with treason, against him, and he shall stand in the pleasant land, which by his hand shall bee consumed.

17 Again hee shall set his face to enter with the power of his whole kingdom, and his confederates with him: thus shall hee doe, and hee shall giue him the daughter of women, to destroy her: but she shall not stand on his side, neither be for him.

18 After this shall hee turne his face vnto the yles, and shall take many: but a prince shall cause his shame to light vpon him, beside that hee shall cause his owne shame to turne vpon himselfe.

19 For he shall turne his face toward the fortes of his owne land: but hee shall be ouerthrowen, and fall, and be no more found.

20 Then shall stand vp in his place in the glory of the kingdom, one that shall raise tares, but after fewe dayes hee shall be destroyed, neither in wrath, nor in battell.

21 And in his place shall stand vp a vile person, to whom they shall not giue the honour of the kingdom: but hee shall come in peaceably, and obtaine the kingdom by flatteries.

22 And the armes shall be ouerthrowen with a flood before him, and shall be broken: and also the prince of the covenant.

23 And after the league made with him, he shall worke deceitfully: for he shall come vp, and overcome with a small people.

24 He shall enter into the quiet and plentifull prouince, and hee shall doe that which his fathers haue not done, nor his fathers fathers: hee shall diuide among them the pray and the spoile, and the substance, yea, and he shall forecast his deuices against the strong holdes, euen for a time.

25 Also he shall stirre vp his power & his courage against the king of the South with a great army, and the king of the South shall bee stirred vp to battell with a very great and mighty armie: but he shall not stand:

for they shall forecast and practise against him.

26 Yea, they that feede of the portion of his meat, shall destroy him: and his armie shall ouerflow: and many shall fall, and be slaine.

27 And both these kings hearts shall bee to doe mischief, and they shall talke of deceit at one table: but it shall not auail: for yet the end shall bee at the time appointed.

28 Then shall hee returne into his land with great substance: for his heart shall be against the holy covenant: so shall hee doe and returne to his owne land.

29 At the time appointed he shall returne, and come toward the South: but the last shall not be as the first.

30 For the ships of Chittim shall come against him: therefore hee shall be sore and returne, and fret against the holy Covenant: so shall hee doe, he shall euen returne, and haue intelligence with them that forsake the holy Covenant.

31 And armes shall stand on his part, and they shall pollute the Sanctuary of strength, and shall take away the dayly sacrifice, and they shall set vp the abominable desolation.

32 And such as wickedly breake the covenant, shall hee cause to sinne by flattery: but the people that doe know their God, shall perseuer and prosper.

33 And they that vnderstand among the people, shall instruct many: yet they shall fall by sword, and by flame, by captiuitie and by spoile, many dayes.

34 Now when they shall fall, they shall be holpen with a little helpe: but many shall cleaue vnto them & faile.

35 And some of them of vnderstanding shall fall to try them, and to purge, and to make them white till the time bee out: for there is a time appointed.

Signifying his princes and the chiefe about him.

d Declaring that the souldiers shall burst out & venture their liues, to slay and to be slaine for the safeguard of their prince.

e The vnkle and the nephew shall take truce, and banquet together, yet in their hearts they shall imagine mischief one against another.

f Signifying that it standeth noe in the counsell of men to bring things to passe, but in the providence of God, who ruleth the kings by a secret bridle, that they cannot doe what they list themselves.

g Which hee shall take of the Iewes in spoiling Ierusalem & the Temple, and this is told them before, to moue them to patience, knowing that all things are done by Gods providence. h That is, the Romane power shall come against him: for P. Popilius the ambassadour appointed him to depart in the Romanes name: to which thing hee obeyed, although with griefe, and to reuenge his rage, hee came against the people of God the second time. i With the Iewes which shall forsake the covenant of the Lord: for first hee was called against the Iewes by Jason the hie Priest, and this second time by Menelaus. k A great faction of the wicked Iewes shall hold with Antiochus. l So called because the power of God was nothing diminished, although this tyrant set vp in the Temple the image of Iupiter Olympius, and so began to corrupt the pure seruice of God. m Meaning, such as bare the name of Iewes, but in deede were nothing lesse: for they sold their soules, and betrayed their brethren for gaine. n They that remaine constant among the people, shall teach others by their example, and edifie many in the true religion. o Whereby hee exhorteth the godly to constancie, although they should perish a thousand times, and though their miseries endure neuer so long. p As God will not leaue his Church destitute, yet will hee not deliuer it all at once, but so helpe, as they may still seeme to fight vnder the crosse, as hee did in the time of the Maccabees, whereof hee here prophesieth. q That is, there shall be euen of this small number many hypocrites. r To wit, of them that feare God, and will lose their life for the defence of true Religion, signifying also, that the Church must continually be tried & purged, and ought to look for one persecution after another: for God hath appointed the time, therefore we must obey.

f Because the Angels purpose is to shew the whole course of the persecutions of the Jewes vnto the coming of Christ, he now speaketh of the Monarchie of the Romanes which he noteth by the name of a king, who were without all religion, and contemned the true God.

e So long the tyrants shall preuaile, as God hath appointed to punish his people: but he sheweth that it is but for a time, u The Romanes shall obserue no certaine forme of religion as other nations, but shall change their gods at their pleasures, yea contemne them and prefer themselves to their gods.

x Signifying, y they should be without all humanity: for the loue of women is taken for singular or great loue, as 2. Sam. 1. 26. y That is, the god of power and riches: they shall esteeme their own power above all their gods, and worship it. z Vnder pretence of worshipping the gods, they shall enrich their city with the most precious iewels of all the world, because that hereby all men should haue them in admiration for their power and riches. a Although in their hearts they had no religion, yet they did acknowledge the gods, and worshipped them in their temples, lest they should haue beene despised as Atheists: but this was to increase their fame and riches: and when they gate any countrey, they so made others rulers thereof, that the profit euer came to the Romanes. b That is, both the Egyptians and Syrians shall at length fight against the Romanes, but they shall be overcome. c The Angel forewarneth the Jewes, that when they should see the Romanes invade them, and that the wicked should escape their hands that then they should not thinke but that all this was done by Gods providence, forasmuch as he warned them of it so long afore, and therefore hee would still preferue them. p Hearing that Crassus was slaine and Antonius discomfited. e For Augustus overcame the Parthians, and recovered that which Antonius had lost. f The Romanes after this reigned quietly through all countreyes, and from sea to sea, and in Iudaea: but at length for their cruelty God shall destroy them.

CHAP. XII.

Of the deliuerances of the Church by Christ.

36 And the king shall doe what him list, he shall exalt himselfe, and magnifie himselfe against all, that is, God, and shall speake marvellous things against the God of gods, and shall prosper till the wrath be accomplished: or the determination is made.

37 Neither shall hee regard the God of his fathers, nor the desires of women, nor feare of any god: for hee shall magnifie himselfe alone all.

38 But in his place shall hee honour the god Hauzzim, and the god whom his fathers knew not shall hee honour with golde and with siluer, and with precious stones, and pleasant things.

39 Thus shall hee doe in the holdes of Hauzzim with a strange god whom hee shall acknowledge: he shall increase his glory, and shall cause them to rule ouer many, and shall diuide the land for gaine.

40 And at the end of time shall the king of the South push at him, and the king of the North shall come against him like a whirlwind, with charrets and with horsemen, and with many shippes, and hee shall enter into the countreyes, and shall ouerflow and passe thorough.

41 Hee shall enter also into the pleasant land, and many countreyes shall be overthrowen: and these shall escape out of his hand, euen Edom and Moab, and the chiefe of the children of Ammon.

42 Hee shall stretch forth his hands also vpon the countreyes, and the land of Egypt shall not escape.

43 But he shall haue power ouer the treasures of gold and of siluer, and ouer all the precious things of Egypt, and of the Libyans, and of the blacke Moyses where he shall passe.

44 But the tidings out of the East and the North shall trouble him, therefore hee shall goe forth with great wrath to destroy and root out many.

45 And he shall plant the tabernacles of his palace betweene the seas in the glorious and holy mountaine, yet hee shall come to his end, and none shall helpe him.

And at that time shall Michael stand by, the great prince, which standeth for the children of thy people, and there shall bee a time of trouble, such as neuer was since there began to bee a nation, vnto that same time: and at that time thy people shall be deliuered, every one that shall be found written in the booke.

2 And many of them shall sleepe in the dust of the earth, shall awake, some to euertlasting life, & some to shame & perpetuall contempt.

3 And they that bee wise, shall shine as the brightness of the firmament: and they that turne many to righteousness, shall shine as the starres, for euer and euer.

4 But thou, O Daniel, shut vp the wordes, and seale the booke till the end of the time: many shall runne to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased.

5 Then I Daniel looked, and beheld, there stood other two, the one on this side of the brinke of the riuer, and the other on that side of the brinke of the riuer.

6 And one said vnto the man clothed in linnen, which was vpon the waters of the riuer, When shall be the end of these wonders?

7 And I heard the man clothed in linnen, which was vpon the waters of the riuer, when he held vp his right hand and his left hand vnto heauen, and sware by him that liueth for euer, that it shal eary for a time, two times and an halfe: and when hee shall haue accomplished to scatter the power of the holy people, all these things shalbe finished.

8 Then I heard it, but I understood it not: then said I, O my Lord, what shall bee the end of these things?

9 And he said, See thy way, Daniel: for the words are closed vp, and sealed, till the end of the time.

10 Many shall bee purified, made white and tried: but the wicked shall doe wickedly, and none of the wicked shall haue understanding: but the wise shall understand.

11 And from the time that the daily sacrifice shall be taken away, and the abominable desolation set vp, there shall be a thousand two hundred and ninety dayes.

12 Blessed is hee that waiteth and cometh to the thousand three hundred and thirtie dayes.

13 But goe thou thy way till the end be: for thou shalt rest and stand vp in thy lot, at the end of the dayes.

mysteries, which things they obtaine now by the light of the Gospel. g Which was Tygris. h Which was as it were a double oath and did the more confirme the thing. i Meaning, a long time, a longer time, and at length a short time: signifying, that their troubles should haue an end. k When the Church shalbe scattered and diminished in such sort, as it shall seeme to haue no power. l From the time that Christ by his sacrifice shall take away the sacrifice and ceremonies of the Law. m Signifying, that the time shalbe long of Christs second coming, and yet the children of God ought not to be discouraged, though it be deferred. n In this number he addeth a moneth & an halfe to the former number, signifying, that it is not in man to appoint the time of Christs coming, but that they are blessed that patiently abide his appearing. o The Angel warneth the Prophet patiently to abide, till the time appointed come, signifying, that he should depart this life, and rise againe with the elect, when God had sufficiently humbled and purged his Church.

HOSEA.

Hosea.

THE ARGUMENT.

After that the ten tribes had fallen away from God by the wicked & subtil counsel of Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat, and in stead of his true seruice commanded by his word, worshipped him according to their owne fantasies and traditions of men, giuing themselves to most vile idolatry and superstition, the Lord from time to time sent them Prophets to call them to repentance: but they grew euer worse and worse, and still abused Gods benefites. Therefore now when their prosperitie was at the highest vnder Ieroboam the sonne of Ioash, God sent Hosea and Amos to the Israelites (as he did at the same time Isaiah and Micah to them of Iudah) to condemne them of their ingratitude: and whereas they thought themselves to be greatly in the fauour of God, and to be his people, the Prophet calleth them bastards and children borne in adultery: and therefore sheweth them that God would take away their kingdome, and giue them to the Assyrians to be led away captiues. Thus Hosea faithfully executed his office for the space of seuentie yeres, though they remained still in their wickednes and vices, and derided the Prophets, and contemned Gods iudgements. And because they should neither be discouraged with threatnings onely, nor yet flatter themselves by the sweetness of Gods promises, hee setteth before them the two principall parts of the Law, which are the promise of saluation, and the doctrine of life: for the first part he directeth the faithfull to Messiah, by whom only they should haue true deliuerance: and for the second, he setteth threatnings and menaces to bring them from their wicked manners and vices: and this is the chiefe scope of all the Prophets, either by Gods promises to allure them to be godly, or else by threatnings of his iudgements to feare them from vice: and albeit that the whole Law containe the setwo points, yet the Prophets moreouer note particularly, both the time of Gods iudgements, and the manner.

CHAP. I.

1 The time when Hosea prophesied. 2 The idolatry of the people. 3 The calling of the Gentiles, 4 Christ is the head of all the people.

Hosea the sonne of Beeri, in the dayes of Azziah, Iotham, Ahab, and Jeroboam kings of Iudah, and in the dayes of Ieroboam the sonne of Ioash king of Israel.

a Called also Azariah, who being a leper was deposed from his kingdome. b So that it may be gathered by the reigne of these foure kings that he preached aboue threescore yeere.

c That is, one that of long time haue accustomed to play the harlot: not that the Prophet did this thing in effect, but hee saw this in a vision, or els was commanded by God to set forth vnder this parable or figure the idolatry of the Synagogue, and of the people her children. d Gomer signifieth a consumption or corruption, and Diblaim clusters of figs, declaring that they were all corrupt like rotten figs. e Meaning, that they should be no more called Israelites, of the which name they boasted, because Israel did preuaile with God: but that they were as bastards, and therefore should be called Izreelites, that is, scattered people alluding to Izreel, which was the chiefe city of the ten tribes vnder Ahab, where Iehu shed so much blood, 2. Kin. 10. 8, 11. f I will be reuenged vpon Iehu for the blood that he shed in Izreel: for albeit God stirred him vp to execute his iudgements, yet hee did them for his owne ambition, and not for the glory of God, as the end declared: for hee builded vp their idolatry, which hee had destroyed. g When the measure of their iniquitie is full, and I shall take vengeance and destroy all their policie and force, name, h Lo-ruhamah: for I will no more haue pittie vpon the house of Israel: but I will bitterly take them away.

7 Yet will I haue mercy vpon the house of Iudah, and will saue them by the Lord their God, and will not saue them by bowe, nor by sword, nor by battell, by horses, nor by holsemen.

8 Now when shee had weaned Lo-ruhamah, shee conceived and bare a sonne.

9 Then said God, Call his name I Ammi: for yee are not my people: therefore will I not be yours.

10 Yet the number of the children of Israel shall be as the sand of the sea, which cannot bee measured nor told: and in the place where it was said vnto them, Yee are not my people, it shall be said vnto them, Yee are the sonnes of the liuing God.

11 Then shall the children of Iudah, and the children of Israel be gathered together, and appoint themselves one head, and they shall come vp out of the land: for great is the day of Izreel.

cept he had preserved them, he declarerh that though they were destroyed, yet the true Israelites, which are the sonnes of the promise, should be without number, which stand both of the Iewes, and the Gentiles, Rom. 9. 26. n To wit, after the captiuitie of Babylon when the Iewes were restored: but chiefly this is referred to the time of Christ, who should be the head both of the Iewes and Gentime. o The calamitie and destruction of Izreel shall be so great, that to restore them shall be as a miracle.

CHAP. II.

1 The people is called to repentance, 2 He sheweth their idolatry, and threatneth them except they repent.

Say vnto your brethren, Ammi, and to your sisters, Ruhamah,

2 Plead with your mother: plead you deliuerance, it remaineth that you encourage one another to embrace the same, considering that ye are my people on whom I will haue mercie. b God sheweth that the fault was not in him but in their Synagogue, & their idolatries, that hee forooke them, Isa. 50. 1.

e Meaning, that their idolatry was so great, that they were not ashamed, but boasted of it, Ezek. 16. 25. d For though this people were as an harlot for their idolatries, yet he had left them with their apparell & dowrie and certaine signes of his fauour, but if they continued still, he would vicerily destroy them. e When I brought her out of Egypt, Ezek. 16. 4. f That is, bastards, & begotten in adultery. g Meaning the idoles which they serued, and by whom they thought they had wealth and abundance. h I will punish thee, that then thou maist trie whether thine idoles can helpe thee and bring thee into such straitnesse, that thou shalt haue no lust to play the wanton. i This he speaketh of the faithfull which are truly conuerted, and also sheweth the vse and profit of Gods rods. k This declareth ydolatry as defrauding God of his honour when they attribute his benefits to their idoles. l Signifying, that God will take away his benefits, when man by his ingratitude doeth abuse them. m That is, all her seruice, ceremonies and inuentions, whereby she worshipped her idols. n I will punish her for her idolatry. o By shewing how harlots trim themselves to please others, he declareth how the superstitious idolaters set a great part of their religion in decking themselves on their holy dayes. p By my benefits in offering her grace and mercie, euen in that place where he shall thinke her selfe destitute of all helpe and comfort. q Which was a plentiful valley, and wherein they had great comfort when they came out of the wilderness, as Iosh. 7. 26, and is called the doore of hope, because it was a departing from death, and an entry into life. r Shee shall then praise God as she did when she was deliuered out of Egypt.

with her: for she is not my wife, neither am I her husband: but let her take away her fornications out of her sight, & her adulteries from betwene her breasts,

3 ^d Let I strip her naked, and set her as in the day that she was borne, and make her as a wilderness, and leaue her like a dry land, and slay her for thirst.

4 And I will haue no pittie vpon her children: for they be the children of fornications.

5 For their mother hath played the harlot: shee that conceived them, hath done shamefully: for she said, I will goe after my louers that giue me my bread and my water, my wooll and my flaxe, mine oyle and my drinke.

6 Therefore behold, I will stop thy way with thornes, and make an hedge, that shee shall not finde her paths.

7 Though she follow after her louers, yet shall shee not come at them: though shee seeke them, yet shall shee not finde them: then shall she say, I will goe and returne to my first husband: for at that time was I better then now.

8 Now she did not know that I gaue her corne and wine and oyle, and multiplied her siluer and gold, which they bestowed vpon Baal.

9 Therefore will I returne, & take away my corne in the time thereof, and my wine in the season thereof, and will recouer my wooll and my flaxe lent to coner her shame.

10 And now will I discouer her lewdnesse in the sight of her louers, and no man shall deliuer her out of mine hand.

11 I will also cause all her mirth to cease, her feast dayes, her newe moones, and her Sabbaths, and all her solenne feasts.

12 And I will destroy her vines, and her fig trees, whereof she hath said, These are my rewards that my louers haue giuen me: and I will make them as a forest, and the wilde beasts shall eate them.

13 And I will visite vpon her the dayes of Baalim, wherein she burnt incense to them: and she decked herselfe with her earerings and her Jewels, and she followed her louers and forgate me, saith the Lord.

14 Therefore behold, I will allure her and bring her into the wilderness, and speake friendly vnto her.

15 And I will giue her her vineyards from thence, and the valley of Achor for the doore of hope, and she shall sing there as in the dayes of her youth, and as in the day when she came vp out of the land of Egypt.

16 And at that day, saith the Lord, thou shalt call me Ishi, and shalt call me no more Baali.

17 For I will take away the names of Baalim out of her mouth, and they shall be no more remembred by their names.

18 And in that day will I make a covenant for them, with the wilde beasts, and with the fowles of the heauen, and with that that creepeth vpon the earth, & I will breake the bow and the sword, and the battell out of the earth, and will make them to sleepe safely.

19 And I will marry thee vnto mee for euer: yea, I will marry thee vnto mee in righteousness, and in iudgement, and in mercie and in compassion.

20 I will euen marry thee vnto mee in faithfulness, and thou shalt know the Lord.

21 And in that day I will heare, saith the Lord, I will euen heare the heauens, and they shall heare the earth.

22 And the earth shall heare the corne, and the wine, and the oyle, and they shall heare Israel.

23 And I will sow her vnto mee in the earth, and I will haue mercie vpon her, that was not pittied, and I will say to them which were not my people, Thou art my people. And they shall say, Thou art my God.

CHAP. III.

1 The Lewes shall be cast off for their idolatry. 3 Afterward they shall returne to the Lord.

Then said the Lord to mee, ^a See yet, and loue a woman (beloued of her husband, and was an harlot) according to the loue of the Lord toward the children of Israel: yet they looked to other gods, and ^b loued the wine bottles.

2 So ^c I bought her to mee for fifteene pieces of siluer, and for an homer of barley, and an halfe homer of barley.

3 And I said vnto her, Thou shalt abide with me many dayes: Thou shalt not play the harlot, and thou shalt bee to none other man, and I will be so vnto thee.

4 For the children of Israel shall remain many dayes without a king, and without a prince, and without an offering, and without an image, and without an Ephod, and without Teraphim.

5 Afterward shall the children of Israel conuert, and seeke the Lord their God, and David their king, and shall feare the Lord, and his goodnesse in the latter dayes.

perceiuing the greatnesse of my loue should haue abused mee, and not beene vnder duety: for fifteene pieces of siluer were but halfe the price of a slave, Exod. 21. 32. ^d I will try thee a long time as in thy widowhood whether thou wilt be mine or no. ^e Meaning, not onely all the time of their captiuitie, but also vnto Christ. ^f That is, they should neither haue policie nor Religion, and their idoles also wherein they put their confidence should bee destroyed. ^g This is meant of Christs kingdome, which was promised vnto David to be eternall, Psal. 72. 17.

CHAP. IIII.

A complaint against the people, and the Priests of Israel.

1 That is, mine husband, knowing that I am ioyned to thee by an inuolable covenant, ^t That is, my master, which name was applyed to their idoles. ^u No idolatry shall once come into their mouth but they shall serue me purely according to my word. ^x Meaning, that he will so blesse them, that all creatures shall fauour them. ^y With a covenant that neuer shall be broken. ^z Then shall the heauen desire rain for the earth which shall bring forth for the vse of man. Rom. 9. 25. 1. pet. 2. 10.

^a Herein the Prophet representeth the person of God, which loued his Church before he called her, and did not withdraw the same when she gaue her selfe to idoles. ^b That is, gaue themselves wholly to pleasures, and could not take vp, as they that are giuen to drunkennesse. ^c Yet I loued her, and paid a small portion for her, lest she a Because the people would not obey the admonitions of the Prophet, he citheth them before the iudgement seate of God against whom they chiefly offended, Isa. 7. 13. Micah, 6. 1, 2. Zech. 13. 10.

b In euery place appeareth a liberty to most heinous vices, so that one followeth in the necke of another.

c As though he would say, that it were in vaine to rebuke them: for no man can abide it: yea, they will speake against the Prophets and Priests whose office it is chiefly to rebuke them.

d Ye shall perishe all together: the one because he would not obey and the other because he would not admonish.

e That is, the Synagogue where in thou boastest.

f That is, the Priests shalbe cast off, because that for lacke of knowledge they are not able to execute their charge, and instruct others, Deut. 33. 3. Mal. 2. 7.

g Meaning, the whole body of the people which were weary with hearing the word of God. h The more I was beneficiall vnto them. i To wit, the Priests seeke to eate the peoples offerings, and flatter them in their sinnes. k Signifying, that as they haue sinned together, so shall they bee punished together. l Shewing that their wickednesse shalbe punished on all sorts: for though they thinke by the multitude of wives to haue many children, yet they shall be deceived of their hope. m In giuing themselves to pleasures, they become like bruis beafts. n Thus he speaketh by derision in calling them his people, which now for their sinnes they were not: for they sought helpe of flocks and stickes. o They are carried away with a rage. p Because they take away Gods honour, and giue it to idols, therefore he will giue them vp to their lusts, that they shall dishonour their owne bodies Rom. 1. 28. q I will not correct your shame to bring you to amendment, but let you run headlong to your owne damnation.

Hear the word of the Lord, ye children of Israel: for the Lord hath a controuersie with the inhabitants of the land, because there is no truth, nor mercy, nor knowledge of God in the land.

2 By swearing and lying, and killing, and stealing, and whooring, they breake out, and blood coucheth blood.

3 Therefore shall the land mourne, and euery one that dwelleth therein, shall be cut off, with the beasts of the field, and with the fowles of the heauen, and also the fishes of the sea shall be taken away.

4 Yet let none rebuke, nor reprove another: for thy people are as they that rebuke the Priest.

5 Therefore shalt thou fall in the day, and the Prophet shall fall with thee in the night, and I will destroy thy mother.

6 My people are destroyed for lacke of knowledge: because thou hast refused knowledge, I will also refuse thee, that thou shalt be no Priest to mee: and seeing thou hast forgotten the Law of thy God, I will also forget thy children.

7 As they were increased, so they sinne against me: therefore will I change their glory into shame.

8 They eate vp the sinnes of my people and lift vp their minds in their iniquitie.

9 And there shall bee like people, like Priest: for I will visite their wayes vpon them, and reward them their deedes.

10 For they shall eate, and not haue enough: they shall commit adulterie, and shall not increase, because they haue left off to take heed to the Lord.

11 Whoredome, and wine, and newe wine take away their heart.

12 My people aske counsell at their stockes, and their staffe teacheth them: for the spirit of fornications hath caused them to erre, and they haue gone a whooring from vnder their God.

13 They sacrifice vpon the tops of the mountains, and burne incense vpon the hills vnder the oaks, and the poplar tree, and the elme, because the shadow thereof is good: therefore your daughters shall be harlots, and your spouses shall be whores.

14 I will not visite your daughters when they are harlots, nor your spouses when they are whores: for they themselves are separated with harlots, and sacrifice with whores: therefore the people that doth not vnderstand, shall fall.

15 Though thou, Israel, play the harlot, yet let not Judah sinne: come not ye into Gilgal, neither go ye vp to Beth-aen, nor swear, The Lord liueth.

16 For Israel is rebellious as an unruly heifer. Now the Lord will feede them as a lambe in a large place.

17 Ephraim is turned to idols: let him alone.

18 Their drunkennesse stincketh: they haue committed whoredome: their rulers loue to lay with shame, bring ye.

19 The wilde hath bound them vp in her wings, and they shall be ashamed of their sacrifices.

ple should resort thither. He calleth Beth el, that is, the house of God, Beth-aen, that is, the house of iniquitie, because of their abomination set vp there, signifying that no place is holy, where God is not purely worshipped. u God will so disperse them that they shal not remaine in any certaine place. x They are so impudent in receiuing bribes, that they will command men to bring them vnto them. y To carry them suddenly away.

CHAP. V.

Against the Priests and rulers of Israel. 13 The helpe of man is vaine.

O Priests, heare this, and hearken ye, O house of Israel, and giue ye eare, O house of the King: for iudgement is toward you, because ye haue bene a snare on Mizpah, and a net spread vpon Tabor.

2 Yet they were profound, to decline to slaughter, though I haue bene a rebuker of them all.

3 I know Ephraim, and Israel is not hid from me: for now, Ephraim, thou art become an harlot, and Israel is defiled.

4 They will not giue their mindes to turne vnto their God: for the spirit of fornication is in the middes of them, & they haue not knowne the Lord.

5 And the pride of Israel doeth testifie to his face: therefore shall Israel & Ephraim fall in their iniquitie: Judah also shall fall with them.

6 They shall goe with their sheepe, and with their bullockes to seeke the Lord: but they shall not finde him: for hee hath withdrawn himselfe from them.

7 They haue transgressed against the Lord: for they haue begotten strange children: now shall a moneth deuoure them with their portions.

8 Blow ye the trumpet in Gibeah, and the shawme in Ramah: crie out at Beth-aen, after thee, Benjamin.

9 Ephraim shall be desolate in the day of rebuke: among the tribes of Israel haue I caused to know the truth.

10 The princes of Judah were like thym that remooue the bound: therefore will I powre out my wrath vpon them like water.

11 Ephraim is oppressed, and broken in generate, so that there is no hope in them. g Their destruction is not farre off. h That is, all Israel comprehended vnder this part, signifying, that the Lords plagues should pursue them from place to place till they were destroyed. i By the successe they shall know that I haue surely determined this. k They haue turned vp side downe all politickall order, and all manner of Religion,

Ab 3 iudgement, r God complaineth that Iudah is infected, and willett them to learne by their example to returne in time.

s Foralbeit the Lord had honoured this place in times past by his presence, yet because it was abused by their idolatry, he would not that his people a The Priests & princes catthed the poore people in their snares, as the fowles did the birds, in these two hie mountains.

b Notwithstanding they seemed to be giuen altogether to holiness, and to sacrifices, which here he calleth slaughter in contempt.

c Though I had admonished them continually by my Prophets.

d They boasted themselves, not onely to be Israelites, but also Ephraimites, because their king Ieroboam came of that tribe.

e Meaning their contemning of all admonitions.

12 Therefore will I be vnto Ephraim as a moth, and to the house of Iudah as a rottennelle.

13 When Ephraim saw his sicknesse, and Iudah his wound, then went Ephraim vnto ^m Ashur, and sent vnto king ⁿ Iareb: yet could he not heale you, nor cure you of your wound.

14 For I will bee vnto Ephraim as a lyon, and as a lions whelp to the house of Iudah: I, euen I will spoile, and goe away: I will take away, and none shall rescue it.

15 I will goe, and returne to my place, till they acknowledge their fault, and seeke me: in their affliction they will seeke me diligently.

CHAP. VI.

1 Affliction causeth a man to turne to God, 9 The wickednesse of the Priests.

Come, and let vs ^a returne to the Lord: for hee hath spoiled, and hee will heale vs: he hath wounded vs, and he will binde vs by.

2 After two dayes will ^b hee reuiue vs, and in the third day he will raise vs by, and we shall liue in his sight.

3 Then shall wee haue knowledge, and indenuour our selues to know the Lord: his going forth is prepared as the morning, and he shall come vnto vs as the raine, and as the latter raine vnto the earth.

4 O Ephraim, what shall I doe vnto thee? O Iudah, how shall I increate thee? for ^c your goodnesse is as a morning cloude, and as the morning deaw it goeth away.

5 Therefore haue I ^d cut downe by the Prophets: I haue slaine them by the wordes of my mouth, and ^e thy iudgements were as the light that goeth forth.

6 For I desired ^f mercie, and not sacrifice, and the knowledge of God more then burnt offerings.

7 But they like ^g men haue transgressed the covenant: there haue they trespassed against me.

8 ^h Gilead is a citie of them that worke iniquitie, and is polluted with blood.

9 And as the eues wait for a man, so the company of Priestes murder in the way by consent: for they worke mischief.

10 I haue seene villanie in the house of Israel: there is the whoredome of Ephraim: Israel is defiled.

11 Yea, Iudah hath set a ⁱ plant for thee, whiles I would returne the captiuitie of my people.

a He sheweth the people how they ought to turne to the Lord that he might cal back his plagues b Though he correct vs from time to time, yet his helpe wil not be farre off, if we returne to him, c You seeme to haue a certaine holinesse, and repentance, but it is vpon the ladden and as a morning cloude.
d I haue still laboured by my Prophets: and as it were framed you to bring you to amendment, but all was in vaine. for my word was not meate to feede them but a sword to slay them.
e My doctrine which I taught thee was most euident.

CHAP. VII.

1 Of the vices and wantonnesse of the people.

12. Of their punishment.

When I would haue healed Israel, then the iniquitie of Ephraim was discovered, and the wickednesse of Samaria: for they haue dealt falsely: and the ^a chiefe commeth in, and the robber spoyleth without,

2 And they consider not in their hearts, that I remember all their wickednesse: now their owne inuentions haue deser them about: they are in my sight.

3 They make the ^b king glad with their wickednesse, and the ^c princes with their lies.

4 They are all adulterers, and as a very ^d ouen heated by the baker, which ceaseth from raising vp, & from kneading the dough vntill it be leauened.

5 This is the ^e day of our king: the princes haue made him sicke with flagons of wine: he stretcheth out his hand to scorner.

6 For they haue made ready their heart like an ouen whiles they lie in wait: their baker sleepeth all the night: in the morning it burneth as a flame of fire.

7 They are all hote as an ouen, and haue ^f deuoured their Iudges: all their kings are fallen: there is none among them that cal- leth vnto me.

8 Ephraim hath ^g mixt himselfe among the people. Ephraim is as a cake on the hearth not turned.

9 Strangers haue deuoured his strength, and hee knoweth it not: yea, ^h gray haire are here and there vpon him, yet hee knoweth not.

10 And the pride of Israel testifieth to his face, and they doe not returne to the Lord their God, nor seeke him for all this.

11 Ephraim also is like a doue deceived, ⁱ without heart: they call to Egypt: they goe to Ashur.

12 But when they shall goe, I will spread my net vpon them, and draw them downe as the fowles of the heauen: I will chastise them as their ^j congregation hath heard.

13 Woe vnto them: for they haue fled a way from me: destruction shall be vnto them, because they haue transgressed against mee: though I haue ^k redeemed them, yet they haue spoken lies against me.

14 And they haue not cried vnto me with their hearts, when they howled vpon their beds: ^l they assemble themselves for coyne and wine, and they rebell against me.

15 Though I haue bound, and strengthened their arme, yet doe they imagine mischief against me.

16 They returne, but not to the most High: they are like a deceitfull bowe: their princes shall fall by the sword, for the rage ^m of their tongues: this shall be their destruction in the land of Egypt.

it is better to cleaue onely to God, or to seeke the helpe of man.
i According to my curses made to the whole Congregation of Israel.
k That is, diuers times redeemed them, and deliuered them from death.
l When they were in affliction, and cried out for paine, they sought not vnto mee for helpe.
m They onely seeke their owne commoditie and wealth, and passe not for me their God.
n Because they boast of their owne strength, and passe not what they speake against me and my seruants, Psal, 73.9.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The destruction of Iudah and Israel, because of their idolatry.

Set.

a God incourageth the Prophet to signifie the speedy coming of the enemy against Israel, which was once the people of God.
 b They shall cry like hypocrites, but not from the heart, as their deedes declare c That is, Ieroboam, by whom they sought their owne liberty and not to obey my will.
 d That is, vpright iudgement and godly life.
 e Meaning, the calse was inuented by themselves and of their fathers in the wilderness.
 f Shewing that their religion hath but a shew, and in it selfe is but vanitie.
 g They neuer cease but run to and fro to seeke helpe.
 h That is, for the tribute which the king and the princes shall lay vpon the which meanes the Lord vltimo to bring them to repentance.
 i Thus the idolaters count the word of God as strange in respect of their owne inuentions.
 k Saying that they offer it to the Lord, but he accepteth no seruice, which hee himselfe hath not appointed,

S As the trumpet to thy mouth: he shall come because they haue transgressed my couenant, and trespassed against my Law.

2 Israel shall cry vnto mee, My God, we know thee.

3 Israel hath cast off the thing that is good: the enemies shall pursue him.

4 They haue set by a king, but not by mee: they haue made princes and I knew it not: of their silver and their gold haue they made them idoles: therefore shall they be destroyed.

5 Thy calse, O Samaria, hath cast thee off: mine anger is kindled against them: how long will they be without innocencie.

6 For it came euen from Israel: the workman made it, therefore it is not God: but the calse of Samaria shall be broken in pieces;

7 For they haue sown the wind, & they shall reape the whirlwind: it hath no stalk: the bud shall bring forth no meale: if so be it bring forth, the strangers shall deuoure it.

8 Israel is deuoured, now shall they be among the Gentiles as a vessel wherein is no pleasure.

9 For they are gone by to Asshur: they are as a wild ass alone by himselfe: Ephraim hath hired louers.

10 Yet though they haue hired among the nations, now will I gather them, and they shall sorrow a little, for the burthen of the king, and the princes.

11 Because Ephraim hath made many Altars to sinne, his altars shall be to sinne.

12 I haue written to them the great things of my Law: but they were counted as a strange thing.

13 They sacrifice flesh for the sacrifices of mine offerings, and eate it: but the Lord accepteth them not: now will hee remember their iniquitie, and visite their sinnes: they shall returne to Egypt.

14 For Israel hath forgotten his maker and buildeth Temples, and Judah hath increased strong cities: but I will send a fire vpon his cities, and it shall deuoure the palaces thereof.

CHAP. IX.

Of the hunger and captiuitie of Israel.

R Emoyce not, O Israel for toy, as other people: for thou hast gone a whooring from thy God: thou hast loued a reward vpon euery coine floore.

2 The floore and the winepresse shall not feede them, and the new wine shall faile in her.

3 They will not dwell in the Lords land but Ephraim will returne to Egypt, and they will eate vncleane things in Asshur.

4 They shall not offer wine to the Lord, as an harlot that had rather liue by playing the whore, then to be entertained of her owne husband. c These outward things that thou seekest, shall be taken from thee. d All their doings both touching policie and religion, shall be reiected as things polluted.

neither shall their sacrifices be pleasant vnto him: but they shall bee vnto them as the bread of mourners: all that eate thereof, shall bee polluted: for their bread for their soules shall not come into the house of the Lord.

5 What wilt thou doe then in the solempne day, and in the day of the feast of the Lord?

6 For loe, they are gone from a destruction: but Egypt shall gather them by, & Memphis shall burie them: the nettle shall possesse the pleasant places of their silver, and the thornes shall bee in their tabernacles.

7 The dayes of visitation are come: the dayes of recompense are come: Israel shall know it: the prophet is a fool: the spiritual man is mad, for the multitude of thine iniquitie: therefore the hatred is great.

8 The watchman of Ephraim should be with my God: but the prophet is the snare of a fouler in all his wayes, and hatred in the house of his God.

9 They are deeply set: they are corrupt as in the dayes of Shebah: therefore hee will remember their iniquitie, hee will visite their sinnes.

10 I found Israel like grapes in the wilderness: I saw your fathers as the first ripe in the figtree at her first time: but they went to Baal-peor, and separated themselves vnto that shame, and their abominations were according to their louers.

11 Ephraim their glory shall flee away like a bird: from the birth, and from the wombe, and from the conception.

12 Though they bring by their children yet I will depriue them from being men: yea, woe to them, when I depart from them.

13 Ephraim, as I sawe, is as a tree in Cyprus planted in a cottage: but Ephraim shall bring forth his children to the murderer.

14 O Lord, giue them: what wilt thou giue them: giue them a barren wombe and drye breasts.

15 All their wickednes is in Gilgal for there doe I hate them: for the wickednes of their inuentions, I will cast them out of mine house: I will loue them no more: all their princes are rebels.

16 Ephraim is smitten, their roote is dried by: they can bring forth no fruit: yea, though they bring forth, yet will I slay euen the dearest of their body.

17 My God will cast them away, because they did not obey him: and they shall wander among the nations.

louters the idoles. n Signifying, that God would destroy their children by these sundry means, and so consume them by little and little.

o As they kept tender plants in their houses in Tyrus to preserve them from the colde ayre of the Sea, so was Ephraim at the first vnto me, but now will I giue him to the slaughter. p The Prophet seeing the great plagues of God toward Ephraim, prayeth to God to make them barren rather then that this great slaughter should come vpon their children. q The chiefe cause of their destruction is, that they commit idolatry, and corrupt my religion in Gilgal.

g Though they thinke to escape by fleeing the destruction that is at hand, yet shall they be destroyed in the place whither they flee for succour.

h Then they shall know that they were deluded by them who challenged to themselves to be their Prophets and spirituall men.

i The Prophets duetie is to bring men to God, and not to bee a snare to pull them from God.

2 Their heart is diuided: now shall they be found faultie: he shall breake downe their Altars: he shall destroy their images.

3 For now they shall say, Wee haue no King because we feared not the Lord: and what should a king doe to vs?

4 They haue spoken wordes, swearing falsely in making a couenant: thus iudgement groweth as wormewood in the furrowes of the field.

5 The inhabitants of Samaria shall feare because of the cause of Beth-auen: for the people thereof shall mourne ouer it, and the Chemarims thereof that reioyced on it for the glory thereof, because it is departed from it.

6 It shall be also brought to Asshur, for a present vnto King Iareb: Ephraim shall receive shame, and Israel shall bee ashamed of his owne counsell.

7 Of Samaria, the king thereof is destroyed as the stone vpon the water.

8 The high places also of Auen shall be destroyed: euen the sinne of Israel: the thorne and the thistle shall grow vpon their altars, and they shall say to the mountaines, Cover vs, and to the hills, Fall vpon vs.

9 O Israel, thou hast sinned from the dayes of Shebah: there thy stood: the battell in Shebah against the children of iniquitie did not touch them.

10 It is my desire that I should chastise them: and the people shall bee gathered against them, when they shall gather themselves in their two furrowes.

11 And Ephraim is as an heifer bled to delight in threshing: but I will passe by her faire necke: I will make Ephraim to ride: Judah shall plow, and Iacob shall breake his clouds.

12 How to your selues in righteousness: reape after the measure of inercie: breake vp your fallow ground: for it is time to seeke the Lord, till he come and raine righteousness vpon you.

13 But you haue plowed wickednesse: yee haue reaped iniquitie: you haue eaten the fruit of lies: because thou dost trust in thine owne wayes, and in the multitude of thy strong men,

14 Therefore shall a tumult arise among thy people, and all thy munitions shall bee destroyed, as Shalman destroyed Betharbel in the day of battell: the mother with the children was dashed in pieces.

15 So shall Beth-el do vnto you, because of your malicious wickednesse: in a morning shall the king of Israel be destroyed.

CHAP. XI.

1 The benefits of the Lord toward Israel. 5 Thanksgiving against him.

When Israel was a childe, then I loved him, and called my sonne out of Egypt.

2 They called them, but they went thus from them: they sacrificed vnto Baalim and burnt incense to images.

3 I led Ephraim also, as one should beare them in his armes: but they knew not that I healed them.

4 I led them with cords of a man, euen with bands of loue, and I was to them, as hee that taketh off the yoke from their iawes and I laid the meat vnto them.

5 He shall no more returne into the land of Egypt, but Asshur shall be his King because they refused to conuert.

6 And the sword shall fall on his cities, and shall consume his barres, and deuoure them because of their owne counsels.

7 And my people are bent to rebellion against mee: though they called them to the most high, yet none at all would exalt him.

8 How shall I giue thee vp Ephraim: how shall I deliuer thee, Israel: how shall I make thee, as Admah: how shall I set thee as Seboim: mine heart is turned within me: my repentings are rolled together.

9 I will not execute the fiercenes of my wrath: I will not returne to destroy Ephraim: for I am God, and not man, the holy one in the mids of thee, and I will not enter into the citie.

10 They shall walke after the Lord: hee shall roare like a lyon: when hee shall roare then the children of the West shall feare.

11 They shall feare as a sparrow out of Egypt, and as a dove out of the land of Asshur, and I will place them in their houses saith the Lord.

CHAP. XII.

He admonisheth by Iacob's example to trust in God and not in man.

Ephraim is fed with the wind, and foloweth after the East wind: hee increaseth deeply lies and destruction, and they doe make a couenant with Asshur, and oyle is carried into Egypt.

r Which in these points was like to Ephraim, but not in idolatries.

d Seeing that God did thus preferre Iaakob their father, Iudahs ingratitude was the more to be abhorred. e Reade Gen. 22. 31.

f God found Iaakob as he lay sleeping in Beth-el, Gen 28. 12. & so spake with him there, that the fruit of that speech appertained to the whole body of the people, whereof we are.

g As for Ephraim, he is more like the wicked Canaanites, then godly Abraham or Iaakob.

h Thus the wicked measure Gods fauour by outward prosperitie, and like hypocrites cannot abide that any should reproue their doings.

i Seeing thou wilt not acknowledge my benefits, I will bring thee againe to dwell in tents as in the feast of Tabernacles, which thou dost now contemne. k The people thought that no man durst haue spoken against Gilead that holy place, and yet the Prophet saith, that all their religion is but vanitie. l If you boast of your riches and nobility, yee seeme to reproch your father, who was a poore fugitive and seruant. m Meaning Moses, whereby appeareth, that whatsoeuer they haue, it commeth of Gods free goodnesse.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The abominations of Israel, 2 and cause of their destruction.

a He sheweth the excellencie and authoritie that this tribe had aboue all the rest. b Hee made a king of his tribe. c The Ephraimites are not far from destruction, and haue lost their authority. d The false prophets perswaded the idolaters to offer their children after the example of Abraham, and hee sheweth how they would exhort one another to the same, and to kisse and worship these calues, which were their idoles.

When Ephraim spake, there was a trembling: he^a exalted himselfe in Israel, but he hath sinned in Baal, and is dead.

2 And now they sinne more and more, and haue made them molten images of their silver, and soles according to their owne understanding: they were all the worke of the craftsmen: they say one to another whilst they sacrifice a man, Let them kisse the calues.

3 Therefore they shall be as the morning cloude, and as the morning dew that passeth away, as the chaffe that is driuen with a whirlewinde out of the floore, and as the smoke that goeth out of the chimney.

4 Yet I am the Lord thy God, from the land of Egypt, and thou shalt know no God but me: for there is no Saviour beside me. 5 I did know thee in the wilderness, in the land of drought.

6 As in their pastures, so were they filled: they were filled, and their heart was exalted: therefore haue they forgotten me.

7 And I will be vnto them as a very lyon, and as a leopard in the way of Asshur.

8 I will meete them as a Beare that is robbed of her whelpes, and I will breake the kall of their heart, and there will I deuoure them like a lyon: the wilde beast shall teare them.

9 O Israel, oneⁱ hath destroyed thee, but in me is thy helpe.

10 I am: where is thy king that should helpe thee in all thy cities? and thy Iudges of whom thou saiest, Giue me a King, and I will giue thee.

11 I gaue thee a king in mine anger, and I tooke him away in my wrath.

12 The iniquitie of Ephraim is bound by his sinne is hid.

13 The sorrowes of a trauailing woman shall come vpon him: hee is an vnwise sonne, esse would hee not stand still at the time, euen at the breaking forth of the children.

14 I will redeeme them from the power of the graue: I will deliuer them from death: O death, I will be thy death: O graue, I will be thy destruction: repentance is hid from mine eyes.

15 Though hee grow vp among his brethren, an East winde shall come, euen the winde of the Lord shall come vp from the wilderness, and dry by his beine, and his fountaine shall be dryed vp: he shall spoyle the treasure of all pleasant vessels.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The destruction of Samaria. He exhorteth Israel to turne to God, who requirith prayse and thanks.

Samaria shall be desolate: for she hath rebelled against her God: they shall fall by the sword: their infants shall be dashed in pieces, and their women with child shall be ript.

2 O Israel, returne vnto the Lord thy God: for thou hast fallen by thine iniquity.

3 Take vnto you wordes, and turne to the Lord, and say vnto him, Take away all iniquity, and receiue vs graciously: so will we render the calues of our lips.

4 Asshur shall not lase vs: neither will wee ride vpon horses: neither will wee say any more to the worke of our hands, Yee are our gods: for in thee the fatherlesse findeth mercy.

5 I will heale their rebellion: I will loue them freely: for mine anger is turned away from him.

6 I will be as the deaw vnto Israel: hee shall grow as the lillie, and fasten his Hee calleth them to repentance, and repro- ueth their ingratitude.

Thy destruction is certaine, & my benefites toward thee declare that it commeth not of me: therefore thine owne malice, idolatry and vaine confidence in men must needes bee the cause thereof.

THE ARGUMENT.

The Prophet Joel first rebuketh them of Iudah, that being now punished with a great plague of famine, remaine still obstinate. Secondly, he threatneth greater plagues, because they grew daily to a more hardnesse of heart, & rebellion against God, notwithstanding his punishments. Thirdly, he exhorteth them to repentance, shewing that it must be earnest, and proceed from the heart, because they had grievously offended God. And so doing, he promisseth that God will be merciful, and not forget his covenant that hee made with their fathers: but will send his Christ, who shall gather the scattered sheepe, and restore them to life and liberty, though they seemed to be dead.

CHAP. I.

1 A prophesie against the Iewes, 2 He exhorteth the people to prayer and fasting, for the miserie that was at hand.

1 The word of the Lord that came to Joel the sonne of Pethuel.

2 Heare ye this, O Elders, and hearken ye all inhabitants of the land, whether such a thing hath bene in your dayes, or yet in the dayes of your fathers.

3 Tell you your children of it, and let your children shew to their children, & their children to another generation.

4 That which is left of the palmer worme, hath the grasshopper eaten, and the residue of the grasshopper hath the canker worme eaten, and the residue of the canker worme hath the caterpillar eaten.

5 Awake ye drunkards, and weepe and howle all ye drinkers of wine, because of the new wine: for it shall bee pulled from your mouth.

6 Pea, a Nation commeth vpon my land, mighty, and without number, whose teeth are like the teeth of a lyon, and hee hath the lawes of a great lyon.

7 He maketh my vine waste, and pilleth off the barks of my figge tree: hee maketh it bare, and casteth it downe, the branches thereof are made white.

8 Mourne like a virgine grieved with sackcloth for the husband of her youth.

9 The meate offering, and the drinke offering is cutt off from the house of the Lord: the Priests the Lords ministers mourne.

10 The field is wasted: the land mourneth: for the corne is destroyed: the new wine is dried vp, and the oyle is decayed.

11 Bee ye ashamed, O husbandmen: howle, O ye vine dressers, for the wheate, and for the barley, because the harvest of the field is perished.

12 The vine is dried vp, and the fig tree is decayed: the pomegranate tree, and the palme tree, and the apple tree, even all the trees of the field are withered: surely the ioy is withered away from the sonnes of men.

13 Give your selues and lament, ye Priests, howle ye ministers of the altar: come, and lie all night in sackcloth, ye ministers of my God: for the meate offering and the drinke offering is taken away from the house of your God.

14 Sanctifie you a fast: call a solemne assembly: gather the Elders, and all the inhabitants of the land into the House of the Lord your God, and cry vnto the Lord, 15 Alas for the day, for the day of the Lord is at hand, and it commeth as a destruction from the Almighty.

16 Is not the meate cut off before our eyes? and ioy, and gladnesse from the house of our God?

17 The seede is rotten vnder their clouds: the garners are destroyed: the barnes are broken downe, for the corne is withered.

18 How did the beasts mourne? the herds of cattell pine away, because they haue no pasture, and the flocks of sheepe are destroyed.

19 O Lord, to thee will I cry: for the fire hath deuoured the pastures of the wilderness, and the flame hath burnt vp all the trees of the field.

20 The beasts of the field cry also vnto thee: for the riuers of waters are dried vp, and the fire hath deuoured the pastures of the wilderness.

CHAP. VI.

He prophesieth of the coming and conuersion of their enemies. 13 An exhortation to moue them to conuert. 18 The loue of God toward his people.

1 Blow the trumpet in Zion, and shoute in mine holy mountaine: let all the inhabitants of the land tremble: for the day of the Lord is come: for it is at hand.

2 A day of darknesse, and of blacknesse, a day of cloudes, and obscuritie, as the morning spread vpon the mounti-nes, so is there a great people, and a mighty: there was none like it from the beginning, neither shall be any more after it, vnto the yeres of many generations.

3 A fire deuoureth before him, and behind him a flame burneth vp: the land is as the garden of Eden before him, & behind him a desolate wilderness, so that nothing shall escape him.

4 The beholding of him is like the sight of hostes, & like the hostes, so shall they run.

5 Like the noise of chariots in the toppes of the mountaynes shall they leape, like the noise of a flame of fire that deuoureth the stubble, and as a mighty people prepared to the battell.

6 Before his face shall the people tremble:
all faces shall gather blackenesse.

7 They shall runne like strong men, and goe vp to the wall like men of warre, and euery man shall goe forward in his wayes, and they shall not stay in their pathes.

8 Neither shall one thrust another, but euery one shall walke in his path: and when they fall vpon the sword, they shall not bee wounded.

9 They shall runne to and fro in the city: they shall runne vpon the wall: they shall clime vp vpon the houses, and enter in at the windowes like the theefe.

10 The earth shall tremble before him, the heauens shall shake, the sunne and the moone shall bee darke, and the starres shall withdraw their shining.

11 And the Lord shall utter his voice before his hoste: for his hoste is very great: for he is strong that doth his word: for the day of the Lord is great and very terrible, and who can abide it?

12 Therefore also now the Lord sayeth, Turne you vnto me with all your heart, and with fasting, and with weeping, and with mourning.

13 And rent your heart, and not your clothes: and turne vnto the Lord your God, for he is gracious and mercifull, slow to anger, and of great kindnes, and repenteth him of the euill.

14 Who knoweth, if he wil returne and repent and leaue a blessing behind him, euen a meate offering, and a drinke offering vnto the Lord your God?

15 Blow the trumpet in Zion, sanctifie a fast, call a solemne assembly.

16 Gather the people: sanctifie the congregation, gather the Elders: assemble the children, and those that sucke the breasts:
let the bridegrome go forth of his chamber, and the bride out of her bryde chamber.

17 Let the Priests, the ministers of the Lord weepe betweene the porch and the Altar, and let them say, Spare thy people, O Lord, and giue not thine heritage into reproach that the heathen should rule ouer them. Wherefore should they say among the people, Where is their God?

18 Then wil the Lord be incensour ouer his land, and spare his people.

19 Praise the Lord with answere and say vnto his people, Behold I will send you corne, and wine, and oyle, and you shall bee satisfied therewith: and I will no more make you a reproch among the heathen.

20 But I will remoue farre off from you the Assyrian army, and I will drine him into a land, barren and desolate, with his face toward the Eastes, and his ende to the vtmost sea, and his stinke shall come vp, and his corruption shall ascend, because hee hath exalted himselfe to doe this.

21 Feare not, O land, but be glad and re-ioyce: for the Lord will doe great things.

22 Bee not afraid ye beastes of the field:
for the pastures of the wilderness are greene for the tree beareth her fruit: the figge tree and the vine do giue their force.

23 Be glad then ye children of Zion, and reioyce in the Lord your God: for hee hath giuen you the raine of righteousness, and hee will cause to come downe for you the rain euen the first raine, and the latter raine in the first moneth.

24 And the barnes shall be full of wheate and the presses shall abound with wine & oile.

25 And I will render you the peeces that the grasshoppers hath eaten, the canker worm and the caterpillar, and the palmer worme, my great host which I sent among you.

26 So you shall eate and bee satisfied, and prayse the Name of the Lord your God, that hath dealt maruellously with you: and my people shall neuer be ashamed.

27 Ye shall also know that I am in the mids of Israel, and that I am the Lord your your daughters shall prophesie: your old men shall dreame dreames, and your young men shall see visions.

uens and in the earth: blood and fire, and nesse, and the moone into blood, before the great and terrible day of the Lord come.

Chron. 20. 26. also he hath respect to this word Iehoshaphat, which signifieth pleading, or iudgement, because God would iudge the enemies of his Church, as hee did there.

That which the enemy gate for the sale of my people, he bestowed vpon harlots and drinke. d He taketh the cause of his Church in hand against the enemy, as though the iniury were done to himselfe. e Haue I done you wrong, that ye will render me the like? f For afterward God sould them by Nebuchadnezzar, & Alexander the great, for the loue he bare to his people, and thereby they were comforted as though the price had bene theirs. g When I shall execute my iudgements against mine enemies, I will cause euery one to be ready and to prepare their weapons to destroy one another for my Church sake.

Jehoshaphat, and will pleade with them there for my people, and for mine heritage Israel, whom they haue scattered among the nations, and parted my land.
3 And they haue cast lots for my people, & haue giuen the child for the harlot, & sold the girl for wine, that they might drinke.
4 Dea, and what haue you to doe with me, O Tyne and Sidon, and all the coasts of Palestina? will ye render mee a recompense? and if ye recompense me, swiftly and speedily will I render your recompense vpon your head.
5 For yee haue taken my silver and my gold, and haue caried into your temples my goodly and pleasant things.
6 The children also of Judah and the children of Jerusalem haue you sold vnto the Grecians, that ye might send them farre from their border.
7 Behold, I will raise them out of the place where ye haue sold them, and will render your reward vpon your owne head.
8 And I will sell your ionnes and your daughters into the hand of the children of Judah, and they shall sell them to the Sabaeans, to a people farre off: for the Lord hath spoken it.
9 Publish this among the Gentiles: prepare warre, wake vp the mighty men let all the men of warre draw neere and come vp.
10 Break your plow shares into swords, and your sickles into speares: let the weak say, I am strong.
11 Assemble your selues, and come all yee heathen, and gather your selues together round about: there shall the Lord cast down thy mighty men.
12 Let the heathen be awakened, and come vp to the valley of Jehoshaphat: for there will I sit to iudge the heathen round about.

13 But in your cities, for the harvest is ripe: come, get you downe, for the wine-press is full: yea, the wine-presses runne ouer, for their wickednesse is great.
14 Multitude, multitude, come into the valley of threshing: for the day of the Lord is neere in the valley of threshing.
15 The sunne & moone shall be darkened, and the starres shall withdraw their light.
16 The Lord also shall roare out of Zion, and utter his voyce from Jerusalem, and the heauens and the earth shall shake, but the Lord will bee the hope of his people, and the strength of the children of Israel.
17 So shall ye know that I am the Lord your God dwelling in Zion, mine holy mountaine: then shall Jerusalem be holy, and there shall no strangers go thorow her any more.
18 And in that day shall the mountaines drop downe new wine, and the hills shall flow with milke, and all the riuers of Judah shall run with waters, and a fountaine shall come forth of the house of the Lord, and shall water the valley of Shittim.
19 Egypt shall be waste, & Edom shall be a desolate wilderness, for the iniuries of the children of Judah, because they haue shed innocent blood in their land.
20 But Judah shall dwell for ever, and Jerusalem from generation to generation.
21 For I will cleanse their blood, that I haue not cleansed, and the Lord will dwell in Zion.
enemies shall haue no part of this grace. n He had suffered his Church hitherto to lie in their filthinesse, but now hee promiseth to cleanse them, and to make them pure vnto him.

h Thus he shall encourage the enemies, when their wickednes is full ripe, to destroy one another, which he calleth the valley of Gods iudgement.
i God assureth his against all troubles, that when he destroyeth his enemies, his children shall be deliuered.
k The strangers shall no more destroy his Church which if they do, it is the people which by their sinnes make the breach for the enemy.
l He promiseth to his Church abundance of graces, read Ezekiel 47. 1, which should water and comfort the most barren places, Amos. 9. 13.

Amos.

THE ARGUMENT.

Among many other Prophets that God raised vp to admonish the Israelites of his plagues for their wickednes & idolatrie, he stirred vp Amos, who was an herdman or shepherd of a poore towne, and gaue him both knowledge and constancie to reprove all estates and degrees, and to denounce Gods horrible iudgements against them, except they did in time repent: shewing them that if God spare not the other nations about them, who had liued as it were in ignorance of God in respect of them, but for their sinnes will punish them, that they could looke for nothing, but an horrible destruction, except they turned to the Lord by vnfeigned repentance. And finally he comforteth the godly with hope of the comming of the Messiah, by whom they should haue perfect deliuerance and saluation.

CHAP. I.

1 The time of the prophesie of Amos. 3 The word of the Lord against Damascus, 6 the Philistines, Tyre, Idumea and Ammon.

THE wordes of Amos, who was among the herdmen at Tecoa, which hee saw vpon Israel in the dayes of Uzziah King of Iudah, and in the dayes of Jeroboam the sonne of Ioash King of Israel, two yeeres before the earthquake.

2 And he said, The Lord shall roare from Zion, & utter his voyce from Jerusalem, and the dwelling places of the shepherds shall perish, and the toppe of Carmel shall wither.

3 Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Damascus, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because they haue threshed Gilead wth threshing instruments of yron.

4 Therefore will I send a fire into the house of Hazael, and it shall deuoure the palaces of Ben-hadad.

f If the Syrians shall not bee spared for commutting this crueltie against one citie, it is not possible that Israel should escape punishment, which hath committed so many and grieuous sinnes against God and man, g The antiquitie of their buildings shall not auoyde my iudgements, read Ierem. 49. 27.

d Whatloeuers fruitful and pleasant in Israel, shall shortly perish.

h Tiglath Pileser led the Syrians captiue and brought them to Cyrus, which he calleth here Kir. i They ioyned themselves with the Edomites their enemies, which carried them away captiues, k For Blau (of which came the Edomites) and Isakob were brethren: therefore they ought to haue admonished the of their brotherly friendship, and not to haue prouoked them to hatred, † Ebr. corrupt his compassions.

l He was a continuall enemy vnto him. m He noteth the great cruelty of the Ammonites, that spared not the women, but most tyrannously tormented them, and yet the Ammonites came of Lot, who was of the houshold of Abraham,

5 I will breake also the barres of Damascus, and cut off the inhabitant of Bekerath-aun: and him that holdeth the scepter out of Beth-edon, and the people of Aram shall goe into captiuitie vnto Kir, saith the Lord.

6 Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Azzah, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because they carried away prisoners the whole captiuitie to shut them vp in Edom.

7 Therefore I will send a fire vpon the walles of Azzah, and it shall deuoure the palaces thereof.

8 And I will cut off the inhabitant from Ashdod, & him that holdeth the scepter from Ashkelon, and turne mine hand to Ekron, and the remnant of the Philistines shall perish, saith the Lord God.

9 Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Tyrus, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because they shut the whole captiuitie in Edom, and haue not remembered the brotherly covenant.

10 Therefore will I send a fire vpon the walles of Tyrus, and it shall deuoure the palaces thereof.

11 Thus sayeth the Lord, For three transgressions of Edom, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because he did pursue his brother with the sword, and did cast off all pitie, and his anger spoiled him euermore, and his wrath watched him alway.

12 Therefore will I send a fire vpon Teman, and it shall deuoure the palaces of Bozrah.

13 Thus sayeth the Lord, For three transgressions of the children of Ammon, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because they haue ript by the women with child of Gilead, that they might enlarge their border.

14 Therefore will I kindle a fire in the wall of Rabbah, and it shall deuoure the palaces thereof, with shouting in the day of battell, and with a tempest in the day of the whirlwind.

15 And their King shall goe into captiuitie, hee and his princes together, saith the Lord.

CHAP. II.

Against Moab, Judah, and Israel.

Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Moab, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because it burnt the bones of the king of Edom into lime.

2 Therefore will I send a fire vpon Moab, & it shall deuoure the palaces of Kerioth, and Moab shall die with tumult, with shouting, and with the sound of a trumpet.

3 And I will cut off the Iudge out of the mids thereof, and will slay all the Princes thereof with him, saith the Lord.

4 Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Judah, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because they haue cast away the Law of the Lord, and haue not kept his commandements, and their lies caused them to erre after the which their fathers haue walked.

5 Therefore will I send a fire vpon Judah, and it shall deuoure the palaces of Ierusalem.

6 Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Israel, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because they sold the righteous for silver, and the poore for shoes.

7 They gaze ouer the head of the poore in the dust of the earth, and peruers the wayes of the meeke: and a man and his father will goe in to a mayde to dishonour mine holy Name.

8 And they lie downe vpon clothes layd to pledge by euery altar: and they drinke the wine of the condemned in the house of their God.

9 Yet destroyed I the Amorite before them, whose height was like the height of the cedars, and he was strong as the oakes: notwithstanding I destroyed his fruit from above, and his roote from beneath.

10 Also I brought you vp from the land of Egypt, and led you fourtie yeeres thorow the wilderness, to possesse the land of the Amorite.

11 And I rayled vp of your sonnes for Prophets, and of your yong men for Nazarites. Is it not euen thus, O ye children of Israel, saith the Lord?

12 But yet gaue the Nazarites wine to drinke, and commanded the Prophets, saying, Prophesie nor.

13 Behold, I am pressed vnder you, as a cart is pressed that is full of sheaues.

14 Therefore the swift shall perish from the swift, and the strong shall not strengthen his force, neither shall the mighty saue his life:

15 For he that handleth the bow, shall stand, and he that is swift of foote, shall not escape, neither shall he that rideth the horse, saue his life.

16 And he that is of a mightie courage amongst the strong men, shall flee away naked in that day, saith the Lord.

i Ye condemned my benefices, and abused my graces, and craftily went about to stoppe the mouthes of my Prophets. k You haue wearied me with your sinnes, Isa. i. 14. l None shall be deliuered by any meanes.

CHAP. III.

He reproueth the house of Israel of ingratitude, 11 for the which God will punish them.

Hear this word that the Lord pronounceth against you, O children of Israel, even against the whole familie which I brought vp from the land of Egypt, saying,

2 You onely haue I knowne of all the families of the earth: therefore I will visite you for all your iniquities.

3 Can two walke together except they be agreed?

4 Will a lion roare in the forest, when he hath no praye? or will a lions whelpe crie out of his denne if he haue taken nothing?

f I haue onely chosen you to be mine among all other people, and yet you haue forsaken me. b I eraby the Prophet signifieth that he speakeh not of himselfe, but as God guideth and mooueth him, which is called the agreement betweene God and his Prophets. c Will God threaten by his Prophets, except there be some great occasion?

c If he spare not Iudah vnto whom his promises weremade, much more hee will not spare this degenerate kingdome. d They esteemed most vile bribes more then mens liues.

e When they haue spoyled him & throwen him to the ground, they gape for his life. f Thinking by these ceremonies, that is, by sacrificing, and being neere mine altar, they may excuse all their other wickednesse.

g They spoyle others, and offer thereof vnto God, thinking that he wil dispense with them, when he is made partaker of their iniquity.

h The destruction of their enemies, & his mercie toward them, should haue caused their hearts to melt for loue toward him.

d Can any thing come without Gods prouidence?

e Shall his threatenings be in vaine?

f Shall the Prophets threaten Gods iudgements, and the people not bee afraid?

g Doeth any aduersite come without Gods appointment? Isa 45.7.

h God dealeth not with the Israellites as hee doth with other people: for hee euer warneth them before of his plagues by his Prophets.

i Because the people euer murmured against the Prophets, he sheweth that Gods Spirit mooued them so to speake as they did.

k He calleth the strangers, as the Philistims and Egyptians to be witnesses of Gods iudgements against the Israellites for their cruelty and oppression.

l The fruit of their cruelty and theft appeareth by their great riches which they haue in their houses.

4 Come to Beth-el, and transgresse: to Gilgal, & multiply transgression, and bring your sacrifices in the morning, & your tithes after three yeeres.

5 And offer a thanksgiving of leauen, publish and proclaime the free offerings: for this saith the Lord God, Dye children of Israel, saith the Lord God.

6 And therefore haue I giuen you cleanesse of teeth in all your cities, and scarcenesse of bread in all your places, yet haue ye not returned vnto me, saith the Lord.

7 And also I haue withholden the raine from you, when there were yet three moneths to the harvest, and I caused it to raine vpon one citie, & haue not caused it to raine vpon another city: one piece was rained vpon, and the piece whereupon it rained not, withered.

8 So two or three cities wandered vnto one city, to drinke water, but they were not satisfied: yet haue ye not returned vnto me, saith the Lord.

9 I haue smitten you with blasting, and mildew: your great gardens and your vineyards, and your fig trees, & your olive trees did the palmer worme deuoure: yet haue ye not returned vnto me, saith the Lord.

11 I haue ouerthrowen you, as God ouerthrew Sodom and Gomorrah: and ye were as a firebrand pluckt out of the burning, yet haue ye not returned vnto me, saith the Lord.

12 Therefore thus will I doe vnto thee, O Israel: and because I will doe this vnto thee, prepare to meete thy God, O Israel.

CHAP. V.

A lamentation for the captiuitie of Israel.

Hear ye this word, which I lift vp vpon you, euen a lamentation of the house of Israel.

2 The virgin Israel is fallen, and shall no more rise: shee is left vpon her land, and there is none to raise her vp.

3 For thus saith the Lord God, The citie which went out by a thousand, shall leaue an hundred: and that which went forth by an hundred, shall leaue ten to the house of Israel.

4 For thus saith the Lord vnto the house of Israel, Seeke ye me, and ye shall liue.

5 But seeke not Beth-el, nor enter into Gilgal, and goe not to Beer-sheba: for Gilgal shall goe into captiuitie, and Beth-el shall come to nought.

6 Seeke the Lord, and ye shall liue, lest hee bring you into bondage: therefore he sayeth that these shall not saue them.

d In stead of iudgement and equity, they execute cruelty and oppression.
e He describeth the power of God, Job 9. 9.
f They hate the Prophets, which reprove them in the open assemblies.
g Ye take both his money and also his food where with he should live.
h God will so plague them, that they shall not suffer the godly once to open their mouthes to admonish them of their faults.
i So that all degrees shall have matter of lamentation for the great plagues.

7 They turne iudgement to worme-wood, & leane off righteousness in the earth.
8 He maketh Bleiades, and Dizon, and he turneth the shadow of death into the morning, and he maketh the day darke as night: he calleth the waters of the sea, and pouereth them out vpon the open earth: the Lord is his Name.
9 He strengtheneth the destroyer against the mighty: and the destroyer shall come against the fortreffe.
10 They haue hated him, that rebuked in the gate: and they abhorred him that speaketh uprightly.
11 Forasmuch then as your treading is vpon the poore, and ye take from him burdens of wheat, ye haue built houses of hewen stone, but ye shall not dwell in them: ye haue planted pleasant vineyards, but yet shall not drinke wine of them.
12 For I know your manifold transgressions, and your mightie sinnes: they afflict the iust, they take rewards, and they oppress the poore in the gate.
13 Therefore the prudent shall keepe silence in that time, for it is an euill time.
14 Seeke good and not euill, that ye may liue: and the Lord God of hostes shall be with you, as you haue spoken.
15 Hate the euill and loue the good, and establish iudgement in the gate: it may bee that the Lord God of hostes will be mercifull vnto the remnant of Ioseph.
16 Therefore the Lord God of hostes, the Lord sayeth thus: Mourning shall be in all streetes: and they shall say in all the high wayes, Alas, alas: and they shall call the husbandman to lamentation, and such as can mourne, to mourning.
17 And in all the vines shall be lamentation: for I will passe thorough thee, sayeth the Lord.
18 Come vnto you, that desire the day of the Lord: what haue you to doe with it? the day of the Lord is darknesse and not light.
19 As if a man did flee from a lyon, and a beare met him: or went into the house, and leaned his hand on the wall, and a serpent bit him.
20 Shall not the day of the Lord bee darknesse, and not light: euen darknesse and no light in it?
21 I hate & abhorre your feast dayes, and I will not smell in your sollemne assemblies.
22 Though you offer me burnt offerings and meat offerings, I will not accept them: neither will I regard the peace offerings of your fat beasts.
23 Take thou away from mee the multitude of thy songs: for I will not heare the melodie of thy viols.
24 And let iudgement runne downe as waters, & righteousness as a mighty river.
25 Haue ye offered vnto me sacrifices and offerings in the wilderness forty yeeres, O house of Israel?
26 But you haue borne Chiunth your king, & Chiun your images, and the starre of your gods, which ye made to your selues.

27 Therefore will I cause you to go into captivity beyond Damascus, saith the Lord, whose Name is the God of hostes.

4 They lie vpon beds of yuorie, & stretch themselves vpon their beddes, and eate the lambes of the flocke, and the calves out of the stall.
5 They sing to the sound of the viole: they inuent to themselves instruments of musike like David.
6 They drinke wine in bowles, & anoint themselves with the chiefe oynments, but no man is toyle for the affliction of Ioseph.

g When this instrument of Satan was not able to compass his purpose by the king, he assayed by another practise, that was, to feare the Prophet, that hee might depart, and not reprove their idolatry there openly, and to hinder his profit. h Thus he sheweth by his extraordinary vocation, that God had given him a charge which he must needs execute.

h Thus he sheweth by his extraordinary vocation, that God had given him a charge which he must needs execute.

Thus hath the Lord God shewed vnto mee, and behold, he formed^a grasshoppers in the beginning of the shooting vp of the latter growth: and loe, it was in the latter growth^b after the Kings mowing.

2 And when they had made an end of eating the grasse of the land, then I said, O Lord God, spare, I beseech thee: who shall raise vp Iakob? for he is small.

3 So the Lord repented for this. It shall not be, saith the Lord.

4 Thus also hath the Lord God shewed vnto mee, and behold, the Lord God called to iudgement by fire: and it deuoured the great deepe, and did eat vp a part.

5 Then said I, O Lord God, cease, I beseech thee: who shall raise vp Iakob? for he is small.

6 So the Lord repented for this. This also shall not be, saith the Lord God.

7 Thus againe hee shewed me, and behold, the Lord stood vpon a wal made by line with a line in his hand.

8 And the Lord said vnto mee, Amos, what seest thou? And I said, A line. Then said the Lord, Behold, I will set a line in the middes of my people Israel, and will passe by them no more.

9 And the hie places of Ithak shall be desolate, and the temples of Israel shall be destroyed: and I will rise against the house of Ieroboam with the sword.

10 Then Amaziah the Priest of Bethel sent to Ieroboam king of Israel, saying, Amos hath conspired against thee in the middes of the house of Israel: the land is not able to beare all his words.

11 For thus Amos saith, Ieroboam shall die by the sword, and Israel shall be led away captiue out of their owne land.

12 Also Amaziah said vnto Amos, O thou sheerer, goe, flee thou away into the land of Iudah, and there eate thy bread and prophesie there.

13 But prophesie no more at Beth-el: for it is the kings chappell, and it is the kings court.

14 Then answered Amos, and said to Amaziah, I was no^a Prophet, neither was I a Prophets sonne, but I was an herdsman, and a gatherer of wild figs.

15 And the Lord took me as I followed the flocke, and the Lord said vnto mee, Go, prophesie vnto my people Israel.

16 Now therefore heare thou the word of the Lord. Thou sayest, prophesie not against Israel, and spare nothing against the house of Ithak:

17 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Thy wife shall be an harlot in the citie, and thy sonnes and thy daughters shall fall by the sword, and thy land shall be diuided by line: and thou shalt die in a polluted land, and Israel shall surely goe into captiuitie forth of his land.

1 Against the rulers of Israel. 7 The Lord sweareth. 11 The famine of the word of God.

Thus hath the Lord God shewed vnto mee, and behold, a basket of summer fruite.

2 And hee said, Amos, what seest thou? And I said, a basket of summer fruit. Then said the Lord vnto mee, The end is come vpon my people of Israel, I will passe by them no more.

3 And the songs of the Temple shall bee howlings in that day, saith the Lord God: many dead bodies shall be in euery place: they shall cast them forth with silence.

4 Heare this, O ye that swallow vp the poore, that ye may make the needie of the land to faile,

5 Saying, When will the new moneth be gone, that we may sel corne, and the Sabbath, that we may set forth wheat, and make the Ephrah small, and the shekel great, and falsifie the weights by deceit?

6 That we may buy the poore for silver, and the needy for shooes: yea, and sell the residue of the wheate.

7 The Lord hath sworne by the excellencie of Iakob, Surely I will neuer forget any of their workes.

8 Shall not the land tremble for this, and euery one moue, that dwelleth therein? and it shall rise vp wholly as a flood, and it shall be cast out, and drowned as by the flood of Egypt.

9 And in that day saith the Lord God, I will euen cause the Sunne to goe downe at noone: and I will darken the earth in the cleare day,

10 And I will turne your feastes into mourning, and all your songs into lamentation: and I will bring sackcloth vpon all loynes, and baldnesse vpon euery head: and I will make it as the mourning of an onely sonne, and the end thereof as a bitter day.

11 Behold, the dayes come, saith the Lord God, that I will send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but of hearing the word of the Lord.

12 And they shall wander from sea to sea, and from the North euen vnto the East shall they run to and fro to seeke the word of the Lord, and shall not find it.

THE ARGUMENT.

THe Idumeans which came of Esau, were morrall enemies alwayes to the Israelites, which came of Iacob: and therefore did not onely vex them continually with sundry kinds of crueltie, but also stirred vp other to fight against them. Therefore when they were now in their greatest prosperitie, and did most triumph against Israel, which was in great affliction and misery, God railed vp his Prophet to comfort the Israelites, forasmuch as God had now determined to destroy their aduersaries, which did so sore vex them, and to send them such as should deliuer them, and set vp the Kingdome of Messiah, which he had promised.

The vision of Obadiah. Thus saith the Lord God against Edom, Wee haue heard a rumour from the Lord, and an ambassadour is sent among the heathen: arise, and let vs rise vp against her to battell.

f From that vocation whereunto God had called him, and wherein he would have assisted him.

g As one that would have cast off this care and solicitude, by seeking rest and quietness. h As they had called on their idoles: which declareth that idolaters haue no stay nor certaintie, but in their troubles seeke they cannot tell to whom. i Which declareth that the matter was in great extremity & doubt, which thing was Gods monition in them for the triall of the cause: and this may not be done but in matters of great importance. k This declareth that 3 very wicked in their necessities flee vnto God for succour, and also that they are touched with a certaine feare to shed mans blood, whereas they know no manifest signe of wickednesse. l They were touched with a certaine repentance of their life past, and began to worship the true God by whom they saw themselves so wonderfully deliuered: but this was done for feare, and not of a pure heart and affection, neither according to Gods word. m Thus the Lord would chastise his Prophet with a most terrible spectacle of death, and hereby also confirmed him of his fauour and support in this his charge which was enioyned him:

fare thereof, and went downe into it, that he might goe with them vnto Tarshish, from the presence of the Lord.

4 But the Lord sent out a great winde into the Sea, and there was a mighty tempest in the Sea, so that the ship was like to be broken.

5 Then the mariners were afraid, and cryed every man vnto his god, and cast the wares that were in the ship, into the Sea, to lighten it of them: but Jonah was gone downe into the sides of the ship, and hee lay downe, and was fast asleepe.

6 So the Shipmaster came to him, and said vnto him, What meanest thou, O Sleeper? Arise, call vpon thy God, if so bee that God will thinke vpon vs, that we perish not.

7 And they laid every one to his fellow, Come, and let vs cast lots, that wee may know, for whose cause this euill is vpon vs. So they cast lots, and the lot fell vpon Jonah.

8 Then said they vnto him, Tell vs for whose cause this euill is vpon vs? What is thine occupation? & whence comest thou? which is thy country? and of what people art thou?

9 And hee answered them, I am an Hebrew, and I feare the Lord God of heauen, which hath made the sea, and the dry land.

10 Then were the men exceedingly afraid, and said vnto him, Why hast thou done this? (for the men knew that hee fled from the presence of the Lord, because he had told them.)

11 Then said they vnto him, What shall we doe vnto thee, that the sea may be calme vnto vs? (for the sea wrought and was troublous.)

12 And he said vnto them, Take me, and cast me into the sea: so shall the sea be calme vnto you: for I know, that for my sake this great tempest is vpon you.

13 Nevertheless, the men rowed to bring it to the land, but they could not: for the sea wrought and was troublous against them.

14 Wherefore they cried vnto the Lord, and said, We beseech thee, O Lord, we beseech thee, let vs not perish for this mans life, and lay not vpon vs innocent blood: for thou, O Lord, hast done as it pleased thee.

15 So they tooke vp Jonah, and cast him into the sea, & the sea ceased from her raging.

16 Then the men feared the Lord exceedingly, and offered a sacrifice vnto the Lord, and made vowes.

17 Now the Lord had prepared a great fish to swallow vp Jonah: and Jonah was in the belly of the fish three dayes and three nights.

Thus the Lord would chastise his Prophet with a most terrible spectacle of death, and hereby also confirmed him of his fauour and support in this his charge which was enioyned him:

CHAP. II

1 Jonah is in the fishes belly: 2 His prayer. 10 He is deliuered.

Then Jonah prayed vnto the Lord his God out of the fishes belly, And said, I cryed in mine affliction vnto the Lord: and hee heard me: out of the belly of hell cryed I, and thou heardest my voyce.

3 For thou hadst cast me into the bottom in the midst of the sea, and the floods compassed me about: all thy surges, and all thy waues passed ouer mee.

4 Then I said, I am cast away out of thy sight: yet will I looke againe toward thine holy Temple.

5 The waters compassed me about vnto the soule: the depth closed me round about, and the weedes were wrapt about mine head.

6 I went downe to the bottome of the mountaines: the earth with her barres was about mee for euer, yet hast thou brought vp my life from the pit, O Lord my God.

7 When my soule fainted within me, I remembered the Lord, and my prayer came vnto thee, into thine holy Temple.

8 They that wait vpon lying vanities, forsake their owne mercy.

9 But I will sacrifice vnto thee with the voyce of thanksgiving, and will pay that that I haue vowed: saluation is of the Lord.

10 And the Lord spake vnto the fish, and it cast out Jonah vpon the dry land.

fish, and all these dangers, as it were raising me from death to life.

e They that depend vpon any thing saue on God alone. f They refuse their owne felicitie, and that goodnesse which they should else receive of God.

CHAP. III.

1 Jonah is sent againe to Ninueh. 5 The repentance of the King of Ninueh.

And the word of the Lord came vnto Jonah the second time, saying,

2 Arise, goe vnto Ninueh that great citie, and preach vnto it the preaching which I bid thee.

3 So Jonah arose, and went to Ninueh according to the word of the Lord: Now Ninueh was a great and excellent citie of three dayes iourney.

4 And Jonah began to enter into the citie a days iourney, and hee cryed and said, Yet forty dayes, and Ninueh shall be overthrown.

5 So the people of Ninueh beleued God, and proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth from the greatest of them euen to the least of them.

6 For word came vnto the king of Ninueh, and hee arose from his throne, and hee layed his robe from him, and couered him with sackcloth, and sate in ashes.

7 And hee proclaimed and said throught Ninueh, (by the counsell of the king and his nobles) saying, Let neither man nor beast, bullocke nor sheepe take any thing, neither ferd nor drinke water.

8 But let man and beast put on sack-a Bring now swallowed vp of death, and seeing no remedie to escape, his faith brast out vnto the Lord, knowing that out of the very hell he was able to deliuer him. b For he was now in the fishes belly, as in a grave or place of darkenesse. c This declared what his prayer was, and how he laboured betweene hope and despair, considering the neglect of his vocation, and Gods iudgements for the same: but yet in the end faith gat the victory. d Thou hast deliuered me from the belly of the fish, and all these dangers, as it were raising me from death to life. e They that depend vpon any thing saue on God alone. f They refuse their owne felicitie, and that goodnesse which they should else receive of God.

CHAP. III.

a This is a great declaration of Gods mercy, that he receiueth him again, & lendeth him forth as his Prophet, which had before shewed to great infirmities.

b Reade Chap. i. 2.

c He went forward one day in the citie, and preached, and so he continued till the citie was converted.

d For he declared that he was a Prophet sent to them from God to denounce his iudgements against them.

e Not that the dumb beasts

f Hee willed that the men should earnestly call vnto God for mercy. g For partly by the threatening of the Prophet, and partly by the motion of his owne conscience hee doubted whether God would shew them mercy. h That is, the fruites of their repentance, which did proceed of faith, which God had planted by the ministry of his Prophet. i Reade here. vs. 8.

cloth, and cry mightily vnto God: yea, let every man turne from his euil way, and from the wickednesse that is in their hands. 9 Who can tel if God wil turne, and repent and turne away from his fierce wrath that we perish not? 10 And God saw their workes, that they turned from their euil wayes: and God repented of the euil that he had said, that he would doe vnto them, and he did it not.

a Because here-by he should be taken as a false Prophet, and so the Name of God which he preached, should be blasphemed. b Reade Chap. 1. 3. c Thus he prayed of griefe, fearing lest Gods Name by this forgiveness might be blasphemed, as though hee sent his Prophets forth to denounce his iudgements in vaine. d Wilt thou bee iudge when I doe things for my glory, and when I doe not?

CHAP. III.

The great goodnesse of God toward his creatures.

Therefore it displeased Jonah exceedingly, and he was angry. 2 And he prayed vnto the Lord, and said, I pray thee, O Lord, was not this my saying, when I was yet in my country? therefore I prevented it to flee vnto Tarshish: for I knew that thou art a gracious God, and mercifull, slow to anger, and of great kindnesse, and repentest thee of the euil. 3 Therefore now, O Lord, take, I beseech thee, my life from mee: for it is better for me to die then to liue. 4 Then said the Lord, Doest thou will to be angry?

h Thus God mercifully reprobeth him which would pitie himselfe and this gourd, and yet would retriaine God to shew his compassion to so many thousand people. i Meaning, that they were children and infants.

5 So Jonah went out of the city, and late on the East side of the citie, and there made him a booshe, and late vnder it in the shadow: till he might see what should be done in the citie.

6 And the Lord God prepared a gourd, and made it to come vp ouer Jonah, that it might bee a shadow ouer his head, and deliver him from his griefe. So Jonah was exceeding glad of the gourd.

7 But God prepared a worme when the morning rose the next day: and it smote the gourd that it withered.

8 And when the Sunne did arise, God prepared also a feruent East wind: and the Sunne beat vpon the head of Jonah, that hee fainted, and wished in his heart to die, and said, It is better for mee to die then to liue.

9 And God said vnto Jonah, Doest thou will to be angry for the gourd? And he said, I doe will to be angry vnto the death.

10 Then said the Lord, Thou hast had pitie on the gourd for the which thou hast not laboured, neither madest it grow, which came vp in a night, and perished in a night:

11 And should not I spare Nineueh that great citie, wherein are sixscore thousand persons, that cannot discern betweene their right hand and their left hand, and also much cattell?

h Thus God mercifully reprobeth him which would pitie himselfe and this gourd, and yet would retriaine God to shew his compassion to so many thousand people. i Meaning, that they were children and infants.

e For he doubted as yet whether God would shew them mercie or no: and therefore after forty dayes, he departed out of the citie, looking what issue God would send. f Which was a further means to couer him from the heat of the Sunne, as he remained in his booshe. g This declareth the great inconueniences, wherinto Gods seruants doe fall when they giue place to their owne afflictions, and do not in all things willingly submit themselves to God.

¶ Micah.

THE ARGUMENT.

Micah the Prophet of the tribe of Iudah, seued in the worke of the Lord, concerning Iudah and Israel, at the least thirtie yeeres, at what time Ishaiah prophesied. Hee declareth the destruction, first of the one kingdome and then of the other, because of their manifold wickednes, but chiefly for their idolatry. And to this end he noteth the wickednes of the people, the crueltie of the princes and gouernours, and the permission of the false prophets, and the delighting in them. Then he leteeth forth the coming of Christ, his kingdome and the felicitie thereof. This Prophet was not that Micah, which resisted Ahab and all his false prophets, as 1. King 22.8 but another of the same name.

CHAP. I.

1 The destruction of Iudah and Israel because of their idolatry.

The word of the Lord, that came vnto Micah the Gathathite in the dayes of Iotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah Kings of Iudah, which hee saw concerning Samaria, and Ierusalem.

2 Heare, all ye people: hearken thou O earth, and all that therein is, and let the Lord God bee witness against you, even the Lord from his holy Temple.

3 For behold, the Lord cometh out of his place, and will come downe, and tread vpon the high places of the earth.

God himselfe to witnesse, that the preaching of his Prophets, which they haue abused shall be reuenged. c Meaning hereby, that God will come to iudgement against the strong cities and holds.

4 And the mountaines shall melt vnder him (so shall the valleys cleaue) as waxe before the fire, and as the waters that are powdered downward.

5 For the wickednesse of Iacob is all this, and for the sinnes of the house of Israel: what is the wickednesse of Iacob? Is not Samaria: and which are the high places of Iudah? is not Ierusalem?

6 Therefore I will make Samaria as an heape of the field, and for the planting of a vineyard, and I will cause the stones thereof to rumble downe into the valley, and I will discouer the foundations thereof.

7 And all the grauen images thereof shall be broken, and all the gifts thereof shall bee their father Iacob. e That is, the idolatry and infection. f Which they gathered by euill practices, and thought that their idoles had enriched them therewith for their seruice vnto them.

d Samaria which should haue bene an example to Israel of true religion and iustice, was the puddle and stewes of all idolatry and corruption, and boasted themselves of butting

a Borne in Mesbah a citie of Iudah. b Because of the malice and obstinacie of the people whom he had so oft exhorted to repentance, hee summoned them to Gods iudgements, taking all creatures and God himselfe to witnesse, that the preaching of his Prophets, which they haue abused shall be reuenged. c Meaning hereby, that God will come to iudgement against the strong cities and holds.

g The gaine that came by their idols, shall be consumed as a thing of nought: for as the wages or riches of harlots are wickedly gotten, so are they vilely and speedily spent. h Left the Philistines our enemies rejoyce at our destruction. i Which was a citie nere to Jerusalem, Ios. 18. 23; there called Ophrah, & signifieth dust: therefore he willecth them to mourne, and roule themselves in the dust for their dustie citie. k These were citie: whereby the enemies should passe as he came to Iudah. l He shall not depart before he hath overcome you, and so you, shall pay for his carrying. m For Rabshakeh had shut up Jerusalem that they could not find to succour them. n To flee away: for Saneherib layd siege first to that citie, and remained therein when hee sent his captaines and armies against Jerusalem. o Thou hast receivedst the idolatry of Jeroboam, and so diddest infect Jerusalem. p Thou shalt bribe the Philistines thy neighbours, but they shall deceiue thee, as well as they of Jerusalem. q He prophesieth against his owne citie, and because it signified an heritage, hee sayth that God would send an heire to possesse it. r For so they thought themselves for the strengib of their city.

CHAP. II.

1 Threatnings against the wanton and dainty people. 6 They would teach the Prophets to preach.

W De vnto them that imagine iniquity, and worke wickednesse vpon their beds: when the morning is light, they practise it, because their hand hath power.

2 And they couet fields, and take them by violence, and houses, and take them away: so they oppresse a man and his house, euery man and his heritage.

3 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, against this family haue I deuised a plague, whereout yee shall not plucke your neckes, and ye shall not goe so proudly, for this time is euill.

4 In that day shall they take vp a parable against you, and lament with a dolefull lamentation, and say, Woe be vnto the heire that hath changed the portion of my people, how hath he taken it away to restore it vnto me: he hath diuided our fields.

a As those as they rise, they execute their wicked deuices of the night, and according to their power hurt other. b Thus the Iewes lament, and say, that there is no hope of restitution, seeing their possessions are diuided among the enemies, 5 Therefore thou shalt haue none that shall call a coward by lot, in the Congregation of the Lord.

6 They that prophesied, prophesie yet not. They shall not prophesie to them, neither shall they take shame.

7 O thou that art named the house of Iacob, is the spirit of the Lord departed: are these his workes? are not my wordes good vnto him? that walketh vprightly?

8 But hee that was yesterday my people, is risen vp on the other side, as against an enemy: they spoyle the beautifull garment from them that passe by peaceably, as though they returned from the warre.

9 The women of my people haue ye cast out from their pleasant houses, and from their children haue ye taken away my glory continually.

10 Arise and depart, for this is not your rest: because it is polluted, it shall destroy you, euery with a sword destruction.

11 If a man walke in the spirit, and would lie fastly, saying, I will prophesie vnto thee of wine, and of strong drinke, he shall euery be the prophet of this people.

12 I will surely gather thee wholly, O Iacob: I will surely gather the remnant of Israel: I will put them together as the sheepe of Bozrah, euery as the flocke in the midst of their fold: the cities shall bee full of habit of the men.

13 The braker vp shall come vp before them: they shall breake out and passe by the gate, and goe out by it, and their king shall goe before them, and the Lord shall be vpon their heads.

k That is, their substance and liuing, which is Gods blessing, and as it were part of his glory. l Jerusalem shall not be your safeguard, but the cause of your destruction. m That is, shew himselfe to be a Prophet. n He sheweth what Prophets they delight in: that is, in flatterers, which tell them pleasant tales, and speake of their commodities. o To destroy thee. p The enemies shall breake their gates and walles, and leade them into Caldea. q To driue them forward, and to helpe their enemies.

CHAP. III.

1 Against the tyranny of princes and false prophets.

And I said, Here, I pray you, O heads of Iacob, and reyniers of the house of Israel: Should not ye know iudgement?

2 But they hate the good, and loue the euill: they plucke off their skins from them, and their flesh from their bones.

3 And they eat also the flesh of my people, and flay off their skin from them, and they breake their bones, and breake them in pieces as for the pot, and as flesh vnto the caldron.

4 Then shall they crie vnto the Lord, but he will not heare them: he will euery hide his face from them at that time, because they haue done wickedly in their workes.

ther, but compareth them to wolves, Lyons, and most cruell beasts. c That is, when I shall visite their wickednes, for though I leaue the godly before they cry, Isa. 65. 24. yet I will not heare them though they cry, Isa. 1. 11, Ezek. 8. 18. Iam. 2. 23. 1 Pet. 3. 11, 12.

e Ye shall haue no more lands to diuide, as you had in time past, and as you vied to measure them in the tubile. f Thus the people warn the prophets, that they speake to them no more, for they cannot abide their threatnings. g God saith that they shall not prophesie nor receiue no more of their rebukes nor taunts. h Are these your workes according to his law? i Do not the godly finde my words comfortable? k That is, aforetime. l The poore can haue no commodity by them, but they spoyle them as though they were enemies.

d They deuoure a their substance and then flatter them, promising that all shall goe well: but if one restraine from their bellies, then they inuent all wayes to mis-chiefe.

e As you haue loued to walke
in darknesse and to prophesie lies, so God shall reward you with grosse blindness and ignorance, so that when all others shall see the bright beams of Gods graces, ye shall as blinde men grope as in the night.

f When God shall discover them to the world, they shall bee afraid to speake: for all shall know that they were but false prophets, & did belie the word of God.

g The Prophet being assured of his vocation by the Spirit of God, setteth himselfe alone against all the wicked shewing how God both gaue him gifts, ability and knowledge to discerne betwene good and euill, and also constancie to reprove the sinnes of the people, and not to flatter them. h They build them houses by briberie, which hee calleth blood and iniquitie.
i They will say that they are the people of God, & abuse his name, as a pretence to cloke their hypocrisie. k Reade Iere. 26. 18.

5 Thus saith the Lord, Concerning the prophets that deceiue my people, and bite them with their teeth, and cry, Peace, but if a man put not into their mouthes, they pro-pate warre against him.

6 Therefore night shall be vnto you for a vision, and darknesse shall be vnto you for a diuination, and the sunne shall goe downe ouer the prophets, and the day shall be darke ouer them.

7 Then shall the Seers be ashamed, and the soothsayers confounded: yea, they shall all couer their lips, for they haue none an-swere of God.

8 Yet notwithstanding, I am full of power by the Spirit of the Lord, and of iudgement, and of strength to declare vnto Iacob his transgression, and to Israel his sinne.

9 Heare this, I pray you, yee heads of the house of Iacob, and princes of the house of Israel: they abhorre iudgement, and peruert all iniquitie.

10 They build vp Zion with blood, and Ierusalem with iniquitie.

11 The heads thereof iudge for rewards, and the Priests thereof teach for hire, and the Prophets thereof prophesie for money:
yet will they leane vpon the Lord, and say,
Is not the Lord among vs? no euill can come vpon vs.

12 Therefore shall Zion for your sake bee plowed as a field, and Ierusalem shall be an heape, and the mountaine of the house, as the high places of the forest.

g The Prophet being assured of his vocation by the Spirit of God, setteth himselfe alone against all the wicked shewing how God both gaue him gifts, ability and knowledge to discerne betwene good and euill, and also constancie to reprove
the sinnes of the people, and not to flatter them. h They build them houses by briberie, which hee calleth blood and iniquitie.
i They will say that they are the people of God, & abuse his name, as a pretence to cloke their hypocrisie. k Reade Iere. 26. 18.

a Of the kingdomes of Christ, and felicitie of his Church.

At in the last dayes it shall come to passe, that the mountaine of the house of the Lord shall be prepared in the top of the moun-taines, and it shall be crated about the hills, and people shall flow vnto it.

2 Yea, many nations shall come and say, Come, and let vs goe vp to the mountaine of the Lord, and to the house of the God of Iac-ob, and he will teach vs his wayes, and wee will walke in his pathes: for the Law shall goe forth of Zion, and the word of the Lord from Ierusalem.

3 And hee shall iudge among many people, and rebuke mighty nations as farre off, and they shall breake their swordes into mattocks, and their speares into sickes: nation shall not lift vp a sword against nation neither shall they learne to fight any more.

4 But they shall sit euery man vnder his vine, and vnder his figge tree, and none shall make them afraid: for the mouth of the Lord of hostes hath spoken it.

5 For all people will walke euerie one in the name of his god, and wee will walke in the name of the Lord our God, for euer and euer.

6 At the same day, saith the Lord, will I gather her that haltereth, and I will gather her that is cast out, and her that I haue afflicted.

7 And I will make her that haltereth, a remnant, and her that was cast farre off, a mightie nation: and the Lord shall reigne ouer them in mount Zion, from henceforth euen for euer.

8 And thou, O tower of the flocke, the strong hold of the daughter Zion, vnto thee shall it come, euen the first dominion, and kingdome shall come to the daughter Ieru-salem.

9 Now why dost thou cry out with lamentation? is there no King in thee? is thy counsell perished? for sorrow hath taken thee as a woman in trauaile.

10 Sorrow & mourne, O daughter Zion, (like a woman in trauaile: for now shalt thou goe forth of the cite, and dwell in the field, and shalt go into Babel, but there shalt thou bee deliuered: there the Lord shall redeeme thee from the hand of thine enemies.

11 Now also many nations are gathered against thee, saying, Zion shall be condemned, and our eye shall looke vpon Zion.

12 But they know not the thoughts of the Lord: they vnderstand not his counsell, for he shall gather them as the sheaues in the barn.

13 Arise, and thresh, O daughter Zion: for I will make thine home prison, and I will make thine houses brasie, and thou shalt breake in pieces many people: and I will consecrate their riches vnto the Lord, and their substance vnto the ruler of the whole world.

m He sheweth that the faithfull ought not to measure Gods iudgments by the brags and threatnings of the wicked, but thereby are admonished to lift vp their hearts to God, to call for deliuerance.
n God giueth his Church this victory, so oft as he ouercometh their enemies: but the accomplishment hereof shall bee at the last comming of Christ.

1 The destruction of Ierusalem. 2 The excellen-cie of Beth-lehem.

Now assemble thy garisons, O daughter of garisons: he hath laid siege against vs: they shall smite the Iudge of Israel with a rod vpon the cheek.

2 And thou Beth-lehem Ephrathah, art little to bee among the thousands of Judah, yet out of thee shall hee come forth vnto mee, that shall bee the ruler in her garisons to trouble others, the Lord would now cause other garrisons to vex her, and that her rulers should be smitten on the face most contemptuously. b For so the Iewes diuided their coun-trei, that for euery thousand there was a chiefe captaine: and because Bethlehem was not able to make a thousand, he calleth it little, but yet God wil raise vp his captaine and governor therein: and thus it is not the least by reason of this benefit, as Mat. 2. 6.

d He compareth the Jewes to women with childe, who for a time should have great sorrowes, but at length they should have a comfortable deliuerance, Iohn 16. 21.

e That is, Christs kingdome shalbe stable and everlasting, and his people, as well the Gentiles, as the Jewes shall dwell in safetie.

f This Messiah shalbe a sufficient safeguard for vs, and though the enemy inuade vs for a time, yet shall God stir vp many which shall be able to deliuer vs.

g These whom God shall raise vp for the deliuerance of his Church, shall destroy all the enemies thereof, which are meant hereby the Assyrians and Babylonians which were the chiefe at that time.

h By these gouernors God will deliuer vs when the enemy commeth into our land.

i This remnant of Church which God shall deliuer shall onely depend on Gods power and defence, as doeth the grasse of the fildes, and not on the hope of man. k I will destroy all things wherein thou putt'st thy confidence, as thy vaine confidence and idolatrie, and so will helpe thee. l It shall be so terrible, that the like hath not bene heard of.

4 And hee shall stand and see in the strength of the Lord, and in the maiestie of the name of the Lord his God, and they shall dwell still: for now shall hee bee magnified vnto the ends of the world.

5 And hee shall be our peace when Asshur shall come into our land: when he shall tread in our palaces, then shall wee raise against him seuen shepherds and eight principall men.

6 And they shall destroy Asshur with the sword, and the land of Nimrod with their swords: thus shall hee deliuer vs from Asshur, when hee commeth into our land, and when hee shall tread within our borders.

7 And the remnant of Iacob shall be among many people, as a dewe from the Lord, and as the showres vpon the grasse, that wasteth not for man, nor hopeth in the sonnes of Adam.

8 And the remnant of Iacob shall be among the Gentiles, in the middes of many people, as the lyon among the beastes of the forest, and as the lyons whelpes among the flockes of sheepe, who when he goeth thorow treadeth downe and teareth in pieces, and none can deliuer.

9 Thine hand shall be lift vp vpon thine aduersaries, and all thine enemies shall bee cut off.

10 And it shall come to passe in that day, saith the Lord, that I will cut off thine hopes out of the middes of thee, and I will destroy thy charers.

11 And I will cut off the cities of thy land, and ouerthrow all thy strong holds.

12 And I will cut off thine inchanters out of thine hand, and thou shalt haue no more soothsayes.

13 Thine idoles also will I cut off, and thine images out of the middes of thee: and thou shalt no more worship the worke of thine hands.

14 And I will plucke vp thy groues out of the mids of thee: so will I destroy thine enemies.

15 And I will execute a vengeance in my wrath and indignation vpon the heathen, which they haue not heard.

CHAP. VI.

An exhortation to the dumb creatures to heare the iudgement against Israel being vnkind. 6 What manner of sacrifices doe please God.

Hearken ye now what the Lord saith, Arise thou, and contend before the mountains, and let the hills heare thy voyce.

a He taketh the high mountains and hard rockes to witnesse against the obstinacie of his people,

2 Heare ye, O mountaines, the Lords quarrell, and ye mightie foundations of the earth: for the Lord hath a quarrell against his people, and he will pleade with Israel.

3 O my people what haue I done vnto thee? or wherein haue I grieved thee? testifie against me.

4 Surely I brought thee vp out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed thee out of the house of seruants, and I haue sent before thee Moses, Aaron, and Miriam.

5 O my people, remember now what Balak king of Moab had deuised, and what Balaam the sonne of Beor answered him, from Shittim vnto Gilgal, that yee may know the righteousness of the Lord.

6 Where with shall I come before the Lord, and how my selfe before the Lord? shall I come before him with burnt offerings and with calues of a yeere old?

7 Will the Lord bee pleased with thousands of rammes, or with ten thousand riuers of oyle? shall I giue my first borne for my transgression, even the fruit of my body for the sinne of my soule?

8 Wee hath shewed thee, O man, what is good, & what the Lord requireth of thee: Surely to doe lustly, and to loue mercy and to humble thy selfe, to walke with thy God.

9 The Lords voyce cryeth vnto the cite, and the man of wisdom shall see thy name: Heare the rod, and who hath appointed it.

10 Are yet the treasures of wickednesse in the house of the wicked, and the scant measure that is abhominable?

11 Shall I iustifie the wicked ballances and the bag of deceitfull weights?

12 For the rich men thereof are full of crueltie, and the inhabitants thereof haue spoken lyes, and their tongue is deceitfull in their mouth.

13 Therefore also will I make thee sicke in limiting thee, and in making thee desolate, because of thy sinnes.

14 Thou shalt eate and not be satisfied, and thy casting downe shall be in the mids of thee, and thou shalt take hold, but shalt not deliuer: and that which thou deliuerest, will I giue vp to the sword.

15 Thou shalt sowe, but not reape: thou shalt tread the olives, but thou shalt not anoynt thee with oyle: and make sweete wine, but shalt not drinke wine.

16 For the statutes of Omri are kept, the second table, to know if they will obey God aright or no, saying that God hath prescribed them to doe this. h Meaning, that when God speaketh to any city or nation, the godly will acknowledge his Maiestie, and consider not the mortall man that bringeth the threatening, but God that sendeth it. i That is of Ierusalem. k Thou shalt be consumed with inward griefe and euils. l Meaning, that the cite should goe about to saue her men, as they that lay hold on that which they would preferre. m You haue receiued all the corruption and idolatry, wherewith the ten tribes were infected vnder Omri and Ahab his sonnes: and to excuse your doings, you alledge the kings authority by his statutes, and also wisdom and policy in so doing, but you shall not escape punishment, but as I haue shewed you great fauour, and taken you for my people, so shall your plagues be accordingly, Luke 13. 47.

and all the manner of the house of Ahab, and yet walke in their countaies, that I should make thee waste, and the inhabitants thereof an hissing: therefore ye shall heare the reproch of my people.

CHAP. VII.

1 A complaint for the small number of the righteous. 4 The wickednesse of those times. 14 The prosperitie of the Church.

a The Prophet taketh vpon him the person of the earth which complaineth that all her fruits are gone, so that none is left that is, that there is no goodly man remaining: for all are giuen to crueltie and deceit, so that none spareth his owne brother.

b He sheweth that the prince, the iudge and rich man are linked together all to doe euill and to cloke the doings one of another, c That is, the rich man that is able to giue money, abstaineth from no wickednes, nor iniury. d These men agree among themselves, and conspire with one consent to doe euill.

e They that are of most estimation, and are counted most honest among them, are but thornes and briars to pricke. f Meaning, of the Prophets and gouernours. g The Prophet sheweth that the onely remedy for the godly in desperate euils is to flee vnto God for succour. h This is, spoken in the person of the Church, which calleth the malignant Church her enemy.

W De is me, for I am as the Summer-gatherings, and as the grapes of the vintage: there is no cluster to eat: my soule desired the first ripe fruits;

2 The good man is perished out of the earth, and there is none righteous among men: they all lie in waite for blood: curie man hunteth his brother with a net.

3 To make good for the euill of their hands, the prince asked, and the iudge iudgeth for a reward: therefore the great man her speaketh out the corruption of his soule: so they way it by.

4 The best of them is as a byter, and the most righteous of them is sharper then a thorne hedge: the day of thy watchmen and thy visitation cometh: then shall bee their confusion.

5 Trust ye not in a friend, neither put ye confidence in a counsellor: keepe the doores of thy mouth from her that lieth in thy bosome.

6 For the sonne reuileth the father: the daughter riseth vp against her mother: the daughter in law against the mother in law, and a mans enemies are the men of his owne house.

7 Therefore I will looke vnto the Lord: I will wait for God my Saviour: my God will heare me.

8 Reioyce not against me, mine enemy: though I fall, I shall arise: when I shall sit in darkenesse, the Lord shall be a light vnto me.

9 I will beare the wrath of the Lord, because I haue sinned against him, vntill hee pleade my cause. and execute iudgement for me: then wil he bring me forth to the light, and I shall see his righteousnesse.

10 When he that is mine enemy, shall looke vpon it, and shame shall coner her, which said vnto me, Where is the Lord thy God: mine eyes shall beholds her: now shall shee bee troden downe as the mire of the streets.

11 This is the day that thy walles shall be built: this day shall thine farre away the decree.

12 In this day also they shall come vnto thee from Asshur, and from the strong cities and from the strong holds euen vnto the river, and from sea to sea, and from mountaine to mountaine.

13 Notwithstanding, the land shall be desolate because of them that dwell therein, and for the fruits of their inventions.

14 Feede thy people with thy rodde, the flocke of thine heritage (which dwell solitary in the wood) as in the mids of Carmel: let them feede in Bashan and Gilead, as in olde time.

15 According to the dayes of thy coming out of the land of Egypt will I shew vnto him marvellous things.

16 The nations shall see, and be confounded for all their power: they shall lay their hand vpon their mouth: their eares shall be deafe.

17 They shall like the dust like a serpent: they shall moue out of their holes like woones: they shall be afraid of the Lord our God, and shall feare because of thee.

18 Who is a God like vnto thee, that taketh away iniquitie, and passeth by the transgression of heremant of his heritage? He retaineth not his wrath for euer, because mercy pleaseth him.

19 We will turne againe, and haue compassion vpon vs: he will subdune our iniquities, and cast all their sinnes into the bottom of the sea.

20 Thou wilt performe thy truth to Iakob, and mercy to Abraham, as thou hast sworne vnto our fathers in old time.

vnto his Church, when they should be scattered abroad as in solitary places in Babylon, and to be beneficial vnto them, as in time past. o God prometh to be fauourable to his people, as he had bene aforetime. p They shall be as dumbe men, and dare brag no more. q They shall be astonished and afraid to heare men speak, lest they should heare of their destruction. r They shall fall flat on the ground for feare. s As though he would not see it, but winke at it. t Meaning of his elect. u The Church is assured, that God will declare in effect the truth of his mercifull promise, which he had made of olde to Abraham, and to all that should apprehend the promise by faith.

i To wit, when God shall shew himself a deliverer of his Church, and a destroyer of his enemies, k Meaning the cruell Empire of the Babylonians.

l When the Church shall be restored, they that were enemies afore shall come out of all the corners of the world vnto her, so that neither holds, rivers, seas, nor mountaines shall be able to let them, m Afore this grace appeare, he sheweth how grievously the hypocrites themselves shall bee punished, seeing that the earth is selfe, which cannot sinne shall be made wast because of their wickednesse.

n The Prophet propheth a God to be mercifull

Nahum.

THE ARGVMENT.

As they of Ninus shewed themselves prompt and ready to receiue the word of God at Ionahs preaching, and so turned to the Lord by repentance: so after a certain time rather giuing them selves to worldly meanes to increase their dominion, then seeking to continue in the feare of God, & trade wherein they had begun, they cast off the care of Religion, and so returned to their vomit, and prouoked God: iust iudgement against them in afflicting his people. Therefore their citie Nineueh was destroyed, and Merach-baladan king of Babel (or as some thinke Nebuchad-nazzar) enioied the Empire of the Assyrians. But because God hath continuall care of his Church, he stirreth vp his Prophet to comfort the godly, shewing that the destruction of their enemies should bee for their consolation. And as it seemeth he prophesied about the time of Hezekiah, and not in the time of Manasseh his sonne, as the Iewes write,

CHAP. I.

a Reader. 1. 3. 1

b The vision or revelation which God commanded Nahum to write concerning the Ninevites.

c That is, borne in a poore village in the tribe of Simeon.

d Meaning, of his glory.

e With his he is but angry for a time, but his anger neuer asswageth toward the reprobate, though for a time he deferre it.

f Thus the wicked would make Gods mercie an occasion to sinne, but the Prophet willett them to consider his force and iustice.

g If all creatures be at Gods commandment, and none is able to resist his wrath, shall man flatter himselfe, and thinke by any means to escape, when he prouoketh his God to anger? h Left the faithfull should be discouraged by hearing the power of God, hee sheweth them that his mercies appertaine vnto them, and that hee hath care over them. i Signifying, that God wil suddenly destroy Nineveh, and the Assyrians in such sort, as they shall lie in perpetual darkness, and neuer recover their strength againe. k He sheweth that the enterprises of the Assyrians against Iudah and the Church, were against God, and therefore hee would so destroy them at once, that hee should not neede to returne the second time. l Though the Assyrians thinke themselves like thornes that pricke on all sides, yet the Lord will set fire on them, and as drunken men are not able to stand against any force, so they shall be nothing able to resist him. m Which may be vnderstood, either of Saneherib, or of the whole body of the people of Nineveh. n Though they thinke themselves in most safety, and of greatest strength, yet when God shall passe by, hee will destroy them. notwithstanding hee comforteth his Church, and promisseth to make an ende of punishing them by the Assyrians.

be burden of Nineveh. b The booke of the vision of Nahum the Elkeshite.

2 God is ^d jealous, and the Lord reuengeth: the Lord reuengeth: euen the ^e Lord of anger, the Lord will take vengeance on his aduersaries, and hee will reuerſe wrath for his enemies.

3 The ^f Lord is slow to anger, but hee is great in power, and will not surely cleare the wicked: the Lord hath his way in the whirlewinde, and in the storme, and the cloudes are the dust of his feete.

4 He rebuketh the sea, and drieth it, and hee drieth by all the rivers: Baſhan is waſted and Carmel, and the floure of Lebanon is waſted.

5 The mountaines tremble for him, and the hilles melt, and the earth is burnt at his sight, yea, the world and all that dwell therein.

6 Who can stand before his wrath? or who can abide in the fierceneſſe of his wrath? his wrath is kindled out like fire, and the rocks are broken by him.

7 The Lord is good, ^h and as a strong hold in the day of trouble, and hee knoweth them that trust in him.

8 But paſſing over as with a flood, hee will utterly deſtroy the ⁱ place thereof, and darkenſſe ſhall purſue his enemies.

9 What doe yee ^j imagine againſt the Lord? hee will make an better deſtruction: affliction ſhall not riſe by the ſecond time.

10 For he ſhall come as vnto ^k thornes ſolden one in another, and as vnto drunkenards in their drunkenneſſe: they ſhall be deuoured as stubble fully dried.

11 There ^l is communeth one out of thee that imagineth enill againſt the Lord, euen a wicked counſellour.

12 Thus ſayeth the Lord, Though they be ^m quiet, and alſo many, yet thus ſhall they be cut off when hee ſhall paſſe by: though I haue afflicted thee, I will afflict thee no more.

13 For now I will breake his yoke from thee, and will buſt thy bonds in ſunder.

14 And the Lord hath giuen a commandment concerning thee, that no more of thy name bee ⁿ ſowne: out of the houſe of thy gods will I cut off the grauen and the molten image: I will make it thy graue for thee, ^o ſhould haue no more children, thou art vile.

15 Behold, vpon the mountaines the ſeete of him that declareth and publiſherh ^p peace: O Iudah, keepe thy ſolemne feaſts, performe thy vowes: for the wicked ſhall no more paſſe through thee: he is utterly cut off. ^q 1. 4. 3. 7.

CHAP. II.

Hee deſcribeth the victories of the Caldeans againſt the Assyrians.

The ^r deſtroyer is come before thy face: keepe the munition: looke to the way: make thy loines ſtrong: increaſe thy ſtrength mightily.

2 For the Lord hath ^s turned away the glory of Iacob, as the glory of Iſrael: for the emptiers haue emptied them out, and ^t marred their vine branches.

3 The ſhield of his mighty men is made red: ^u the valiant men are in ſcarlet: the charrets ſhall bee as in the fire and flames in the day of his preparation, and ^v the fire trees ſhall tremble.

4 The charrets ſhall rage in the ſtreets: they ſhall runne to and fro in the hie wayes: they ſhall ſeeme like lampes: they ſhall ſhoote like the lightning.

5 Wee ſhall remember his ſtrong men, they ſhall ſtumble as they goe: they ſhall make haſte to the walles thereof, and the defence ſhall be prepared.

6 The gates of the rivers ſhall be opened, and the palace ſhall melt.

7 And Huzzah the Queene ſhall bee led away captiue, and her maidens ſhall leade her as with the voyce of doves ſinging vpon their brails.

8 But Nineveh is ^w of olde like a poole of water: yet they ſhall flee away. Stand, ſand, ſhall they cry: but none ſhall looke backe.

9 Spoile ye the ſilver, ſpoile the gold: for there is none end of the ſtoze, and glory of all the pleaſant veſſels.

10 She is emptye and void, and waſte, and the heart melteth, and the knees ſmite together, and ſorrow is in all loines, and the faces ^x of them all gather blackneſſe.

11 Where is the ^y dwelling of the Lions, and the paſture of the Lions whelpes? where the lyon and the lyonelle walked, and the Lyons whelpes, and none made them afraid?

12 The lyon did reare in pieces enough for his whelpes, and woyle for his lyonelle, and filled his holes with prey, and his dens with ſpoyle.

that Nineveh is ſo ancient that it can neuer periſh, and is as a fiſhpoole, whoſe waters they that walke on the bankes cannot touch: but they ſhall be ſcattered, and ſhall not looke backe though men would call them. h God commandeth the enemies to ſpoile Nineveh, and promiſeth them infinite riches and treaſures. i That is, Nineveh and the men thereof ſhall be after this ſort. k Reader I. 2. 6. l Meaning Nineveh, whoſe inhabitants were cruell like the lions, and giuen to all oppreſſion, and ſpared no violence or tyrannieto prouide for their wives and children.

13 Behold,

a That is, Nebuchadnezzar is in a readineſſe to deſtroy the Assyrians, and the Prophet deſcribeth the enterprises of the Assyrians, which prepared to reſiſt him.

b Seeing God hath puniſhed his owne people Iudah and Iſrael, he will now puniſh the enemies by whom hee ſcourged them: reader Iſa. 10. 13.

c Signifying, that the Iſraelites were utterly deſtroyed.

d Both to feare the enemy, and alſo that they themſelues ſhould not ſo ſoone eſpie blood one of another to discourage them.

e Meaning, their ſpeares ſhould ſhake and craſh together.

f Then the Assyrians ſhall ſeek by all means to gather their power, but all things ſhall fail them.

Lord of hostes, and I will burne her chariers in the smoke, and the sword shall deuoure thy yong Lyons, and I will cut off thy spoyle from the earth, and the voice of thy messengers shall no more be heard.

O Bloody citie, it is all full of lies, and robbery: a the prey departeth not.

2 The noise of a whisp, and the noise of the mooning of the wheeles, and the beating of the hoofs, and the leaping of the chariots.

sword, and the glittering spear, and a multitude is slaine, and the dead bodies are many: there is none ende of their corpses: they stumble vpon their corpses.

4 Because of the multitude of the forni-cations of the harlot that is beautifull, and is a mistresse of witchcraft, and selleth the people through her whoredome, and the nations through her witchcraft.

5 Behold, I come vpon thee, sayeth the Lord of hostes, and will discouer thy skirts vpon thy face, and will shew the nations thy filthinesse, and the kingdome thy shame.

6 And I will cast filth vpon thee, & make thee vile, and will set thee as a gazing stocke.

7 And it shall come to passe, that all they that looke vpon thee, shall flee from thee, and say, Nineveh is destroyed, who will haue pi-tie vpon her? where shall I seeke comforters for thee?

8 Art thou better then No, which was full of people, that lay in the riuers, and had the waters round about it, whose ditch was the sea, and her wall was from the sea?

9 Ethiopia and Egypt were her strength, and there was none ende, But and Lubim were her helpers.

10 Yet was shee caried away, and went into captiuitie: her yong children also were dashed in peeces at the head of all the streets:
and they cast lots for her noble men, and all her mighty men were bound in chaines.

11 Also thou shalt be drunken: thou shalt hide thy selfe, and shalt seeke helpe, because of the enemy.

12 All thy strong cities shall be like figge trees with the first ripe figges: for if they be shaken, they fall into the mouth of the eater.

13 Behold, thy people within thee are women: the gates of thy land shall be opened vnto thine enemies, and the fire shall deuoure thy barres.

14 Draw thee waters for the siege: fortifie thy strong holds: goe into the clay, and temper the mortar: make strong brickes.

15 There shall the fire deuoure thee: the sword shall cut thee off: it shall eate thee vp like the locusts, though thou be multiplied like the locusts, and multiplied like the gras-hopper.

16 Thou hast multiplied thy merchants about the starres of heauen: the locust spoy-leth and sleeth away.

17 Thy princes are as the grasshoppers, and thy captaines as the great grasshoppers which remaine in the hedges in the colde day: but when the sunne ariseth, they flee away, and their place is not knowen where they are.

18 Thy shepheards doe sleepe, a king of Asshur: thy strong men lye downe: thy people is scattered vpon the mountaines, and no man gathereth them.

19 There is no healing of thy wound:
thy plague is grievous: all that heare the hum of thee, shall clap the hands ouer thee:
for vpon whom hath not thy malice passed continually?

Habakkuk.

THE ARGUMENT.

THE Prophet complaineth vnto God, considering the great felicity of the wicked, and the miserable oppression of the godly, which endure all kind of affliction and cruelty, and yet can see none end. Therefore he had this reuelation shewed him of God, that the Caldeans should come and take them away captiues, so that they could looke for none ende of their troubles as yet, because of their stubburnnesse and rebellion against the Lord. And lest the godly should despaire, seeing this horrible confusion, he comforteth them by this, that God will punish the Caldeans their enemies, when their pride and cruelty shall be at height: wherefore he exhorteth the faithfull to patience by his owne example, and sheweth them a forme of prayer, wherewith they should comfort themselves.

CHAP. I.

2 A complaint against the wicked that persecute the iust.

He burden which Habakkuk
the Prophet did see.

2 O Lord, how long shall I cry, and thou wilt not heare?
even cry out vnto thee for violence, & thou wilt not helpe!

3 Why dost thou shew mee iniquity, and cause me to behold sorrow: for spoyling, and violence are before mee: and there are that raile vp strife and contention.

4 Therefore the Law is dissolved, and iudgement doth neuer goe forth: for the wicked doeth compassie about the righteous:

therefore wrong iudgement proceedeth.

5 Behold among the heathen, and regard, and wonder, and maruella: for I will worke a worke in your dayes: ye will not beleene it, though it be told you.

6 For loe, I raise vp the Caldeans, that bitter and furious nation, which shall goe vpon the breadth of the land to possesse the dwelling places, that are not theirs.

d As in times past you would not beleue Gods word, so shall ye not now beleue the strange plagues which are at hand,

7 Thy

The Prophet complaineth vnto God, and bewaileth that among the Iewes left none equiall nor brotherly love: but in stead thereof reigneth cruelty, theft, contention and strife.

b To suppress him if any should shew him selfe zealous of Gods cause.

c Because the iudges which should redresse this excess, are as euill as the rest.

e They themselves shall be your judges in this cause, and none shall have authority over them to controul them.

Zeph. 3. 3. f For the fewest most feared this winde, because it destroyed their fruits.

g They shall be so many in number, h They shall cast vp mounts against it.

i The Prophet comforteth the faithful, that God will also destroy the Babylonians, because they shall abuse this victory & become proud and insolent, attributing the praise hereof to their idols.

k He assureth the godly of Gods protection, shewing that the enemy can doe no more then God hath appointed, & also that their sinnes required such a sharp rod.

l So that the great deuoureth the small, and the Caldeans destroy all the world. m Meaning, that the enemies flatter themselves, and glory in their own force, power, and wit. n Meaning, that they should not.

7 They are terrible and fearful: their iudgement and their dignitie shall proceed of themselves.

8 Their horses also are swifter then the leopards, and are more fierce then the wolves in the evening, and their horsemen are many: and their horsemen shall come from far, they shall sit as the Eagle hasting to meat.

9 They come all to spoile: before their faces shall be an East wind, and they shall gather the captivity as the land.

10 And they shall mocke the kings, and the Princes shall be a scorn vnto them: they shall deride every strong hold: for they shall gather dust, and take it.

11 Then shall they take a courage, and transgresse and doe wickedly, imputing this their power vnto their god.

12 Art not thou of old, O Lord my God, mine Holy one? we shall not die: O Lord, thou hast ordained them for iudgement, & O God, thou hast established them for correction.

13 Thou art of pure eyes, & canst not see euil: thou canst not behold wickednes: wherefore dost thou looke vpon the transgressors, and holdest thy tongue, when the wicked denouret the man that is more righteous then he?

14 And makest men as the fishes of the sea, and as the creeping things that haue no ruler over them?

15 They take by all with the angle: they catch it in their net, and gather it in their yarne, whereof they reioyce and are glad.

16 Therefore they sacrifice vnto their net, and burne incense vnto their yarne, because by them their portion is fat, and their meat plentious.

17 Shall they therefore stretch out their net & not spare continually to slay the nations?

CHAP. II.

2 A vision, against pride, couetousnesse, drunkennesse, and idolatry.

a I will reuounce mine own iudgement, and onely depend on God to be instructed what I shall answer them that abuse my preaching, and to be armed against all tentations.

b Write it in great letters, that he that runneth may reade it. c Which contained the destruction of the enemy, and the comfort of the Church: which thing though God execute not according to mans hasty affections, yet the issue of both is certain at his time appointed. d To trust in himselfe or in any worldly thing, is neuer to be quiet: for the only rest is to stay vpon God by faith. Rom. 1. 17 gal. 3. 11. heb. 10. 38. e Hee compareth the proud and couetous man to a drunkard that is without reason and sense, whom God will punish, and make him a laughing stocke to all the world: and this hee speaketh for the comfort of the godly and against the Caldeans,

1 And the Lord answered me, and said, Write the vision, and make it plaine vpon tables, that he may runne that readeth it.

2 For the vision is yet for an appointed time, but at the last it shall speake, and not lie: though it tarrie, wait: for it shall surely come, and shall not stay.

3 Behold, he that lifreth vp himselfe, his minde is not vpriht in him, but the lust shall liue by his faith.

5 Psa, indeed the proude man is as hee that transgresseth by wine: therefore shall he not endure, because he hath enlarged his desire as the hell, and is as death, and cannot be satisfied, but gathereth vnto him all nations, and heapeth vnto him all people.

6 Shall not all these take vp a parable against him, & a taunting prouerbe against him, and say, Wo, he that increaseth that which is not his: how long? and he that sa- dereth himselfe with thicke clay.

7 Shall they not rise by suddenly that shall bite thee? and awake, that shall stirre thee? and thou shalt be their pray?

8 Because thou hast spoiled many nations, al the remnant of the people shall spoile thee, because of mens blood, and for the wrong done in the land, in the citie, and vnto all that dwell therein.

9 Wo, he that coueteth an euill couetousnesse to his house, that he may let his nest on high, to escape from the power of euill.

10 Thou hast consulted shame to thine owne house, by destroying many people, and hast sinned against thine owne house.

11 For the stone shall cry out of the wall, and the beam out of the timber shall answer it.

12 Woe vnto him that buildeth a towne with blood, and erecteth a citie by iniquitie.

13 Behold, is it not of the Lord of hosts, that the people shall labour in the very fire: the people shall euen weare themselves for very vanitie.

14 For the earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord, as the waters couer the sea.

15 Woe vnto him that giueth his neighbour to drinke: thou lovest thine hate, and makest him drunken also, that thou mayest see their privities.

16 Thou art filled with shame for glorie: drinke thou also and be made naked: the cup of the Lords right hand shall be turned vnto thee, and shameful spring shall be for thy glory.

17 For the crueltye of Lebanon shall couer thee: so shall the people of the beastes, which made them afraid, because of mens blood, and for the wrong done in the land, in the citie, and to all that dwell therein.

18 What profiteth the image? for the maker thereof hath made it an image, and a teacher of lies, though hee that made it, trust therein, when he maketh dumbe idoles.

19 Woe vnto him that saith to the wood, Awake, and to the dumbe stone, Rise vp, it shall teach thee: behold, it is layed of Babylon: who as he was drunken with couetousnesse and crueltye, so hee prouoked others to the same, and inflamed them by his rage, and so in the ende brought them to shame. n Whereas thou thoughtest to haue glory of these thy doings, they shall turne to thy shame: for thou shalt drinke of the same cup with others in thy turne. o Because the Babylonians were cruell, not onely against other nations, but also against the people of God, which is meant by Lebanon, and the beasts therein, he sheweth that the like cruelty shall be executed against them. p He sheweth that the Babylonians gods could nothing auail them: for they were but blocks or stones, read Jer. 10. 8. q If thou wilt consider what it is, and how that it hath neither breath nor life, but is a dead thing.

g That is, the Medes and Persians that should destroy the Babylonians?

h Signifying, that the couetous man is the ruine of his owne house when as he thinketh to enrich it by cruelty and oppression.

i The stones of the house shall cry, and say that they are built of blood, and the wood shall answer, and say the same of it selfe.

k Meaning, that God will not deferre his vengeance long, but will come and destroy all their labors, as though they were consumed with fire.

A prayer for the faithfull, a The Prophet instructeth his people to pray vnto God not onely for their great finnes, but also for such as they had committed of ignorance.

b Thus the people were afraid when they heard Gods threatnings, & praised, c That is, the state of thy Church which is now ready to perish before it come to halfe a perfect age, which should be vnder Christ.

d Teman & Paran were neere Sinai where the Law was giuen: whereby is signified that his deliuerance was as present now as it was then.

e Whereby is meant a power that was ioyned with his brightness, which was hid to the rest of the world, but was reuealed in mount Sinai to his people, f Signifying that God hath wonderfull meanes, and ever had a marueilous power when he would deliuer his Church.

3 God commeth from a Teman, and the Holy one from mount Paran, Selah, his glory couereth the heauens, and the earth is full of his praise,

4 And his brightnesse was as the light: hee had hornes coming out of his hands, and there was the hiding of his power.

5 Before him went the pestilence, and burning coales went forth before his feet.

6 He stood and measured the earth: hee beheld and dissolued the nations, and the everlasting mountains were broken, and the ancient hills did bow: his waves are euerlasting.

7 For his iniquitie I sawe the tents of Cushan, and the curtains of the land of Midian did tremble.

8 Was the Lord angry against the rivers? or was thine anger against the floods? or was thy wrath against the sea, that thou diddest ride vpon thine horses: thy charers brought saluation.

9 Thy bowe was manifestly reuealed, and the iohes of the tribes were a sure word,

10 But I will reioyce in the Lord: I will loy in the God of my saluation.

Selah, thou wilt biddest cleane the earth with rivers.

10 The mountaynes saw thee, and they trembled: the streame of the water passed by: the deepe made a noyle, and lift vp his hand on high.

11 The Sunne and Moone stood still in their habitation: at the light of thine arrows they went, and at the bright shining of thy speares.

12 Thou trodest downe the land in anger, and diddest chace the heathen in displeasure.

13 Thou wentest forth for the saluation of thy people, euen for saluation with thine arrow: thou hast wounded the head of the house of the wicked, and discouered the foundations vnto the necke, Selah.

14 Thou diddest strike the thorow with his bowne stauers the heads of his villages: they came out as a whirlewinde to scatter mee: their reioycing was as to deuoure the poore secretly.

15 Thou diddest walke in the Sea with thine horses vpon the heape of great waters.

16 When I heard, my belly trembled: my lips shooke at the voyce: rottennesse entered into my bones, and I trembled in my selfe, that I might rest in the day of trouble: for when hee commeth vnto the people, he shall destroy them.

17 For the fig tree shall not flourish, neither shall fruit bee in the vines: the labour of the Olive shall faile, and the fi. ldes shall yeeld no meate: the sheepe shall bee cut off from the fold, and there shall bee no bullocke in the stables.

18 But I will reioyce in the Lord: I will loy in the God of my saluation.

19 The Lord God is my strength: he will make mee to walke vpon mine high places.

20 To the chiefe singer on Regimoth.

He sheweth that the faithfull can neuer haue true rest, except they feele before the weight of Gods iudgements. x That is, the enemy: but the godly shall be quiet, knowing that all things shall turne to good vnto them. y Hee declareth wherein standeth the comfort and ioy of the faithfull, though they see neuer so great afflictions prepared. z The chiefe singer vpon the instruments of musike shall haue occasion to praise God for this great deliuerance of his Church.

THE ARGUMENT.

Seeing the great rebellion of the people, and that there was now no hope of amendment, hee denounceth the great iudgement of God which was at hand, shewing that their countrey should be utterly destroyed, and they caried away captiues by the Babylonians. Yet for the comfort of the faithfull, he prophesied of Gods vengeance against their enemies, as the Philistims, Moabites, Assyrians and others, to assure them that God had a continuall care ouer them. And as the wicked should be punished for their finnes and transgressions: so he exhorteth the godly to patience, and to trust to finde mercy by reason of the free promise of God made vnto Abraham: and therefore quietly to abide till God shew them the effect of that grace, whereby in the ende they should be gathered vnto him, and counted as his people and children, 9 In the same day also will I visite all those that daunce vpon the thresholds so proudly, which fill their masters houses by cruelty and deceit.

10 And in that day, saith the Lord, there shall be a noise, and cry from the sitting gate, and an howling from the second gate, and a great destruction from the hills.

THE ARGUMENT.

When the time of the seuentie yeeres captiuitie, prophesied by Ieremiah, was expired, God raised vp Haggai, Zechariah and Malachi to comfort the Iewes, & to exhort them to the building of the Temple, which was a figure of the spirikall Temple and Church of God, whose perfection and excellencie stood in Christ. And because that all were giuen to their owne pleasures and commodities, he declareth that that plague of famine, which God sent then among them, was a iust reward of their ingratitude, in that they contemned Gods honour, who had deliuered them. Yet he comforteth them, if they will returne to the Lord, with the promise of greater felicitie, forasmuch as the Lord will finish the worke that he hath begun, and send Christ whom hee had promised, and by whom they shall attaine to perfit ioy and glory.

CHAP. I.

1 The time of the prophesie of Haggai. 8 An exhortation to build the Temple againe.

a Who was the sonne of Hiftaspis, and the third king of the Persians, as some thinke.

b Because the building of the Temple began to cease by reason that the people were discouraged by their enemies: and if these two notable men had need to be stirred vp, and admonished of their duties, what shall we thinke of other gouernors, whole doings are either against God, or very cold in his cause?

c Not that they condemned the building thereof, but they preferred policy and priuate profite to religion, being content with small beginnings.

d Shewing that they sought not onely their necessities, but their very pleasures before Gods honour.

e Consider the plagues of God vpon you for preferring your policies to his religion, and because yee seeke not him first of all. f Meaning, that they should leaue off their own commodities, and goe forward in the building of Gods Temple, and in the setting forth of his religion. g That is, I will heare your prayers according to my promise, 1. King. 8. 21, 39. h That is, my glory shall be set forth by you. i And so bring it to nothing.

In the second yeere of king Darius, in the first moneth, the first day of the moneth, came the word of the Lord by the ministerie of the Prophet Haggai vnto Zerubbabel the sonne of Shealtiel, a prince of Iudah, and to Iehoshua the sonne of Iehozadak, the hie Priest, saying,

2 Thus speaketh the Lord of hostes, saying, This people say, The time is not yet come, that the Lords house should be builded.

3 Then came the word of the Lord by the ministerie of the Prophet Haggai, saying,

4 Is it time for your selues to dwell in your shiled houses, and this house lie waste?

5 Now therefore thus saith the Lord of hostes, Consider your own wayes in your hearts.

6 Ye haue sown much, and bring in little: ye eat, but ye haue not enough: ye drinke, but ye are not filled: ye clothe you, but ye be not warme: and he that earneth wages, putteth the wages into a broken bag.

7 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Consider your owne wayes in your hearts.

8 Goe vp to the mountaine, and bring wood, and build this house: and I will be fauourable in it, and I will be glorified, saith the Lord.

9 Ye looked for much, and loe, it came to little, and when yee brought it home, I did blow vpon it. And why, saith the Lord of hostes? because of mine house that is waste, and yee runne euery man vnto his owne house.

10 Therefore the heauen ouer you stayed it selfe from deaw, and the earth stayed her fruit.

11 And I called for a drought vpon the land, and vpon the mountaines, and vpon the corne, and vpon the wine, and vpon the people, vpon all that the ground bringeth forth, and vpon men and vpon cattell, and vpon all the labour of the hands.

12 When Zerubbabel the sonne of Shealtiel, and Iehoshua the sonne of Iehozadak the hie Priest with all the remnant of the people, heard the voyce of the Lord their God, and the words of the prophet Haggai, (as the Lord their God had sent him) then the people did feare before the Lord.

13 Then spake Haggai the Lords messenger in the Lordes message vnto the people, saying, I am with you, saith the Lord.

14 And the Lord stirred vp the spirit of Zerubbabel the sonne of Shealtiel, a prince of Iudah, and the spirit of Iehoshua the son of Iehozadak the hie Priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people, and they came, and did the work in the house of the Lord of hostes their God.

CHAP. II.

He sheweth that the glory of the second Temple should exceede the first.

In the foure & twentieth day of the first moneth, in the second yeere of king Darius,

2 In the seuenth moneth, in the one and twentieth day of the moneth, came the word of the Lord by the ministerie of the Prophet Haggai, saying,

3 Speake now to Zerubbabel the sonne of Shealtiel prince of Iudah, and to Iehoshua the sonne of Iehozadak the hie Priest, and to the residue of the people, saying,

4 Who is left among you, that saw this house in her first glory, and how do you see it now? is it not in your eyes, in comparison of it as nothing?

5 Yet now be of good courage. O Zerubbabel, saith the Lord, and be of good comfort O Iehoshua, sonne of Iehozadak the hie Priest: and be strong all yee people of the land, saith the Lord, and doe it: for I am with you, saith the Lord of hostes.

6 According to the word that I covenanted with you, when yee came out of Egypt: so my spirit shall remaine among you, feare ye not.

7 For thus sayeth the Lord of hostes, a little while, and I will shake the heauens, and the earth, and the sea, and the dry land.

though they see not as yet this Temple so glorious as the Prophets had declared: for this should be accomplished in Christ, by whom all things should be renewed, k This declared that God was the author of the doctrine, & that he was but the minister, as Exo. 14. 31. iud. 7. 20. act. 1. 28. l Which declareth that men are vnapt & dull to serue the Lord, neither can they obey his word or his me: slingers before God reforme their hearts, and giue them new spirits. Iohn 6. 44.

a For the people according as 16. 32. 1. and Ezek. 41. 1. had prophesied, thought this Temple should haue bene more excellent then Solomons Temple, which was destroyed by the Babylonians, but the Prophets meant the spirituall Temple, the Church of Christ.

b That is, goe forward in building the Temple. c He exhorteth them to patience, d Meaning Christ, whom all ought to look for and desire, or by desire, he may signifie all precious things, as riches and such like.

e Therefore when his time cometh, hee can make all the treasures of this world to serue his purpose, but the glory of this second Temple doth not stand in material things, neither can be built.

f Meaning, all spiritual blessings and felicity purchased by Christ, Phil. 4. 7.

g That is, the flesh of the sacrifices: whereby he signifieth that that thing which of it selfe is good cannot make another thing so:

and therefore they ought not to iustifie themselves by their sacrifices and ceremonies: but contrary, he that is vncleane and not pure of heart, doth corrupt these things, and make them detestable vnto God, which are good and godly. h Consider how God did plague you with famine afore you began to build the Temple.

8 And I will moue all nations, and the desire of all nations shall come, and I will fill this house with glory, sayth the Lord of hostes.

9 The silver is mine, and the gold is mine, sayth the Lord of hostes.

10 The glory of this last house shall be greater then the first, sayth the Lord of hostes: and in this place, will I giue peace, sayth the Lord of hostes.

11 In the foure and twentieth day of the ninth moneth, in the second yere of Darius, came the word of the Lord vnto the Prophet Haggai, saying,

12 Thus sayth the Lord of hostes, Aske now the Priests concerning the Law, & say, 13 If one beare holy flesh in the skirt of his garment, and with his skirt do touch the bread, or the portage, or the wine, or oyle, or any meat, shall it be holy? And the Priests answered, and said, No.

14 Then said Haggai, If a polluted person touch any of these, shall it be vncleane? And the Priests answered and said, It shall be vncleane.

15 Then answered Haggai, and said, So is this people, and so is this nation before me, sayth the Lord: and so are all the workes of their handes, and that which they offer here, is vncleane.

16 And now I pray you, consider in your minds: from this day, and afore, even afore a stone was laid vpon a stone in the Temple of the Lord:

17 Before these things were, when one came to an heap of twentie measures, there were but tenne: when one came to the Wine-presses for to draw out sicke vessels out of the press, there were but twentie.

18 I moue you with blasting, and with mildew, and with haile, in all the labours of your hands: yet you turned not to me, sayth the Lord.

19 Consider I pray you, in your mindes, from this day, and afore from the foure and twentieth day of the ninth moneth, even from the day that the foundation of the Lords temple was laid: consider it in your mindes.

20 Is the seed yet in the barn? as yet the vine, and the figge tree, and the pomegranate, and the Olive tree hath not brought forth: from this day will I blesse you.

21 And againe the word of the Lord came vnto Haggai in the foure and twentieth day of the moneth, saying, 22 Speake to Zerubbabel the prince of Iudah, and say, I will shake the heauens and the earth.

23 And I will ouerthrow the throne of kingdoms, and I will destroy the strength of the kingdoms of the heathen, and I will ouerthrow the charres, and those that ride in them, and the horse and the riders shall come downe, every one by the sword of his brother.

24 In that day, sayth the Lord of hostes, will I take thee, O Zerubbabel my seruant the sonne of Shealtiel, sayth the Lord, and will make thee as a signet: for I haue chosen thee, sayth the Lord of hostes.

That his dignitie should be most excellent, which thing was accomplished in Christ.

i That is, before the building was begun.

k From the time they began to build the Temple, he promisseth that God would blesse them: and albeit as yet the fruit was not come forth yet in the gathering they should haue plenty.

l He exhorteth them to patience and to abide till the harvest came and then they should see Gods blessings.

m I will make a change and renew all things in Christ of whom Zerubbabel there is a figure.

n Hereby he sheweth that there shall be no let or hinderance when God will make this wonderfull re-stitution of his Church.

o Signifying,

Zechariah.

THE ARGUMENT.

Two moneths after that Haggai had begun to prophesie, Zechariah was also sent of the Lord to helpe him in the labour, and to confirme the same doctrine. First therefore he pteeth them in remembrance for what cause God had so fore punished their fathers: and yet comforteth them, if they will repent vnto him, and not abuse this great benefit of God in their deliuerance, which was a figure of that true deliuerance, that all the faithfull should haue from death and sinne, by Christ. But because they still remained in their wickednesse and coldnesse to set forth Gods glory, and were not yet made better by their long banishment, he rebuketh them most sharply: yet for the comfort of the repentant, he euer mixeth the promise of grace, that they might by this meanes bee prepared to receiue Christ, in whom all should be sanctified to the Lord.

CHAP. I.

2 Hee exhorteth the people to returne to the Lord, and to eschew the wickednesse of their fathers. 17 He signifieth the restitution of Ierusalem and the Temple.

In the eight moneth of the second yere of Darius, came the word of the Lord vnto Zechariah the sonne of Berechiah, the sonne of Iddo the Prophet, saying,

2 The Lord hath bene sore displeased with your fathers.

3 Therefore say thou vnto them, Thus sayth the Lord of hostes, Turne ye vnto mee, sayth the Lord of hostes, and I will turne vnto you, sayth the Lord of hostes.

4 Bee ye not as your fathers, vnto whom e He speaketh this to feare them with Gods iudgements, that they should not prouoke him as their fathers had done, whom he so grievously punished.

d Let your fruites declare that you are Gods people, and that hee hath wrought in you by his Spirit, and mortified you: for else man hath no power to returne to God, but God must conuert him, as Ierem. 31. 18, Lament. 5. 22, Isaiah 21. 8, and 31. 6, and 45. 21.

the

a Who was the sonne of Hystaspis.

b This was not that Zechariah, whereof is mention,

2. Chro. 24. 20, but had the same name, and is called the sonne of Berechiah, as he was, because he came of those progenitors, as of Ioiada or Berechiah, and Iddo.

*Jerem. 3. 12.

e Though your fathers be dead, yet Gods iudgements in punishing them ought still to be before your eyes: and though the Prophets be dead, yet their doctrine remaineth for ever, 2. Pet. 1. 15. f Seeing ye ſaw the force of my doctrine in punishing your fathers, why doe not ye feare the threatnings contained in ſame, and declared by my Prophets? g As men alſo niſhed with my iudgements, and not that they were touched with true repentance.

h Which contained part of January and part of February. i This viſion ſignifieth the reſtauration of the Church, but as yet it ſhould not appeare to man es, which is here meant by the night, by the bottome, and by the myrrhe trees, which are black and giue a darke ſhadow: yet he compareth God to a King, who hath his poſtes and meſſengers abroad, by whom hee ſtill worketh his pu poſe, and bringeth his matters to paſſe. k Who was the chiefe among the reſt of the horſemen. l Theſe ſignified the diuers offices of Gods Angels, by whom God ſometime puniſheth, and ſometime comforteth and bringeth forth his works in diuers ſorts. m That is, Chriſt the Mediatour prayed for the ſalvation of his Church, which was now troubled, when all the countreys about them were at reſt. n Though for a time God deferre his helpe and comfort from his Church, yet this declareth that he loveth them ſtill moſt dearly, as a moſt mercifull Father his children, or an husband his wife, and when it is expedient for them, his helpe is ever ready. o In deſtroying the reprobate, I ſhewed my ſelfe but a little angry toward my Church, but the enemy would haue deſtroyed them alſo, and conſidered not the end of my chaſtiſements.

the former Prophets haue cryed, ſaying, Thus ſayth the Lord of hoſtes, Turne you now from your euill wayes, and from your wicked workes: but they would not heare nor hearken vnto me, ſaith the Lord.

5 Pour fathers, where are they? and doe the Prophets liue for ever?

6 But did not my wordes and my ſtatutes, which I commaunded by my ſeruants the Prophets, take holde of your fathers? And they returned, and ſaid, As the Lord of hoſtes hath determined to doe vnto vs according to our owne wayes, and according to our workes, ſo hath hee dealt with vs.

7 Upon the foure and twentieth day of the eleventh moneth, which is the moneth Shebat, in the ſecond yeere of Darius, came the word of the Lord vnto Zechariah the ſonne of Berechiah, the ſonne of Iddo the Prophet, ſaying,

8 I ſaw by night, and behold, a man riſing vpon a red horſe, and he ſtood among the myrrhe trees that were in a bottome, and behinde him were there red horſes ſpeckled and white.

9 Then ſaid I, My Lord, What are theſe? And the Angel that talked with me, ſaid vnto mee, I will ſhew thee what theſe be.

10 And the man that ſtood among the myrrhe trees, answered and ſaid, Theſe are they whom the Lord hath ſent to go thorow the world.

11 And they answered the Angel of the Lord, that ſtood among the myrrhe trees, and ſaid, We haue gone thorow the world: and behold, all the world ſtretcheth ſtill, and is at reſt.

12 Then the Angel of the Lord answered, and ſaid, O Lord of hoſtes, how long wilt thou be vnmerciſull to Ieruſalem, and to the cities of Iudah, with whom thou haſt bene diſpleaſed now theſe threſcore and ten yeeres?

13 And the Lord answered the Angel that talked with me, with good wordes, and comfortable wordes.

14 So the Angel that communed with mee, ſaid vnto me, Cry thou, and ſpeake, Thus ſayth the Lord of hoſtes, I am iea- lous ouer Ieruſalem and Zion with a great zeale, 15 And am greatly angry againſt the careleſſe heathen: for I was angry but a little, and they helped forward the affliction.

16 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord, I will returne vnto Ieruſalem with tender mercy: mine houſe ſhall bee builded in it, ſaith the Lord of hoſtes, and a line ſhall be ſtretched vpon Ieruſalem.

17 Cry yet, and ſpeake, Thus ſayth the Lord of hoſtes, My cities ſhall yet be broken with plenty: the Lord ſhall yet comfort Zion, and ſhall yet chuſe Ieruſalem.

18 Then liſt I by mine eyes, and ſawe, and behold, foure hornes.

19 And I ſaid vnto the Angel that talked with me, What be theſe? And he answered me, Theſe are the hornes which haue ſcattered Iudah, Iſrael, and Ieruſalem.

20 And the Lord ſhewed me foure carpenters.

21 Then ſaid I, What come theſe to doe? And hee answered and ſaid, Theſe are the hornes which haue ſcattered Iudah ſo, that a man durſt not liſt vp his head: but theſe are come to ſtrap them, and to caſt out the hornes of the Gentiles, which liſt vp their horne ouer the land of Iudah to ſcatter it.

are Gods instruments, which with their mallets and hammers break theſe hard and ſtrong hornes, which would ouerthrow the Church, and I declare that none enemies horne is ſo ſtrong, but God hath an hammer to breake it in pieces.

CHAP. II.

The restoring of Ieruſalem and Iudah.

I liſt by mine eyes againe and looked, and behold, a man with a measuring line in his hand.

2 Then ſaid I, Whither goeſt thou? And hee ſaid vnto me, To meaſure Ieruſalem, that I may ſee what is the breadth thereof, and what is the length thereof.

3 And behold, the Angel that talked with mee, went forth: and another Angel went out to meet him,

4 And ſaid vnto him, Runne, ſpeake to this young man, and ſay, Ieruſalem ſhall be inhabited without walles, for the multitude of men and cattell therein.

5 For I ſaith the Lord, will be vnto her a wall of ſhee round about, and will be the glory in the mids of her.

6 Wo, wo, come forth, and flee from the land of the North, ſaith the Lord: for I haue ſcattered you into the foure windes of the heauen, ſaith the Lord.

7 Hauē thy ſelfe, O Zion, that dwelleſt with the daughter of Babel.

8 For thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, After this gloꝝy hath he ſent me vnto the nations, which ſpoiled you: for hee that toucheth among all their enemies. d To defend my Church, to feare the enemies, and to deſtroy them if they approach neere. e In mee they ſhall haue their full felicity & gloꝝy. f He calleth to them, which partly for feare, and partly for their owne eaſe remained ſtill in captivity, and ſo preferred their owne priuate commodities to the benefiſts of God promiſed in his Church. g As it was I that ſcattered you, ſo haue I power to reſtore you. h By fleeing from Babylon, and coming to the Church. i Seeing that God hath begun to ſhew his grace among you by deliuering you, he continueth the ſame ſtill toward you, and therefore ſendeth me his Angel and his Chriſt to deſend you from your enemies, that they ſhal not hurt you, neither by the way, nor at home.

A prophesie of Christ, and of his kingdome.

a He prayed to Christ the Medi- ator for the state of the Church.
b Which decla- reth that the faithfull haue not onely warre with flesh and blood, but with Satan himselfe and spirituall wickednesses, Ephes. 6. 12.
c That is, Christ speaketh to God as the mediator of his Church, that hee would rebuke Satan: and here hee sheweth himselfe to be the conti- nual preferuer of his Church.
d Meaning, that Iehoshua was wonderfully pre- ferued in the captiuitie, and now Satan sought to afflict and trouble him, when hee was doing his office.
e In respect of the glorious garments, and precious stones that the Priests did weare before the captiuitie: & by this contemptible state the Prophet signifieth that these small beginnings should be made excellent when Christ shall make the full restitution of his Church.
f Hee sheweth of what apparell he speaketh, which is, when our filthy sins are taken away, and we are clad with Gods mercies, which is meant of the spirituall restitution.
g The Prophet prayeth that besides the raiment, the Priest might also haue tire for his head accordingly, that is, that the dignity of the Priesthood might be perfect, and this was fulfilled in Christ, who was both Priest and King: and heere all such are con- demned, that can content themselves with any meane reformation in religion, seeing the Prophet desireth the perfection, and obtaineth it.

The vision of the golden Candlestick, and the expo- sition thereof.

a And the Angel that talked with mee, came againe and waked mee, as a man that is raised out of his sleepe.
2 And said vnto me, What seest thou? and I said, I haue looked, and beholde, a¹ candlestick all of golde with a bowle vpon the top of it, and his seuen lampes therin, and seuen² pipes to the lampes which were vpon the top thereof.
3 And two olive trees ouer it, one vpon the right side of the bowle, and the other vpon the left side thereof.
4 So I answered and spake to the An- gel that talked with me, saying, What are these, my Lord?
5 Then the Angel that talked with me, answered and said vnto mee, Knowest thou not what these bee? And I said, No, my Lord.
6 Then he answered and spake vnto me, saying, This is the word of the Lord vnto³ Zerubbabel, saying, Neither by⁴ an armie nor strength, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord of hostes.
7 Who art thou, O⁵ great mountaine, before Zerubbabel? thou shalt bee a plaine, and⁶ hee shall bring forth the head stone thereof, though he had no helpe of man.
c Who was a figure of Christ, and therefore this doctrine was di- rected to all the Church who are his body and members.
d Hee sheweth that Gods power onely is sufficient to preferue his Church, though he vse not mans help thereunto.
e He compareth the power of the aduersaries to a great mountaine, who thought the Iewes nothing in respect of them, and would haue hindered Zerubbabel, who represented Christ, whom the enemies labour daily to lea in the building of his Spirituall Temple, but all in vaine.
f Though the enemies thinke to stay this building, yet Zerut babel shall lay the highest stone thereof, and bring it to perfection, so that all the god- ly shall reioyce, and pray vnto God that hee would continue his grace and fauour toward the Temple.

b Which con- ueyed the oyle that dropped from the trees into the lampes, so that the light neuer failed: and this vision was to confirme the faithfull that God had suffi- cient power in himselfe to con- tinue his graces, and to bring his promise to passe, though he had no helpe of man.

g Meaning, the Prophet, that I am Christ, sent of my Father for the building and preservation of my spirituall Temple.
h Signifying, that al were discouraged at the small and poore beginnings of the Temple.
i Whereby he signifieth the plummet & line, that is, that Zerubbabel which represented Christ, should go forward with his building to the ioy and comfort of the godly though i world be against him, and though his for a while be discouraged, because they see not things pleasant to the eye. k That is, God hath seven eyes: meaning, a continual providence, so that neither Satan nor any power in the world can go about or bring any thing to passe to hinder his worke. Then I turned mee, and lifted vp mine eyes, and looked, and behold, a flying booke.

2 And he said vnto me, What seest thou? And I answered, I see a flying booke: the length thereof is twentie cubites, and the breadth thereof ten cubites.

3 Then said hee vnto mee, This is the curse that goeth forth ouer the whole earth: for every one that sweareth, shall be cut off, as well on this side, as on that: and euery one that sweareth, shall be cut off, as well on this side, as on that.

4 I will bring it forth, saith the Lord of hostes, and it shall enter into the house of the thick, and into the house of him that falsly sweareth by my Name: and it shall remaine in the mids of his house, and shall consume it, with the timber thereof, and stones thereof.

By the foure charrets he describeth the foure Monarchies.

Asaine, I turned and lift vp mine eyes and looked: and behold, there came foure charrets out from between two mountains, and the mountains were mountaines of brass.

m Because this could not be attributed to any one according to the Law, therefore it followeth that Iehoshua must represent the Messiah, who was both Priest and king in Meaning, Christ, of whom Iehoshua was the figure: for in Greeke they were both called Iesus. o That is, of himselfe, without the helpe of man. p Which declareth that none could build this Temple, whereof Haggai speaketh, but onely Christ: and therefore it was spirituall, and not materiall, Hag. ai. 2. 10. q Whereof Iehoshua had but a shadow. r The two offices of the Kingdome and Priesthood shall be so joynt together, that they shall be no more divided. s Who was also called Heldai. t He was also called Ioshiah. u That they may acknowledge their infirmities, which looked that all things should have bene restored incontinently: and of this their infidelity these two crownes shall remaine as tokens, Act. 1. 6. x That is, the Gentiles by the preaching of the Gospell shall helpe toward the building of this spirituall Temple. y If ye will beleue and remaine in the obedience.

11 Take euen silver and golde, and make crownes, and let them vpon the head of Iehoshua, the sonne of Iehozadak the high Priest.

12 And speake vnto him, saying, Thus speaketh the Lord of hostes, and saith, Behold the man whose name is the Branch, and he shall grow up out of his place, and he shall build the Temple of the Lord.

13 Then he shall build the Temple of the Lord, and he shall beare the glory, and shall sit and rule vpon his throne, and he shall be a Priest vpon his throne, and the counsell of peace shall be betwene them both.

14 And the crownes shall bee to Helcm, and to Tobiah, and to Jedaiah, & to Iehoshua the sonne of Sephantah, for a memoriall in the Temple of the Lord.

6 And when ye did eate, and when ye did drinke, did ye not eate for your selues, and drinke for your selues?

7 Should ye not heare the words which the Lord hath cryed by the ministry of the former Prophets when Ierusalem was inhabited, and in prosperitie, and the cities thereof round about her, when the South and the plaine was inhabited?

8 And the word of the Lord came vnto Zechariah, saying,

11 But they refused to hearken, and pulled away the shoulder, & stopped their eares that they should not heare.

12 Psea, they made their hearts as an adamant stone, lest they should heare the law, and the words which the Lord of hostes sent in his Spirit by the ministry of the former Prophets: therefore came a great wrath from the Lord of hostes.

13 Therefore it is come to passe, that as he cryed, and they would not heare, so they cryed, and I would not heare, saith the Lord of hostes.

CHAP. VIII.

2 Of the returne of the people vnto Ierusalem, and of the mercy of God toward them. 16 Of good works 20 The calling of the Gentiles.

A Gaine the word of the Lord of hostes came to me, saying,

2 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, I was zealous for Zion with great zealousie, and I was zealous for her with great wrath.

3 Thus saith the Lord, I will returne vnto Zion, and will dwell in the middes of Ierusalem: and Ierusalem shall be called a citie of truth, and the mountaine of the Lord

f For there were both of the people, and of the Priests which doubted, as touching this controuersie, besides them which as yet remained in Caldea, and reason of it as of one of the chiefe points of their religion.

g For they thought they had deserved toward God because of this fast which they inuented of themselves: & though fasting of it selfe be good, yet because they thought it a seruice toward God, and trusted therein, it is here reprobued.

i Did you not eate and drinke for your owne commoditie and necessitie? and so likewise ye did abstaine according to your own fantasies, & no after the precept of my law. i Hereby he contemneth their a I loued my city with a singular loue, so that I could not abide if any should doe her any iniurie. b Because she shall be faithfull & loyall toward me her husband.

e Though their enemies did greatly molest and trouble them, yet God would come and dwell among them, and so preserve them so long as nature would suffer them to live, and increate their children in great abundance.
d He sheweth wherein our faith standeth, that is, to believe that God can performe that which he hath promised, though it seeme neuer so vnpossible to man, Gen. 18. 14.

Rom. 4. 20.

e So that their returne shall not be in vaine: for God will accomplish his promise, and their prosperitie shall be sure and stable.

f Let neither respect of your private commodities, neither counsell of others, nor feare of enemies discourage you in the going forward with the building of the Temple, but be constant and obey the Prophets which encourage you thereunto.
g For God cursed your worke, so that neither man nor beast had profit of their labours, h Reade Ezek. 18. 20.

i Which declareth that man cannot turne to God, till hee change mans heart by his Spirit, and so beginne to doe well, which is to pardon his sinnes, and to give him his graces.

Lord of hostes, the holy mountaine.

4 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, There shall yet old men and olde women dwell in the streetes of Ierusalem, and every man with his staffe in his hand for very age.

5 And the streetes of the city shall be full of boyes and girles playing in the streets thereof.

6 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Though it be impossible in the eyes of the remnant of this people in these dayes, should it therefore be impossible in my sight, saith the Lord of hostes?

7 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Beholde, I will deliuer my people from the East country, and from the West country.

8 And I will bring them, and they shall dwell in the mids of Ierusalem, and they shall be my people, and I will be their God in truth and in righteousness.

9 Thus saith the Lord of hostes: Let your hands be strong, ye that heare in these dayes these words by the mouth of the Prophets, which were in the day that the foundation of the house of the Lord of hostes was laide, that the Temple might be builded.

10 For before these dayes there was no hire for man, nor any hire for beast, neither was there any peace to him that went out, or came in because of the affliction: for I set all men, every one against his neighbour.

11 But now I will not increate the residue of this people as aforetime, sayeth the Lord of hostes.

12 For the seede shall be prosperous: the vine shall giue her fruit, and the ground shall giue her increase, and the heauens shall giue their dew, and I will cause the remnant of this people to possesse all these things.

13 And it shall come to passe, that as yee were a curse among the heathen, O house of Iudah, and house of Israel, so will I deliuer you, and ye shall be a blessing: feare not, but let your hands be strong.

14 For thus saith the Lord of hostes, As I thought to punish you, when your fathers prouoked mee vnto wrath, saith the Lord of hostes, and repented not,

15 So againe haue I determined in these dayes: to doe well vnto Ierusalem, and to the house of Iudah: feare ye not.

16 These are the things that ye shall doe. Speake yee every man the truth vnto his neighbour: execute iudgement truly and rightly in your gates, 17 And let none of you imagine euill in your hearts against his neighbour, and loue no false oath: for all these are the things that I hate, saith the Lord.

18 And the word of the Lord of hostes came vnto me, saying,

19 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, The fast of the fourth moneth, and the fast of the fifth, and the fast of the seventh, and the fast of the tenth shall be to the house of Iudah for joy and gladnesse, and prosperous be their feasts: therefore loue the truth and peace.

20 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, That there shall yet come people, and the inhabitants of great cities.

21 And they that dwell in one city, shall goe to another, saying, Up, let vs goe and pray before the Lord, and seeke the Lord of hostes: I will goe also.

22 Yea, great people and mighty nations shall come to seeke the Lord of hostes in Ierusalem, and to pray before the Lord.

23 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, In those dayes shall ten men take hold out of all languages of the nations, euen take holde of the skirt of him that is a Jew, and say, We will goe with you: for wee haue heard that God is with you.

CHAP. IX.

1 The threatening of the Gentiles. 9 The coming of Christ.

The burden of the word of the Lord in the land of Hazrach: and Damascus shall be his rest: when the eyes of man euen of all the tribes of Israel shall be toward the Lord.

2 And Hamath also shall border there by: Tyrus also and Sidon, though they be very wise.

3 For Tyrus did build her selfe a strong hold, and heaped up siluer as the dust, and gold as the mire of the streets.

4 Behold, the Lord will spoile her, and hee will limite her power in the Sea, and she shall be deuoured with fire.

5 Ashkelon shall see it, and feare, and Azazah also shall be very sorrowfull, and Ekron: for her countenance shall be ashamed, and the king shall perish from Azazah, and Ashkelon shall not be inhabited.

6 And the stranger shall dwell in Ashdod, and I will cut off the pride of the Philistines.

7 And I will take away his blood out of his mouth, and his abominations from between his teeth, but hee that remaineth, euen hee shall be for our God, and he shall be as a prince in Iudah, but Ekron shall be as a Iebusite.

8 And I will campe about mine house against the armie, against him that passeth by, and against him that returneth, dome. f Though they of Tyrus thinke themselves invincible by reason of the Sea that compasseth them round about, yet they shall not escape Gods iudgements. g Meaning, that all should be destroyed save a very few, that should remaine as strangers. h Hee promiseth to deliuer the Iewes when hee shall take vengeance on their enemies for their cruelty, and wrongs done to them. i As the Iebusites had bene destroyed, so should Ekron and all the Philistines. k He sheweth that Gods power onely shall be sufficient to defend his Church against all aduersaries, be they neuer so cruel, or assemble their power neuer so often.

1 That is, God hath now seene the great iniuries and afflictions wherewith they haue bene afflicted by their enemies, m That is, hee hath righteousness and saluation in himselfe for the vie and commoditie of his Church.

n Which declareth that they should not looke for such a king as should be glorious in the eyes of man, but should be poore, and yet in himselfe haue all power to deliuer his: and this is meant of Christ, as Mat. 21. 5.

o No power of man or creature shall be able to let this kingdome of Christ, and hee shall peaceably gouerne them by his word.

p That is, from the red sea to the sea called Syriacum, and by these places which the Iewes knew he meant an infinite space and compasse ouer the whole world.

q That is from Euphrates. r Meaning, Ierusalem, or the Church which is saued by the blood of Christ, wherof the blood of the sacrifices was a figure, and is here called the couenant of the Church, because God made it with his Church, and left it with them for the loue that he bare vnto them. s God sheweth that he wil deliuer his Church out of all dangers, seeme they neuer so great. t That is, into the holy land, where the city and the Temple are, where God wil defend you. u Meaning, the faithfull, which seemed to be in danger of their enemies on euery side, and yet liued in hope that God would restore them to libertie. x That is, double benefites and prosperitie in respect of that, which your fathers enioyed from Dauid's time to the captiuitie. y I will make Iudah and Ephraim, that is, my whole Church, victorious against all enemies, which bee here meant by the Grecians. z He promisseth, that the Iewes shall destroy their enemies and haue abundance, and exesse of all things, as there is abundance on the Altar when the sacrifice is offered: Which things are not to moue them to intemperancie, but to sobrietie, and a thankfull remembrance of Gods great liberalitie. a The faithfull shall be preserved, and reuerenced of all, that the very enemies shall be compelled to esteeme them: for Gods glory shall shine in them, as Iosephus declareth of Alexander the great, when he met Iadi the high Priest, and no oppressour shall come vpon them any more: for now¹ haue I seene with mine eyes.

9 Reioyce greatly, O daughter Zion: shout for ioy, O daughter Ierusalem: behold thy King cometh vnto thee: hee is iust, and saued himselfe, poore, and riding vpon an asse, and vpon a colt the foale of an asse.

10 And I will cut off the charrets from Ephraim, and the horse from Ierusalem: the bowe of the battell shall bee broken, and hee shall speake peace vnto the heathen, and his dominion shall be from sea vnto sea, and from the riuer to the end of the land.

11 Thou also shalt be saued through the blood of thy Couenant, I haue loosed thy prisoners out of the pit wherein is no water.

12 Turne you to the strong holde, yee prisoners of hope: euen to day doe I declare, that I will render the double vnto thee.

13 For Iudah haue I bent as a bow for me: Ephraims hand haue I filled, and I haue raised vp thy sonnes, O Zion, against thy sonnes, O Grecia, and haue made thee as a grants word.

14 And the Lord shall be seene ouer them, and his arrow shall goe forth as the lightning: and the Lord God shall blow the trumpet, and shall come forth with the white winds of the South.

15 The Lord of hostes shall defend them, and they shall deuoure them, and subdue them with flaming stones, and they shall drinke, and make a noile as through wine, and they shall be filled like bowles, and as the hornes of the altar.

16 And the Lord their God shall deliuer them in that day as the flocke of his people: for they shall be as the stones of the crowne lifted vp vpon his land.

17 For how great is his goodnesse! and how great is his beautie! come shall make the yong men cheerefull, and new wine the maidens.

2 The vanitie of idolatry. 3 The Lord promisseth to visite and comfort the house of Irael.

Aske you of the Lord raine in the time of the latter raine: so shall the Lord make white clouds, and giue you shoures of raine, and to euery one grasse in the field.

2 Surely the idoles haue spoken vaine, and the soothsayers haue seene a lie, and the dreamers haue tolde a vaine thing, they comfort in vaine: therefore they went away as sheepe: they were troubled, because there was no shepheard.

3 My wrath was kindled against the shepheards, and I did visite the goats: but the Lord of hostes will visite his flocke the house of Iudah, and will make them as his beautifull horse in the battell.

4 Out of him shall the corner come forth: out of him the naile, out of him the bow of battell, and out of him euery appointer of tribute also.

5 And they shall bee as the mighty men, which tread downe their enemies in the mire of the streetes in the battell, and they shall fight, because the Lord is with them, and the riders and horses shall be confounded.

6 And I will strengthen the house of Iudah, and I will preserve the house of Ioseph, and I will bring them againe, for I pitty them, and they shall be as though I had not cast them off: for I am the Lord their God, and will heare them.

7 And they of Ephraim shall be as a giant, and their heart shall reioyce as through wine: yea, their children shall see it, and bee glad: & their heart shall reioyce in the Lord.

8 I will visite for them, and gather them: for I haue redeemed them: and they shall increase, as they haue increased.

9 And I will sowe them among the people, and they shall remember mee in farre countreyes: and they shall liue with their children, and turne againe.

10 I will bring them againe also out of the land of Egypt, and gather them out of Asshur: and I will bring them into the land of Silead and Lebanon, and place shall not be found for them.

11 And he shall goe into the Sea with affliction, and shall limite the waues in the sea, & all the depths of the river shall dry vp: and the pride of Asshur shall be cast downe, and the scepter of Egypt shall depart away.

12 And I will strengthen them in the Lord, and they shall walke in his Name, saith the Lord.

h That is, the ten tribes, which should be gathered vnder Christ to the rest of the Church. i Wherby he declareth the power of God, who needeth no great preparation when he wil deliuer his, for with a beck or hisse he can call them fro all places suddenly. k Though they shall yet be scattered, and seeme to be lost, yet it shall be profitable vnto them: for there they shall come to the knowledge of my Name which was accomplished vnder the Gospel, among whom it was first preached. l Not that they should returne into their countrey, but be gathered and ioined in one faith by the doctrine of the Gospel. m Hee alludeth to the deliuerance of the people out of Egypt, whereas the Angel smote the floods and riuers, a The Prophet reprooueth the Iewes, because by their owne infidelity they put back Gods graces promised, and so famine came by Gods iust iudgement: therefore to auoide this plague, he willett them to turne to God, and to pray in faith to him, and so he will giue them abundance.

b He calleth to remembrance Gods punishment in times past, because they trusted not in him, but in their idols, & sorcerers, who euer deceived them.

c That is, the Iewes went into captiuitie.

d Meaning, the cruell gouernors which did oppress the poore sheepe, Ezek. 34. 16, 17.

e He wil be mercifull to his Church, and cheere them as a King or Prince doeth his best horse which shall be for his owne vie in the warre.

f Out of Iudah shall the chiefe gouernour proceede, who shall be as a corner to uphold the building, and as a naile to fasten it together.

g Over their enemies,

CHAP. XI.

1 The destruction of the Temple. 4 The care of the faithfull is committed to Christ. 7 A grievous vision against Jerusalem and Iudah.

a Because the Jewes thought themselves so strong by reason of this mountain, that no enemy could come to hurt them, the Prophet sheweth that when God sendeth the enemies, it shall shew it selfe ready to receive them.
b Shewing, that if the strong men were destroyed, the weaker were not able to resist.
c Seeing that Lebanon was destroyed, which was the strongest munition, the weaker places could not thinke to hold out.
d That is, the renowne of Iudah and Israel should perish.
e Which being now destinate to be slaine, were deliuered as out of the Lions mouth.
f Their gouernours destroy them without any remorse of conscience, or yet thinking that they doe euill.

g He noteth the hypocrits which euer haue the Name of God in their mouthes, though in their life & doings they deny God, attributing their gaine to Gods blessing, which cometh of the spoile of their brethren. h I will cause one to destroy another. i The gouernours shall execute crueltie ouer them. k That is, the small remnant, whom he thought worthy to shew mercy vnto. l God sheweth his great benefites toward his people, to conuince them of greater ingratitude, which would neuer be ruled by his most beautifull order of gouernment, neither continue in the bands and brotherly vntie, and therefore he breaketh both the one and the other. Some reade for Bands, Destroyers, but in the 14. verse the first reading is confirmed. m Whereby he sheweth his care and diligence, that he would suffer them to haue no euil rulers, because they should consider his great loue. n Meaning the people, because they would not acknowledge these great benefites of God. o He sheweth that the least are euer profited by Gods iudgements. p Besides their ingratitude, God acculeth them of malice and wickednesse, which did not onely forget his benefites, but esteemed them as things of nought. q Shewing that it was too little to pay his wages, which could scarcely suffice to make a few tiles for to cover the Temple.

O Pen thy doores, O Lebanon, and the fire shall deuoure thy cedars.

2 Howle^b fire trees: for the cedar is fallen, because all the mighty are destroyed: howle ye, O oaks of Balhan, for the^c defended forest is cut downe.

3 There is the voyce of the howling of the shepheards: for their^d glory is destroyed: the voyce of the roaring of lions whelps: for the pride of Iorden is destroyed.

4 Thus saith the Lord my God, Feede the sheepe of the^e slaughter.

5 They that possesse them, slay them, and sinne not: and they that sell them, say, Blessed bee the Lord: for I am rich, and their owne shepheards spare them not.

6 Surely, I will no more spare those that dwell in the land, sayeth the Lord: but loe,

7 I will deliuer the men euery one into his neighbours hands, and into the hand of his king: and they shall sinne the land, and out of their hands I will not deliuer them.

8 For I fed the sheepe of slaughter, even the^k poore of the flocke, and I tooke vnto mee^l two staues: the one I called Beauty, and the other I called Bands, and I fed the sheepe.

9 Then shepheards also I cut off in one moneth, and my soule loathed^m them, and their soule abhorred me.

10 Then said I, I will not feed you: that that dieth, let it die: and that that perisheth, let it perish: and let the remnant eate, euery one the flesh of his neighbour.

11 And I tooke my staffe, euen Beautie, and brake it, that I might dissuall my couenant, which I had made with all people.

12 And it was broken in that day: and so theⁿ poore of the sheepe that waited vpon me, knew that it was the word of the Lord.

13 And I said vnto them, If yee thinke it good, giue me^p my wages: and if no, leaue off: so they weighed for my wages thirtie pieces of silver.

14 And the Lord said vnto mee, Cast it

15 vnto the^q potter: a goodly price that I was valued at of them. And I tooke the thirtie pieces of silver, and cast them to the potter in the house of the Lord.

16 Then brake I mine other staffe, euen the Bands, that I might dissolue the brotherhood betwene Iudah and Israel.

17 And the Lord said vnto mee, Take to thee yet^r the instruments of a foolish sheheard.

18 For loe, I will raise vp a sheheard in the land, which shall not looke for the thing that is lost, nor seeke the tender lambs, nor heale that which is hurt, nor feede that that standeth by: but he shall eate the flesh of the fat, and reare their clawes in pieces.

19 I idole sheheard that leaueth the flocke: the sword shall bee vpon his^s arme, and vpon his right eye. His arme shall bee cleane dyed w^t, and his right eye shall be utterly darkened.

and sound. t By the arme he signifieth strength, as he doth wisdom and iudgement by the eye: that is, the plague of God shall take away both thy strength and iudgement.

CHAP. XII.

Of the destruction and building againe of Ierusalem.

The burden of the word of the Lord vpon Israel, sayeth the Lord, which spread the heauens, and laid the foundation of the earth, and formed the spirit of man withy^u him.

2 Behold, I will make Ierusalem a^v cup of poyson vnto all the people round about: and also with Iudah will he be in the siege against Ierusalem.

3 And in that day will I make Ierusalem an heauie stone for all people: all that lift it vp shall be to yne, though all the people of the earth be gathered together against it.

4 In that day sayeth the Lord, I will sinne euery horse with astonishment, and his rider with madnesse, and I will open mine eyes vpon the house of Iudah, and will sinne euery horse of the people with blindness.

5 And the princes of Iudah shall lay in their hearts, The^w inhabitants of Ierusalem shall be my strength in the Lord of hosts their God.

6 In that day will I make the princes of Iudah like coles of fire among the wood, and like a firebrand in the sheaf, and they shall deuoure all the people round about on the right hand and on the left: and Ierusalem shall be inhabited againe in her owne place, euen in Ierusalem.

7 The Lord also shall preserve the tents of Iudah, as a forerime: therefore the glory of the house of David shall not boast, nor the glory of the inhabitants of Ierusalem against Iudah.

8 In that day shall the Lord defend the inhabitants of Ierusalem, and he that is feeble among them, in that day shall be as David: and the house of David shall be as Gods house, and as the Angel of the Lord before them.

9 And in that day will I seeke to destroy all the nations that come against Ierusalem.

10 And I will powre vpon the house of r Signifying, that they should haue a certaine kinde of regiment, and outward shew of gouernment: but in effect it should be nothing: for they should be wolues and deuouring beasts in stead of shepheards.

f And in health, as he doth wisdom and iudgement by the eye: that is, the plague of God shall take away both thy strength and iudgement.

a That is, the ten tribes which neglected Gods benefite in delusi^ung their brethren, & had rather remaine in captiuitie, then to returne home when God called them.

b Ierusalem shall be defended against all her enemies: so shall God defend all Iudah also, and shall destroy^v enemies.

c Euery captaine that had many vnder him afore, shall now thinke that the small power of Ierusalem shall be sufficient to defend them against all enemies, because the Lord is among them.

d The people which are now as it were dispersed by the fields, and lie open to the enemies, shall be no lesse preferred by my power, then if they were vnder their kings,

e The people which are now as it were dispersed by the fields, and lie open to the enemies, shall be no lesse preferred by my power, then if they were vnder their kings,

f And in health, as he doth wisdom and iudgement by the eye: that is, the plague of God shall take away both thy strength and iudgement.

e They shall haue the feeling of my grace by faith, and know that I haue compassion on them.

f That is, whom they haue continually vexed with their obstinacie, & grieved my spirit, Ioh. 19 37. where it is referred to Christs body, which here is referred to the Spirit of God.

g They shall turne to God by true repentance, whom before they had so grievously offended by their ingratitude. h They shall lament and repent exceedingly for their offences against God, i Which was the name of a towne and place neere vnto Megiddo, where Iosiah was slaine, 2. Chron. 35 22. k That is, in all places where the Iewes shall remaine, l Signifying, that this mourning or repentance should not be a vaine ceremony: but every one touched with his owne griefe shall lament. m Vnder these certaine families he containeth all the tribes, & sheweth that both the Kings and the Priests had by their sinnes pierced Christ. n Called also Simcon, o To wit, which were elected by grace, and preferred from the common destruction.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Of the fountaine of grace, 2 Of the cleane riddance of idolatry, 3 The zeale of the godly against false prophets.

In that day there shall be a fountaine opened to the house of David, and to the inhabitants of Ierusalem, for sinne and for uncleanness.

2 And in that day sayeth the Lord of hosts, I will cut off the names of the idoles out of the land: and they shall no more be remembered: and I will cause the prophets, and the vncleane spirit to depart out of the land.

3 And when any shall yet prophesie, his father and his mother that begate him shall say vnto him, Thou shalt not live: for thou speakest lies in the name of the Lord: and his father and his mother that begate him, shall thrust him through, when hee prophesie.

4 And in that day shall the prophets be ashamed every one of his vision, when hee hath prophesied: neither shall they weare a rough garment to deccieue.

5 But he shall say, I am no prophet: I am an husbandman: for man taught mee to be a herdsman from my youth vp.

6 And one shall say vnto him, What are d That is, when they shall prophesie lies, and make God, which is the author of trueth, a cloake the euill. e He sheweth what zeale the godly shall haue vnder the kingdome of Christ, Deut. 19 6, 9. f God shall make them ashamed of their errors & lies, and bring them to repentance, and they shall no more weare Prophets apparell, to make their doctrine seeme more holy. g They shall confesse their former ignorance, and be content to labour for their living.

these wounds in thine handes? Then hee shall answer, Thus was I wounded in the house of my friends.

7 Arise, O sword, vpon my shepherd, and vpon the man that is my fellow, saith the Lord of hosts: smite the shepherd, and the sheepe shall be scattered, and I will turne mine hand vpon the little ones.

8 And in all the land, sayeth the Lord, two parts therein shall bee cut off, and die: but the third shall be left therein.

9 And I will bring that third part thorow the fire, and will fine them as the siluer is fined, and will try them as golde is tryed: they shall call on my name, and I will heare them: and will say, It is my people, and they shall say, The Lord is my God.

fore this great comfort shall come vnder Christ, there should be an horrible dissipation among the people: for their gouernours and pastors should be destroyed, and the people should be as scattered sheepe: and the Euangelist applyeth this to Christ, because hee was the head of all pastors, Mat. 26 31. k The greatest part shall haue no portion of these blessings, & yet they that shall enioy them, shall be tried with great afflictions, so that it shall be known that onely Gods power and his mercies doe preserve them.

CHAP. XIII.

8 Of the doctrine that shall proceed out of the Church, and of the restoration thereof.

Behold, the day of the Lord cometh, and they spoule shall bee diuided in the mids of thee.

2 For I will gather all nations against Ierusalem to battell, and the citie shall be taken, and the houses spoyled, and the women defiled, and halfe of the citie shall goe into captivity, and the residue of the people shall not be cut off from the citie.

3 Then shall the Lord goe forth and fight against those nations, as when he fought in the day of battell.

4 And his feete shall stand in that day vpon the mount of olives, which is before Ierusalem on the East side, and the mount of olives shall cleane in the middes thereof: toward the East and toward the West there shall bee a very great valley, and halfe of the mountaine shall remooue toward the North, and halfe of the mountaine toward the South.

5 And yee shall flee vnto the valley of the mountaines: for the valley of the mountaines shall reach vnto Azal: yea, yee shall flee like as yee fled from the earthquake in the dayes of Uzziah King of Iudah: and the Lord my God shall come, and all the saints with thee.

6 And in that day shall there be no cleare light, but darke.

7 And there shall be a day (it is known to d So that out of all the parts of the world they shall see Ierusalem, which was before hid with this mountaine: and this he meaneth of the spirituall Ierusalem the Church. e He speaketh of the hypocrites, which could not abide Gods presence, but should flee into all places, where they might hide them among the mountaine. f Read Amos 1. 1. g Because they did not credit the Prophets wordes, he turneth to God, and comforte himselfe in that that hee knew that these things should come, and saith, Thou, O God, with thine Angels wilt come to performe this great thing.

h Hereby he sheweth that though their parents and friends dealt more gently with them, & put them not to death, yet they would so punish their children that became false prophets, that the markes and signes should remaine for euer. i The Prophet warneth the Iewes, that bea He armeth the godly against the great tentations that should come before they enjoyed this prosperous estate promised vnder Christ, that when these dangers should come, they might know that they were warned of them before. b As your fathers and you haue had experience both at the red sea and at all other times. c By this manner of speech the Prophet sheweth Gods power and care ouer his Church, and how he will as it were by miracle save it.

h Signifying, that there should be great troubles in the Church, & that the time hercof is in the Lords hands, yet at length (which is here meant by the evening) God would lend comfort.

i That is, the spirituall graces of God, which should ever continue in most abundance.

k All idolatry & superstition shall be abolished, and there shall be one God, one faith, & one religion.

l This new Jerusalem shall be scene through all the world, and shall excell the first in excellencie, wealth, and greatnesse.

m God will not onely raise vp war without, but sedition at home to trie them.

n To hurt and oppresse him.

(the Lord) neither day nor night, but about the evening time it shall be light.

8 And in that day shall there waters of life goe out from Jerusalem, halfe of them toward the East sea, and halfe of them toward the uttermost sea, and shall be both in summer and winter.

9 And the Lord shall be King over all the earth: in that day shall there be one Lord, and his Name shall be one.

10 All the land shall be turned as a plaine from Geba to Rimmon, toward the South of Jerusalem, and it shall be lifted up, and inhabited in her place: from Beniamins gate unto the place of the first gate, unto the corner gate, and from the towre of Hananial, unto the Kings winepresses.

11 And men shall dwell in it, and there shall be no more destruction, but Jerusalem shall be safely inhabited.

12 And this shall bee the plague wherewith the Lord will smite all people that haue fought against Jerusalem: their flesh shall consume away, though they stand upon their feete, and their eyes shall consume in their holes, and their tongue shall consume in their mouth.

13 But in that day a great tumult of the Lord shall be among them, and every one shall take the hand of his neighbour, and his hand shall rise up against the hand of his neighbour.

14 And Judah shall fight also against Jerusalem, and the arme of all the heathen shall be gathered round about, with gold and silver, and great abundance of apparrell.

15 Yet this shall be the plague of the horse, of the mule, of the camell, and of the ass, and of all the beasts that be in these tents as this plague.

16 But it shall come to passe that every one that is left of all the nations, which came against Jerusalem, shall goe up from yeere to yeere to worship the King the Lord of hosts, and to keepe the feast of Tabernacles.

17 And who so will not come up of all the families of the earth unto Jerusalem to worship the King the Lord of hosts, even upon them shall come no raine.

18 And if the familie of Egypt goe not up, and come not, it shall not raine upon them. This shall be the plague wherewith the Lord will smite all the heathen that come not up to keepe the feast of Tabernacles.

19 This shall bee the punishment of Egypt, and the punishment of all the nations, that come not up to keepe the feast of Tabernacles.

20 In that day shall there bee written upon the bridles of the horses, The holiness unto the Lord, and the pots in the Lords house shall be like the bowles before the altar.

21 Yea, every pot in Jerusalem and Judah shall be holy unto the Lord of hosts, and all they that sacrifice, shall come and take of them, and seeke therein: and in that day there shall bee no more the Canaanite in the house of the Lord of hosts.

b The enemies are rich, and therefore shall not come for a pray, but to destroy and shed blood.

p As the men should be destroyed, ver. 12.

q By the Egyptians which were greatest enemies to true religion, he meaneth all the Gentiles.

r Signifying, that to what service they were put now (whether to labour, or to serve in warre) they were now holy, because the Lord had sanctified them.

s As precious the one as the other, because they shall be sanctified.

t But all shall be pure and cleane, and there shall neither be hypocrite, nor any that shall corrupt the true service of God.

Malachi.

THE ARGUMENT.

His Prophet was one of the three, which God raised up for the comfort of his Church after the captivity, and after him there was no more untill Iohn Baptist was sent, which was either a token of Gods wrath, or an admonition that they should with more seruen desiree looke for the coming of Messiah. He confirmeth the same doctrine that the two former doe, but chiefly he reproveth the Priests for their couetousnesse, and for that they served God after their owne fantasies, and not according to the prescript of his word. He also noteth certaine peculiar sinnes, which were then among them, as marrying idolatrous and many wives, murmurings against God, impaciencie, and such like. Notwithstanding for the comfort of the godly, hee declareth that God would not forget his promise made unto their fathers, but would send Christ his messenger, in whom the covenant should bee accomplished, whose coming should be terrible to the wicked, and bring all consolation and joy vnto the godly.

CHAP. I.

A complaint against Israel, and chiefly the Priests.

Be burden of the word of the Lord to Israel by the ministry of Malachi.

2 I haue loved you, saith the Lord: yet ye say, Wherein hast thou loved vs? Was not Elau Iacob's brother, saith the Lord? yet I loved Iacob.

3 And I hated Elau, and made his mountain waste, and his heritage a wilderness for dragons. 4 Though Edom say, We are impouertished, and we will returne, but build the desolate places, yet saith the Lord of hosts, They shall build, but I will destroy it, and they shall call them, The border of wickednesse, and the people with whom the Lord is angry for ever. 5 And your eyes shall see it, and ye shall say, The Lord will bee magnified upon the border of Israel. 6 A sonne honoureth his father, and a seruant his master: If then I be a father, where is mine honour? And if I be a master, where is my feare, saith the Lord of hosts vnto you, O priests that despise my Name: and ye say, Wherein haue we despised thy Name? Hee noteth their grosse hypocrisie, which would not see their fautes, but most impudently couered them. & so were blind guides.

b Which declarereth their great ingratitude, that did not acknowledge this loue, which was to euident, in that he chose Abraham from out of all the world, and next chose Iacob his yonger brother of whom they came, and left Elau the elder. c For besides that the signes of mine hatred appeared euen when hee was made seruant vnto his yonger brother, being yet in his mothers belly, and also afterwards in that he was put from his birthright, yet euen now before your eyes the signes hereof are euident, in that that his countrey lieth waste, and he shall neuer returne to inhabit it, whereas ye my people, whom the enemy hated more then them, are by my grace and loue toward you deliuered, Reade Rom. 9. 13.

mountaines waste, and his heritage a wilderness for dragons.

4 Though Edom say, We are impouertished, and we will returne, but build the desolate places, yet saith the Lord of hosts, They shall build, but I will destroy it, and they shall call them, The border of wickednesse, and the people with whom the Lord is angry for ever.

5 And your eyes shall see it, and ye shall say, The Lord will bee magnified upon the border of Israel.

6 A sonne honoureth his father, and a seruant his master: If then I be a father, where is mine honour? And if I be a master, where is my feare, saith the Lord of hosts vnto you, O priests that despise my Name: and ye say, Wherein haue we despised thy Name?

e Hee noteth their grosse hypocrisie, which would not see their fautes, but most impudently couered them. & so were blind guides.

f Ye receiue all manner offerings for your owne greedinesse, and doe not examine whether they be according to my Law or no.

g Not that they said thus: but by their doings they declared no lesse.

h You make it no fault: where-by he condem-neth them that thinke it sufficient to serue God partly as he hath commanded, and partly after mans fantasie, and so come not to that purenes of religio which he requirerh, and therefore in reproch he sheweth them that a mortall man would not be content to be so serued.

i He derideth the Priests, who bare the people in hand, that they prayed for them, and sheweth that they werethe occasion, that these euils came vpon the people.

k Will God consider your office and state, seeing ye are so coustous and wicked? l Because the Leuites who kept the doores, did not try whether the sacrifices that came in, were according to the Law, God witheth that they would rather shut the doores, then to receiue such as were not perfect. m God sheweth that their ingratitude, & neglect of his true seruite, shalbe the cause of the calling of the Gentiles, and here the Prophet that was vnder the Law, framed his words to the capacite of the people, and by the Altar and sacrifice he meaneth the spirituall seruite of God, which should be vnder the Gospell, when an end should be made to all these legall ceremonies by Christes onely sacrifice. n Both the Priests and the people were infected with this error that they passed not what was offered: for they thought that God was as well content with the leane as with the fat: but in the meane season they shewed not that obedience to God which he required, and so committed both impietie. and also shewed their contempt of God and couerousnesse. o The Priests and people were both weary with seruing God, and passed not what manner of sacrifice and seruite they gaue to God: for that which was least profitable, was thought good enough for the Lord. p That is, hath abilitie to serue the Lord according to his word, and yet wil serue him according to his couetous minde.

CHAP. II.

Threatnings against the Priests, being seducers of the people.

7 Yee offer vncleane bread vpon mine altar, and you say, Wherin haue we polluted thee? In that yee say, The table of the Lord is not² to be regarded.

8 And if yee offer the blind for sacrifice, it is³ not euill: and if yee offer the lame and sicke, it is not euill: offer it now vnto thy Prince: will he bee content with thee, or accept thy person, saith the Lord of hostes?

9 And now, I pray you, pray before God, that hee may haue mercie vpon vs: this hath been by your meanes: will hee regard⁴ your persons, saith the Lord of hostes?

10 Who is there euen among you, that would shut the doores, and kindele not fire on mine altar in vaine? I haue no pleasure in you, saith the Lord of hostes, neither will I accept an offering at your hand.

11 For from the rising of the Sunne vnto the going downe of the same, my Name is⁵ great among the Gentiles, and in euery place incense shall bee offered vnto my Name, and a pure offering: for my Name is great among the heathen, saith the Lord of hostes.

12 But ye haue polluted it, in that ye say, The table of the Lord is⁶ polluted, and the fruit thereof, euen his meate is not to bee regarded.

13 Yee said also, Behold, it is a⁷ wearnes, and ye haue snuffed at it, saith the Lord of hostes, and yee offered that which was torne, and the lame, and the sicke: thus yee offered an offering: should I accept this of your hand, saith the Lord?

14 But cursed bee the deceiver, which hath in his flocke⁸ a male, and boweth, and sacrificeth vnto the Lord a corrupt thing: for I am a great King, saith the Lord of hostes, and my Name is terrible among the heathen.

And now, O ye Priests, this commandement is for you,

2 If ye will not heare it, nor consider it in your heart, to giue glory⁹ vnto my Name, saith the Lord of hostes, I will enen send a curse vpon you, and will curse your¹⁰ blessings: yea, I haue cursed them already, because yee doe not consider it in your heart.

3 Behold, I will corrupt¹¹ your seed, and cast dung vpon your faces, euen the¹² dung of your solemne feasts, and you shall bee like vnto it.

4 And ye shall know, that I haue¹³ sent this commandement vnto you, that my couenant which I made with Leui, might stand, saith the Lord of hostes.

5 My¹⁴ covenant was with him of life and peace, and I¹⁵ gaue him feare, and hee feared mee, and was afraide before¹⁶ my Name.

6 The law of¹⁷ truth was in his mouth, and there was no iniquitie found in his lippes: hee walked with mee in peace and equity, and did turne many away from iniquity.

7 For the Priests¹⁸ lippes should preserve knowledge, and they should seeke the Lawe at his mouth: for he is the¹⁹ messenger of the Lord of hostes.

8 But yee are gone out of the way: yee haue caused many to fall by the Law: yee haue broken the Couenant of Leui, saith the Lord of hostes.

9 Therefore haue I made you also to be despised, and vile before all the people, because ye kept not my wayes, but haue bene partiall in the Law.

10 Haue not we all one²⁰ father? hath not one God made vs? why doe wee transgresse euery one against his brother, and breake the couenant of²¹ our fathers?

11 Iudah hath transgressed, and an abomination is committed in Israel and in Jerusalem: for Iudah hath defiled the holi-nesse of the Lord which hee loued, and hath married the²² daughter of a strange god.

12 The Lord will cut off the man that doeth this: both the master and the seruant out of the Tabernacle of Iakob, and him that²³ offereth an offering vnto the Lord of hostes.

13 And this haue yee done againe, and²⁴ covered the altar of the Lord with teares, and with weeping, and with mourning: because bundance of Gods benefites.

f The Priests obiected against the Prophet, that he could not reprove them, but he must speake against the Priesthood, and the office established of God by promise, but hee sheweth that the office is nothing flattered, when these villaines and dung are called by their owne names.

g He sheweth what were the two conditions of the couenant made with the tribe of Leui: on Gods part, that he would giue them long life and felicitie, on their part, that they should faithfully serue him according to his word. h I prescribed Leui a certaine Law to serue me. i He serued me and set forth my glory with all humility and submission. k Hee sheweth that the Priest ought to haue knowledge to instruct other in the word of the Lord. l He is as the treasure house of Gods word, and ought to giue to euery one according to their necessitie, and not to reserve it for himselfe.

the offering is no more regarded, neither retained acceptably at your hands.

14 Yet ye say, Wherein? Because the Lord hath bene witness betweene thee and the wife of thy youth, against whom thou hast transgressed, yet is the thy companion, and the wife of thy covenant.

15 And did not hee make one? yet had he abundance of spirit: and wherefore one? because hee sought a godly seed: therefore keep your selues in your spirit, and let none trespass against the wife of his youth.

16 If thou hatest her, put her away saith the Lord God of Israel, yet he couereth the iniury vnder his garment, saith the Lord of hostes: therefore keepe your selues in your spirit, and transgress not.

17 Ye haue wearied the Lord with your words: yet ye say, Wherein haue we wearied him? Wherein ye say, Every one that doth euill is good in the sight of the Lord, and hee delighteth in them. Where is the God of iudgement?

1 Of the messenger of the Lord Iohn Baptist, and of Christs office.
 Behold, I will send my messenger, and he shall prepare the way before mee: and the Lord whom ye seeke, shall speedily come to his Temple: euen the messenger of the couenant whom ye desire: behold, hee shall come, saith the Lord of hostes.

2 But who may abide the day of his coming? and who shall endure, when hee appeareth: for he is like a purging fire, and like fullers sope.

3 And hee shall sit downe to trie and fine the silver: hee shall euen fine the sonnes of Leui, and purifie them as gold and silver, that they may bring offerings vnto the Lord in righteousness.

4 Then shall the offerings of Iudah and Ierusalem be acceptable vnto the Lord, as in old time, and in the yeres afore.

5 And I will come neere to you to iudgement, and I will be a swift witness against the soothsayers, and against the adulterers, and against false swearers, & against those that wrongfully keepe backe the hirelings wages, and vex the widow and the fatherless, and oppresse the stranger, and feare not mee, saith the Lord of hostes.

6 For I am the Lord: I change not, and ye sonnes of Iacob are not consumed.

7 From the dayes of your fathers, ye are gone away from mine ordinances, and haue not kept them: & returne vnto mee, and I will returne vnto you, saith the Lord of hostes: but ye sayd, Wherein shall wee returne?

8 Will a man spoyle his gods? yet haue ye spoiled me: but ye say, Wherein haue we spoiled thee? In riches and offerings.

9 Ye are cursed with a curse: for ye haue spoiled me, euen this whole nation.

10 Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and proue me now therewith, saith the Lord of hostes, if I will not open the windows of heauen vnto you, and poure you out a blessing without measure.

11 And I will rebuke the denouer for your sakes, and he shall not destroy the fruit of your ground, neither shall your vine be barren in the field, saith the Lord of hostes.

12 And all nations shall call you blessed: for ye shall be a pleasant land, saith the Lord of hostes.

13 Your words haue been stout against mee, saith the Lord: yet ye say, What haue we spoken against thee?

14 Pee haue said, It is in vaine to serue God: and what profit is it that we haue kept his commandment, and that wee walked humbly before the Lord of hostes?

15 Therefore we count the proud blessed: euen they that worke wickednesse are set up, and they that tempt God, yea, they are deliuered.

16 Then spake they that feared the Lord, every one to his neighbour, and the Lord hearkened and heard it, and a booke of remembrance was written before him for them that feared the Lord, and that thought vpon his Name.

17 And they shall be to me, saith the Lord of hostes, in that day that I shall doe this, for a flocke, and I will spare them as a man spareth his owne sonne that serueth him.

18 Then shall you returne, and discern betweene the righteous and the wicked: betweene him that serueth God, and him that serueth him not.

This Christ expoundeth of John Baptist, Mat. 11. 13, 14. who both for his zeale, and restoring of religion is aptly compared to Elijah. f Which as it is true for the wicked, so doth it waken the godly, and call them to repentance. g He sheweth wherein Johns office should stand, in the turning of men to God, and ioyning the father and children in one vnitie of faith: so that the father shall turne to the religion of his son which is converted to Christ, and the sonne shall embrace the faith of the true fathers Abraham, Izhak and Iakob. h The second point of his office, was to deuounce Gods iudgements against them that would not receive Christ,

The end of the Prophets.

APOCRYPHA.

THE ARGUMENT.

These bookes that follow in order after the Prophets vnto the Newe Testament, are called APOCRYPHA, that is, bookes which were not received by a common consent to be read and expounded publickly in the Church, neither yet serued to proue any point of Christian religion, save in as much as they had the consent of the other Scriptures called Canonically to confirme the same, or rather whereupon they were grounded: but as bookes proceeding from godly men, were receiued to be read for the aduancement and furtherance of the knowledge of the history, & for the instruction of godly maners: which bookes declare, that at all times God had an especiall care of his Church, and lest they not vterly destitute of teachers and meanes to confirme them in the hope of the promised Messiah, and also witness that those calamities that God sent to his Church, were according to his providence, who had both so threatened by his Prophets, and so brought it to passe for the destruction of their enemies, and for the triall of his children.

CHAP. I.

1 Iosias appointeth Priests, and keepeth the Passouer. 7 Offerings for the Priests and the people. 11 The order of the Levites. 23 The upright life of Iosias: 25 His death, and the occasion thereof, and the lamentation for him. 34 Ioachim, appointed king. 51 The destruction of Ierusalem.

1. Kings 13. 21.
2. Chron 35. 1.

And Iosias kept the Passouer to his Lord in Ierusalem, and offered the Passouer in the fourteenth day of the first month.

2 And as paynted the Priests according to their daily courses, being clothed with long garments in the Temple of the Lord.

3 And hee spake to the Levites the holy ministers of Israel, that they should sanctifie themselves to the Lord, to set the holy Arke of the Lord in the house which Salomon the sonne of king David had built,

4 And sayd, Ye shall no more beare the Arke vpon your shoulders: now therefore serue the Lord your God, & take the charge of his people of Israel, and prepare according to your families and tribes,

5 After the writing of David king of Israel, and according to the Maner of Salomon his sonne, and stand in the Temple according to the order of the dignitie of your fathers the Levites, which were appointed before your brethren the children of Israel.

6 Offer in order the Passouer, and make ready the sacrifices for your brethren, & keepe the Passouer after the Lords commaundment giuen to Moyses.

7 And Iosias gaue to the people that was present, thirrie thousand lambes and kids, with thre thousand calves.

8 These were giuen of the kings possessions according to the promise to the people, and to the Priests, and to the Levites. Then gaue Helkias, and Zacharias, and Elieus, the gouernors of the Temple, to the Priests for the Passouer, twothousand six hundred sheepe, and thre hundred calves.

9 Furthermore, Iechonias, & Samaias, and Athanael his brethren, and Sabias, and Elieus, and Joiam captaines gaue to the Levites for the Passouer five thousand sheepe, and seven hundred calves.

10 And when these things were done, the Priests & the Levites stood in order, hauing unleaured bread according to the tribes, 11 And after the order of the dignitie of their fathers before the people to offer to the Lord, as it is written in the books of Moyses: and thus they did in the morning.

12 And they rosted the Passouer with fire, as appertained, and they sod their offerings with perfumes in caldrons and pots, Exod. 12. 8.

13 And set it before all them that were of the people, and afterward they prepared for themselves, and for the Priests their brethren the sonnes of Aaron.

14 For the Priests offered the fat vnto the morning, and the Levites did make ready for themselves, and for the Priests their brethren the sonnes of Aaron.

15 And the holy singers the sonnes of Asaph were in their orders, according to the appointed ordinances of David, as was, Asaph and Asarias, and Eddinus, which was of the kings appointment. Or, Jedutha.

16 And the porters were at euery gate, so that it was not lawfull that any should passe his ordinary watch: for their brethren the Levites made ready for them.

17 And in that day those things which appertained to the sacrifice of the Lord, were accomplished, that they might offer the passouer, 18 And offer sacrifices vpon the Altar of the Lord, according to the commaundment of king Iosias.

19 So the children of Israel which were present at that time, kept the Passouer, and the feast of unleaured bread, seven dayes.

20 And there was not such a Passouer kept in Israel since the time of Samuel the Prophet.

21 And all the kings of Israel did not offer such a Passouer, as did Iosias, & the Priests, and the Levites, & the Jewes, and all Israel, which were found to remaine in Ierusalem.

22 In the eighteenth yere of the reigne of Iosias, was this Passouer kept.

23 The workes of Iosias were vpright before before his Lord with a heart full of godliness.

24 And concerning the things which came to passe in his time, they are written before, to wit, of those that sinned and did wickedly against the Lord, above every nation and kingdom, and grieved him with // sensible things, so that the wordes of the Lord stood up against Israel.

25 ¶ Now after all these acts of Josias, it came to passe that when Pharaoh king of Egypt came to moue war at Carchemis upon Euphrates, Josias went out against him.

26 But the king of Egypt sent to him, saying, What haue I to doe with thee, O king of Iudea?

27 I am not sent of the Lord God against thee: but my warre is upon Euphrates, and now the Lord is with mee, and the Lord hath strengthened me forward: depart from me, and be not against the Lord.

28 But Josias would not turne back his chariot from him, but prepared himselfe to fight with him, not regarding the wordes of Ieremias the Prophet, by the mouth of the Lord.

29 But hee set himselfe in battell aray against him in the field of Megiddo, and the princes came downe to king Josias.

30 And the king said to his seruants, Conuey mee out of the battell, for I am very weake. And by and by his seruants brought him out of the battell.

31 So he gate by on his second chariot, & being come againe to Ierusalem, he changed his life, and was buried in his fathers graue.

32 And in all Iudea was Josias bewailed, yea, Ieremias the Prophet did lament for Josias, and the gouernours, & their wiues did lament him vnto this day: and this was ordeined in all the kindred of Israel, to bee done continually.

33 But these things are written in the booke of the stories of the kings of Iudea, and every one of the acts that Josias did, and his glory, and his knowledge of the Law of the Lord, & the things which hee did before, and the things now rehearsed, are registred in the booke of the kings of Israel and Iudea.

34 Then they of the nation tooke * Joachaz the sonne of Josias, and made him king in stead of his father Josias, when hee was three and twentie yeere old.

35 And he reigned in Iudea, and in Ierusalem three moneths: for the king of Egypt deposed him from reigning in Ierusalem.

36 He tared also the people of an hundred talents of silver, and one talent of gold.

37 And the king of Egypt made Joachim his brother king of Iudea, and Ierusalem.

38 And he bound Joachaz and his gouernours: but when he had taken Zaraces his brother, he led him away into Egypt.

39 Twenty and five yeere olde was Joachim, when hee reigned in Iudea and Ierusalem, and hee did euill in the sight of the Lord.

40 Wherefore against him came vp Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, who when he had bound him with a chaine of brasse, led him away into Babylon.

41 Then Nabuchodonosor tooke of the holy vessels of the Lord, and caried them away, and set them in his temple at Babylon.

42 But all his acts, and his profanation, and his reproach are written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings.

43 And Joachim his son reigned for him: and when he was made king, hee was eigh-teene yeere old.

44 And he reigned three moneths and ten dayes in Ierusalem, and hee did euill in the sight of the Lord.

45 ¶ So a yeere after, Nabuchodonosor sent and brought him to Babylon with the holy vessels of the Lord.

46 And he made Sedecias king of Iudea and Ierusalem, when he was one and twen-tie yeere old, and he reigned eleuen yeeres.

47 And hee did euill in the sight of the Lord, neither did hee feare the wordes spoken * by Ieremias the Prophet from the mouth of the Lord. Ier. 38. 21.

48 For after that he was sworne to king Nabuchodonosor, hee forswore himselfe by the name of the Lord, and fell away, and hardened his necke and his heart, and transgressed the lawes of the Lord God of Israel.

49 Also the gouernours of the people, and the Priests committed many things against the lawes, and passed all the pollutions of all nations, & polluted the Temple of the Lord, which was sanctified in Ierusalem.

50 Nevertheless the God of their fathers sent his messenger to call them back, because he spared them, and his owne Tabernacle.

51 But they derided his messengers, and in the day that the Lord spake vnto them, they mocked his Prophets.

52 So that he being moued to anger against his people for their great wickednes, commanded the kings of the Caldeans to invade them.

53 These killed their yong men with the sword, round about their holy Temple, neither did they spare yong man nor mayden, neither old man nor child among them.

54 But hee deliuered them all into their handes, and all the holy vessels of the Lord, both great and small, with the vessels of the Arke of God: and they tooke and caried away the kings treasures into Babylon.

55 And they set fire in the house of the Lord, and brake downe the walles of Ierusalem, and burnt their towres with fire.

56 They consumed also all the pretious things therof, and brought them to nought, and those that were left by the sword, he caried away into Babylon.

57 And they were seruants to him, and to his children till the Persians reigned, to fulfill the word of the Lord by the mouth of * Ieremias, Ier. 25. 11.

1 Cyrus gaue leave to the Iewes to returne. 10 He sent the holy vessels. 13 The names of them that returned. 16 Their aduersaries did let their building, and the kings letters for the same.

2 The

2. Kings 23. 30.
2. Chron. 36. 1.

2 The Lord raised by the spirit of Cyrus king of the Persians, and he made proclamation throughout all his kingdom, even by expresse letters,

3 Saying, Thus saith Cyrus king of the Persians, The Lord of Israel, even the most high Lord hath made me king over the whole world,

4 And he hath commanded me to build him an house in Jerusalem which is in Judea.

5 If there bee any therfore of you of his people, let the Lord, even his Lord bee with him, and let him goe up to Jerusalem, which is in Judea, and build the house of the Lord of Israel: he is the Lord which dwelleth in Jerusalem.

6 All they then that dwell in the places round about, those I say, that are in his place, let them helpe him with gold and silver,

7 With gifts, with horses and cattell, and other things, which shall be brought, according to the vowes, into the temple of the Lord, which is in Jerusalem.

8 Then arose the chiefe of the families of Judea, and of the tribe of Benjamin, and the Priests and Leuites, and all whose mind the Lord had mooved to go up, and build an house to the Lord in Jerusalem.

9 And those that were about them, helped them in all things with silver and gold, horses, and cattell, and with diuers vowes of many whose mindes were stirred up.

10 Also king Cyrus brought out the holy vessels of the Lord which Nabuchodonosor had caried out of Jerusalem, and had consecrated them in the temple of his idoles.

11 Now when Cyrus king of the Persians had brought them out, hee deliuered them to Mithridates his treasurer,

12 By whom they were giuen to Abassar the gouernour of Judea:

13 Whereof this was the number: a thousand golden cups, and a thousand silver cups, basins of silver for the sacrifices, nine and twentie, vials of gold thirty, and of silver two thousand foure hundred and renne, and a thousand other vessels.

14 So all the vessels of golde and silver, which they caried away, were five thousand foure hundred and threescore and nine.

15 They were brought by Sanabassar with them of the captivity of Babylon to Jerusalem.

16 But in the time of Artaxerxes king of the Persians, Belshazzar, and Mithridates, and Tabelius, and Rathumus, and Beeltechmus, and Semelius the secretary, and others which were ioyned to these, dwelling in Samaria and in other places wrote vnto him this Epistle here following against them that dwell in Judea, and Jerusalem, TO THE KING ARTAXERXES OVR LORD.

17 Thy seruants, Rathumus the writer of things that come to passe, and Semelius the secretary, and the rest of their counsell, and the Iudges which are in Coelosyria and Phenice.

18 Bee it now therfore knowne to our lord the king, that the Jewes which came by from you, are come to vs into Jerusalem, that rebellious and wicked citie, and build the market places, and make up the walles thereof, and lay the foundations of the Temple.

19 Therfore if this citie be built, and the walles bee finished, they will not onely not endure to pay tribute, but will also resist kings.

20 And because the things pertaining to the Temple goe forward, we thought it not meet to passe ouer such a thing:

21 But to declare it to our lord the king, that if it be thy pleasure, it may be sought out in the books of thy fathers,

22 And thou shalt find in the Chronicles the writings concerning these things, and shalt know that this citie did alwayes rebel, and did trouble both kings and cities;

23 And that the Jewes are rebellious, raising alwayes warres therein: for the which cause also this citie was made desolate.

24 Now therfore, O lord the King, we declare it, that if this citie be built, and the wals thereof repaired, you shall haue no more passage into Coelosyria nor Phenice.

25 Then the king wrote againe to Rathumus, that wrote the things that came to passe, and to Beeltechmus, & to Semelius the Secretary, and to the rest of those that were ioyned with them, and to the dwellers of Samaria, Syria & Phenice, these things that follow.

26 I haue read the Epistle which ye sent to me: therfore I commanded that it should be sought out, and it was found, that this citie hath alwayes practised against kings, 27 And that the men thereof were giuen to rebellion and warres, and how that mightie kings and fierce haue reigned in Jerusalem, which tooke tribute of Coelosyria and Phenice.

28 Now therfore I haue commaunded to forbid these men to build by the citie, and that it be taken heed that no more be done, 29 And that those wicked things which should molest the king, goe not forward.

30 Then when Rathumus, and Semelius the Secretary, and the rest which were ioyned with them, had read the things which King Artaxerxes had written, they mooued their tents with speede to Jerusalem with horses and men in aray, 31 And began to let them which built, so that the building of the Temple in Jerusalem ceased, vnto the second yere of the reigne of Darius king of the Persians.

CHAP. III.

1 The feast of Darius. 6 The three wise sentences. Now when Darius reigned, hee made a great feast to all his subiects, and to all those of his owne house, and to all the princes of Media and Persia,

2 And to all the gouernours and captaines and lieutenants that were with him, from India vnto Ethiopia, of an hundred and seven and twentie prouinces.

3 And when they had eaten and drunke, and were satified, they departed, and King Darius went into his chamber, and slepe till he wakened againe.

4 In the meane time thre yong men of the the guard, keepers of the kings body, said one to another,

5 Let every one of vs speake a sentence, and let that shall overcome, and whose sentence shall appeare wisser then the others, Darius the king shall giue him great gifts, and great things in token of victorie,

6 As to weare purple, and to drinke in golde, and to sleepe in golde, and a chariot with bridles of golde, an head-tire of fine linnen, and a chaine about his necke,

7 And he shall sit next to Darius for his wisdome, and shall be called Darius counsellor.

8 Then every man wrote his sentence, and sealed it, and put it vnder the pillow of king Darius, 9 And said, When the king rose, they would giue him the writing, and whose sentence the king, and the three princes of Persia should iudge to bee wisest, to him should the victorie be giuen, as it was appointed.

10 One wrote, The wine is strongest.

11 The other wrote, The king is strongest.

12 The other wrote, Women are strongest, but truth ouercometh all things.

13 And when the king rose, they tooke the writings and gaue them to him, and hee read them,

14 And sent and called all the noble men of Persia and of Media, and the gouernors and the captaines, and lieutenants, and the Counsellers, 15 And sate him downe in the Councill, and the writing was read before them.

16 Then he said, Call the yong men that they may declare their owne sentences. So they called them and they came in.

17 Then he said vnto them, Declare vnto vs the writings. So the first began, which had spoken of the strength of wine, 18 And said on this manner, O yee men, how strong is wine! it deceiueth all men that drinke it.

19 It maketh the mind of the King and of the fatherlesse both one, of the bondman and of the free man, of the poore man and of the rich man.

20 It turneth also euery thought into ioy and gladnesse, so that one remembereth no manner of sorrow nor debt.

21 It maketh euery heart rich, so that one remembereth neither king nor gouernor, and causeth to speake all things by talents.

22 When men haue drinke, they haue no minde to loue either friends or brethren, and a little after they draw our swords.

23 But when they are from the wine, they doe not remember what they haue done.

24 O yee men, Is not wine strongest, which compelleth to doe such things? and hee held his peace when he had thus spoken.

CHAP. II.

Of the strength of a king. 13 Of the strength of women. 34 Of the strength of truth, which sentence is approved. 47 and his decton granted.

Then the second which had spoken of the strength of the king, began to say,

2 O yee men, are not men strongest, which beare rule by land and by sea, and ouer all things which are in them?

2 But the king is yet greater: for he ruleth all things, and is lord of them, so that they doe all things which he commandeth them.

4 If he bid them make warre one against another, they doe it: if hee send them out against the enemies, they go and break downe mountaines, and walles, and towres.

5 They kill & are killed, and doe not passe the commandment of the king: if they overcome, they bring all to the king, as well the spoiles as all other things:

6 And those also which goe not to warre and battell, but till the earth: for when they haue sowne it againe, they reape it, and bring it to the king, and compell one another to pay tribute to the king.

7 Yet he is but one man: if hee bid, Kill, they kill: if he say, Spare, they spare.

8 If he bid, Smite, they smite: if hee bid them, Make desolate, they make desolate: if he bid, Build, they build.

9 If he bid, Cut off, they cut off: if he bid, Plant, they plant.

10 So all his people, and all his armies obey one man: in the meane while hee sitteth downe, he eateth, and drinketh, and sleepech.

11 For these keepe him round about: neither can any one goe and doe his owne business, neither are they disobedient vnto him.

12 O yee men, how should not the king be strongest, seeing hee is thus obeyed? So hee held his tongue.

13 Then the third which had spoken of women and of the truth (this was 340-babel) began to speake.

14 O yee men, neither the mightie King, nor many men, nor wine is strongest: who then ruleth them, or hath dominion ouer them? are they not women?

15 Women haue borne the king, & all the people which beare rule by sea and by land.

16 Euen of them were they borne, & they nourished them which planted the vines, of which the wine is made.

17 They also make mens garments, and make men honourable, neither can men bee without women.

18 And if they haue gathered together gold and siluer, or any goodly thing, doe they not loue a faire and beautifull woman?

19 Do they not leaue all those things, and giue themselves wholly vnto her, and gaze, and gaze vpon her, & all men desire her more then gold or siluer, or any precious thing?

20 A man leauech his owne father which hath nourished him, and his owne countrey, and is ioynd with his wife.

21 And for the woman hee leopardech his life, and neither remembereth father, nor mother, nor countrey.

22 Therefore by this yee may know that the women beare rule ouer you: do ye not labour and trauel, and giue and bring all to the women?

23 Yea, a man taketh his sword, and goeth forth to kill and to sleaie, and to saile vpon the sea, and vpon riuers, 24 And he seeth a lion, and goeth in darknesse, and when he hath stollen, ransished, and spoiled, he bringeth it to his loue.

25 Therefore a man loueth his owne wife more then father or mother.

26 Yee,

|| Or, pounds.

26 Pea, many haue run mad for women, and haue bene seruants for them.

27 Many also haue perished, and haue erred and sinned for women.

28 Now therefore doe you not beleue me? is not the King great in his power? doe not all regions feare to touch him?

29 Ye I saw him and Apark, the kings concubine, the daughter of the famous Barracus, sitting on the right hand of the king.

30 And shee tooke the crowne off the Kings head, and put it vpon her owne, and strooke the King with her left hand.

31 Per in the meane season the King gaped and gazed on her: and if she laughed at him, he laughed: and if shee were angry with him, hee did flatter her, that he might be reconciled with her.

32 How then, O ye men, are not women more strong, seeing they doe thus?

33 Then the King and the princes looked one vpon another, and he began to speake of the trueth.

34 O ye men, are not women stronger? great is the earth, and the heauen is high, & the sunne is swift in his course: for hee turneth round about heauen in one day, and runneth againe into his owne place.

35 Is not he great that maketh these things? therefore the trueth is greater and stronger then all.

36 All the earth calleth for trueth, and the heauen blesteth it: and all things are shaken and tremble, neither is there any vniust thing with it.

37 The wine is wicked, the King is wicked, women are wicked, and all the children of men are wicked, and all their wicked works are such, and there is no trueth in them, and they perish in their iniquitie.

38 But trueth doeth abide, and is strong for ever, and liueth and reigneth for ever and euer.

39 Wish her there is no receiving of persons nor difference: but shee doeth the things which are iust, and abstaineth from vniust and wicked things, and all men fauour her workes.

40 Neither is there any vniust thing in her iudgement, and she is the strength and the kingdome, and the power, and maiestie of all ages. Blessed be the God of trueth.

41 So hee ceased to sprake, and then all the people cryed and said, Truth is great and strongest.

42 Then the king said vnto him, Aske what thou wilt, besides that which is appointed, and we will giue it thee, because thou art found the wisest, and thou shalt haue libertie to sit by me, and shalt be called my cousin.

43 Then he said to the King, Remember the vow that thou hast vowed to builde Ierusalem, in the day that thou tookest the kingdome, 44 And to send againe all the vessels that were taken out of Ierusalem, which Cyrus set apart when he made a vow to cut off Babylon, and vowed to send them abither.

45 Thou also hast vowed to build the Temple, which the Idumeans burnt when Iudea was destroyed by the Caldeans.

46 And now, O lord the king, this is that which I desire and require of thee; and this is the magnificence, which I require of thee: I require therefore that thou wouldest accomplish the vow which thou hast vowed with thine own mouth to doe to the King of heauen.

47 Then king Darius rising vp, kissed him, and wrote him letters to all the stewards, and lieutenants, and captaines, and gouernors, that they should bring on the way both him, and all that were with him, which went vp to build Ierusalem.

48 And he wrote letters to all the lieutenants in Eorlosyria, and Phenice, and to them that were in Libanus, that they should bring Cedar wood from Libanus to Ierusalem, and builde the city with him.

49 And hee wrote for all the Jewes, which went vp out of his kingdome vnto Iudea, concerning their libertie, that no Prince nor Lieutenant, nor gouernour nor steward should enter into their doores,

50 And that all the region which they kept, should pay no tribute, and that the Idumeans should let goe the villages of the Jewes which they helde,

51 And that euery yeere there should be giuen for the building of the Temple, twenty talents, vntill it were built,

52 And to maintaine the burnt offerings vpon the altar euery day (as they had a commandement to offer seuentee) other ten talents euery yeere:

53 And that all they which went from Babylon to build the citie, should haue liberty, as well they as their posteritie, and all the Priests that went away.

54 He wrote also touching the charges, and the Priests garment, wherein they should minister.

55 And he wrote that they should giue the Levites their charges, vntill the house were finished, and Ierusalem built.

56 Also hee wrote that they should giue pensions and wages to them that kept the citie.

57 And hee sent away all the vessels which Cyrus had let apart out of Babylon, and whatsoever Cyrus had commaunded to doe, hee also commaunded to doe it, and to send to Ierusalem.

58 And when the young man was gone forth, hee lift vp his face to heauen towards Ierusalem, and gaue thanks to the King of heauen, || Or, Zoro-babel, 59 Saying, O thou which hast giuen me wisdom, and of thee is glory, and I am thy servant.

60 Blessed be thou which hast giuen me wisdom: for vnto thee I acknowledge it, O Lord of our Fathers.

61 So he tooke the letters, and went out, and came to Babylon, and told all his brethren.

62 And they blessed the God of their Fathers, because he had giuen them freedome and libertie.

37 Neither could they shewe their families nor their stocke how they were of Israel, the sonnes of || Laban, the sonne of || Ban, the sonnes of || Accodan, like hundredy asur and two.

38 And of the || Priests, those which exercised the office of || Priests, and were not found, the sonnes of || || Uddas, the sons of || Accos, the sonnes of || Adnas, which had taken for wife || Augia, one of the daughters of || Berzelaius,

39 And was called after his name: and when the description of the hundred of these men had bene sought in the register, and could not be found, they were set apart from the office of || Priests.

40 For || Reemias and Artcharias sayd to them, that they should not be partakers of the holy things, till there arose an || Priest clothed with doctrine and truth.

41 So all they of Israel, from them of twelue yeere old, and little children, were || forty thousand, besides men servants and women servants, two thousand three hundred and sixtie.

42 Their servants and handmaids were seven thousand three hundred forty and seven: the young men and women, two hundred, forty and six.

43 Camels, four hundred thirty and six: and oxen seven hundred thirty and six: mules, two hundred forty and six: || beas that bare the yoke, five thousand, five hundred, twentie and six.

44 And there were of the gouernours after their families, which when they were come to the Temple in Jerusalem, vowed to build the house in his owne place according to their power,

45 And to giue to the treasure of the worke, a || thousand pound in gold, and five thousand pound in silver, and an hundred || Priests garments.

46 And the || Priests and the Leuites and the people dwelt in Jerusalem, and in the country, and the holy singers and the poets, and all Israel in their || villages.

47 || But when the seventh moneth was nere, and when the children of Israel were cūryone at home, they were all gathered together with one accord into the open place of the first gate, which is toward the East.

48 Then Iesus the sonne of Iosedec and his brethren the || Priests, with Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel and his brethren, rising up, made ready the Altar of the God of Israel,

49 To offer burnt offerings vpon it, according as it is written in the booke of || Moses the man of God.

50 Whither also there were gathered against them of all nations of the land: but they dressed the Altar in his owne place, although all the nations of the land were their enemies and vexed them, and they offered sacrifices according to the season, and burnt offerings to the Lord, morning and evening.

51 They kept also the feast of tabernacles, as it is || ordeined in the Law, and offered sacrifices every day, as was requisite,

52 And afterward, the continuall oblations and offerings of the Sabbaths, and of the new moneths and of all holy feasts.

53 || And all they which had made any vow to God, began to offer sacrifice vnto God in the first day of the seventh moneth, although the temple of God was not yet built.

54 They gaue also money to the masons and to the workmen, and meate and drinke with gladnelle,

55 And charots to the || Sidonians, & to those of Cyprus to bring Cedar wood out of Libanus, which should be brought by flotes to the haven of Ioppe, according to the commandement giuen vnto them by Cyrus king of Persia.

56 And in the second yere and second moneth came into the Temple of God in Jerusalem, Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel, & Iesus the sonne of Iosedec, and their brethren, and the || Priests and Leuites, and all they that came out of captiuitie into Jerusalem, 57 And layd the foundation of the house of God in the first day of the second moneth of the second yere, after their returne into Iudea, and Jerusalem.

58 And they appointed the Leuites from twentie yere old, ouer the workes of the Lord, and Iesus and his sonne and his brethren, and his brother Cadmiel, and the sonnes of || Adiabon, with the sonnes of Ioda, the sonne of || Heladun, with their sonnes and brethren, even all the Leuites with one accord did follow after the worke, calling vpon the workes in the house of God: thus the workmen built the Temple of the Lord.

59 And the || Priests stood clothed with their long garments with muscull instruments, and trumpets, and the Leuites the sonnes of || Asaph with Cymbales, 60 Singing and blessing the Lord according to the ordinance of Dauid king of Israel.

61 And they sung with loude voyce songs to the praise of the Lord, because his mercie and glory is for euer in all Israel.

62 Then all the people blew trumpets, and cryed with loude voyce, praising the Lord for the raising up of the house of the Lord.

63 Also some of the || Priests and Leuites, and chiefe men, to wit, the Ancients which had seene the former house, 64 Came to see the building of this with weeping and great crying, and many with trumpets and toy cryed with loude voyce.

65 So that the people could not heare the trumpets, because of the weeping of the people: yet there was a great multitude that blew trumpets, so that they were heard farre off.

66 || Wherefore when the enemies of the tribes of Iudah and Benjamin heard it, they came to know what noise of trumpets it was.

67 And they knew that they of the captiuitie built the Temple to the Lord God of Israel.

68 || Wherefore they comming to Zorobabel, and Iesus, and the chiefe of the families, sayd vnto them, Let vs build also with you.

69 For we obey your Lord as you doe, and sacrifice vnto him since the dayes of || || Achareth King of the Assyrians, which brought vs hither.

70 Then Zorobabel and Iesus and the chiefe of the families of Israel id to them, It doth not appertaine to vs, and to you to build an house to the Lord our God.

71 For we alone will build it to the Lord God of Israel, as it becommeth vs, and as * Cyrus the King of the Persians bade vs.

72 Howbeit the people of the land made them sluggish that were in Judea, and letted them to build the worke, and by their ambushments and sections and conspiracies hindered the finishing of the building.

73 All the time of King Cyrus life: so that they were let from the building two yeere, vntill the raigne of Darius.

CHAP. VI.

1 Of Aggeu and Zacharias, 2 The building of the Temple, 3 Sisinnus would let them, 7 His Epistle to Darius, 23 The Kings answer to the contrary.

Ezra. 5. 1. ne. 1. 1.

B At * in the second yeere of the reigne of Darius, Aggeu and Zacharias the sonne of Ado the Prophets prophesied to the Jewes, enen vnto them that were in Judea and Jerusalem, in the Name of the Lord God of Israel, which they called upon.

† Greeke, upon them.

2 Then Zorobabel sonne of Salathiel, and Jesus the sonne of Josedec stood vp and beganne to build the house of the Lord, which is in Jerusalem, the Prophets of the Lord being with them, and helping them.

3 In that time Sisinnus the gouernour of Syria and Phenice, and Sathrabouzanus with his companions came vnto them,

4 And said vnto them, By whose commandement build you this house and this building, and enterpryse all these other things? and who are the builders that enterpryse such things?

5 But the ancients of the Jewes had grace of the Lord, after that hee had visited the captiuitie, 6 That they were not letted to build, vntill it was signified vnto Darius of these matters, and an answer was receiued.

7 The coppie of the Epistle, which he did write and send to Darius: SISINNES gouernour of Syria and of Phenice, and Sathrabouzanus and their companions, presidents in Syria and Phenice, salute King Darius.

8 It may please the King our master plainly to vnderstand that when wee came to the countrey of Judea, and entered into the citie of Jerusalem, we found in the citie of Jerusalem the ancients of the Jewes that were of the captiuitie, 9 Building an house to the Lord great and new, of hewen stones, and of great price, and the timber already laid vpon the walles.

10 And these workes are done with great speede, yea, and the worke hath good successe in their hands, so that it will bee finished with all glory and diligence.

11 Then we asked their ancients, saying, By whose commandement build you this house, and lay the foundation of these workes?

12 Alce asked them these things to the intent to notifie them to thee, and to write to thee the men that gouerned it: therefore we demaunded the names of the gouernours in writing.

13 But they answered, saying, Alce are the seruants of the Lord, which hath created the heauen and the earth,

2. King. 6. 2.

14 And * this house was built by many yeeres agoe, by a King of Israel great and strong, and was finished.

15 But when our fathers, prouoking God to wrath, sinned against the Lord of Israel, which is in heauen, * hee deliuered them into the hands of Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon of the Caldeans,

2. King. 24. 1

16 Who brake downe the house, and burnt it, and caried the people captiue to Babylon.

17 But in the first yeere of the reigne of Cyrus ouer the countrey of Babylon, King Cyrus wrote that this house should be built vp.

18 And the holy vessels of golde and of siluer, which Nabuchodonosor had carryed out of the house of Jerusalem, and had dedicated them in his owne Temple, Cyrus the king tooke out of the Temple at Babylon, and they were giuen to Zorobabel, and to Sanabassar ruler.

|| Or. Sheshbazir.

19 And a commandement was giuen vnto him, that he should cary away those vessels, and put them in the Temple at Jerusalem, and that this Temple of the Lord should bee built in this place.

20 Then the same Sanabassar, being come hither, layde the foundations of the house of the Lord at Jerusalem, and since that time till now, it is in building, and is not finished.

21 Now therefore if it please the King, let it be sought vp in the Kings Libraries concerning Cyrus.

22 And if it be found that the building of the house of the Lord at Jerusalem hath bene done by the consent of King Cyrus, and if it seeme good to the Lord our King, let him make vs answer concerning these things.

23 Then King Darius commaunded to search in the Kings Libraries that were in Babylon, and there was found in Ecbatane, which is a tower in the region of Media, a place where such things were layd vp for memorie.

24 In the first yeere of the reigne of Cyrus, King Cyrus commaunded the house of the Lord at Jerusalem to be builded, where they did sacrifice with the continuall fire.

25 Of the which the height should be of threescore cubites, the breadth of threescore cubites, with three rowes of hewen stones, and one row of new wood of that countrey, and that the costes should bee payed out of the house of King Cyrus.

26 And that the holy vessels of the house of the Lord, as well those of gold as of siluer, which Nabuchodonosor had carryed out of the house in Jerusalem, and brought into Babylon, should bee restored to the house which is in Jerusalem, and set in the place where they were afore.

27 Also hee commanded that Sisinnus gouernour of Syria and Phenice, and Sathrabouzanus, and their companions, & those which were constitute captaiues in Syria & Phenice, should take heede to refrain from that place, and to suffer Zorobabel the seruant of the Lord, and gouernour of Judea, and the Elders of the Jewes to build that house of the Lord in that place.

28 And I also haue commaunded to build it clean vp againe, and that they bee diligent to helpe them of the captiuitie of the Jewes, till the house of the Lord be finished,

29 And that some part of the tribute of Cololyria

Iofyfa and Phénice should be diligently giuen to these men for sacrifice vnto the Lord, and to Zorobabel the gouernour, for bulles, rammes, and lambes:

30 Also corne, and salt, and wine, and oyle continually euery yeere without faile, as the Priests which are in Ierusalem shall testifie to bee spent euery day, 31 That offerings may be made to the hie God for the king and his children, and that they may pray for their liues.

32 Furthermore he commanded that whosoever should transgresse any thing afore spoken or written, or derogate any thing thereof, that a tree should be taken out of his possession, and hee bee hanged thereon, and that his goods should bee the kings.

33 And therefore let the Lord whose name is there called vpon, destroy euery king and nation, which stretcheth out his hand to hinder or doe euil to that house of the Lord which is in Ierusalem.

Ezra 6.13.

34 ¶ Darius the King haue ordeined that it should bee diligently executed according to these things.

CHAP. VII.

¶ Sissines and his companions follow the Kings commandment, and helpe the Lewes to build the Temple. 5 The time that it was built. 10 They keepe the Passeouer.

Ezra 6.13.

Then Sissines the gouernour of Coelosyria and Phénice, and Sathrabonanes, and their companions obeying King Darius commandments,

2 Assisted diligently the holy workes, working with the ancients & gouernours of the Sanctuary.

3 And the holy workes prospered by Aggeus and Zacharias the Prophets which prophesied.

4 So they finished all things by the commandment of the Lord God of Israel, and with the consent of Cyrus and Darius, and Artaxerxes kings of the Persians.

5 Thus the holy house was finished in the three and twentieth day of the month Adar in the first yeere of Darius king of the Persians.

6 And the children of Israel, and the Priests and the Leuites, and the rest, which were of the captiuitie, and had any charge, did according to the things written in the booke of Moyses.

7 And they offered for the dedication of the Temple of the Lord, an hundred bulles, two hundred rammes, foure hundred lambes, 8 And twelve goates for the sinne of all Israel, according to the number of the chiefs of the tribes of Israel.

9 And the Priests and the Leuites stood according to their kindreds, clothed with long robes in the workes of the Lord God of Israel, according to the booke of Moyses, and also the porters in euery gate.

10 And the children of Israel offered the Passeouer together with them of the captiuitie, in the fourteenth day of the first moneth, after that the Priests and the Leuites were sanctified.

11 But all the children of the captiuitie were not sanctified together, but all the Leuites were sanctified together, 12 And they offered the Passeouer for all the children of the captiuitie, and for their brethren the Priests, and for themselves.

13 Then all the children of Israel which were of the captiuitie did eate, euen all they that had separated themselves from the abominations of the people of the land, and sought the Lord.

14 And they kepe the feast of unleauned bread seven dayes, reioycing before the Lord, 15 Because hee had turned the counsell of the King of the Assyrians towards them to strengthen their hands in the workes of the Lord God of Israel.

CHAP. VII.

1 Esdras cometh from Babylons Ierusalem. 10 The copie of the Commission giuen by Artaxerxes. 29 Esdras giueth thanks to the Lord. 32 The number of the heads of the people that came with him. 76 His prayer and confession.

AND after these things when Artaxerxes King of the Persians reigned, Esdras the sonne of Saraias, the sonne of Ezerias, the sonne of Helcias, the sonne of Salum,

2 The sonne of Sador, the sonne of Achitob, the sonne of Amarias, the sonne of Ezerias, the sonne of Demereth, the sonne of Saraias, the sonne of Bauias, the sonne of Boccas, the sonne of Abisum, the sonne of Phinees, the sonne of Eleazar, the sonne of Aaron was the hie Priest.

3 This Esdras went out of Babylon, and was a scribe well taught in the Law of Moyses, giuen by the Lord God of Israel.

4 Also the King gaue him great honour, and hee found grace in his sight in all his requests.

5 With him also there departed some of the children of Israel, and of the Priests and Leuites, and of the holy singers, and of the Porters, and of the ministers of the Temple vnto Ierusalem.

6 In the seventh yeere of the reigne of Artaxerxes, and in the first moueth: this was the seventh yeere of the King (for they went out of Babylon in the first day of the first moneth, 7 And came to Ierusalem according as the Lord gaue them speed in their iourney.)

8 For Esdras had gotten great knowledge, so that he would let nothing passe that was in the Law of the Lord, and in the commandments, and hee taught all Israel all the ordinances and iudgements.

9 So the Commission written by King Artaxerxes was giuen Esdras the Priest, and reader of the Law of the Lord: the copie thereof followeth.

10 King Artaxerxes to Esdras the Priest, and reader of the Law of the Lord, Salutation.

11 For as much as I consider things with pittie, I haue commanded that they that will and desire of the nation of the Jewes, & of the Priests and Leuites, which are in our kingdome, should goe with thee vnto Israel.

12 Therefore as many as be willing, let them depart together, as it hath seemed good to mee and my seven friends the counsellors,

13 That they may visite the things that are in in Judea and Jerusalem diligently, as it is contained in the Law of the Lord,

14 And carry the gifts to the Lord of Israel in Jerusalem, which I and my friends have vowed: also all the gold and silver, which shall be found in the country of Babylon appertaining to the Lord in Jerusalem,

15 With that which is given of the people to the Temple of the Lord their God, that it might be brought to Jerusalem, as well silver as gold, for bulles and rammes, and lambs, and things thereunto pertaining,

16 That they may offer sacrifices to the Lord upon the altar of the Lord their God, which is in Jerusalem.

17 And whatsoever thou and thy brethren wilt doe with the gold or silver, accomplish it according to the will of thy God.

18 And the holy vessels of the Lord, which are given thee for the use of the Temple of thy God, which is in Jerusalem, thou shalt set before thy God in Jerusalem.

19 And what other things soever thou shalt remember for the use of the Temple of thy God, thou shalt give it out of the Kings treasure.

20 And I also King Artaxerxes have commaunded the treasurers of Syria and Phenice, that whatsoever Esdras, the Priest and reader of the Lawe of the highest God, shall send for, they should give it him with all speede, even to the summe of an hundredth talents of silver, 21 And likewise unto an hundredth coxes of corne, and an hundredth pieces of wine, and other things in abundance.

22 Let all things be done to the highest God, according to the Law of God with diligence, that wrath come not upon the kingdom of the King and of his sonnes.

23 Also to you it is commaunded, that of none of the Priests or Levites, or holy singers, or Porters, or ministers of the Temple, or of the workmen of this Temple, no tribute nor tare be taken, nor that any haue power to take them in any thing.

24 Thou also, Esdras, according to the wisdom of God, ordaine iudges and governours, that they may iudge in all Syria and Phenice all those which are well instructed in the Lawe of thy God, and teach those, which are not instructed.

25 And let all those which shall transgresse the Law of God and the King, be diligently punished, either with death, or other punishment, either with penaltie of money, or banishment.

26 ¶ Then Esdras the Scribe said, Blessed be the only Lord God of my fathers, which hath put this in the heart of the King to glorifie his house which is in Jerusalem, 27 And hath honoured mee before the King, and the counsellors, and all his friends and governours.

28 ¶ Therefore I was encouraged by the helpe of the Lord my God, and gathered men of Israel to goe up with me.

29 These are the guides after their families and order of dignities, which came up with mee out of Babylon in the reigne of Artaxerxes the King.

gard against our enemies,

51 Because we had said to the king, that the power of our Lord should bee with them that sought him, to direct them in all things.

52 Therefore we prayed our Lord againe according to these things, whom wee found fauourable.

53 Then I chose from among the chiefe of the tribes, and of the Priests, twelue men, to wit, Or, Seribius. Elebias and Asanias, and with them tenne of their brethren.

54 And I weighed them the siluer and the golde, and the holy vessels of the House of our Lord, which the King and his counsellors, and his princes, and all Israel had giuen.

55 And I weighed them, sixe hundred and fiftie talents of siluer, and siluer vessels of an hundred talents, and an hundred talents of golde, 56 And twenty golden basins, and twelue vessels of brasse, of fine brasse shining like gold.

57 And I said to them, You are also holy to the Lord, and the vessels are holy, and the golde, and the siluer is a vow to the Lord of our fathers.

58 Watch and keepe them, till that you giue them to the heades of the families of the Priests, and Leuites, and captaines of the families of Israel in Jerusalem in the chambers of the house of our God.

59 So the Priests and Leuites tooke the siluer and the golde, and the vessels, and caried them to Jerusalem to the Temple of the Lord.

60 And wee departed from the flood Cherah, in the twelfth day of the first moneth, and came to Jerusalem, according to the mighty power of our Lord with vs: and the Lord delivered vs from the beginning of our iourney from all enemies. So we came to Jerusalem.

61 And three dayes being past there, in the fourth day the siluer that was weighed, and the golde was delivered in the house of our Lord to Or, Mari- moth the sonne of Ie- ri of Vrie. Or, Noedis, sonnes sonne of Bannus. Barmoth the Priest, the sonne of Touri, 62 And with him to Eleazar the sonne of Phinees: and there were with them, Josabab the sonne of Iesus, and Boeth sonne of Sabbanus, Leuites: all was delivered them by number and weight.

63 And all the weight of them was writen the same houre.

64 Afterwards those that were come out of the captiuitie, offered sacrifices to the Lord God of Israel, even twelue bulles for all Israel, rams fourescore and thirtene, 65 Lambes threescore and twelue, twelue goates for saluation, all in sacrifice to the Lord.

66 And they presented the commandements of the King to the Kings stewards, and to the gouernours of Coelosyria and Phenice, who honoured the people, and the Temple of God.

67 ¶ When these things were done, the gouernours came to mee, saying, The people of Israel, the Princes and the Priests, and the Leuites haue not separated from them the strange people of the land, 68 For the pollutions of the Gentiles, to wit, of the Canaanites, and Cherites, and Pherefices, and Jebusites, and Moabites, and Egyptians, and Idumeans.

69 For they haue dwelt with their daughters, both they and their sonnes, and the holy seed is mixed with the strange people of the land, and the gouernours and rulers haue bene partakers of this wickednesse from the beginning of the thing.

70 And as soone as I had heard these things, I rent my clothes, and the holy garment, and I pulled the haire off mine head, and off my beard, and late mee downe sorrowfull, and very sad.

71 Then also all they that were moued with the word of the Lord God of Israel came to mee whyles I wept for the iniquitie, but I late very sad till the euening sacrifice.

72 Then I rose from the fast with my clothes torne, and the holy garment, and bowed my knees, and stretched forth mine hands to the Lord, 73 And sayd, * O Lord, I am ashamed, and confounded before thy face.

74 For our finnes are increased aboue our heads, and our ignorances are lifted vp to heauen.

75 Pea, euen from the time of our fathers we are in great sinne vnto this day.

76 For our finnes therefore, and our fathers, we with our brethren, with our Kings and Priests haue bene giuen vp to the Kings of the earth, to the sword and to the captiuitie, and for a pray with all shame vnto this day.

77 And now how great hath thy mercy bene O Lord, that there should bee left vs a roote and name in the place of thine holinesse, 78 And that thou shouldest reueale to vs a light in the house of the Lord our God, and giue vs meate in the time of our seruitude!

79 For when we were in bondage, wee were not left of our God, but he gaue vs fauour before the Kings of the Persians, that they should giue vs meate, 80 And that they should honour the Temple of our Lord, and raise vp Sion that is desolate, and giue vs assurance in Iudea and Jerusalem.

81 And now, O Lord, what shall wee say, hauing these things: for wee haue transgressed thy Commandements, which thou hast giuen by the hands of thy seruants the Prophets, saying,

82 * Because the land which yee goe to inherit, is a land polluted by the pollutions of the strangers of the land, which haue filled it with their filthinesse,

83 Therefore now ye shal not toyne their daughters with your sonnes, neither giue your daughters to their sonnes, 84 Neither shal you desire to haue peace with them for euer, that yee may bee made strong, and eate the good things of the land, and leaue it for an inheritance to your children for euer.

85 Therefore all that is come to passe, was done for our wicked workes, and for our great finnes: yet, Lord, thou hast forborne our finnes, 86 And hast giuen vs such a roote: but wee againe haue turned backe to transgress thy Law, and to mixe vs with the uncleannesse of the people of the land.

87 Mightest thou not bee angry with vs to destroy vs, so that thou shouldest neither leaue leane vs roote, nor seede, nor name?

88 But, O Lord of Israel, thou art true: for for there is a roote left, even vnto this day.

89 Behold, wee are now before thee with our iniquities, neither can wee endure before thee for these things.

Eccl. 10. 1.

90 And as Esdras prayed and confessed and wept, and lay upon the ground before the Temple, a very great multitude was gathered vnto him out of Jerusalem, of men and women, and young children: for there was great lamentation among the multitude.

Or, Leiel.

91 Then Iechonias the sonne of // Jeel of the sonnes of Israel, crying out, sayde, O Esdras we haue sinned against the Lord God: wee haue taken in marriage strange women of the nations of the land.

92 And now all Israel is doubtfull: therefore let vs make an oath concerning this to the Lord, to put away all our wiues, which are strangers, with their children.

93 If it seeme good to thee, and to all them that obey the Lawe of the Lord, rise vp and put it in execution.

94 For to thee doeth it appertaine, and wee are with thee to make thee strong.

95 Then Esdras arose, and made all the chiefe of the families of the Priests and Levites of all Israel to swear, that they would doe thus: and they swore.

CHAP. IX.

7 After Esdras had read the laws for the strange wiues, 10 they promise to put them away.

Eccl. 10. 6.

Then Esdras rose from the court of the Temple, and went to the chamber of Joannan the sonne of Eliashib,

2 And being lodged there, hee did eate no bread, nor dranke water, but mourned for the great iniquities of the multitude.

3 And there was a proclamation in all Iudea and Jerusalem, to all them that were of the captiuitie, that they should bee gathered to Jerusalem.

4 And that all they which should not meete there within two or three dayes, according to the ordinance of the Elders, which bare rule, should haue their cattell confiscate to the Temple, and be cast out from among them of the captiuitie.

5 Then all they which were of the tribe of Iuda and Benjamin, came together within three dayes into Jerusalem: this was the ninth moneth, and twentieth day of the moneth.

6 And all the multitude late in the broad place of the Temple shaking, because of the extreme winter.

7 Then Esdras arose and saide to them. See haue sinned: for yee haue married strange wiues, so that yee haue augmented the sinnes of Israel.

8 Nowe therefore confesse and glorifie the Lord God of our fathers, 9 And doe his will, and separate your selues from the people of the land, and from the strange wiues.

10 Then all the multitude cried out and saide with a loude voyce, Wee will doe as thou hast sayde.

11 But because the multitude is great, and the time is winter, so that wee cannot stand without, and the worke is not of one day nor of two, seeing that many of vs haue sinned in this matter,

12 Let the chiefe men of the multitude, and al they which haue strange wiues of our families, tarry:

13 And let the Priests and Judges come out of all places at the day appointed, till they haue appealed the wrath of the Lord against vs for this matter.

14 Then Ionathas Alais sonne, and // Ezecias sonne of // Thecan were appointed concerning these things, and Bosollam and Sabbatus did helpe them.

15 And they which were of the captiuitie, did after all these things.

16 Esdras the Priest also chose him certaine men, chiefe of their families, all by name: and they late together in the first day of the tenth moneth to examine this matter.

17 And they made an end of the things pertaining to them that had married strange wiues in the first day of the first moneth.

18 And there were found of the Priests which had married strange wiues, Neh. 8. 1.

38 ¶ Then all the multitude assembled together with one consent into the broad place before the gate of the Temple toward the East, 39 And spake to Esdras the Priest, and reader, that hee should bring the Law of Moyses, which had been given by the Lord God of Israel.

40 Then brought Esdras the chiefe Priest the Law to all the multitude, both man and woman, & to all the Priests, that they might heare the Law the first day of the seventh moneth.

41 And he read in the first broad place of the gate of the Temple, from morning to midday, before the men and the women, and all the multitude hearkened to the Lawe.

42 So Esdras the Priest, and reader of the Law, stood upon a pulpit of wood that was prepared.

45 Then Esdras tooke the booke of the Law before the multitude (for he sate honourably before them all)

46 And they all stood upright when hee expounded the Law, and Esdras blessed the Lord the most high God, the most mighty God of hostes.

47 And the whole multitude cried, Amen.

48 Then Jesus, and ¶ Anus, and Sarabias, ¶ Or, Bani.

and Adinus, and Jacobus, Sabataias, Auranas, Malanias, and Calitas, Azarias, and Joazabbus and Ananias, & Biatas the Levites lift up their hands, and fell downe on the ground, and worshipped the Lord, 49 And taught the Lawe of the Lord, and stood also earnestly upon the reading.

50 Then sayd ¶ Aththarates to Esdras the chiefe Priest and Reader, and to the Levites, that taught the multitude in all things, This day is holy unto the Lord, and all haue wept in hearing of the Law.

¶ Or, Nehemias.

51 So therefore and eate the fatte meates, and drinke the sweete drinckes, and send presents to them that haue not.

52 For this day is holy to the Lord, and be not sorry: for the Lord God will glorifie you.

53 So the Levites commaunded all these things to the people, saying, This day is holy to the Lord: be not sad.

54 Then they departed all to eat and drinke, and to reioyce, and to give presents to them that had not, and to make good chere.

55 For they were yet filled with the wordes wherewith they were instructed, when they were assembled together.

33 I Elias receiued a charge of the Lord vpon the mount Horeb, that I should goe vnto them of Israel, but when I came to them, they cast me off, and despised the commandement of the Lord.

34 And therefore I say vnto you, O yee heathen, that heare and vnderstand, Waite for your shepheard, who shall giue you euerlasting rest: for hee is nere at hand, that shall come in the ende of the world.

35 Bee ready to the reward of the kingdome: for the euerlasting light shall shine vpon you for euermore.

38 Arise and stand vp, and behold the number of those that are sealed for the feast of the Lord.

39 Which are departed from the shadow of the world, and haue receiued glorious garments of the Lord.

40 Take thy number, O Sion, and shut vp them that are clothed in white, which haue fulfilled the Law of the Lord.

41 The number of thy children whom thou longest for, is fulfilled: beseech the power of the Lord, that the people which haue bene called from the beginning may be sanctified.

42 * I Elias saw vpon mount Sion a great people whom I could not number, and they all praised the Lord with songs.

43 And in the mids of them there was a yong man higher in stature then them all, and vpon euery one of their heades hee set crownes, and was higher then the others, which I much marvelled at.

44 So I asked the Angel, and saide, Who are these my Lord?

45 Who answered and saide vnto mee, These be they that haue put off the mortal clothing, and haue put on the immortal, and haue confessed the Name of God: now are they crowned, and receiue the palmes.

46 Then saide I vnto the Angel, What yong man is it that setteth crownes on them, and giueth them the palmes in their hands?

47 And he answered, and saide vnto me, It is the Sonne of God, whom they haue confessed in the world. Then began I greatly to commend them, that had stood so strongly for the Name of the Lord.

48 Then the Angel saide vnto me, See thy way, and tell my people, what, and how great wonders of the Lord God thou hast seene.

CHAP. III.

4 The wonderful works, which God did for the people, are recited, 31 Esdras maruileth that God suffereth the Babylonians to haue rule ouer his people, which yet are sinners also.

In the thirtieth yeere after the fall of the citie, as I was at Babylon, I lay troubled vpon my bed, and my thoughts came vnto mine heart,

2 Because I saw the desolation of Sion, and the wealth of them that dwelt at Babylon.

3 So my spirit was sore moued, so that I began to speake fearful words to the most High, and saide,

4 O Lord, Lord, thou spakest at the beginning when thou alone plantedst the earth, and and ganest commandement vnto the people,

5 * And a body vnto Adam without a soule, who was also the workmanship of thine hands, and hast breathed in him the breath of life, so that he liueth before thee,

6 And ledst him into Paradise, which thy right hand had planted, or euer the earth brought forth,

7 Euen then thou ganest him commandement to loue thy way: but he transgressed it, and immediatly thou appointedst death to him and his generation, of whom came nations, tribes, people, and kindreds out of number.

8 * And euery people walked after their owne will, and did wonderfull things before thee, and despised thy commandements.

9 * But at the time appointed thou broughtest the flood vpon those that dwelt in the world, and destroyedst them, 10 So that by the flood, that came to ouerthrow one of them, which came by death vnto Adam.

11 Yet thou lesteit one, euen * Noe, with his household, of whom came all righteous men.

12 And when they that dwelt vpon the earth, began to multiply, and the number of the children, people, and many nations were increased, they began to be more vngodly then the first.

13 Now when they liued wickedly before thee, thou didst chuse thee a man from among them, whose name was * Abraham.

14 Whom thou louedst, and vnto whom only thou shewdest thy will,

15 And madest an euerlasting couenant with him, promising him that thou wouldest neuer forsake his seed.

16 * And vnto him thou ganest Isaac, * vnto Isaac also thou ganest Jacob and Esau, and didst

19 And thy glory went thorow foure gates of fire, with earthquakes, wind and cold, that thou mightest giue the Law vnto the seede of Jacob, and that which the generation of Israel should diligently obserue.

20 Yet tookest thou not away from them the wicked heart, that thy Law might bring forth fruit in them.

Gen. 3. 6.

21 For *Adam first hauing a wicked heart, was ouercome and vanquished, and all they that are borne of him.

25 When this was done many yeeeres, the inhabitants forsooke thee, 26 Following the wayes of Adam and all his generation: for they also had a wicked heart.

27 Therefore thou gauest the citie ouer into the hands of thine enemies.

28 But doe they that dwell at Babylon, any better, that they should haue the dominion of Sion?

29 For when I came thither, and sawe their wicked deedes without number (for this is the thirtieth yere that I see many trespassing) I was discouraged.

30 For I saw, how thou sufferedst them that sinne, and sparedst the wicked doers, whereas thou hast destroyed thine owne people, and preferred thine enemies, and thou hast not shewed it.

31 I cannot perceiue how this cometh to passe. Are the deedes of Babylon better then they of Sion?

32 Or is there any other people that knoweth thee besides Israel? or what generation hath so beleued thy testimonies as Jacob?

33 And yet their reward appeareth not, and their labour hath no fruit: for I haue gone here & there thorowout the heathen: & I see them flourishing, and thinke not vpon thy commandments.

34 Altho thou therfore our wickednes now in the ballance, and theirs also that dwell in the world, and no mention of thee shall be found but in Israel.

35 Or when is it that they that dwell on the earth haue not sinned in thy sight? or what people hath kept thy commandments?

36 Thou shalt surely find that Israel by name hath kept thy precepts, but not the heathen.

CHAP. IIII.

* The Angel reprooueth Eldras, because hee seemed to enter into the profound iudgements of God,

And the Angel that was sent vnto mee, whose name was Uriel, answered,

2 And said, Thine heart hath taken too much vpon it in this world, and thou thinkest to comprehend the wayes of the highest.

3 Then said I, Yea, my Lord. And he answered mee, and saide, I am sent to shew thee three wayes, and to set forth three similitudes before thee,

4 Whereof if thou canst declare mee one, I will shew thee also the way that thou desirest to see, and I will shew thee from whence the wicked heart cometh.

5 And I said, Tell on, my Lord. Then saide hee vnto mee, See thy way, weigh mee the weight of the fire, or measure me the blast of the winde, or call me againe the day that is past.

6 Then answered I, and said, What man is borne, that can doe that which thou requirest me, concerning these things?

7 And he said vnto me, If I should aske thee, how deepe dwellings are in the mids of the sea, or how great springs are in the beginning of the depth, or how great springs are in the stretching out of the heauen, or which are the borders of Paradise,

8 Peraduenture thou wouldest say vnto mee, I neuer went downe to the deepe, nor yet to the hell, neither did I euer climbe vp to heauen.

9 But now I haue asked thee but of fire and winde, and of the day, whereby thou hast passed, and from the which things thou canst not bee separated, and yet canst thou giue mee none answer of them.

10 He says moreover vnto mee, Thine owne things, & such as are growen vp with thee, canst thou not know?

11 How should thy vessell then bee able to comprehend the wayes of the Highest, and now outwardly in the corrupt world, to vnderstand the corruption, that is euident in my sight?

12 Then said I vnto him, It were better that wee were not at all, then that we should liue in wickednesse, and to suffer, and not to know wherefore.

13 And hee answered mee, and said, *I came to a Forrest in the plaine where the trees held a councell, Judg. 9. 8.

3. chr. 2. 5. 18

14 And said, Come, let vs goe fight against the sea, that it may giue place to vs, and that wee may make vs more woods.

15 Likewise the floods of the Sea tooke councell, and said, Come, let vs goe vp and fight against the trees of the wood, that we may get another countrey for vs.

16 But the purpose of the wood was vaine: for the fire came and consumed it.

17 Likewise also the purpose of the floods of the sea: for the land stood vp and stopped them.

18 If thou were iudge betweene these two, whom wouldest thou iustifie: or whom wouldest thou condemne?

19 I answered, and sayd, Clearly it is a foolish purpose, that they both haue deuised: for the ground is appointed for the wood, and the Sea hath his place to beare his floods.

20 Then answered he me, and sayd, Thou hast giuen a right iudgement: but why iudgest thou not thy selfe also?

21 For like as the ground is appointed for the the wood, and the sea for his floods, so they that dwell upon earth can understand nothing, but that which is upon earth: and they that are in the heavens, the things that are about the height of the heavens.

22 Then answered I, and said, I beseech thee, O Lord, let understanding be given me.

23 For I did not purpose to enquire of thine high things, but of such as were dayly meddle withall, namely, wherefore Israel is made a reproch to the heathen, and for what cause the people whom thou hast loved, is given over to wicked nations, and why the Law of our fathers is abolished, and the written ceremonies are come to none effect.

24 Why we are tossed to and fro through the world as the grasshoppers, and our life is a very feare, and we are not thought worthy to obtaine mercy.

25 But what will he do to his Name which is called upon over vs? Of these things haue I asked the question.

26 Then answered hee mee, and sayd, The more thou searcest, the more thou shalt marvel: for the world hasteth fast to passe away.

27 And cannot comprehend the things that are promised to the righteous in time to come: for this world is full of vnrightheousnesse and weaknesse.

28 But to declare thee the things whereof thou askest, the euill is sowne, but the destruction thereof is not yet come.

29 If the euill now that is sowne be not turned upside downe, and if the place where the euill is sowne, passe not away, then cannot the thing come that is sowne with good.

30 For the corne of euill seed hath bene sowne in the heart of Adam from the beginning, and how much vngodlines hath he brought vp vnto this time? And how much shall he bring forth vntill the harvest come?

31 Wonder with thy selfe, how much fruite of wickednesse the corne of euill seed bringeth forth.

32 And when the stalkes shall bee cut downe, which are without number, how great an harvest must be prepared.

33 Then I answered, and sayd, How, and when shall these things come to passe? Wherefore are our yeeres few and euill?

34 And he answered me, saying, Waste not to bee about the most high: for thou labourst in vaine to bee about him, though thou endeuour neuer so much.

35 Did not the soules also of the righteous aske question of these things in their chambers, saying, How long shall I thus hope? and when cometh the fruite of my barne, and our wages?

36 And vpon this Jeremiel the Archangel answered, and sayd, When the number of the seedes is filled in you: for hee hath weighed the world in the ballance.

37 The measure of the times is measured: the ages are counted by number, and they shall not be moued or shaken, till the measure thereof be fulfilled.

38 Then answered I, & said, O Lord, Lord, we are all euen full of sinne.

39 And for our sake peradventure the harvest of the righteous is not fulfilled, because of the sinne of them that dwell vpon earth.

40 So hee answered mee, and sayd, Go and aske a woman with child, when shee hath fulfilled her nine moneths, if her wombe may keep the birth any longer within her?

41 Then said I, No, Lord, she cannot. And he said vnto me, In the graue the places of soules are like the wombe.

42 For as shee that is with child, hasteth to escape the necessitie of the trauel, so do the places haste to deliuer those things that are committed vnto them.

43 That which thou desirest to see, shall be shewed thee from the beginning.

44 Then answered I, and said, If I haue found grace in thy sight, and if it be possible, and if I be meet therefore, 45 Shew me whether there be more to come then is past, or more things past, then are to come.

46 What is past, I knowe, but what is to come, I know not.

47 And he said vnto me, Stand on the right side, and I will expound thee this by example.

48 So I stood, and beheld, a hote burning ouen passed before me: and when the flame was gone by, I looked, and beheld, the smoke had the vpper hand.

49 After this there passed before me a watry cloud, and sent down much raine with a storme: and when the stormy raine was past, the drops came after.

50 Then said he vnto me, Consider with thy selfe, as the raine is more then the drops, and as fire exceedeth the smoke, so the portion that is past, hath the vpper hand, and the drops and the smoke were much.

51 Then I prayed, and sayd, May I liue, thinkest thou, vntill that time? Or what shall come to passe in those dayes?

52 He answered me, and said, Of the tokens whereof thou askest mee, I can tell thee a part: but I am not sent to shew thee of thy life: for I doe not know it.

CHAP. V.

1 In the latter times truth shall be hid. 10 Vnrightheousnesse and all wickednesse shall reigne in the world. 23 Israel is reiected, and God deliuereth them. 35 God doth all things in season.

NEuerrhelesse concerning the tokens, behold the times shall come, that they which dwell vpon earth shall be taken in a great number, and the way of the truth shall bee hid, and the land shall be barren from faith.

2 And iniquity shall be increased more then thou hast seene now, or hast heard in time past.

3 And it shall come to passe that one shall set in foote, and thou shalt see the land desolate, which now reigneth.

4 Yea, if God graunt thee to liue, thou shalt see after the third trumpet, that the Sun shall suddenly shine againe in the night, & the moone three times a day.

5 Blood shall drop out of the wood, and the stone shall giue his voice, and the people shall bee moued.

6 And hee shall rule, of whom they hope not that dwell vpon earth, and the foules shall change place.

7 And

7 And the sea of Sodom shall cast out fish, and make a noise in the night, which many shall not knowe, but they shall all heare the voyce thereof.

8 There shall be a confusion in many places, and the fire shall oft breake forth, and the wild beasts shall change their places, and menstruous women shall beare monsters.

9 And salt waters shall be found in the sweet, and all friends shall fight one against another: then shall wit hide it selfe, and vnderstanding depart into his secret chamber.

10 It shall be sought of many, and yet not be found: then shall vnrighteousnesse and voluptuousnesse haue the vpper hand vpon earth.

11 One land also shall alke another, and say, Is righteous iustice gone thorow thee? And it shall say, No.

12 At the same time shall men hope, but not obtaine: they shall labour, but their enterprises shall not prosper.

13 To shewe thee such tokens I haue leaue: and if thou wilt pray againe, and weepe, as now, and fast seuen dayes, thou shalt heare yet greater things then these.

14 Then I awaked, and a fearefulnesse went thorow all my body, and my minde was feeble and fainted.

15 But the Angel that was come to talke with me, held me, comforted mee, and set mee vp vpon my feet.

16 And in the second night, Salathiel the Captaine of the people came vnto mee, saying, Where hast thou bene? and why is thy countenance so heauy?

17 Knowest thou not that Israel is committed vnto thee in the lande of their captiuitie?

18 Thy then and eat, and forsake vs not, as the shepheard that leaue his flocke in the hands of the cruell wolues.

19 Then sayd I vnto him, Goe thy wayes from me, and come not nere me: and when hee heard it, he went from me.

20 And I fasted seuen dayes, mourning, and weeping, as Ariel the Angel had commaunded mee.

21 And after seuen dayes the thoughts of mine heart were very grievous vnto mee againe,

22 And I had a desire to reason againe, and I beganne to talke with the most High againe, 23 And said, O Lord, Lord: of euery forrest of the earth, and of all the trees thereof thou hast chosen thee one onely vineyard.

24 And of all landes of the world thou hast chosen thee one pit, and of all the flowers of the ground thou hast chosen thee one lillie,

25 And of all the depths of the sea thou hast filled thee one riuer, and of all builded cities, thou hast sanctified Sion vnto thy selfe.

26 And of all the foules that are created, thou hast named thee one doue, and of all the cattell that are made, thou hast appoynted thee one sheepe.

27 And among all the multitude of people, thou hast gotten thee one people, and vnto this people whom thou louedst thou gauest a Lawe, that is proued of all.

28 And now, O Lord, why hast thou giuen this one people oute vnto many? and vpon one root thou hast set others, and hast scattered thy onely people among many.

29 They reade them downe, which haue withstood thy promises, and beleene not thy testimonies.

30 And if thou didst so much hate thy people, they should haue bene punished with thine owne hands.

31 Now when I had spoken these words, the Angel that came to me the night before, was sent vnto me, 32 And sayd vnto me, Heare mee, and I will teach thee, and hearken what I may instruct thee further.

33 And I sayd, Speake on, my Lord. Then said he vnto mee, Thou art sore vexed and troubled for Israels sake. Louest thou them better then he doeth that made them?

34 And I said, No, Lord: but of very sorrow haue I spoken: for my reines paine mee euery houre, while I labour to comprehend the way of the most High, and to seeke out part of his iudgement.

35 And hee sayd vnto mee, Thou canst not. And I sayd, Wherefore Lord, wherefore was I borne? or why was not my mothers wombe then my graue? so had I not felt the trouble of Iacob, and the griefe of the flocke of Israel.

36 And he sayd vnto mee, Number vnto mee the things that are not yet come, or gather mee the drops that are scattered, or make me the withered flowers greene againe.

37 Open mee the places that are closed, and bring me forth the winds that are shut vp therein: shew me the image of a voyce, and then will I declare thee the thing that thou askest, and labourist to knowe.

38 And I said, O Lord, Lord, who can knowe these things, but hee that hath not his dwelling with men?

39 But I that am ignorant, how can I speake of these things, wherof thou askest mee?

40 Then said he vnto me, Like as thou canst doe none of these things that I haue spoken of, so canst thou not finde out my iudgement, nor the least benefite, that I haue promised vnto my people.

41 Then I sayd, Beholde, O Lord, the last things are present vnto thee, and what shalt they do that haue bene before me, or we that be now, or they that shall come after vs?

42 And hee sayd vnto mee, I will compare my iudgement vnto a ring: as there is no slacknesse of the last, so is there no swiftnesse of the first.

43 Then I answered, and said, Couldst thou not make at once, those that haue bene, those that are now, and those that shall come, that thou mightest shew thy iudgement the sooner?

44 Then answered hee mee, The creature, said he, cannot preuent the Creator, neither can the world hold them at once, that shall be created therein.

45 And I sayde, As thou hast taught thy seruant, that thou which giuest strength to all, hast giuen life at once to all the worke created by thee, and hast sustained it, so might it now

now also containe all men at once.

46 And he said vnto me, Aske the wombe of a woman, and say vnto her, Why must thou haue time before thou bringest forth? require her to bring forth men at once.

47 And I said, Surely she cannot, but by distance of time.

48 Then said he vnto me, So haue I divided the number of the earth by times when seed is sown vpon it.

49 For as a young child begetteth not that that belongeth to the aged, so haue I ordained the time which I haue created.

50 ¶ I asked againe, and said, Seeing thou hast now shewed me the way, I will proceede to speake before thee: for our mother, whom thou hast told me is young, diuorced shee next vnto age?

51 He answered me, and said, Aske a woman that trauielleth, and she will tell thee.

52 Say vnto her, Wherefore are not they whom thou hast now brought forth, like those that were before thee, but lesse of stature?

53 And she shall answer thee, Some were borne in the floure of youth, others were borne in the time of age, when the wombe failed.

54 Consider now thy selfe, how that yee are lesse of stature then those that were before you.

55 And so are they that come after you, lesse then yee, as the creatures which now begin to bee olde, and haue passed ouer the strength of youth.

56 Then said I, Lord, I beseech thee, if I haue found fauour in thy sight, shewe thy seruant, by whome doest thou gouerne thy worke-manship?

CHAP. VI.

God hath foreseene all things in his secret counsell, and is author thereof, and hath created them for his children.
25 The felicitie of the age to come.

AND hee said vnto me, In the beginning when the round world was made, and before the borders of the world were set and before the windes blew one against another:

2 Before the noyse of thunders sounded, before the bright lightning did shine forth, before the foundations of paradise were laid:

3 Before the faire floures did appeare, before the moueable powers were established, before the innumerable armies of Angels were gathered:

4 Before the heights of the ayre were lifted vp, before the measures of the heauens were named, before the chimneys in Sion were hote:

5 Before the present yeeres were sought out, and before the afflictions of them that now sinne, were turned away, and they that haue lathe vp the treasure of faith, were sealed,

6 Then did I purpose these things, and they were made by mee alone, and by none other: by mee also they shall bee ended, and by none other.

7 Then answered I, and said, What shall bee the diuision of times? or when shall bee the end of the first, and the beginning of it that followeth?

8 And hee said vnto me, From Abraham vnto Isaac, when Jacob and Esau were borne of him, Jacobs hand held first the heele of Esau.

Gen. 25. 26.

9 For Esau is the end of this world, and Jacob is the beginning of it that followeth.

10 The hand of man is betwixt the heele and the hand. Dost thou thinke, Esau, aske thou not.

11 ¶ I answered then, and said, O Lord, Lord, if I haue found fauour in thy sight, 12 I beseech thee, make an end to shewe thy seruant thy tokens. wherof thou shewdest mee part the last night.

13 So he answered mee, and said, Stand vp vpon thy feete, and heare a mighty sounding voyce.

14 There shall come as an earthquake, but the place where thou standest shall not bee moued.

15 And therefore when hee speaketh, be not afraid: for of the ende shall bee the word, and of the foundation of the earth shall it bee understood.

16 Therefore while one speaketh of them, it trembleth, and is moued: for it knoweth that it must be changed at the end.

17 And when I had heard it, I stood vp vpon my feete, and hearkened, and behold, there was a voyce that spake, and the sound of it was like the sound of many waters:

18 And it said, Behold, the dayes come, that I will come and enquire of them that dwell vpon the earth.

19 And when I beganne to enquire of them, who by their unrighteousnesse haue hurt others, and when the affliction of Sion shall be fulfilled,

20 And the world that shall vanish away, shall be sealed, then will I shewe these signes: the books shall be opened before the heauen, and they shall see all it together.

21 And the children of a peere olde shall speake with their voyces: the women with child shall bring forth vntimely children of thre or foure months old, and they shall liue that are raised vp.

22 Then suddenly shall the sown places appeare as the vn sown, and the full store houses shall suddenly be found empty.

23 And the trumpet shall sound, and all they that heare it, shall be suddenly afraid.

24 At that time shall friends fight with friends, as with enemies: and the earth shall feare with them: the springs of the welles shall stand still, and in thre houres they shall not runne.

25 Whosoener remaineth from al these things that I haue told thee, shall be saved and see my saluation, and the end of your world.

26 And the men that are receiued, shall see it: they that haue not tasted death from their birth, and the heart of the inhabitants shall be changed, and turned to another meaning.

27 For euill shall be put out, and deede shall be quenched.

28 But faith shall flourish: corruption shall be ouercome, and the treach which hath bin so long without fruit, shall come forth.

29 And

29 And when hee talked with me, behold, I looked a little vpon him before whom I stood.

30 And these wordes said he vnto mee, I am come to shew thee the time of the night to come.

31 If thou wilt pray againe & fast seuen daies more, I will tell thee more things, and greater then these, which I haue heard in the day.

32 For thy voice is heard before the Highest: surely the Highest hath seene thy righteous dealing: he hath seene also thy chastitie which thou hast kept since thy youth.

33 Therefore hath he sent me to shew thee all these things, and to say vnto thee, Be of good comfort, and feare not,

34 And haste not in the vaine consideration of the first times, nor make haste to the latter times.

35 And after this I wept againe, and fasted seuen daies in like manner, that I might fulfill the three weekes, which he had appointed me.

36 And in the eight night was mine heart vexed within me againe, and I began to speake before the most High.

37 For my spirit was greatly set on fire, and my soule was in distress.

38 And I said, O Lord, thou spakest expressly in the first creation (euen the first day) and commandedst that the heauen and the earth should be made, and the worke followed thy word.

39 And then was there the spirit, and the darkenesse was on euery side with silence: there was no mans voice as yet created of thee.

40 Then commandedst thou a bright light to come forth out of thy treasures, that it might giue light to thy worke.

41 Upon the second day thou createdst the heauenly aie, and commandedst it, that going betweene, it should make a diuision between the waters, that the one part might remaine aboue, and the other beneath.

42 Upon the third day thou commandedst, that the waters should be gathered together in the seventh part of the earth: five parts diddest thou day, & kept them, to the intent that of these there should be that should seene thee, being sown of God and filled.

43 As soone as thy word went forth, the worke was incontinently made.

44 For immediately great and innumerable fruit did spring vp, and many diuers pleasures for the taste, and floures of vchangeable colour, and odours of a most wonderfull smell, and these things were created the third day.

45 Upon the fourth day thou createdst the light of the sunne, and of the moone, and the order of the starres.

46 And gauest them a charge, to doe seruice euen vnto man that was for to be made.

47 And vpon the fift day thou saydest vnto the seventh part where the waters were gathered that it should bring forth beastes, as fowles and fishes: and it was so.

48 For the dumbe waters, and without life, brought forth liuing things at the commandment of God, that the nations might praise thy wonderous workes.

49 Then diddest thou prepare two liuing things: the one thou calledst Behemoth, and the other thou calledst Leuiathan.

50 And didst separate the one from the other:

for the seventh part where the water was gathered could not hold them.

51 Vnto Behemoth thou gauest one part, which was dyed by the third day, that he should dwell in the same part, wherein are a thousand hills.

52 But vnto Leuiathan thou gauest the seventh part that is wet, and hast prepared him to deuoure what thou wilt, and when thou wilt.

53 Upon the sixth day thou gauest commandment vnto the earth, that before thee it should bring forth beastes, cattell, and creeping things.

54 And besides this, Adam, whom thou made lord ouer all the worke which thou hast created, of him come we all, & the people also, whom thou hast chosen.

55 All this haue I spoken before thee, O Lord, because thou hast created the world for our sakes.

56 As for the other people which also come of Adam, thou hast declared them that they are nothing before thee, but be like vnto spittle, and hast compared their riches vnto a drop that falleth from a vessel.

57 And now, O Lord, behold, these heathen which haue bene reputed as nothing, haue begun to be lords ouer vs, and to deuoure vs.

58 And wee thy people (whom thou hast called the first borne, the only begotten, and thy seruient souer) are giuen into their hands.

59 If the world then bee created for our sakes, why haue wee not the inheritance thereof in possession? or how long shall we suffer these things?

CHAP. VII.

5 Without tribulation none can come to felicitie. 12 God aduerseth all in time. 28 The coming and death of Christ. 32 The resurrection and last iudgement. 43 After the which all corruption shall cease. 48 All fell in Adam. 59 The true life. 62 The mercies and goodness of God.

AND when I had made an ende of these wordes, there was sent vnto mee an Angel which had bene sent downe to mee the nights afore.

2 And he said vnto me, Up, Esdras, and heare the wordes that I am come to tell thee.

3 And I sayd, Speake on, my God. Then said he vnto mee, The sea is set in a wide place, that it might be deepe and great.

4 But presuppose that the entrance thereof were narrow, and like the riuers,

5 Who could goe into the sea to looke vpon it, and to rule it? if he went not thorow the narrow, how could he come into the broad?

6 There is also another thing: a city is builded and set vpon a broad field, and is full of all good things:

7 The entrance thereof is narrow, and in a dangerous place to fall, that there is fire at the right hand, and a deepe water at the left,

8 And there is but one path betweene them, euen betwixt the fire and the water, so that there could but one man goe there.

9 If this cite were giuen vnto a man for an inheritance, if hee neuer went thorow the perill before it, how could hee receiue his inheritance?

|| Or, Enoch.

10 And I said, Is it so, Lord. Then said he, So is the portion of Israel.

11 Surely for their sakes have I made the world: and when Adam transgressed my Statutes, then came this thing to passe.

12 Then were the entrances of the world made narrow, full of sorrow and trouble: they are but few and evil, and full of perils, and very painefull.

13 For the entrances of the fore-world were wide and sure, and brought immortall fruit.

14 If then they that are living, labour not to enter by these strait and brittle things, they cannot attaine to those things that are hid.

15 Why then disquietest thou thy selfe, seeing thou art corruptible: and why art thou moued, seeing thou art mortall?

16 And why hast thou not considered in thy mind the things to come, rather then them that are present?

Deut. 8. 1.

17 Then said I, O Lord, Lord, *seeing thou hast ordained in thy Lawe, that the righteous should inherit these things, and that the vngodly should perish, 18 Should the righteous suffer straitnesse in hoping for large things: yet they that have lived vngodly and suffered straitnesse, shall not see the large things.

19 Then he said vnto me, There is no Judge moze iust then God, and there is none moze wise then the most High.

20 For many perish in this life, because they despise the Law of God that is appointed.

21 For God hath diligently admonished such as come so oft as they came, what they should doe to haue life, and what they should obserue to auoyd punishment.

22 Nevertheless, they were not obedient vnto him, but spake against him, and imagined vaine things, 23 And deceived themselves by their wicked deedes, and denied the power of the most High, and regarded not his wayes.

24 But they despised his Law, and refused his promises: they have vnfaithfully broken his ordinances, and haue not performed his works.

25 And therefore, Elders, vnto the empye are empye things, and to the full full things.

26 Beholde, the time shall come, that these tokens which I haue tolde thee, shall come to passe, and the bride shall appeare, and shee shall come forth, and bee seene that now is vnder the earth.

27 And whosoever shall escape these evils, he shall see my wonders.

28 For my Sonne Iesus shall appeare with those that bee with him, and they that remaine, shall reioyce with in foure hundred yeeres.

29 After these same yeeres shall my Sonne Christ dye, and all men that haue life.

30 And the world shall be turned into the old silence for seven daies, as in the fore iudgments, so that no men shall remaine.

31 But after seven daies, the world that is yet asleepe, shall be raised vp: and that shall die that is corrupt.

32 Then the earth shall restore those, that haue slept in her, and so shall the dust those that dwell therein in silence, and the secret places shall deliuer the soules that were committed vnto them.

33 And the most High shall appeare vpon the seate of Iudgement, and miseries shall vanish away, and long suffering shall haue an end, 34 Justice onely shall continue: the truth shall remaine, and faith shall be strong.

35 The worke shall follow, and the reward shall be shewed: the good deeds shall be of force, and vngodlinesse shall beare no moze rule.

36 Then said I, *Abraham prayed first for the Sodomiters, and *Hoses for the Fathers that sinned in the wilderness:

37 And they that came after him, for Israel in the time of Achaz and Samuel,

38 And *David for the destruction, and *Solomon for them that came into the Sanctuarie, 39 *And Elias for those that receiued raine, and for the dead that he might liue, 40 And *Ezechias for the people in the time of Sennacherib, and diuers others for many.

41 Euen so now, seeing vice is increased, and wickednesse aboundeth, and the righteous haue prayed for the vngodly, wherfore shall not the same effect follow also now?

42 Then hee answered mee, and said, This present life is not the end. oft times honour is receiued in it: therefore haue they prayed for the wake.

43 But the day of iudgement shall be the end of this world, and the beginning of the immortalitye to come, wherein all corruption shall cease.

44 Intemperancie shall passe away: insensitie shall be cut off: righteousness shall grow vp, and the veritie shall spring vp.

45 Then shall no man bee able to saue him that is destroyed, nor oppresse him that hath gotten the victory.

46 I answered then, and said, This is my first and last saying, that it had bene better not to haue giuen the earth vnto Adam, or when it was giuen him, to haue kept him that he should not haue sinned.

47 For what profit is it for men in this present life to bee in heauinesse, and after death to feare punishment?

48 O Adam, what hast thou done? *for in that that thou hast sinned, thou art not fallen alone, but the fall also redoundeth vnto vs that come of thee.

49 For what profit is it vnto vs, if there be promised an immortall life, when wee doe the workes that bring death?

50 And that an everlasting hope should bee promised vs, seeing that wee becom our selues to deadly banister?

51 And that there should bee appointed vs dwellings of health and safetie, if we haue lived wickedly?

52 And that the glory of the most High should be kept to defend them which haue led a patient life, if wee haue walked in the wicked wayes?

53 And that an eternall Paradise should bee shewed, whose fruit remaineth incorruptible, wherein is safety and health, if we will not enter into it.

54 (For we haue bene conuersant in displeasing places.)

55 And that the faces of them, which haue abstained, abstained, should shine more then starres, if our faces be blacker then darknesse?

56 For while we liued, we did not remember when we did vniigh:rouly, that we should suffer after death.

57 Then answered he me, and said, This is the manner of the battell, which man that is boune in the earth, shall fight, 58 That if he be overcome, he should suffer as thou hast said, but if he get the victory, he should receive the thing that I said.

Deut. 30. 19. 59 For this is the life wherof Moyses spake vnto the people, while he liued, saying, * Choose thee life that thou mayest liue.

60 Nevertheless they beleued him not, neither the Prophets after him, nor me also which haue said vnto them, 61 That heauinesse should not so be to their destruction, as they should come vnto them, to whom saluation is perswaded.

62 I answered then, and said, I know, Lord, that the most High is called merciful, in that he hath mercy vpon them, which are not yet come to that world,

63 And that he hath pittie on those that walke in his Law,

Rom. 2. 4. 64 And that he is patient: for he long suffe: reth those that haue sinned as his creatures,

65 And that he is liberall: for he wil giue as much as needeth,

66 And that he is of great mercy: for heeouercommeth in mercy those that are present, and that are past, and them which are to come.

67 For if he were not abundant in his mercies, the world could not continue, nor they that haue the possession thereof.

68 Wee pardoneth also: for if hee gaue not of his goodnesse, that they which haue done euill, might be relieved from their wickednes, he ten thousand part of them should not remaine alive,

69 And if he, being Iudge, forgave not those that hee healed with his word, and tooke away the multitude of sinners, 70 There should peradventure bee very few left in an innumerable multitude.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The number of the godly is but small. 6 The workes of God are excellent. 20 Eldras prayer for him and for his people. 39 The promise of saluation to the iust. 55 The destruction of the vniuers.

And he answered me, saying, The most High made this world for many, but the world to come for few.

2 I will tell thee a similitude, O Eldras. As when thou alkest the earth, it shal say vnto thee, that it giueth much earthly matter to make pots, but little dust that gold cometh of, so is it with the worke of this world.

Mat. 20. 16. 3 * There be many created, but few shall be saved.

4 Then answered I, and said, Then swallow by the wit, O my soule, and denounce vnderstanding.

5 For thou hast promised to heare, and thou wilt prophesie: for thou hast no longer space, but the life giuen thee.

6 O Lord, if thou suffer not thy seruant, that we may entreat thee, that thou mayest giue seed vnto our heart, and prepare our vnderstanding, that there may come fruit of it, whereby euery one that is corrupt, may liue, who can set himselfe for man?

7 For thou art alone, and wee all are one workmanship of thy hands, as thou hast said.

8 For when the body is fashioned now in the wombe, and thou hast giuen it members, thy creature is preserved by fire and water, and the worke created by thee, both suffer nine moneths the creature which is fashioned in it.

9 But the thing that concerneth, and that which is contained, shall both bee preserved, and when time is come, the wombe bring forth, delivereth the things that grew in it.

10 For thou hast commanded the members, even the breasts to giue milke vnto the fruit appointed to the breasts, 11 That the thing which is created, may be nourished for a time, till thou disposest it to thy mercy.

12 Thou bringest it vp with thy righteousness, noururest it in thy Law, and reformest it with thy iudgement.

13 Thou slayest it as thy creature, and giuest it life as thy worke.

14 Seeing then that thou destroyest him, which with so great labors is fashioned, it is an easie thing to appoint by thy Commandement, that the thing also which is made, might be preserved.

15 Now therefore, O Lord, I will speake (as touching men in generall, thou shalt rather provide) but concerning thy people, for whose sake I am sorry,

16 And for thine inheritance, for whose cause I mourne: for Israel, for whom I am wofull, and for Jacob for whose sake I am grieved:

17 For them will I pray before thee, as well for my selfe as for them: for I see our faults that dwell in the land.

18 But I haue heard the sudden coming of the Iudge which is to come.

19 Therefore heare my voyce, and vnderstand my words which I wil speake before thee. The beginning of the wordes of Eldras, before he was taken vp:

20 O Lord, that liuest for ever, which beholdest from above that which is above, and in the ayre,

21 Whose throne is inestimable, and his glorie incomprehensible, before whom the hoste of the Angels stand with trembling,

22 Whose keeping is turned in winde and fire, whose word is true, and sayings stedfast, whose Commandement is strong, and gouernment terrible,

23 Whose lookes direct by the depthes, and wrath maketh the mountaines to melt away as the thing beareth witness, 24 Heare the prayer of thy seruant, and receiue into thine eares the petition of thy creature.

25 For while I liue, I will speake, and so long as I haue vnderstanding, I will answere.

26 Looke not vpon the finnes of thy people, rather then thy faithfull seruants.

27 Haue not respect vnto the wicked deedes of men, rather then to them that haue thy testimonies in afflictions.

28 Think not vpon those that haue walked fainedly before thee, but remember them that reuerence thy will.

29 Let it not bee thy will to destroy them, which haue liued like bestes, but looke vpon them that haue clearly taught thy Law.

30 Take not displeasure with them, which appeare worse then bestes, but loue them, that alway put their trust in thy righteousnesse, and glory.

31 For we and our Fathers haue al the same sicknesse, but because of vs that are sinners, thou shalt be called mercifull.

32 If therefore thou wilt haue mercy vpon vs, thou shalt bee called mercifull towards vs which haue no works of righteousnesse.

33 For the righteous which haue laide by many good workes, let them receiue the reward of their owne deeds.

34 But what is man, that thou shouldst take displeasure at him? or what is this mortall generation, that thou shouldst be so grieved towards it?

35 * For verily there is no man among them that be bozne, but hee hath done wickedly, nor any that doth confesse thee, which hath not done amisse.

36 For in this, O Lord, thy righteousnesse and thy goodnesse shall be praised, if thou be mercifull vnto them, which haue not the substance of good workes.

37 Then answered he me, and said, Some things hast thou spoken aright, and according to thy words it shall be:

38 For I will not verily consider the workes of them before the death, before the iudgement, before destruction:

39 But * I will reioyce in the wayes of the righteous, and wil remember the pilgrimage, the saluation, & the reward that they shall haue.

40 Like as I haue spoken now, so shall it come to passe.

41 For as the husbandman soweth much seed vpon the ground, and planteth many trees, and yet alway the thing that is sown, cometh not by in time, neither yet doth all that is planted, take roote: so neither shall they all that are brought into the world, be saved.

42 I answered then and said, If I haue found grace, let me see: he.

43 Like as the husbandmans seede perissheth, if it come not by, and receiue not raine in due season, or if it be destroyed with too much raine:

44 So perissheth man which is created with thine hands, and thou art called his father, because hee is created to thine image, for whose sake thou hast made all things, and likened him vnto the husbandmans seed.

45 Bee not wroth with vs, O Lord, but spare thy people, and haue mercy vpon thine inheritance: for thou wilt be mercifull vnto thy creature.

46 Then answered hee mee, and saide, The things present are for the present, and the things to come for such as be to come.

47 For thou art farre off, that thou shouldst loue my creature about me: but I haue oft times drawn neere vnto thee, and vnto it, but neuer to the vnrightheous.

48 In this also art thou marvellous before the world.

49 In that thou hast humbled thy selfe, as it becometh thee, and hast not indured thy selfe worthy to boast thy selfe greatly among the righteous.

50 For many miseries & calamities remaine for them, that shall liue in the latter time, because they shall walke in great pride.

51 But learne thou for thy selfe, and seeke out the glory for such as be like thee.

52 For vnto you is paradise opened: the tree of life is planted: the time to come is prepared, plenteousnesse made ready: the city is builded: and rest is prepared, perfect goodnesse and absolute wisdom.

53 The root of euil is sealed by from you: the weakenesse and moth is destroyed from you, and into bell sleeth corruption to be forgotten.

54 Scorpions are banished away, and in the end is shewed the treasure of immortalitye.

55 Therefore alke thou no more questions concerning the multitude of them that perish:

56 For when they had libertie, they despised the most High, they contemned his lawe, and forlooke his wayes.

57 Whereouer, they haue troden downe his righteous,

58 * Saying in their heart, that there was no God, though they knew that they should die.

59 For as the thing that I haue spoken of, is made ready for you: so is thirst and paine prepared for them: for God would not that man should perish.

60 But they, after that they were created, haue defiled the name of him that made them, and are vnrhankfull vnto him, which prepared life for them.

61 Therefore my iudgement is now at hand.

62 These things haue I not shewed vnto all men, but vnto thee, and to a few like thee: then I answered, and said, 63 Behold now, O Lord: thou hast shewed mee the many wonders, which thou art determined to doe in the last time, but in what time, thou hast not shewed me.

CHAP. IX.

5 All things in this world haue a beginning and an end. 10 Torments for the wicked after this life. 15 The number of the wicked is more then of the good. 29 The lowest ingratitude: 36 Therefore they perish. 38 The vision of a woman lamenting.

HE answered me then, and said, Desaire the time with it selfe, and when thou seest that one part of the tokens come to passe, which I haue told thee before,

2 Then shalt thou vnderstand: that it is the time wherein the most High will begin to visite the world which he made.

3 Thereafter when there shall bee seene an earthquake in the world, and an vprore of the people,

4 Then shalt thou vnderstand that the most High spake of those things, from the dayes that were before thee, even from the beginning.

5 For as al that is made in the world, hath a beginning and an end, and the end is manifest:

6 So the times also of the most High haue plaine beginnings in wonders and signes, and end in effect and miracles.

7 And euery one that shall escape safe, and shall be deliuered by his workes, and by the faith wherein ye haue beleened,

8 Shalbe preserved from the said perills, and shall see my saluation in my land, and within my borders: for I haue kept mee holy from the world.

9 Then shall they haue pittie of themselves, which now haue abused my wayes: and they that haue cast them out despitely, shall dwell in paines.

10 For such as in their life haue receiued benesses, and haue not knowen me,

11 But haue abhorred my Law, while they were yet in libertie, and when they had yet leaseure of amendment, and would not vnderstand but despised it,

12 They must bee taught it after death by paine.

13 And therefore be thou no more carefull to know how the vngodly shalbe punished, but enquire how the righteous shalbe saued, and whose the world is, and for whom it is, and when.

14 Then answered I, and said,

15 I haue also beside that which I say now, and will speake it hereafter, that there bee many more of them which perish then of them that shalbe saued.

16 As the flood is greater then a drop.

17 And he answered me, saying, As the field is, so is also the seed: as the flowers be, so are the colours also: such as the workeman is, such is the worke: and as the husbandman is, so is his husbandry: for it was the time of the world.

18 Surely when I prepared the world, which was not yet made for them to dwell in that now liue, no man spake against me.

19 For then euery one obeyed, but now the maners of them that are created in this world, that is made, are corrupted by a perpetuall seed, and by a law, whereout they cannot rid them, selues.

20 So I considered the world, and behold, there was perill, because of the deuilles, that were sprung vp into it.

21 Yet when I saw it, I spared it greatly, and haue kept me one grape of the cluster, & a plant out of a great people.

22 Let therefore the multitude perish, which are borne in vaine: and let my grape bee kept, and my plant which I haue dressed with great labour.

23 Nevertheless, if thou wilt cease seuen dayes mee, (but thou shalt not fast in them,

24 But shalt goe into a faire field, where no house is builded, and shalt eate only of the flowers of the field, and eat no flesh, nor drinke wine but the flowers onely,

25 And pray vnto the most High continually) then will I come and talke with thee.

26 So I went my way, as he had commanded mee, into the field, which is called Ardath, and there I late among the flowers, and did eat of the herbes of the field, and the meate of the same satisfied me.

27 And after seuen dayes, as I late vpon the grasse, and mine heart was vexed within mee, as a feere,

28 I opened my mouth, and began to talke before the most High, and to say,

29 O Lord, when thou wouldst shewe thy selfe vnto vs, * thou declaredst thy selfe vnto our fathers in the wilderness, in a place where no man dwelleth, in a barren place, when they came out of Egypt,

30 And expressly spakest vnto them, saying, Heare me, O Israel, and marke my words, thou seed of Jacob.

31 For behold, I sowe my Law in you, that it may bring forth fruit in you, and that ye may be honoured by it for euer.

32 But our fathers which receiued the Law, kept it not, neither obserued thine ordinances, neither did the trust of the Law appeare, neither couldst, for it was thine.

33 * For they that receiued it, perished because they kept not the thing that was sown in them. Exod. 31.28.

34 And loe, it is a custome when the ground receiveth seed, or the sea a ship, or a vessell meate and drinke, if that perish wherein a thing is sown, or wherein any thing is put.

35 Likewise the thing that is sown, or is put therein, and the things that are receiued, must perish, so the things that are receiued, doe not remaine with vs: but in vs it commeth not so to passe.

36 For we that haue receiued the Law, perish in sinne, and our heart also which receiued it:

37 But the Law perisheth not, but remaineth in his force.

38 And when I spake these things in mine heart, I looked about mee, and vpon the right side * I saw a woman, which mourned sore, and lamented with a loude voyce, and was grieved in heart, and rent her clothes, and she had ashes vpon her head. Chap. 10. 44.

39 Then I left my thoughts, wherein I was occupied, and turned me vnto her, 40 And said vnto her, Wherefore weepest thou? why art thou so sorry in minde?

41 And she said vnto me, Sir, let mee alone, that I may bewaile my selfe, & increase sorrow, for I am sore vexed in my minde, and brought very low.

42 Then I said vnto her, What aileth thee? tell me.

43 And she said vnto mee, I thy seruant haue bene barren: and haue had no child, hauing an husband thirtie yeeres.

44 And euery daye, & euery day these thirtie yeeres, I pray to the most High day and night.

45 And after thirtie yeeres God heard mee thine handmaide, and looked vpon my misery, considered my trouble, and gaue me a sonne, and I was glad of him: so was mine husband also, and all they of my countrey, and we gaue great honour vnto the Almighty.

46 And I nourished him with great trauell,

47 So when he grew vp, and came to take a wife, I made a feast.

CHAP. X.

1 Esdras and the woman that appeareth to him comming together.

But when my sonne went into his chamber he fell downe and dyed.

2 Then we all ouerhew the lights and all my neighbours rose vp to comfort me: so I rested vntill the second day at night.

3 And when they had all left off to comfort mee that I should bee quier, then I rose vp by night, and fledde, and am come into this field.

held as thou fittest,

4 And am not purposed to returne into the citie, but to remaine here, and neither to eat nor drinke, but continually to mourne and fast until I die.

5 Then left I my purpose wherein I was, and spake to her angrily, and said, 6 Thou foolish woman about all other, fittest thou not our beautie, and what cometh vnto vs?

7 For Sion our mother is all wofull, and is sore afflicted, and mourneth extremely.

8 Seeing wee be all now in heauinesse, and make our moene (for we be all sorrowfull) art thou soze for one sonne?

9 Demaund the earth, and she shall tell thee that it is she which ought to mourne for the fall of so many that grow vpon her.

10 For from the beginning all men are borne of her, and other shall come, and beholde, they walke almost all into destruction, and the multitude of them shall be destroyed.

11 Who should then rather mourne, she that hath lost so great a multitude, or thou which art sozie but for one?

12 But if thou wouldest say vnto mee, My mourning is not like the mourning of the earth (for I haue lost the fruit of my wombe, which I brought forth with beautie, and bare with sorowes, 13 But the earth is according to the manner of the earth, and the present multitude returneth into her as it came)

14 Then say I vnto thee, As thou hast borne with trauell, so the earth also from the beginning giueth her fruit vnto man, euen to him that laboured her.

15 Now therefore withhold thy sorow in thy selfe, and heare constantly that which cometh vnto thee.

16 For if thou allowest Gods purpose, and receivest his counsell in time, thou shalt be commended therein.

17 Goe thy way then into the citie to thine husband.

18 Then she said vnto me, I will not, I will not goe into the citie, but here will I die.

19 So I continued to speake moze with her, and said, 20 Doe not so, but be counselled: for how many fallers hath Sion? Be of good comfort, because of the sorow of Ierusalem.

21 For thou fittest that our Sanctuary is laid waste: our altar is broken downe: our Temple is destroyed:

22 Our Altarion fainteth, and the song ceaseth, and our mirth is vanished away, and the light of our candlesticke is quenched, and the Arke of our Couenant is taken away, & our holy things are defiled, and the Name that is called vpon ouer vs, is almost dishonoured, and our children are put to shame, and our Priests are burnt, and our Leuites are caried into captiuitie, and our virgins are defiled, and our wiues rauished, and our righteous men spoiled, and our children destroyed, and our young men are brought in bondage, and our strong men are become weak:

23 And which is the greatest of all, Sion the seale hath lost her worship: for she is deliuered into the hands of them that hate vs.

24 And therefore shake off thy great beautie, and put away the multitude of sorowes, that the Almighty may be mercifull vnto thee, and that the most High may giue thee rest and ease from thy labour.

25 And when I was talking with her, her face and beautie shined suddenly, and her countenance was bright, so that I was afraid of her, and mused what it might be.

26 And behold, immediately shee cast out a great voice, very fearefull, so that the earth shooke at the noise of the woman.

27 And I looked, and behold, the woman appeared vnto mee no more: but there was a citie builded, & a place was shewed from the ground and foundation. Then was I afraid, and crept with a lowd voyce, and said, 28 Where is Ariel the Angel * which came to me at the first: for he hath caused me to come into many and deepe considerations, and mine end is turned into corruption, and my prayer to rebuke.

29 And as I was speaking these words, behold, he came vnto me, and looked vpon me.

30 And loe, I lay as one dead, and mine vnderstanding was altered, and hee tooke mee by the right hand and comforted me, and set mee vpon my feet, and said vnto me, 31 What aileth thee? and why is thine vnderstanding vered? and the vnderstanding of thine heart? and wherefore art thou soze?

32 And I sayd, Because thou hast forsaken mee, and I haue done * according vnto thy words: I went into the field, and there haue I seene things, and see that I am not able to expresse.

33 Then said he vnto me, Stand by manly, and I will giue thee exhortation.

34 Then said I, Speake vnto me, my Lord, and forsake me not, lest I die through rashnesse.

35 For I haue seene that I knew not, and heare that I doe not know.

36 What is mine vnderstanding deceiued, or doeth my mind being haunie, erre?

37 Now therefore, I beseech thee that thou wilt shew thy seruant of this wonder.

38 Then hee answered mee, and said, Heare me, and I will enforme thee, and tell thee wherefore thou art afraid: for the most High hath reuealed many secret things vnto thee.

39 He hath seene thy good purpose, that thou art sozie continually for thy people, and makest great lamentation for Sion.

40 This therefore is the vnderstanding of the vision, which appeared vnto thee a little while agoe.

41 Thou sawest a woman mourning, and thou beganest to comfort her.

42 But now fittest thou the likenesse of the woman no more, but there appeared vnto thee a citie builded.

43 And whereas she told thee of the death of her sonne, this is the solution.

44 This woman, which thou sawest, shee is Sion: and whereas she told thee (euen she which thou fittest now as a citie builded.)

45 And as touching that she said vnto thee, that she was barren thirtie yeres, this was concerning that there was euen thirtie yeres wherein there was no offering offered in her.

46 But after thirtie yeres, Salomon builde the citie, and offered offerings: then bare the barren a sonne.

47 And whereas she told thee, that she nourished him with labour, that was the inhabiting of Jerusalem.

48 But whereas she told thee that her sonne, as his chance was, dyed when she came into her chamber, that is the fall that is come to Jerusalem.

49 And when thou sawest her like one that mourned for her sonne, thou beganst to comfort her: of these things which have chanced, these are to be opened unto thee.

50 For now the most High seeth, that thou art loyie in thy mind, and because thou sufferest with all thine heart for her, he shewed thee the clearnesse of her glory, and the fairenesse of her beautie.

51 And therefore I bade thee remaine in the field where no house was built.

52 For I knew that the most High would shew thee things unto thee.

53 Therefore I commanded thee to goe into the field where no foundation nor building is.

54 For the worke of mans building cannot stand in that place where the Citie of the most High should be shewed.

55 And therefore feare not, neither let thine heart be afraid, but goe in, and see the beautie and greatnesse of the building as much as thou art able to see with thine eyes.

56 And after this thou shalt heare as much as thine eares may comprehend.

57 For thou art blessed above many, and art called with the most High among the few.

58 But to morrow at night thou shalt remaine here,

59 And the most High shall shew thee visions of high things, which the most High will doe unto them that dwell upon earth, in the last dayes. So I slept the same night and another, as he had commanded me.

CHAP. XI.

1 The vision of an Eagle coming forth of the Sea, and of her feathers. 37 Of a Lyon coming out of the Forrest.

Then saw I a dreame, and behold, there came up from the sea an Eagle, which had twelve feathered wings, and three heads.

2 And I saw, and behold, shee spread her wings over all the earth, and all the windes of the aire blew on her, and gathered themselves.

3 And I beheld, and out of her feathers grew out other contrary feathers, and they became little feathers and small.

4 But her heads remained still, and the head in the mids was greater then the other heads, yet rested it with them.

5 Whereafter, I saw that the Eagle flew with his feathers, and reigned upon earth, and over them that dwell therein.

6 And I saw that all things under heauen were subject unto her, and no man spake against her, no not one creature upon earth.

7 I saw also that the Eagle stood up upon her claws, and spake to her feathers, saying,

8 March not altogether: sleepe every one in his owne place, and watch by course.

9 But let the heads be preserved for the last.

10 Whereafter, I saw that the voice went not out of her heads but from the mids of her body.

11 Then I numbred her contrary feathers, and behold, there were eight of them.

12 And I looked, and behold, upon the right side there arose one feather, and reigned over all the earth.

13 And when it had reigned, the ende of it came, and the place thereof appeared no more. So the next stood up, and reigned: it continued a long time.

14 And when it had reigned, the end of it came also, and as the first, so it appeared no more.

15 Then there came a voice unto it, and said,

16 Weare thou that hast kept the earth so long, this I say unto thee, before thou beginnest to appeare no more.

17 There shall none after thee attaine unto thy time, neither to the halfe thereof.

18 Then arose the thirde, and reigned as the other afore, and it appeared no more also.

19 So came it to all the others one after another, so that every one reigned, and then appeared no more.

20 Then I looked, and behold, in proceesse of time the feathers that followed, stood up on the right side, that they might rule also, and some of them ruled, but within a while they appeared no more.

21 For some of them were set by, but ruled not.

22 After this I looked, and behold, the twelue feathers appeared no more, nor the two wings.

23 And there was no more upon the Eagles body, but two heads that rested, and six wings.

24 Then saw I also, that two wings divided themselves from the first, and remained under the head that was upon the right side: for the foure continued in their place.

25 So I looked, and behold, the underwings thought to set up themselves, and to haue the rule.

26 Then was there one set by, but shortly it appeared no more.

27 And the second were sooner gone then the first.

28 Then I beheld, and loe, the two that remained, thought also in themselves to reigne. 29 And when they so thought, behold, there awaked one of the heads that were at rest, which was in the mids: for that was greater then the two.

30 And then I saw that the two heads were loyned therewith.

31 And behold, the head was turned with them, that were with it, and did eat up the two underwings that would haue reigned.

32 But this head put the whole earth in feare, and bare rule in it, over all those that dwell upon earth, with much labour, and it had the governance of the world, more then all the wings that had bene.

33 After this I looked and behold, the head that was in the middes, suddenly appeared no more, as did the wings.

34 But the two heads remained, which also ruled likewise upon earth, and over those that dwell therein.

35 And I beheld, and loe, the head upon the right right side denoured it that was upon the left side.

36 ¶ Then I heard a voyce which said vnto mee, Looke before thee, and consider the thing that thou seest.

37 So I saw, and behold, as it were a lyon that roareth, running hastily out of the wood: and I saw that he sent out a mans voyce vnto the eagle, and spake, and sayd,

38 Heare thou, I will talke with thee, and the most High shall say vnto thee,

39 Art not thou that, that of the foure beasts remainest, whom I made to reigne in my world, that by them the ende of times might come,

40 And the fourth is come, and hath overcome all the beasts that were past, and hath power ouer the world with great fearefulness, and ouer the whole compasse of the earth with most wicked oppression, and that dwelleth so long time in all the world with deceit?

41 For thou hast not iudged the world with truth.

42 Seeing thou hast troubled the meeke, thou hast hurt the peaceable, and thou hast loued lyers, and destroyed the dwellings of them that brought forth fruit, and hast cast downe the walles of such as did thee no harme:

43 Therefore is thy wrongfull dealing come by vnto the most High, and thy pride vnto the Mighty.

44 The most High also hath looked vpon the proud times, and behold, they are ended, and their abominations are fulfilled.

45 Therefore appeare no more, thou Eagle, nor thine horrible wings, nor thy wicked feathers, nor thy malicious heads and thy wicked claws, nor all thy vaine bodie, 46 That all the earth may be refreshed, and come againe, as one deliuered from thy violence and that they may hope for the iudgement and mercie of him that made her.

CHAP. XII.

The declaration of the former visions.

And when the Lion spake these words to the Eagle, I saw,

2 And behold, the head that had the vpper hand appeared no more, neither did the foure wings appeare any more, that came to it, and set by themselves to reigne, whose kingdome was small and full of vpproes.

3 And I saw, and behold, they appeared no more, and the whole body of the Eagle was burnt, so that the earth was in great feare. Then I awaked out of the trouble and traunce of my minde, and from the great feare, and sayd vnto my spirit, 4 Loe, this hast thou done vnto mee in that thou searchest out the wayes of the most High.

5 Loe, yet am I weary in my mind, and very weake in my spirit, and little strength is there in me, for the great feare that I receiued this night.

6 Therefore now, will I beseech the most High, that he will comfort me vnto the end.

7 And I said, O Lord, Lord, if I haue found grace before thy sight, and if I am iustified with thee before many other, and if my prayer in deed be come by before thy face,

8 Comfort me, and shew me thy seruant the interpretation and difference of this horrible sight, that thou mayest perfectly comfort my soule,

9 Seeing thou hast iudged mee worthy to shew me the last times.

10 ¶ Then he laid vnto mee, This is the interpretation of this vision.

11 The Eagle whom thou sawest come by from the sea, is the * kingdome which was seene in the vision of thy brother Daniel. Dan. 7. 7.

12 But it was not expounded vnto him: therefore now I declare it vnto thee.

13 Behold, the dayes come, that there shall rise vp a kingdome vpon the earth, and it shall be feared aboue all kingdomes that were before it.

14 In it shall twelue kings reigne one after another, 15 Whereof the second shall begin to reigne, and shall haue more time then the twelue.

16 And this doe the twelue wings signifie, which thou sawest.

17 As for the voice that thou heardest speake, and that thou sawest not go out from the heads, but from the mids of the body thereof, this is the interpretation.

18 That after the time of that kingdome, there shall arise great strife, and it shall be in danger to fall, but it shall not then fall, but shall be restored againe to his beginning.

19 Concerning the eight vnder wings, which thou sawest hang vnto her wings, this is the interpretation, 20 In him shall arise eight kings, whose time shall be but small, and their yeeres swift, and two of them shall perish.

21 But when the mid time cometh, there shall be foure kept a time, whiles his time beginneth to come, that it may be ended, but two shall be kept vnto the end.

22 And whereas thou sawest three heads resting, this is the interpretation,

23 In his last dayes shall the most High raise by three kingdomes, and shall call againe many things into them, and they shall haue the domination of the earth,

24 And of those that dwell therein, with much greefe aboue all those that were before them: therefore are they called the heads of the Eagle:

25 For they shall accomplish his wickednes, and shall finish his last end.

26 And whereas thou sawest that the great head appeared no more, it signifieth that one of them shall die vpon his bed, and yet with paine.

27 For the two that remaine, the sword shall deuoure them.

28 For the sword of the one shall deuoure the other: but at the last shall hee fall by the sword himselfe.

29 And whereas thou sawest two vnderwings, that went off toward the head, which was on the right side, this is the interpretation, 30 These are they whom the most High hath preserved for their ende, whose kingdome is little, and full of trouble as thou sawest.

31 And the Lion whom thou sawest rising by out of the wood, and roaring, and speaking vnto the Eagle, and rebuking her for her vnrightheousnesse with all the words that thou hast heard,

32 This is the winde which the most High hath kept for them, and for their wickedness unto the end, and hee shall repproue them, and cast before them their spoiles.

33 For hee shall set them aloue in the iudgement, and shall rebuke them and correct them.

34 For he will deliuer the residue of my people by affliction, which are preserved vpon my borders, and he shall make them ioyfull, vntill the coming of the day of iudgement, whereof I haue spoken vnto thee from the beginning.

35 This is the dreame that thou sawest, and these are the interpretations.

36 Thou onely hast been meete to know this secret of the most High.

37 Therefore write all these things that thou hast seen, in a booke, and hide them.

38 And teach them the wife of the people, whose hearts thou knowest may comprehend and keepe these secrets.

39 But waite thou here yet seuen dayes more, that it may bee shewed thee whatsoeuer it pleaseth the most High to declare vnto thee: and with that he went his way.

40 And when all the people perceived, that the seuen dayes were past, and I not come againe into the citie, they gathered them altogether, from the least vnto the most, and came vnto me, and spake vnto me, saying,

41 What haue wee offended thee? or what euill haue we done against thee, that thou forsakest vs, and sittest in this place?

42 For of all the people thou onely art left vs as a grape of the vine, and as a candle in a darke place, and as an haueu of ship preserved from the tempest.

43 Are not the euils which are come to vs, sufficient?

44 If thou then forsake vs, how much better had it been for vs, that wee had been burnt also as Sion was burnt?

45 For we are no better then they that died there: and they wept with a loud voyce. Then answered I them, and said, 46 Be of good comfort, O Israel, and be not heauy thou house of Jacob.

47 For the most High hath you in remembrance, and the Almighty hath not forgotten you in temptation.

48 As for me I haue not forsaken you, neither am I departed from you, but am come into this place to pray for the desolation of Sion, that I might seeke mercie for the lowe estate of your Sanctuary.

49 And now goe your way home euery man, and after these dayes will I come vnto you.

50 So the people went their way into the citie as I commanded them:

51 But I remained still in the field seuen dayes, as he had commanded mee, and did eate onely of the flowers of the field, and had my meate of the herbes in those dayes.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The vision of a wind carrying forth of the Sea,
3 Which became a man. 5 His property and power against his enemies. 21 The declaration of this vision.

And after the seuen dayes I dreamed a dreame by night.

2 And behold, there arose a winde from the sea, and it moued all the waues thereof.

3 And I looked, and behold, there was a mighty man with the thousands of heauen: and when he turned his countenance to looke, all the things trembled that were scene vnder him.

4 And when the voyce went out of his mouth, all they burned that heard his voyce, as the earth faileth when it feelth the fire.

5 After these things I saw, and behold, there was gathered together a multitude of men out of number, from the foure windes of the heauen, to fight against the man that came out from the sea.

6 And I looked, and behold, he graued himselfe a great mountaine, and flew vp vpon it.

7 But I would haue scene the countrey or place wherout the hill was grauen, and I could not.

8 I saw after these things, and behold, all they which came to fight against him were sore afraid, and yet they durst fight.

9 Neuerthelesse, when he saw the fiercenesse of the multitude that came, hee lifted not vp his hand: for hee held no sword nor any instrument of warre.

10 But onely, as I saw, hee sent out of his mouth, as it had been a blast of fire, and out of his lips the wind of the flame, and out of his tongue he cast out sparkes and stormes.

11 And they were all intire together, even this blast of fire, the wind of the flame, and the great storme, and fel with violence vpon the multitude which was prepared to fight, and burnt them vp all, so that of the innumerable multitude there was nothing scene, but onely dust, and smell of smoke. When I saw this, I was afraid.

12 Afterward saue I the same man come downe from the mountaine, and calling vnto him another peaceable multitude.

13 And there came many vnto him, some with ioyfull countenance, and some with sad: some of them were bound, and some brought of them that were offred: and I was sicke through great feare, and awaked, and said, 14 Thou hast shewed thy seruant these wonders from the beginning, and hast counted mee worthy to receiue my prayer.

15 Shew mee now therefore the interpretation of this dreame.

16 For thus I consider in mine understanding, woe vnto them that shall be left in those dayes, and much more woe vnto them that are not left behinde.

17 For they that were not left, were in heauiness.

18 Now vnderstand I the things that are layd vp in the latter dayes, which shal come both vnto them, and to those that are left behinde.

19 Therefore are they come into great perils, and many necessities, as these dreames declare.

20 Yet is it easier, that hee that is in danger should fall into these, and forseth the things to come hereafter, then to passe away as a cloude out of the world.

21 Then answered he me, and sayd, The interpretation of the vision will I shew thee, and I will open to thee the thing that thou hast required.

22 Whereas thou hast spoken of them that are left behinde, this is the interpretation.

23 He that shal heare the danger in that time, hee shall keepe himselfe. They that hee fallen into danger, are such as haue workes and faith saith toward the most mighty.

24 Know therefore, that they which bee left behind, are more blessed then they that be dead.

25 These are the meanings of the vision, whereas thou sawest a man comming vp from the mids of the sea, 26 The same is he whom the most High hath kept a great season, who by his owne selfe shall deliuer his creature, and he shall order them that are left behinde.

27 And whereas thou sawest, that out of his mouth there came as a blast with fire and storme, 28 And that he neither held sword nor weapon, but that by his fiercenesse he destroyed the whole multitude that came to fight against him, this is the interpretation.

29 Behold, the dayes come that the most High will begin to deliuer them that are vpon the earth:

30 And hee shall astonish the hearts of them that dwell vpon the earth:

31 And one shall prepare to fight against another, citie against citie, and place against place, and nation against nation, and realme against realme.

Mat. 24. 7.

32 When this cometh to passe, then shall the tokens come, that I shewed thee before, and then shal my sonne be reuealed, whom thou sawest goe vp as a man.

33 And when all the people heare his voyce, euery man shal in their owne land leaue the battell that they haue one against another.

34 And an innumerable multitude shall bee gathered as one, as they that be willing to come, and to fight against him.

35 But he shall stand vpon the top of mount Sion.

36 And Sion shal come, and shal be shewed to all, being prepared and buildd, as thou sawest the hill grauen forth without any hands.

37 And this my sonne shall rebuke the wicked inventions of those nations, which for their wicked life are fallen into the tempest, 38 And into torments like to flame, whereby they shall be tormented: and without any labour will he destroy them euen by the Law, which is compared vnto the fire.

39 And whereas thou sawest that hee gathered another peaceable people vnto him,

2. Km. 17. 3.

40 Those are the ten tribes, which were carried away captiues out of their owne land in the time of Deas the king, whom Salmanasar the king of the Assyrians tooke captiue, and carried them beyond the river: so were they brought into another land.

41 But they tooke this counsel to themselves, that they would leaue the multitude of the heathen, and goe forth into a further countrey, where neuer mankind dwelt, 42 That they might there keepe their statutes, which they neuer kept in their owne land.

43 And they entred in at the narrow passages of the river Euphrates.

Exod. 14. 21.
Isa. 3. 15, 16

44 For the most High then shewed them signes, and stayed the springs of the flood till they were passed over.

|| Or, Ararat.

45 For thorow the countrey there was a great iourney, euen of a yeere and a halfe, and the same region is called || Ararat.

46 Then dwelt they there vntill the latter time: and when they come forth againe, 47 The most High shal hold still the springs of the river againe, that they may goe thorow: therefore sawest thou the multitude peaceable.

48 But they that bee left behinde of thy people, are those that be found within my borders.

49 Now when hee destroyeth the multitude of the nations that are gathered together, hee shall defend the people that remaine.

50 And then shal he shew great wonders vnto them.

51 Then said I, O Lord, Lord, shew me this, wherefore haue I seene the man comming vp from the mids of the sea?

52 And he said vnto mee, As thou canst neither seeke out, nor know these things that are in the deepe of the sea, so can no man vpon earth see my sonne, or those that be with him, but in the time of that day.

53 This is the interpretation of the dreame, which thou sawest, and whereby thou onely art lightened.

54 For thou hast forsaken thine owne law, and applied thy diligence vnto mine, and sought it.

Exod. 3. 2, 8.

55 Thy life hast thou ordered in wisdom, and hast called vnderstanding thy mother.

56 Therefore haue I shewed thee the reuwards with the most High: & after three other dayes I will speake other things vnto thee, and will declare vnto thee great and wonderful things.

57 Then went I forth vnto the field, glorifying and prayling the most High for the wonders which he did in time, 58 Which he gouerneth, and such things as come in their seasons: and there I late three dayes.

CHAP. XLIIII.

3 How God appeared to Moses in the bush. 10 All things decline to age. 15 The latter times worse then the former. 29 The ingratitude of Israel. 35 The resurrection and iudgement.

Vpon the third day I late vnder an oke, and behold, there came forth a voyce vnto mee out of the bush, and said, Elias, Elias.

2 And I said, Where am I, Lord, and stood vpon vpon my feete.

3 Then said he vnto mee, in the bush I reuealed my selfe, and spake vnto Moyses, when my people serued in Egypt:

4 And I sent him, and led my people out of Egypt, and brought him vpon the mount Sinai, and I held him with me a long season,

5 And I told him many wonders, and shewed him the secrets of the times and the end, and commanded him, saying,

6 These wordes shalt thou declare, and these shalt thou hide.

7 And now I say vnto thee, that thou lay vp in thine heart the signes that I haue shewed, and the dreames that thou hast seene, and the interpretations, which thou hast heard.

8 For thou shalt be taken away from all, and thou shalt remaine henceforth with my counsell, and with such as be like thee, vntill the times bee ended.

9 For the world hath lost his youth, and the times time begin to ware olde.

10 For the world is diuided into twelue parts, and ten parts of it are gone already, and halfe of the tenth part.

11 And there remaineth that which is after the halfe of the tenth part.

12 Therefore let thine house in order, and reforme thy people, and comfort such of them as be in trouble, and now renounce the corruption.

13 Let goe from thee the burdens of men, and put off now the weake nature, 14 And let aside thy most greivous thoughts, and haste thee to depart from these times.

15 For greater evils then thole, which thou hast seene now, shall they commit.

16 For the weaker that the world is by reason of age, the more shall the evils be increased upon them that dwell therein.

17 For the truth is fled farre away, and lies are at hand: for now hasteth the vision to come, that thou hast seene.

18 Then answered I, and said before thee,

19 Behold, O Lord, I will goe as thou hast commanded me, and reforme the people, which are present: but they that shall be borne afterward, who shall admonish them?

20 Thus the world is set in darkenesse, and they that dwell therein, are without light.

21 For thy Law is burnt, therefore no man knoweth the things that are done of thee, or the workes that shall be done.

22 But if I haue found grace before thee, send the holy Ghost into me, and I will write all that hath been done in the world since the beginning, which was written in thy Law, that men may finde the path, and that they which will liue in the latter dayes, may liue.

23 And he answered me, saying, Goe and gather the people, and say vnto them, that they seeke thee not for forty dayes, 24 But prepare thee many bore tables, and take with thee these five, Sarea, Dabria, Selmis, Ecanus, and Asiel, which are ready to write swiftly.

25 And come hither, and I will light a candle of vnderstanding in thine heart, which shall not be put out, till y things be performed which thou shalt begin to write.

26 And then shalt thou declare some things openly vnto the perfect men, and some things shalt thou shew secretly vnto the wise: to morrow this houre shalt thou begin to write.

27 Then went I forth, as hee commanded mee, and gathered all the people together, and said, 28 Heare these words, O Israel.

29 Our fathers at the beginning were strangers in Egypt, from whence they were deliuered.

30 And receiued the Law of life, which they kept not, which yee also haue transgressed after them.

31 Then was the land, when the land of Sion parted among you by lot: but your fathers and ye also haue done vnrightheously, and haue not kept the wayes, which the most High commanded you.

32 And for so much as hee is a righteous Iudge, hee tooke from you in time the thing that he had giuen you.

33 And now are yee here, and your brethren among you.

34 Therefore if so be that ye will subdue your owne vnderstanding, and reforme your heart, ye shall be kept alive, and after death shall ye obtaine mercie.

35 For after death shall the iudgement come, when wee shall liue againe: and then shall the names of the righteous bee manifest, and the workes of the vngodly shall be declared.

36 Let no man therefore come now vnto me, nor seeke me these forty dayes.

37 So I tooke the five men as hee commaunded mee, and wee went into the field, and remained there.

38 The next day, behold, a voyce called mee, saying, Esdras, open thy mouth, and drinke that I giue thee to drinke.

39 Then opened I my mouth, and behold, he reached me a full cup, which was full as it were with water: but the colour of it was like fire.

40 And I tooke it, and dranke, and when I had drunke it, mine heart had vnderstanding, and wisdom grew in my breast: for my spirit was strengthened in memory.

41 And my mouth was opened, and shut no more.

42 The most High gaue vnderstanding vnto the five men, that they wrote the high things of the night, which they vnderstood not.

43 But in the night they did eat bread, but I spake by day, and held not my tongue by night.

44 In forty dayes, they wrote two hundred and foure bookes.

45 And when the forty dayes were fulfilled, the most high spake, saying, The first that thou hast written, publish openly, that the worthy and unworthy may reade it.

46 But keepe the seuenthy last, that thou mayest giue them to the wise among the people.

47 For in them is the veine of vnderstanding: and the fountaine of wisdom, and the riuer of knowledge: and I did so.

CHAP. XV.

1 The prophesie of Esdras is ended. 5 The evils that shall come on the world. 9 The Lord will avenge the innocent blood. 12 Egypt shall lament. 16 Sedition. 20 and punishment vpon the kings of the earth. 24 Cursed are they that sinne. 29 Troubles and warres vpon the whole earth: 33 God is the reuenger of his elect.

BEhold, speake thou in the eares of my people the words of prophete, which I will put in thy mouth saith the Lord:

2 And cause them to be written in a letter: for they are faithfull and true.

3 Feare not the imaginations against thee: let not the vnfairhfulnesse of the speakers trouble thee, that spake against thee.

4 For euerie vnfairhfull shall die in his vnfairhfulnesse.

5 Behold, saith the Lord, I will bring plagues vpon all the world, the sword, famine, death and destruction:

6 Because that iniquity hath fully polluted all the earth, & their wicked workes are fulfilled.

7 Therefore, saith the Lord, I will hold my tongue no more for their wickednesse, (they doe vngodly) neither will I suffer them in the things that they doe wickedly.

8 Behold,

Gen. 47. 4.

Acts 7. 53.

Esch. 3. 2.

Reuel. 6. 10
and 193.

8 Behold, the innocent and righteous blood crieth vnto me, and the soules of the iust cry continually.

9 I will surely auenge them, saith the Lord, and receiue vnto me all the innocent blood from among them.

10 Behold, my people is led as a flocke to the slaughter: I will not suffer them now to dwell in the land of Egypt.

11 But I will bring them out with a mighty hand, and a stretched out arme, and smite it with plagues as afore, and will destroy all the land thereof.

12 Egypt shall mourne, and the foundations thereof shall be smitten with the plague and punishment, that God shall bring vpon it.

13 The plowmen that till the ground, shall mourne: for their seedes shall faile through the blasting and haile: and by an horrible starre.

14 Woe to the world, and to them that dwell therein.

15 For the sword, and their destruction draweth neere, and one people shall stand vp to fight against another with swords in their hands.

16 For there shall be sedition among men, and one shall invade another: they shall not regard their King, and the princes shall measure their doings by their power.

17 A man shall desire to goe into a citie, and shall not be able.

18 Because of their pride the citiees shall be troubled, the houses shall be afraid, men shall feare.

19 A man shall haue no pittie vpon his neighbour, but shall destroy their houses with the sword, and their goods shall be spoiled for lacke of bread, and because of great trouble.

20 Behold, saith God, I call together all the Kings of the earth to reuerence me, which are from the East, and from the South, from the East, and from Libanus, to turne vpon them, and to repay the things that they haue done to them.

21 As they doe yet this day vnto my chosen, so will I doe also, and recompense them in their bosome: thus saith the Lord God, 22 My right hand shall not spare the sinners, neither shall the sword cease from them, that shed innocent blood vpon earth.

23 The fire is gone out from his wrath, and hath consumed the foundations of the earth, and the sinners like the straw that is kindled.

24 Woe to them that sin, and keepe not my commandments, saith the Lord, 25 I will not spare them: depart, O children from the power: desile not my Sanctuary.

26 For the Lord knoweth all them that sinne against him, and therefore deliuereth hee them vnto death and destruction.

27 For now are the plagues come vpon the world, and yett shall remaine in them: for God will not deliuer you, because yett haue sinned against him.

28 Behold, an horrible vision cometh from the East,

29 There generations of dragons of Arabia shall come out with many charres, and the multitude of them shall be caried as the winde vpon the earth, that all they which heare them, may feare and tremble,

30 Euen the Carmanians raging in wrath, shall goe forth as the boares of the forest, and shall come with great power, and stand against them in battell, and shall destroy a portion of the land of the Assyrians.

31 But after this shall the dragons haue the vpper hand, and remember their nature, & shall turne about, and conspire to consume them with a great power.

32 Then these shall be troubled, and keepe silence by their power, and shall see.

33 From the land of the Assyrians shall the enemy besiege them, and consume some of them, and in their hoste shall be feare and dread, and strife among their kings.

34 Behold clouds from the East, and from the North vnto the South, and they are very horrible to looke vpon, full of wrath and storme.

35 They shall smite one vpon another: and they shall smite downe a great multitude of starres vpon the earth: euen their owne starre, and the blood shall bee from the sword vnto the belly.

36 And the dung of man vnto the Camels litter.

37 And there shall be great fearefulnesse and trembling vpon earth, and they that see the wrath, shall be afraid, and a trembling shall come vpon them.

38 And then there shall come great stormes from the South, and from the North, and part from the West.

39 And from the East shall winds arise, and shall open it with the cloud, which hee raised vp in wrath, and the starre, raised to feare the East and West winde, shall be destroyed.

40 And the great and mighty cloudes shall be lift vp full of wrath, and the starre, that they may make all the earth afraid, and them that dwell therein, and that they may powre out ouer euery high place, and lifted vp an horrible constellation.

41 As fire and haile, and flying swords, and many waters, that all fields may be full, and all riuers with the abundance of great waters.

42 And they shall beake downe the citiees, and walles, and mountaines, and hills, and the trees of the wood, and the grasse of the meadowes, and their corne.

43 And they shall goe with a straight course vnto Babylon, and make it afraid.

44 They shall come to her and besiege her, and shall powre forth the constellation, and all the wrath against her: then shall the dust and smoke goe vnto the heauen, and all they that be about her, shall bewaile her.

45 And they that remaine vnder her, shall do seruice vnto them that haue put her in feare.

46 And thou Asia, that art partaker of the hope of Babylon, and the glory of her person, 47 Woe vnto thee, O wretch, because thou hast made thy selfe like vnto her, and hast deckt thy daughters in whoredome, that they might please and glory in thy louers, which haue alway desired to commit whoredome with thee.

48 Thou hast followed her that is hated in all her workes and in her inventions: therefore saith God,

49 I will

|| Or, w'st.

49 I will send plagues vpon thee, widowhood, pouertie and famine, and the sword, and pestilence, to waste thine houses with destruction and death.

50 And the glory of thy power shall be dried vvas a flowe when the heat riseth, that is sent vpon thee.

51 Thou shalt be sicke as a poore wife that is plagued and beaten of women, so that the mightie, & the louers shall not be able to relieue thee.

52 Would I thus hate thee, saith the Lord,

53 If thou hadst not alwayes slaine my chosen, exalting the stroke of thine hands, and said ouer their death, when thou wast drunken, 54 Set forth the beautie of thy countenance?

55 The reward of thy whoredome shall be in thy holome: therfore shalt thou receiue a reward.

56 As thou hast done vnto my chosen, saith the Lord, so will God doe vnto thee, and wil deliuer thee vnto the plague.

57 And thy children shall die of hunger, and thou shalt fall by the sword, and thy cities shall be broken downe, and all thy men shall fall by the sword in the field.

58 And they that be in the mountaines, shall die of hunger, and eat their owne flesh, and drinke their owne blood for want of bread and thirst of water.

59 And thou, as vnhappy, shalt come thorow the Sea, and receiue plagues againe.

60 In the passage they shall cast downe the flaine citie, and shall roote out one part of thy land, and consume the portion of thy glory, and shall returne to her that was destroyed.

61 When thou shalt be cast downe, thou shalt be to them as stubble, and they shall be to thee as fire.

62 And they shall destroy thee, and thy cities, thy land, and thy mountaines: all thy woods and all thy fruitfull trees shall they burne with fire.

63 Thy children shall they cary away captiue, and shall spoile thy substance, and marre the beautie of thy face.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Against Babylon, Asia, Egypt and Syria, 18. 38. Of the euill that shall come vpon the world, with admonition how to gouerne themselves in afflictions. 54 To acknowledge their sinnes, and to commit themselves to the Lord, 55 whose mightie providence and iustice is to be reuerenced.

WDe to thee Babylon, and Asia: woe to thee, Egypt, and Syria.

2 Girdle your selues with sacke and haire-cloth, and mourne your children, and be sorrie: for your destruction is at hand.

3 A sword is sent vnto you, and who will turne it backe? a fire is sent among you, and who will quench it?

4 Plagues are sent vnto you, and who can driue them away?

5 May any man driue away an hungry Lion in the wood? or quench the fire in stubble when it hath once begun to burne? may one turne againe the arrow, that is shot of a strong archer?

6 The mightie Lord sendeth the plagues, and who can driue them away? the fire is gone forth in his wrath, and who can quench it?

7 He shall call lightnings, and who shall not feare? he shall thunder, and who shall not be afraid?

8 The Lord shall threaten, and who shall not utterly be broken in peeces at his presence? the earth quaketh, and the foundation thereof: the sea ariseth vp with waues from the deepe: and the waues thereof are troubled, and the fishes thereof, before the Lord and the glory of his power.

9 For strong is his right hand, that bendeth the bow: his arrowes that hee shooteth are sharpe, and shall not misse, when they begin to be shot into the ends of the world.

10 Behold, the plagues are sent, and shall not turne againe till they come vpon earth.

11 The fire is kindled, and shall not be put out till it consume the foundations of the earth.

12 As an arrow which is shot of a mightie archer, returneth not backward, so the plagues that shall be sent vpon earth, shall not turne againe.

13 Woe is mee, woe is me: who will deliuer me in those dayes?

14 The beginning of sorrowes and great mourning: the beginning of famine, and great death: the beginning of wars, and the powers shall feare: the beginning of euils, and all shall tremble. What shall I doe in these things, when the plagues come?

15 Behold, famine and plague, and trouble and anguish are sent as scourges for amendment.

16 But for all these things they will not turne from their wickednesse, nor bee alway mindfull of the scourges.

17 Behold, victuals shall be so good cheape vpon earth, that they shall thinke themselves to be in good case: but then shall the euils budde forth vpon earth, euen the sword, the famine, and great confusion.

18 For many of them that dwel vpon earth, shall perish with famine, and the other that escape the famine, shall the sword destroy.

19 And the dead shall be cast out as dung, and there shall be no man to comfort them: for the earth shall be wasted, and the cities shall be cast downe.

20 There shall be no man left to till the earth, and to sow it: the trees shall giue fruit, but who shall gather them?

21 The grapes shall bee ripe, but who shall tread them? for all places shall be desolate, so that one man shall desire to see another, or to heare his voyce.

22 For of one citie there shall be ten left, and two of the field which shall hide themselves in the thicke woods, and in the clefts of rocks.

23 As when there remaine three or foure olines in the place where olines grow, or among other trees,

24 Or as when a vineyard is gathered, there are left some grapes of them that diligently sought thorow the vineyard:

25 So in those dayes there shall bee three or foure left by them that search their houses with the sword, 26 And the earth shall be left waste, and the fields thereof shall ware old, and her wayes and all her pathes shall grow full of thornes, because no man shall trauaile chere through.

27 The

27 The virgines shall mourne, hauing no bridegromes: the women shall make lamentation, hauing no husbands: their daughters shall mourne, hauing no helpers.

28 In the warres shall their bridegromes be destroyed, and their husbands shall perish with famine.

29 But ye seruants of the Lord, heare these things, and marke them.

30 Behold the word of the Lord, receiue it: beleeue not the godes, of whom the Lord speaketh, behold, the plagues draw neere, and are not slacke.

31 As a trauailing woman which in the ninth moneth bringeth forth her sonne, when the houre of birth is come, two or three houres afore the paines come vpon her body, and when the childe cometh to the birth they carry not a whit:

32 So shall not the plagues be slack to come vpon the earth, and the world shall mourne, and sorowes shall come vpon it on euery side.

33 O my people, heare my word: make you ready to the battell, and in the troubles be euen as strangers vpon earth.

34 He that selleth, let him be as he that fleeth his way, and hee that buyeth, as one that will lose.

35 Who so occupieth merchandise, as he that winneth not: and hee that buildeth, as he that shall not dwell therein.

36 He that soweth, as one that shall not reape: he that cutteth the vine, as he that shall not gather the grapes.

37 They that marry, as they that shall get no children, and they that marry not, so as the widowes.

38 Therefore they that labour, labour in vaine.

39 For strangers shall reape their fruites, and spoyle their goods, and overthrow their houses, and take their children captiue: for in captiuitie and famine shall they get their children.

40 And they that occupie their merchandise with conetousnesse, the more they decke their cities, their houses, their possessions, & their owne persons, 41 So much more will I be angry against them, for their sinnes, saith the Lord.

42 As a whose enuie an honest and vertuous woman,

43 So shall righteousness hate iniquity, when she decketh her selfe, and shall accuse her openly, when he shall come that shall bidle the an hour of all sinne vpon the earth.

44 And therefore bee ye not like thereunto nor to the workes thereof: for or euer it be long iniquity shall be taken away out of the earth, and righteousness shall reigne among you.

45 Let not the sinner say, that he hath not sinned: for coales of fire shall burne vpon his head, which saith, I haue not sinned before the Lord God and his glory.

46 Behold, the Lord knoweth all the workes of men, their imaginations, their thoughts and their hearts.

47 For as soone as he said, Let the earth be made, it was made: let the heauen be made, and it was created.

48 By his word were the starres established, and he knoweth the number of them.

49 He searcheth the depth, and the treasures thereof: hee hath measured the sea, and what it containeth. Psal. 147. 4.

50 He hath shut the sea in the middes of the waters, and with his word hath he hanged the earth vpon the waters.

51 He spreadeth out the heauen like a vauit vpon the waters hath he founded it.

52 In the desert hath he made springs of water, and pooles vpon the top of the mountaines, to poure out floods from the high rocks to water the earth.

53 Hee made man, and put his heart in the middes of the body, and gaue him breath, life, and vnderstanding.

54 And the Spirit of the Almighty God, which made all things, and hath searched al the hid things in the secrets of the earth, 55 Hee knoweth your inuentions, and what ye imagine in your heart when ye sinne & would hide your sinnes.

56 Therefore hath the Lord searched and sought out all your workes, and will put you all to shame.

57 And when your sinnes are brought forth before men, ye shall be confounded, and your owne sinnes shall stand as your accusers in that day.

58 What will ye doe, or how will ye hide your sinnes before God and his Angels?

59 Behold, God himselfe is the Iudge, feare him: cease from your sinnes, and forget your iniquities, and meddle no more from henceforth with them: so shall God leade you forth, and deliuer you from all trouble.

60 For behold, the heart of a great multitude is kindled against you, and they shall take away certaine of you, and shall slay you for meate to the idoles.

61 And they that consent vnto them shall be had in derision, and in reproch, and troden vnder foote.

62 For in euery place & cities that are neere, there shall be great insurrection against those that feare the Lord.

63 They shall be like mad men: they shall spare none: they shall spoyle, and waste such as yet feare the Lord.

64 For they then shall waste and spoyle their goods, and cast them out of their houses.

65 Then shall the trial of my chosen appeare, as the gold is tried by the fire.

66 Heare, O ye my beloued, saith the Lord, Behold, the dayes of trouble are at hand, but I will deliuer you from them: bee not ye afraid: doubt not, for God is your captaine.

67 Who so keepeth my commandments and precepts, saith the Lord God, let not your sinnes weigh you downe, and let not your iniquities lift themselves vp.

68 Cloe vnto them that are bound with their sinnes, and covered with their iniquities, as a field is hedged in with bushes, & the path thereof covered with thornes, whereby no man may trauell: it is shut vp, and is appointed to be destroyed with fire.

Tobit.

CHAP. I.

1 Tobit parentage, 3 His godliness, 6 His equitie, 8 His charity and prosperitie, 19 He fleeth, and his goods are confiscated, 22 And after restored.

The booke of the wordes of Tobit, sonne of Tobiel, the sonne of Ananias, the sonne of Adnias, the sonne of Gabael, of the seede of Asael, and of the tribe of Nephtalim.

2 When in the time of Sennacherib King of the Assyrians was led away captiue out of Chibbe, which is at the right hand of that city, which is called properly Nephtalim, in Galilee above Aser.

3 I Tobit haue walked all my life long in the way of truth and iustice, and I did many things liberally to the brethren, which were of my nation, and came with mee to Nineue into the land of the Assyrians.

4 And when I was in mine owne countrey in the land of Israel, being but young, all the tribe of Nephtalim my father fell from y house of Jerusalem, which was chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, that all the tribes should sacrifice there, where the Temple of the Tabernacle of the most high was consecrated, and built up for all ages.

5 Now all the tribes which fell from God, yea, and my father Nephtalims house offered to the heifer called Baal.

6 But I (as it was ordained to all Israel by an everlasting decree) went alone often to Jerusalem, at the feasts, bringing the first frutes and the tithes of beasts, with that which was first shorne, and offered them at the altar to the priests the children of Aaron.

7 The first tenth part I gaue to the priests the sonnes of Aaron, which ministered in Jerusalem: the other tenth part I sold, and came and bestowed it euery yeere at Jerusalem.

8 The third tenth part I gaue vnto them to whom it was meete, as Deboza my fathers mother had commanded me, for my father left me as a pupill.

9 Furthermore, when I was come to the age of a man, I married Anna of mine owne kindred, and of her I begate Tobias.

10 But when I was led captiue to Nineue, all my brethren and those which were of my kindred, did eate of the bread of the Gentiles.

11 But I kept my selfe from eating,

12 Because I remembered God with all mine heart.

13 Therefore the most high gaue me grace and fauour before Sennacherib, so that I was his purueyore.

14 And I went into Media, and I deliuered ten talents of silver to Gabael, the brother of Gabzias in the land of Media.

15 But when Sennacherib was dead, Sennacherib his sonne reigned in his stead: whose state because it was troubled, I could not goe into Media.

16 But in the time of Sennacherib, I gaue many almes to my brethren, and gaue my bread to them which were hungry.

17 And my clothes to the naked: and if I saw any of my kindred dead, or cast about the walles of Nineue, I buried him.

18 And if the king Sennacherib had slaine any, when he was come and fled from Judea, I buried them pitifully (for in his wrath he killed many) but the bodies were not found when they were sought for of the king.

19 Therefore when a certaine Nineuite had accused me to y king, because I did bury them, I hidde my selfe: and because I knew that I was sought to be slaine, I withdrew my selfe for feare.

20 Then all my goods were spoiled, neither was there any thing left mee besides my wife Anna, and my sonne Tobias.

21 Neuerthelesse within five and fifty daies two of his sonnes killed him, and they fled into the mountaines of Ararat, and Sarchedonus his sonne reigned in his stead, who appointed ouer his fathers accounts, and ouer all his domestical affaires, Achicharus my brother Ananis sonne.

22 And when Achicharus had made a request for mee, I came againe to Nineue: now Achicharus was cupbearer and keeper of the signet, and steward, and ouersaw the accounts: so Sarchedonus appointed him next vnto him, and he was my brothers sonne.

CHAP. II.

2 Tobit calleth the faithful to his table, 3 Hee hangeth the dead to bury the dead, 10 How he became blinde, 11 His wife laboureth for her lining, 14 She reproacheth him bitterly.

Now when I was come home againe, and my wife Anna was restored vnto mee, with my sonne Tobias, in the feast of Pentecost, which is the holy feast of the seuen weekes, there was a great dinner prepared me, in the which I ate downe to eate.

2 And when I saw abundance of meate, I sayde to my sonne, Goe, and bring what poore man soeuer thou shalt find of our brethren, which doeth remember God, and loe, I will carrie for thee.

3 But he came againe, and said, Father, one of our nation is strangled, and is cast out in the market place.

4 Then before I had tasted any meate, I start up, and brought him into my house vntill the going downe of the sunne.

5 Then I returned and washed, and ate my meate in heauinesse,

6 Remembering that prophete of Amos, which had said, Your solemne feasts shall be turned into mourning and your ioyes into wailing.

7 Therefore I wept, and after the going downe of the sunne, I went and made a graue and buried him.

8 But my neighbors mocked me, and said, Doeth hee not feare to die for this cause, who fled away, and yet loe, hee buryeth the dead againe?

9 The same night also when I returned from the buriall, and slept at the wall of mine house, because I was polluted, and hauing my face vncovered, 11 And my wife Anna did take womens works to doe.

12 And when shee had sent them home to the owners, they payed the wages and gaue a kid.

13 Which when it was at mine house, and began to bleate, I said vnto her. From whence is this kid? is it not stolen? render it to the owners: for it is not lawfull to eat any thing that is stolen.

14 But she said, It was giuen for a gift more then the wages: but I did not beleue, and bade her to render it to the owners, and I did blush because of her. Further more shee said, * Where are thine almes, and thy righteousness? behold, they all now appeare in thee.

CHAP. IIJ.

3 The prayer of Tobit. 7 Sarra Raguel's daughter and the things that came vnto her. 12 Her prayer heard. 17 The Angel Raphael sent.

Then I being sorrowfull, did weep, and in my sorrow prayed, saying,

2 O Lord, thou art iust, and all thy workes and all thy wayes are mercy and trueth, and thou iudgeth truly and iustly for euer.

2 Remember mee, and looke on mee, neither punish mee according to my sinnes, or mine ignorances, or my fathers, which haue sinned before thee.

4 For they haue not obeyed thy commandments: wherefore thou hast deliuered vs * for a spoile, and vnto captiuitie, and to death, and for a prouerb of a reproch to all them among whom we are disperfed, and now // thou hast many and iust causes,

5 To doe with mee according to my sinnes, and to my fathers, because we haue not kept thy Commandements, neither haue walked in trueth before thee.

6 Now therefore deale with mee as seemeth best vnto thee, and command my spirit to bee taken from me, that I may be dissolved, and become earth: for it is better for me to die then to liue, because I haue heard false reproches, and am very sorrowfull: command therefore that I may be dissolved out of this distresse, and goe into the everlasting place: turne not thy face away from me.

7 ¶ It came to passe the same day that in Echatane a city of Medfa, Sarra the daughter of Raguel was also reproched by her fathers maids,

8 Because shee had bene married to seven husbonds, whom Almodius the euill spirit had killed before that they had lien with her. Doest thou not know, saide they, that thou hast strangled thine husbonds: thou hast had now seven husbonds, neither wast thou named after any of them.

9 Therefore doest thou // heare vs for them? if they bee dead, goe thy wayes hence to them, that we may neuer see of thee either sonne or daughter.

10 When shee heard these things, shee was very sorrowfull, so that she thought to haue strangled her selfe. And she said I am the only daughter of my father, and if I doe this, I shall stande him, and shall bring his age to the graue with sorrow.

11 Then she prayed toward the window, and saide, Blessed art thou, O Lord my God, and thine holy and glorious Name is blessed, and honourable for euer: let all thy workes praise thee for euer.

12 And now, O Lord, I set mine eyes and my face toward thee, 13 And say, Take me out of the earth, that I may heare no more any reproch.

14 Thou knowest, O Lord, that I am pure from all sinne with man,

15 And that I haue neuer polluted my name, nor the name of my father in the land of my captiuitie: I am the onely daughter of my father, neither hath he any man child to bee his heire, neither any neere kinse man or childe bozne of him, to whom I may keepe my selfe for a wife: my seven husbonds are now dead, & why should I liue? But if it please not thee that I should die, command to looke on me, and to pittie me, that I doe no more heare reproch.

16 So the prayers of them both were heard before the maiestie of the great God.

17 And Raphael was sent to heale them both, that is, to take away the whitenesse of Tobits eyes, and to giue Sarra the daughter of Raguel to a wife to Tobias the soone of Tobit, and to bind Almodius the euill spirit, because shee belonged to Tobias by right. The selfe same time came Tobit home, and entred into his house, and Sarra the daughter of Raguel came down from her chamber.

CHAP. IIIJ.

Precepts and exhortations of Tobit, to his sonne.

¶ That day Tobit remembred * the filner I which hee had deliuered to Gabael in Ragas a citie of Medfa,

2 And said with himselfe, I haue wished for death: wherefore doe I not call for my sonne Tobias, that I may admonish him before I die?

3 And when he had called him, he said, My sonne, after that I am dead, bury me, and despise not thy mother, but * honour her all the dayes of thy life, and doe that which shall please her, and anger her not.

4 Remember my sonne, how many dangers she sustained when thou wast in her wombe,

5 And when she dieth, bury her by me in the same graue.

6 My sonne, let our Lord God alwaies befoze thine eyes, and let not thy will be set to sinne, or to transgresse the commandements of God. Doe vprightly all thy life long, and follow not the wayes of vnrightheousnesse: for if thou deale truly, thy doings shall prosper: // succerde to thee, and to all them which liue iustly.

7 Giue * almes of thy substance: and when thou giuest almes, let not thine eye be enuious, neither turne thy face from any poore, lest that God turne his face from thee.

8 * Giue almes according to thy substance: if thou haue but a little, bee not afraid to giue a little almes.

CHAP. V.

1 Tobias sent to Rages. 4 He meeteth with the Angel Raphael which did conduct him.

Tobias sent by his father to Rages seeketh a companion, and meeteeth with Raphael, whom he bringeth to his father.

Tobias then answered, and said, Father, I will do all things which thou hast commanded me.

2 But how can I receiue the silver, seeing I know him not?

3 Then he gaue him the hand writing, and said vnto him, Seeke thee a man: which may goe with thee, whyles I yet liue, and I will giue him wages, and goe and receiue the money.

4 Therefore when hee was gone to seeke a man, he found Raphael the Angel.

5 But he knew not, and said vnto him, May I goe with thee into the land of Media? and knowest thou those places well?

6 To whom the Angel said, I will goe with thee: for I haue remained with our brother Sa-bael.

7 Then Tobias said to him, Tary for mee, tell I tell my father.

8 Then he said vnto him, So, and tary not:
so he went in, and said to his father, Beholde, I haue found one, which will goe with me. Then he said, Call him vnto me, that I may know of what tribe he is, and whether hee be faithfull to goe with thee.

9 So he called him, and he came in, and they saluted one another.

12 Then Tobias said vnto him, Brother, shew me of what tribe and family thou art.

11 To whom he said, Doe thou seeke a stock or family, or an hired man to goe with thy sonne, Then Tobias said vnto him, I would know brother, thy kinred and thy name.

12 Then he said, I am of the kinred of Azarias and Ananias the great, and of thy brethren.

13 Then Tobias said, || Thou art welcome, brother: bee not now angry with mee, because I haue enquired to know thy kinred and thy family: for thou art my brother of an honest and good stocke: for I know Ananias and Jonathas, sounes of that great Samaras: for we went together to Ierusalem to worship, and offered the first borne, and the tenths of the fruits, and they were not deceiued with the error of our brethren: my brother, thou art of a great stocke.

|| Or, thou commest happily.

14 But tell me, what wages shal I giue thee:
wilt thou a goat a day, and things necessary, as to mine owne sonne?

15 Yea, moreover, if yee retorne safe, I will adde some thing to the wages.

16 So they agreed. Then said hee to Tobias, Prepare thyselfe for the journey, and goe yon on Gods name. And when his sonne had prepared all things for the journey, his father said, Goe thou with this man, and God which dwelleth in Heauen, prosper your journey, and the Angel of God keepe you company. So they went forth both, and departed, and the dogge of the young man with them.

17 But * Anna his mother wept, and said to Tobias, Why hast thou sent away our sonne? is hee not the staffe of our hand to minister vnto vs?

Tobias goeth forth, the Angel keeping him company.

20 Then said Tobias, Bee not carefull, my sister: hee shall retorne in safetie, and thine eyes shall see him.

21 For the good Angel doth keepe him company, and his journey shal be prosperous, and he shall retorne safe.

22 Then she made an end of weeping.

CHAP. VI.

2 Tobias delivered from the fish. 7 Raphael sheweth him certaine medicines. 10 Hee conducteth him toward Sarra.

And

At as they went on their journey, they came at night to the flood Tigris, and there abode.

2 And when the young man went to wash himself, a fish leaped out of the river and would have deuoured him.

Tobias inuaded of a fish is delivered by the Angel,

3 Then the Angel said vnto him, Take the fish, and the young man tooke the fish and drew it to land.

4 To whom the Angel said, Cut the fish, and take the heart, and the liuer, and the gall, and put them vp surely.

5 So the young man did as the Angel commanded him: and when they had roasted the fish, they ate it: then they both went on their way till they came to Ecobatane.

6 Then the young man said to the Angel, Brother Azarias, what auaileth the heart, and the liuer, and the gall of the fish?

7 And he said vnto him, Touching the heart and the liuer, if a diuell or an euill spirit trouble any, we must make a perfume of this before the man or the woman, and hee shall see no more vered.

8 As for the gall, annoint a man that hath whitenesse in his eyes, and he shall be healed.

9 And when they were come neere to Rages,

10 The Angel said to the young man, Brother, to day we shall lodge with Raguel, who is thy cousin: hee also hath one onely daughter named Sarra: I will speake for her that she may be giuen thee for a wife.

Num. 27.8. and 36.8.

11 For to thee doth the right of her pertaine, seeing thou alone art the remnant of her kined, 12 And the maide is faire and wise: nowe therefore heare me, and I will speake to her father, that wee may make the marriage when wee are returned from Rages: for I know that Raguel cannot marry her to another, according to the Law of Moyses: else he should deserue death, because the right doth rather appertaine to thee then to any other man.

13 Then the young man answered the Angel, I haue heard, brother Azarias, that this maide hath bene giuen to seuen men, who all died in the marriage chamber:

14 And I am the onely begotten sonne of my father and I am afraid lest I goe into her, and die as the other before: for a wicked spirit loueth her, which hurteth no body, but those which come in to her: wherefore I also feare lest I die, and bring my fathers and my mothers life because of mee to the graue with sorrow: for they haue no other sonne to bury them.

15 Then the Angel sayd vnto him, Doe st thou not remember the precepes which thy father gaue thee, that thou shouldest marry a wife of thine owne kined: wherefore heare me, O my brother: for she shall be thy wife, neither be thou carefull of the euill spirit: for this same night shall she be giuen thee in marriage.

16 And when thou shalt go into the marriage chamber, thou shalt take of the hote coales for perfumes, and make a perfume of the heart, and of the liuer of the fish,

17 Which if the spirit doe smell, hee will flee away, and neuer come againe any more: but when thou shalt come to her, rise vp both of you, and pray to God which is mercifull, who will haue pittie on you, and saue you: feare not for she is appointed vnto thee from the beginning, and thou shalt keepe her, and she shall goe with thee: moreover I suppose that she shall beare thee children: now when Tobias had heard these things, hee loued her, and his heart was effectually ioy- ned to her.

CHAP. VII.

Tobias marrieth Sarra Raguels daughter.

Raphael and Tobias come to Raguel.

And when they were come to Ecobatane, they came to the house of Raguel, a Sarra met them, and after they had saluted one another, she brought them into the house.

2 Then said Raguel to Edna his wife, What like is this young man to Tobit my cousin?

3 And Raguel asked, Whence are you, my brethren: to whom they said, that they were of the tribe of Nephtalim, and of the captiues that dwelt at Nineue.

4 Then he said to them, Doe ye know Tobit our kinsman? And they said, We know him. Then said he, Is he in good health?

5 And they said, He is both alive, and in good health: and Tobias said, He is my father.

6 Then Raguel leaped, and kissed him, and wept,

7 And blessed him, and said vnto him, Thou art the sonne of an honest and good man: but when he had heard that Tobit was blinde, hee was sorrowfull, and wept.

8 And likewise Edna his wife, and Sarra his daughter wept. Moreover, they receiued them with a ready mind, and after that they had killed a ramme of the flocke, they set much meat on the table. Then said Tobias to Raphael, Brother Azarias, put forth those things wherof thou spakest in the way, that this businesse may be dispatched.

Tobias asked Raguel's daughter to wife,

9 So he communicated the matter with Raguel, and Raguel said to Tobias, Eat, and drinke, and make merry.

10 For it is meete that thou shouldest marrie my daughter: neuerthelesse, I will declare vnto thee the truth.

11 I haue giuen my daughter in marriage to seuen men, who died that night which they came in vnto her, neuerthelesse, be thou of a good courage and merry. But Tobias said, I will eate nothing here, vntill ye bring her hither, and bestow her to me.

12 Raguel said then, Marry her then according to the custome: for thou art her cousin, and she is thine, God which is mercifull, make this prosperous to you in all good things.

13 Then he called his daughter Sarra, and she came to her father, and he tooke her by the hand, and gaue her for wife to Tobias, saying, Behold, take her after the Lawe of Moyses, and lead her away to thy father: and he blessed them, Raguel giued his daughter Sarra to Tobias.

14 And called his wife Edna, and he tooke a booke, and wrote a contract, and sealed it.

15 Then they began to eate.

16 After, Raguel called his wife Edna, and said vnto her, Sister, prepare another chamber, and bring in her thither.

17 Which when she had done, as he had bid her, she brought her thither: then Sarra wept, and her mother wiped away her daughters teares,

18 And said vnto her, Be of good comfort, my daughter: the Lord of heauen and earth glue thee ioy for this thy sorrow: be of good comfort my daughter.

CHAP. VIII.

Tobias driveth away the euill spirit. 4 Hee prayeth to God with his wife. 11 Raguel prepareth a graue for his sonne in law. 16 Raguel blesseth the Lord.

Tobias followeth Raphaels counsell, as Chap. 6. 7.

AND when they had supped, they brought Tobias in vnto her.

2 And as he went, hee remembred the words of Raphael, and tooke coales for perfumes, and put the heart and liver of the fish therupon, and made a perfume.

3 The which smell when the euill spirit had smelled, he fled into the suttmost parts of Egypt, whom the Angel bound.

4 And after that they were both shut in, Tobias arose out of the bed & said, Sister, arise and let vs pray, that God would haue pitie on vs.

5 Then began Tobias to say, Blessed art thou, O God of our fathers, and blessed is thine holy and glorious Name for ever: let the heauens blesse thee, and all thy creatures.

6 Thou madest Adam, and gauest him Eua his wife for an helpe, and stay: of them came mankind: thou hast said, It is not good, that a man should be alone: let vs make vnto him an aide like vnto himselfe.

7 And now, O Lord, I take not this my sister for fornication, but vnpurity: therefore grant me mercy, that we may become aged together.

8 And she said with him, Amen.

9 So they slept both that night, and Raguel arose, and went and made a graue,

10 Saying, Is not he dead also?

11 But when Raguel was come into his house,

12 Hee sayd to his wife Edna, Send one of the maides, and let them see whether hee be aliue: if not, that I may bury him, and none know it.

13 So the maide opened the doore, and went in, and found them both asleepe.

14 And came forth, and tolde them that hee was aliue.

15 Then Raguel praised God, and said, O God, thou art worthy to be praised with all pure and holy praise: therefore let thy Saints praise thee with all thy creatures, and let all thine Angels and thine elect praise thee for euer.

16 Thou art to be praised, O Lord: for thou hast made mee ioyfull, and that is not come to me which I suspected: but thou hast dealt with vs according to great mercy.

17 Thou art to be praised, because thou hast had mercy of two that were the onely begotten children of their fathers: grant them mercy, O Lord, and finish thier life in health with ioy and mercy.

18 Then Raguel bad his seruants to fill the graue.

19 And hee kept the wedding feast fouretee dayes.

20 For Raguel had said vnto him by an oth, that he should not depart before that the fouretee dayes of the marriage were expired.

21 And then hee should take the halfe of his goods, and returne in safety to his father, and should haue the rest, when hee and his wife were dead.

Raguel thinking Tobias was dead, made a graue for him,

Raguel praisheth God for Tobias,

Raguel giueth halfe of his goods towards the marriage of his daughter to Tobias.

CHAP. IX.

Raphael leadeth Gabael to Tobias marriage.

Then Tobias called Raphael, and sayd vnto him,

2 Brother Azarias take with thee a seruant and two camels, and goe to Rages of the Medes to Gabael, and bring mee the money, and bring him to the wedding.

3 For Raguel hath sworne that I shall not depart.

4 But my father counteth the dayes: and if I tary long, he will be very sozy.

5 So Raphael went out, and came to Gabael, and gaue him the hand writing, who brought forth bags which were sealed vp, and gaue them to him.

6 And in the morning they went forth both together, and came to the wedding, and Tobias begat his wife with childe.

CHAP. X.

1 Tobit and his wife thinke long for their sonne. 10 Raguel sendeth away Tobias and Sarra.

Now Tobit his Father counted euery day, and when the dayes of the iourney were expired, and they came not,

2 Tobit said, Are they not mocked? or is not Gabael dead, and there is no man to giue him the money?

3 Therefore he was very sozy.

4 Then his wife said to him, My sonne is dead, seeing he tarrieth: and she beganne to bewaile him, and said,

5 Now I care for nothing, my sonne, since I haue lost thee the light of mine eyes.

6 To whom Tobit said, Hold thy peace: be not carefull, for he is safe.

7 But she said, Hold thy peace, and deceiue me not, my sonne is dead: and he went out euery day, by the way which they went, neither did she eate meate on the day time, and did consume whole nightes in bewailing her sonne Tobias, vntill the fouretee dayes of the wedding were expired, which Raguel had sworne, that hee should tary there. Then Tobias said to Raguel, Let me goe: for my father and my mother looke no more to see me.

8 But his father in law said vnto him, Tarry with me, and I will send to thy father, & they shall declare him thine affaires.

9 But Tobias said, No, but let mee goe to my father.

10 Then Raguel arose, and gaue him Sarra his wife, and halfe his goods, as seruants, and cattell, and money.

11 And he blessed them, and sent them away, saying, The God of heauen make you, my children, to prosper before I die.

12 And he said to his daughter, Honour thy father and thy mother in law, which are now thy parents, that they may heare good report of thee: and he kissed them. Edna also said to Tobias, The Lord of heauen restore thee my deere brother, and grant that I may see thy children, of my daughter Sarra, that I may reioyce before the Lord. Behold now, I commit to thee my daughter, as a pledge: doe not intreat her euill.

CHAP. XI.

1 The returne of Tobias to his Father. 9 How hee was receiued. 10 His father hath his sight restored, and praisheth the Lord.

After

Tobits care for his son, The Angel goeth on Tobias message.

The father and mother are in heavynesse for Tobias tarying. Chap. 5. 17.

Raguel giueth Tobias and his wife leaue to depart.

Sarra is instructed by her parents.

The Angels counsell to Tobias.

After these things Tobias went his way praising God that he had given him a prosperous journey, and blessed Raguel and Edna his wife, and went on his way till he drew neere to Nineue.

2 Then Raphael sayd to Tobias, Thou knowest brother, how thou diddest leaue thy Father.

3 Let vs haste before thy wife, and prepare the house.

4 And take in thine hand the gill of the fish. So they went their way, and the dog followed them.

5 Now Anna late in the way looking for her sonne.

6 Whom when she saw comming, she said to his Father, Behold, thy sonne commeth, and the man that went with him.

7 Then said Raphael, I know, Tobias, that thy Father shall receive his sight.

8 Therefore annoint his eyes with the gill, and being picketh therewith hee shall rubbe and make the whitenesse to fall away, and shall see thee.

9 Then Anna ranne forth, and fell on the necke of her sonne, and sayd vnto him, Seeing I haue seene thee, my sonne, from henceforth I am content to die, and they wept both.

10 Tobit also went forth toward the doore, and stumbled, but his sonne ran vnto him, 11 And tooke hold of his father, and sprinkled of the gill on his fathers eyes, saying, Be of good hope, my Father.

12 And when his eyes began to picke, he rubbed them.

13 And the whitenesse pilled away from the corners of his eyes, and when hee saw his sonne, he fell vpon his necke.

14 And hee wept, and said, Blessed art thou, O Lord, and blessed be thy Name for ever, and blessed be all thine holy Angels.

15 For thou hast scourged mee, and hast had pittie on me: for behold, I see my sonne Tobias: and his sonne, being glad, went in, and told his father the great things that had come to passe in Media.

16 Then Tobit went out to meet his daughter in Law, reioycing and praising God to the gate of Nineue: and they which saw him goe, maruelled, because he had recouered his sight.

17 But Tobit testified before them all, that God had had pittie on him. And when hee came neere to Sarra his daughter in law, hee blessed her: saying, Thou art welcome daughter: God be blessed which hath brought thee vnto vs, and blessed bee thy Father: and there was great ioy among all his brethren, which were at Nineue.

18 And Achicharus and Rasbas his brothers sonne came.

19 And Tobias marriage was kept seven dayes with great ioy.

CHAP. XII.

2 Tobias declareth to his father the pleasures that Raphael had done him, 5 The which hee would recompense. 11. 15 Raphael declareth that hee is an Angel sent of God.

Then Tobit called his sonne Tobias, and said vnto him, Prouide, my sonne, wages for the man, which went with thee, and thou must giue him more.

2 And hee said vnto him, O Father, it shall not grieue mee to giue him halfe of those things which I haue brought.

3 For hee hath brought me againe to thee in safety, and hath made whole my wife, and hath brought me the money, and hath likewise healed thee.

4 Then the olde man sayd, It is due vnto him.

5 So he called the Angel, and said vnto him, Take halfe of all that pee haue brought, and goe away in safety.

6 But hee tooke them both apart, and sayd vnto them, Praise God, and confesse him, and giue him the glory, and praise him for the things which he hath done vnto you before all them that liue. It is good to praise God, and to exalt his Name, and to shew forth his euident workes with honour: therefore be not weary to confesse him.

7 It is good to keepe close the secrets of a King, but it is honourable to reueale the workes of God: do that which is good, and no euill shall touch you.

8 Prayer is good with fasting, and almes and righteousness. A little with righteousness is better then much with vnrightheousnesse: it is better to giue almes, then to lay by gold.

9 For almes doeth deliuer from death, and doth purge all sinne. Those which exercise almes and righteousness, shall be filled with life.

10 But they that sinne, are enemies to their owne life.

11 Surely I will keepe close nothing from you: neuertheless, I said it was good to keepe close the secret of a King, but that it was honorable to reueale the workes of God.

12 Now therefore when thou didst pray, and Sarra thy daughter in Law, I did bring to memorie your prayer before the holy One: And when thou diddest bury the dead, I was with thee likewise.

13 And when thou wast not grieved to rise vp, and leaue thy dinner to bury the dead, thy good deede was not hid from mee: but I was with thee.

14 And now God hath sent me to heale thee, and Sarra thy daughter in law.

15 I am Raphael, one of the seven holy Angels, which present the prayers of the Saints, and which goe forth before his holy Patrie.

16 Then they were both troubled, and fell vpon their face: for they feared.

17 But he said vnto them, Feare not, for it shall goe well with you: praise God therefore.

18 For I came not of mine owne pleasure, but by the good will of your God: wherefore praise him in all ages.

19 All these dayes I did appeare vnto you, but I did neither eate nor drinke, but you saw it in vision.

20 Now therefore giue God thanks: for I goe by to him that sent me: but write all things which are done in a booke.

21 And when they rose they saw him no more.

22 Then they confessed the great and wonderfull workes of God, and how the Angel of the Lord had appeared to them.

CHAP. XII.

A thanksgiving of Tobit, who exhorteth all to praise the Lord.

Then Tobit wrote a prayer of reioycing, and said, Blessed be God that liueth for euer, and bleiseth his Kingdome.

*Deut. 32. 39.
1. sam. 2. 6.
wisd. 16. 13.*

2 * For he doth scourge and hath pittie: hee leadeth to hell, and bringeth vp, neither is there any that can auoyd his hand.

3 Confesse him before the Gentiles, yee children of Israel: for he hath scattered you among them.

4 There declare his greatnesse, and extoll him before all the liuing: for he is our Lord and our God, and our Father for euer.

5 Hee hath scourged vs for our iniquities and will haue mercie againe, and will gather vs out of all nations, among whom wee are scattered.

6 If you turne to him with your whole heart, and with your whole minde, and deale righteously before him, then will hee turne vnto you, and will not hide his face from you, but ye shall see what he will doe with you: therefore confesse him with your whole mouth, and praise the Lord of righteousnesse, and extoll the euerslasting King, I will confesse him in the land of my captivity, and will declare his power and greatnesse to a sinfull nation. O yee sinners, turne and doe iustice before him: who can tell if hee will receiue you to mercie, and haue pittie on you?

7 I will extoll my God, and my soule shall prayse the King of heauen, and shal reioyce in his greatnesse.

8 Let all men speake, and let all praise him for his righteousnesse.

9 O Ierusalem the holy citie, he will scourge thee for thy childrens workes, but hee will haue pittie againe on the sonnes of righteous men.

10 Giue praise to the Lord duely, and prayse the euerslasting King, that his Tabernacle may be builded in thee againe with ioy: and let him make ioyfull there in thee those that are captiues, and loue in thee for euer those that bee miserable.

11 Many nations shall come from farre to the Name of the Lord God, with gifts in their hands, euen gifts to the King of heauen: all generations shall praise thee, and giue signes of ioy.

12 Cursed are all they which hate thee, but blessed are they for euer which loue thee.

13 Reioyce, and bee glad for the children of the iust: for they shall be gathered, and shal bleiseth the Lord of the iust.

14 Blessed are they which loue thee: for they shall reioyce in thy peace. Blessed are they which haue been sorrowfull for all thy scourges: for they shall reioyce for thee, when they shall see all thy glory, and shall reioyce for euer.

15 Let my soule bleesse God the great King.

16 For Ierusalem shal be built vp with Saphires, and Emeraundes, and thy walles with precious stones, and thy towres, and thy bulwarkes with pure gold, 17 And the streets of Ierusalem shall be paved with Berall, and Carbuncle, and stones of Ophe.

18 And all her streetes shall say, Hallelulah, and they shall praise him, saying, Blessed be God which hath extolled || it for euer.

|| That is, Ierusalem.

CHAP. XIII.

3 Lessons of Tobit to his sonne. 4 Hee prophesieth the destruction of Ninene, 7 and the restoring of Ierusalem and the Temple. 13 The death of Tobit, and his wife. 14 Tobias age and death.

So Tobit made an end of praying God.

2 And hee was eight and fifty yeere olde, when hee lost his sight, which was restored to him after eight yeere, and he gaue almes, and hee continued to feare the Lord God, and to praise him.

3 And when he was very aged, hee called his sonne, and sire of his sonnes sonnes, and said to him, My sonne, take thy children (for beholde, I am aged, and am ready to depart out of this life.)

4 Goe into Media my sonne: for I surely beleene those things which Jonas the Prophet spake of Nineue, that it shall bee destroyed, and for a time peace shall rather bee in Media, and that our brethren shall bee scattered in the earth from that good land, and Ierusalem shall be desolate, and the house of God in it shall be burned and shall be desolate for a time.

5 Yet againe God * will haue pittie on them and bring them againe into the land where they shall build a Temple, but not like to the first, vntill the times of that age be fulfilled, which being finished, they shall returne from euery place out of captivity, & build vp Ierusalem gloriously, and the house of God shalbe built in it for euer with a glorious building, as the Prophets haue spoken thereof.

and 6. 14.*

6 And all nations shall turne, and feare the Lord God truly, and shall bury their idoles.

7 So shall all nations praise the Lord, and his people shall confesse God, and the Lord shall exalt his people, & all those which loue the Lord in truerh and iustice, shall reioyce, and those also which shew mercie to our brethren.

8 And now my sonne, depart out of Nineue, because that those things which the Prophet Jonas spake, shall surely come to passe.

9 But keepe thou the Law, and the Commandements, and shew thy selfe mercifull and iust, that it may go well with thee.

10 And bury mee honestly, and thy mother with mee: but tary no longer at Nineue. Remember, my sonne, how Aman handled Achacharus that brought him vp, how out of sight hee brought him into darkenesse, and how hee rewarded him againe: yet Achacharus was laued, but the other had his reward: for hee went downe into darkenesse. Manasses gaue almes, and escaped the snare of death, which thy had set for him, but Aman fell into the snare and perished.

11 Wherefore now, my sonne consider what almes doeth, and how righteousnesse doeth deliuer. When he had said these things, || hee gaue vp the ghost in the bed, being an hundred and eight and fiftie yeere old, and hee buried him honourably.

|| Or, his soule failed him in the bed.

12 And when Anna was dead, hee buried her with his father: but Tobias went with his wife and children to Ecbatane to Raguel guel his father in law.

13 Where he became old with honour, and he buried his father and mother in law honourably and he inherited their substance and Tobits his father.

14 And he died at Ecbatane in Media, being an hundred and seven and twenty years old.

15 But before he dies, he heard of the destruction of Nineue, which was taken by Nabuchodonosor and Assuerus, and before his death hee reioiced for Nineue.

Iudeth.

CHAP. I.

1 The building of Ecbatane. 5 Nabuchodonosor made warre against Arphaxad, and overcame him. 12 He threatneth them that would not helpe him.

In the twelfth yere of the reigne of Nabuchodonosor, who reigned in Nineue the great citie (in the dayes of Arphaxad, which reigned ouer the Medes in Ecbatane.

2 And built in Ecbatane, the walles round about of hewen stone, thre cubits broad, and fixe cubites long, and made the height of the wall seventy cubites, and the breadth thereof fiftie cubites.

3 And made the towres thereof in the gates of it of an hundred cubits, & the breadth thereof in the foundation thre score cubits.

4 And made the gates thereof euen gates that were lifted vpon high, leuentie cubits, and the breadth of them fourtie cubits, for the going forth of his mighty armies, and for the setting in aray of his footmen.

5 Euen in those dayes, King Nabuchodonosor made warre with King Arphaxad in the great field, which is the field in the coastes of Ragau.

6 Then came vnto him all they that dwelt in the mountaines, and all that dwelt by Euphrates, and Tygris, and Hydaspes, and the countrey of Arioch the King of the Elimeans, and very many nations assembled themselves to the battell of the sonnes of Chelod.

7 And Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians sent vnto all that dwelt in Persia, and to all that dwelt in the West, and to those that dwelt in Cilicia, and Damascus, and Libanus, and Antilibanus, and to all that dwelt vpon the sea coast,

8 And to the people that are in Carmel, and Galaad, and the higher Galile, and the great field of Ecbatane,

9 And to all that were in Samaria, and the cities thereof, and beyond Iorden vnto Ierusalem, and Betane, and Chellus, and Cades, and the river of Egypt, and Taphnes, and Ramesse, and all the land of Gessen, 10 Until one come to Tantis, and Memphis, and to all the inhabitants of Egypt, and til one come to the mountaines of Ethiopia.

11 But all the inhabitants of this countrey did not passe for the commandement of Nabuchodonosor king of the Assyrians, neither would they come with him to the battell: for they did not feare him: yea, hee was before them as one man: therefore they sent away his ambassadors from them without effect, and with dishonour.

12 Therefore Nabuchodonosor was very angry with all this countrey, and swate by his throne and kingdome, that he would surely be auenged vpon all those coastes of Cilicia and Damascus, and Syria, and that he would slay with the sword all the inhabitants of the land of Moab, and the children of Ammon, and all Iudea, and all that were in Egypt, till one come to the borders of the two seas.

13 Then he marched in battell aray with his power against king Arphaxad in the seventeenth yere, and hee prevailed in his battell: for hee overthrew all the power of Arphaxad, and all his hostemen, and all his charers.

14 And hee wanne his cities, and came vnto Ecbatane, & tooke the towres, and spoiled the streetes therof, and turned the beautie thereof into shame.

15 He tooke also Arphaxad in the mountaine of Ragau, and smote him thorow with his darts and destroyed him utterly that day.

16 So hee returned after ward to Nineue, both hee and all his company with a very great multitude of men of warre, and there hee passed the time, and banquetted, both he and his army, an hundred and twenty dayes.

CHAP. II.

5 Nabuchodonosor commanded presumptuously, that all people should be brought into subiection, 6 and to destroy those that disobeyed him. 15 The preparation of Olofernes armie. 23 The conquest of his enemies.

And in the eighteenth yere, the two and twentieth day of the first moneth, there was talke in the house of Nabuchodonosor king of the Assyrians, that he should auenge himselfe on all the earth, as he had spoken.

2 So he called vnto him all the officers and all his nobles, and communicated with them his secret counsell, and set before them with his own mouth all the malice of the earth.

3 Then they departed to destroy all flesh, that had not obeyed the commandement of his mouth.

4 And when he had ended his counsell, Nabuchodonosor king of the Assyrians called Olofernes his chiefe captaine, and which was next vnto him, and said vnto him,

5 Thus saith the great King, the lord of the whole earth, Behold, thou shalt goe forth from my presence, and take with thee men that trust in their owne strength, of footmen, an hundred and twenty thousand, and the number of horses with their riders, twelue thousand,

6 And thou shalt goe against all the West countrey, because they disobeyed my commandement.

7 And thou shalt declare vnto them that they prepare for me the land and the water: for I will goe forth in my wrath against them: and will cower the whole face of the earth with the scete of mine army, and I will giue them as a spoile vnto them.

8 So that their wounded shall fill their valleys, and their riuers, and the flood shall overflow, being filled with their dead.

9 And I will bring their captiuitie to the utmost parts of all the earth.

10 Thou therefore shalt depart hence, and take vp to me all their countrey: & if they yeeld vnto thee, thou shalt preserve them for me vntill the day that I rebuke them.

11 But concerning them that rebell, let not thine eye spare them, but put them to death, and spoyle them wheresoever thou goest.

12 For as I live, and the power of my kingdom, wharsoeuer I haue spoken, that wil I doe by mine hand.

13 And take thou heed that thou transgresse not any of the commandements of thy lord, but accomplish them fully, as I haue commanded thee, and deferre not to doe them.

14 ¶ Then Olofernes went forth from the presence of his lord, and called al the gouernors, and captaines, and officers of the army of Assur,

15 And hee mustred the cholen men for the battel, as his lord had commanded him, vnto an hundred and twenty thousand, & twelue thousand archers on horsebacke.

16 And he set them in aray according to the manner of setting a great army in aray.

17 And hee tooke camels and asses for their burdens, a very great number, and sheepe, and oren, and goates without number for their provision,

18 And victualle for euery man of the army, and very much gold & siluer out of the kings house.

19 Then he went forth with all his power, to goe before in the voyage of king Nabuchodonosor, and to cower all the face of the earth Westward, with their charers and horsemen, and cholen footmen.

20 A great multitude also of sundry sorts came with them like grasshoppers, and like the graue of the earth: for the multitude was without number.

21 And they went forth of Nineue three daies iourney toward the countrey of Bectileth, and pitched from Bectileth neere the mountaine which is on the left hand of the vpper Cilicia.

22 Then he tooke all his armie, his footmen and horsemen, and charers, and went from thence into the mountaines.

23 And hee destroyed Phud and Lud, and spoiled all the children of Rasses, & the children of Iinnai, which were toward the wilderness at the South of the Chelians.

24 Then he went ouer Euphrates, and went thorough Mesopotamia, and destroyed al the high cities that were vpon the riuier of Arbonai, vntill one come to the Sea.

25 And he tooke the borders of Cilicia, and destroyed all that resisted him, and came to the borders of Iapheth, which were toward the South, and ouer against Arabia.

26 He compassed also all the children of Madian, and burnt vp their tabernacles, and spoiled their lodges.

27 Then he went downe into the countrey of Damascus, in the time of wheate harvest, and burnt vp all their fields, & destroyed their flocks and the herds: he robbed their cities, and spoiled their countrey, and smote all their yong men with the edge of the sword.

28 Therefore feare and trembling fell vpon all the inhabitants of the Sea coast which were in Sidon and Tyus, and them that dwelt in Sur and Ocina, & all that dwelt in Iemnaan: and they that dwelt in Azotus and Ascalon, feared him greatly.

CHAP. III.

The people subiect to Olofernes. 8 He destroyed their gods, that Nabuchodonosor might only be worshipped.

So they sent ambassadours to him with messages of peace, saying,

2 Behold, we are the seruants of Nabuchodonosor the great King: wee lie downe before thee: vse vs as shall be good in thy sight.

3 Behold, our houses and all our places, and all our fields of wheate, and our flocks and our herds, and all our lodges and tabernacles lie before thy face: vse him as it pleaseth thee.

4 Behold, even our cities & the inhabitants thereof are thy seruants: come, and take them, as seemeth good to thee.

5 ¶ So the men came to Olofernes, and declared vnto them after this manner.

6 Then came he down toward the sea coast, both he and his army, and set garrisons in the high cities, and tooke out of them cholen men for the warre.

7 So they and all the countrey round about receiued them with crownes, and daunces, and with timbrels.

8 Yet he brake downe all their borders, and cut down their woods, for it was enioyned him to destroy all the gods of the land, that all nations should worship Nabuchodonosor only, and that al tongues and tribes should call vpon him as God.

9 Also he came against Esdrachon, neere vnto Iudea, ouer against the great strait of Iudea.

10 And he pitched betweene Geba, and a citie of the Scythians, and there he taried a moneth, that hee might assemble all the baggage of his armie.

CHAP. IIII.

The Israelites were afraid, and defended their countrey. 6 Ioachim the Priest writeth to Bethulia, that they should fortifie themselves. 9 They cryed to the Lord, and humbled themselves before him.

Now the children of Israel that dwelt in Iudea, heard all that Olofernes the chiefe captaine of Nabuchodonosor king of the Assyrians had done to the nations, and how hee had spoiled all their temples, and brought them to nought.

2 Therefore they feared greatly his presence, and were troubled for Ierusalem, and for the Temple of the Lord their God.

3 For they were newly returned from the captiuitie, and of late all the people was assembled sembled in Judea, and the vessels and the Altar of the house had been sanctified because of the pollution.

4 Therefore they sent into all the coasts of Samaria, & the villages, and to Bethozai, and Belmen, and Jericho, and to Choba, and Elora, and to the valley of Salein,

5 And tooke all the tops of the high mountaines, and walled the villages that were in them, and put in vitailles for the prouision of warre: for their fields were of late reaped.

6 Also Joacim the high Priest which was in those dayes in Jerusalem, wrote to them that dwelt in Berhulia and Betomestham, which is ouer against Eloraelon, toward the open countrey neere to Dotaham,

7 Exhorting them to keepe the passages of the mountaines: for by them there was an entry into Judea, and it was easie to let them that would come by because the passage was strait for two men at the most.

8 And the children of Israel did as Joacim the high Priest had commanded them with the ancients of all the people of Israel which dwelt at Jerusalem.

9 Then cryed euery man of Israel to God with great feruency, and their sonles with great affection, 10 Both they and their wiues, and their children, and their cattell, and euery stranger, and hireling, and their bought seruants put sackcloth vpon their loynes.

11 Thus euery man and woman & the children, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem fell before the Temple, and sprinkled ashes vpon their heads, and spred out their sackcloth before the face of the Lord: also they put sackcloth about the altar, 12 And cryed to the God of Israel, all with one consent most earnestly, that hee would not giue their children for a pray, & their wiues for a spoile, & the cities of their inheritance to destruction, and the Sanctuary to pollution and reproch, and vnto derision to the heathen.

13 So God heard their prayers, and looked vpon their affliction: for the people fasted many dayes in all Judea and Jerusalem before the Sanctuary of the Lord Almighty.

14 And Joacim the high Priest, and all the Priests that stood before the Lord, and ministered vnto the Lord, had their loynes girt with sackcloth, and offered the continuall burnt offering, with prayers, and the free giftes of the people,

15 And had ashes on their miters, and cryed vnto the Lord with all their power for grace, and that hee would looke vpon all the house of Israel.

CHAP. V.

Achior the Ammonite dooth declare to Olofernes of the manner of the Israelites.

Then was it declared to Olofernes & chiefe captaine of the army of Assur, that the children of Israel had prepared for warre, and had shut the passages of the mountaines, and had walled all the tops of the high hills, and had laid impediments in the champion countrey.

4 Wherewith he was very angry, and called all the Princes of Moab, and the captaines of Ammon, and all the gouernours of the Sea coast.

3 And he sayd vnto them, Shew me, I seee sonnes of Chanaan, Who is this people that dweller in the mountaines: and what are the cities that they inhabit: and what is the multitude of their armie: and wherein is their strength and their power: and what King or captaine is raised among them ouer their armie:

4 And why haue they determined not to come to mee, more then all the inhabitants of the West?

5 Then said Achior the captaine of all the sonnes of Ammon, Let my lord heare the word of the mouth of his seruant, and I will declare vnto thee the truth concerning this people that dwell in these mountaines, neere where thou remainest: and there shall no lie come out of the mouth of thy seruant.

6 This people come of the stocke of the Chaldeans.

7 And they dwell before in Mesopotamia, because they would not follow the gods of their fathers, which were in the land of Chaldaea.

8 But they went out of the way of their ancestors, and worshipped the God of heauen, the God whom they knew: so they cast them out from the face of their gods, and they fledde into Mesopotamia, and sojourned there many dayes.

9 Then their God commanded them to depart from the place where they sojourned, and to goe into the land of Chanaan, where they dwell and were increased with gold, and silver and with very much cattell.

10 But when a famine couered all the land of Chanaan, they went downe into Egypt, and dwell there til they returned, and became there a great multitude, so that one could not number their linage.

11 Therefore the King of Egypt rose vp against them, and bled decret against them, and broughe them lowe with labouring in bakke, and made them slaues.

12 Then they cryed vnto their God, and he smote all the land of Egypt with incurable plagues: so the Egyptians cast them out of their sight.

13 And God dyed the red sea in their presence,

14 And brought them into mount Sina and Cades Barne, and cast forth all that dwell in the wilderness.

15 So they dwell in the land of the Amorites, and they destroyed by their strength all them of Elebon and passing ouer Iordane, they inherited all the mountaines.

16 And they cast forth before them the Chanaanites, and the Peresites, and the Jebusites and them of Sichem, and all the Gergesites, and they dwell in that countrey many dayes.

17 And whiles they sinned not before their God, they prospered, because the God that hated iniquitie was with them.

18 But when they departed from the way which he appointed them, they were destroyed in many battels after a wonderfull sort, and were ledde captiues into a land that was not theirs: and the temple of their God was

19 But now they are turned to their God, and are come up from the scattering wherein they were scattered, and have possessed Hierusalem, where their Temple is, and dwell in the mountaines which were desolate.

20 Now therefore, my lord and Gouvernour, if there be any fault in this people, so that they have sinned against their God, let vs consider that this shall be their ruine, and let vs go by, and we shall overcome them.

21 But if there be none iniquity in this people, let my lord passe by, lest their Lord defend them, and their God be for them, and we become a reproch before all the world.

22 And when Achior had finished these sayings, all the people, standing round about the tent, murmured: and the chiefe men of Olofernes, and all that dwell by the sea side, and in Moab, spake that he should kill him.

23 For, say they, wee feare not to meete the children of Israel: for loe, it is a people that haue no strength nor power against a mighty armie.

24 Let vs therfore go by, O lord, Olofernes, and they shall be meat for thy whole army.

CHAP. VI.

Olofernes blasphemeth God whom Achior confessed. 14 Achior is deliuered into the hands of them of Bethulia. 18 The Bethulians cry vnto the Lord.

AND when the tumult of the men that were about the counsell was ceased, Olofernes the chiefe captaine of the army of Assur, said vnto Achior before all the people of the strangers, and before all the children of Moab, and of them that were hired of Ephraim.

2 Because thou hast prophesied among vs to day, and hast sayd that the people of Hierusalem is able to fight, because their God will defend them: and who is god but Nabuchodonosor?

3 He will lend his power, and will destroy them from the face of the earth, and their God shall not deliuer them: but we his seruants will destroy them as one man: for they are not able to susteine the power of our horses.

4 For wee will tread them vnder feet with them, and their mountaines shall be drunken with their blood, and their fields shall be filled with their dead bodies, and their footsteps shall not be able to stand before vs: but they shall verily perish.

5 The king Nabuchodonosor lord of all the earth hath said, euen he hath sayd, None of my words shall be in vaine.

6 And thou Achior an hireling of Ammon, because thou hast spoken these words, in the day of thine iniquitie, thou shalt see my face no more from this day, vntill I take vengeance of that people that is come out of Egypt.

7 And then shall the yron of mine armie, and the multitude of them that serue mee passe thorough thy sides, and thou shalt fall among their flaine, when I shall put them to flight.

8 And my seruants shall cary thee into the mountaines, and they shall leaue thee at one of the hie cities: but thou shalt not perish, till thou be destroyed with them.

9 And if thou perswade thy life in thy mind that they shall not be taken, let not thy countenance fall: I haue spoken it, and none of my words shall be in vaine.

10 Then commanded Olofernes them concerning Achior, that they should bring him to Bethulia, and deliuer him into the hands of the children of Israel.

11 So his seruants tooke him, and brought him out of the campe into the plaine: and they went out from the middes of the plaine into the mountaines, and came vnto the fountaines that were vnder Bethulia.

12 And when the men of the city saw them from the top of the mountaine, they tooke their armour and went forth of the city vnto the top of the mountaine, euen all the throwers with slings, and kept them from comming up, by casting stones against them.

13 But they went priously vnder the hill, and bound Achior, and left him lying at the foot of the hill, and returned to their lord.

14 Then the Israelites came downe from their citie, and stood about him, and looked him and brought him into Bethulia, and presented him to the gouernours of their citie.

15 Which were in those dayes Ozias the sonne of Bicha, of the tribe of Simcon, and Chabris the sonne of Gorthoniel, and Charimis sonne of Belchiel.

16 And they called together all the ancients of the citie, and all their youth ran together, and their women to the assembly: & they set Achior in the mids of all their people. Then Ozias asked him of that which was done.

17 And he answered & declared vnto them the words of the counsell of Olofernes, and all the wordes that he had spoken in the middes of the princes of Assur, and whatsoever Olofernes had spoken proudly against the house of Israel.

18 Then the people fel downe and worshipped God, and cryed vnto God saying, 19 O Lord God of heauen, behold their pride and haue mercy on the basenesse of our people, and beholde this day the face of those that are sanctified vnto thee.

20 Then they comforted Achior, and prayed him greatly.

21 And Ozias tooke him out of the assembly into his house, and made a feast to the Elders and they called on the God of Israel, all that night for helpe.

CHAP. VII.

1 Olofernes doth besiege Bethulia. 2 The Counsell of the Idumeans and others against the Israelites. 23 The Bethulians murmure against their Gouvernours for lacke of water.

THe next day Olofernes commanded all his armie and all his people, which were come to take his part, that they should remooue their camps against Bethulia, and that they should take all the streits of the hill, and to make warre against the children of Israel.

2 Then their strong men remooued their camps in that day, and the army of the men of warre was an hundred thousand and seuentie footmen, and twelue thousand horsemen, beside the baggage and other men that were were asote among them; a very great multitude.

3 And they camped in the plaine neere unto Bethulia, by the fountaine, and they spread abroad toward Dothaim unto Belhaim, and in length from Bethulia unto Clamon, which is our against Elazarom.

4 Now the children of Israel, when they saw the multitude, were greatly troubled, and sayd every one to his neighbour, Now will they shut up all the whole earth: for neither the hie mountaines, nor the valleys, nor the hills are able to abide their burden.

5 Then every one tooke his weapons of warre, and burning fires in their towers, they remained and watched all that night.

6 But in the second day Olofernes brought forth all his holmen in the sight of the children of Israel, which were in Bethulia.

7 And viewed the passages up to their citie, and came to the fountaines of their waters, and tooke them, and set garisons of men of warre over them, and remooued toward his people.

8 Then came vnto him all the chiefe of the children of Elau, and all the gouernours of the people of Moab, and all the captaines of the sea coast, and said, 9 Let our captaine now heare a word, lest an inconuenience come in thine armie.

10 For this people of the children of Israel doe not trust in their speares, but in the height of the mountaines wherein they dwell, because it is not easie to come up to the toppes of their mountaines.

11 Now therefore my lord, fight not against them in battell aray, and there shal not so much as one man of thy people perish.

12 Remain in thy campe, and keepe all the men of thine armie, and let thy men keepe still the water of the countrey that commeth forth at the foote of the mountaine.

13 For all the inhabitants of Bethulia haue their water thereof: so shall thirst kill them, and they shall giue vp their citie: and wee and our people will goe up to the toppes of the mountaines that are neere, and will campe vpon them, and watch that none goe out of the citie.

14 So they and their wiues, and their children shall bee consumed with famine, and before the sword come against them, they shall bee ouerthrowen in the streetes where they dwell.

15 Thus shalt thou render them an euil reward, because they rebelled and obeyed not thy person peaceably.

16 And these words pleased Olofernes and all his souldiers, and he appointed to do as they had spoken.

17 So the campe of the children of Ammon departed, and with them five thousand of the Assyrians, and they pitched in the valley, and tooke the waters, and the fountaines of the waters of the children of Israel.

18 Then the children of Elau went vp with the children of Ammon, and camped in the mountaines ouer against Dothaim, and they sent some of themselves toward the South, and toward the East, ouer against Rebel, which is neere vnto Chusi, that is vpon the river Bochimur: and the rest of the armie of the Assyrians camped in the helde, and covered the whole land: for their tents and their baggage were pitched in a wonderfull great place.

19 Then the children of Israel cryed vnto the Lord their God, because their heart failed: for all their enemies had compassed them about, and there was no way to escape out from among them.

20 Thus all the company of Assur remained about them, both their footemen, chariots, and holmen, foure and thirtie dayes: so that euen all the places of their waters failed all the inhabitants of Bethulia.

21 And the cisternes were empty, and they had not water enough to drinke for one day: for they gaue them to drinke by measure.

22 Therefore their children swooned, and their wiues and young men failed for thirst, and fell downe in the streetes of the citie, and by the passages of the gates, & there was no strength in them.

23 Then all the people assembled to Dyzas, and to the chiefe of the citie, both yong men, and women and children, and cryed with a loude voyce, and said before all the Elders, 24 The Lord iudge betwene vs and you: for you haue done vs great iniurie, in that yee haue not required peace of the children of Assur.

25 For now wee haue no helper: but God hath sold vs into their hands, that wee should be throwen downe before them with thirst and great destruction.

26 Now therefore call them together, and deliuer the whole citie for a spoyle to the people of Olofernes, and to all his armie.

27 For it is better for vs to be made a spoyle vnto them, then to die for thirst: for we will bee his seruants, that wee may liue, and not see the death of our infants before our eyes, nor our wiues, nor our children to die.

28 We take to witness against you, the heauen and the earth, and our God and Lord of our fathers, which punisheth vs according to our sinnes, and the sinnes of our fathers, that he lay not these things to our charge.

29 Then there was a great cry of all with one consent in the middes of the assembly, and they cryed vnto the Lord God with a loude voyce.

30 Then said Dyzas to them, Brethren, be of good contrage: let vs waite per five dayes, in the which space the Lord our God may turne his mercy toward vs: for hee will not forsake vs in the end.

31 And if these dayes passe, and there come not helpe vnto vs, I will doe according to your word.

32 So he separated the people, every one vnto their charge, and they went vnto the wallles and towres of their citie, and sent their wiues and their children into their houses, and they were very low brought in the citie.

CHAP. VIII.

The parentage, life, and conuersation of Iudeth. 1. Shee rebuketh the faintnesse of the Gouernours. 2. Shee sheweth that they should not tempt God, but waite vpon him for succour. 3. Her enterprise against the enemies.

Now

Now at that time Judeth heard thereof, which was the daughter of Berai, the sonne of Dr, the sonne of Joseph, the sonne of Dziel, the sonne of Elcia, the sonne of Ananias, the sonne of Gedeon, the sonne of Raphahim, the sonne of Aicio, the sonne of Elm, the sonne of Etiah, the sonne of Nathanael, the sonne of Samael, the sonne of Salasadai, the sonne of Israel.

2 And Manasses was her husband, of her stocke and kindred, who dyed in the barley harvest.

3 For as hee was diligent over them that bound sheaves in the field, the heate came vpon his head, and hee fell vpon his bed, and dyed in the citie of Bethulia, and they buried him with his fathers in the field betwene Dorthaim and Balamo.

4 So Judeth was in her house a widow three yeeres, and foure moneths.

5 And shee made her a rent vpon her house, and put on sackcloth on her loines, and ware her widowes apparel.

6 And she fasted all the dayes of her widowhood, saue the day before the Sabbath, and the Sabbath, and the day before the new moones, and in the feasts and solemne dayes of the house of Israel.

7 She was also of a goodly countenance, and very beautiful to behold; and her husband Manasses had left her gold and siluer, and men seruants, and maide seruants, and cattell, and possessions where she remained.

8 And there was none that could bring an euill report of her: for she feared God greatly.

9 Now when shee heard the euill words of the people against the gouernour, because they fainted for lacke of waters (for Judeth had heard all the words that Dziel had spoken vnto them, and that hee had sworn vnto them to deliuer the citie vnto the Assyrians within foure dayes.)

10 Then she sent her maide that had the gouernment of all things that shee had, to call Dziel and Chabais and Charimis the ancients of the citie.

11 And they came vnto her, and shee sayd vnto them, Heare mee, O yee gouernours of the inhabitants of Bethulia: for your words that yee haue spoken before the people this day, are not right, touching this of the which yee made and pronounced betwene God and you, and haue promised to deliuer the citie to the enemies, vntill within these dayes the Lord turne to helpe you.

12 And now who are you that haue tempted God this day, and let your selues in the place of God among the children of men?

13 So now ye seeke the Lord Almighty, but you shall neuer know any thing.

14 For you cannot finde out the depth of the heart of man, neither can ye perceiue the things that hee thinketh: then how can you search out God that hath made all these things, and know his minde, or comprehend his purpose? May my brethren, prouoke not the Lord our God to anger.

15 For if hee will not helpe vs within these foure dayes, he hath power to defend vs, when he will, euen euery day, or to destroy vs before our enemies.

16 Doe not you therefore blame the counsellors of the Lord our God: for God is not as man that hee may be threatened, neither as the sonne of man to be brought to iudgement.

17 Therefore let vs waite for saluation of him, and call vpon him to helpe vs, and hee will heare our voyce if it please him.

18 For there appeareth none in our age, neither is there any now in these dayes, neither tribe, nor family, nor people, nor city among vs, which worship the gods made with hands, as hath bene aforesaid.

19 For the which cause our fathers were giuen to the sword, and for a spople, & had a great fall before our enemies.

20 But we know none other God: therefore wee trust that he will not despise vs, nor any of our linage.

21 Neither when we shall be taken, shall Iudea be so famous: for our Sanctuary shall be spoyled, and hee will require the profanation thereof at our mouth.

22 And the feare of our brethren, and the captivity of the countrey, and the desolation of our inheritance will he turne vpon our heads among the Gentiles, wheresoeuer we shall be in bondage, and wee shall bee an offence and a reproch to all them that possesse vs.

23 For our seruitude shall not be directed by fauour, but the Lord our God shall turne it to dishonour.

24 Now therefore, O brethren, let vs shew an example to our brethren, because their hearts depend vpon vs, and the Sanctuary, and the house, and the Altar rest vpon vs.

25 Wherefore, let vs giue thanks to the Lord our God, which trieth vs euen as he did our fathers.

26 Remember what things hee did to Abraham, and how hee tried Isaac, and all that hee did to Jacob in Mesopotamia of Syria when hee kept the sheepe of Laban his mothers brother.

27 For hee hath not tried vs as hee did them to the examination of their hearts, neither doth hee take vengeance on vs, but the Lord punisheth for instruction them that come neere to him.

28 Then said Dziel to her, All that thou hast spoken, hast thou spoken with a good heart, and there is none that is able to resist thy words.

29 For it is not to day that thy wisdom is knowne, but from the beginning of thy life all the people haue knowne thy wisdom: for the deuice of thine heart is good.

30 But the people were very thirsty, & compelled vs to doe vnto them as wee haue spoken, and haue brought vs to an othe, which wee may not transgresse.

31 Therefore now pray for vs, because thou art an holy woman, that the Lord may lend vs raine to fill our cisternes, and that we may faint no more.

32 Then said Judeth vnto them, Heare me, and I will doe a thing which shall be declared in all generations, to the children of our nation.

33 You shall stand this night in the gate, and I will goe forth with mine handmaid: and within the dayes that yee haue promised to deliver the cite to our enemies, the Lord will visite Israel by mine hand.

34 But enquire not you of mine acts: for I will not declare it unto you, till the things be finished that I doe.

35 Then said Othas and the princes unto her, Go in peace, and the Lord God bee before thee, to take vengeance on our enemies.

36 So they returned from the tent, and went to their wards.

CHAP. IX.

1 Indeth humbleth her selfe before the Lord, and maketh her prayers for the deliverance of her people, 7 Against the pride of the Assyrians. 11 God is the helpe of the humble.

Then Indeth fell upon her face, and put ashes upon her head, & put off the sackcloth wherewith she was clothed. And about the time that the incense of the evening was offered in Jerusalem in the house of the Lord, Indeth cried with a lowd voyce, and said,

2 O Lord God of my father * Simeon, to whom thou gavest a sword to take vengeance of the strangers which opened the wombe of the maid and defiled her, and discovered the thigh with shame, and polluted the wombe to reproch (for thou hadst commanded that it should not so be,

3 Per they did things for the which thou gavest their princes to the slaughter, for they were declined and washed their beds with blood) and hast stricken the servants with the gouernours, and the gouernours upon their thrones,

4 And hast given their wines for a pray, and their daughters to bee captiues, and all their spoiles for a boote to the children that thou lovest: which were moued with thy zeale, and abhorred the pollution of their blood, and called upon thee for ayde, O God, O my God heare me also a widow.

5 For thou hast wrought the things afore, and these, and the things that shall be after, and thou considerest the things that are present, and the things that are to come.

6 For the things which thou doest purpose, are present and say, Behold, we are here: for all thy wayes are ready, and thy iudgements are foreknown.

7 Behold, the Assyrians are multiplied by their power: they haue exalted themselves with horses and horsemen: they glory in the strength of their footmen, they trust in shield, speare, and bow, and sling, and do not know that thou art the Lord that breakest the battels: the Lord is thy Name.

8 Breake thou their strength by thy power, and breake their force by thy wrath: for they haue purposed to desile thy Sanctuary, and to pollute the Tabernacle where thy glorious Name resteth, and to cast downe with weapons the hornes of the altar.

9 Behold their pride, and send thy wrath upon their heads: giue into mine hand which am a widow, the strength that I haue conceived.

10 Smite by the deceit of my lips, the servant with the prince, & the prince with the servant: abate their height by the hand of a woman.

11 * For thy power standeth not in the multtude, nor thy might in strong men: but thou, O Lord, art the helpe of the humble and little ones, the defender of the weak, and the protector of them that are forsaken, and the Saviour of them that are without hope.

12 Surely, surely, thou art the God of my father and the God of the inheritance of Israel, the Lord of heauen and earth, the creator of the waters, the king of all creatures: heare thou my prayer, 13 And grant mee words and craft, and a wound, and a stroke against them that enterpryse cruel things against thy Covenant, and against thine holy house, and against the top of Sion, and against the house of the possession of thy childe.

14 Shew euidently among all thy people, and all the tribes, that they may know that thou art the God of all power and strength, and that there is none other that defendeth the people of Israel but thou.

CHAP. X.

1 Indeth decketh her selfe, and goeth forth of the citie. 11 She is taken of the watch of the Assyrians, and brought to Olesernes.

Now after shee had ceased to cry unto the God of Israel, and had made an end of all these words,

2 She rose where she had fallen downe, and called her maid, and went downe into the house in the which shee abode in the Sabbath dayes, and in the feast dayes,

3 And putting away the sackcloth wherewith shee was clad, & putting off the garments of her widowhood, shee washed her body with water, and anoynted it with much oymment, and dressed the haire of her head, and put attire upon it, and put on her garments of gladnesse, wherewith shee was clad, during the life of Hannas her husband.

4 And she put slippers on her feete, and put on bracelets, and sleeues, and rings, and earrings, and all her ornaments, and she decked her selfe branely, to allure the eyes of all men that should see her.

5 Then she gaue her maid a bottle of wine, and a pot of oyle, and filled a scrip with flowre, and with dry figges, and with fine bread, so shee lapped vp all these things together, and laid them upon her.

6 Thus they went forth to the gate of the city of Bethulia, and found standing there Othas: and the ancients of the citie, Chabris and Charms.

7 And when they saw her, that her face was changed, and that her garment was changed, they marvelled greatly at her wonderfull beautie, and said unto her,

8 The God, the God of our fathers giue thee fauour, and accomplish thine enterprises to the glory of the children of Israel, and to the reedification of Jerusalem. Then they worshipped God.

9 And she said unto them, Command the gates of the cite to be opened unto me, that I may goe forth to accomplish the things which you haue spoken to mee. So they commanded the young men to open vnto her, as she had spoken.

10 And when they had done so, Judeth went out, shee and her maide with her, and the men of the citie looked after her, vntill shee was gone downe the mountaine, and till she had passed the valley, and could see her no more.

11 Then they went straighte forth in the valley, and the first watch of the Assyrians met her.

12 And tooke her, and asked her, Of what people art thou? and whence comest thou? and whither goest thou? And shee said, I am a woman of the Hebrewes, and am fled from them: for they shall bee giuen you to bee consumed.

13 And I come before Olofernes the chiefe captaine of your army, to declare him true things, and I will shewe before him the way whereby hee shall goe and winne all the mountaines, without loosing the body or life of any of his men.

14 Now when the men heard her words, and beheld her countenance, they wondered greatly at her beauty, and said vnto her,

15 Thou hast saued thy life, in that thou hast haisted to come down to the presence of our lord, now therefore come to his tent, and some of vs shall conduct thee vntill they haue deliuered thee into his hands.

16 And when thou standest before him, bee not afraid in thine heart, but shew vnto him according as thou hast to say, and hee will entreat thee well.

17 Then they chose out of them an hundred men, and prepared a charer for her and her mayd, and brought her to the tent of Olofernes.

18 Then there was a running to and fro throughout the camp: for her coming was banded among the tents: and they came & stood round about her: for she stood without the tent of Olofernes, vntill they had declared vnto him concerning her.

19 And they marvelled at her beaultie, and wondered at the children of Israel, because of her and every one said vnto his neighbour, Who would despise this people, that haue among them such women? Surely it is not good that one man of them be left: for if they should remaine, they might dectruie the whole earth.

20 Then Olofernes guard went out, and all his seruants, & they brought her into the tent.

21 Now Olofernes rested vpon his bed vnder a canopie, which was women with purple and gold, and Emeraudes, and precious stones.

22 So they shewed him of her, and he came forth vnto the entry of his tent, and they carried lampes of silver before him.

23 And when Judeth was come before him and his seruants, they all marvelled at the beaultie of her countenance, and she fell downe vpon her face, and did reuerence vnto him, and his seruants tooke her vp.

CHAP. XI.

1 Olofernes comforteth Judeth, 3 and asketh the cause of her coming. 5 She deceiveth him by her fauour words.

Then said Olofernes vnto her, Woman, bee of good comfort: feare not in thine heart: for Thine hart say that would seme Nabuchodonosor the king of all the earth.

2 Now therefore if the people that dwelleth in the mountaines, had not despised mee, I would not haue lifted by my speere against them: but they haue procured these things to themselves.

3 But now tell mee wherefore thou art fled from them: and art come vnto vs: for thou art come for safegard: be of good comfort, thou shalt liue from this night, and hereafter.

4 For none shall hurt thee, but intreat thee well, as they doe the seruants of King Nabuchodonosor my lord.

5 Then Judeth sayd vnto him, Receiue the words of thy seruant, and suffer thine handmaide to speake in thy presence, and I will declare no lye to my lord this night.

6 And if thou wilt follow the words of thine handmaide, God will bring the thing perfectll to passe by thee, and my lord shall not faile of his purpose.

7 As Nabuchodonosor king of all the earth liueth, and as his power is of force, who hath sent thee to reforme all persons, not onely men shall bee made subiect to him by thee, but also the beastes of the fieldes, and the cattell, and the foules of the heauen shall liue by thy power vnder Nabuchodonosor and all his house.

8 For wee haue heard of thy wisdom and of thy prudent spirit, and it is declared through the whole earth, that thou onely art excellent in all the kingdome, and of a wonderfull knowledge, and in feates of warre maruclous.

9 Now as concerning the matter which Achior did speake in thy counsell, wee haue heard his wordes: for the men of Bethulia did take him, and he declared vnto them all that he had spoken vnto thee.

10 Therefore, O lord and gouernour, respect not his word, but let it in thine heart, for it is true: for there is no punishment against our people, neither can the sword preuaile against them, except they sinne against their God.

11 Now therefore lett my lord should be frustrated, and voyde of his purpose, and that death may fall vpon them, and that they may be taken in their sinne, whiles they prouoke their God to anger, which is so oft times as they doe that which is not beleeuimg.

12 (For because their vittalles faile, and all their warer is wasted, they haue determined to take their cattell, and haue purposed to consume all things that God had forbidden them to eate by his Lawes.)

13 Yea, they haue purposed to consume the first frutes of the wheate, and the tithes of the wine, and of the oyle which they had reserued and sanctified for the Priestes that serue in Ierusalem before the face of our God: the which things it is not lawfull for any of the people to touch with their hands.

14 Moreover, they haue sent to Ierusalem, because they also that dwell there, haue done the like, such as should bring them hence from the Senate.)

15 Now when they shall bring them word, they will doe it, and they shall be giuen thee to be be destroyed the same day.

16 Wherefore I thine handmaid, knowing all this, am fled from their presence, and God hath sent me to worke a thing with thee, whereof all the earth shall wonder, and whosoever shall heare it.

17 For thy servant feareth God, and worshipeth the God of heaven day and night, and now let mee remaine with thee, my lord, and let thy servant goe out in the night into the valley, and I will pray vnto God, that hee may reucale vnto me when they shall commit their sinnes.

18 And I will come and shewe it vnto thee: then thou shalt goe forth with all thine armie, and there shall bee none of them that shall resist thee.

19 And I will leade thee through the mids of Iudaea, vntill thou come before Jerusalem, and I will set thy throne in the middes thereof, and thou shalt drine them as sheepe that haue no shepherd, and a dogge shall not barke with his mouth against thee: for these things haue been spoken vnto mee, and declared vnto me according to my foreknowledge, and I am sent to shew thee.

20 ¶ Then her words pleased Olofernes, and all his seruants, and they maruelled at her wisdom, and said, 21 There is not such a woman in all the world, both for beauty of face, and wisdom of words.

22 Likewise Olofernes said vnto her, God hath done this, to send thee before the people, that strength might bee in our hands, and destruction vpon them that despise my lord.

23 And now thou art both beautifull in thy countenance, and wittie in thy words: surely if thou doe as thou hast spoken, thy God shall bee my God, and thou shalt dwell in the house of Nabuchodonosor, and shalt be renowned throughout the whole earth,

CHAP. XII.

1 Judeth would not pollute her selfe with the meate of the Gentiles. 5 Shee maketh her request that she might goe out by night to pray. 11 Olofernes causeth her to come to the banquet.

¶ Then hee commanded to bring her in where his treasures were layd, and bade that they should prepare for her of his owne meates, and that she should drinke of his owne wine.

2 But Judeth sayd, *I may not eate of them, lest there should bee an offence, but I can suffice my selfe with the things that I haue brought.

3 Then Olofernes said vnto her, If the things that thou hast, should faile, how should we giue thee the like? for there is none with vs of thy nation.

4 Then sayd Judeth vnto him, As thy soule liueth, my lord, thine handmaid shall not spend those things that I haue, before the Lord worke by mine hand the things that he hath decreed.

5 Then the seruants of Olofernes brought her into the tent, and she slepe vntill midnight, and arose at the morning watch.

6 And sent to Olofernes, saying, Let my lord command that thy handmaid may goe forth vnto prayer.

7 Then Olofernes commanded his guard that they should not stay her: thus shee abode in the campe three dayes, and went out in the night vnto the valley of Bethulia, and washed her selfe in a fountaine, euen in the water by the campe.

8 And when she came out, shee prayed vnto the Lord God of Israel, that hee would direct her way to the exaltation of the children of her people.

9 So she returned, and remained pure in the tent, vntill she ate her meate at euening.

10 ¶ And in the fourth day Olofernes made a feast to his owne seruants onely, and called none of them to the banquet, that had the affairs in hand.

11 Then said he to Bagoas the eunuch who had charge ouer all that he had, Goe and perswade this Hebrew woman which is with thee, that shee come vnto vs, and eate and drinke with vs.

12 For it were a shame for vs, if we should let such a woman alone, and not talke with her, and if we doe not allure her, she will mocke vs.

13 Then went Bagoas from the presence of Olofernes, and came to her, and sayd, Let not this faire maide make difficultie to goe in to my lord, and to bee honoured in his presence, and to drinke wine with vs ioyfully, and to bee increased as one of the daughters of the children of Assur, which remaine in the house of Nabuchodonosor.

14 Then said Judeth vnto him, Who am I now, that I should gaine say my lord? Surely whatsoever pleaseth him, I will doe speedily, and it shall be my ioy vnto the day of my death.

15 So she arose and trimmed her with garments, and with all the ornaments of women, and her maide went, and spread forth her skinnies on the ground ouer against Olofernes, which shee had receiued of Bagoas for her dayly use, that she might sit and eate vpon them.

16 Now when Judeth came and sate downe, Olofernes heart was rauished with her, and his spirit was mooued, and hee desired greatly her company: for he had waited for the time to deceiue her from the day that hee had scene her.

17 Then said Olofernes vnto her, Drinke now and be merry with vs.

18 So Judeth said, I drinke now, my lord, because my state is exalted this day more then euer it was since I was borne.

19 Then she tooke and ate, and drank before him the things that her maide had prepared.

20 And Olofernes reioyced because of her, and drank much more wine then hee had drunken at any time in one day since he was borne.

CHAP. XIII.

4 Judeth prayeth for strength. 8 Shee smiteth off Olofernes necke. 10 Shee returneth to Bethulia and reuoyceth her people.

¶ Now when the euening was come, his seruants made haste to depart, and Bagoas shut his tent without, and dismissed those that were present, from the presence of his lord, and they went to their beds: for they were all weary because the feast had been long.

2 And Judeth was left alone in the tent, and Olofernes was stretched along upon his bed: for he was filled with wine.

3 Now Judeth had commaunded her maide to stand without her chamber, and to waite for her coming forth as she did dayly: for she said, she would goe forth to her prayers, and shee spake to Bagoas according to the same purpose.

4 So all went forth in her presence, and none was left in the chamber neither little nor great: then Judeth standing by his bed, said in her heart, O Lord God of all power, behold at this present the workes of mine hands for the exaltation of Ierusalem.

5 For now is the time to helpe thine inheritance, and to execute mine enterprises, to the destruction of the enemies which are risen against vs.

6 Then she came to the post of the bed, which was at Olofernes head, and tooke downe his fauchin from thence,

7 And approached to the bed, and tooke hold of the haire of his head, and sayd, Strengthen me, O Lord God of Israel, this day.

8 And shee smote twice vpon his necke with all her might, and she tooke away his head from him,

9 And rolled his body downe from the bed, and pulled downe the canopie from the pillars, and anon after she went forth, and gaue Olofernes head to her maide,

10 And shee put it in her scrip of meate: so they twaine went together according to their custome vnto prayer, and preassing through the tents, went about by that valley, and went vnto the mountaine of Bethulia, and came to the gates thereof.

11 Then said Judeth afar off to the watchmen at the gates, Open now the gate: God, euen our God is with vs, to shew his power yet in Ierusalem, and his force against his enemies, as he hath euen done this day.

12 Now when the men of her citie heard her voyce, they made haste to goe downe to the gate of their citie, and they called the Elders of the citie.

13 And they ran all together both small and great: for it was above their expectation, that she should come. So they opened the gate and receiued her, and made a fire for a light, and stood round about them twaine.

14 Then shee said to them with a loud voyce, Praise God, praise God: for hee hath not taken away his mercie from the house of Israel, but hath destroyed our enemies by mine hands this night.

15 So shee tooke the head out of the scrip, and shewed it, and sayd vnto them, Beholde the head of Olofernes, the chiefe captaine of the armie of Assur, and behold the canopie, wherein he did lie in his drunkenesse, and the Lord hath smitten him by the hand of a woman.

16 As the Lord liueth, who hath kept me in my way that I went, my countenance hath deceiued him to his destruction, and hee hath not committed sinne with me by any pollution or villenie.

17 Then all the people were wonderfully astonished, and bowed themselves, and worshipped

God, and sayd with one accord, Blessed be thou, O our God, which hast this day brought to nought the enemies of thy people.

18 Then said Ozias vnto her, O daughter, blessed art thou of the most high God about all the women of the earth, and blessed be the Lord God which hath created the heauens and the earth, which hath directed thee to the cutting off of the head of the chiefe of our enemies.

19 Surely this thine hope shall neuer depart out of the hearts of men: for they shall remember the power of God for euer:

20 And God turne these things to thee for a perpetuall praye, and visite thee with good things, because thou hast not spared thy life, because of the affliction of our nation, but thou hast holpen our ruine, walking a straight way before our God. And all the people sayd, So bee it, so be it.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Judeth causeth to hang up the head of Olofernes.
2 Achior sayneth himselfe to the people of God. 3 The Israelites got out against the Assyrians.

Then said Judeth vnto them, Heare me also my brethren, and take this head, and hang it vpon the highest place of your walles. 2.Mac.15.35

2 And so soone as the morning shall appeare, and the Sunne shall come forth vpon the earth, take you euery one his weapons, and goe forth euery valliant man out of the citie, and let you a Captaine ouer them, as though you would goe downe into the field, toward the watch of the Assyrians, but goe not downe.

3 Then they shall take their armour, and shall goe into their campe, and raise by the captaines of the armie of Assur, and they shall run to the tent of Olofernes, but shall not find him: then feare shall fall vpon them, and they shall flee before your face.

4 So you and all that inhabite the coasts of Israel shall pursue them, and ouerthrow them as they goe.

5 But before you doe these things, call mee Achior the Ammonite that he may see, and know him that despised the house of Israel, and that sent him to vs as to death.

6 Then they called Achior out of the house of Ozias, and when he was come, and sawe the head of Olofernes in a certaine mans hand in the assembly of the people, hee fell downe on his face, and his spirit failed.

7 But when they had taken him vp, hee fell at Judeths feete, and reuerenced her, and said, Blessed art thou in all the Tabernacle of Iuda, and in all nations, which hearing thy name, shall be astonished.

8 Now therefore tell mee all the things, that thou hast done in these dayes. Then Judeth declared vnto him in the midst of the people, all that she had done from the day that shee went forth, vntil that houre that she spake vnto them.

9 And when shee had left off speaking, the people reioyced with a great voyce, and made a noise of gladnesse through their citie.

10 And Achior seeing all things that God had done for Israel, beleueed in God vnfeignedly, nedly, and circumcised the foreskin of his flesh, and was toynd vnto the house of Israel vnto this day.

11 Alsoone as the moyn tag arole, they hanged the head of Olofernes out at the wall, and euery man tooke his weapons, and they went forth by bands vnto the straits of mountaine.

12 But when the Assyrians saw them, they sent to their captaynes, which went to the gouernours and chiefe captaynes, and to all their rulers.

13 So they came to Olofernes tent, and said to him that had the charge of all his things, Taken our lord: for the slaues haue beene bold to come downe against vs to battell, that they may be destroyed for euer.

14 Then went in Bagoas, and knocked at the doore of the tent: for he thought that he had slept with Iudeth.

15 But because none answered, hee opened it, and went into the chamber, and found him cast vpon the floore, and his head was taken from him.

16 Therefore he cried with a loud voice, with weeping and mourning, and a mighty cry, and rent his garments.

17 After, hee went into the tent of Iudeth, where shee vied to remaine, and found her not: then he leaped out to the people and cried, 18 These slaues haue committed wickednes: one woman of the Hebrews hath brought shame vpon the house of king Nabuchodonosor: for behold, Olofernes lieth vpon the ground without an head.

19 When the captaynes of the Assyrians arised heard these words, they rent their coats, and their heart was wonderfully troubled: and there was a cry and a very great noise throughout the campe.

CHAP. XV.

1 The Assyrians are afraid and flee. 3 The Israelites pursue them. 8 Ioachim the high Priest cometh to Bethulia to see Iudeth and to praise God for her.

AND when they that were in the tents, heard they were astonished at the thing that was done.

2 And feare and trembling fell vpon them, so that there was no man that durst abide in the sight of his neighbour: but altogether amazed, they fled by euery way of the plaine and of the mountaines.

3 They also that had camped in the mountaines round about Bethulia, were put to flight, then the children of Israel, euery one that was a warrior among them, rushed out vpon them.

4 Then sent Dias to Bethonathem, and to Behat, and Chobat, and Chola, and to all the coasts of Israel, such as should declare vnto them the things that were done, & that all should rush forth vpon their enemies to destroy them.

5 Now when the children of Israel heard it, they all fell vpon them together vnto Choba: likewise also they that came from Ierusalem, and from all the mountaines: for men had told them what things were done in the camp of their enemies, and they that were in Galaad, and in Galilee, chased them with a great slaughter, vntill they came to Damascus, & to the coasts thereof.

6 And the residue that dwelt at Bethulia, fell vpon the campe of Assur, and spoiled them, and were greatly enriched.

7 And the children of Israel that returned from the slaughter had the rest: and the villages and the cities that were in the mountaines and in the plaine, had a great bootie, for the abundance was very great.

8 Then Ioachim the high Priest, and the ancients of the children of Israel that dwelt in Ierusalem, came to confirme the benefits that God had shewed to Israel, and to see Iudeth, and to salute her.

9 And when they came vnto her, they blessed her with one accord, & said vnto her, Thou art the exaltation of Ierusalem: thou art the great glory of Israel: thou art the great reioycing of our nation.

10 Thou hast done all these things by thine hand: thou hast done much good to Israel, and God is pleased therewith: blessed be thou of the Almighty Lord for euermore: and all the people said, So be it.

11 And the people spoiled the campe the space of thirty dayes, and they gaue vnto Iudeth Olofernes tent, and all his siluer and beds, and basins, and all his stuffe, and shee tooke it, and layd it on her mules, and made ready her charrets and layd them thereon.

12 Then all the women of Israel came together to see her, and blessed her, and made a dance among them for her, and shee tooke branches in her hand, and gaue also to the women that were with her.

13 They also crowned her with olives, & her that was with her, and shee went before the people in the dance, leading all the women: and all the men of Israel followed in their armour with crownes, and with songs in their mouthes.

CHAP. XVI.

Iudeth prayeth God with a song. 19 She offereth to the Lord Olofernes stuffe. 23 Her continencie, life and death. 25 All Israel lamenteth her.

Then Iudeth began this confession in all Israel, and all the people sang this song with a loude voyce.

2 And Iudeth sayd, Begin vnto my God with taboures: sing to my Lord with cymbals: rime vnto him a Psalm: exalt his prayse, and call vpon his name.

3 For God breaketh the battels, and pitched his campe in the midst of his people, and deliuered me out of the hand of the persecuters.

4 Assur came from the mountaines footth of the North: hee came with thousands in his armie, * whose multitude hath shut vp the riuers, and their horsemen haue covered the valleys.

5 Hee sayd that hee would burne by my borders, and kill my yong men with the sword, and dash the sucking children against the ground, and make mine infants as a praye, and my virgins a spoyle.

6 But the Almighty Lord hath brought them to nought by the hand of a woman.

7 For the mightie did not fall by the yong men, neither did the sonnes of Eitan smite him, nor the high Gyants invade him, but Iudeth Judeth the daughter of Merari did discomfite him by the beaurtie of her countenance.

8 For she put off the garment of her widowhood, for the exaltation of those that were oppressed in Israel, and annointed her face with ointment, and bound up her haire in a coife, and tooke a linnen garment to deceiue him.

9 Her slippers rauished his eyes: her beauty tooke his mind prisoner, and the fauchin passed thorow his necke.

10 The Persians were astonished at her boldnesse, and the Medes were troubled with her hardnesse.

11 But mine afflicted reioyced, and my feeble ones shouted: then they feared, they lifted up their voyce, and turned backe.

12 The children of maids pierced them, and wounded them as they fled away like children: they perished by the battell of the Lord.

13 I will sing vnto the Lord a song of praise, O Lord, thou art great and glorious, maruelous and inuincible in power.

14 Let all thy creatures serue thee: *for thou hast spoken, and they were made: thou hast sent thy spirit, and hee made them vp, and there is none that can resist thy voyce.

15 For the mountaines leape vp from their foundations with the waters, the rocks melt at thy presence like waxe: yet thou art mercifull to them that feare thee.

16 For all sacrifice is too little for a sweet savour, and all the fat is too little for thy burnt offering: but he that feareth the Lord, is great at all times.

17 Woe to the nations that rise vp against my kinned: the Lord Almighty will take vengeance of them in the day of iudgement, in sending fire and moynes vpon their flesh, and they shall seele them and weepe for euer.

18 After, when they went vnto Ierusalem, they worshipped the Lord, and alsoone as the people were purified, they offered their burnt offerings, and their free offrings, and their gifts.

19 Judeth also offered all the stuffe of Mofernes, which the people had giuen her, and gaue the canopy which shee had taken off his bed, for an oblation to the Lord.

20 So the people reioyced in Ierusalem by the Sanctuary for the space of thre monethes, and Judeth remained with them.

21 After this time every one returned to his own inheritance, and Judeth went to Bethulia, and remained in her owne possession, and was for her time honourable in all the countrey.

22 And many desired her, but none had her company all the dayes of her life, after that Manasses her husband was dead, and was gathered to his people.

23 But shee increased more and more in honour, and wared olde in her husbands house, being an hundred and fure yeere old, and made her maide free: so she died in Bethulia, and they buried her in the graue of her husband Manasses.

24 And the house of Israel lamented her seven dayes, and before she died, shee did distribute her goods to all them that were neere of kinned to Manasses her husband, and to them that were the neere of her kinned.

25 And there was none that made the children of Israel any more afraid in the dayes of Judeth, nor a long time after her death.

Esther.

Certaine portions of the storie of Esther, which are found in some Greeke and Latine Translations:

which follow the tenth Chapter.

THEN Harbocheus said, God hath done these things.

5 For I remember a dreame, which I sawe concerning these matters, and there was nothing thereof omitted.

6 A little fountaine which became a flood, and was a light and as the Sunne, and as much water, this flood was Esther, whom the King married and made Queene.

7 And the two dragons are I and Aman.

8 And the people are they that are assembled to destroy the name of the Jewes.

9 And my people is Israel, which cryed to God, and are saued: for the Lord hath saued his people, and the Lord hath deliuered vs from all these evils, and God hath wrought signes and great wonders, which haue not becne done among the Gentiles.

10 Therefore hath he made two lots, one for the people of God, & another for all the Gentiles.

11 And these two lots came before God for all nations, at the houre and time appointed, and in the day of iudgement.

12 So God remembered his owne people, and iustified his inheritance.

13 Therefore those dayes shall be vnto them in the moneth Adar, the fourteenth and fikeenth day of the same moneth, with an assembly and joy, and with gladnesse before God, according to the generacions for euer among his people.

CHAP. XI.

IN the fourth yere of the reigne of Ptolomus I and Cleopatra Dosithens, who said he was a Priest and Leuite, and Ptolomus his sonne that brought the former letters of || Phylarai, which the sayd Lysimachus the sonne of Ptolomus, which was at Ierusalem, interpreted.

2 In the second yere of the reigne of great Artaxerxes, in the first day of the moneth Nisan, Harbocheus the sonne of Iarus, the sonne of Senel, the sonne of Cis, of the tribe of Benjamin had a dreame,

3 A Jew dwelling in the citie of Sullis, a noble man that bare office in the kings court,

4 Hee was also one of the captiuitie which Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon brought from from Jerusalem with Nebonias.

5 And this was his dreame, behold a noife of a tempest with thunders & earthquakes, and uprore in the land.

6 Beholde two great Dragons came forth ready to fight one against another.

7 Their cry was great, whereby all the heathen were ready to fight against the righteous people.

8 And the same day was full of darkenesse and obscuritie, and trouble, and anguish: yea, aduersitie, and great affliction was upon the earth.

9 For then the righteous fearing the afflictions, were amazed and being ready to die, cryed vnto God.

10 And while they were crying, the little well grew into a great riuer, and flowed out with great waters.

11 The light, & the sunne rose vp, and the lowly were exalted, and deuoured the glorious.

12 Now when Haradocheus had scene this dreame, hee awoke and rose vp, and thought in his heart vntill night, what God would doe, and so he desired to know all the matter.

CHAP. XII.

At the same time dwelt Haradocheus in the Kings Court with Bagathas and Thara the Kings eunuches and keepers of the palace.

and 6. 3.*

2 But when he heard their purpose, & their imaginations, he perceived that they went about to lay their hands vpon the king Artaxerxes, and so he certified the king thereof.

3 Then caused the king to examine the two eunuches with torments, & when they had confessed it, they were put to death.

4 This the king caused to be put in the Chronicles: Haradocheus also wrote the same thing.

5 So the king commanded that Haradocheus should remaine in the Court, and for the aduertisement he gaue him a reward.

6 But Aman the sonne of Amadathus the Agagite, which was in great honour and reputation with the king, went about to hurt Haradocheus and his people, because of the two eunuches of the king that were put to death.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The copie of the letters of Artaxerxes against the Iewes. 2 The prayer of Mardochaeus.

*Ioseph Ant.
lib. 11. cap. 6.*

The copie of the letters was this. The great King Artaxerxes writeth these things to the Princes & gouernours that are vnder him from India vnto Ethiopia in an hundred and seuen and twenty prouinces.

2 When I was made lord ouer many people, and had subdued the whole earth vnto my dominion, I would not exalt my selfe by the reason of my power, but purposed with equitie alway and gentlenesse, to gouerne my subiects and wholly to set them in a peaceable life, and thereby to bring my kingdom vnto tranquillitie, that men might safely goe thorow on euery side, and to renew peate againe, which all men desire.

3 Now when I asked my counsellers how these things might be brought to passe, one that was conuersant with vs, of excellent wisdom, and constant in good will, and shewed himselfe to be of sure fidelitie, which had the second place in the kingdom, euen Aman,

4 Declared vnto vs, that in all nations there was scattered abroad a rebellious people, that had lawes contrary to all people, and haue alway despised the commandements of Kings, and so that this generall Empire, that wee haue begonne, cannot be gouerned without offence.

5 Seeing now we perceive that this people alone are altogether contrary vnto euery man, vsing strange and other manner of lawes, and hauing an euill opinion of our doings, and goe about to stablish wicked matters, that our kingdom should not come to good estate.

6 Therefore haue wee commanded that all they that are appointed in writing vnto you by Aman (which is ordeined ouer the affaires, and is as our second father) shall all with their wiues and children be destroyed and rooted out with the sword of their enemies without all mercy, and that none bee spared the fourteenth day of the twelfth moneth Adar of this yeere,

7 That they which of old, and now also haue euer bene rebellious, may in one day with violence be thrust downe into the hell, to the intent that after this time our affaires may be without troubles and well gouerned in all points.

8 Then Haradocheus thought vpon all the workes of the Lord, and made his prayer vnto him, 9 Saying, O Lord, Lord, the king Almighty (for all things are in thy power) and if thou hast appointed to saue Israel, there is no man that can withstand thee.

10 For thou hast made heauen and earth, and all the wondrous things vnder the heauen.

11 Thou art Lord of all things, and there is no man that can resist thee, which art the Lord.

12 Thou knowest all things, and thou knowest, Lord, that it was neither of malice, nor presumption, nor for any desire of glory, that I did this, and not bowe downe to proud Aman.

13 For I would haue bene content with good will for the saluation of Israel, to haue kissed the sole of his feet.

14 But I did it, because I would not preferre the honour of a man aboue the glory of God, and would not worship any but onely thee, my Lord, and this haue I not done of pride.

15 And therefore, O Lord God and king, haue mercy vpon thy people: for they imagine howe they may bring vs to nought, yea, they would destroy the inhabitanes, that hath bene thine from the beginning.

16 Despise not the portion which thou hast deliuered out of Egypt for thine owne selfe.

17 Heare my prayer, and bee mercifull vnto thy portion: turne our sorrowe into ioy, that wee may liue, O Lord, and praise thy Name: But not the mouthes of them that praise thee.

18 All Israel in like manner cryed most earnestly vnto the Lord, because that death was before their eyes.

CHAP. XIII.

The prayer of Esther for the deliverance of her, and her people.

When Esther also being in danger of death, resorted unto the Lord,

2 And layd away her glorious apparell, and put on the garments of sighing, and mourning. In the stead of precious oymment, she scattered ashes and dung upon her head: and she humbled her body greatly with fasting, and all the places of her body filled she with the haire that shee plucked off.

3 And she prayed unto the Lord God of Israel, saying, O my Lord, thou only art our King: helpe me desolate woman, which haue no helper but thee.

4 For my danger is at hand.

5 From my youth vp I haue heard in the kinred of my father, that thou, O Lord, tookest Israel from among all people, and our fathers from their predecessors for a perpetuall inheritance, and thou hast performed that which thou diddest promise them.

6 Now Lord, wee haue sinned befoze thee: therefore hast thou giuen vs into the hands of our enemies, 7 Because wee worshipped their gods: O Lord, thou art righteous.

8 Neuerthelesse, it satisfieth them not, that we are in bitter captiuitie: but they haue stricken hands with their dooles,

9 That they wil abolish the thing that thou with thy mouth hast ordeined, and destroy thine inheritance, to shut by the mouth of them that praise thee, and to quench the glory of thy Temple, and of thine Altar,

10 And to open the mouthes of the heathen, that they may praise the power of the dooles, and to magnifie a fleshly king for euer.

11 O Lord, giue not thy scepter vnto them that bee nothing, lest they laugh vs to scorne in our miserie: but turne their deuil upon themselves, and make him an example, that hath begun the same against vs.

12 Thinke vpon vs, O Lord, and shewe thy selfe vnto vs in the time of our distresse, and strengthen me, O King of gods, and Lord of all power.

13 Giue me an eloquent speech in my mouth befoze the Lyon: turne his heart to hate our enemy, to destroy him, and all such as consent vnto him.

14 But deliuer vs with thine hand, and helpe me that am solitary, which haue no defence but ouly thee.

15 Thou knowest all things, O Lord: thou knowest that I hate the glory of the vnrighteous, and that I abhorre the bed of the vncircumcised, and of all the heathen.

16 Thou knowest my necessitie: for I hate this token of my preeminence, which I beare vpon mine head, what time as I must shew my selfe, & that I abhorre it as a menstruous cloth, and that I weare it not when I am alone by my selfe,

17 And that I thine handmaid haue not eaten at Amans table, and that I haue had no pleasure in the Kings feast, nor drunke the wine of the drinke offerings,

18 And that I thine handmaid haue no joy since the day that I was brought hither vntill this day, but further, O Lord God of Abraham. 19 O thou mightie God aboue all, heare the voyce of them that haue none other hope, and deliuer vs out of the hand of the wicked, and deliuer me out of my feare.

CHAP. XV.

1 Mardocheus moueth Esther to goe into the King and make intercession for her people, 9 And shee performeth his request.

Mardocheus also badeth Esther to goe in vnto the king, and pray for her people, and for her country.

2 Remember, saith he, the dayes of thy low estate, how thou wast nourished vnder mine hand: for Aman which is next vnto the King, hath giuen sentence of death against vs.

3 Call thou therefore vpon the Lord, & speake for vs vnto the King, and deliuer vs from death.

4 And vpon the third day when shee had ended her prayer, she layd away the mourning garments, and put on her glorious apparell,

5 And decked her selfe goodly, after that she had called vpon God, which is the beholder and Saviour of all things, and tooke two handmaids with her.

6 Vpon the one shee leane her selfe, as one that was tender.

7 And the other followed her, and bare the traine of her vesture.

8 The shine of her beauty made her face rose coloured: and her face was cheerefull & amiable, but her heart was sorrowfull for great feare.

9 Then shee went in thorow all the doores, and stood befoze the King, and the King late vpon his royal throne, & was clothed in his goodly aray, all glittering with gold & precious stones, and he was very terrible.

10 Then hee lift vp his face that shone with maiestic, and looked fiercely vpon her: therefore the Queene fell downe, and was pale and faint, and leane her selfe vpon the head of the mayde, that went with her.

11 Neuerthelesse, God turned the kings mind that hee was gentle, who being carefull, leaped out of his throne, and tooke her in his armes, till she came to her selfe againe: and comforted her with louing words, and said,

12 Esther, what is the matter? I am thy brother, be of good cheere, 13 Thou shalt not die: for our commaundement toucheth the commons, & not thee. Come neere:

14 And so he held vp his golden scepter, and layd it vpon her necke, 15 And kissed her, and said, Talke with me.

16 Then said shee, I saw thee, O lord, as an Angel of God, and mine heart was troubled for feare of thy maiestic.

17 For wonderfull art thou, O lord, and thy face is full of grace.

18 And as she was thus speaking vnto him, she fell downe againe for faintnesse.

19 Then the King was troubled, and all his seruants comforted her.

CHAP. XVI.

The copie of the letters of Artaxerxes, whereby he reuoketh those which he first sent forth.

The

Joseph. Ant.
11. 4. 6.

The great King Artaxerxes, which reigned from India unto Ethiopia, over an hundred and seven and twenty Provinces, sendeth unto the Princes and rulers that haue the charge of our affaires, Salutation.

2 There be many that through the goodnes of Princes, and honour giuen vnto them, become very proud,

3 And endeavour not onely to hurt our Subjects, but not content to liue in wealth, doe also imagine destruction against those that doe them good,

4 And take not only all thankfulness away from men, but in pride and presumption, as they that be vnmindfull of benefits, they thinke to escape the vengeance of God, that seeth all things, and is contrary to cull.

5 And often times many which bee set in office, and vnto whom their friends causes are committed, by vaine iudgements doe wrappe them in calamities, that cannot bee remedied: for they make them partakers of innocent blood,

6 And deceitfully abuse the simplicitie and gentleness of Princes with lying tales.

7 This may bee prooued not onely by olde histories, but also by those things that are before our eyes, and are wickedly committed of such perversities as are not worthy to beare rule.

8 Therefore wee must take heede hereafter that we may make the kingdom peaceable for all men, what change sooner shall come.

9 And discern the things that are before our eyes, to withstand them with gentleness.

10 For Aman a Macedonian, the sonne of Amadathus, being indeed a stranger from the Persians blood, and farre from our goodnesse, was receiued of vs, 11 And hath promised the friendship that wee beare toward all nations, so that he was called our father, and was honoured of euery man, as the next person vnto the king.

12 But hee could not vse himselfe soberly in this great dignitie, but went about to deppring vs of the kingdom, and our life.

13 With manifold deceit also hath he desired to destroy Harbochus our preseruer, which hath done vs good in all things, and innocent either the partaker of our kingdom, with all her nation.

14 For his minde was (when hee had taken them out of the way) to lay wait for vs, and by this meanes to translate the kingdom of the Persians vnto them of Macedonia.

15 But wee finde that the Jewes (which were accused of this most wicked man that they might bee destroyed) are no guill doers, but vse most iust lawes.

16 And that they be the children of the most High and Almighty and euersluing God, by whom the kingdom hath bene preferred vnto vs, and our progenitors, in very good order.

17 Therefore ye shall do well, if ye do not put in execution those letters that Aman the son of Amadathus did write vnto you.

18 For hee that inuented them, hangereth at Susis before the gates withall his familie, and God (which hath all things in his power) hath speedily rewarded him after his deserving.

19 Therefore ye shall publish the copy of this letter in all places, that the Jewes may freely liue after their owne lawes.

20 And ye shall ayde them, that vpon the thirteenth day of the twelfth moneth Adar, they may bee auenged of them, which in the time of their trouble would haue oppressed them.

21 For Almighty God hath turned to top the day, wherein the chosen people should haue perished.

22 Moreover, among other solemn dayes, ye shall keepe this day with all gladnesse.

23 That both now and in time to come, this day may bee a remembrance of deliuerance for vs: all such as loue the prosperitie of the Persians, but a remembrance of destruction to those that be seditious vnto vs.

24 Therefore all cities and countreyes that doe not this, shall horribly bee destroyed with sword and fire, and shall not onely no thee inhabited of men, but bee abhorred also of the wilde beasts and foules for euer.

Due* righteousness, yee that bee Judges of the earth: thinke recurrently of the Lord, and seeke him in simplicitie of heart.

2* For he will be found of them that tempe him not, and appeareth vnto such as be not vnfaithfull vnto him.

3 For wicked thoughts separate from God: and his power when it is tried, reprooueth the vnwise.

4 Because wisdom cannot enter into a wicked heart, nor dwell in the body that is subject vnto sinne.

5 For the holy* Spirit of discipline fleeth from deceit, and withdrateth himselfe from the thoughts that are without vnderstanding, and is rebuked when wickednesse commeth.

6 For the spirit of wisdom* is louing, and will not absolue him, that blasphemeth with his lips: for God is a witnesse of his reimes, and a true beholder of his heart, and a hearer of the tongue.

7 For the spirit of the Lord filleth all the world: & the same that maintaineth all things hath knowledge of the voyce.

8 Therefore he that speaketh vnrightheous things, cannot bee hid: neither shall the iudgement of reproch let him escape.

9 For inquisition shall bee made for the thoughts of the vngodly, and the sound of his words shall come vnto God for the correction of his iniquities.

10 For the care of Ielouſie heareth all things, and the noife of the grudgingſhall not be hid.

11 Therefore beware of murmuring, which proſpereth nothing, and reſtaine your tongue from flander: for there is no word ſo ſecret, that ſhall not be ſpoken, and the mouth that ſpeaketh lies, flayeth the ſoule.

12 Seeke not death in the error of your life, * deſtroy not your ſelues through the workes of your owne hands.

13 * For God hath not made death, neither hath he pleaſure in the deſtruction of the liuing.

14 For he created all things, that they might haue their being: & the generations of the world are preſerued, and there is no poſſon of deſtruction in them, and the Kingdome of hell is not vpon earth.

15 For righteouſneſſe is immortall, but vnrightouteſneſſe bringeth death.

16 And the vngodly call * it vnto them both with hands and wordes: and while they thinke to haue a friend of it, they come to nought: for they are confederate with it: therfore are they worſhy to be partakers thereof.

2 For wee are borne at all aduenture, and wee ſhall bee hereafter, as though wee had neuer beene: for the breath is a ſmoke in our noſtrils, and the wordes as a ſparke raiſed out of our heart,

3 Which being extinguiſhed, the body is turned into aſhes, and the ſpirit vaniſheth as the ſoft ayre.

4 Our life ſhall paſſe away as the trace of a cloud, and come to nought as the miſt that is drinen away with the beames of the Sunne, and caſt downe with the heat thereof. Our name alſo ſhall be forgotten in time: and no man ſhall haue our workes in remembrance.

5 * For our time is as a ſhadow that paſſeth away, and after our end there is no returning: for it is ſalt ſealed, ſo that no man cometh againe.

6 * Come therefore, and let vs enioy the pleaſures that are preſent, and let vs cheriſhfully uſe the creatures as in youth.

7 Let vs fill our ſelues with coſtly wine, and oymments, and let not the floure of life paſſe by vs.

8 Let vs crowne our ſelues with roſebuds, as for they be withered.

9 Let vs all bee partakers of our wantonneſſe: let vs leaue ſome token of our pleaſure in euery place: for that is our portion, and this is our lot.

10 Let vs oppreſſe the poore that is righteous: let vs not ſpare the widow, nor euence the white haire of the aged, that haue liued many yeeres.

11 Let our ſtrength bee the law of vnrigh-touteſſe: for the thing that is feeble, is reprooued as vnpromitable.

12 Therefore let vs deſraud the righteous for he is not for our profit, and he is contrary to our doings: he checketh vs for offending againſt the Law, and blameth vs as tranſgreſſours of diſcipline.

13 Wee maketh his boſt to haue the knowledge of God: and he called himſelfe the Sonne of the Lord.

14 He is made to * reprove our thoughts.

15 It grieveeth vs alſo to looke * vpon him: for his life is not like other mens: his wayes are of another faſhion.

16 He countereth vs as baſtards, and he with-draweth himſelfe from our waies as from filthineſſe: hee commendeth greatly the latter end of the iuſt, and boaſteth that God is his Father.

17 Let vs ſee then if his wordes be true: let vs prooue what end he ſhall haue.

18 For if the righteous man be the * Sonne of God, he will helpe him, and deliuer him from the hands of his enemies.

19 Let vs * examine him with rebukes and torments, that we may know his meekeneſſe, and prooue his patience.

20 Let vs condemne him vnto a ſhamefull death: for he ſhall be preſerued as he himſelfe ſaith.

21 Such things doe they imagine, and goe aſtray, for their owne wickedneſſe hath blinded them.

22 And they doe not vnderſtand the myſteries of God, neither hope for the reward of righteouſneſſe, nor can diſcerne the honour of the ſoules that are faultleſſe.

23 For God created man without corruption and made him after the * image of his owne like-neſſe.

24 * Neuertheleſſe, through enuy of the deuill came death into the world: and they that holde of his ſide, proue it.

CHAP. III.

1 The conuerſation and aſſurance of the righteous,
2 Thereward of the faithfull. 11 Who are miſerable.

BUt the * ſoules of the righteous are in the hand of God, and no torment ſhall touch them.

2 * In the ſight of the vniuſe they appeared to die, and their end was thought grieuous.

3 And their departing from vs, deſtruction, but they are in peace.

4 And though they ſuffer paine before men, yet is * their hope full of immortalicie.

5 They are puniſhed but in few things, yet in many things ſhall they be well rewarded: * For God proueth them, and findeth them meet for himſelfe.

6 He trieth them as the gold in the ſoznace, and receiveth them as a perfect fruit offering.

7 * And in the time of their viſion they ſhall ſhine, and runne thorow as the ſparke among the ſtubble.

8 They * ſhall iudge the nations, and haue dominion ouer the people, and their Lord ſhall reigne for euer.

9 They that truſt in him ſhall vnderſtand the truth, and the falſeholl ſhall remaine with him in loue: for grace and mercy is among his Saints, and he regardeth his elect.

10 * But the vngodly ſhall bee puniſhed according to their imaginations: for they haue deſpiſed displeased the righteous; and forsaken the Lord.

11 Who so dispiseth wisdom and discipline, is miserable, and their hope is in vaine, and their labours are foolish, & their workes vnprofitable.
12 Their wines are vndecree, and their children wicked: their offering is curst.

Ma. 36.5.

13 Therefore the barren is blessed which is vngifted, and knoweth not the sinfull bed: she shall haue fruit in the visitation of the lousles.

14 And the Eunuch, which with his hands hath not wrought iniquity, nor imagined wicked things against God: for vnto him shall bee giuen the speciall gift of faith, and an acceptable portion in the Temple of the Lord.

15 For glorious is the fruit of good labours, and the root of wisdom shall neuer fade away.

16 But the children of adulterers shall not be partakers of the holy things, and the seed of the wicked bed shall be rooted out.

17 And though they liue long, yet shall they be nothing regarded: and their last age shall bee without honour.

18 If they die hastily, they haue no hope, neither comfort in the day of trial.

19 For horrible is the end of the wicked generation.

CHAP. III.

Of vertue and the commoditie thereof. 10 The death of the righteous, and the condemnation of the vnfaithfull.

Better is barrennesse with vertue: for the memorie thereof is immortall: for it is known with God and with men.

2 When it is present, men take example thereof, and if it goe away, yet they desire it: it is alway crowned and triumpheth, and winneth the battell and the vndefiled rewards.

3 But the multitude of the vngodly which abound in children is vnprofitable: and the bastard plants shall take no deepe root, nor lay any fast foundation.

Mat. 7.19.

4 For though they bud forth in the branches for a time, yet they shall bee shaken with the winde: for they stand not fast, and through the vehemencie of the wind they shall be rooted out.

5 For the vnpurified branches shall bee broken, and their fruit shall be vnprofitable and lowe to eat, and meet for nothing.

6 For all the children that are borne of the wicked bed, shall be witness of the wickednesse against their parents when they be asked.

7 But though the righteous bee persecuted with death, yet shall he be in rest.

8 For the honourable age is not that which is of long time, neither that which is measured by the number of yeeres.

9 But wisdom is the gray haire, and an vndefiled life is the old age.

Gen 5.24.
h.b. 11.5.

10 Hee pleased God, and was beloued of him, so that whereas he liued among sinners, he translated him.

11 Hee was taken away, lest wickednesse should alter his vnderstanding, or deceit beguile his mind.

12 For wickednesse by bewitching obscureth the things that are good, and the vndefilednesse of concupiscence peruerteth the simple mind.

13 Though hee was soone dead, yet fulfilled he much time.

14 For his soule pleased God: therefore hasted he to take him away from wickednesse.

15 Per the people see and vnderstand it not, and consider no such things in their hearts, how that grace and mercy is vpon his saints, and his prouidence ouer the elect.

16 Thus the righteous that is dead, condemneth the vngodly which are liuing: and the youth that is soone brought to an end, the long life of the vnrighteous.

17 For they see the end of the wife, but they vnderstand not what God hath deuised for him, and wherefore the Lord hath preferred him in safetie.

18 They see him and despise him, but the Lord will laugh them to scoorne.

19 So that they shall fall hereafter without honour, and shall haue a shame among the dead for euermore: for without any voyce shall hee burst them, and cast them down, and shake them from the foundations, so that they shall be vtterly wasted, and they shall be in sorrow, and their memorie shall perish.

20 So they being afraid, shall remember their sinnes, and their owne wickednesse shall come before them to conuince them.

CHAP. V.

1 The constantnesse of the righteous before their persecutors. 14 The hope of the vnfaithfull is vaine, 15 The blessednesse of the Saints and godly.

Then shall the righteous stand in great boldnesse before the face of such as haue tormented him, and taken away his labours.

2 When they see him, they shall be vexed with horrible feare, and shall be amazed for his wonderfull deliuerance,

3 And shall change their mindes, and sigh for griefe of minde, and say within themselves, This is he whom we sometime had in derision, and in a parable of reproch.

4 The fooles thought his life madnesse, and his end without honour. Chap. 3.2.

5 How is hee counted among the children of God, and his portion is among the Saints!

6 Therefore we haue erred from the way of truth, and the light of righteousnesse hath not shined vnto vs, and the summe of vnderstanding rose not vpon vs.

7 We haue wearied our selues in the way of wickednesse and destruction, and we haue gone through dangerous wayes: but wee haue not knowne the way of the Lord.

8 What hath pride profited vs? or what profite hath the pompe of riches brought vs?

9 All those things are passed away like a shadow, and as a smoke that passeth by: 1 Chron. 29.
15. chap. 3.5.

10 As a ship that passeth ouer the wanes of the water, which when it was gone by, the trace thereof cannot be found, neither the pache of it in the floods:

11 Or as a birde that flyeth thorow in the ayre, and no man can see any token of her passage, but onely heare the noise of her wings, beating the light winde, parting the ayre through the vehemency of her going, and flicth on, shaking her wings, whereas afterward no token of her way can be found: Prov. 30.19.

12 Or as when an arrow is shot at a marke, it parteth the ayre, which immediately cometh together againe, so that a man cannot knowe where it went thorow.

13 Euen so we, as soone as we were borne we began to draw to our end, and haue shewed no token of vertue, but are consumed in our owne wickednesse.

Iob. 8. 9. Psal.

14 For the hope of the vngodly is like the dunt that is blown away with the winde, and like a thynne foine that is scattered abroad with the storme, and as the smoke which is disperled with the winde, and as the remembrance of him passeth, that carich but for a day.

15 But the righteous shall liue for euer: their reward also is with the Lord, and the most high hath care of them.

16 Therefore shall they receiue a glorious kingdome, and a beautifull crowne of the Lords hand: for with his right hand shall hee couer them, and with his arme shall he defend them.

17 He shall take his seloulic for armour, and shall arme the creatures to be reuenged of the enemies.

18 He shall put on righteousness for a breastplate, and take true iudgement in stead of an helmer.

19 Hee will take holinesse for an inuincible shield.

20 Hee will sharpen his fierce wrath for a sword, and the world shall fight with him against the vnwile.

21 Then shall the thunder bales goe straight out of the lightnings, and shall flee to the marke as out of the bent bow of the clouds, and out of his anger shall throweth stones, that thicke haile be cast, and the water of the Sea shall be wroth against them, and the floods shall mightily ouerflow.

22 And a mighty wind shall stand by against them, and like a storme shall scatter them abroad. Thus iniquity shall bring all the earth to a wilderness, and wickednesse shall ouerthrow the thrones of the mightie.

CHAP. VI.

The calling of Kings, Princes, and Iudges, which are also exhorted to search wisdom.

Hear therefore, O ye kings, and vnderstand: learne ye that be Iudges of the ends of the earth.

2 Giue care, ye that rule the multitudes, and gloze in the multitude of people.

Rom. 13. 2.

3 For the rule is giuen you of the Lord, and power by the most high, which will try your woikes, and search out your imaginations.

4 Because that ye being officers of his kingdome, haue not iudged aright, nor kept the Law, nor walked after the will of God;

5 Horribly and suddenly will he appeare vnto you: for an hard iudgement shall they haue that beare rule.

6 For he that is most low, is worthy mercy, but the mighty shall be mightily reuenged.

7 For hee that is lord ouer all, will spare no person, neither shall hee feare any greatnesse: for hee hath made the small and great, and careth for all alike.

8 But for the mighty abideth the sore triall.

9 Vnto you therefore O tyrants, do I speake, that ye may learne wisdom, and not goe amisse.

10 For they that keepe holinesse holily, shall be holy, and they that are learned there, shall finde a defence.

11 Wherefore set your delight vpon my words, and desire them, and ye shall be instructed.

12 Wisdom shinerh and neuer faueth away, and is easily seene of them that loue her, and found of such as seeke her.

13 She preuenteth them that desire her, that he may first shew her selfe vnto them.

14 Who so awaketh vnto her betimes, shall haue no great trauaile: for hee shall find her sitting at his doores.

15 To thinke vpon her then is perfect vnderstanding: and who so watcheth for her, shall be soone without care.

16 For shee goeth about, seeking such as are meete for her, and sheweth herselfe cheerefully vnto them in the wayes, and meeteth them in euery thought.

17 For the most true desire of discipline is her beginning: and the care of discipline is loue:

18 And loue is the keeping of her lawes, and the keeping of the lawes is the assurance of immortallitie:

19 And immortallitie maketh vs neere vnto God.

20 Therefore the desire of wisdom leadeth to the kingdome.

21 If your delight be then in thrones, and scepters, O kings of the people, honour wisdom, that ye may reigne for euer.

22 Now I will tell you what wisdom is, and whence it cometh, and will not hide the mysteries from you, but will seeke her out from the beginning of her naturie, and bring the knowledge of her into light, and will not keepe backe the truth.

23 Neither will I haue to doe with consuming enuy: for such a man shall not be partaker of wisdom.

24 But the multitude of the wise is the preservation of the world, and a wise King is the stay of the people.

25 Be therefore instructed by my words, and ye shall haue profit.

CHAP. VII.

Wisdom ought to be preferred aboue all things.

I My selfe am also mortall and a man like all other, & am come of him that was first made of the earth.

2 And in my mothers wombe was I fastened to be flesh in ten moneths: I was brought together into blood of the seed of man, and by the pleasure that cometh with sleepe.

Iob. 10. 10, 11.

3 And when I was borne, I receiued the common ayre, and fell vpon the earth, which is of like nature, crying and weeping at the first as all other doe.

4 I was nourished in swadling clothes, and with cares.

5 For there is no king that had any other beginning of birth.

6 All men then haue one entrance vnto life, and a like going out.

Iob. 1. 29. 3. 19. 6. 7.

7 Wherefore I prayed, and vnderstanding was giuen mee: I called, and the spirit of wisdom came vnto me.

8 I preferred her to scepters and thrones, and counted riches nothing in comparison of her.

9 Neither did I compare precious stones vnto her: for all golde is but a little grauell in respect of her, and silver shall be counted but

Iob. 28. 15.

but clay before her.

10 I loved her above health and beauty, and purposed to take her for my light: for her light cannot be quenched.

1. Reg. 3. 13
math. 6. 33

11 All good things therefore came to me together with her, and innumerable riches thence out of her hands.

12 So I was glad in all: for wisdom was the anchor thereto, and I knew not that she was the mother of these things.

13 And I learned unstainedly, and communicated without enite, and I do not hide her riches.

14 For she is an infinite treasure unto men, which who so use, become partakers of the love of God, and are accepted for the gifts of knowledge.

15 God hath granted me to speak according to my mind, and to judge worthily of the things that are given me: for he is the leader unto wisdom, and the director of the wise.

16 For in his hands are both we and our words, and all wisdom, and the knowledge of the works.

17 For he hath given me the true knowledge of the things that are, so that I know how the world was made, and the powers of the elements.

18 The beginning, and the end, and the mids of the times: how the times alter, & the change of the seasons.

19 The course of the year, the situation of the stars.

20 The nature of living things, and the subtilties of beasts, the power of the winds, and the imaginations of men, the diversities of plants, and the virtues of roots.

21 And all things both secret and known do I know: for wisdom the worker of all things hath taught me it.

22 For in her is the spirit of understanding, which is holy, the only begotten, manifold, subtil, moveable, clear, undefiled, evident, not hurtful, loving the good, sharpe, which cannot be letted, doing good.

23 Courteous, stable, sure, without care, having all power, circumspect in all things, and passing through all intellectuall, pure, and subtil spirits.

24 For wisdom is nimbler then all nimble things: she goeth thence and attaineth to all things, because of her purenesse.

25 For she is the breath of the power of God, and a pure influence that floweth from the glory of the Almighty: therefore can no defiled thing come unto her.

Job. 1. 3.

26 For she is the brightnesse of the everlasting light, the undefiled mirrour of the Majesty of God, and the image of his goodness.

27 And being one, she can doe all things, and remaining in her selfe, reneweth all, and according to the ages she entrencheth into the holy soules, and maketh them the friends of God and Prophets.

28 For God loveth none, if he dwell not with wisdom.

29 For she is more beautiful then the Sun, and is above all the order of the stars, and the light is not to be compared unto her.

30 For night cometh upon it, but wickednesse cannot overcome wisdom.

CHAP. VIII.

The effects of Wisdom.

Shee also teacheth from one end to another mightily, and comely doeth shee order all things.

2 I have loved her, and sought her from my youth: I desired to marry her, such love had I unto her beauty.

3 In that she is conversant with God, it commendeth her nobility: yea, the Lord of all things loveth her.

4 For shee is the Schoolemistresse of the knowledge of God, and the chuler out of his works.

5 If riches bee a possession to bee desired in this life, what is richer then wisdom, that worketh all things?

6 For if prudence worketh, what is it among all things that worketh better then shee?

7 If a man love righteousness, her labours are vertuous: for shee teacheth sobernesse and prudence, righteousness and strength, which are the most profitable things that men can have in this life.

8 If a man desire great experience, shee can tell the things that are past, and discern things to come: shee knoweth the subtilties of words, and the solutions of darke sentences: shee foreseeeth the signes and wonders, or ever they come to passe, and the successe of seasons and times.

9 Therefore I purposed to take her unto my company, knowing that shee would counsell mee good things, and comfort mee in cares and griefes.

10 For her sake that I have glory among the multitude, & honour among the Elders, though I be yong.

11 I shall bee found of sharpe iudgement, so that I shall bee marvellous in the sight of great men.

12 When I hold my tongue, they shall abide my leisure: when I speake, they shall heare diligently, and if I talke much, they shall lay their hands upon their mouth.

13 Moreover, by her I shall obtaine immortalitye, and leave an everlasting memorie among them that come after me.

14 I shall governe the people, and the nations shall be subdued unto me.

15 Horrible tyrants shall be afraid when they heare mee: among the multitude I shall be counted good, and mighty in battell.

16 When I come home, I shall rest with her: for her company hath no bitterness, and her fellowship hath no tediousnesse, but mirth and joy.

17 Now when I considered these things by my selfe, and pondered them in mine heart, how that to be toynd unto wisdom is immortalitye.

18 And great pleasure is in her friendship, and that in the works of her hands are infinite riches, and that in the exercise of talking with her is prudence, and glory by communing with her, I went about, seeking how I might take her unto me.

19 For I was a wittie childe, and was of a good spirit.

20 Yea, rather being good, I came to an undefiled body.

21 As yet the lesse, when I perceived that I could

I could not enjoy her, except God gave her (and that was a point of wisdom also, to know whose gift it was) I went unto the Lord, and belonged him, and with my whole heart I said,

CHAP. IX.

A prayer of Solomon to obtaine wisdom.

O God of fathers, and Lord of mercie, which hast made all things with thy word,

Gen. 1. 1, 28.

2 And ordained man through thy wisdom, that hee should have dominion ouer the creatures which thou hast made,

3 And governe the world according to equitie and righteousnesse, and execute iudgement with an upright heart:

1. King 3. 9.

4 Give me that wisdom, which sitteth by thy throne, and put me not out from among thy children.

Psal. 116. 16

5 For I thy servant, and sonne of thine handmaide, am a feeble person, and of a short time, and yet lesse in the understanding of iudgement and the lawes.

1. Chron. 28. 5

2. Chron. 1. 9

6 And though a man be neuer so perfect among the children of men, yet if thy wisdom be not with him, he shall be nothing regarded.

7 Thou hast chosen me to be a King of thy people, and the iudge of thy sonnes and daughters.

Prov. 8. 22

Job 1. 1, 2, 3, 10.

8 Thou hast commanded me to build a Temple upon thine holy mount, and an altar in the citie wherein thou dwellest, a likeness of thine holy Tabernacle, which thou hast prepared from the beginning,

9 And thy wisdom with thee, which knoweth thy workes, which also was when thou madest the world, and which know what was acceptable in thy sight, and right in thy commandments.

10 Send her out of thine holy heavens, and send her from the throne of thy Majesty, that shee may be with mee, and labour, that I may know what is acceptable in thy sight.

11 For shee knoweth and understandeth all things, and shee shall lead mee soberly in my workes, and preserve me by her glory.

12 So shall my workes be acceptable, and then shall I governe thy people righteously, and be meete for my fathers throne.

Isa. 40. 13.

Rom. 11. 34.

1. Cor. 2. 16.

13 For what man is hee that can know the counsell of God, or who can thinke what the will of God is?

14 For the thoughts of mortall men are fearefull, and our sojournings are uncertaine,

15 Because a corruptible body is heavy unto the soule, and the earthly mansion keepeth down the mind that is full of cares:

16 And hardly can wee discern the things that are upon earth, and with great labour finde we out the things which are before vs: who can then seeke out the things that are in heaven?

17 Who can know thy counsell, except thou give him wisdom, and send thine holy Spirit from above?

18 For so the wayes of them which are upon earth are reformed, and men are taught the things that are pleasant unto thee, and are preserved through wisdom.

CHAP. X.

The deliverance of the righteous, and the destruction of the enemies commeth through wisdom.

She preserved the first father of the world, that was formed, and kept him when he was created alone, and brought him out of his offence,

2 And gave him power to rule all things.

Gen. 1. 26.

3 But the unrighteous in his wrath departed from her, and perished by killing his brother in his furie.

Gen. 4. 8.

4 For whose cause the earth was overflowed, but wisdom preserved it againe, governing the lust man by a little wood.

Gen. 7. 31.

5 Moreover, when the nations were toynd in the malicious confederacies, shee knew the righteous, and preserved him faultlesse unto God, and kept him sure, because she loved him tenderly as a sonne.

Gen. 11. 1, 31 and 12. 1.

|| Or, kept him strong in his tender love, toward his sonne.

Gen. 19. 16.

6 She preserved the righteous, when the ungodly perished, when he fled from the fire that fell downe upon the five cities.

7 Of whose wickednesse the waste land that smoketh, yet giveth testimony, and the trees that beare fruit that never commeth to ripenesse: and for a remembrance of the unfaithfull soule, there standeth a pillar of salt.

8 For all such as regarded not wisdom, had not onely this hurt, that they knewe not the things which were good, but also left behinde them unto men a memorie of their foolishnesse, so that in the things wherein they sinned, they cannot lie hid.

9 But wisdom delivered them & served her.

Gen. 28. 5.

10 When the righteous fled because of his brothers wrath, she led him the right way, shewed him the kingdome of God, gave him knowledge of holy things, made him rich in his labours, and made his paines profitable.

11 Against the covetousnes of such as defrauded him, she stood by him and made him rich.

12 She saved him from the enemies, and defended him from them that lay in way, and shee gave him the prize in a mighty battell, that hee might know that the feare of God is stronger then all things.

13 When the righteous was sold, shee forsooke him not, but delivered him from sinne: shee went downe with him into the dungeon,

Gen. 37. 28 and 39. 7. Acts 7. 10.

14 And failed him not in the bands, till shee had brought him the scepter of the Realme, and power against those that oppressed him: & them that had accused him, she declared to be liars, and gave him perpetuall glory.

15 She delivered the righteous people and faultlesse seede from the nations that oppressed them.

Exod. 1. 10. and 12. 42.

16 Shee entred into the soule of the servant of the Lord, and stood by him in wonders and signes against the terrible kings.

Exod. 3. 1.

17 She gave the Saints the reward of their labours, and led them forth a marvellous way: on the day time shee was a shadow unto them, and a light of starres in the night.

18 She brought them through the red Sea, and carried them through the great water.

Exod. 14. 21, 22. Psal. 78. 13.

19 But shee drowned their enemies, and brought them out of the bottom of the derye.

20 So the righteous took the spoiles of the ungodly, and praised thine holy Name, O Lord, and magnified thy victorious hand, with one accord.

Num. 20. 11.

S He ſpoiled their workes in the handes of thine holy Prophet.

2 * They went thorow the wilderneſſe that was not inhabited, and pitched their tents in places where there lay no way.

3 * They ſtood againſt their enemies, and were avenged of their aduerſaries.

4 * When they were thirſty, they called vpon thee, and water was giuen them out of the high rocke, and their thirſt was quenched out of the hard ſtone.

5 For by the things whereby their enemies were puniſhed, by the ſame were the Iſraelites helped in their neede.

6 For in ſtead of a fountaine of running water, the enemies were troubled at the corrupt blood, which was to rebuke the commandement of the killing of the children, but thou gaueſt vnto thine owne abundance of water vnlookeſt for,

Exod. 7. 20.

7 Declaring by the thirſt that was at that time, * how thou haſt puniſhed thine aduerſaries.

8 For when they were tried and chaſtiſed with mercie, they knew how the vngodly were iudged and puniſhed in wrath.

9 For theſe haſt thou exhorted as a father, and proued them: but thou haſt condemned the other as a righteous King, when thou diſt examine them.

10 Whether they were abſent or preſent, their puniſhment was alike: for their griefe was double with mourning, and the remembrance of things paſt.

11 For when they perceiued that through their toyments good came vnto them, they felt the Lord.

12 And ſeeing the things that came to paſſe, at the laſt they wonderd at him, whom afore they had caſt out, denied and diſdained: for they had another thirſt then the firſt.

rom. 1. 23.

13 Becauſe of the fooliſh deuices of their wickedneſſe wherewith they were deceiued, and worſhipped * ſerpents, that had not the uſe of reaſon, and vile beaſts, thou ſendeſt a multitude of vnrreaſonable beaſts vpon them for a vengeance, that they might know, that wherewith a man ſinneth, by the ſame alſo ſhall hee be puniſhed.

chap. 16. 1.

14 For vnto thine Almighty hand, that made the world of * nought, it was not vnpoſſible to ſend among them a multitude of * Beares or fierce Lions, 15 O furious beaſts newly created and knownen, which ſhould breathe out blaſtes of fire, and caſt out ſmoake as a tempeſt, or ſhoote horrible ſparkes like lightnings out of their eyes.

16 Which might not onely deſtroy them with hurting, but alſo kill them with their horrible ſight.

17 Yea, without theſe might they haue been caſt downe with one winde, being perſecuted by thy vengeance, and ſcattered abroas through the power of thy Spirit: but thou haſt ordered all things in meaſure, number, and weight.

18 For thou haſt had euer great ſtrength and might, and who can withſtand the power of thine arme?

19 For as the ſmall thing that the ballance weigheth, ſo is the world before thee, and as a drop of the morning dew that falleth downe vpon the earth.

20 But thou haſt mercie vpon all: for thou haſt power of all things, and makeſt as though thou ſaweſt not the finnes of men, becauſe they ſhould amend.

21 For thou loueſt all the things that are, and hateſt none of them whome thou haſt made: for thou wouldeſt haue created nothing that thou haſt hated.

22 And how might any thing endure, if it were not thy will? or how could any thing be preſerued, except it were called of thee?

23 But thou ſpareſt all, for they are thine, O Lord, which art the Lord of ſoules.

C H A P. XII.

2 The mercie of God toward ſinners. 14 The workes of God are vnréprouable. 19 God giueth leaſure to repent.

For thine incorruptible Spirit is in all things. 2 Therefore thou chaſtneſt them meaſurably that goe wrong, and warneſt them by putting them in remembrance of the things where in they haue offended, that leauing wickedneſſe, they may beleue in thee, O Lord.

3 * As for thoſe olde inhabitants of the holy land, thou diſt hate them.

Deut. 9. 3.

and 12. 31.

and 18. 9. 12

4 For they committed abominable workes, as ſorceries and wicked ſacrifices,

5 And ſlaying of their owne children without mercie, and eating of the bowels of mans fleſh in banquetting, where the raging pyrites ſhed abominable blood.

6 And the fathers were the chiefe murderers of the ſoules, deſtitute of all helpe, whome thou wouldeſt deſtroy by the hands of our fathers,

7 That the land which thou loueſt aboue all other, might be a meete dwelling for the children of God.

8 * Neuertheleſſe, thou ſparedſt them alſo as men, and ſendeſt the ſorcrimers of thine hoſte, euen hoznets to deſtroy them by little and little.

Exod. 33. 2.

deut. 2. 22.

9 Not that thou waſt vnable to ſubdue the vngodly vnto the righteous in battell, or with cruell beaſts, or with one rough word to deſtroy them together.

10 But in puniſhing them by little and little, thou gaueſt them ſpace to repent, knowing well that it was an vnrigheteous nation, and wicked of nature, and that their thought could neuer be altered.

11 For it was a curſed ſeede from the beginning: yet haſt thou not ſpared them when they ſinned, becauſe thou fearedſt any man.

12 For who dare ſay, * What haſt thou done? or who dare ſtand againſt thy iudgement? or who dare accuſe thee for the nations that periſh, whome thou haſt made? or who dare ſtand againſt thee to reuenge the wicked men?

Rom. 9. 20.

13 For there is none other God but thou, that careſt for all things, that thou mayeſt declare how that thy iudgement is not vnright.

1. Pet. 5. 7.

14 There

14 There dare neither king nor tyrant in thy sight, require accompts of them whom thou hast punished.

15 For so much then as thou art righteous thy selfe, thou orderest all things righteously, thinking it not agreeable to thy power to condemn him, that hath not deserved to be punished.

16 For thy power is the beginning of righteousness, and because thou art Lord of all things, it causeth thee to spare all things.

17 When men thinke thee not to be of a perfect power, thou declarest thy power, and reproovest the boldnesse of the wise.

18 But thou ruling the power, iudgeth with equitie, and governeest vs with great fauour: for thou mayest shew thy power when thou wilt.

19 By such workes now hast thou taught thy people, that a man should be trust and louing, and hast made thy children to bee of a good hope: for thou giuest repentance to sinners.

20 For if thou hast punished the enemies of thy children that had deserved death, with so great consideration, and requesting vnto them, giuing them time and place that they might change from their wickednesse.

21 With how great circumspection wilt thou punish thine owne children, vnto whole fathers thou hast swoyne and made covenants of good promises?

22 So when thou dost chasten vs, thou punishest our enemies a thousand times more, to the intent that when wee iudge, we should diligently consider thy goodnesse, and when we are iudged, we should hope for mercie.

23 Wherefore thou hast tormented the wicked that haue liued a dissolute life by their owne imaginations.

Chap. xi. 13.
Rom. i. 23.

24 For they went astray very farre in the wayes of errour, and esteemed the beasts, which their enemies despised, for gods, being abused after the manner of children, that haue none vnderstanding.

25 Therefore hast thou sent this punishment, that they should be in derision as children without reason.

26 But they that will not bee reformed by those scornfull rebukes, shall feele the worthy punishment of God.

27 For in those things when they suffered, they disdained: but in these whom they counted godly, when they saw themselves punished by them, they all acknowledged the true God, whom afore they had denied to know: therefore came extreme damnation vpon them.

CHAP. XIII.

1 All things bee vaine, except the knowledge of God.
10 Idolaters and idoles are mocked.

Rom. i. 19

1 Surely all men are vaine by nature, and are ignorant of God, and could not know him that is, by the good things that are seene, neither consider by the workes, the workman.

Dent. 4. 19
and 17. 3

2 But they thought the fire or the winde, or the swift ayre, or the course of the starres, or the raging water, or the lightes of heauen to be gods, the uicars of the world and gods.

3 Though they had such pleasure in their beautie, that they thought them gods, yet should they haue knowen how much more excellent hee is that made them: for the first author of beautie hath created these things.

4 Or if they marvelled at the power, and operation of them, yet should they haue perceived thereby, how much hee that made these things, is mightier.

5 For by the greatnesse of their beauty, and of the creatures, the Creator being compared with them, may be considered.

6 But yet the blame is lesse in these, that seeke God and would finde him, and yet peradventure doe erre.

7 For they goe about by his workes to seeke him, and are perswaded by the sight, because the things are beautifull that are seene.

8 Howbeit they are not to be excused.

9 For if they can know so much, that they can discern the world, why doe they not rather finde out the Lord thereof?

10 But miserable are they, and among the dead is their hope, that call them gods, which are the workes of mens hands, gold, and silver, and the thing that is inuented by arte, and the similitude of beasts, or any vaine stone that hath been made by the hand of antiquitie.

11 Or as when a carpenter cutteth downe a tree meete for the worke, and pareth off all the barke thereof cunningly, and by arte maketh a vessell profitable for the vse of life.

Isa. 44. 13
Jer. 10. 3

12 And the things that are cut off from his worke, he bestoweth to dresse his meate to fill himselfe,

13 And that which is left of these things, which is profitable for nothing (for it is a crooked piece of wood, and full of knobs) he carueth it diligently at his leisure, and according as hee is expert in cunning, he giueth it a proportion, and fashioneth it after the similitude of a man, 14 Or maketh it like some vile beast, and straketh it ouer with reb, and painteth it, and couereth euery spot that is in it.

15 And when hee hath made a conuenient tabernacle for it, he setteth it in a wall and maketh it fast with yron, 16 Prouiding so for it, lest it fall: for hee knoweth that it cannot helpe it selfe, because it is an image, which hath neede of helpe.

17 Then he prayeth for his goods, and for his marriage, and for children: he is not ashamed to speake vnto it that hath no life.

18 Hee calleth on him that is weake, for health: hee prayeth vnto him that is dead, for life: hee requirerh him of helpe, that hath no experience at all.

19 And for his iourney, him that is not able to goe: and for gaine, and worke, and successe of his affaires, he requirerh furtheraunt of him that hath no manner of power.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The detestation and abomination of images. 8 A curse of them, and of him that maketh them. 14 Whereof idolatry proceeded. 23 What euils come of idolatry.

A Saine, another man purposing to saile, and intending to passe thorow the raging waues, calleth vpon a stocke more rotten then the ship that carrieth him.

2 For, as for it, conuocousnesse of money hath found it out, and the craftsman made it by

[Or, the ship]

by cunning.

Exod. 14. 22. 3 But thy prouidence, O Father, gouerneth it: for thou hast made a way, euen in the Sea, and a sure path among the waues,

4 Declaring thereby that thou hast power to helpe in all things; yea, though a man went to the sea without meanes.

5 Nevertheless, thou wouldest not that the workes of thy wisdom should bee vaine, and therefore doe men commit their liues to a small peece of wood, and passe ouer the stormie sea in a ship, and are saued.

Gen. 6. 4.
and 7. 10.

6 For in the old time also when the proude giants perished, the hope of the world went into a ship which was gouerned by thine hand, and so left seed of generation vnto the world.

7 For blessed is the tree whereby righteous ness cometh.

Psal. 115. 8.
Baruch. 6. 3.

8 But that is curst that is made with hands, * both it, and hee that made it: hee, because he made it, & it being a corruptible thing, because it was called god.

Psal. 5. 5.

9 For the vngodly and his vngodlinesse are both a like hated of God: so truly thy worke and he that made it shall be punished together.

Iere. 10. 8.
Isaiah. 2. 18.

10 Therefore shall there bee a visitation for the idoles of the nations: for of the creatures of God they are become abomination, * and stumbling blockes vnto the soules of men, and a snare for the feet of the vniuers.

11 For the inuenting of idoles was the beginning of whoredome, and the finding of them is the corruption of life.

12 For they were not from the beginning, neither shall they continue for euer.

13 The vaine glory of men brought them into the world: therefore shall they come shortly to an end.

14 When a father mourned grievously for his sonne that was taken away suddenly, he made an image for him that was once dead, whom now he worshippeth as a god, and ordained to his ser-uants ceremonies and sacrifices.

15 Thus by procelle of time this wicked custome preuailed, and was kept as a law, and idoles were worshipped by the commandement of tyrants.

16 As for those that were so farre off, that men might not worship them presently, they did counterfeit the visage that was farre off, and made a gorgeous image of a king, whom they would honour, that they might by all meanes flatter him that was absent, as though hee had bene present.

17 Again, the ambition of the craftisman thrust forward the ignorant to increase the superstition.

18 For hee preaduenture willing to please a noble man, laboured with all his cunning to make the image of the best fashion.

19 And so through the beautes of the worke the multitude was allured, and so took him now for a god, which a little afore was but honoured as a man.

20 And this was the deceiuing of mans life, when men, being in seruitude through calamity and tyranny, ascribed vnto stones and stockes the name, which ought not to be communicate vnto any.

21 Moreover, this was not enough for them that they erred in the knowledge of God: but whereas they liued in great wars of ignorance, those so great plagues called they peace.

22 For either they slew their owne children in sacrifice, or vled secret ceremonies, or raging dissolutenes by stranger rites,

Deut. 18. 10.
Ier. 7. 9. and
19. 4.

23 And so kept neither life nor marriage cleane: but either one slew another by treason, or else vexed him by adultery.

24 So were all mirt together, blood and slaughter, theft, and deceit, corruption, vnfair-fulnesse, tumults, perjury,

25 Disquieting of good men, vnhankfulnesse, desling of soules, changing of birth, dissoder in marriage, adultery and vncleannesse.

26 For the worshipping of idoles, that ought not to be named, is the beginning and the cause and the end of all euill.

27 For either they be mad when they be merry, or prophetic lies, or liue vngodly, or else lightly forswear themselves.

28 For inasmuch as their trust is in the idols which haue no life, though they swear falsely yet they thinke to haue no hurt.

29 Therefore for two causes shall they iustly be punished, because they haue an euill opinion of God, addicting themselves vnto idoles, and because they swear vniuilly to deceiue, and despise holinesse.

30 For it is not the power of them by whom they swear, but the vengeance of them that sinne, which punisheth alwayes the offence of the vngodly.

CHAP. XV.

The voyce of the faint full praising the mercy of God, by whose grace they serue not idoles.

Blt thou, O our God, art gracious and true, long suffering, and gouernest all things by mercy.

2 Though we sinne, yet are we thine: for we know thy power: but wee sinne not, knowing that we are counted thine.

3 For to know thee, is perfect righteousness, and to know thy power, is the root of immortalitie.

4 For neither hath the wicked inuention of men deceiued vs, nor the vnprofitable labour of the painters, nor an image ported with diuers colours,

5 Whose sight stirreth by the desire of the ignorant: so that he coueteth the forme that hath no life, of a dead image.

6 They that loue such wicked things, are worthy to haue such things to trust to, and they that make them, and they that desire them, and they that worship them.

7 The potter also tempereth soft earth, and fashioneth euery vessell with labour to our vse:
but of the same clay he maketh both the vessels that liue to cleane vles, and the contrary likewise: but whereto euery vessell serueth, the potter is the iudge.

Rom. 9. 21. 7

8 So by his wicked labour he maketh a vaine god of the same clay: euen he, which a little afore was made of earth himselfe, and within a little while after goeth thither againe whence he was taken, when he shall make account for the loan of his life.

Luke 12. 20

9 Notwithstanding he careth not for the labour:

hour hee taketh, nor that his life is short, but he strueth with the goldsmithes, and siluer-smithes, and countefeiteth the copper-smithes, and taketh it for an honour to make deceivable things.

10 His heart is ashes, and his hope is more bitter then earth, and his life is lesse worthy of honour then clay.

11 For he knoweth not his owne maker, that gaue him his soule, that had powre and breathed in him the breath of life.

12 But they count our life to be but a pastime and our conuersation as a market, where there is gaine: for they say we ought to be getting on every side, though it be by euill meanes.

13 Now hee that of earth maketh fraile vessels and images, knoweth himselfe to offend aboue all other.

14 All the enemies of thy people, that holde them in subiection, are most vnwise, and more miserable then the very fooles.

15 For they iudge all the idoles of the nations to be gods, which neither haue eye sight to see, nor noses to smell, nor eares to heare, nor fingers of hands to grope, and their feet are slow to goe.

16 For man made them, and he that hath but a borrowed spirit, fashioned them: but no man can make a god like vnto himselfe.

17 For seeing he is but mortall himselfe, it is but mortall that hee maketh with vnrightrous hands: he himselfe is better then they whom he worshippeth: for he liued, but they neuer liued.

18 Psea, they worshipped beasts also, which are their most enemies, and which are the worst if they be compared vnto others, because they haue none vnderstanding.

19 Neither haue they any beauty to bee desired in respect of other beasts, for they are destitute of Gods praise, and of his blessing.

CHAP. XVI.

The punishment of idolaters. 20 The benefits done vnto the faithfull.

Therefore by such things they are worthily punished and tormented by the multitude of beasts.

2 In stead of the which punishment thou hast benee fauourable to thy people, and to satisfie their appetite, hast prepared a meate of a strange taste, euen quailles.

3 To the intent that they that desired meate, by the things which were shewed, & sent among them, might turne away their necessary desire, and that they which had suffered penury for a space, should also feele a new taste.

4 For it was requisite that they which vsed tyranny, should fall into extreame poverty, and that to these only it should be shewed, how their enemies were tormented.

5 For when the cruell fiercenesse of the beasts came vpon them, and they were hurt with the stings of cruell serpents,

6 Thy wrath endured not perpetually, but they were troubled for a little season, that they might be reformed, hauing a signe of saluation to remember the commaundement of thy Law.

7 For he that turned toward it, was not healed by the thing that he saw, but by thee, O Saviour of all.

8 So in this thou shewedst our enemies, that it is thou, which deliuerest from all euill:

9 For the biting of grasshoppers and flies killed them, and there was no remedy found for their life: for they were worthy to bee punished by such.

10 But the teeth of the venemous dragons could not overcome thy children: for thy mercy came to helpe them, and healed them.

11 For they were pricked, because they should remember thy words, and were speedily healed, lest they should fall into so deepe forgetfulness, that they could not be called backe by thy benefit.

12 For neither herbe nor plaister healed them, but thy word, O Lord, which healeth all things.

13 For thou hast the power of life and death, and ledest downe vnto the gates of hell, and bringest vp againe.

14 A man indeed by his wickednesse may slay another: but when the spirit is gone forth, it turneth not againe, neither can hee call againe the soule that is taken away.

15 But it is not possible to escape thine hand.

16 For the vngodly that would not know thee, were punished by the strength of thine arme, with strange raine and with haile, and were pursued with tempest, that they could not auoide, and were consumed with fire.

17 For it was a wonderful thing that fire might doe more then water, which quencherh all things: but the world is the auenger of the righteous.

18 For sometime was the fire so tame, that the beasts, which were sent against the vngodly, burnt not: and that, because they should see, and know, that they were persecuted with the punishment of God.

19 And sometime burnt the fire in the midst of the water, aboue the power of fire, that it might destroy the generation of the vnjust land.

20 In the stead whereof thou hast fed thine owne people with Angels food, and sent them bread ready from heauen without their labour, which had abundance of all pleasures in it, and was meete for all tastes.

21 For thy sustenance declared thy sweetnes vnto thy children, which serued to the appetite of him that tooke it, and was meete to that that euery man would.

22 Moreover, the snow & yce abode the fire and melted not, that they might know, that the fire burning in the haile, and sparkeling in the raine, destroyed the fruit of the enemies.

23 Againe, it forgate his owne strength, that the righteous might be nourished:

24 For the creature that serueth thee which art the maker, is fierce in punishing the vnrightrous: but it is easie to doe good vnto such as put their trust in thee.

25 Therefore was it changed at the same time vnto all fashions to serue thy grace, which nourisheth all things, according to the desire of them that had neede thereof.

26 That thy children whom thou louest, O Lord, might know, that it is not the increase of fruites that feedeth men, but that it is thy word, 29 For the hope of the unthankfull shal melt as the winter yce, and flow away as unprofitable waters.

CHAP. XVII.

The iudgements of God against the wicked.

For thy iudgements are great, and cannot bee expressed: therefore men doe erre, that will not to be reformed.

2 For when the unrighteous thought to have thine holy people in subjection, they were bound with the bands of darknesse, and long night, and being shut up under the roose did lie there to escape the everlasting providence.

3 And while they thought to be hid in their darke sinnes, they were scattered abroad in the darke covering of forgetfulness, leaving horribly and troubled with visions.

4 For the denne that hid them, kept them not from feare: but the sounds that were about them troubled them and terrible visions and sorrowfull sights did appeare.

5 No power of the fire might give light, neither might the cleare flames of the starres lighten the horrible night.

6 For there appeared unto them onely a sudden fire, very dreadfull: so that being afraid of this vision, which then they could not see, they thought the things which they saw to be worse.

7 And the illusions of the Magickall artes were brought downe, and it was a most shamefull reproch for the boasting of their knowledge:

8 For they that promised to drive away feare and trouble from the sicke person, were sicke for feare, and worchy to be laughed at.

9 And though no fearefull thing did feare them, yet were they afraid at the beastes which passed by them, and at the hissing of the serpents: so that they dyed for feare, and sayd they saw not the ayre, which by no meanes can bee asayed.

10 For it is a fearefull thing when malice is condemned by her owne testimonie: and a conscience that is touched, doeth ever forecasse cruel things.

11 For feare is nothing else, but a betraying of the succours, which reason offereth.

12 And the lesse that the hope is within, the more doeth he esteeme the ignorance of the thing that tormenteth him, great.

13 But they that did endure the night, that was intolerable, and that came out of the dungeon of hell, which is insupportable, slept the same sleepe, 14 And sometimes were troubled with monstrous visions, and sometime they swooned, as though their owne soule should betray them: for a sudden feare not looked for, came upon them.

15 And thus whosoever fell downe, hee was kept, and shut in prison, but without chaines.

16 For whether hee was an husbandman, or a shepheard, or one that was set to worke alone, if hee were taken, hee must suffer this necessity, that he could not avoid:

17 For with one chain of darknesse were they all bound. Whether it were an hissing wind, or a sweete song of the birdes among the thicke branches of the trees, or the vehemencie of hottie running water, 18 Or a great noyse of the falling downe of stones, or the running of skipping beasts, that could not bee seene, or the noyse of cruell beasts, that roared, or the sound that answereth again in the hollow mountaines: these fearefull things made them to swoone.

19 For all the world shined with cleare sight, and no man was hindered in his labour.

20 Onely upon them there fell an heauy night, an image of that darknesse that was to come upon them: yea, they were unto themselves more greivous then darknesse.

CHAP. XVIII.

3 The fiery pillar that the Israelites had in Egypt, 8 The deliverance of the faithfull. 10 The Lord smote the Egyptians. 20 The sinne of the people in the wilderness. 22 Aaron stood betweene the living and the dead with his censur.

But thy saints had a very great light, whose voyce because they heard, and saw not the figure of them, they thought them blessed, because they also had not suffered the like.

3 And because they did not hurt them, which did hurt them afore, they thanked them, and asked pardon for their enmities.

3 Therefore thou gavest them a burning pillar of fire to lead them in the unknown way, and madeest the sunne that it hurted not them in their honourable iourney.

4 But they were worchy to bee deprived of the light, and to bee kept in darknesse, which had kept thy children shut up, by whom the incorrupt light of the law should be given to the world.

5 Whereas they thought to slay the babes of the Saints, by one child that was cast out, and preferred to reproove them, thou hast taken away the multitude of their children, and destroyed them altogether in the mighty water.

6 Of that night were our Fathers certified afore, that they, knowing unto what oathes they had given credite, might be of good cheere.

7 Thus thy people received the health of the righteous, but the enemies were destroyed.

8 For as thou hast punished the enemies, so hast thou glorified us whom thou hast called.

9 For the righteous children of the good men offered secretly, and made a law of righteousness by one consent, that the Saints should receive goods and euill in like manner, and that the Fathers should first sing praises.

10 But a disagreeing cry was heard of the enemies, and there was a lamentable noyse for the children that were bewailed.

11 For the master and the servant were punished with like punishment, and the common people suffered alike with the King.

12 So they altogether had innumerable that died with one kinde of death: neither were the living sufficient to bury them: for in the twinkling of an eye the noblest offspring of them was destroyed.

13 So they that could beleue nothing, because of the enchantments confessed this people to be the children of God, in the destruction of the first booke.

14 For while all things were in quiet silence, and the night was in the middes of her sweet course,

15 The Almighty word leapt down from heauen out of thy royall throne, as a fierce man of warre in the middes of the land that was destroyed, 16 And brought thine vnfaigned commandment, as a sharpe sword, and stood vp, and filled all things with death, and being come downe to the earth, it reached vnto the heauens.

17 Then the light of the fearefull dreames vexed them suddenly, and fearefulnesse came vpon them vnawares.

18 Then lay there one heere, another there halfe dead, and shewed the cause of his death.

19 For the viltions that vexed them, shewed them these things afore: so that they were not ignorant whereto they perished.

20 Now temptation of death touched the righteous also, and among the multitude in the wilderness there was a plague, but the wrath endured not long.

21 For the blamelesse man made haste, and defended them, and tooke the weapons of his ministration, euen prayer, and the reconciliation by the perfume, and let himselfe against the wrath, and so brought the miserie to an end, declaring that he was thy seruant.

22 For hee ouercame not the multitude, with bodily power, nor with force of weapons, but with the word hee subdued him that punished, alledging the othes and covenant made vnto the fathers.

23 For when the dead were fallen downe by heapes one vpon another, he stood in the middes, and cut off the wrath, and parted it from coming to the liuing.

24 * For in the long garment was all the ornament, and in the four rowes of the stones was the glory of the fathers grauen with thy maiestie in the diademe of his head.

25 Vnto these the destroyer came place, and was afraid of them, for it was sufficient, that they had called the wrath.

CHAP XIX.

1 The death of the Egyptians, and the great ioy of the Hebrewes. 11 The meate that was giuen at the desire of the people. 17 All the elements serue to the will of God.

As for the vngodly, the wrath came vpon them without mercy vnto the ende: for hee knew what should come vnto them,

2 That they (when they had consented to let them go, and had sent them out with diligence) would repent and pursue them.

3 For while yet sorrow was before them, and they lamented by the graues of the dead, they denised another foolishnesse, so that they persecuted them in their fleeing, whom they had cast out afore with prayer.

4 For the destinie, wherof they were worthy, brought them to this ende, and caused them to forget the things that had come to passe, that they might accomplish the punishment, which remained, by torments,

5 Worthy that thy people might trie a marvellous passage, & that they migyt liue a strange death.

6 For every creature in his kinde was fashioned of new, and serued in their owne offices employed them, that thy children might bee kept without hurt.

7 For the cloude overshadowed their tents, and the dry earth appeared, where afore was water: so that in the red Sea there was a way without impediment, and the great deepe became a greene field.

8 Through the which all the people went that were defended with thine hand, seeing thy wonderous maruelles.

9 For they // neyed like hoxses, and leaped like lambs, prailing thee, O Lord, which hadit delivered them.

10 For they were yet mindfull of those things which were done in the land where they dwelt, how the ground brought forth flies in stead of cattell, and how the river scrawled with the multitude of frogs in stead of fishes.

11 * But at the last they saw a new generation of birdes, when they were entised with lust, and desired delicate meates.

12 * For the quailles came forth of the sea vnto them for comfort, but punishments came vpon the // sinners not without signes that were giuen by great thundrings: for they suffered worthily according to their wickednesse, because they shewed a cruell hatred toward strangers.

13 For the one sort would not receiue them when they were present, because they knew them not: the other sort brought the strangers into bondage that had done them good.

14 Beside all these things some would not suffer, that any regard should be had of them for they handled the strangers despicefully.

15 Others that had receiued them with great banquetings, and admitted them to bee partakers of the same lawes, did afflict them with great labours.

16 Therefore they were stricken with blindness, as in old time certaine were at the doores of the * righteous, so that enery one being compassed with darknesse, sought the entrance of his doore.

17 Thus the elements agreed among themselves in this change, as when one time is changed vpon an instrument of musicke, and the melody still remaineth, which may easily be perceived by the sight of the things that are come to passe.

18 For the things of the earth were changed into things of the water and the things that did swimme, went vpon the ground.

19 The fire had power in the water contrary vnto his owne vertue, and the water forgate his owne kinde to quench.

20 Againe, the flames did not hurt the fleshy of the corruptible beastes that walked therein, neither melted they that which seemed to bee // per, and was of a nature that would melt, and yet was an immortall meate.

21 For in all things, O Lord, thou hast magnified and glorified thy people, and hast not despised to assist them in euery time and place.

The wisdom of Iesus the sonne of Sirach, called Ecclesiasticus.

¶ This Argument was found in a certaine Greeke copie,

This Iesus was the Sonne of Sirach, and Sirach father was also called Iesus, and he lived in the latter time after the people had bene led away captiue, and brought home againe, and almost after all the Prophets. Now his grandfather, as he himselfe witnesseth, was a man of great diligence, and wisdom among the Hebrewes, who did not onely gather the graue sentences of wisemen that had bene before him, but he himselfe also spake many full of great knowledge and wisdom. So this first Iesus died, and left this which he had gathered, and Sirach after ward left it to Iesus his sonne, who tooke it and put it in order in a booke, and called it Wisdom, intituling it both by his owne name, his fathers name, and his grandfathers: thinking by this title of Wisdom, to allure the Reader to read this booke with more great desire, and to consider it more diligently. Therefore this booke containeth wise sayings, and darke sentences, and similitudes, with certaine diuine histories which are notable and ancient, even of men that were approoued of God, and certaine prayers and songs of the author himselfe: moreover, what benefits the Lord had bestowed vpon his people, and what plagues he had heaped vpon their enemies. This Iesus did imitate Salomon, and was no lesse famous in wisdom and doctrine, who was therefore called a man of great knowledge, as he was indeed.

The Prologue of the wisdom of Iesus the sonne of Sirach.

Wheras many and great things haue bene giuen vs by the Law and the Prophets, and by others, that haue followed them, (for the which things Israel ought to be commended by the reason of doctrine and wisdom, whereby the readers ought not onely to become learned themselves, but also may be able by the diligent study thereof to be profitable vnto strangers both by speaking and writing) after that my grandfather Iesus had giuen himselfe to the reading of the Law and the Prophets, and other bookes of our fathers, and had gotten therein sufficient iudgement, he purposed also to write something pertaining to learning and wisdom, to the intent that they which were desirous to learne and would giue themselves to these things, might profite much more in liuing according to the Law. Wherefore, I beseech you to receiue it louingly, and to read it with diligence, and to take it in good worth, though we seeme to some in some things not able to attaine to the interpretation of such words as are heard to be expressed: for things that are spoken in the Hebrew tongue, haue another force in themselves then when they are translated into another tongue: and not only these things, but other things also, as the Law it selfe, and the Prophets, and other bookes haue no small difference when they are spoken in their owne language. Therefore in the eight and thirtieth yere, when I came into Egypt vnder king Euergetes, and continued there I found a copie full of great learning, and I thought it necessary to bestow my diligence and trauell to interpret this booke. So for a certaine time with great watching and study I gaue my selfe to the finishing of this booke, that it might be published, that they which remaine in banishment, and are desirous to learne, might apply themselves vnto good manners, and liue according to the Law.

All wisdom * commeth of the Lord, [and hath bene euer with him] and is with him for euer. 2 Who can number the land of the sea, and the drops of the raine, and the dayes of the world: [who can measure] the height of heauen, the breadth of the earth, and the depth?

3 Who can finde the wisdom [of God] which hath bene before all things?

4 Wisdom hath bene created before all things, and the vnderstanding of prudence from euermoring.

6 * Vnto whom hath the roote of wisdom bene declared? or who hath knowen her wise counsels?

9 He is the Lord that hath created her [tho- row the holy Ghost:] he hath scene her, numbered her, [and measured her.]

10 He hath powred her out vpon all his workes, and vpon all flesh, according to his gift, and giueth her abundantly vnto them that loue him.

11 The feare of the Lord is glory, and gladnesse, and reioycing, and a ioyfull crowne.

12 The feare of the Lord maketh a merrie heart, and giueth gladnesse, and ioy, & long life.

13 Who so feareth the Lord, it shall goe well with him at the last, and he shall finde fauour in the day of his death.

19 Shee hath built an everlasting foundation with men, and is given to be witty their seed.

20 To feare God is the fulnes of wisdom, and filleth men with her fruits.

21 Shee filleth their whole house with all things desirable, & the garners with the things that the bringer forth, and both twaine are gifts of God.

22 The feare of the Lord is the crowne of wisdom, and giveth peace and perfect health: he hath leene her and numbred her.

Or, wisdom.

23 She raineth downe knowledge, and understanding of wisdom, and hath brought in to honour them that professed her.

24 The feare of the Lord is the roote of wisdom, and her branches are long life.

25 In the treasures of wisdom is understanding, and holy knowledge, but wisdom is abhorred of sinners.

26 The feare of the Lord driueth out sin, and when he is present, she driueth away anger.

27 For wicked anger cannot be fulfilled: for his rashnesse in his anger shall be his destruction.

28 A patient man will suffer for a time, and then shall he haue the reward of joy.

29 Wee will hide his words for a time, and many mens lips shall speake of his wisdom.

30 In the treasures of wisdom are the secrets of knowledge, but the sinner hath rejected the worship of God.

31 If thou desire wisdom, keepe the Commandments, and the Lord shall giue her vnto thee, and will fill her treasures.

32 For the feare of the Lord is wisdom and discipline: hee hath pleasure in faith and meeknesse.

33 Be not disobedient to the feare of the Lord, and come not vnto him with a double heart.

34 Be not an hypocrite that men should speake of thee, but take heed what thou speakest.

35 Exalt not thy selfe, lest thou fall, and bring thy soule to dishonour, and so God discover thy secrets, and cast thee downe in the mids of the congregation, because thou wouldest not receive the true feare of God, and thine heart is full of deceit.

1 He exhorteth the seruants of God to righteousness, love, understanding, and patience. 21 To trust in the Lord. 23 A curse vpon them that are froward hearted and impatient.

Manne if thou wilt come into the seruice of God stand fast in righteousness and feare and I prepare thy soule to temptation.

2 Settle thine heart, and be patient: [bow down thine eare, and receiue the words of understanding, and thinke not away when thou art assailed, but wait vpon God patiently.]

3 Joyne thy selfe vnto him, and depart not away, that thou maiest be increased at thy last end.

7 See that feare the Lord, wait for his mercie: thinke not away from him that ye fall nor.

8 See that feare the Lord, beleeue him, and your reward shall not faile.

9 See that feare the Lord, trust in good things, and in the everlasting joy and mercie.

10 [Per that feare the Lord, loue him, and your hearts shall be lightened.]

11 Consider the old generations [of men, ye children,] and marke them well: was there euer any confounded that put his trust in the Lord? or who hath continued in his feare, and was forsaken? or whom did hee euer despise, that called vpon him?

18 They that feare the Lord, will prepare their hearts, and humble their soules in his sight.

19 They that feare the Lord, keepe his Commandments, and will be patient till he see them;

20 Saying, if we doe not repent, we shall fall into the hands of the Lord, & not into the hands of men.

21 Yet as his greatnesse is, so is his meeknesse.

CHAP. III.

3 To our father and mother ought wee to giue double honour. 10 Of the blessing and curse of the father and mother. 22 No man ought ouer curiously to search out the secrets of God.

The children of wisdom are the Church of the righteous, and their offspring is obedience and love.

2 Heare your fathers iudgement, O children, and doe thereafter, that ye may be safe.

3 For the Lord will haue the father honoured of the children, and hath confirmed the authority of the mother ouer the children.

4 Who so honoureth his father, his sinnes shall be forgiven him, [and he shall abstaine from them, and shall haue his daily desires.]

5 And he that honoureth his mother, is like one that gathereth treasure.

6 Who so honoureth his father, shall haue joy of his owne children, and when hee maketh his prayer, he shall be heard.

7 Hee that honoureth his father, shall haue a long long life, and hee that is obedient vnto the Lord, shall comfort his mother.

CHAP. V.

1 In riches may wee not put any confidence. 7 The vengeance of God ought to be feared, and repentance may not be deferred.

Trust not unto thy *riches, and say not, I have enough for my life: [for it shal not help in the time of vengeance and indignation.]

2 Follow not thine owne minde and thy strength to walke in the wayes of thine heart:

3 Neither say thou, [Howe have I had strength?] or who will bring mee vnder for my workes? For God the avenger will reuenge the wrong done by thee.

4 And say not, I have sinned, and what euill hath come vnto me? for the Almighty is a patient rewarder, but hee will not leaue thee unpunished.

5 Because thy sinne is forgiven, be not without feare, to heape sinne vpon sinne.

6 And say not, The mercy of God is great: hee will forgive my manifold sinnes: for mercy and wrath come from him, and his indignation cometh downe vpon sinners.

7 Make no tarrying to turne vnto the Lord, and put not off from day to day: for suddenly shall the wrath of the Lord breake forth, and in thy secret place thou shalt be destroyed, and thou shalt perish in time of vengeance.

8 Trust not in wicked riches: for they shall not helpe thee in the day of punishment [and vengeance.]

9 Be not caried about with every winde, and goe not into every way: for so doeth the sinner that hath a double tongue.

10 Stand fast in thy sure understanding [and in the way & knowledge of the Lord:] and haue but one maner of word, [and follow the word of peace and righteousness.]

11 Be humble to heare the word of God, that thou mayest understand it, and make a true answer with wisdom.

12 *Be swift to heare good things, and let thy life be pure, and give a patient answer.

13 If thou hast understanding, answer thy neighbour, if not, lay thine hand vpon thy mouth, [lest thou bee trapped in an vndiscreete word, and so be blamed.]

14 Honour and shame is in the talke, and the tongue of a man causeth him to fall.

15 Be not counted a *talebearer, and lie not in wait with thy tongue: for shame [and repentance] follow the thiefe, and an euill condemnation is ouer him that is double tongued: [but he that is a backbiter, shall be hated, enuied and confounded.]

16 Doe not rashly, neither in small things nor in great.

CHAP. VI.

1 It is the property of a sinner to be an ill tongued, 6 Of friendship. 33 Desire to be taught.

Be not of a friend [thy neighbours] *enemies: for such shall haue an euill name, shame and reproch, and he shall be in infamie as the wicked that hath a double tongue.

2 Bee not proude in the seruice of thine owne minde, lest thy soule rent thee as ^a a bull,

3 And eate vpon thy leaues, and destroy thy fruit, and so thou bee left as a dry tree [in the wilderness.]

4 For a wicked soule destroyeth him that hath it, and maketh him to bee laughed to scorn of his enemies, [and bringeth him to the portion of the vngodly.]

5 A sweet talke multiplieth the friends [and pacifieth them that be at variance,] and a sweet tongue increaseth much good talke.

6 Hold friendship with many, neuertheless, haue but one counsellor of a thousand.

7 If thou gettest a friend, proue him first, and be not halfe to credit him.

8 For some man is a friend for his owne occasion, and will not abide in the day of thy trouble.

9 And there is some friend that turneth to enmitie, and taketh part against thee, and in contention he will declare thy shame.

10 Againe, some * friend is but a companion at the table, and in the day of thine affliction hee continueth not.

11 But in thy prosperity he will be as thou thy selfe, and will be libertie ouer thy seruants.

12 If thou be brought low, he will be against thee, and will hide himselfe from thy face.

13 Depart from thine enemies, and beware of thy friends.

14 A faithfull friend is a strong defence, and he that findeth such a one, findeth a treasure.

15 A faithfull friend ought not to be changed for any thing, and the weight [of gold and silver] is not to be compared to ^{the} goodnesse [of his faith.]

Chap. 37. 5.

16 A fatchfull friend is the medicine of life [and immortallitie.] & they that feare the Lord, shall finde him.

17 Who so feareth the Lord, shall direct his friendship aright, and as his owne selfe, so shall his friend be.

18 My sonne, receiue doctrine from thy yowth vp: so shalt thou finde wisdom [which shall endure till thine old age.]

19 Go to her as one that ploweth and soweth, and wait for her good fruits: for thou shalt haue but little labour in her worke: but thou shalt eat of her fruits right soone.

20 How exceeding sharpe is shee to the vnlearned: he that is without iudgement, will not remaine with her.

21 Vnto such one she is as a fine touchstone, and he casteth her from him without delay.

22 For they haue the name of wisdom, but there be but few that haue the knowledge of her.

23 [For with them that know her, shee abideth vnto the appearing of God.]

24 Giue eare my sonne: receiue my doctrine, and refuse not my counsell, 25 And put thy feet into the linkes, and thy necke into her chaine.

26 Bow downe thy shoulder vnto her, and heare her, and be not weary of her hands.

27 Come vnto her with thy whole heart, and keepe her wayes with all thy power.

28 Seeke after her, and search her, and shee shall be shewed thee: and when thou hast gotten her, forsake her not.

29 For at the last thou shalt finde rest in her, and that shall be turned to thy ioy.

30 Then shall her fetters bee a strong defence for thee, [and a sure foundation] and her chaines a glorious raiment.

31 For there is a golden ornament in her, and her hands are the laces of purple colour.

32 Thou shalt put her on as a robe of honour, and shalt put her vpon thee as a crowne of ioy.

33 My sonne, if thou wilt, thou shalt bee taught, and if thou wilt apply thy minde, thou shalt be wittie.

34 If thou loue to heare, thou shalt receiue [doctrine,] and if thou delight in hearing, thou shalt be wite.

35 Stand with the multitude of the elders, which are wise, and tope with him that is wise.

36 Desire to heare all godly talke, and let not the graue sentences of knowledge escape thee.

37 And if thou seest a man of vnderstanding, get thee soone vnto him, and let thy foote weare the steps of his doores.

38 Let thy minde bee vpon the ordinances of the Lord, and be continually occupied in his commandments: so shall hee establish thine heart: and giue thee wisdom at thine owne desire.

CHAP. VII.

2 Wee must forsake euill, and yet not iustifie our selues.

23 The behauiour of the wife toward his wife, his friend, his children, his seruants, his father and mother.

De no euill: so shall no harme come vnto thee.

2 Depart from the thing that is wicked, and sinne shall turne away from thee.

3 My sonne, loo not vpon the furrowes of vneighbourlynesse, lest that thou reape them truen sold.

4 Aske not of the Lord preeminence, neither of the king the seat of honour.

5 Justifie not thy selfe before the Lord: [for he knoweth thine heart,] and boast not thy wisdom in the presence of the king.

6 Seeke not to be made a Iudge, least thou bee not able to take away iniquitie, and lest thou, fearing the person of the mighty, shouldest commit an offence against thine vprightnesse.

7 Offend not against the multitude of a citie, and cast not thy selfe among the people.

8 Bind not two sinnes together: for in one sinne shalt thou not be vnpunished.

9 Say not, God will looke vpon the multitude of mine oblations, and when I offer to the most high God, he will accept it.

10 Be not faint hearted, when thou makest thy prayer, neither slacke in giuing of almes.

11 Laugh no man to scoone in the heavinesse of his soule: for [God which seeth all things] is hee that can bring downe, and set by againe.

12 Solve not a lie against thy brother, neither doe the same against thy friend.

13 Use not to make any manner of lie: for the custome thereof is not good.

14 Make not many words when thou art among the elders, neither reape a thing in thy prayer.

15 Hate not laborious worke, neither the husbandry which the most high hath created.

16 Number not thy selfe in the multitude of the wicked, but remember that vengeance will not slacke.

17 Humble thy minde greatly: for the vengeance of the wicked is fire and wormes.

18 Giue not ouer thy friend for any good, nor thy true brother for the gold of Ophir.

19 Depart not from a wife and good woman, [that is fallen vnto thee for thy portion in the feare of the Lord:] for her grace is aboue gold.

20 Whereas thy seruant worketh truly, intreate him not euill, nor the hireling that bestoweth himselfe wholly for thee.

21 Let thy soule loue a good seruant, and defraude him not of libertie, [neither leaue him a poore man.]

22 If thou haue cattell, looke well to them and if they bee for thy profite, keepe them with thee.

23 If thou haue sonnes, instruct them, and hold their necke from their youth.

24 If thou haue daughters, keepe their bodie, and shew not thy face cheerefull toward them.

25 Marry thy daughter, & so shalt thou perforce a weighty matter: but giue her to a man of vnderstanding.

26 If thou haue a wife after thy minde, forsake her not, but commit not thy selfe to the hatefull.

27 Honour thy father from thy whole heart, and forget not the sorowes of thy mother.

28 Remember that thou wast borne of them, and how canst thou recompence them the things that they haue done for thee?

29 Fear the Lord with all thy soule, and honour his misisters.

30 Loue him that made thee, with all thy strength, * and forsake not his seruants.

31 Fear the Lord with all thy soule, and honour the Priests, * and giue them their portion, as it is commanded thee, the first fruites, [and purifications] and sacrifices for sinne, and the offerings of the shoulders, & the sacrifices of sanctification, and the first fruits of the holy things.

32 Stretch thine hand vnto the poore, that the blessing, [and reconciliation] may bee accomplished.

33 Liberalitie pleaseth all men liuing, and * from the dead restraine it not.

34 * Let not them that weepe, bee without [comfort:] but moune with such as moune.

35 * Bee not slowe to visite the sicke: for that shall make thee to be beloued.

36 Whatsoeuer thou takest in hand, remember the end, and thou shalt neuer doe amisse.

CHAP. VIII.

We must take heed with whom we haue to doe.

Serue not with a mightie man, lest thou fall into his hands.

2 * Make not variance with a rich man, lest hee on the other side weigh downe thy weight: * for gold [and silver] hath destroyed many, and hath subuerted the hearts of kings.

3 Serue not with a man that is full of words, and lay no stickes vpon his fire.

4 Play not with a man that is vntaught, lest thy kindred be dishonoured.

5 * Despise not a man that turneth himselfe away from sinne, nor cast him nor in the teeth withall, but remember that wee are all worthy blame.

6 * Dishonour not a man in his olde age: for they were as we which are not olde.

7 Bee not glad of the death of thine enemye, but remember that wee must die all, [and so enter into joy.]

8 * Despise not the exhortation of the Elders: that bee wise, but acquaint thy selfe with their wise sentences: for of them thou shalt learne wisdom, [and the doctrine of vnderstanding] and how to serue great men [without complaint].

9 Doe not from the doctrine of the Elders: for they haue learned it of their fathers, and of them thou shalt learne vnderstanding, and to make answer in the time of neede.

10 Kindle not the coales of sinners, [when thou rebukest them,] lest thou bee burnt in the fierie flame [of their sinnes.]

11 Rise not vp against him that doth wrong, that he say not waite as a spy for thy mouth.

12 * Lend not vnto him that is mightier then thy selfe: for if thou lendest him, count it but lost.

13 Be not surety about thy power: for if thou be surety, thinke to pay it.

14 Doe not to law with the iudge: for they will giue sentence according to his owne honour.

15 * Tranasle not by the way with him that is rash, lest he doe thee iniurie: for hee followeth his owne wilfulnesse, and so shalt thou perish through his folly.

16 * Serue not with him that is angry, and goe not with him into the wilderness: for blood is as nothing in his sight, and where there is no helpe, he will ouerthrow thee.

17 Take no counsell at a foole: for he cannot keepe a thing close.

18 Doe no secret thing before a stranger: for thou canst not tell what he goeth about.

19 Open not thine heart vnto euery man, lest hee be vnthankfull to thee, [and put thee to reprooofe.]

CHAP. IX.

Of ielousie. 12 An olde friend is to bee preferred before a new. 18 Righteous men should bee bidden to thy table.

Be not ielous ouer thy wife of thy bosom, neither teach her by thy meanes an euill lesson.

2 Giue not thy life vnto a woman, lest shee ouercome thy strength, [and so thou be confounded.]

3 Wette not an harlot, lest thou fall into her snares.

4 Use not the company of a woman that is a singer, [and a dancer, neither heare her,] lest thou be taken by her craftinesse.

5 Gaze not on a * maid, that thou fall not by that that is precious in her.

6 * Cast not thy mind vpon harlots [in any manner of thing,] lest thou destroy both thy selfe and] thine heritage.

7 Doe not about gazing in the streets of the citie, neither wander thou in the secret places thereof.

8 * Turne away thine eye from a beautifull woman, and looke not vpon others beauty: for many * haue perished by the beauty of women: for through it loue is kindled as a fire.

9 [Euery woman that is an harlot, shall be troden vnder foote as dung, of euery one that goeth by the way.]

10 Many wondering at the beantie of a strange woman, haue bin cast out: for her words burne as a fire.]

11 Sit not at all with another mans wife, [neither lie with her vpon the bed:] nor banker with her: lest thine heart incline vnto her, and so through thy desire fall into destruction.

12 * Forsake not an old friend: for the new shall not be like him: a new friend is as new wine: when it is olde, thou shalt drinke it with pleasure.

13 * Desire not the honour [and riches] of a sinner: for thou knowest not what shall bee his ende.

14 Delight not in the thing that the vngodly haue pleasure in, but remember that they shall not be found iust vnto their graue.

15 Keepe thee from the man that hath power to slay: so shalt thou not doubt the feare of death: and if thou come vnto him, make no fault, lest he take away thy life: remember that thou goest in the mids of snares, and that thou walkest vpon the towres of the citie.

16 * Cri: thy neighbor as neere as thou canst, * and aske counsell of the wise,

17 * Let thy talke be with the wife, and all thy communi-

Cite, and he that is rash in his talking, shall bee

CHAP. X.

1 Of Kings and Iudges. 7 Pride and couetousnesse are to be abhorred. 28 Labour is praised.

A Wise Judge will instruct his people with discretion: he gouernance of a prudent man is well ordered.

2 As the Judge of the people is himselfe, so are his Officers, and what manner of man the ruler of the City is, such are all they that dwell therein.

1. King. 12. 1.

3 * An vnwise king destroyeth his people:
but where they that be in authority are men of vnderstanding, there the cite prospereth.

4 The gouernement of the earth is in the hand of the Lord, [and all iniquity of the nations is to be abhorred, and when time is, he will set vp a profitable Ruler ouer it.]

Leuit. 19. 17.

5 In the hand of God is the prosperity of man, and vpon the Scribes will he lay his honor.

6 * Bee not angry for any wrong with thy neighbour, & doe nothing by iniurious practises.

7 Pride is hatefull before God and man, and by both doth one commit iniquitie.

1. Cor. 27. 6.
1. Tim. 4. 14.

8 * Because of vnrightrous dealing, and wrongs, and riches gotten by deceit, the kingdome is translated from one people to another.

9 There is nothing worse then a couetous man: [why art thou proud, O earth and ashes?
there is not a more wicked thing, then to loue money:] for such one would euery sell his soule, and for his life euery one is compelled to pull out his owne bowels.

10 [All tyranny is of small endurance, and the disease that is hard to heale, is grievous to the Physician.]

11 The Physician cutteth off the sore disease, and he that is to day a king to morrow is dead.

12 Why is earth and ashes proud, seeing that when a man dyeth, hee is the helpe of Serpents, beasts and wormes?

13 The beginning of mans pride, is to fall away from God, and to turne away his heart from his Maker.

14 For pride is the original of sin, and he that hath it, shall putre out abomination, till at last he be overthrown: therefore the Lord bringeth the perswasions [of the wicked] to dishonour, and destroyeth them in the end.

Luke 1. 52.
and 14. 11.
and 18. 14.
1. Sam. 2. 7. 8

15 The Lord hath * cast downe the thrones of the [proud] princes, and set by the meeke in their stead.

16 The Lord plucketh by the rootes of the [proud] nations, and planteth the lowly with glory among them.

17 The Lord overthroweth the lands of the heathen, and destroyeth them vnto the foundations of the earth: he causeth them to wither away, & destroyeth them, and maketh their me-moriall to craze out of the earth.

18 [God destroyeth the memoriall of the proud, and leaueth the remembrance of the humble.]

19 Pride was not created in men, neither warth in the generation of women.

20 There is a seed of man, which is an honourable seed: the honourable seed are they that feare the Lord: there is a seed of man which is without honour: the seed without honour, are they that transgresse the commandments of the Lord: it is a seed that remaineth, which feareth the Lord: and a faire plant that loue him: but they are a seed without honour, that despise the Law, and a decturable seed that breake the com-mandements.

21 He that is the chiefe among brethren, is honourable: so are they that feare the Lord in his sight.

22 The feare of the Lord causeth that the kingdome faileth not, but the kingdome is lost by cruelty and pride.

23 The feare of the Lord is the glory as well of the rich and the noble, as of the poore.

24 It is not meet to despise the poore man that hath vnderstanding, neither is it conuenient to magnifie the rich that is a wicked man.

25 The great man and the Judge, and the man of authority, are honourable, yet is there none of them greater then he that feareth the Lord.

Prov. 17. 2.
2. Sam. 13.
13.

26 * Vnto the seruant that is wise, shall they that are free, do seruice: he that hath knowledg will not grudge when he is reformed, [and the ignorant shall not come to honour.]

27 Seeke not exrcules when thou shouldest do thy worke, neither be ashamed thereof though pride in the time of aduersity.

28 * Better is hee that labourerth, and hath plenteousnes of al things, then he that is gorgeous, and wanterth bread.

Prov. 12. 5.
13.

29 My sonne, get thy selfe praise by meeknes, and esteeme thy selfe as thou deseruest.

30 Who will count him iust that sinneth against himselfe? or honour him that dishonoureth his owne soule?

31 The poore is honoured for his knowledge [and his feare,] but the rich is had in reputation because of his goods.

32 Hee that is honourable in pouerty, how much more shall he be when he is rich: and hee that is vn honest being rich, how much more will he be so when he is in pouerty?

CHAP. XI.

pearance ought we not to iudge. 7 Of rash indgement.

pouerty and riches come of the Lord.

15 Allidone and knowledg, and understanding of the Law are of the Lord: loue and good workes come of him.

16 Errour and darkenesse are appointed for sinners, and they that exalt themselves in euill, waxe olde in euill.

17 The gift of the Lord remaineth for the godly, and his good will giueth prosperity for euer.

Luk. 12. 19.

18 ¶ Some man is rich by his care and nig-gardship, and this is the portion of his wages.

19 In that he saith, * I haue gotten rest, and now will I eat continually of my goods, yet hee considereth not that the time draweth neere, that he must leaue all these things to other men, and die himselfe.

20 Stand thou in thy state, and exercise thy selfe therein, and remaine in thy worke vnto thine age.

21 Marueile not at the workes of sinners, but trust in the Lord, and abide in thy labour: for it is an easie thing in the sight of the Lord, suddenly to make a poore man rich.

22 The blessing of the Lord is in the wages of the vngodly, and he maketh his prosperitie come to flourish.

23 ¶ Say not, What profit and pleasure shall I haue, and what good things shall I haue hereafter?

24 Against, say not, I haue enough, and pos-sesse many things, and what euill can come to me hereafter?

chap. 18. 24.

25 ¶ In thy good state remember aduersity, and in aduersity forget not prosperity.

26 For it is an easie thing vnto the Lord in the day of death to reward a man according to his wayes.

27 The aduersity of an houre maketh one to forget pleasure: and in a mans end, his workes are discovered.

28 Iudge none blessed before his death: for a man shall be knowne by his children.

29 Bring not every man into thine house: for the deceitfull haue many traines, [and are like stomacks that belch stinkingly.]

30 As a Partridge is taken vnder a basket, [and the hinde is taken in the snare, so is the heart of the proud man, which like a spie watch-eth for thy fall.]

31 For he lieth in wait, and turneth good vnto euill, and in things worthy praise he will find soe fault.

32 Of one little sparke is made a great fire,
[and of one deceitfull man is blood increaseth:]
for a sinfull man layeth wait for blood.

33 Beware of a wicked man: for hee imagineth wicked things to bring thee into a perpetuall shame.

34 Lodge a stranger and he will destroy thee with vniquietnesse, and drive thee from thine owne.

CHAP. XII.

2 Vnto whom we ought to do good, 10 Enemies ought not to be trusted.

W hen thou wilt doe good, know to whom thou doest it, so shalt thou be thanked for thy benefites.

2 ¶ Doe good vnto the righteous, and thou shalt find [great] reward, though not of him, yet of the most High.

Galat. 6. 10.
1. Tim. 5. 8.

3 Hee cannot haue good that continueth in euill, and giueth no almes: [for the most High hateth the sinners, and hath mercy vpon them that repent.]

4 Giue vnto such as feare God, and receiue not a sinner.

5 Doe well vnto him that is lowly, but giue not to the vngodly: hold backe thy bread, and giue it not vnto him, lest he ouercome thee thereby: else thou shalt receiue twofold as much euill for all the good that thou doest vnto him.

6 For the most High hateth the wicked, and will repay vengeance vnto the vngodly, & keepeth them against the day of horrible vengeance.

7 Giue vnto the good, and receiue not the sinner.

8 A friend cannot be knowne in prosperity, neither can an enemy be vnknewen in aduersitie.

9 When a man is in weale, he grieveth his enemies, but in heauinesse and trouble a mans very friend will depart from him.

10 Trust neuer thine enemy: for like as an yon rusteth, so doeth his wickednesse.

11 And though he make much crouching and kneeling, yet aduise thy selfe, and beware of him, and thou shalt be to him, as he that wipeth a glasse, and thou shalt know that all his rust hath not bene well wiped away.

12 Set him not by thee, lest hee destroy thee, and stand in thy place.

13 Neither set him at thy right hand, lest hee seeke thy roome, and thou at the last remember my wordes, and bee picked with my sayings.

14 ¶ Binde not two sinnes together: for there shall not one be punished.

Chap. 7. 8.
and 28. 3.

Ecc. 41. 6.

15 Who will banepite on the charmer, that is stung of the serpent? of all such as come neere the beasts: so is it with him that keepeth company with a wicked man, and wappeth himselfe in his finnes.

16 For a leason will he bide with thee: but if thou stumble, he carterh not.

17 An enemy is sweet in his lippes: he can make many good words, and speake many good things: yea, he can weep with his eyes, but in his heart hee imagineth how to throw thee into the pit: and if he may finde opportunitie, he will not be satisfied with blood.

18 If aduersitie come vpon thee, thou shalt finde him there first, and though he pretend to helpe thee, yet shall he undermine thee: hee will shake his head, and clap his hands, & will make many words, and disguise his countenance.

CHAP. XIII.

The companies of the proud and of the rich are to be shewred. 15 The love of God, 17 Like doe company with their like.

Dnt. 7. 1.

He that toucheth pitch, shall be defiled with it: and hee that is familiar with the proud, shall be like vnto him.

2 Burthen not thy selfe aboue thy power, whilst thou livest, and company not with one that is mightier, and richer then thy selfe: for how agree the kettel and the earthen pot together: for if the one be smitten against the other, it shall be broken.

3 The rich dealeth vnrighteously, & threateneth withall: but the poore being oppressed must intreat: if the rich haue done wrong, hee must yet be intreated: but if the poore haue done it, he shall straightwayes be chastened.

4 If thou be for his profit, he vseth thee: but if thou haue nothing, he will forsake thee.

5 If thou haue any thing, hee will liue with thee: yea, he will make thee a bare man, and will not care for it.

6 If hee haue need of thee, hee will defraud thee, and will laugh at thee, and put thee in hope, and giue thee all good words, and say, What wantest thou?

7 Thus will he shame thee in his meate, vntill hee hath sate thee cleane vpon twise or thise, and at the last he will laugh thee to scorne: afterward when he seeth thee, he will forsake thee, and shake his head at thee.

8 Submit thy selfe vnto God, and waite vpon his hand.]

9 Beware that thou be not deceived in thine owne conceits, and brought down by thy simple- nesse: [be not too humble in thy wisdom.]

10 If thou be called of a mighty man, absent thy selfe: so shall he call thee the more oft.

11 Be asle not thou vnto him, that thou bee not shut out, but go not thou farre off, lest he forget thee.

12 Withdraw not thy selfe from his speech, but be leane not his many words: for with much communication will he tempt thee, and laughingly will he grepe thee.

13 He is vnnumerfull, and keepeth not promise: he will not spare to doe thee hurt, and to put thee in prison.

14 Beware and take good heed: for thou wastest in perill of thine ouerthrowing: when thou hearest this, awake in thy sleepe.

15 Love the Lord all thy life, and call vpon him for thy saluation.

16 Every beast loneth his like, and every man loneth his neighbour.

17 All flesh will resort to their like, and every man will keepe company with such as he is himselfe.

18 How can the wolfe agree with the lambe? no more can the vngodly with the righteous.

19 What fellowship hath hyena with a dog: and what peace is betwene the rich and the poore.

20 As the wilde asse is the Lyons pray in the wilde- nesse, so are poore men the meate of the rich.

21 As the proud hate humility, so doe the rich abhorre the poore.

22 If a rich man fall, his friends see him by againe: but when the poore falleth, his friends driue him away.

23 If a rich man offend, hee hath many helpers: he speaketh proud words, & yet men will stiffe him: but if a poore man faile, they rebuke him, though he speake wisely, yet can it haue no place.

24 When the rich man speaketh, every man holdeth his tongue: and looke what hee sayeth, they prayse it vnto the cloudes: but if the poore man speake, they say, What fellow is this: and if he doe amisse, they will destroy him.

25 Riches are good vnto him that hath no sinne [in his conscience,] and pouertie is euill in the mouth of the vngodly.

26 The heart of a man changeth his countenance, whether it be in good or euill.

27 A cherefull countenance is a token of a good heart: for it is an hard thing to know the secrets of the thought.

CHAP. XIII.

The offence of the tongue, 17 Man is but a vaine thing. 21 Happy is he that countmeth in wisdom.

Blessed is the man, that hath not fallen by [the word of] his mouth, and is not tormented with the sorrow of sinne.

2 Blessed is he that is not condemned in his conscience, and is not fallen from his hope in the Lord.

3 Riches are not comely for a niggard, and what should an enuious man doe with money?

4 He that gathereth together from his owne soule, heapeth together for others, that will make good chere with his goods.

5 He that is wicked vnto himselfe, to whom will hee be good? for such one can haue no pleasure of his goods.

6 There is nothing worse, then when one enuieeth himselfe: and this is a reward of his wickednesse.

7 And if he doe any good, hee doth it not knowing chereof, and against his will, and at the last hee delecteth his wickednesse.

8 The enuious man hath a wicked look: he turneth away his face, and despiseth men.

9 A courteous mans eye hath neuer enough of a passion, and his wicked malice wisheth his owne soule.

10 A wicked eye enuieeth the bread, and there is scarcenesse vpon his table.

Which is a wilde beast that counterfeiteeth the voyce of men, and so enticeth the out of their houses, and deuoureth them.

2 Trust not thou to their life, neither rest vpon their multitude.

3 For one that is iust, is better then a thousand such, and better it is to die without children, then to leaue behinde him vngodly children.

4 For by one that hath vnderstanding, shall the citie be inhabited: but the stocke of the wicked shall be wasted incontinently.

11 Therefore if there bee one stiffnecked among the people, it is maruella if hee scape unpunished: for mercie and wrath are with him: hee is mighty to forgive, and to powre out displeasure.

Chap. 5. 6.

12 As his mercie is great, so is his punishment also: hee iudgeth a man according to his workes.

13 The vngodly shall not escape with his spoile, and the patience of the vngodly shall not be delayed.

14 He will giue place to all good deeds, and euery one shall finde according to his workes, [and after the vnderstanding of his pilgrimage.]

15 The Lord hardened Pharaos, that hee should not know him, and that his workes should be knowne vpon the earth vnder the heauen.

16 His mercie is knowne to all creatures: he hath separated his light from the darkenesse with an adamant.

17 Say not thou, I will hide my selfe from the Lord: for who will thinke vpon me from aboute? I shal not be knowne in so great a heape of people: for what is my soule among such an infinite number of creatures?

20 These things doeth no heart vnderstand worthily, [but hee vnderstandeth euery heart.]

21 And who vnderstandeth his wayes? and the stoyne that no man can see? for the most part of his workes are hid.

22 Who can declare the workes of his righteousness? or who can abide them? for his ordinance is farre off, and the trying out of all things falleth.

23 He that is humble of heart, will consider these things: but an vnwise and erroneous man casteth his minde vpon foolish things.

24 My sonne, hearken vnto mee, and learne knowledge, and marke my wordes with thine heart.

25 I will declare thee weighty doctrine, and I will instruct thee exactly.

26 The Lord hath set his workes in good order from the beginning, and part of them hath hee sundred from the other when hee first made them.

27 He hath garnished his workes for euer, and their beginnings so long as they shall endure, they are not hungry nor wearied in their labours, nor cease from their offices.

28 None of them hindereth another, neither was any of them disobedient vnto his wordes.

29 After this the Lord looked vpon the earth, and filled it with his good things.

Gen. 1. 1.

HE that liueth for euer, made all things together, the Lord who onely is iust, and there is none other but he, [and he remaineth a victorious King for euer.]

2 He ordereth the world with the power of his hand, and all things obey his will: for he governeth all things by his power, and diuideth the holy things from the prophane.

3 To whom hath he giuen power to expresse his workes? who will seeke out the ground of his noble actes?

4 Who shall declare the power of his greatnesse? or who will take vpon him to tell out his mercy?

5 As for the wonderous workes of the Lord, there may nothing be taken from them, neither can any thing bee put vnto them, neither may the ground of them bee found out.

6 But when a man hath done his best, hee must begin againe, and when hee thinketh to come to an end, hee must goe againe to his labour.

7 What is man? whereto serueth hee? what good or euill can he doe?

22. 20. 10.

8 If the number of a mans dayes be an hundred yere, it is much: and no man hath certaine knowledge of his death.

9 As drops of raine are vnto the Sea, and

1. Pet. 3. 8.

10 Therefore is [God] patient with them, and pouereth out his mercy vpon them.

11 Wee sawe and perceived, that [the arrogancie of their heart, and their ruine was euill: therefore heaped hee vpon his mercy vpon them, and shewed them the way of righteousness.]

12 The mercy that a man hath, reacheth to his neighbour: but the mercy of the Lord is vpon all flesh: hee chasteneth, and nurturcth, and teacheth, and bringeth backe, as a shepheard his flocke.

13 Wee hath mercy of them that receiue discipline, and that diligently seeke after his iudgements.

14 My sonne, when thou doest good, reprocue not: and whatsoeuer thou giuest, vse no discomfortable words.

15 Shall not the deaw asswage the heate? so is a word better then a gifte.

16 Lo, is not a word better then a good gifte? but a gracious man giueth them both.

17 A foole will reprocue churlishly, and a gifte of the enuious putteth out the eyes.

18 Get thee righteousness before thou come to iudgement: learne before thou speake, and vse physike or cure thou be sicke.

19 Examine thy selfe before thou be iudged, and in the day of the visitation thou shalt finde mercy.

1. Cor. 11. 31.

20 Humble thy selfe before thou be sicke, and whilst thou mayest yet sinne, shew thy conversion.

21 Let nothing let thee to pay thy bow in time, and deferre not vnto death to bee reformed: [for the reward of God endureth for euer.]

22 Before thou prayest, prepare thy selfe, and be not as one that tempteth the Lord.

Chap. 11. 29.

24 When thou hast enough, remember the time of hunger: and when thou art rich, thinke vpon pouertie and neede.

25 From the morning vntill the euening, the time is changed: and all such things are soone done before the Lord.

26 A wise man feareth in all things, and in the dayes of transgression hee keepeth himselfe from sinne: but the foole doeth not obserue the time.

27 Every wise man knoweth wisdom, and knowledge, and prayeth him that findeth her.

28 They that haue vnderstanding, deale wisely in words: [they vnderstand the truth and righteousness,] and pouere out with moderate grauel sentences for mans life.

29 The chiefe authority of speaking is of the Lord alone: for a mortall man hath but a deauil heart.

30 Follow not thy lustes, but turne thee from thine owne appetites.

33 Become not a begger by making bankets of that that thou hast borrowed, and so leaue nothing in thy purse: else thou shouldest slanderously lie in wait for thine owne life.

CHAP XIX.

2 Wine and whoredome bring men to pouertie. 6 In thy words use discretion. 22 The difference of the wisdom of God and man. 27 Whereby thou mayest know what is in man.

A Laboring man that is giuen to drunkenness, shall not be rich: and hee that concerneth small things, shall fall by little and little.

2 * Wine and women leade wise men out of the way, [and put men of vnderstanding to reproofe.]

3 And he that companieth with adulterers, shall become impudent: rottenness and wormes shall haue him to heritage, and he that is too bolde, shall bee taken away, and bee made a publike example.

4 * Hee that is hasty to giue credit, is light minded, and hee that erreth, sinneth against his owne soule,

5 Altho so retoyce in wickednes, shall be punished: [he that hateth to be reformed, his life shall be shortned, and he that abhorreth babbling of words, quencheth wickednesse: but hee that resisteth pleasures, crowneeth his owne soule.]

6 Hee that refraineth his tongue, may liue with a troublesome man, and he that hateth babbling, shall haue lesse euill.

7 Rehearse not to another that which is told vnto thee: so thou shalt not be hindered.

8 Declare not other mens manners, neither to friend nor foe: and if the sinne appertaine not vnto thee, reueale it not.

9 For he will hearken vnto thee, and marke thee, and when he findeth opportunity, hee will hate thee.

10 * If thou hast heard a word [against thy neighbour, let it die with thee, and be sure it will not hurt thee.]

11 A foole travelleth when he hath heard a thing, as a woman that is about to bring forth a child.

12 As an arrow that sticketh in ones thigh, so is a word in a fooles heart.

13 * Reproue a friend, lest he doe euill, and if he haue done it, that he doe it no more.

14 Reproue a friend, that he may keepe his tongue, and if he haue spoken, that hee say it no more.

15 Tell thy friend his fault: for oft times a slander is raised: and giue no credence to euery word.

16 A man falleth with his tongue, but not with his will: * and who is he that hath not offended in his tongue?

17 Reproue thy neighbour before thou threaten him, and being without anger: giue place vnto the Law of the most High.

18 The feare of the Lord is the first degree to be received of him, and wisdom obtaineth his loue.

19 The knowledge of the commandements of the Lord is the doctrine of life, and they that obey him, shall receiue the fruit of immortalitye.

20 The feare of the Lord is all wisdom, and the pertaining of the Law is perfect wisdom, and the knowledge of his almighty power.

21 If a seruant say vnto his maister, I will not doe as it pleaseth thee, though afterward he doe it, he shall displease him that nourisheth him.

22 The knowledge of wickednes is not wisdom, neither is there prudence whereas the counsell of sinners is: but it is euen execrable malice: and the foole is voyde of wisdom,

23 Hee that hath small vnderstanding, and feareth God, is better then one that hath much wisdom, and transgresseth the Law of the most High.

24 There is a certaine subtiltie that is fine but it is vnrightheous: and there is that wretheth the open and manifest Law: yet there is that is wise, and iudgeth righteously.

25 There is some, that being about wicked purposes, doe bow downe themselves, & are sad, whose inward parts burne altogether with deceit: he looketh downe with his face, and faimeth himselfe deafe: yet before thou perceiue, hee will be vpon thee to hurt thee.

26 And though he be so weake, that hee can doe thee no harme, yet when he may find opportunity, he will doe euill.

27 * A man may bee known by his looke, and one that hath vnderstanding, may be perceiued by the marking of his countenance.

28 * A mans garment, & his excellent laughter, and going, declare what person he is.

CHAP. XX.

Of correction and repentance. 6 To speake and keepe silence in time. 17 The fall of the wicked. 23 Of lying. 24 The thiefe and the murderer. 28. Gifts blinde the eyes of the wise.

There is some rebuke that is not comely: a gain, some man holdeth his tongue, and he is wise.

2 It is much better to reprove, then to beare euill will, and he that acknowledgeth his fault, shall be preserved from hurt.

3 As * when a girdles man through lust would defile a maid, so is hee that useth violence in iudgement.

4 How good a thing is it, when thou art reprovied, to shew repentance: for so shalt thou escape wilfull sinne.

5 Some man keepeth silence, and is found wise, and some by much babling becommeth hatefull.

6 Some man holdeth his tongue, because he hath not to answer: and some keepeth silence, waiting a convenient time.

7 * A wise man will hold his tongue, till he see opportunity: but a trifler and a foole will regard no time.

8 He that useth many words, shall be abhorred, and hee that taketh authority to himselfe, shall be hated.

9 Some man hath oft times prosperie in wicked things, and sometime a thing that is found, bringeth losse.

10 There is some gift that is not profitable for thee, and there is some gift, whose reward is double.

14 The gift received of a foole, shall doe thee no good, neither yet of the envious for his importunity: for hee looketh to receive many things for one, he giveth little, and he byghardeth much: he openeth his mouth like a crowne cryer: to day hee lendeth, to morrow asketh hee againe, and such one is to be hated of God and man.

15 The foole iudgeth, I have no friends: I have no thanks for all my good deedes: and they that eat my bread, speake euill of me.

18 A man without grace is as a foolish tale, which is oft told by the mouth of the ignorant.

19 A wise sentence loseth grace when it cometh out of a fooler's mouth: for hee speaketh not in due season.

20 Some man sinneth not because of power: and yet is not grieved when he is alone.

21 Some man there is that destroyeth his owne soule, because he is ashamed, and for the regard of persons loseth it.

22 Some man promiseth vnto his friends for shame, and getteth an enemy of him for nought.

Chap. 35. 3.

23 * A lie is a wicked shame in a man: yet is he oft in the mouth of the vnwise.

24 A thiefe is better then a man that is accustomed to lie: but they both shall haue destruction to heritage.

25 The conditions of liers are vn honest, and their shame is euer with them.

26 A wise man shall bring himselfe to honour with his words, and he that hath vnderstanding, shall please great men.

Prov. 13. 11.
and 28. 19.

27 * He that tilleth his land, shall increase his beape: he that worketh righteousness, shall be exalted, and he that pleaseth great men, shall haue pardon of his iniquitie.

Exod. 23. 8.
Leuit. 19. 19.

28 * Rewards and gifts blind the eyes of the wise, and make them dumbe, that they cannot reprove faults.

29 Wisdome that is hid, and treasure that is hoarded up, what profit is in them both?

30 Better is he that keepeth his ignorance secret, then a man that sheweth his wisdom.

31 The necessary patience of him that followeth the Lord, is better then hee that governeth his life without the Lord.

CHAP. XXI.

2 Not to continue in sinne. 5 The prayer of the afflicted. 6 To hate to be reprov'd. 17 The mouth of the wise man. 26 The thought of the foole.

Chap. 5. 5.
psal. 41. 4.
Leuit. 15. 21.

MY sonne, hast thou sinned? doe so no more: but pray for the foresinner [that they may be forgiven thee.]

2 Flee from sinne as from a serpent: for if thou comest to nere it, it will bite thee: the teeth thereof are as the teeth of a lyon, to slay the soules of men.

3 All iniquitie is as a two edged sword, the wounds whereof cannot be healed.

4 Strife and iniuries make riches: so the house of the proud shall be desolate.

5 * The prayer of the poore going out of the mouth, cometh vnto the eares of the Lord, and iustice is done him incontinently.

Exod. 3. 9.
and 22. 23.

6 Alho so hateth to be reformed, is in the way of sinners: but he that feareth the Lord, converteth his heart.

7 An eloquent talker is knowne a farre off: but he that is wise, perceiveth when he falleth.

8 Alho so buildeth his house with other mens money, is like one that gathereth stones to make his grave.

9 * The congregation of the wicked is like tow wrapped together: their ende is a flange of fire to destroy them.

Chap. 16. 6.

10 The way of sinners is made plaine with stones, but at the end thereof is hell, [darkenesse and paines.]

11 He that keepeth the Law of the Lord, shall rule his owne affections thereby: & the increase of wisdom is the end of the feare of God.

Or, keepeth his understanding thereof.

12 He that is not wise, will not suffer himselfe to be taught: but there is some wit that increaseth bitterness.

13 The knowledge of the wise shall abound like water that runneth ouer, and his counsell is like a pure fountaine of life.

14 * The inner parts of a foole are like a broken vessel: he can keepe no knowledge whiles he liueth.

Chap. 33. 5.

15 When a man of vnderstanding heareth a wise word, he will commend it, and increase it: but if an ignorant man heare it, he will disallow it, and cast it behind his backe.

16 The talking of a foole is like a burden in the way, but there is comeliness in the talke of a wise man.

17 They enquire at the mouth of the wise man in the congregation, and they shall ponder his words in their heart.

18 As is an house that is destroyed, so is wisdom vnto a foole, and the knowledge of the vnwise is as words without order.

19 Doctrine vnto fooler is as fetters on the feet, and like manicles vpon the right hand.

20 * A foole listeth up his voyce with laughter, but a wise man doth scarce smile secretly.

Chap. 19. 17,
28.

21 Learning is vnto a wise man a Jewell of gold, and like a bracelet vpon his right arme.

22 A foolish mans foot is soone in his [neighbours] house: but a man of experience is ashamed to looke on.

23 A foole will peepe in at the doore into the house: but he that is well nourished, will stand without.

24 It is the point of a foolish man to hearken at the doore: for hee that is wise, will be grieved with such dishonour.

25 The lips of talkers will be telling such things as pertaine not vnto them, but the words of such as haue vnderstanding, are weighed in the ballance.

26 The heart of fooler is in their mouth, but the mouth of the wise is in their heart.

27 When

Chap. 28. 13.

27 When the vngodly curseth Satan, he curseth his owne soule.
28 * A backbiter defileth his owne soule, and is hated wherelower he is: [but he that keepeth his tongue, is discrete, shall come to honour.]

CHAP. XXII.

1 Of the sluggard. 12 Not to speake much to a foole.
16 A good conscience faueth not.

a, b That is, like as the idle stone gathereth mosse and filth, so doth both sickness of body and corruption of minde. And as euery man doth auoyde the filthinesse of dung, and shaketh it off: so doth he auoyd the company of idle loiterers lest he be accounted like vnto them.

A Slothfull man is like a filthy stone, which euery man mocketh at for his shame.
2 A slothfull man is to bee compared to the dung of oren, and euery one that taketh it by, will shake it out of his hand.
3 An euill nourished sonne, is the dishonour of the father: and the daughter is leat to bee esteemed.
4 A wise daughter is an heritage vnto her husband: but shee that liueth dishonestly, is her fathers heautnesse.
5 Shee that is bold, dishonoureth both her father and her husband. [and is not inferiour to the vngodly.] but they both shall despise her.
6 A tale out of time is as musike in mourning: but wisdom knoweth the seasons of correction and doctrine.
7 Who so teacheth a foole, is as one that gleweth a portbeard together, and as hee that waketh one that sleeper, from a sound sleepe.
8 If children lue honestly, and haue where-with, they shall put away the shame of their parents.
9 But if children be proud, with haughtinesse and foolishnesse they defile the nobility of their kindred.
10 Who so telleth a foole of wisdom, is as a man which speaketh to one that is asleepe: when he hath told his tale, he saith, What is the matter?

Chap. 36. 16.

11 * Weepe for the dead, for hee hath lost the light: so weepe for the foole, for hee wanteth vnderstanding: make small weeping for the dead, for he is at rest: but the life of a foole is worse then the death.

Chap. 12. 12.

12 Seuen dayes do men mourne for him that is dead: but the lamentation for the foole and vngodly [should endure] all the dayes of their life.

Prov. 27. 3.

13 Talke not much with a foole, and goe not to him that hath no vnderstanding, * beware of him lest it turne thee to paine, and lest thou bee defiled when he shaketh himselfe. Depart from him, and thou shalt find rest, and shalt not receive sorow by his foolishnesse.
14 What is heavier then leade? and what other name should a foole haue?

15 * Sand and salt, and a lump of yron is easier to beare, then an vnwise, [foolish and vngodly man.]
16 As a frame of wood toynd together in a building cannot be loosed with shaking, so the heart that is stablished by aduised counsell, shall feare at no time.

17 The heart that is confirmed by discrete wisdom, is as a faire plaitering on a plaine wall.

18 As reedes that are set vpon high, cannot abide the winde, so the fearefull heart with foolish imagination can endure no feare.

19 See that hurteth the eye bringeth forth teares, and he that hurteth the heart, bringeth forth the affection.

20 Who so casteth a stone at the birds, freeth them away: and hee that vphaideth his friend, breaketh friendship.

21 Though thou diuelt a sword at thy friend, yet despair not: for there may be a returning to fauour.

22 If thou haue opened thy mouth against thy friend, feare not: for there may be a reconciliation, so that vphaiding, or pride, or disclosing of secrets, or a traiterous wound doe not let: for by these things, euery friend will depart.

23 Be faithfull vnto thy friend in his pueritie, that thou mayest reioyce in his prosperitie. Abide stedfast vnto him in the time of his trouble, that thou mayest bee heire with him in his heritage: for pouerty is not alwayes to bee contemned, nor the rich that is foolish, to bee had in admiration.

24 As the vapour and smoke out of the chimney goeth before the fire, so euil words [rebukes and threatnings] goe before blood shedding.

25 I will not be ashamed to defend a friend: neither will I hide my selfe from him, though he should doe me harme: whosoener heareth this, shall beware of him.

26 Who shall set a watch before my mouth, and a seale of wisdom vpon my lips, that I fall not suddenly by them, and that my tongue destroy me not? Psal. 141. 3.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 A prayer of the authour. 13 Of oaths, blasphemie and vnwise communication. 16 Of three kindes of sinners. 23 Many sinners proceede of aduerty. 27 Of the feare of God.

O Lord, father and gouernor of all my whole life, leaue me not to their counsell, and let me not fall by them. || Or, my lips.

2 Who will correct my thought, and put the doctrine of wisdom in mine heart, that they may not spare me in mine ignorance, neither let their fautes passe? || That is, of the tongue and lips.

3 Lest mine ignorances increase, and my sinnes abound to my destruction, and lest I fall before mine aduersary, and mine enemies reioyce ouer mee, whose hope is farre from thy mercie.

4 O Lord, father and God of my life, [leaue me not in their imagination] neither giue mee a proud looke, but turne away from thy seruants a stout minde.

5 Take from mee baine hope, and conceytednesse, and retaine him in obedience, that desireth continually to serue thee.

6 Let not the greedinesse of the belly, nor lust of the flesh hold me, and giue not me thy seruant out into an impudent minde.

7 O Heare, O ye children, the instruction of a mouth that shall speake truth: who so keepeth it, shall not perish through his lips, [nor be hurt by wicked works.]

8 The sinner shall be taken by his owne lips: for the euill speaker and the proud doe offend by them.

9 * Accustome not thy mouth to swearing: [for in it there are many falles,] neither take vp for a custome the naming of the Holy one.

one: [For thou shalt not be unpunished for such things.]

10 For as a servant which is oft punished, cannot be without some scars, so he that sweareth, and nameth God continually, shall not be faultlesse.

11 A man that bleseth much swearing, shall be filled with wickednesse, and the plague shall neuer go from his house: when he shall offend, his fault shall be vpon him, and if he knowledg not his sinne, he maketh a double offence: and if hee sweare in vaine, hee shall not be innocent, but his house shall be full of plagues.

12 There is a word which is clothed with death: God grant that it be not found in the heritage of Jacob: but they that feare God, eschew all such, and are not wrapped in sinne.

13 Use not thy mouth to ignorant rashnes: for therein is the occasion of sinne.

14 Remember thy father and thy mother when thou art set among great men, lest thou be forgotten in their sight, and so through thy custome become a foole; and wish that thou hadst not been boie, and curse the day of thy natiuitie.

Or, inordinate swearing.

1. Sam. 16. 7.

15 The man that is accustomed to opprobrious wordes, will neuer be reformed all the dayes of his life.

16 There are two sorts [of men] that abound in sinne, and the third bringeth warch [and destruction:] a minde hot as fire that cannot be quenched, till it be consumed: an adulterous man that giueth his body no rest, till he haue kindled a fire.

17 [All bread is sweete to a whoremonger: he will not leaue off till he perish.]

Isa. 29. 15.

18 A man that breaketh wedlocke, and thinketh thus in his heart, * Who seeth mee? I am compassed about with darknesse: the walles couer me: no body seeth mee: whom need I to feare? the most High will not remember my sinnes.

19 Such a man only feareth the eyes of men, and knoweth not that the eyes of the Lord are ten thousand times brighter then the Sunne, beholding all the wayes of men, [and the ground of the deepe,] and considereth the most secret parts.

20 Hee knew all things of euer they were made, and after they be brought to passe also, hee looketh vpon them all.

21 * The lazie man shall be punished in the strettes of the cite, [and shall be chaled like a yong horse foale,] and when he thinketh not vpon it, he shall be taken: [thus shall he be put to shame of euery man, because he would not vnderstand the feare of the Lord.]

22 And thus shall it goe also with euery wife that leaueh her husband, and getteth inheritance by another.

Exod. 20. 14.

23 * For first shee hath disobeyed the Law of the most High, and secondly she hath trespassed against her owne husband, and thirdly, shee hath played the whore in adultery, and gotten her children by another man.

24 Shee shall be brought out into the Congregation, and examination shall be made of her children.

25 Her children shall not take roote, and her branches shall bring forth no fruit.

26 A shamefull report shall shee leaue, and her reproch shall not be put out.

27 And they that remaine, shall know that there is nothing better then y feare of the Lord, and that there is nothing sweeter then to take heed vnto the commandements of the Lord.

28 It is great glory to follow the Lord, and to be receiued of him is long life.

CHAP. XXIIII.

1 A prayse of wisdom proceeding forth of the mouth of God, 6 Of her workes and place where shee resteth, 20 Shee giueth to the children of God.

WISDOME shall praise her selfe, [and be honoured in God,] and reioyce in the midst of her people.

2 In the congregation of the most high shall shee open her mouth, and triumph before his power.

3 [In the midst of her people shall shee be exalted, and wondered at in the holy assembly.]

4 In the multitude of the chosen she shall be commended, and among such as be blessed, shee shall be prayed, and shall say,

5 I am come out of the mouth of the most High, [first borne before all creatures.]

6 I caused the light that faileth not, to arise in the heauen, [and couered the earth as a cloude.]

7 My dwelling is aboue in the height, and my throne is in the pillar of the cloude.

8 I alone haue gone round about the compasses of heauen, and haue walked in the bottome of the depth.

9 I possessed the wates of the sea, and all the earth, and all people, and nations [and with my power haue I troden downe the hearts of all, both high and lowe.]

10 In all these things I sought rest, and a dwelling in some inheritance.

11 So the Creator of all things gaue mee a commandement, and he that made mee appointed me a tabernacle, and sayd, Let thy dwelling be in Jacob, and take thine inheritance in Israel, and roote thy selfe among my chosen.

12 * Hee created me from the beginning, and before the world, and I shall neuer faile: * In the holy habitation haue I serued before him, and so was I stablished in Sion.

13 * In the welbeloued cite gaue hee me rest, and in Ierusalem was my power.

14 I tooke roote in an honourable people, euen in the portion of the Lords inheritance.

15 I am set vp on hie like a cedar in Libanus, and as a Cypres tree vpon the mountaines of Hermon.

16 I am exalted like a palme tree // about the banks, and as a rose plant in Ierichol, as a faire olive tree in a pleasant field, and am exalted as a plane tree by the water.

17 I smelled as the cinamon, and as a bag of spices: I gaue a sweete odour as the best myrrhe, as Galbanum, and onix, and sweete storax, and perfume of incense in an house.

18 As the * Terebinth, haue I stretched out my branches, and my branches are the branches of honour and grace.

19 * As the vine haue I brought forth [fruit] of sweete sauour, and my flowers are the fruit of honour and riches.

20 I am the mother of beautifull loue, and 25 Who so hearkeneth vnto me, shall not come to confusion, and they that worke by me, shall not offend: [they that make me to be knownen, shall haue euermaking life.]

27 Bee not weary to behaue your selues faithfully with the Lord, that hee may also confirme you: cleaue vnto him: for the Lord Almighty is but one God, and besides him there is none other Saviour.

31 Wee maketh the doctrine of knowledge to appeare as the light, and overfloweth as Geon in the time of the vintage.

35 I sayd, I will water my faire garden, and will water my pleasant ground: and loe, my ditch became a flood, and my flood became a sea.

36 For I make doctrine to shine as the light of the morning, and I lighten it for euer.

37 [I will pearce thowow all the lower parts of the earth: I will looke vpon all such as bee a sleepe, and lighten all them that trust in the Lord.]

1 Of three things which please God, and of three which he hateth. 7 Of nine things that bee not to be suspected. 14 Of the malice of a woman.

2 [Three sorts of men my soule hateth, and I utterly abhorre the life of them: a poore man that is proude, a rich man that is a liar, and an old adulterer that doth.]

3 [If thou hast gathered nothing in thy youth, what canst thou finde in thine age:]

4 [Oh how pleasaunt a thing is it when gray headed men minister iudgement, and when the Elders can giue good counsell:]

5 [Oh, how comely a thing is wisdom vnto aged men, and vnderstanding and prudence to men of honour:]

6 The crowne of olde men, is to haue much experience, and the feare of God is their glorie.

7 [There be nine things, which I haue indged in mine heart to be happy, and the tenth will I pronounce with my tongue: a man that while hee liueth, hath toy of his children, and seeth the fall of his enemies.]

11 The feare of the Lord passeth all things in cleauesse.

12 [Blessed is th man vnto whom it is granted to haue the feare of God.] Vnto whom shall he be likened that hath attained it?

13 The feare of the Lord is the beginning of his loue, and faith is the beginning to be ioyned vnto him.

14 [The greatest beautie is the beautie of the heart, and the greatest malice is the malice of a woman.]

15 Giue me any plague, saue onely the plague of the heart, and any malice, saue the malice of a woman:

16 [Of any assault, saue the assault of them that hate, or any vengeance, saue the vengeance of the enemy.]

17 There is not a more wicked head then the head of the serpent, and there is no wrath aboue the wrath of an enemy.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 The praise of a good woman, 5 Of the feare of three things, and of the fourth, 6 Of the ialous and drunken woman, 29 Of two things that cause sorrow, and of the third which moueth wrath.

Blessed is the man that hath a vertuous wife: for the number of his yeeres shall be double.

2 An honest woman reioyceth her husband, and she shall fill the yeeres of his life with peace.

3 A vertuous woman is a good portion, which shall be giuen for a gift vnto such as feare the Lord.

4 Whether a man be rich or poore, hee hath a good heart toward the Lord, and they shall at all times haue a cheerefull countenance.

5 There bee three things that mine heart feareth, and my face is afraid of the fourth: treason in a city, the assembly of the people, and false accusation: all these are heavier then death.

6 But the sorow and griefe of the heart is a woman that is ialous ouer another: and shee that communeth with all is a scourge of the tongue.

7 An enill wife is as an yoke of oxen that draweth diuers wayes: he that hath her, is as though he held a scorpion.

8 A drunken woman, and such as cannot be tamed, is a great plague: for shee cannot couer her owne shame.

9 The whoredome of a woman may be knowne in the pride of her eyes, and eyelids.

10 If thy daughter be not shamefast, hold her straitly, least she abuse her selfe through ouermuch liberty.

11 Take heed of her that hath an vnshamefast eye: and marueile not if she trespass against thee.

12 As one that goeth by the way, and is thirsty, so shall she open her mouth, and drinke of euery next water: by euery hedge shall she sit downe, and open her quiver against euery arrow.

13 The grace of a wise reioyceth her husband, and feedeth his bones with her vnderstanding.

14 The peaceable woman, and of a good heart, is a gift of the Lord, & there is nothing so much worth as a woman well instructed.

15 A shamefast and faithfull woman is a double grace, and there is no waight to be compared vnto her continent mind.

16 As the sunne when it ariseth in the high places of the Lord, so is the beautie of a good wife the ornament of her house.

17 As the cleare light is vpon the holy candlesticke, so is the beautie of the face in a ripe age.

18 As the golden pillars are vpon the sockets of siluer: so are faire kettes with a constant minde.

19 Perpetuall are the foundations that be laid vpon a strong rocke: so are the commandments of God in the heart of an holy woman.

20 By soune, keepe the strength of thine age stable, and giue not thy strength to strangers.

21 When thou hast gotten a fruitfull possession thorow all the fields, sow it with thine own seed, trusting in thy nobilitie.

22 So thy stocke that shall liue after thee, shall growe, trusting in the great liberalitie of thine nobilitie.

23 An harlot is compared to a sowe: but the wife that is married, is counted as a tower against death to her husband.

24 A wicked woman is giuen as a reward to a wicked man: but a godly woman is giuen to him that feareth the Lord.

25 A shamelesse woman contemneth shame: but a shamefast woman will reuerence her husband.

26 A shamelesse woman is compared to a dogge: but she that is shamefast, reuerenceth the Lord.

27 A woman that honoureth her husband, shall be iudged wise of all: but she that despiseth him, shall be blazed for her pride.

28 A loude crying woman is a babler, let her bee sought out to drine away the enemies: the minde of euery man that liueth with such, shall be conuulsant among the troubles of warre.

29 There bee two things that grieve mine heart, and the third maketh mee angry: a man of warre that suffereth pouertie: and men of vnderstanding that are not let by: and when one departeth from righteousness vnto sinne: the Lord appointeth such to the sword.

30 There bee two things which mee thinke to bee hard and perillous: a merchant cannot lightly keepe him from wrong, and a vitaller is not without sinne.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 Of the poore that would be rich, 5 The probation of the man that feareth God, 13 The vnconstancie of a foole, 16 The secrets of friends are not to be uttered, 26 The wicked imagineth euill which turneth vpon himselfe.

Because of pouertie haue many sinned: and he that seeketh to be rich, turneth his eyes aside.

2 As a nasse in the wal sticketh fast betweene the ioynts of the stones, so doeth sinne sticke betweene the selling and the buying.

3 If hee hold him not diligently in the feare of the Lord, his house shall soone bee overthrowen.

4 As when one sitteth, the filthinesse remaineth in the siene, so the filth of man remaineth in his thought.

10 As the lion waiteth for the beast, so doeth sinne vpon them that doe euill.

11 The talking of him that feareth God, is all wisdom: as for a foole, hee changeth as the Moone.

12 If thou be among the vndiscreet, obserue the time, but haunt still the assembly of them that are wise.

16 Who so discovereth secrets, loseth his credit, and findeth no friend after his will.

17 Loue thy friend, and be faithful vnto him: but if thou betrayest his secrets, thou shalt not get him againe.

18 For as a man destroyeth his enemy, so doest thou destroy the friendship of thy neighbour.

19 As one that letteth a birde goe out of his hand, so if thou giue ouer thy friend, thou canst not get him againe.

20 Follow after him no more, for hee is too farre off: he is as a roe escaped out of the snare: [for his soule is wounded.]

Prov. 10. 10.

22 Hee that winketh with the eyes, imagineth euill: and hee that knoweth him, will let him alone.

23 When thou art present, hee will speake sweetly, and praise thy words: but at the last he will curbe his tale, and slander thy saying.

24 Many things haue I hated, but nothing so euill as such a one: for the Lord also hateth him.

27 He that worketh euill, shall be wrapped in euill, and shal not know from whence they come vnto him.

28 Mockers and reproch follow the proude, and vengeance lurketh for them as a lyon.

29 They that reioyce at the fall of the righteous shalbe taken in the snare, and anguish shall consume them before they die.

30 Despise and anger are abominable things, and the sinfull man is subiect to them both.

CHAP. XXVIII.

We ought not to desire vengeance, but to forgive the offence, 13 Of the vices of the tongue, and of the dangers thereof.

He that seeketh vengeance, shall find vengeance of the Lord, and he will surely keepe his sinnes. Dan. 11. 35.
rom. 12. 19.

2 ¶ Forgiue thy neighbour the hurt that hee hath done to thee, so shall thy sinnes be forgiven thee also when thou prayest.

† Man ought not to seek vengeance.

3 Should a man beate hatred against man, and desire forgiveness of the Lord?

Mat. 5. 14.

4 Hee will shew no mercy to a man, which is like himselfe: and will hee alke forgiveness of his owne sinnes?

5 If he that is but flesh, nourish hatred, [and alke pardon of God,] who will intreat for his sinnes?

6 Remember the end, and let enimitie passe: imagine not death and destruction to another through anger, but perseuere in the commandments.

7 Remember the commandments: so shalt thou not be rigorous against thy neighbour: [consider diligently] the Couenant of the most high, and forgiue his ignorance.

Chap. 8. 1.

8 Beware of strife, and thou shalt make thy sinnes fewer: for an angry man kindleth strife.

9 And the sinfull man disquieteth friends, and bringeth in false accusations among them that be at peace.

Prov. 26. 21.

10 As the matter of the fire is, so it burneth, and mans anger is according to his power: and according to his riches his anger increaseth, and the more vehement the anger is, the more is hee inflamed.

11 An hasty brawling kindleth a fire, and an hasty fighting sheddeth blood: [a tongue that beareth false witness, bringeth death.]

† The tongue.

12 If thou blow the sparke, it shall burne: if thou spit vpon it, it shall be quenched, and both these come out of the mouth.

Chap. 21. 28.

13 † Abhorre the slanderer and double tongued: for such haue destroyed many that were at peace.

14 The double tongue hath disquieted many, & diuised them from nation to nation: strong cities hath it broken downe, & ouerthrowen the houses of great men: [the strength of the people hath it brought downe, and becne the decay of mighty nations.]

a That is, the tongue which faich, and vnfaich, or speakech one thing, and thinketh another. Or, the tongue which speakech neither out of the new or old Testament, but of their own braine.

15 The double tongue hath cast out many vertuous women, and robbed them of their labours.

16 Who so hearkeneth vnto it, shall neuer finde rest, and neuer dwell quietly.

17 The stroke of the rod maketh markes in the flesh, but the stroke of the tongue breaketh the bones.

18 There be many that haue perished by the edge of the sword, but not so many as haue fallen by the tongue.

19 Well is him that is kept from an euill tongue, and commeth not in the anger thereof, which hath not drawen in that yoke, neither hath beene bound in the bands thereof.

20 For the yoke thereof is a yoke of yron, and the bands of it are bands of brass.

21 The death thereof is an euill death: hell were better then such one.

22 It shal not haue rule ouer them that feare God, neither shal they be burned with the flame thereof.

23 Such as forsake the Lord, shal fall therein.

and it shall burne them, and no man shall be able to quench it: it shall fall vpon them as a lion, and deuoure them as a leopard.

24 Wedge thy possession with thornes, and make doozes and barres for thy mouth.

25 Winde by thy siluer and gold, and weigh thy words in a Balance, and make a dooze and a barre, [and a sure bydle] for thy mouth.

26 Beware that thou slide not by it, and so fall before him that lieth in wait, [and thy fall be incurable, euen vnto death].

2 *Lend to thy neighbour in time of his need, and pay thou thy neighbour againe in due season.

3 Keepe thy word, and deale faithfully with him, and thou shalt find the thing that is necessarie for thee.

4 Many when a thing was lent them, reckoned it to be found, and grieved them that had helped them.

5 Till they receive, they kisse his hands, and for their neighbours good they humble their voice: but when they should pay againe, they prolong the terme, and giue a carelesse answer, and make excuses by reason of the time.

6 And though he be able, yet giueth he scarce the halfe againe, and reckoneth the other as a thing found: els he deceiveth him of his money, and maketh him an enemy without cause: hee payeth him with curling and rebuke, and giueth him euill words for his good deed.

7 There be many which refuse to lend because of this inconuenience, fearing to bee defrauded without cause.

8 Per haue thou patience with him that humbleth himselfe, and deferre not mercy from him.

9 Helpe the poore for the commandements sake, and turne him not away, because of his pouertie.

10 Lose thy money for thy brothers and neighbours sake, and let it not rest vnder a stone to thy destruction.

11 *Bestow the treasure after the commandement of the most high, and it shall bring thee more profit then gold.

12 || Lay by thine * almes in thy secret chambers, and it shall keepe thee from all affliction.

13 [A mans almes is as a purse with him, and shall keepe a mans fauor as the apple of the eye, and afterward shall it arise, and pay euery man his reward vpon his head.]

15 An honest man is † suretie for his neighbour: but he that is impudent, forsaketh him.

16 Forget not the friendship of thy suretie: for he hath laid his life for thee.

17 The * wicked despiseth the good verbe of his suretie.

18 The wicked will not become suretie: and hee that is of an vnthankfull minde, forsaketh him that deliuered him.

19 [Some man promisseth for his neighbour: and when he hath lost his honestie, he will forsake him.]

20 Suretiship hath destroyed many a rich man, and remooued them as the waues of the sea: mighty men hath it driuen away from their houses, and caused them to wander among strange nations.

21 A wicked man transgressing the commandements of the Lord, shall fall into suretiship: and he that medleth much with other mens businesse, is intangled in controuersies.

22 Helpe thy neighbour according to thy power, and beware that thou thy selfe fall not.

23 *The chiefe thing of life is water, and bread, and clothing, and lodging to coner thy shame.

24 † The poore mans life in his owne lodge, is better then delicate fare in another mans.

25 Be it little or much, hold thee contented, that the house speake not euill of thee.

26 For it is a miserable life to goe from house to house: for where thou art a stranger, thou darrest not open thy mouth.

27 Thou shalt lodge and feed vnthankfull men, and after shalt haue bitter words for the same, saying, 28 Come, thou stranger, and prepare the table, and feed me of that thou hast ready.

29 Giue place, thou stranger, to an honourable man: my brother cometh to be lodged, and I haue need of mine house.

10 These things are heauy to a man that hath vnderstanding, the vpholding of the house, and the reproch of the lender.

2 He that chastiseth his sonne, shall haue ioy in him, and shall reioyce of him among his acquaintance.

3 Hee that * tracheth his sonne, grieveth the enemy, and before his friends hee shall reioyce of him.

17 Eate modestly that which is set before thee, and denoure not lest thou be hated.

17 Leane thou off first for natures sake, and be not vnstable, lest thou offend.

18 When thou sittest among many, reach not thine hand out first of all.

20 A wholesome sleepe cometh of a temperate belly, hee riseth vp in the morning, and is well at ease in himselfe: but paine in watching, and cholericke diseases, and pangs of the belly, are with an vnstable man.

21 If thou hast bene forced to eate, arise, goe forth, vomite, and then take thy rest: [so thou shalt bring no sicknesse vnto thy body.]

22 By son, heare me, and despise me not, and at the last thou shalt finde as I haue tolde thee: in all thy works be quicke, so shall there no sicknesse come vnto thee.

24 But against him that is a nigard of his meate, the whole city shall murmur: the testimonies of his nigardnesse shall be sure.

25 Shew not thy valiantnesse in wine: for * wine hath destroyed many.

26 The furnace proueth the edge in the tempering: so doeth wine in the hearts of the proud by drunkennesse.

27 * Wine soberly drunken, is profitable for the life of man: what is his life that is overcome with wine?

28 Wine was made [from the beginning] to make men glad, [and not for drunkennesse.] Wine measurably drunke and in tyme, bringeth gladnesse and cheerefulness of the minde.

29 But wine drunken with excess, maketh bitterness of mind with brawlings & scoldings.

30 Drunkennesse increaseth the courage of a foole till hee offend: it diminisheth his strengeth and maketh wounds.

31 * Rebuke not thy neighbour at the wine, and despise him not in his mirth: giue him no despitefull words, and presse not vpon him with contrary wordes.

Chap. 34. 39.

17 Heare me, O ye great men of the people, and hearken with your eares, ye rulers of the congregation.

18 Giue not thy soune and wife, thy brother and friend, power ouer thee while thou liuest, and giue not away thy substance to another, lest it repent thee, and thou intreat for the same againe.

19 As long as thou liuest, and hast breath, giue not thy selfe ouer to any person.

20 For better it is that thy children should pray vnto thee, then that thou shouldst looke vpon the hands of thy children.

CHAP. XXXIII.

Of dreames. 13 The praise of them that feare God.
18 The offerings of the wicked. 22 The bread of the needie. 27 God doth not allow the work of an vnfaithfull man.

The hope of a foolish man is vaine and false, and dreames make fooles to haue wings.

2 Who so regardeth dreames, is like him that will take hold of a shadow, and follow after the winde.

3 Euen so is it with appearing of dreames, as the likenesse of a face is before another face.

4 Who can bee cleansed by the vnclane? or what truth can be spoken of a liar?

5 Sooth sayings, witchcraft, and dreaming, is but vanitie, and a wind that is occupied with fantasies, is as a woman that traunselth.

6 Whereas such visions come not of the most High to try thee, set not thine heart vpon them.

7 For dreames haue deceiued many, and they haue failed that put their trust therein.

8 The law shall be fulfilled without lies, and wisdom is sufficient to a faithfull mouth: What knowledge hath hee that is not tried?

9 A man that is instructed, vnderstandeth much, and hee that hath good experience, can talke of wisdom.

10 He that hath no experience, knoweth little, and he that erreth is full of craft.

11 When I wandred to and fro, I saw many things, and mine vnderstanding is greater then I can expresse.

12 I was oft times in danger of death, yet I was deliuered by these things.

13 The spirit of those that feare the Lord, shall liue: for their hope is in him that can helpe them.

14 Who so feareth the Lord, feareth no man, neither is afraid: for he is his hope.

15 Blessed is the soule of him that feareth the Lord: in whom putteth he his trust: who is his strength?

16 For the eyes of the Lord haue respect vnto them that loue him: he is their mighty protection, and strong ground, a defence from the heate, and a shadow for the noone day, a succour from stumbling, and an helpe from falling.

17 He seereth vp the soule, and lighteneth the eyes: he giveth health, life, and blessing.

18 He that giueth an offering of vni-trous goods, offereth a smocking sacrifice, and the gifts of the vnihteous please not him.

19 But the Lord is theirs onely, that patiently abide him in the way of truth and righteousnesse.

20 The most High doth not allow the offerings of the wicked, neither is hee pacified for sinne by the multitude of sacrifice.

21 Who so bringeth an offering of the goods of the poore, doth as one that sacrificeth the sonne before the fathers eyes.

22 The bread of the needfull is the life of the poore: he that defraudeth him thereof, is a murderer.

23 He that taketh away his neighbors lining, slayeth him, and he that defraudeth the labourer of his hire, is a bloodshedder.

24 When one buffeteth another breaketh downe, what profite haue they then but labour?

25 When one prayeth, and another curseth, whose voyce will the Lord heare?

26 Hee that washeth himselfe because of a dead body, and toucheth it againe, what anaillet his washing?

27 So is it with a man that fasteth for his sinnes, and committeth them againe, who will heare his prayer? or what doeth his fasting helpe him?

CHAP. XXXV.

Of true sacrifices. 14 The prayer of the fatherlesse, and of the widow, and him that humbleth himselfe.

Who so keepeth the Law, bringeth offerings: know: he that holdeth fast the commandments, offereth an offering of saluation.

2 He that is thankfull to them that haue well deserued, offereth fine flower: and he that giueth almes, sacrificeth praise.

3 To depart from euill, is a thankfull thing to the Lord, and to forsake vnihteousnesse, is a reconciling vnto him.

4 Thou shalt not appeare emptie before the Lord.

5 For all these things are done because of the commandment.

6 The offering of the righteous maketh the altar fat, and the smell thereof is sweet before the most High.

7 The sacrifice of the righteous is acceptable, and the remembrance thereof shall neuer bee forgotten.

8 Giue the Lord his honor with a good and liberall eye, and diminish not the first fruits of thine hands.

9 In all thy gifts shew a ioyfull countenance, and dedicate thy riches with gladnesse.

10 Giue vnto the most High, according as he hath enriched thee, and looke what thine hand is able, giue with a cheerefull eye.

11 For the Lord recompenseth, and will giue thee seven times as much.

12 Diminish nothing of thine offering: for he will not receive it, and abstaine from wrongfull sacrifices: for the Lord is the Iudge and regardeth no mans person.

13 Hee accepteth not the person of the poore, but he heareth the prayer of the oppressed.

CHAP XXXVI.

1 A prayer to God in the person of all faithfull men, against those that persecute his Church. 22 The praise of a good woman.

HAue mercy vpon vs, O Lord God of all things, and behold vs, and shew vs the light of thy mercies.]

2 And send thy feare † among the nations, which seeke not after thee, [that they may know that there is no God but thou, & that they may shew thy wonderful workes.]

3 Lift vp thine * hand vpon the strange nations, that they may see thy power.

4 As thou art sanctified in vs before them, so be thou magnified among them before vs,

5 That they may know thee, as wee know thee: for there is none other God but only thou, O Lord.

6 Renew the signes, and change the wonders, shew the glory of thine hand, and thy righte arm, that they may shew forth thy wonderful actes.

7 Raise vp thine indignation, and powre out wrath: take away the aduersary, and smite the enemy.

8 Make the time short: remember thine oath that thy wonderful workes may be prayes.

9 Let the wrath of the fire consume them that escape, and let them perish that oppresse the people.

10 Smite in lunder the heads of the princes that be our enemies, and say, There is none other but we.

11 Gather all the tribes of Jacob together, [that they may know that there is none other God but only thou, and that they may shew thy wonderful workes] and inherit thou them as from the beginning.

12 O Lord, haue mercy vpon the people, that is called by thy Name, and vpon Israel, whom thou hast likened to a first borne sonne.

13 Oh, be mercifull vnto Ierusalem the citty of thy Sanctuary, the citty of thy rest.

14 Fill Zion, that it may magnifie thine opecles, and all thy people with thy glory.

15 Give witness vnto those that thou hast possessed from the beginning, & raise vp the prophesies that haue bene shewed in thy Name.

16 Reward them that wait for thee, that thy Prophets may be found faithfull.

17 O Lord, heare the prayer of thy seruants, according to the blessing of Aaron our thy people, [and guide thou vs in the way of righteousness] that all they which dwell vpon the earth, may know that thou art the Lord the eternal God.

18 The belly deuoureth all meates, yet is one meat better then another.

19 As the throat tasteth venison, so doeth a wise mind discern false wordes.

20 A froward heart bringeth griefe, but a man of experience will resist it.

21 A woman is apt to receive euery man: yet is one daughter better then another.

22 The beauty of a woman cheareth the face, and a man loueth nothing better.

23 If there be in her conuenge gentleness, meeknesse, and wholesome talke, then is not her husband like other men.

24 Hee that hath † gotten a [vertuous] woman, hath begun to get a possession: shee is an helpe like vnto himselfe, and a pillar to rest vpon.

25 Where no hedge is, there the possession is spoiled: and he that hath no wife, wandreth to and fro, mourning.

26 Who will trust a thiefe that is alway ready, and wandreth from towne to towne: and likewise him that hath no rest, and lodgeth wheresoeuer the night taketh him.

CHAP. XXXVII.

1 How a man should know friends and counsellors: 18 To keepe his company that feareth God.

Every friend saith, † I am a friend vnto him a friend in name.

2 Remauneth not there beauienes vnto death, when a companion and friend is turned to an enemy?

3 O wicked presumption, from whence art thou sprung up to couer the earth with deserte?

4 There is some companion which in prosperitie reioyceth with his friend: but in the time of trouble he is against him.

5 There is some companion that helpeth his friend for the bellies sake, and taketh vp the buckler against the enemy.

6 For get not thy friend in thy mind, and thinke vpon him in thy riches.

7 Seeke † no counsell at him of whom thou art suspected, and disclose not thy counsell vnto such as hate thee.

8 Every counsellor praiseth his owne counsell: but there is some that counselleth for himselfe.

9 Beware of the counsellor, and be aduised also: whereto thou wilt vse him: for hee will counsell for himselfe, lest he call the lot vpon thee.

10 And say vnto thee, Thy way is good, and afterward he stand against thee, and looke what shall become of thee.

her of whom shee is lealous, nor of a coward in matters of warre, nor of a merchant concerning exchange, nor of a buyer for the sale, nor of an envious man touching thankfulness, nor of the mercifull touching kindnesse, [nor of an dishonest man of honestie] nor of the slouthfull for any labour, nor of an hireling for the finishing of a worke, nor of an idle seruant for much businesse: hearken not vnto these in any matter of counsell.

12 But bee continuall with a godly man whom thou knowest to keepe the commandments of the Lord. whose minde is according to thy minde, and is sorry for thee when thou stumblest.

13 Take counsell of thine owne heart: for there is no man more faithfull vnto thee, then it.

14 For a mans minde is sometime more accustomed to shewe more then seven watchmen that sit aboue in an high tower.

15 And aboue all this pray to the most High that he will direct thy way in trueness.

16 Let reason goe before every enterpryse, and counsell before every action.

17 ¶ The [changing] of the countenance is a signe of the changing of the heart: foure things appeare, good and euill, life and death, but the tongue hath euenmore the gouernment ouer them.

18 ¶ Some man is wittie, and hath instructed many, and yet is vnprofitable vnto himselfe.

19 Some man will be wise in words, and is hated, yea, he is destitute of all food.

20 Because grace is not giuen him of the Lord: for he is destitute of all wisdom.

21 Another is wise for himselfe, and the fruits of vnderstanding are faithfull in his mouth.

22 A wise man instructeth his people, and the fruites of his wisdom faile not.

23 A wise man shall bee plentifully blessed, and all they that see him, shall thinke him blessed.

24 The life of man standeth in the number of dayes: but the dayes of Israel are innumerable.

25 A wise man shall obtaine credite among his people, and his name shall be perpetuall.

26 ¶ By sorow, proue thy soule in thy life, and see what is euill for it, and permit it not to doe it.

27 For all things are not profitable for all men, neither hath euery soule pleasure in euery thing.

28 Bee not so greedy in all delights, and bee not too hastie vpon all meates.

29 ¶ For excess of meates bringeth sickness, and gluttony commeth into cholerick diseases.

30 By suffer haue many perished: but he that dieteth himselfe, prolongeth his life.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

1 A Physician is commendable, 16 To bury the dead. 24 The wisdom of him that is learned.

Honour the Physician with that hono[r] that is due vnto him, because of necessitie: for the Lord hath created him.

2 For of the most High commeth healing, and he shall receiue gifts of the king.

3 The knowledge of the Physician lieth vp his head, and in the sight of great men hee shall be in admiration.

4 The Lord hath created medicines of the earth, and hee that is wise, will not abhorre them.

5 ¶ Alas not the water made sweete with wood, that men might know the vertue thereof?

6 So he hath giuen men knowledge, that he might be glorified in his wondrous workes.

7 Which such doth hee heale men, and taketh away their paines.

8 Of such doth the Apothecary make a confession, & yet hee cannot finish his owne workes: for of the Lord commeth prosperitie and wealth ouer all the earth.

9 ¶ By sorow, faile not in thy sicknesse, but pray vnto the Lord, and he will make thee whole.

10 Leane off from sinne, & order thine hands aright, and cleanse thine heart from all wickednesse.

11 Offer sweete incense, and fine flour for a remembrance: make the offering fat, for thou art not the first giuer.

12 Then giue place to the Physician: for the Lord hath created him: let him not goe from thee, for thou hast need of him.

13 The house may come, that their enterprises may haue good successe.

14 For they also shall pray vnto the Lord, that hee would prosper that, which is giuen for sale, and their phisicke for the prolonging of life.

15 ¶ See that sinkest before his maker, let him fall into the hands of the Physician.

16 ¶ By sorow, powre forth teares ouer the dead, & begin to mourne, as if thou haddest suffered great harme thy selfe, and then couer his body according to his appointment, and neglect not his buriall.

17 Make a grievous lamentation, & bee earnest in mourning, and vse lamentation, as hee is worthy, and that a day or two, least thou be euill spoken of, and then comfort thy selfe for thine heauinesse.

18 ¶ For of heauinesse commeth death, & the heauinesse of the heart breaketh the strength.

19 Of the affection of the heart commeth sorow, and the life of him that is afflicted, is according to his heart.

20 Take no heauinesse to heart: dye in it a way and remember the last end.

21 Forget it not: for there is no turning againe: thou shalt doe him no good but hurt thy selfe.

22 Remember his iudgement: that also shall be likewise, vnto me yesterday, and vnto thee to day.

23 ¶ Seeing the dead is at rest, let his remembrance rest, and comfort thy selfe againe for him, when his spirit is departed from him.

24 ¶ The wisdom of a learned man commeth by v[er]y well his vacant time: and he that ceaseth from his owne matters and labour, may come by wisdom.

25 How can hee get wisdom that holdeth the plough, and hee that hath pleasure in the goad, and in driving oxen, and is occupied in their labours, and talketh but of the breede of bullockes?

28 The Smith in like maner abiderh by his anvil and doth his diligence to labour the yron: the vapor of the fire drieth his flesh, and hee must fight with the heate of the fornaie: the noise of the hammer is euer in his eares, & his eyes looke still vpon the thing that hee maketh: hee setteth his minde to make vp his workes: therefore hee watcheth to polishe it perfectly.

29 So dooth the potter sit by his worke: hee turneth the wheele about with his feete: hee is carefull alway at his worke, and maketh his worke by number.

30 He fasteneth the clay with his arme, and with his feete bettempereth the hardnesse thereof: his heart imagineth howe to couer it with leade, and his diligence is to cleanse the oven.

31 All these hope in their handes, and euerie one belloether his wisdom in his worke.

32 Without these cannot the cities be maintained, nor in habited nor occupied.

33 And yet they are not asked their iudgement in the councill of the people, neither are they hie in the congregation, neither sit they vpon the iudgement seates, nor vnderstand the order of iustice: they cannot declare matters according to the forme of the Law, and they are not meete for hard matters.

34 But they maintain the state of the world, and their desire is concerning their worke and occupation.

CHAP. XXXIX.

1 A wise man. 16 The workes of God. 24 Vnto the good, good things pertaine, but vnto the euill, euill good things are euill.

Honely that applieth his minde to the Law of the most High, and is occupied in the meditation thereof, seeketh out the wisdom of all the ancient, and exerciseth himselfe in the prophesies.

2 Hee keepeth the sayings of famous men, and curerh in also to the secrets of darke sentences.

3 He seeketh out the myserie of graue sentences, and exerciseth himselfe in darke parables.

4 He shall come among great men, and appeare before the prince: he shall traualle through strange countreies: for hee hath tryed the good and the euill among men.

5 He will giue his heart to resort early vnto the Lord that made him, and to pray before the most High, and will open his mouth in prayer, and pray for his sinnes.

6 When the great Lord will, he shall be filled with the Spirit of vnderstanding, that hee may powre out wise sentences, and giue thanks vnto the Lord in his prayer.

7 He shall direct his counsell and knowledge: so shall he meditate in his secrets.

8 Hee shall knowe forth his science and learning, and reioyce in the Law and commandment of the Lord.

9 Many shall commend his vnderstanding, and his memory shall neuer be put out, nor depart away: but his name shall continue from generation to generation.

10 The congregation shall declare his wisdom. Chap. 44. 15.

11 Though he be dead, hee shall leaue a greater fame then a thousand: and if hee liue still, hee shall get the same.

12 Yet will I speake of moer things: for I am full as the moon.

13 Hearken vnto mee, ye holy children, and bring forth fruit as the rose that is planted by the brookes of the field,

14 And giue ye a sweet smell as Incense, and bring forth flowers as the lillie: giue a smell, and sing a song of prayse: blese the Lord in all his workes. Or, Libanus,

15 Giue honour vnto his name, and shew forth his prayse with the songs of your lippes, and with harpes, and ye shall say after this manner, 16 All the workes of the Lord are exceeding good, and all his commandements are done in due season. Gen. 1. 31. mar. 7. 37.

17 And none may say, What is this, wherefore is that? for at time commeth, they shall all be sought out: at his commandement the water stood as an heape, and at the word of his mouth the waters gathered themselves.

18 His whole fauour appeared by his commandement, and none can diminish that which he will saue.

19 The workes of all flesh are before him, and nothing can be hid from his eyes.

20 Hee seeth from everlasting to everlasting, and there is nothing wonderfull vnto him.

21 A man neede not to say, What is this? wherefore is that? for hee hath made all things for their owne vse.

22 His blessing shall run ouer as the streame, and mousten the earth like a flood.

23 As hee hath turned the waters into salt, so shall the heathen feele his wrath.

24 As his wayes are plaine and right vnto the iust, so are they stumbling blockes to the wicked.

25 For the good are good things created from the beginning, and euill things for the sinners.

26 The principall things for the whole vse of mans life is water, fire, and yron, and salt, and meale, wheate and hony, and milke, the blood of the grape, and oyle, and clothing. Chap. 39. 23.

27 All these things are for good to the godly: but to the sinners they are turned vnto euill.

28 There be spirits that are created for vengeance, which in their rigor lay on sure strokes: in the time of destruction they shew forth their power, and accomplish the wrath of him that made them.

29 Fire, and halle, and famine, and death: all these are created for vengeance. Chap. 40. 9, 10.

30 The teeth of wilde beasts, & the scorpions, and the serpents, and the sword execute vengeance for the destruction of the wicked.

31 They shall be glad to doe his commandments: and when need is, they shall be ready vpon earth: and when their houre is come, they shall not ouer passe the commandement.

32 Therefore haue I taken a good courage vnto me from the beginning, and haue thought on these things, and put them in writing.

33 All the works of the Lord are good, and hee giueth euerie one in due season, and when neede is:

34 So that a man need not to say, This is worse then that: for in due season they are all worthy praise.

35 And therefore praise the Lord with whole heart and mouth, and blesse the Name of the Lord.

CHAP. XL.

1 Many miseries in mans life. 2 Of the blessing of the righteous, and prerogative of the feare of God.

† The miseries of mans life.

Great † trauell is created for all men, and an heauie yoke vpon the sonnes of Adam from the day that they go out of their mothers wombe till the day that they returne to the mother of all things.

2 Namely, their thoughts, a feare of the heart, and their imagination of the things they waite for, and the day of death.

3 From him that sitteth vpon the glorious throne, vnto him that is beneath in the earth and ashes:

4 From him that is clothed in blue like, and weareth a crowne, vnto him that is clothed in simple tinnen.

5 Wrath and enue, trouble and vnquietnes, and feare of death, and rigour and strife, and in the time of rest, the sleepe in the night vpon his bed, change his knowledge.

6 A little of nothing is his rest, and afterward in sleeping he is as in a watchtowe in the day: he is troubled with the visions of his heart, as one that runneth out of a battell.

7 And when all is safe, he awaketh, and marvelleth that the feare was nothing.

8 Such things come vnto all flesh, both man and beaſt, but seuen fold to the vngodly.

13 The substance of the vngodly shall be dyed by like a riuier, and they shall make a sound like a great thunder in the raine.

14 When he openeth his hand, he reioyce: but all the transgressours shall come to nought.

15 The children of the vngodly shall not obtaine many branches: for the vncleane roots are as vpon the high rocks.

18 To labour and bee content with that a man hath, is a sweet life: but hee that findeth a treasure is aboute them both.

19 Children, and the building of the city maketh a perpetuall name: but an honest woman is counted aboute them both.

20 Wine and musicks reioyce the heart: but the lone of wisdom is aboute them both.

21 The pipe and the psalterion make a sweet noyse: but a pleasant tongue is aboute them both.

22 Thine eye desireth fauour and beauty: but a greene seede time rather then them both.

23 A friend and companion come together at opportunitie: but aboute them both is a wife with her husband.

24 Friends and helpe are good in the time of trouble: but almes shall deliuer more then them both.

25 Gold and siluer fasten the feet: but counsell is esteemed aboute them both.

26 Riches and strength lift vp the mind: but the feare of the Lord is aboute them both: there is no want in the feare of the Lord, and it needeth no helpe.

27 The feare of the Lord is a pleasant garden of blessing, and there is nothing so beautifull as it is.

28 If by somme, leade not a beggars life: for better it were to die then to begge.

29 The life of him that dependeth on another mans table, is not to be counted for a life: for hee tormenteth himselfe after other mens meate: but a wise man and wellnurtured will beware thereof.

30 Begging is sweet in the mouth of the vnshamefast, and in his belly there burneth a fire.

CHAP. XLI.

1 Of the remembrance of death. 3 Death is not to be feared. 8 A curse vpon them that forsake the Law of God. 12 Good name and fame. 14 An exhortation to giue heede vnto wisdom. 17 Of what things a man ought to be ashamed.

Of death. O † Death how bitter is the remembrance of thee to a man that liueth at rest in his possessions, vnto the man that hath nothing to beere him, and that hath prosperitie in all things: yea, vnto him that yet is able to receiue meate!

2 O death, how acceptable is thy iudgement vnto the needfull, and vnto him whose strength faileth, and that is now in the last age, and is vexed with all things, and to him that despaireth, and hath lost patience!

3 Feare not the iudgement of death, remember them that haue bene before thee, and that come after: this is the ordinance of the Lord ouer all flesh.

4 And why wouldest thou bee against the pleasure of the most High: whether it be ten, or an hundred, or a thousand yeeres, there is no defence for life against the graue.

5 The children of the vngodly are abominable children, and so are they that keepe company with the vngodly.

6 The inheritance of vngodly children shall perish, and their posterity shall haue a perpetuall shame.

7 The children complaine of an vngodly father, because they are reioyced for his sake.

8 Doe bee vnto you, O ye vngodly, which haue forsaken the Law of the most High God: for though you increase, yet shall you perish.

9 If ye be borne, ye shall be borne to cursing: if ye die the curse shall be your portion.

10 All that is of the earth, shall turne to earth againe: Chap. 40. 11 again: so the vngodly goe from the curse to destruction.

11 Though men mourne for their body, yet the wicked name of the vngodly shall be put out.

12 Haue regard to thy name: for that shall continue with thee about a thousand treasures of gold.

13 A good life hath the dayes numbered: but a good name endureth for ever.

14 My children, keepe wisdom in peace: for wisdom that is hid, and a treasure that is not seene, what profit is in them both?

15 A man that hideth his foolishnesse, is better then a man that hideth his wisdom.

16 Therefore beare reuerence vnto my words: for it is not good in all things to be ashamed: neither are all things allowed as faithfull in all men.

17 Bee ashamed of whoredome before father and mother, be ashamed of lies before the prince and men of authoritie:

18 Of sinne before the iudge and ruler: of offence before the congregation and people: of vnrightheousnesse before a companion and friend.

19 And of these before the place where thou dwellest, and before the trueth of God and his Covenant, and to leane with thine elbows vpon the bread, or to be reprovod for giuing or taking,

20 And of silence vnto them that salute thee, and to looke vpon an harlot,

21 And to turne away thy face from the king: man: or to take away a portion, or a gift, or to bee euill minded toward another mans wife,

22 Or to sollicite any mans maide, or to stand by her bedde, or to reproch thy friendes with words, 23 Or to vphraid when thou giuest any thing, or to report a matter that thou hast heard, or to reueale secret words.

24 Thus mayest thou well be shamefast, and shalt finde fauour with all men.

CHAP. XLII.

2 The Law of God must be taught, 9 A daughter, 14 A woman, 18 God knoweth all things, yea, euen the secrets of thine heart.

Of these things be not thou ashamed, neither haue regard to offend for any person:

2 Of the Law of the most High and his Covenant, and of iudgement to iustifie the godly:

3 Of the cause of thy companion, & of strangers, or of distributing the heritage among friends:

4 To be diligent to keepe true balance, and weight, whether thou haue much or little:

5 To sell merchandise at an indifferent price, and to correct thy children diligently, and to beate an euill seruant to the blood:

6 To set a good locke where an euil wife is, and to locke where many hands are,

7 If thou giue any thing by number, and weight, to put all in writing, both that that is giuen out, and that that is receiued againe:

8 To teach the vnlarned, and the vniwise, and the aged, that contend against the young: thus shalt thou be well instructed, and approued of all men liuing.

9 The daughter maketh the father to watch secretly, and the carefulnesse that hee hath for her, taketh away his sleep in the night, lest she should passe the flower of her age: and when she hath an husband, lest she should be hated.

10 In her virginittie, lest she should be defiled, or gotten with childe in her fathers house, and, when she is with her husband, lest she misbehave her selfe: and when she is married, lest she continue vnfruitfull.

11 If thy daughter bee vnshamefast, keepe her straitly, lest she cause thine enemies to laugh thee to scorne, and make thee a common talke in the circle, and defame thee among the people, and bring thee to publike shame.

12 Behold not every bodys beautie, and company not among women.

13 For as the moth cometh out of garments: so doeth wickednesse of the woman.

14 The wickednesse of a man is better then the good intreacie of a woman, to wit, of a woman that is in shame and reproch.

15 I will remember the workes of the Lord, and declare the thing that I haue seene: by the word of the Lord are his workes.

16 The Sunne that shineth, looketh vpon all things, and all the worke thereof is full of the glory of the Lord.

17 Hath not the Lord appointed that his saints should declare all his wondrous workes, which the Almighty Lord hath established to confirme all things by in his Majesty?

18 Hee seeketh out the depth, and the heart, and hee knoweth their practises: for the Lord knoweth all science, and he beholdeth the signes of the world.

19 He declareth the things that are past, and for to come, and discloleth the paths of things that are secret.

20 No thought may escape him, neither may any word be hid from him.

21 He hath garnished the excellent workes of his wisdom, and hee is from euerlasting to euerlasting, and for euer: vnto him may nothing be added, neither can hee be minished: hee hath no neede of any counsellor.

22 Oh, how delectable are all his workes, and to be considered euen vnto the sparkes of fire!

23 They liue all and endure for euer: and whensoever need is, they are all obedient.

24 They are all double one against another: he hath made nothing that hath any fault.

25 The one commendeth the goodnesse of the other, and who can bee satisfied with beholding Gods glory?

The summe of the creation of the workes of God.

4 The Sunne burneth the mountaines three times more then hee that keepeth a fornaice with continuall heate: it cautereth our the fiery vapours, and with the shining beames blinderh the eyes.

16 The mountaines leape at the sight of him: the South wind bloweth according to his will.

17 The sound of his thunder beatech the earth: so doeth the Roome of the North, the whirlewind also, as birds that flie, scattereth the snow, and the falling downe thereof is as the grasshoppers that light downe.

18 The eye maruellet at the beautie of the whitenesse thereof, and the heart is astonished at the raine of it.

21 It deuoureth the mountaines, and burneth the wilderness, and destroyeth that that is greene like fire.

CHAP. XLIIII.

The praise of certaine holy men, Enoch, Noe, Abraham, Isaac and Iacob.

Let vs now commend the famous men, and our fathers, of whom we are begotten.

2 The Lord hath gotten great glory by them, and that through his great power from the beginning.

3 They haue borne rule in their kingdomes, and were renowned for their power, and were wise in counsell, and declared propheties.

Exod. 18. 27.

4 * They gouerned the people by counsell, and by the knowledge of learning merre for the people, in whose doctrine were wise sentences.

5 They inuented the melodie of musicke, and expounded the verses that were written.

6 They were rich and mighty in power, and liued quietly at home.

7 All these were honourable men in their generations, and were well reported of in their times.

8 There are of them that haue left a name behinde them, so that their praise shall bee spoken of.

9 There are some also which haue no memoriall, * and are perished as though they had neuer bene, and are become as though they had neuer bene borne, and their children after them.

Gen. 7. 22.

10 But the former were merciful men, whose righteousness hath not bene forgotten.

11 For whose posterity a good inheritance is reserved, and their seed is contained in the covenant.

12 Their stocke is contained in the covenant, and their posterity after them.

13 Their seed shall remaine for euer, and their praise shall neuer be taken away.

14 Their bodies are buried in peace, but their name liueth for euermore.

13 Before him were there no such faire ornaments: there might no stranger put them on but onely his children, and his childrens children perpetually.

14 Their sacrifices were wholly consumed, every day twise continually.

15 Moyses filled * his hands, and anoynted him with holy oyle: this was appointed vnto him by an euertlasting covenant, and to his seede so long as the heauens should remaine, that hee should minister before him, and also to execute the office of the Priesthood, and blesse his people in his name.

16 Before all men liuing the Lord chose him that he should present offerings before him, and a sweet saoure for a remembrance to make reconciliation for his people.

God giue vs wisdom in our heart to iudge his people in righteousnesse, that the good things that they haue, be not abolished, and that their glory may endure for their posteritie.

Iosue † the sonne of Nane was valliant in the warres, & was the successor of Moyses in prophesie, who according vnto his name was a great saunter of the elect of God, to take vengeance of the enemies that rose vp against them, and to set Israel in their inheritance.

7 * In the time of Moyles also he did a good worke: he and Caleb the sonne of Iephunne, stoode against the enemy and withheld the people from sinne, and appeased the wicked murmuring.

8 * And of sixe hundred thousand people of foote, they two were preferred to bring them into the heritage, euen into the land that floweth with milke and hony.

9 * The Lord gaue strength also vnto Caleb, which remained with him vnto his old age, so that hee went vp into the high places of the land, and his seed obtained it for an heritage.

10 That all the children of Israel might see, that it is good to follow the Lord.

11 Concerning the Judges, every one by sed.

loued of the Lord, ordained kings, and anointed fulnesse, and hee was knowne faithfull in his words and visions.

16 * Hee called vpon the Lord Almighty, when his enemies pressed vpon him on euery side, when he offered the sucking lambe.

17 And the Lord thundred from heauen, and made his voyce to be heard with a great noyse.

18 So hee discomfited the princes of the Ty-rians, and all the rulers of the Philistines.

19 * And before his long sleepe he made pro-testation in the sight of the Lord, and his anointed, that hee tooke no substance of any man, no not so much as a shooe, and no man could accuse him.

20 * After his sleepe also hee told of the kings death, and from the earth lift he vp his voyce, and prophesied that the wickednesse of the people should perish.

CHAP. XLVII.

The praise of Nathan, David, and Salomon.

After him rose vp † Nathan to prophete in the time of Dauid.

2 For as the fat is taken away from the peace offering, so was † Dauid chosen out of the children of Israel.

3 * Hee played with the Lions, as with kids, and with beares as with lambes.

4 * Slewe he not a giant when he was yet but yong, and tooke away the rebuke from the people, when hee lift vp his hand with the stone in the sling, to beat downe the pride of Goliath?

5 For hee called vpon the most High Lord, which gaue him strength in his right hand, to slay that mighty warrour, and that he might see vp the horne of his people againe.

6 * So hee gaue him the praise of ten thousand, and honoured him with great praises, and gaue him a crowne of glory.

7 * For hee destroyed the enemies on euery side, and rooted out the Philistines his aduer-saries, and brake their hoine in sunder vnto this day.

8 In all his workes hee praised the Holy one, and the most High with honourable words, and with his whole heart hee sung songs, and loued him that made him.

9 * Hee set fingers also befoze the altar, and according to their time hee made sweete songs, that they might praise God dayly with their songs.

10 He ordained to keepe the feast dayes comly, and appointed the times perfectly, that they might praise the holy Name of God, and make the Temple to sound in the morning.

11 * The Lord tooke away his sinnes, and exalted his horne for euer: hee gaue him the couenant of the kingdome, and the throne of glory in Israel.

12 After him rose vp a wise sonne, who by him dwelt in a large possession.

13 † Salomon reigned in a peaceable time, and was glorious: for God made all quiet round about, that he might build an house in his name, and prepare the Sanctuary for euer.

14 * How wise wast thou in thy youth, a wast filled with vnderstanding as with a flood?

15 Thy mind couered the whole earth, a hath filled it with graue and darke sentences.

16 Thy name went abroad in the ples, and for thy peace thou was beloued.

17 * The countreys marvelled at thee, for thy songs, and proverbes, and similitudes, and interpretations.

18 By the Name of the Lord God, which is called the God of Israel, thou hast gathered gold as sinne, and hast had as much siluer as lead.

19 * Thou diddest bow thy loynes to women, and wast overcome by thy body.

20 Thou diddest stayne thine honour, and hast defiled thy posteritie, a hast brought wrath vpon thy children, and hast felt sorrow for thy folly.

21 * So the kingdome was disluded, and Ephraim began to be a rebellious kingdome.

22 * Reuerthlesse, the Lord left not off his mercie, neither was he destroyed for his workes:
neither did hee abolish the posterity of his elect, nor tooke away the seede of him that loued him, but he left a remnant vnto Jacob, and a roote of him vnto Dauid.

23 Thus rested Salomon with his fathers, and of his seed he left behind him † Roboam, a uen the foolishnesse of the people, a one that had no vnderstanding, who turned away the people through his counsell, and † Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat, which caused Israel to sinne, and shewed Ephraim the way of sinne.

24 So that their sinnes were so much increased, that they were driuen out of the land.

25 For they sought out all wickednesse, till the vengeance came vpon them.

CHAP. XLVIII.

The praise of Elias, Elizaua, Ezekias and Ihuas.

Then stood vp † Elias the Prophet as a fire, and his word burnt like a lampe.

2 He brought a famine vpon them, and by his zeale hee diminished them: [for they might not away with the commaundements of the Lord.]

3 By the word of the Lord hee shut the heauen, and * three times brought hee the fire from heauen.

4 O Elias, how honourable art thou by thy wondrous deeds! who may make his boast to be like thee!

5 Which hast raised vp the dead from death, and by the word of the most High out of the graue:

6 Which hast brought Kings vnto destruction, and the honourable from their seate:

7 Which hearest the rebuke of the Lord in Sina, * and in Horeb the iudgement of the vengeance:

8 * Which diddest anoint Kings, that they might recompense, and Prophets to be thy lucifers:

9 * Which wast taken vp in a whirlewind of fire, and in a chariot of fiery horses:

10 Which wast appointed * to reprove in due season, & to pacifie the wrath of the Lords iudgement before it kindled, and to turne the hearts of the fathers vnto the children, and to set vp the tribes of Jacob.

11 Blessed were they that saw thee, and slept in loue: for * we shall liue.

12 * When Elias was couered with storme, † Elzeus was killed with his spirit: while he liued, he was not moued for any Prince, neither could any bring him into subiection.

13 Nothing could ouercome him, * and after his death his body prophesied.

14 He did wonders in his life, and in death were his workes maruillous.

15 For all this the people repented not, neither departed they from their sinnes, * till they were caried away prisoners out of their land, and were scattered through all the earth, so that there remained but a very few people with the prince vnto the house of David.

16 Howbeit some of them did right, and some heaped vp sinnes.

17 † * Ezekias made his citie strong, and conueyed water into the mids thereof: hee digged thow the rocke with yron, and made fountains for waters.

18 * In his time came Sennacherib vp, and sent Rablases, and lift vp his hand against Sion, and boasted proudly.

19 Then trembled their hearts and hands, so that they sorrowed like a woman in trauell.

20 But they called vpon the Lord, which is mercifull, and lift vp their hands vnto him, and immediately the holy One heard them out of heauen.

21 [Wee thought no more vpon their sinnes, nor gaue them ouer to their enemies,] but deliuered them by the hand of Elai.

22 * He smote the hoste of the Assyrians, and his Angel destroyed them.

23 For Ezekias had done the thing that pleased the Lord, and remained stedfastly in the wayes of Dauid his father, as † Elai the great Prophet and faithfull in his vision had commaunded him.

24 * In his time the Sunne went backward, and he lengthened the Kings life.

25 We saw by an excellent spirit what should come to passe at the last, and he comforted them that were sorrowfull in Sion.

26 Wee shewed what should come to passe for euer, and secret things of euer they came to passe.

CHAP. XLIX.

Of Iosias, Hezekiah, David, Ieremie, Ezekiel, Zerobabel, Iesus, Nehemias, Enoch, Ioseph, Sem and Seth.

The remembrance of † * Iosias is like the composition of the perfume that is made by the arte of the Apothecary: it is sweete as honie in all moutches, and as musicke at a banquet of wine.

2 He behaued himselfe vprightly in the reformation of the people, and tooke away all abominations of iniquitie.

3 He * directed his heart vnto the Lord, & in the time of the vngodly he established religion.

4 All, except Dauid, and Ezekias, and Iosias, committed wickednes: for euen the kings of Iuda forooke the Law of the most High, and failed.

5 Therefore he gaue their // home vnto other, // and their honour to a strange nation.

6 He burnt the elect citie of the Sanctuary, and * destroyed the streets thereof according to the // prophesie of Ieremias.

7 For they * intreated him euill, which neuertheless was a Prophet, sanctified from his mothers wombe, that he might root out, and afflict, and destroy, and that he might also build vp and plant.

8 * Ezekiel saw the glorious vision, which was shewed him vpon the chariot of the Cherubims.

9 * For he made mention of the enemies vnder the figure of the raine, and directed them that went right.

10 * And let the bones of the twelue Prophets flourish out of their place, and let their memory be blessed: for they comforted Iacob, and deliuered them by assured hope.

11 * How shal we praise † Zerobabel, which was a ring on the right hand!

12 So was † Iesus also the sonne of Iosedec: these men in their time builded the house, and set vp the Sanctuary of the Lord againe, which was prepared for an everlasting worship.

13 * And among the elect was † Nehemias whose renoune is great, which set vp for vs the walles that were fallen, and set vp the gates and the bars, and laid the foundations of our house.

14 [But vpon the earth was no man created like † Enoch: for he was taken vp from the earth.]

3 In his dayes the places to receiue water, that were decayed, were eshored, and the brasse was about in measure as the Sea.
a Which Salomon made,
1. king 7. 23.

4 Hee tooke care for his people, that they should not fall, and fortified the cite against the siege.

5 How honorable was his conuersation among the people, and when hee came out of the house couered with the vaille!

6 He was as the morning starre in the mids of a cloud, and as the Moone when it is full,

7 And as the Sunne shining vpon the Temple of the most High, and as the rainebowe that is bright in the faire clouds,

8 And as the flower of the roses in the spring of the pere, and as lillies by the springs of waters, and as the branches of the frankincense tree in the time of Summer,

9 As a fire and incense in the center, and as a vessell of masse gold set with all maner of precious stones,

10 And as a faire olive tree that is fruit full, and as a cypresse tree, which groweth by to the clouds.

11 When hee put on the garment of honour, and was clothed with all beauty, hee went vnto the holy Altar, and made the garment of holines honourable.

12 When hee tooke the portions out of the Priests hands, he himselfe stood by the hearth of the altar, compassed with his brethren round about, as the branches doe the cedar tree in Libanus, and they compassed him as the branches of the palme trees.

13 So were all the sonnes of Aaron in their glory, & the oblations of the Lord in their hands before all the congregation of Israel.

14 And that hee might accomplish his ministration vpon the altar, and garnish the offering of the most High and Almighty, 15 He stretched out his hand to the drinke of fering, & powred of the blood of the grape, and hee powred at the foot of the altar a perfume of good sauour vnto the most High king of all.

16 Then shouted the sonnes of Aaron, and blowed with brazen trumpets, and made a great noise to be heard, for a remembrance before the most High.

17 Then all the people together hastened, and fell downe to the earth vpon their faces to worship their Lord God Almighty and most High.

18 The singers also sang with their voices, so that the sound was great, and the melody sweet.

19 And the people prayed vnto the Lord most High, with prayer before him that is mercifull, till the honour of the Lord were performed, and they had accomplished his seruice.

20 Then went hee downe, and stretched out his hands ouer the whole Congregation of the children of Israel, that they should giue praise with their lips vnto the Lord, and reioyce in his Name.

21 He began againe to worship, that he might receiue the blessing of the most High.

22 Now therefore giue praise all ye vnto God, that worketh great things euery where, which hath increased our dayes from the wombe, and dealt with vs according to his mercie,

23 That he would giue vs ioyfulness of heart, and peace in our dayes in Israel, as in old time, 24 That he would confirme his mercy with vs, and deliuer vs at his time.

25 There be two maner of people that my heart abhorreth, and the third is no people:

26 They that sit vpon the mountaine of Samaria, the Philistines, and the foolish people that dwell in Sicinus.

27 Iesus the sonne of Sirach, the sonne of Eleazarus of Ierusalem, hath writen the doctrine of vnderstanding, and knowledge in this booke, and hath powred out the wisdom of his heart.

28 Blessed is hee that exerciseth himselfe therein: and he that layeth by these in his heart shall be wise.

29 For if he do these things, he shall be strong in all things: for he setteth his steps in the light of the Lord, which giueth wisdom to the godly. The Lord be praised for euermore. So be it to be it.

CHAP. II.

A prayer of Iesus the sonne of Sirach.

I will confesse thee, O Lord and King, and I praise thee, O God my Saviour: I will giue thanks vnto thy Name.

2 For thou art my defender and helper, and hast preferred my body from destruction, & from the snare of the slanderous tongue, & from the lips that are occupied with lies: thou hast holpen me against mine aduersaries,

3 And hast deliuered mee according to the multitude of thy mercy, & for thy Names sake, from the roaring of them that were ready to deuoure me, and out of the hands of such as sought after my life, and from the manifold afflictions which I had.

4 And from the fire that choked me round about, and from the mids of the fire that I burned not.

5 And from the bottome of the belly of hell, from an uncleane tongue, from lying wordes, from false accusation to the king, and from the slander of an vnrightrous tongue.

6 My soule shall praise the Lorde vnto death: for my soule drew neere vnto death: my life was neere to the hell beneath.

7 They compassed mee on every side, & there was no man to helpe mee: I looked for the succour of men, but there was none.

8 Then thought I vpon thy mercy, O Lord, and vpon thine acts of olde, how thou deliuerest such as wait for thee, and sanest them out of the hands of the enemies.

Or, nations.

9 Then lifted I up my prayer from the earth and prayed for deliuerance from death.

10 I called vpon the Lord, the Father of my Lord, that he would not leaue me in the day of my trouble, and in the time of the prouid, without helpe.

11 I will praise thy Name continually, and will sing praise with thanksgiving: and my prayer was heard.

12 Thou savedst me from destruction, and deliueredst me from the euill time: therefore will I giue thanks, and praise thee, and blesse the name of the Lord.

13 When I was yet young, or euer I went abroad, abroad, I desired wisdom openly in my prayer.

14 I prayed for her before the Temple, and sought after her unto farre countries, & she was as a grape that wareth ripe out of the flower.

15 Mine heart reioyced in her: my foot walked in the right way, & from my youth vp sought I after her.

16 I bowed some what downe mine eare, and receiued her, and gate me much wisdom:

17 And I produced by her: therefore will I ascribe the glory vnto him, that giueth me wisdom.

18 For I am aduised to doe thereafter: I will bee zealous of that that is good: so shall I not be confounded.

19 My soule hath wrestled with her, and I haue examined my woakes: I lifted vp mine hands on high, and considered the ignorances thereof.

20 I directed my soule vnto her, and I found her in purenesse: I haue had mine heart toynd with her from the beginning: therefore shall I not be forsaken.

21 My bowels are troubled in seeking her: therefore haue I gotten a good possession.

22 The Lord hath giuen me a tongue for my reward, wherewith I will praise him.

23 Draw neere vnto mee, yee vnderlearned, and dwell in the house of learning.

24 Wherefore are yee slowe? and what say you of these things? seeing your soules are very thirstie?

25 I opened my mouth and said, * Buy her for you without money. Isa. 55. 1.

26 Bow downe your necke vnder the yoke, and your soule shall receiue instruction: shee is ready that ye may find her.

27 Beholde with your eyes, * how that I haue had but little labour, and haue gotten vnto me much rest. Chap. 6. 18.

28 Get learning with a great summe of money: for by her yee shall possesse much gold.

29 Let your soule reioyce in the mercy of the Lord, and be not ashamed of his praise.

30 Doe your duty betimes, and he will giue you a reward at his time.

Baruch.

CHAP. I.

1 Baruch wrote a booke during the captivity of Babylon, which he read before Iechoniah and all the people. 10 The Iewes sent the booke with money vnto Ierusalem to their other brethren, to the intent that they should pray for them.

And these are the words of the booke, which Baruch the son of Nerias, the son of Maaias the son of Sedecias, the sonne of Helcias wrote in at Babylon,

2 In the fift yere, and in the seuenth day of the moneth, what time as the Chaldeans tooke Ierusalem, and burnt it with fire.

3 And Baruch did reade the words of this booke, that Iechonias the sonne of Ioaquin king of Iuda might heare, and all the people that were come to heare the booke.

4 And in the audience of the gouernour, and of the kings sonnes, and before the Elders, and before the whole people, from the lowest vnto the highest, before all them that dwelt at Babylon by the river || Sud.

5 Which when they heard it, wept, fasted, and made prayers before the Lord.

6 They made a collection also of money, according to euery mans power.

7 And sent it to Ierusalem vnto Ioaquin the sonne of Helcias the sonne of Salom Priest, and vnto the other priests, & to all the people, which were with him at Ierusalem.

8 When hee had receiued the vessels of the Temple of the Lord, that were taken away out of the Temple, to bring them againe into the land of Iuda, the tenth day of the moneth || Sivan, to wit, silver vessels, which Sedecias the sonne of Iosias king of Iuda had made.

9 After that Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon had lede away Iechonias from Ierusalem, and his Princes and his Nobles, prisoners, and the people, and caried them to Babylon.

10 And they said, Behold, wee haue sent you money, wherewith yee shall buy burnt offerings for sin, and incense, & prepare a || meate offering, and offer vpon the altar of the Lord our God,

11 And pray for the life of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, and for the life of Baltasar his sonne, that their dayes may be vpon earth, as the dayes of heauen.

12 And that God would giue vs strength and lighten our eyes, that wee may liue vnder the shadow of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, and vnder the shadow of Baltasar his son, that we may long doe them seruice, and find fauour in their sight.

13 Pray for vs also vnto the Lord our God, for wee haue sinned against the Lord our God, and vnto this day the fury of the Lord, and his wrath is not turned from vs.

14 And reade this booke (which wee haue sent to you to be rehearsed in the Temple of the Lord) vpon the feast dayes, and at time conuenient.

15 Thus shall yee say, * To the Lord our God belongeth righteousness, but vnto vs the confusion of our faces, as it is come to passe this day vnto them of Iuda, and to the inhabitants of Ierusalem, Chap. 2. 6.

16 And to our Kings and to our princes, and to our priests, and to our prophets, and to our fathers.

17 Because we haue * sinned before the Lord our God. Dan. 9. 5.

18 And haue not obeyed him, neither hearkened vnto the voyce of the Lord our God, to walke in the commandments that hee gaue vs openly.

19 From the day that the Lord brought our fathers out of the land of Egypt, euen vnto this day, we haue bin disobedient vnto the Lord our God, and wee haue bene negligent to heare his voyce.

20 * Wherefore these plagues are come vpon vs, and the curse which the Lord appointed by Moyses his servant at the time that hee brought our Fathers out of the land of Egypt, to giue vs a land that floweth with milke and hony, as appeareth this day.

21 Neuertheless, we haue not hearkened vnto the voyce of the Lord our God, according to all the words of the Prophets, whom hee sent vnto vs.

22 But every one of vs followed the wicked imagination of his owne heart, to serue strange gods, and to doe euill in the sight of the Lord our God.

CHAP. II.

1 The Iewes confesse that they suffer iustly for their sinnes. The true confession of the Christians. 11 The Iewes desire to haue the wrath of God turned from them. 32 He promisseth that he will call againe the people from captiuitie, and giue them a new and euertlasting Testament.

Wherefore the Lord our God hath performed this word, which hee pronounced against vs, and against our Judges that governed Israel, and against our Kings, and against our Princes, and against the men of Israel and Iuda.

2 To bring vpon vs great plagues, such as neuer came to passe vnder the whole heauen, as they that were done in Ierusalem, according to things, that were written in the law of Moyses.

Dent. 28. 53.

3 That some among vs should eat the flesh of his owne sonne, and some the flesh of his owne daughter.

4 Moreover, he hath deliuered them to be in subiection to all the kingdomes that are round about vs, to be as a reproch & desolation among all the people round about where the Lord hath scattered them.

5 Thus they are brought beneath, and not above, because we haue sinned against the Lord our God, and haue not heard his voyce.

Chap. 1. 15.

6 * To the Lord our God appeereth righteousness, but vnto vs and to our fathers open shame, as appeareth this day.

7 For all these plagues are come vpon vs, which the Lord hath pronounced against vs.

8 Yet haue we not prayed before the Lord, that we might turne euer one from the imaginations of his owne wicked heart.

9 So the Lord hath watched ouer the plagues, and the Lord hath brought them vpon vs: for the Lord is righteous in all his workes, which he hath commanded vs.

10 Per we haue not hearkened vnto his voyce, to walke in the Commandments of the Lord, that he hath giuen vnto vs.

Dan. 9. 15.

11 * And now, O Lord God of Israel, that hast brought thy people out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand, and an hie arme, and with signes, and with wonders, and with great power, and hast gotten thy selfe a Name, as appeareth this day, 12 O Lord our God, we haue sinned, we haue done wickedly: we haue offended in all thine ordinances.

13 Let thy wrath turne from vs: for we are but a few left among the heathen, where thou hast scattered vs.

14 Heare our prayers, O Lord, and our petitions, and deliuer vs for thine owne sake, and giue vs fauour in the sight of thine, which haue led vs away, 15 That all the earth may know that thou art the Lord our God, & that thy Name is called vpon Israel, and vpon their posteritie.

16 Therefore looke downe from thine holy Temple, and thinke vpon vs: encline thine eare O Lord, and heare vs.

17 * Open thine eyes, & behold: for the dead, that are in the graues, and whose soules are out of their bodies, * giue vnto the Lord, neither a praise nor righteousness.

19 For we doe not require mercy in thy sight, O Lord our God, for the righteousness of our fathers, or of our Kings,

20 But because thou hast sent out thy wrath and indignation vpon vs, as thou hast spoken by thy seruants the Prophets, saying, 21 * Thus saith the Lord, Behold downe your shoulders, & serue the King of Babylon: so shall yet remaine in the land, that I gaue vnto your Fathers.

23 I will cause to cease in the cities of Iuda, and in Ierusalem. I will cause to cease the voyce of mirth, and the voyce of ioy, and the voyce of the bridegrome, and the voyce of the bride, and the land shall bee desolate of inhabitants.

24 But wee would not hearken vnto thy voyce, to serue the King of Babylon: therefore hast thou performed the wordes that thou spakest by thy seruants the Prophets, namely, that the bones of our Kings, and the bones of our Fathers should be carried out of their places.

25 And loe, they are cast out to the heat of the day, and to the cold of the night, and are dead in great miserie with famine, and with the sword, and in banishment.

26 And the Temple wherein thy Name was called vpon, thou hast brought to the state, as appeareth this day, for the wickednesse of the house of Israel, and the house of Iuda.

27 O Lord our God, thou hast intreated vs according to equitie, and according to all thy great mercy.

28 As thou spakest by thy servant Moyses, in the day, when thou diddest command him to write thy Law before the children of Israel, saying, 29 * If yee will not obey my voyce, then shall this great swarme and multitude be turned into a very few among the nations where I will scatter them.

32 And they shall heare, and praise mee in the land of their captiuitie, and thinke vpon mee

23 Then shall they turne them from their hard backs, and from their euill workes: for they shall remember the way of their Fathers, which sinned before the Lord.

24 And I will bring them againe into the land, which I promised with an oath vnto their Fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and they shall bee lords of it: and I will increase them, and they shall not be diminished.

25 And I will make an everlasting conenant with them, that I will bee their God, and they shall be my people: and I will no more drine my people of Israel out of the land that I haue giuen them.

CHAP. III.

1 The people continueth in their prayer begonne for their deliurance. 2 He praiseth wisdom vnto the people, shewing that so great aduersities came vnto them for the despising thereof. 36 Only God was the finder of wisdom. 37 Of the incarnation of Christ.

O Lord Almighty, O God of Israel, the soule that is in trouble, and the spirit that is vexed, crieth vnto thee.

2 Weare, O Lord, and haue mercy: for thou art merciful, and haue pittie vpon vs, because we haue sinned before thee.

3 For thou endurest for ever, and we utterly perishe.

4 O Lord Almighty, the God of Israel, heare now the prayer of the dead Israelites, and of their children, which haue sinned before thee, and not hearkened vnto the voyce of thee their God, wherefore these plagues hang vpon vs.

5 Remember not the wickednesse of our fathers, but thinke vpon thy power, and thy Name at this time.

6 For thou art the Lord our God, and thee O Lord, will we praise.

7 And for this cause hast thou put thy feare in our hearts, that wee should call vpon thy Name, and praise thee in our captivity: for wee haue considered in our minds all the wickednes of our Fathers, that sinned before thee.

8 Behold, we are yet this day in our captivity, where thou hast scattered vs, to be a reproch and a curse, and subject to payments, according to all the iniquities of our Fathers, which are departed from the Lord their God.

9 O Israel, heare the commandements of life: hearken vnto them, that thou mayest learne wisdom.

10 What is the cause, O Israel, that thou art in thine enemies land, and art warren old in a strange countrey, 11 And art distressed with the dead, and art counted with them, that are gone downe to the graues?

12 Thou hast forsaken the fountaine of wisdom:

13 For if thou haddest walked in the way of God, thou shouldst haue remained safe for ever.

14 Learne where is wisdom, where is strength, where is understanding, that thou mayest know also from whence cometh long continuance, and life, and where the light of the eyes and peace is.

15 Who hath found out her place? or who hath come into her treasures?

16 Where are the princes of the heathen, and such as ruled the beasts vpon the earth?

17 They that had their pastime with the fowles of the heauen, that boarded vpon silver and gold, wherein men trust, and made none end of their gathering?

18 For they that coyned silver, and were so careful of their worke, and whole inuention had none end, 19 Are come to nought, and gone downe to hell, and other men are come vp in their steads.

20 When they were yong, they saw the light, and dwelt vpon the earth: but they understood not the way of knowledge, 21 Neither perceiued the paths thereof, neither haue their children receiued it: but they were farre off from that way.

22 It hath not bene heard of in the land of Chanaan, neither hath it bene seene in Echeman.

23 Nor the Agarines that sought after wisdom vpon the earth, nor the merchants of Arran, and of Echeman: nor the expoanders of fables, nor the searchers out of wisdom haue knowne the way of wisdom, neither doe they thinke vpon the pathes thereof.

24 O Israel, how great is the house of God! and how large is the place of his possession!

25 It is great and hath none end, it is high, and vnumeasurable.

26 There were the gyants, famous from the beginning: that were of great stature, and so expert in warre.

27 Those did not the Lord chuse, neither gaue he the way of knowledge vnto them.

28 But they were destroyed, because they had no wisdom, and perished through their owne foolishnesse.

29 Who hath gone vp into heauen, to take her, and brought her downe from the cloudes?

30 Who hath gone over the sea to finde her, and hath brought her rather then fine gold?

31 No man knoweth her wayes, neither considereth her pathes.

32 But he that knoweth all things, knoweth her, and hee hath found her out with his understanding: this same is hee which hath prepared the earth for euermore, and hath filled it with four footed beasts.

33 When hee sendeth out the light, it goeth: and when hee calleth it againe, it obeyeth him with feare.

34 And the starres shine in their watch, and reioyce. When hee calleth them, they say, Here we be: and so with cōfessfulness they shew light vnto him that made them.

35 This is our God, and there shall none other be compared vnto him.

36 Wee hath found out all the way of knowledge, and hath giuen it vnto Jacob his seruant, and to Israel his beloued.

37 Afterward hee was seene vpon earth, and dwelt among men.

C H A P. IIII.

1 The reward of them that keepe the Law, and the punishment of them that despise it. 13 A comforting of the people being in captivitie. 19 A complaint of Jerusalem, and under the figure thereof the Church. 25 A consolation and comforting of the same.

This is the booke of the commandements of God, and the Law that endureth for ever: all they that keepe it, shall come to life: but such as forsake it, shall die.

2 Turne thee, O Jacob, and take holde of it: walke by this brightness before the light thereof.

3 Give not thine honour to another, nor the things that are profitable unto thee, to a strange nation.

4 O Israel, wee are blessed: for the things that are acceptable unto God, are declared unto us.

5 Be of good comfort, O my people, which art the men of all of Israel.

6 Ye are sold to the nations, not for your destruction: but because ye provoked God to wrath, ye were delivered unto the enemies.

7 For ye have displeased him that made you, offering unto devils, and not to God.

8 Ye have forgotten him that created you, even the everlasting God, and ye have grieved Jerusalem, that nourished you.

9 When she saw the wrath coming upon you from God, she said, Hearken, ye that dwell about Sion, for God hath brought mee into great heavinesse.

10 I see the captivitie of my sonnes & daughters, which the everlasting will bring upon them.

11 With joy did I nourish them, but I must leave them with weeping and mourning.

12 Let no man reioyce over me a widow, and forsaken of many, which for the finnes of my children am desolate, because they departed from the Law of God.

13 They would not know his righteousness, nor walk in the wayes of his commandements: neither did they enter into the pathes of discipline, through his righteousness.

14 Come, ye that dwell about Sion, and call to remembrance the captivitie of my sonnes and daughters, which the everlasting hath brought upon them.

15 For hee hath brought upon them a nation from farre, an impudent nation, & of a strange language.

16 Which neither reuerence the aged, nor pitie the young: these have carried away the deare beloved of the widowes, leaving me alone, and desolate of my daughters.

17 But what can I helpe you?

18 Surely he that hath brought these plagues upon you, can deliver you from the hands of your enemies.

19 See your way, O children, see your way, for I am left desolate.

20 I have put off the clothing of peace, and put upon me the sackcloth of prayer, and so long as I live, I will call upon the everlasting.

21 Be of good comfort, O children: cry unto God, and hee will deliver you from the power and hand of the enemies.

22 For I have hope of your salvation thorough the everlastig, and joy is come upon mee from the holy One, because of the mercy which shall quickly come unto you from our everlasting Saviour.

23 For I sent you away with weeping, and mourning: but with joy and perpetual gladnesse will God bring you againe unto me.

24 Like as now the neighbours of Sion saw your captivitie, so shall they also see shortly your salvation from God, which shall come upon you with great glory and brightness from the everlastig.

25 O ye children, suffer patiently the wrath that is come upon you from God: for thine enemy hath persecuted thee, but shortly thou shalt see his destruction, and shalt tread upon his necke.

26 O ye darlings have gone by rough water, and were led away as a flocke that is scattered by the enemies.

27 Be of good comfort, my children, and cry unto God: for hee that led you away, hath you in remembrance.

28 And as it came into your minde to go astray from your God: so endeavour your selves ten times more, to turne againe and to seeke him.

29 For hee that hath brought these plagues upon you, will bring you everlasting joy againe, with your salvation.

30 Take a good heart, O Jerusalem: for he which gave thee that name, will comfort thee.

31 They are miserable that afflict thee, and such as reioyce at thy fall.

32 The cities are miserable whom thy children serve: miserable is she that hath taken thy sonnes.

33 For as she reioyceth at thy decay, and was glad of thy fall, so shall she be sorry for her owne desolation.

34 For I will take away the reioycing of her great multitude, and her joy shall be turned into mourning.

35 For a fire shall come upon her from the everlasting, long to endure, and she shall be inhabited of devils for a great season.

36 O Jerusalem, looke toward the East, and behold the joy that cometh unto thee from thy God.

37 Lo, thy sonnes (whom thou hast let goe) come gathered together from the East, unto the West: reioycing in the word of the holy One unto the honour of God.

C H A P. V.

1 Jerusalem is removed unto gladnesse for the returne of her people, and under the figure thereof the Church.

Put off thy mourning clothes O Jerusalem, and thine affliction, and decke thee with the worship and honour that cometh unto thee from God for evermore.

2 Put on the garment of righteousness, that cometh from God, and set a crowne upon thine head of the glory of the everlasting.

3 For God will declare thy brightness to every country under the heaven.

4 And God will name thee by this name for ever, The peace of righteousness, and the glory of the worship of God.

5 Arise, O Ierusalem, and stand up on his, and looke about thee toward the East, and behold thy children gathered from the East unto the West by the word of the holy One, reioycing in the remembrance of God.

6 For they departed from thee on foote, and were led away of their enemies: but God will bring them againe unto thee, exalted in glory, as children of the kingdome.

7 For God hath determined to bring downe every high mountaine, and the long enduring rocks, and to fill the valleys, to make the ground plaine, that Israel may walke safely unto the honour of God.

8 The woods and all sweete smelling trees shall overshadow Israel at the commandment of God.

9 For God shall bring Israel with say in the light of his mercies, with the mercy and righteousness that cometh of him.

CHAP. VI.

A COPIE OF THE EPISTLE THAT Ieremias sent unto them that were led away captiues into Babylon by the king of the Babylonians, to certifie them of the thing that was commanded him of God.

Because of the sinnes that ye haue committed against God, ye shalbe led away captiues into Babylon, by Nabuchodonosor, King of the Babylonians.

2 So when ye be come into Babylon, ye shall remaine there many yeres, and a long season, even seven generations, and after that will I bring you away peaceably from thence.

3 Now shall ye see in Babylon gods of silver, and of gold, and of wood, borne upon mens shoulders, to cause the people to feare:

4 Beware therefore that ye in no wise be like the strangers, neither be ye afraid of them, when ye see the multitude before them and behinde them worshipping them.

5 But say ye in your hearts, O Lord, wee must worship thee.

6 For mine Angell shalbe with you, and shall care for your soules.

7 As for their tongue, it is polished by the carpenter, and they themselves are gilded, and laid ouer with silver: yet are they but lyes and cannot speake.

8 And as they take golde for a maid that loneth to be deckt:

9 So make they crownes for the heads of their gods: sometimes also the Priests themselves conuey away the golde and silver from their gods, and bestow it upon themselves.

10 Yea, they giue of the same unto their harlots, that are in their houses: againe they decke these gods of silver, and gods of golde, and of wood, with garments like men,

11 Yet cannot they be preserved from rust and wormes,

12 Though they haue covered them with clothing of purple, and wipe their faces because of the dust of the Temple, whereof there is much upon them.

13 One holdeth a scepter, as though he were a certaine Iudge of the countrey: yet can hee not slay such as offend him.

14 Another hath a dagger or an axe in his right hand, yet is he not able to defend himselfe from battell, nor from theures: so thin it is euident that they be no gods.

15 Therefore feare them not: for as a vessel that a man breith, is nothing woorth when it is broken.

16 Such are these gods: when they bee set vp in their temples, their eyes be full of dust by reason of the feet of those that come in.

17 And as the gates are shut in round about upon him that hath offended the King: or as one that should be led to bee put to death, so the Priests keepe their temples with doores, and with locks, and with barres, lest their gods should be spoiled by robbers.

18 They light vp candles before them: yea, more then for themselves, whereof they cannot see one: for they are but as one of the pouls of the temple.

19 They confesse, that even their hearts are gnawen upon: but when the things that creepe out of the earth, eat them and their clothes, they feelee it not.

20 Their faces are black through the smoke that is in the temple.

21 The owles, swallowes and birds flic upon their bodies, and upon their heads, yea, and the cats also.

22 By this ye may be sure that they are not gods: therefore feare them not.

23 Nowe withstanding the gold, that is about them to make them beautifull, except one wipe off the rust, they cannot shine: neither when they were molten, did they feelee it.

24 The things wherein is no breath, are bought for a most high price.

25 They are borne upon mens shoulders, because they haue no feete, whereby they declare unto men, that they be nothing woorth, yea, and they that worship them are ashamed.

26 For if they fall to the ground at any time, they cannot rise up againe of themselves, neither if one set them vp right, can they mooue of themselves, neither if they be bowed downe can they make themselves straight: but they let gifts before them as unto dead men.

27 As for the things that are offered unto them, their Priests sell them and abuse them: likewise also the women lay up the same: but unto the poore and sicke they giue nothing.

28 The menstruous women, and they that are in childbed touch their sacrifices: by these things ye may know that they are no gods: feare them not.

29 From whence cometh it then, that they are called gods: because the women bring gifts to the gods of silver, and gold, and wood.

30 And the Priests sit in their Temples, hauing their clothes rent, whose heads and beards are shauen, and bring bare headed, 31 They rore and cry before their gods, as men doe at the feast of one that is dead.

32 The Priests also take away of their garments, and clothe their wives and children.

33 Whether it bee euill that one doeth unto them or good, they are not able to recompense it: they can neither set up a king, nor put him downe.

34 In like maner they can neither giue riches nor money: though a man make a vowe unto them, and keepe it not, they will not requite it.

35 They

36 They cannot rescue a blinde man to his sight, nor helpe any man at his need.

37 They can helpe no mercy to the widow, nor doe good to the fatherlesse.

38 Their gods of wood, golde, and silver, are as stones that bee hewen out of the mountaine, and they that worship them, shall be confounded.

39 How should a man then thinke or say, that they are gods?

40 Moreover, the Chaldeans themselves dishonour them: for when they see a dumbe man, that cannot speake, they present him to Bel.

41 And desire that hee would make him to speake, as though hee had any feeling: yet they that understand these things cannot leave them: for they have no sense.

¶ Or, brams.

42 Furthermore, the women, girded with coards, lie in the streets, and burne || draw.

43 And if one of them be drawn away, and lie with any such as come by, shee casteth her neighbour in the teeth, because shee was not so worthily reputed, nor her coard broken.

44 Whatsoever is done among them, is lycer: how may it then be thought or said, that they are gods?

45 Carpenters and goldsmithes make them, neither bee they any other thing, but even what the workeman will make them.

46 Yea, they that make them, are of no long continuance: how should then the things that are made of them, be gods?

47 Therefore they leave lies, and shame for their posteritie.

48 For when there cometh any warre, or plague upon them, the Priests imagine with themselves, where they may hide themselves with them.

49 How then can men not perceiue, that they be no gods, which can neither defend themselves from warre, nor from plagues?

¶ Psal. 115. 4.
wisd. 13. 10.

50 For seeing they be but of wood, and of silver and of gold, men shall know hereafter that they are but lies, and it shall be manifest to all nations and kings, that they bee no gods, but the works of mens hands, and that there is no worke of God in them.

51 Whereby it may bee knowen that they are no gods.

52 They can set by no king in the land, nor glue raine unto men.

53 They can giue no sentence of a matter, neither preferre from iniurie: they have no power, but are as crows betwene the heauen and the earth.

54 When there falleth a fire vpon the house of these gods of wood, and of silver, and of gold, the Priests will escape and save themselves, but they burne as the bales therein.

55 They cannot withstand any king or enemies: how can it then be thought or sayd that they be gods?

56 Moreover, these gods of wood, of golde, and of silver can neither defend themselves from thieves nor robbers.

57 For they that are strongest, take away their gold and silver, and apparell, wherewith they be clothed: and when they haue it, they get them away: yet can they not helpe themselves.

58 Therefore it is better to be a king, and so to shew his power, or else a profitable vessel in an house, wherby hee that oweth it, might haue profit, then such false gods: or to be a doore in an house, to keepe such things safe as bee therein, then such false gods: or a pillar of wood in a palace, then such false gods.

59 For the Sunne, and the Moone, and the starres that shine, when they are sent downe for necessary uses, obey.

60 Likewise also the lightning, when it shineth, it is euident: and the wind bloweth in euery countrey.

61 And when God commandeth the cloudes to goe about the whole world, they doe as they are bidden.

62 When the fire is sent downe from aboue to destroy hills and woods, it doth that which is commanded: but these are not like any of these things, neither in fame nor power.

63 Therefore men should not thinke, nor say that they be gods, seeing they can neither giue sentence in iudgement, nor doe men good.

64 Forasmuch now as ye are sure, that they be no gods, feare them not.

65 For they can neither curse, nor blesse kings.

66 Neither can they shew signes in the heauen among the bearden, neither shine as the Moone.

67 The beasts are better then they: for they can get them vnder a couert, and doe themselves good.

68 Soye may be certified that by no manner of meanes they are gods: therefore feare them not.

69 For as a scarerow in a garden of cucumbers, kepeth nothing, so are their goods of wood and of silver and of gold:

70 And likewise of their gods of wood, and gold, and silver, are like to a white thorne in an orchard, that euery bird sitteth vpon, and as a dead body that is cast in the darke.

71 By the purple also and brightnes which fadeth vpon them, ye may understand, that they be no gods: yea, they themselves shall be consumed at the last, and they shall bee a shame to the countrey.

72 Better therefore is the iust man, that hath none idoles: for hee shall be farre from reproofe.

The song of the three holy children, which followeth in the third Chapter of Daniel, after this place, They fell downe bound into the mids of the hote fiery fornace.

25 The prayer of Azarias. 46 The cymele of the king.
48 The flame deuoreth the Chaldeans. 49 The Angel of the Lord was in the fornace. 51 The three children praise the Lord, and prouoke all creatures to the same.

24 And they walked in the middes of the flame praising God, and magnified the Lord.

25 Then Azarias stood vp, and prayed on this manner, and opening his mouth in the middes of the fire, said, 26 Blessed bee thou, O Lord God of our fathers: thy Name is worthy to be praised and honoured for ever more.

27 For thou art righteous in all the things, that thou hast done vnto vs, and all thy workes are true, and thy wayes are right, and all thy iudgements certaine.

28 In all the things that thou hast brought vpon vs, and vpon Ierusalem, the holy Citie of our fathers, thou hast executed true iudgements: for by right and equitie hast thou brought all these things vpon vs because of our sinnes.

29 For wee haue sinned and done wickedly, departing from thee: in all things haue we trespassed, 30 And not obeyed thy commandments, nor kept them, neither done as thou hadst commanded vs, that we might prosper.

31 Wherefore in all that thou hast brought vpon vs, and in euery thing that thou hast done to vs, thou hast done them in true iudgement:

32 As in deliuering vs into the hands of our wicked enemies, and most hatefull traitours, and to an vniuersall king, and the most wicked in all the world.

33 And now wee may not open our mouthes: we are become a shame and reproofe vnto thy seruants, and to them that worship thee.

34 Yet for thy Names sake wee beseech thee, glue vs not vp for ever, neither breake thy Covenant, 35 Neither take away thy mercy from vs, for thy beloued Abrahams sake, and for thy seruant Isaacs sake, and for thine holy Israels sake.

36 To whom thou hast spoken and promised, that thou wouldest multiply their seed as the starrs of heauen, and as the sand, that is vpon the sea shore.

37 For we, O Lord, are become lesse then any nation, and bee kept vnder this day in all the world, because of our sinnes:

38 So that now wee haue neither prince, nor Prophet, nor gouernour, nor burnt offering, nor sacrifice, nor oblation, nor incense, nor place to offer the first fruits before thee, that wee might find mercy.

39 Wherefore, in a contrite heart, and a humble spirit let vs be receiued.

40 As in the burnt offering of rammes and bullockes, and as in ten thousand of fat lambs, so let our offering be in thy sight this day, that it may please thee. for there is no confusion vnto them, that put their trust in thee.

41 And now we follow thee with all our heart, and feare thee, and seeke thy face.

42 But vs not to shame, but deale with vs after thy louing kindnesse, and according to the multitude of thy mercies.

43 Deliuer vs also by thy miracles, and glue thy Name the glory, O Lord, 44 That all they that doeth thy seruants euill, may be confounded: euen let them be confounded by thy great force and power, and let their strength be broken,

45 That they may know, that thou only art the Lord God, & glorious ouer the whole world.

46 Now the kings seruants that had cast them in, crealed not to make the oven hote with haphtha, and with pitch, and with tow, and with fagots, 47 So that the flame went out of the fornace, fourtie and nine cubites.

48 And it brake forth, and burnt those Chaldeans, that it found by the fornace.

49 And the Angel of the Lord went downe into the fornace with them that were with Azarias, and smote the flame of the fire out of the fornace, 50 And made in the mids of the fornace like a moist hissing wind, so that the fire touched them not at all, neither grieved nor troubled them.

51 Then these three (as out of one mouth) praised, and glorified, and blessed God in the fornace, saying, 52 Blessed be thou, O Lord God of our fathers, and praised and exalted above all things for ever, and blessed bee thy glorious and holy Name, and praised above all things, and magnified for ever.

53 Blessed be thou in the Temple of thine holy glory, and praised above all things, and exalted for ever.

54 Blessed be thou that beholdest the depths, and liest vpon the Cherubims, and praised above all things, and exalted for ever.

55 Blessed be thou in the glorious throne of thy kingdome, and praised above all things, and exalted for ever.

[[Or, Susanna,

¶ The historie of || Susanna, which some ioynie to the ende of Daniel, and make. in the thirteenth Chapter.

8 The two gouernours are taken with the lone of Susanna, 19 They take her alone in the garden, 20 They sollicite her to wickednesse 23 Shee chuseth rather to obey God, though it be the danger of her life, 34 Shee is accused, 45 Daniel doth deliuer her. 62 The gouernours are put to death.

Here dwelt a man in Babylon called Iocim.

2 And he tooke a wife, whose name was Susanna, the daughter of Helcias, a very faire woman, and one that feared God.

3 Her father and her mother also were godly people, and taught their daughter according to the Law of Moyses.

4 Now Iocim was a great rich man, and had a faire garden loyning vnto his house, and to him resorted the Iewes, because he was more honourable then all others.

5 The same yeere were appointed two of the ancients of the people to bee Judges, such as the Lord speaketh of, that the iniquity came from Babylon, and from the ancient Judges, which seemed to rule the people.

6 These hanted Iocims house, and all such as had any thing to doe in the Law, came thither vnto them.

7 Now when the people departed away at noone, Susanna went into her husbands garden to walke.

8 And the two Elders saw her that she went in dayly and walked, so that their lust was inflamed toward her.

9 Therefore they turned away their minds, ^{a To wit} and cast downe their eyes, that they should ^{from God} not see heauen, nor remember iust iudgement.

10 And albeit they were both wounded with her her loue, yet durst not one shew another his griefe.

11 For they were ashamed to declare their lust, that they desired to haue to doe with her.

12 Yet they watched diligently from day to day to see her.

13 And the one said to the other, Let vs goe now home, for it is dinner time.

14 So they went their way, and departed one from another: yet they returned againe, and came into the same place, and after that they had asked one another the cause, they acknowledged their lust: then appointed they a time both together when they might find her alone.

15 Now when they had spied out a convenient time, that shee went in, as her manner was, with two maides onely, and thought to wash her selfe in the garden, (for it was an hote season.)

16 And there was no body there, save the two Elders that had hid themselves, and watched for her:

17 Shee said to her maydes, Bring me oyle and sope, and shut the garden doores, that I may wash me.

18 And they did as shee bade them, and shut the garden doores, and went out themselves at a backe doore, to see the thing that shee had commanded them: but they saw not the Elders, because they were hid.

19 Now when the maides were gone forth, the two Elders rose up and ranne vnto her, saying, 20 Behold, the garden doores are shut, that no man can see vs, and wee be here in lone with thee: therefore consent vnto vs, and lie with vs.

21 If thou wilt not, we will beare witness against thee, that a yong man was with thee, and therefore thou dost send away thy maydes from thee.

22 Then Susanna sighed, and said, I am in trouble on euery side: for if I doe this thing, it is death vnto mee: and if I doe it not, I cannot escape your hands.

23 It is better for me to fall into your hands, and not doe it, then to liue in the light of the Lord.

24 With that Susanna cryed with a loud voice, and the two Elders cried out against her.

25 Then ranne the one, and opened the garden doore.

26 So when the seruants of the house heard the crye in the garden, they rushed in at the backe doore to see what was done vnto her.

27 But when the Elders had declared their matter, the seruants were greatly ashamed: for there was neuer such a report made of Susanna.

28 On the morrow after, came the people to Iocim her husband, and the two Elders came also, full of malicious imagination against Susanna to put her to death.

29 And said before the people, Send for Susanna the daughter of Ielcias Iocims wife. And immediately they sent.

30 So she came with her father and mother, her children and all her kindred.

31 Now Susanna was very tender, and faire of face.

32 And these wicked men commanded to uncover her face, (for she was covered) that they might be so satisfied with her beauty.

33 Therefore they that were about her, and all that knew her, wept.

34 Then the two Elders stood up in the midst of the people, and laid their hands vpon her head.

35 Which wept, and looked vp toward heauen: for her heart trusted in the Lord.

36 And the Elders sayd, As wee walked in the garden alone, she came in with two maides, whom she sent away from her, and shut the garden doores.

37 Then a yong man, which there was hid, came vnto her, and lay with her.

38 Then wee which stood in a corner of the garden, seeing this wickednesse, ran vnto them, and we saw them as they were together.

39 But we could not hold him: for hee was stronger then we, and opened the doore and leaped out.

40 Now when wee had taken this woman, we asked her what yong man this was, but shee would not tell vs: of these things are wee witnesses.

41 Then the assembly beliened them, as those that were the Elders and Iudges of the people: so they condemned her to death.

42 Then Susanna cried out with a loud voice, and sayd, O euerglasting God, that knowest the secrets, and knowest all things aforesayd: they come to passe.

43 Thou knowest, that they haue borne false witness against mee, and behold, I must die, whereas I neuer did such things as these men haue maliciously inuented against me.

44 And the Lord heard her voice.

45 Therefore when shee was led to be put to death, the Lord raised by the holy spirit of a yong child, whose name was Daniel.

46 Who cryed with a loud voice, I am cleane from the blood of this woman.

47 Then all the people turned thanto ward him, and sayd, What meane these wordes, that thou hast spoken?

48 Then Daniel stood in the midst of them, and sayd, Are yee such fooles, O Iudaistes, that without examination, or knowledge of the truth, yet haue condemned a daughter of Israel?

49 Returne againe to iudgement: for they haue borne false witness against her.

50 Wherefore the people turned againe in all haste, and the Elders said vnto him, Come, sit downe among vs, and shew it vs, seeing God hath giuen thee the office of an Elder.

51 Then said Daniel vnto them, But these two aside, one farre from another, and I will examine them.

52 So when they were put asunder one from another, hee called one of them, and said vnto him, O thou that art old in a wicked life, now thy times which thou hast committed aforesayd, are come to light.

53 For thou hast pronounced false iudgements, and hast condemned the innocent, and hast let the guilty goe free, albeit the Lord saith, * The innocent and righteous shalt thou not slay.

54 Now then, if thou hast seene her, tell me, Under what tree sawest thou them companying together? Who answered, Under a lentilke tree.

55 Then said Daniel, Verely thou hast lpyed against thine owne head: for loe, the Angel of God hath receined the sentence of God, to cut thee in two.

56 So put hee him aside, and commaunded to bring the other, and said vnto him, O thou scede of Chanaan, and not of Iuda, beaulie hath deceined thee, and lust hath subuerted thine heart.

57 Thus haue ye dealt with the daughters of Israel, and they for feare companied with you: but the daughter of Iuda would not abide your wickednesse.

58 Now therefore tell mee, vnder what tree diddest thou take them companying together? Who answered, Under a prime tree.

59 Then said Daniel vnto him, Verely thou hast also lpyed against thine head, for the Angel of God waiteth with the sword to cut thee in two, and so to destroy you both.

60 Which chat all the whole assembly cried with a lowde voyce, and prayled God, which sauech them chat trust in him.

61 And they arose againt the two Elders, (for Daniel had conuict them of false witness by their owne mouth.)

62 And according to the Law of Moyses they dealt with them, as they dealt wickedly againt their neighbour, and put them to death. Thus the innocent blood was laued the same day.

63 Therefore Helcias and his wife prailed God for their daughter Susanna, with Ioachim her husband, and all the kured, that there was no dishonesty found in her.

64 From that day forth was Daniel had in great reputation in sight of the people.

The historie of Bel and the Dragon, which is the fourteenth Chapter of Daniel after the Latine.

Now when king Astiages was laid with his fathers, Cyrus the Persian receined his kingdom.

2 And Daniel did eate at the Kings table, and was honoured aboue all his friends.

3 Now the Babylonians had an idole called Bel, and there were spent vpon him every day twelue great measures of fine flower, and foure sheepe, and sixe great pots of wine.

4 And the King worshipped it, and went dayly to honour it: but Daniel worshipped his owne God. And the King said vnto him, Why doest thou not worship Bel?

5 Who answered, and sayd, Because I may not worship idoles made with hands, but the liuing God, which hath created the heauen and the earth, and hath power vpon all flesh.

6 Then said the King vnto him, Thinkest thou not that Bel is a liuing God? Seest thou not how much hee eateth and drinketh euery day?

7 Then Daniel smiled and said, O king, bee not decciued: for this is but clay with in, & brasse without, and did neuer eate any thing.

8 So the king was wroth, and called for his priests, and said vnto them, If ye tell me not who this is that eateth vp these expences, ye shall die.

9 But if ye can certifie mee that Bel eateth them, then Daniel shall die: for hee hath spoken blasphemie againt Bel. And Daniel said vnto the king, Let it be according to thy word.

10 (Now the priests of Bel were threescore and ten, besides their wiues and children:) and the King went with Daniel into the temple of Bel.

11 So Bels priests said, Behold, we will goe out, and set thou the meate there, O King, and let the wine be filled: then shut the doore fast, and seale it with thine owne signet.

12 And to morrow when thou comest in, if thou findest not that Bel hath eaten vp all, wee will suffer death, or else Daniel that hath lpyed vpon vs.

13 Now they thought themselves sure enough: for vnder the table they had made a pulue entrance, and there went they in euery, and tooke away the things.

14 So when they were gone forth, the king set meates before Bel. Now Daniel had commaunded his seruants to bring alhes, and these they strowed throughout all the temple, in the presence of the King alone: then went they out and shut the doore, and sealed it with the Kings signet, and so departed.

15 Now in the night came the priests with their wiues and children, as they were wont to doe, and did eate and drinke vp all.

16 In the morning betimes, the King arose and Daniel with him.

17 And the King said, Daniel, are the scales whole? Who answered, Yea, O King, they bee whole.

18 And as soone as hee had opened the doore, the King looked vpon the table, and cried with a lowde voyce, Great art thou, O Bel, and with thee is no deceit.

19 Then laughed Daniel, and held the King that he should not goe in, and said, Behold now the pavement, and marke well whose footsteps are these.

20 And the King sayd, I see the footsteps of men, women, and children: therfore the King was angry, 21 And tooke the priests, with their wiues, and children, and they strowed him the priue doores, where they came in, and consumed such things as were vpon the table.

22 There-

a Called Artaba, where of euery one coneyned somewhat more then nine gallons, which make in all an hundred and eight gallons at the least.
b Called Metretra, and euery one of these measures coneyned about ten gallons, which in all make threescore.

22 Therefore the king slew them, and delivered Bel into Daniels power, who destroyed him, and his temple.

23 Moreover in that same place there was a great Dragon, which the Babylonians worshipped.

24 And the king said unto Daniel, Sayest thou that this is of brass also? loe, hee lieth, and eateth and drinketh, so that thou canst not say that hee is no living God: therefore worship him.

25 Then said Daniel unto the king, I will worship the Lord my God: for hee is the living God.

26 But give me leave, O King, and I will slay this Dragon without sword or staffe. And the king said, I give thee leave.

27 Then Daniel tooke pitch, and fatte, and haire, and did sette them together, and made lumps thereof: this hee put in the Dragons mouth, and so the Dragon burst in sunder. And Daniel saith, Behold whom ye worship.

28 When the Babylonians heard it, they were wonderfull with, and gathered them together against the king, saying, The king is become a Jew: for hee hath destroyed Bel, and hath slaine the Dragon, and put the priests to death.

26 So they came to the king, and said, Deliver us Daniel, or else we will destroy thee and thine house.

30 Now when the king saw, that they pleased sore upon him, and that necessity constrained him, hee delivered Daniel unto them:

31 Who cast him into the Lions den, where hee was sixe dayes.

32 In the denne there were seven Lions, and they had given them every day two bodies and two sheepe, which they were not given them, to the intent that they might devour Daniel.

33 Now there was in Jewrie a Prophet called Abbacuc, which had made portage, and broken bread into a bowle, and was going into the field, for to bring it to the reapers.

34 But the Angel of the Lord said unto Abbacuc, Goe, carry the meate that thou hast, into Babylon unto Daniel, which is in the Lions denne.

35 And Abbacuc said, Lord, I never sawe Babylon, neither doe I know where the denne is.

36 Then the Angel tooke him by the crowne of the head, & bare him by the haire of the head, and through a mighty wind set him in Babylon upon the denne.

37 And Abbacuc cried, saying, O Daniel, Daniel, take the dinner that God hath sent thee.

38 Then said Daniel, O God, thou hast thought upon mee, and thou never failest them that seeke thee and love thee.

39 So Daniel arose, and did eat, and the Angel of the Lord set Abbacuc in his owne place againe immediately.

40 Upon the seventh day the king went to bewaile Daniel, and when he came to the denne he looked in, and behold, Daniel sat in the midst of the Lions.

41 Then cried the king with a loud voice, saying, Great art thou, O Lord God of Daniel, and there is none other besides thee.

42 And he drew him out of the den, and cast them that were the cause of his destruction, into the denne, and they were devoured in a moment before his face.

CHAP. I.

8 The death of Alexander the King of Macedonia. 11 Antiochus taketh the kingdom. 12 Many of the children of Israel make covenant with the Gentiles. 21 Antiochus subdueth Egypt and Ierusalem unto his dominion. 50 Antiochus setteth up idoles.

After that Alexander the Macedonian, the sonne of Philip, went forth of the land of Chetitim, and slew Darius King of the Persians and Medes, and reigned for him as he had before in Grecia,

2 He tooke great warres in hand, and waime strong holds, and slew the kings of the earth.

3 So went hee thorow to the endes of the world, and tooke spoiles of many nations, insomuch that the world stood in awe of him: therefore his heart was puffed up and was haughty.

4 Now when hee had gathered a mighty strong hoste,

5 And had reigned over regions, nations, and kingdomes, they became tributaries unto him.

6 After these things he fell sicke, and knew that he should die.

7 Then hee called for the chiefe of his servants, which had been brought up with him of children, and parted his kingdom among them, while he was yet alive.

8 So Alexander had reigned twelue yeeres when he died.

9 And his servants reigned every one in his roume.

10 And they all caused themselves to be crowned after his death, and so did their children after them many yeeres, and much wickedness increased in the world.

11 For out of these came the wicked roote, even Antiochus Epiphanes, the sonne of king Antiochus, which had been an hostage at Rome, and hee reigned in the hundredth and seven and thirtieth yeere of the kingdom of the Greekes.

12 In those dayes went there out of Ierusalem wicked men, which enticed many, saying, Let us goe and make a covenant with the the heathen that are round about vs : for since we departed from them, we haue had much sorrow.

13 So this deuice pleased them well.

14 And certaine of the people were ready and went to the King, which gaue them licence to doe after the ordinances of the heathen.

15 Then set they by a place of exercise at Jerusalem, according to the fashions of the heathen.

16 And made themselves vncircumcised and forsooke the holy Couenant, and loyned themselves to the heathen, and were sold to doe mischief.

17 So when Antiochus kingdome was set in order, hee went about to reigne ouer Egypt, that hee might haue the dominion of two Realmes.

18 Therefore hee entred into Egypt with a mightie companie, with charrets, and Elephants, and with horsemen, and with a great nauie, 19 And mooued warre against Ptolemus, King of Egypt : but Ptolemus was afraid of him, and fled, and many were wounded to death.

20 Thus Antiochus wan many strong cities in the land of Egypt, and tooke away the spoiles of the land of Egypt.

21 And after that Antiochus had smitten Egypt, he turned againe in the hundred fourthie and three yeere, 22 And went by toward Israel and Jerusalem with a mighty people,

23 And entred proudly into the Sanctuary, and tooke away the golden Altar, and the Candlesticke for the light, and all the instruments thereof, and the Table of the Shewbread, and the pouring vessels, and the bowles, and the golden balens, and the vails, and the crownes, and the golden apparell, which was before the Temple, and brake all in pieces.

24 Hee tooke also the silver and golde, and the precious jewels, and hee tooke the secret treasures that hee found, and when hee had taken away all, hee departed into his owne land, 25 After hee had murdered many men, and spoken very proudly.

26 Therefore there was a great lamentation in every place of Israel.

27 For the Princes and the Elders mourned: the young women, and the yong men were made feeble, and the beaultie of the women was changed.

28 Every housegrome tooke him to mourning, and hee that sat in the marriage chamber was in heauinesse.

29 The land also was mooued for the inhabitants thereof: for all the house of Jacob was couered with confusion.

30 After two yeeres the king sent his chiefe talkemaster into the cities of Iuda, which came to Jerusalem with a great multitude, 31 Who spake peaceable words vnto them in deceit, and they gaue credit vnto him.

32 Then hee fell suddenly vpon the citie, and smote it with a great plague, and destroyed much people of Israel.

33 And when he had spoiled the citie, hee set fire on it, casting downe the houses thereof, and walles thereof on every side.

34 The women and their children tooke they captiue, and led away the cattrell.

35 Then fortified they the city of David with a great and thicke wall, and with mighty towres, and made it a strong hold for them.

36 Wherouer they set wicked people there, and vngodly persons, and fortified themselves therein.

37 And they stored it with weapons and vittalles, and gathered the spoile of Jerusalem, and laid it by there.

38 Thus became they a sore snare, and were in ambushment for the Sanctuary, and were wicked enemies euermore vnto Israel.

39 For they shedde innocent blood on every side of the Sanctuary, and defiled the Sanctuary.

40 Inasmuch that the citizens of Jerusalem fled away because of them, and it became an habitation of strangers, being desolate of them whom shee had hope: for her owne children did leaue her.

41 Her Sanctuary was left waste as a wilderness: her holy dayes were turned into mourning her Sabbaths into reproch, and her honoꝝ brought to nought.

42 As her glory had becme great, so was her dishonour, and her excellencie was turned into sorrow.

43 Also the King wrote vnto all his Kingdomes, that all the people should bee as one, and that every man should leaue his lawes.

44 And all the heathen agreed to the commandement of the king.

45 Pea many of the Israelites consented to his religion, offering vnto idoles, and defiling the Sabbath.

46 So the king sent letters by the messengers vnto Jerusalem, and to the cities of Iuda, that they should follow the strange lawes of the country.

47 And that they should forbid the burnt offerings and sacrifices, and the offerings in the Sanctuary.

48 And that they should defile the Sabbaths and the feasts,

49 And pollute the Sanctuary and the holy men,

50 And to set by altars and groues, and chapels of idoles, and offer by swines flesh, and vnclean beasts,

51 And that they should leaue their children vncircumcised, and defile their soules with vncleannesse, and pollute themselves, that they might forget the Law, and change all the ordinances, 52 And that whosoever would not doe according to the commandement of the king, should suffer death.

53 In like manner wrote hee throughout all his kingdomes, and let ourriers ouer all the people, for to compell them to doe these things.

54 And hee commanded the cities of Iuda to doe sacrifice, citie by citie.

55 Then went many of the people vnto them by heapes, euery one that forsooke the Law, and so they committed euill in the land.

56 And they drove the Israelites into secret places, even wheresoever they could flee for succour.

57 The fifteenth day of Casleu, in the hundredth and nine and fourtieth yeere, they set by the abomination of desolation upon the altar, and they builded altars throughout the cities of Iuda on every side.

58 And before the doores of the houses, and in the streets they burnt incense.

59 And the bookes of the Law, which they found, they burnt in the fire, and cut in pieces.

60 Whosoever had a booke of the Testament found by him, or whosoever consented unto the Law, the Kings commandement was, that they should put him to death by their authority.

61 And they executed these things every morrow upon the people of Israel that were found in the cities.

62 And in the nine and twentieth day of the moneth, they did sacrifice upon the altar, which was in the head of the altar of sacrifices.

63 And according to the commandement they put certaine women to death, which had caused their children to be circumcised.

64 And they hanged by the children at their neckes, and they spotted their houses, and slew the circumcisers of them.

65 Yet were there many in Israel, which were of courage, and determined in themselves, that they would not eat unclean things.

66 But chose rather to suffer death, then to be defiled with those meates: so because they would not breake the holy Covenant, they were put to death.

67 And this tyranny was very sore upon the people of Israel.

CHAP. II.

1 The mourning of Mattathias and his sonnes for the destruction of the holy citie. 19 They refuse to doe sacrifice unto idoles. 24 The zeale of Mattathias for the Law of God. 33 They are slaine, and will not sigh: againe because of the Sabbath day. 49 Mattathias dying, commannderh his sonnes to stick by the word of God, after the example of the fathers.

In those dayes stood by Mattathias the Priest, the sonne of Ioaannes, the sonne of Simeon, of the sonnes of Iosabab of Jerusalem, and dwelt in Modin.

2 And hee had five sonnes, Ioanan called Gaddis,

3 Simon called Thassi.

4 Iudas which was called Maccabeus,

5 Eleazar called Abaron, and Jonathan, whose name was Apphus.

6 Now he saw the blasphemies, which were committed in Iuda and Jerusalem:

7 And he sayd, What is mee: wherefore was I borne, to see this destruction of my people, and the destruction of the holy citie, and thus to sit still? it is deliuered into the hands of the enemies.

8 And the Sanctuary is in the handes of strangers: her temple is as a man that hath no renowne.

9 Her glorious vessels are caried away into captiuitie: her infants are slaine in the streets, and her young men are fallen by the sword of the enemies.

10 What people is it that hath not some possession in her kingdome, or hath not gotten of her spoiles?

11 All her glory is taken away: of a free woman, she is become an handmaid.

12 Behold, our Sanctuary, and our beauty, and honour is desolate, and the Gentiles haue defiled it.

13 What helpeth it vs then to liue any longer?

14 And Mattathias rent his clothes, he, and his sonnes, and put sackcloth vpon them, and mourned very sore.

15 Then came men from the King to the citie of Modin, to compell them to forsake God, and to sacrifice.

16 So many of the Israelites consented vnto them: but Mattathias and his sonnes assembled together.

17 Then spake the commissioners of the king, and sayd vnto Mattathias, Thou art the chiefe and an honourable man, and great in this citie, and hast many children and brethren.

18 Come thou therefore first, and fulfill the Kings commandement, as all the heathen haue done, and also the men of Iuda, and such as remaine at Jerusalem: so shalt thou and thy familie bee in the Kings fauour: and thou and thy children shall bee enriched with siluer and gold, and with many rewards.

19 Then Mattathias answered and said with a loud voice, Though all nations that are vnder the Kings dominion, obey him, and fall away every man from the religion of their fathers, and consent to his commandements, 20 Yet will I and my sonnes, and my brethren walke in the covenant of our fathers.

21 God be mercifull vnto vs, that we forsake not the law and the ordinances.

22 Wee will not hearken vnto the Kings words to transgresse our religion, neither on the right side, nor on the left.

23 And when hee had left off speaking these words, there came one of the Iewes, in the sight of all, to sacrifice vpon the altar which was at Modin, according to the Kings commandement.

24 Now when Mattathias saw it, he was so inflamed with zeale, that his reines shooke, and his wrath was kindled according to the ordinance of the law: therefore hee ranne vnto him, and killed him by the altar:

25 And at the same time hee slew the Kings commissioner, that compelled him to doe sacrifice, and destroyed the altar.

26 Thus bare he a zeale to the Law of God, doing as Iphimees did vnto Zambri the sonne of Salom.

27 Then cryed Mattathias with a loude voyce in the citie, saying, Whosoever is zealous of the Law, and will stand by the covenant, let him come forth after me.

28 So hee and his sonnes fled into the mountaines, and left all that they had in the citie.

29 Then many that sought after iustice and iudgement,

30 Went downe into the wilderness to dwell there, both they, and their children, and their wiues and their cattell: for the afflictions increased sore vpon them.

31 Now when it was told vnto the Kings seruants, servants, and to the garrisons, which were in Jerusalem in the citie of David, that men had broken the kings commandement, and were gone downe into the secret places in the wilderness.

32 Then many pursued after them: and having overtaken them, they camped against them, and set the battell in aray against them on the Sabbath day.

33 And said unto them, Let this now be sufficient: come forth and doe according to the commandement of the King, and ye shall live.

34 But they answered, Wee will not goe forth, neither will we doe the kings commandement, to defile the Sabbath day.

35 Then they gaue them the battell.

36 But the other answered them nothing, neither cast any one stone at them, nor stopped the priue places, 37 But said, Wee will die all in our innocence: the heauen and earth shall testifie for vs, that ye destroy vs wrongfully.

38 Thus they gaue them the battell upon the Sabbath, and slew both men and cattell, their wives & their children, to the number of a thousand people.

39 When Mattathias and his friends vnderstood this, they mourned for them greatly.

40 And said one to another, If we all doe as our brethren haue done, and fight not against the heathen for our liues, and for our Lawes, then shall they incontinently destroy vs out of the earth.

41 Therefore they concluded at the same time, saying, Whosoever shall come to make battell with vs upon the Sabbath day, we will fight against him, that wee die not all, as our brethren that were murdered in the secret places.

42 Then came unto them the assembly of the Asideans, which were of the strongest men of Israel, all such as were well minded toward the Law.

43 And all they that were fled for persecution, toynded themselves vnto them, and were an helpe vnto them.

44 So they gathered a power, and smote the wicked men in their wrath, and the vngodly in their anger, but the rest fled vnto the heathen and escaped.

45 Then Mattathias and his friends went about and destroyed the Altars, 46 And circumcised the children by force that were vncircumcised, as many as they found within the coasts of Israel.

47 And they pursued after the proud men: and this act prospered in their hands.

48 So they recouered the Law out of the hand of the Gentiles, and out of the hand of kings, and gaue not place to the wicked.

49 Now when the time drew neere, that Mattathias should die, he sayd vnto his sonnes, Now is pride and persecution increased, and the time of destruction, and the wrath of indignation.

50 Now therefore, my sonnes, be ye zealous of the Law, and giue your liues for the covenant of our fathers.

51 Call to remembrance what actes our fathers did in their time: so shall ye receiue great honour and an euerslasting name;

52 * Was not Abraham found faithfull in temptation, and it was imputed vnto him for righteousness?

53 * Joseph in the time of his trouble kept the commandement, and was made the lord of Egypt.

54 * Because our father, because he was zealous and feruent, obtained the covenant of the euerslasting Priesthood.

55 * Helus for fulfilling the word, was made the gouernour of Israel.

56 * Caleb, because he bare witness before the congregation, receiued the heritage of the land.

57 * David, because of his mercy, obtained the throne of the king dome for euermore.

58 * Elias, because hee was zealous and feruent in the Law, was taken vp euen vnto heauen.

59 * Ananias, Azarias, and Misael by their faith were deliuered out of the flame.

60 * Daniel, because of his innocence, was deliuered from the mouth of the Lions.

61 And thus ye may consider throughout all ages, that whosoever put their trust in him, shall not want strength.

62 * Feare not ye then the words of a sinfull man: for his glory is but dung and wormes.

63 To day is he set vp, and to morrow he shall not be found: for he is turned into his dust, and his purpose perisheth.

64 Wherefore my sonnes, take good hearts, and do your selues men for the Law: for by it shall you obtaine glory.

65 And behold, I know that your brother Simon is a man of counsell: giue care vnto him alway: he shall be a father vnto you.

66 And Judas Maccabeus hath bene mightie and strong, euen from his youth vp: let him be your capitaine, and fight you the battell for the people.

67 Thus shall ye bring vnto you all those that obserue the Law, and shall auenge the iniuries of your people.

68 Recompense fully the heathen, and giue your selues to the commandement of the Law.

69 So he blessed them, and was laid with his fathers,

70 And died in the hundredth, fortieth and first yeere, and his sonnes buried him in his fathers sepulchre at Modin, and all Israel made great lamentation for him.

10 ¶ But Apollonius gathered the Gentiles, and a great hoste out of Samaria, to fight against Israel.

11 Which when Judas perceived, hee went forth to meete him, and smote him, and slew him, so that many fell downe slaine, and the rest fledde.

12 So Judas tooke their spoiles, and tooke also Apollonius sword, and fought with it all his life long.

13 ¶ Now when Seron a prince of the army of Syria, heard that Judas had gathered vnto him the congregation, and Church of the faithfull, and went forth to the warre, 14 He said, I will get me a name, and will be glorious in the Realme: For I will goe fight with Judas, and them that are with him, which haue despised the kings commandement.

15 So he made him ready to go by, and there went with him a mighty hoste of the vngodly to helpe him, and to be auenged of the children of Israel.

16 And when hee came neere to the going by of Beth-horon, Judas went forth to meete him with a small company.

17 But when they saw the armie coming against them, they sayd to Judas, How are we able being so few, to fight against so great a multitude, and so strong, seeing we be so weary, and haue fasted all this day?

18 Then said Judas, It is an easing thing for many to bee shut up in the hands of few, and there is no difference before the God of heauen, so deliuer by a great multitude, or by a small company.

19 For the victory of the battell standeth not in the multitude of the hoste, but the strength cometh from heauen.

20 They come against vs with a cruell and proud multitude to destroy vs, and our wiues, and our children, and to robbe vs.

21 But we do. fight for our liues, and for our Lawes.

22 And God himselfe will destroy them before our face: therefore be not ye afraid of them.

23 And when he had left off speaking, he leapt suddenly vpon them: so was Seron and his host destroyed before him.

24 And they pursued them from the going do vne of Beth-horon vnto the plaine: where there were siue eight hundred men of them, and the residue fled into the land of the Philistines.

25 Then the feare and terrour of Judas and his brethren fell vpon the nations round about.

26 So that his fame came vnto the Kings: for all the Gentiles could tell of the warres of Judas.

27 ¶ But when king Antiochus heard these tidings, hee was angry in his minde: wherefore he sent forth, and gathered all the power of his Realme, a very strong armie.

28 And opened his treasure, and gaue his hoste a yeeres wages in hand, commanding them to be ready for a yeere for all occasions.

29 Nevertheless, when hee saw that the monney of his treasures failed, and that the tributes in the countrey were small, because of the dissension, and plagues that he had brought vpon the land, in taking away the Lawes which had bene of olde time,

30 Hee feared lest he should not haue now at the second time, as at the first, for the charges and gifts that he had giuen with a liberal hand afore: for in liberalitie hee farre passed the other Kings that were before him.

31 Therefore hee was heauie in his minde, and thought to goe into Persia, for to take tributes of the countreys, and to gather much money.

32 So he left Lysias a noble man, and of the Kings blood to ouerserue the kings businesse, from the river of Euphrates, vnto the borders of Egypt, 33 And to bring by his sonne Antiochus, till he came againe.

34 Moreover, he gaue him halfe of his hoste and Elephants, and gaue him the charge of all things that he would haue done.

35 And concerning those which dwelt in Iuda and Ierusalem, that he should send an armie against them, to destroy & roote out the power of Israel and the remnant of Ierusalem, and to put out their memorials from that place.

36 And to let strangers for to inhabite all their quarters, & part their land among them.

37 And the King tooke the halfe of the hoste that remained, and departed from Antiochia his royall cite, in the yeere an hundredth fourtie and seuen, and passed the river Euphrates, and went thorow the hie countreys.

38 Then Lysias chose Ptolemus the sonne of Dorimeneus, and Aicanor, & Sogias, mighty men and the kings friends, 39 And sent with them fortie thousand footemen, and seuen thousand horsemen, to goe into the land of Iuda, and to destroy it, as the king commanded.

40 So they went forth with all their power, and came & pitched by Emmaus in the plaine country.

† Emmaus.

41 Now when the merchants of the countrey heard the rumour of them, they tooke very much silver and gold, and seruants, and came into the campe to buy the children of Israel for slaves, and the strength of Syria and of strange nations toynd with them.

42 ¶ Now when Judas and his brethren saw that trouble increased, and that the hoste drew neere vnto their borders, considering the kings words, whereby hee had commanded to destroy the people, and utterly abolish them.

43 They said one to another, Let vs redresse the decay of our people, and let vs fight for our people, and for our Sanctuary.

44 Then the congregation were soone ready gathered to fight, and to pray, and to desire mercie and compassion.

45 As for Ierusalem, it was not inhabited, but was as a wilderness. There went none that was borne in it, in or out at it, and the Sanctuary

Sanctuary was troden downe, and the strangers kept the fortreffe, and it was the habitation of the heathen: and the mirch of Jacob was taken away: the pipe and the harpe ceased.

46 So they gathered themselves together, and came to Balaia before Ierusalem: for in Balaia was the place where they prayed alowetime in Israel.

47 And they fasted that day, and put sackcloth upon them, & cast ashes upon their heads, and rent their clothes,

48 And opened the booke of the Law, wherein the heathen sought to paint the likenesse of their idoles, 49 And brought the Priests garments, and the first fruits, and the tithes, and set there the Nazarites, which accomplished their dayes.

50 And they cried with a lowd voyce toward heauen, saying, What shall we doe with these? and whither shall we cary them away?

51 For thy Sanctuary is troden downe and drifed, and thy Priests are in heauinesse, and brought downe.

52 And behold, the heathen are come against vs, to destroy vs: thou knowest what things they imagine against vs.

53 How can we stand before them, except thou helpe vs?

54 Then they blew the trumpets, and cried with a lowd voyce.

55 And after this Judas ordeined captaines ouer the people, euen captaines ouer thousands, and captaines ouer hundredes, and captaines ouer fifties, and captaines ouer tens.

56 And they commanded them that builded houses, or married wiues, or planted vineyards, or were fearefull, that they should returne euery one to his owne house, according to the Law.

57 So the hoste remooued, and pitched vpon the South side of Emmaus.

58 And Judas said, Arme yourselves and be valiant men, and be ready against the morning to fight with these nations, which are gathered together against vs, to destroy vs and our Sanctuary.

59 For it is better for vs to die in battell, then to see the calamities of our people, and of our Sanctuary.

60 Remember this, as the will of God is in heauen, so be it.

CHAP. IIII.

1 Judas goeth against Gorgias which lyeth in wait.

14 He putteth Gorgias and his hoste to flight. 28 Lysias smaseth Iudea. 29 But Judas drineth him out.

43 Judas purifieth the Temple, and dedicateth the Altar.

Then tooke Gorgias five thousand foote men and a thousand of the best horsemen, and departed out of the campe by night.

2 To invade the campe of the Iewes, and to slay them suddenly, and the men of the fortreffe were his guides.

3 Now when Judas heard it, he remooued, and they that were valient men, to smite the Kings armie which was at Emmaus.

4 Whiles yet the army was disperfed from the campe.

5 In the meane season came Gorgias by night vnto Judas campe: and when he found no man there, he sought them in the mountaines: for, said he, they fled from vs.

6 But as soon as it was day, Judas shewed himselfe in the field with three thousand men, which had neither harmfull nor so ord to their mindes.

7 And they saw that the armies of the heathen were strong, and well armed, and their horsemen about them, and that they were expert men of warre.

8 Then said Judas to the men that were with him, Feare ye not their multitude, neither be afraid of their assault.

9 Remember how our fathers were deliuered in the red Sea, when Pharaoh pursued them with an armie.

10 Therefore now let vs cry vnto heauen, and the Lord will haue mercy vpon vs, and remember the covenant of our fathers, and will destroy this hoste before our face this day.

11 So shall all the heathen know, that there is one which deliuereth and saueth Israel.

12 Then the strangers life up their eyes, and saw them coming against them.

13 And they went out of their tents into the battell, and they that were with Judas, blew the trumpets.

14 So they toynd together, and the heathen were discomfited, and fled by the plaine.

15 But the hindmost of them fel by the sword, and they pursued them vnto Gazeron, and into the plaines of Idumea, and of Azotus, and of Iamnia, so that there were slaine of them about three thousand men.

16 So Judas turned againe with his hoste, from pursuing them.

17 And said vnto the people, Be not greedy of the spoiles: for there is a battell before vs.

18 And Gorgias and the armie is here by vs in the mountaine: but stand ye now fast against your enemies, and ouercome them: then may ye safely take the spoiles.

19 As Judas was speaking these wordes, there appeared one part which looked from the mountaines.

20 But when Gorgias saw that his were fled, and that Judas couldiers burnt the tents: (for the smoke that was leene, declared what was done.)

21 When they saw these things, they were sore afraid, and when they saw also that Judas and his hoste were in the field ready to let themselves in aray.

22 They fled euery one into the land of strangers.

23 So Judas turned againe to spoyle the tents, where he gate much gold and siluer, and precious stones, and purple of the sea, and great riches.

24 Thus they went home, and sung Psalmes and prayed toward the heauen: for he is gracious, and his mercy endureth for ever.

25 And so Israel had a great victory in that day.

26 ¶ Now all the strangers that escaped, came, and told Lysias all the things that were done.

27 Who when he heard these things, was sore afraid & discouraged, because such things came not vpon Israel as he would, neither such things as the king had commanded him, came to passe.

28 Therefore the next yeere following, gathered Lysias threescore thousand chosen footemen, and five thousand horsemen to fight against Jerusalem.

29 So they came into || Ioumea, and pitched their tents at || Beth-lura, where Judas came against them with ten thousand men.

30 And when he saw that mighty armie, hee prayed, and said, Blessed be thou, O Saviour of Israel, which didst destroy the assault of the mighty man by the hand of thy servant David, and gapest the booke of the strangers into the hand of Jonathan the sonne of Saul, and of his armour bearer.

31 Shew by this army in the hand of thy people of Israel, and let them be confounded with their power, and with their horsemen.

32 Make them afraid, and consume their boldness and strength, that they may be astonished at their destruction.

33 Cast them downe by the sword of them that loue thee: then shall all they that know thy Name, praise thee with songs.

34 So they layed together, and there were slaine of Lysias host five thousand men, and they fell before them.

35 Then Lysias, seeing his army purto flight, and the manliness of Judas souldiers, and that they were ready, either to liue or die valiantly, he went into Antiochia, & gathered strangers, and when he had furnished his army, he thought againe (being prepared) to come against Iudea.

36 Then said Judas & his brethren, Behold, our enemies are discomfited: let vs now goe vp, to cleanse, and to repaire the Sanctuary.

37 So all the hoste gathered them together, and went up into the mountaine of Sion.

38 Now when they saw the Sanctuary layd waste, and the altar defiled, and the doores burnt vp, and the shrubs growing in the courts, as in a forest, or as on one of the mountaines, and that the Priests chambers were broken downe,

39 They rent their clothes, and made great lamentation, and cast ashes vpon their heads, 40 And fell downe to the ground on their faces, and blew an alarme with the trumpets, and cried toward heauen.

41 Then Judas commanded certaine of the men to fight against those that were in the castle, till he had cleansed the Sanctuary.

42 So hee chose Priests that were vndefiled, such as delighted in the law.

43 And they clenched the Sanctuary, and bare out the defiled stones into an vnckene place, 44 And consulted what to doe with the altar of burnt offerings which was polluted.

45 So they thought it was best to destroy it, lest it should be a reproch vnto them, because the heathen had defiled it: therefore they destroyed the altar, 46 And layed vp the stones vpon the mountaine of the Temple in a conuenient place, till there should come a prophet, to shew what should be done with them.

47 So they tooke whole stones according to the law, and builded a new altar according to the former,

48 And made vp the Sanctuary, and the things that were vnto the Temple, and the courts, and all things.

49 They made also new holy vessels, and brought into the Temple the candlesticke, and the altar of burnt offerings, and of incense, and the table.

50 And they burnt incense vpon the altar, and lighted the lamps which were vpon the candlesticke, that they might burne in the Temple.

51 They set also the shewbread vpon the table, and hanged vp the vailles, and finished all the works that they had begun to make.

52 And vpon the five and twentieth day of the ninth moneth, which is called the moneth of Chassen, in the hundredeth and eight and fortieth yeere they rose vp betimes in the morning, 53 And offered sacrifice according to the Law, vpon the new altar of burnt offerings, that they had made.

54 According to the time, and according to the day, that the heathen had defiled it, in the same day, was it made new with songs, and harps, and lutes, and cymbals.

55 And all the people fell vpon their faces, worshipping and praying toward the heauen him that had giuen them good successe.

56 So they kept the dedication of the altar eight daies, offering burnt offerings with gladnesse, and offered sacrifices of deliuerance and prayle.

57 And decked the forefront of the Temple with crownes of gold & shields, and dedicated the gates and chambers, and hanged doores vpon them.

58 Thus there was very great gladnesse among the people, and the reproch of the heathen was put away.

59 So Judas and his brethren with the whole congregation of Israel ordeined that the dayes of dedication of the altar should be kept in their season from yeere to yeere, by the space of eight dayes, from the five and twentieth day of the moneth Chassen, with mirth and gladnesse.

60 And at the same time builded they vpon mount Sion with her walles & strong towres round about, lest the Gentiles should come and tread it downe, as they had done afore.

61 Therefore they set a garrison there to keepe it, and fortified Beth-lura, to keepe it, that the people might haue a defence against Ioumea.

✓ CHAP. V.

3 Judas vanquished the heathen that goe about to destroy Israel, and is holpen of his brethren Simon and Jonathan. 50 Hee overthroweth the citie of Ephron, because they denied him passage thorow it.

Now when the nations round about heard, that the altar was builded, and the Sanctuary renewed as afore, they were sore grieved.

2 Therefore they thought to destroy the generation of Jacob that was among them, and began to slay and destroy the people.

3 Then Judas fought against the children of Esau in Ioumea at || Arabathene, because they besieged the Israelites, and he smote them with a great plague, and droue them to straits, and tooke their spoiles.

4 He thought also vpon the malice of the children of Bean, which had bene a snare and an hinderance vnto the people, when they lay in waite for them in the high way.

5 Therefore he sheweth them by in towres, and besieged besieged them, and destroyed them utterly, and burnt their towers with fire, with all that were in them.

6 Afterward, went hee against the children of Ammon, where hee found a mighty power, and a great multitude with Timotheus their captaine.

7 So hee had many battels with them, but they were destroyed before him, and so hee discomfited them.

8 And tooke Gazer, with the townes thereof, and so turned againe into Judea.

9 ¶ Then the heathen that were in Galaad, gathered them together against the Israelites that were in their quarters, to slay them: but they fled to the castle of Darchiman.

10 And sent letters to Judas, and to his brethren, saying, The heathen that are about vs, are gathered against vs, to destroy vs.

11 And they make them ready for to come, and to take the fortreffe, whereunto we are fled, and Timotheus is captaine of their hoste.

12 Come now therefore, and deliuer vs out of their hands: for many of vs are slaine.

13 And all our brethren that were at Enbin, are slaine, and they haue taken away their wines and their children, and their goods, and destroyed there almost a thousand men.

14 While these letters were yet a reading, behold, there came other messengers from Galile, with their clothes rent, which told the same tidings.

15 And said that they of Ptolemais, and of Tyros, and of Sidon, and of all Galile of the Gentiles were gathered against them to destroy them.

16 When Judas and the people heard these wordes, a great congregation came together, to consult what they might doe for their brethren that were in trouble, and whom they besieged.

17 Then sayd Judas to Simon his brother, Chase thee our men, and go and deliuer thy brethren in Galile, and I and my brother Jonathan will goe into the countrey of Galaad.

18 ¶ So hee left Iosiphus the sonne of Zacharias, and Azarias to bee captaines of the people, and to keepe the remnant of the hoste in Judea.

19 And commanded them, saying, Take the our sight of this people, and make no warre against the heathen until we come againe.

20 And unto Simon were giuen three thousand men, to goe into Galile, and to Judas eight thousand men for the countrey of Galaad.

21 ¶ Then went Simon into Galile, and gaue diuers battels to the heathen, and the heathen were discomfited by him.

22 And hee pursued them vnto the gates of Ptolemais: and there were slaine of the heathen almost three thousand men: so hee tooke their spoiles.

23 Thus they rescued them that were in Galile and in Arabatts, with their wines, and their children, and all that they had, & brought them into Judea with great ioy.

24 ¶ Judas Maccabeus also and his brother Jonathan went ouer Jordan, and trauesled three dayes journey in the wilderness.

25 Where they met with the Nabathites, who received them lovingly, & told them every thing that was done vnto their brethren in the countrey of Galaad.

26 And how that many of them were besieged in Boloira, and Bolo, in Alems, ¶ Chabon, Haged and Carnaim (all these cities are strong and great.)

Or, Casshan.

27 And that they were kept in other cities of Galaad, and to morrow they are appointed to bring their hoste vnto these foyses, and to take them, and to destroy them all in one day.

28 So Judas & his hoste turned in all haste by the way of the wilderness toward Boloira, and wanne the citie, and slew all the males with the edge of the sword, and tooke all their spoile, and set fire vpon the citie.

29 And in the night he removed from thence, and went toward the fortreffe.

30 And betimes in the morning when they looked vp, beholde, there was an innumerable people bearing ladders, and instruments of warre, to take the fort, and had assailed them.

31 When Judas saw that the battell was begun, and that the cry of the citie went vp to heauen with trumpets, and a great sound.

32 Then he said vnto the armie, Fight this day for your brethren.

33 So he went forth behind them with three companies, and they blew the trumpets, and cried with prayer.

34 ¶ Then the hoste of Timotheus knew, that it was Maccabeus, and they fled from him, and hee smote them with a great slaughter, so that there were killed of them the same day, almost eight thousand men.

35 ¶ Then departed Judas vnto Basphe, and laid siege vnto it, and wanne it, and slew all the males thereof, and spoiled it, and set fire vpon it.

36 From thence went hee and tooke Chabon, Haged, and Bolo, and the other cities in Galaad.

37 After these things gathered Timotheus another hoste, and he camped before Rayhon beyond the flood.

38 Now Judas had sent to espie the host, and they brought him word againe, saying, All the heathen that bee round about vs, are gathered vnto him, and the hoste is very great.

39 And he hath hired the Arabians to helpe them, and they haue pitched their tents beyond the flood, and are ready to come & fight against thee. So Judas went to meet them.

40 ¶ Then Timotheus said vnto the captains of his hoste, When Judas and his hoste come nere the flood, if he passe ouer first vnto vs, we shall not be able to withstand him: for he will be too strong for vs.

41 But if he be afraid, and campe beyond the flood, wee will goe ouer vnto him, and shall preuaile against him.

42 Now when Judas came nere to the flood, hee caused the gouernours of the people to remaine by the flood, and commanded them, saying, Suffer none to pitch a tent, but let every man come to the battell.

43 So hee went first ouer toward them, and all the people after him: and all the heathen were discomfited before him, & cast away their weapons, and fled into the temple that was at Carnaim.

44 Which cite Judas wanne, and burnt the Temple with all that were in it: so was Carnaim subdued, and might not withstand Judas.

45 ¶ Then Judas gathered all the Israelites that were in the countrey of Galaad from the least unto the most, with their wives and their children, and their baggage, a very great hoste, to come into the land of Juda.

46 So they came unto Ephron, which was a great cite by the way, and strongly defended: they could not passe neither at the right hand nor at the left, but must goe thorow it.

47 But they that were in the city, shut themselves in, and stopped up the gates with stones: and Judas sent unto them with peaceable words, saying,

48 Let vs passe thorow your land, that wee may goe into our owne countrey, and none shall hurt you: we will but onely goe thorow on foot: but they would not open unto him.

49 Wherefore Judas commanded a proclamation to bee made throughout the hoste, that every man should assault it according to his standing.

50 So the valiant men set upon it, & assaulted the cite all that day, and all that night, and the cite was given over into his hands:

51 Who slew all the males with the edge of the sword, and destroyed it, and tooke the spoile thereof, and went thorow the cite over them that were slaine.

52 Then went they over Jordan into the great plaine before Bethsan.

53 And Judas gathered together those that were behind, and gaue the people good exhortation all the way thorow, till they were come into the land of Juda.

54 Thus they went by with joy and gladnes unto mount Sion, where they offered burnt offerings, because there were none of them slaine, but came home againe in safete.

55 ¶ Now whilles Judas & Jonathan were in the land of Galaad, and Simon their brother in Galilee before Ptolemæus, 56 Joseph the sonne of Zacharias and Azarias the captaines, hearing of the valiant actes, and battels which they had achieved, said, 57 Let vs get vs a name also, and goe fight against the heathen that are round about vs.

58 So they gaue their host a commandement and went toward Jamnia.

59 But Gorgias and his men came out of the city to fight against them.

60 And Joseph & Azarias were put to flight, and pursued unto the borders of Judea: and there were slaine that day of the people of Israel about two thousand men: so that there was a great overthrow among the people of Israel:

61 Because they were not obedient unto Judas and his brethren, but thought to doe some valiant thing.

62 Also they came not of the stocks of these men, by whose hands deliverance was given to Israel.

63 But the man Judas, and his brethren were greatly commended in the sight of all Israel, and of all the heathen, wherefoever their name was heard of.

64 And the people came unto them, bidding them welcome.

65 Afterward went Judas fourth with his brethren, & fought against the children of Elan in the land toward the South, where he wanne Bethon, and the townes thereof, and he destroyed the castle thereof, and burnt the townes thereof round about.

66 Then remooved hee to goe into the land of the strangers, and went thorow Samaria.

67 At the same time were the Pilates of the city slaine in the battell, which would shew their valiantnesse, and went forth to battell without counsell: and when Judas came to Azotus in the strangers land, he brake downe their altars, and burnt with fire the images of their gods, and tooke away the spoiles of the cities, & came againe into the land of Juda.

CHAP. VI.

2 Antiochus willing to take the cite of Elima, is driven away of the citizens. 8 He falleth into sickness, and dieth. 17 His sonne Antiochus is made King. 34 The manner to provoke elephants to fight. 43 Eleazarus valiant acte. 48 The siege of Sion.

NOW when king Antiochus travelled thow
Now the high countreys, hee heard that Elima was in the countrey of Persia, was a city greatly renowned for riches, silver, and gold.

2 And that there was in it a very rich temple, whereas were coverings of gold, coats-armours, and harness, which Alexander King of Macedonia the sonne of Philip (that reigned first in Grecia) had left there.

3 Wherefore he went about to take the city, and to spoile it, but he was not able: for the citizens were warned of the matter.

4 And rose up against him in battell, and he fled and departed thence with great heavinesse, and came againe into Babylon.

5 Moreover, there came one which brought him tidings in the countrey of Persia, that the armies that went against the land of Juda, were driven away.

6 And that Lysias, which went fourth first with a great power, was driven away of the Jewes, and that they were made strong by the armour, and power, and divers spoiles which they had gotten of the armies whom they had destroyed.

7 And that they had pulled downe the abomination, which he had set up upon the altar of Jerusalem, and fenced the Sanctuary with high walles as it was afore, and Beth-lura his city.

8 So when the king had heard these words, he was astonished, and sore moued: therefore he layd him downe upon his bed, and fell sicke for very sorrow, because it was not come to passe as he had thought.

9 And there continued hee many dayes: for his griefe was ever more and more, so that hee saw that he must needs die.

10 Wherefore he sent for all his friends, and said unto them, The sleepe is gone from mine eyes, and mine heart faileth for very care.

11 And I thinke with my selfe, Into what aduersitie am I come, and into what floods of miserie am I fallen now, whereas aforetime I was in prosperitie, and greatly set by, by reason of my power?

12 And now doe I remember the evils that

Or. Philistims.

I have done at Jerusalem: for I tooke all the vessels of golde and silver that were in it, and sent to destroy the inhabitants of Iuda without cause.

13 I know that these troubles are come vpon mee for the same cause, and behold, I must die with great sorrow in a strange land.

14 Then called hee for Phellis one of his friends, whom he made ruler of all his Realme, 15 And gaue him the crowne, and his robe, and the ring, that hee should instruct his sonne Antiochus, and bring him by, till hee might reigne himselfe.

16 So King Antiochus died there in the hundred and forty and ninth yere.

17 When Lysias knew that the King was dead, hee ordained Antiochus his sonne (whom hee had brought by) to reigne in his fathers stead, and called him Eupator.

18 Now they that were in the castle at Ierusalem, kept in the Israelites round about the Sanctuary, and fought alwayes their hurt, and the strengthening of the heathen.

19 Therefore Iudas thought to destroy them, and called all the people together to besiege them.

20 So they came together, and besieged them in the hundred and fifty yere, and made instruments to shoot, and other engines of warre.

21 But certaine of them that were besieged, gat forth, (vnto whome some vngodly men of Israel loyned themselves.)

22 And they went vnto the King, saying, How long wilt thou cease from executing iudgment, and avenge our brethren?

23 We haue beene ready to serue thy Father and to goe forward in thole things, that hee appointed, and to obey his commandements.

24 Therefore they of our nation fell from vs for this cause, and wheresoeuer they found any of vs, they slewe them, and spoiled our inheritance.

25 And they haue not onely layde hand vpon vs, but vpon all about their borders.

26 And behold, this day are they besieging the castle at Jerusalem to take it, and haue fortified the Sanctuary, and Beth-sura.

27 And if thou dost not preuent them quickly, they will doe greater things then these, and thou shalt not be able to ouercome them.

28 When the King heard this, hee was very angry, and called all his friends, the Captaines of his armie, and his hoistmen, 29 And bands that were hired, came vnto him from the Kings, that were confederate, and from the Isles of the Sea.

30 So the number of his armie was an hundred thousand footmen, and twenty thousand hoistmen, and two and thirtie Elephants exercised in battell.

31 These came through Iudmen, and drew neere to Beth-sura, and besieged it a long season, and made engines of warre: but they came out and burnt them with fire, and fought valiantly.

32 Then departed Iudas from the castle, and remooued the hoste toward Beth-zacarias, ouer against the Kings campe.

33 So the King arose very early, and brought the armie and his power toward the way of Beth-zacarias, where the armie set themselves in aray to the battell, and blew the trumpets.

34 And to prouoke the elephants for to fight, they shewed them the blood of grapes and mulberries.

35 And they set the beasts according to the ranges: so that by every Elephant there stood a thousand men armed with coats of male and helmets of brasse vpon their heads, and vnto every beast were ordeined fiftie hundred hoistmen of the beast.

36 Which were ready at all times wheresoeuer the beast was: and whithersoener the beast went, they went also, and departed not from him.

37 And vpon them were strong towres of wood that couered every beast, which were fastened thereon with instruments, and vpon every one was two & thirtie men that fought in them, and the Indian that ruled him.

38 They set also the remnant of the hoistmen vpon both the sides in two wings of the hoste, to flye them by and to keepe them in the valleys.

39 And when the Sunne shone vpon the golden shields, the mountaines glistered therewith, and gaue light as lampes of fire.

40 Thus part of the Kings armie was spread vpon the high Mountaines, and part beneath: so they marched forward warily, and in order.

41 And all they that heard the noise of their multitude, and the marching of the companie and the rattling of the harness, were astonished: for the army was very great and mighty.

42 Then Iudas and his host entered into the battell, and they slewe fiftie hundred men of the Kings armie.

43 Now when Eleazar the sonne of Abiaron, saw one of the Elephants armed with royal harness, and was more excellent then all the other beasts, he thought that the king should see vpon him.

44 Wherefore hee jeopardied himselfe to deliuer his people, and to get him a perpetual name.

45 And ranne boldly vnto him through the middes of the hoste, slaying on the right hand and on the left, so that they departed away on both sides.

46 So went hee to the Elephants side, and gat him vnder him, and slew him, then fel the Elephant downe vpon him and there hee died.

47 But the other, seeing the power of the king, and the fiercenesse of his armie, departed from them.

48 And the Kings armie went by to meette them toward Jerusalem, and the king pitched his tents in Iuda toward mount Eton.

49 Wheresoeuer the king tooke truce with them that were in Beth-sura: but when they came out of the cite, because they had no victuals there, and were shut by therein, and the land had rested, 50 The king tooke Beth-sura, and set there a garrison to keepe it.

51 And besieged the Sanctuary many daies, and made instruments to shooe, and other engines of warre, and instruments to cast fire and stones, and pieces to cast darts and slings.

52 They also made engines against their engines, and fought a long season.

53 But in the gaires there were no vittalles, for it was the seventh yere, and then they that were in Judea, and were deliuered from the Gentiles, had eaten up the residue of the store, 54 So that in the Sanctuary were few men left: for the famine came so vpon them, that they were scattered euery man to his owne place.

55 ¶ Now when Lysias heard that Philty, whome Antiochus the King whiles hee liued, had ordeined to bring vp Antiochus his sonne, hat he might be King)

56 Was come againe out of Persia and Media and the Kings hoste with him, and thought to take vnto him the rule of things, 57 Wee and his hostes, & were stirred forward by them in the castle to goe & tell the King, and the Capitaines of the host, and to others, saying, Wee decrease daily, and our victuals are but small: and the place that we lay siege vnto, is strong, and the affaires of the realme depend vpon vs.

¶ Or, Give hands,

58 Now therefore let vs agree with these men, and take truce with them, and with all their nation, 59 And graunt them to liue after their Law, as they did afore: for they bee grieued, and doe all these things, because wee haue broken their Lawes.

60 So the King and the Princes were content, and sent vnto them to make peace, and they receiued it.

61 When the King and the Princes had made an oath vnto them, they came vpon this out of the fortesse.

62 And the King went by to mount Sion: but when he saw that the place was well defended, hee brake his oath that hee had made, and commanded to breake downe the wall round about.

63 Then departed hee in all haste, and returned vnto Antiochia, where hee found Philty hauing dominion of the citie: so he fought against him, and tooke the citie by force.

CHAP. VII.

1 Demetrius reigned after hee had killed Antiochus and Lysias. 5 Hee troubleth the children of Israel through the counsel of certaine wicked persons 37 The prayer of the Priests against Nicanor. 42 Judas killeth Nicanor, after hee had made his prayer, Joseph, Ant. 1.2, chap. 5.

¶ In the hundredth and one and fiftieth yee, departed Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus from Rome, and came by with a few men vnto a citie of the Sea coast, and reigned there.

2 And when hee came into the possession of his Fathers kingdom, his souldiers tooke Antiochus and Lysias, and brought them vnto him.

3 But when it was told him, hee said, Shew me not their faces.

4 So they put them to death. Now when Demetrius was set vpon the throne of his kingdom,

5 There came vnto him all the wicked and vngodly men of Israel whose captaine was Alcimus, that would haue bene the high Priest.

6 These men accused the people vnto the King, saying, Judas and his brethren haue slaine all thy friends, and drinen vs out of our owne land.

7 Wherefore send now some man, whome thou trustest, that hee may goe and see all the destruction, which he hath done vnto vs and to the Kings land, and let him punish them with all their partakers.

8 Then the King chose Bacchides a friend of his, which was a great man in the Realme, and ruled beyond the flood, and was faithfull vnto the King, and sent him.

9 And that wicked Alcimus, whom he made high Priest, and commanded him to be auenged of the children of Israel.

10 So they departed, and came with a great hoste into the land of Iuda, and sent messengers to Judas and his brethren, deceitfully with peaceable words.

11 But they beleueed not their saying: for they saw that they were come with a great host.

12 Then a company of the gouernours assembled vnto Alcimus and Bacchides to intreate of reasonable points.

13 And the // Asseans were the first that required peace among the children of Israel.

¶ Or, Haggadims,

14 For, sayde they, He that is a Priest of the seed of Aaron, is come with this armie: therefore he will not hurt vs.

15 Then hee spake vnto them peaceably, and sware vnto them, and sayde, We will doe you no harme, neither your friends:

16 And they beleueed him: but hee tooke of them threescore men, and slew them in one day, according to the words that were written,

17 They haue cast the bodies of thy Saints, and their blood round about Ierusalem, & there was no man that would bury them.

¶ Psal. 79

18 So there came a feare, and a trembling among all the people: for they sayde, There is neither tructh nor righteousness in them: for they haue broken the appointment and othe that they made.

19 Then Bacchides remoored from Ierusalem, and pitched his tent at Beth-zetcha, where he sent forth & tooke many of the men that had forsaken him, and certaine of the people, whom he slew and cast into the great pit.

¶ Or, Beth-zetah, or, Beth-zeth.

20 Then committed hee the countrey vnto Alcimus, and left men of war with him to helpe him: so Bacchides went vnto the King.

21 Thus Alcimus stroue for the Priesthood.

22 And all such as troubled the people, resorted vnto him: insomuch that they obtained the land of Iuda, and did much hurt in Israel.

23 Now when Judas sawe all the mischief that Alcimus and his company had done among the Israelites more then the heathen, 24 Wee went forth round about all the borders of Iuda, and punished those that were fallen away, so that they came no more abroad in the countrey.

25 But when Alcimus sawe that Judas and his people had gotten the vpper hand, and knew that hee was not able to abide them, hee went againe to the King, and accused them of wicked things.

26 Then the King sent Nicanor one of his chiefe Princes, which hated Israel dradly, and commanded him that hee should destroy the people.

Joseph, Ant. 1.2, chap. 16.

27 So Nicanor came to Ierusalem with a great host, and sent vnto Judas and his brethren deceitfully with friendly words saying, 28 Let there bee no warre betwene mee and you, I will come with fewe men, to see how ye doe friendly.

29 So he came vnto Judas, and they saluted one another peaceably: but the enemies were prepared to take away Judas.

30 Nevertheless, it was told Judas that hee came vnto him vnder deceit: therefore he feared him, and would see his face no more.

¶ Or, Caphtan-Sarama.

31 When Nicanor perceived that his counsell was betrayed, hee went out to fight against Judas, beside ¶ Carphasalama, 32 Where there were slaine of Nicanors host about fife thousand men: so they fled vnto the cite of David.

33 After this came Nicanor by vnto mount Sion, and some of the priests with the Elders of the people, went forth of the Sanctuary to salute him peaceably, and to shew him the burnt offering that was offered for the king.

34 But hee laughed at them, and mocked them, and counted them prophane, and spake proudly.

35 And swearing in his wrath, saying, If Judas and his hoste bee not deliuered now into mine hands, if euer I come againe in safetie, I will burne by this house. With that went he out in a great anger.

36 Then the Priests came in, and stood before the Altar in the Temple, weeping, and saying,

Isa. 56. 5, 7.

37 Forasmuch, as thou, O Lord, hast chosen this house that thy Name might be called vpon therein, and that it should be an house of prayer, and petition for thy people, 38 Bee auenged of this man and his hoste, and let them be slaine by the sword: remember their blasphemies, and suffer them not to continue.

39 ¶ When Nicanor was gone from Ierusalem, hee pitched his tent at Beth-horon, and there an hoste met him out of Syria.

¶ Or, Adasfa.

40 And Judas pitched in ¶ Adasa, with three thousand men, where Judas prayed, saying, isa. 37. 36.

3. mas. 8. 19.

41 O Lord, because the messengers of king Se machiab blasphemed thee, thine Angel went forth, and slew an hundred fourescore and fife thousand of them.

42 So destroy thou this host before vs to day, that all other may know that hee hath spoken wickedly against thy Sanctuary, and punish him according to his malice.

43 So the armies toynd together in battell, the thirteenth day of the moneth Adar: but Nicanors hoste was discomfited, and hee himselfe was first slaine in the battell.

44 Now when his army saw that Nicanor was slaine, they cast away their weapons, and fled.

45 But they pursued after them a dayes iourney from Adasa vnto Gadera, blowing an alarme with the trumpets after them.

46 So they came forth of all the townes of Iudaea round about, and rushed vpon them, and threw them from one to another, so that they all fell by the sword, and there was not one of them left.

47 Then they tooke the spoiles, and the pray, and wore off Nicanors head, and his right hand, which he held vp so proudly, and brought it with them, and hanged them vpon afoze Ierusalem.

48 So the people reioyced greatly, and kept that day as a day of great gladnesse.

49 And they ordeined, to keepe yeerely that day on the thirteenth day of the moneth Adar.

50 Thus the land of Iuda was in rest a litle while.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Judas, considering the power and policie of the Romans, maketh peace with them. 2 The conditions of mutual friendship sent to the Iewes.

Joseph. Ant. 12. cap. 18.

Iudas heard also the fame of the Romans, that they were mighty and valiant, and agreeable to all things that were required of them, and made peace with all that came vnto them,

2 And that they were men of great power, and they tolde him of their battels, and their worthy actes which they did among the ¶ Sallatians whom they had conquered, and made to pay tribute.

¶ Or, French-men.

3 And what they had done in the countrey of Spaine: how that they had wonne there the mines of silver and gold,

4 And that by their counsell and gentle behaviour they were rulers in every place, though the place was farre from them, and that they had discomfited and giuen great overthrowes to the Kings that came against them, from the uttermost part of the earth, & that others gaue them tribute euery yeere,

5 How they had also discomfited by battell Philip and Perles kings of the ¶ Macedonians and others that arose against them, and how they ouercamethem, ¶ Or, Cymus.

6 And how great Antiochus king of Asia, that came against them in battell, hauing an hundred and twenty Elephants, with horsemen and charets, and a very great army, was discomfited by them,

7 And how they tooke him alive, and ordeined him, with such as should reigne after him, to pay a great tribute, and to giue hostages, and a separate portion,

8 Then the countrey of India and Media, and Lydia, and of his best countreyes, which they tooke of him, and gaue them to king Eumenes.

9 Again, when it was told them that the Grecians were coming to destroy them, 10 They sent against them a capitaine, which gaue them battell, & slew many of them, and tooke many prisoners with their wives and children, and spoiled them, and conquered their land, and destroyed their strong holds, and subdued them to be their bondmen vnto this day.

11 Moreover, how they destroyed & brought into subiection other kingdomes and ples, who soeuer had withstood them:

12 But that they kept amitte with their own friends, and those that staled vpon them: finally, that they conquered kingdomes both farre and nere, in so much that who soeuer heard of their renowne, was afraid of them.

13 For whom they would helpe to their kingdomes, those reigned, and whom they would they put downe: thus were they in most high authoritie.

14 Yet for all this that none of them wore a crowne, neither was clothed in purple, to bee magnificith: reb,

15 But that they had ordeined themselves a Councill, wherein three hundred and twenty men consulted daily, and provided for the common affaires, to gouerne them well, 16 And that they committed their gouernment to one man every yere, who did rule ouer all their country, to whom euery man was obedient: and there was neither hatred nor enuie among them.

17 Then Judas chose Eupolemus the son of John, the sonne of Accus, and Jason the sonne of Eleazar, and sent them vnto Rome, to make friendship and mutuall fellowship with them,

18 That they might take from them the yoke (for they saw that the kingdom of the Grecians would keepe Israel in bondage.)

19 So they went vnto Rome, which was a very great journey, and came into the Senate, where they spake, and said, 20 Judas Maccabeus with his brethren, and the people of the Jewes hath sent vs vnto you, to make a bond of friendship and peace with you, and ye to register vs as your partakers and friends.

21 And the matter pleased them.

22 And this is the copy of the Epistle that they wrote in tables of brass, and sent to Jerusalem, that they might haue by them a memoriall of the peace and mutuall fellowship.

23 Good successe be to the Romanes, and to the people of the Jewes, by sea and by land for ever, and the sword and enemy be from them.

24 If there come first any warre vpon the Romanes, or any of their friends throughout all their dominion, 25 The people of the Jewes shall be to them, as the time shall be appointed with all their heart.

26 Also they shall giue nothing to them that come to fight for them, nor serue them with wheat nor weapons, nor money, nor shippes, as it pleaseth the Romanes, but they shall keepe their covenants without taking any thing of them.

27 Likewise also, if warre come first against the nation of the Jewes, the Romanes shall helpe them with a good will, according as the time shall be appointed them.

28 Neither shall wheat be giuen vnto them, that take their part, nor weapons, nor money, nor shippes, as it pleaseth the Romanes, who will keepe these covenants without deceit.

29 According to these Articles the Romanes made the bond with the people of the Jewes.

30 If after these points the one party, or the other will adde or diminish, they may doe it at their pleasures, and whatsoever they shall adde or take away, shall be ratified.

31 And as touching the cruell that Demetrius hath done vnto the Jewes, we haue written vnto him, saying, Therefore laye it thou thine heauie yoke vpon our friends and confederates the Jewes.

32 If therefore they complaine any more against thee, we will doe them Justice, and fight with thee by sea and by land.

CHAP. IX.

2 After the death of Nicanor, Demetrius findeth his armie against Judas. 12 Judas is slaine. 31 Jonathan is put to the proofe of his brother. 47 The battell betweene Jonathan and Bacchides. 55 Alcimus is smitten with the pal-

|| Or, the right borne.

2 So they went forth by the way that is toward Gulgala, and pitched their tents before Masaloth, which is in Arbelis, and wan it, and slew much people.

3 And in the first moneth of the hundred fiftie and two yere, they laid their siege against Jerusalem.

4 But they raised their campe, and came to Berea with twenty thousand foot men, and two thousand horsemen.

|| Or, Laize.

5 Now Judas had pitched his tent at Eleaza, and three thousand chosen men with him.

6 And when they saw that the multitude of the army was great, they were sore afraid, and many conueyed themselves out of the hoite, so that there abode no more of them but eight hundred men.

7 When Judas saw that his host failed him, and that he must needs fight, he was sore troubled in mind, that he had no time together them together, and was discouraged.

8 Neuerthelesse, he said vnto them that remained, Let vs rise, and goe by against our enemies, if peradventure we may be able to fight with them.

9 But they would haue slayed him, saying, We are not able: but let vs rather saue our liues: turne backe now, seeing our brethren are departed: for shall we fight against them that are so few?

10 Then Judas said, God forbid, that wee should doe this thing, to flee from them: if our time be come, let vs die manfully for our brethren and let vs not staine our honour.

a Heras was wont to pray and ouercome, when he trusted in his strength, and omitteth prayer.

11 Then the hoste remooued out of the tents, and stood against them, who had diuided their horsemen into two troupes, and they that they with slings, and the archers marched in the forward, and they that fought in the forward were all valiant men.

12 And Bacchides was in the right wing. So the army drew neere on both sides, and blew the trumpets.

13 They of Judas side blew the trumpets also, and the earth shooke at the noise of the armies, and the battell continued from morning to night.

14 And when Judas saw that Bacchides and the strength of his armie was on the right side, he tooke with him all the hardy men, 15 And brake the right wing, and followed vpon them vnto mount Azotus.

16 Now when they which were of the left wing, saw that the right wing was discomfited, they followed Judas behinde, and them that were with him, hard at the heeles.

17 Then was there a sore battell: for many were slaine of both the parties.

18 Judas also himselfe was killed, and the remnant fled.

19 So Jonathan and Simon tooke Judas their brother, and buried him in his fathers sepulchre.

sepulchre in the citie of Bethan.

20 And all the Israelites wept for him, and mourned greatly for him, and lamented many dayes, saying, 21 How is the valiant man fallen, which delivered Israel!

22 Concerning the other things of Judas both the battels & the valiant actes that hee did and of his worthinesse, they are not written: for they were very many.

*Joseph, Ant.
13, cap. 1, and
3.*

23 Now after the death of Judas, wicked men came up in all the coasts of Israel, and there arose all such as gaue themselves to iniquitie.

24 In those dayes was there a very great famine in the land, and all the countrey gaue ouer themselves wickd men.

25 And Bacchides did chuse wicked men, and made them lords in the land.

26 These sought out, and made search for Judas friends, and brought them vnto Bacchides, which auenged himselfe vpon them, and mocked them.

27 And there came so great trouble in Israel, as was not since the time that no Prophet was seene among them.

28 Then came all Judas friends together, and said vnto Jonathan, 29 Seeing thy brother Judas is dead, and there is none like him to goe forth against our enemies, euen against Bacchides, and against them of our nation that are enemies vnto vs,

|| Or, against the enemies of our nation.

30 Therefore this day we chuse thee that thou mauest bee our prince and capitaine in his place to order our battell.

31 So Jonathan tooke the gouernance vpon him at the same time, and ruled in stead of his brother Judas.

32 But when Bacchides knew it, hee sought for to slay him.

33 Then Jonathan and Simon his brother perceiuing that, fled into the wilderness of Thecua with all their company, and pitched their tents by the waterpoole of Alfar.

34 Which when Bacchides vnderstood, hee came ouer Jordan with all his hoste vpon the Sabbath day.

35 Now had Jonathan sent his brother John a capt. ine of the people, to pray his friends the Abathites, that they would keepe their baggage which was much.

|| Or, Lambri.

36 But the children of || Ambat came out of Medaba, and tooke John, and all that hee had, and when they had taken it, went their way.

37 After this came word vnto Jonathan, and to Simon his brother, that the children of Ambat made a great marriage, and brought the bride from || Medaba with great pompe: for shee was daughter to one of the noblest Princes of Canaan.

|| Or, Nadabash.

38 Therefore they remembred John their brother, and went up and hid themselves vnder the couer of the mountaine.

39 So they lift vp their eyes, and looked, and behold, there was a great noyse, and much preparation: then the hidegrome came footing, and his friends; & his brethren met them with tymbrels and instruments of musicke, and many weapons.

40 Then Jonathans men that lay in ambush sole vp against them, and slew many of them, and the remnant fled into the mountaines, so that theyooke all their spoyle.

41 Thus the marriage was turned to mourning, and the noyse of their iubilodie into lamentation.

42 And so when they had auenged the blood of their brother, they turned againe vnto Jordan.

43 When Bacchides heard this, he came vnto the border of Jordan with a great power vpon the Sabbath day.)

44 Then Jonathan said vnto his company, Let vs rise now, and fight against our enemies: for it is not to day as in time past.

45 Behold, the battell is before vs, and behind vs, and the water of Jordan on this side & that side, and the marie and forest, so that there is no place for vs to turne aside.

46 Wherefore cry now vnto heauen, that ye may be deliuered from the power of your enemies: for they toynd battell.

47 Then Jonathan stretched out his hand to smite Bacchides: but hee turned aside from him and reculed.

48 Then Jonathan and they that were with him leapt into Jordan, and swimmied ouer vnto the further banke: but the other would not passe through Jordan after them.

49 So in that day were slaine of Bacchides side about a thousand men.

50 Then he turned againe to Jerusalem, and built vp the strong cities in Iuda, as the castle of Iericho, and Emmaus, and Bethbozon, and Bethel, and Tannatha, || Pharathon, and || Tephob, with his walles, with gates, and with barres.

*|| Or, Phara.
|| Or, Theopha.*

51 And set garrisons in them, that they might ble their malice vpon Israel.

52 He fortified also the cite of Beth-sura, and Gazara, and the castle, and set a garrison in them with prouision of victuals.

53 Hee tooke also the chiefeest mens sonnes in the countrey for hostages, and put them in the castle at Jerusalem to be kept.

54 Afterward in the hundredth seste and thier peere, in the second moneth, Alcimus commanded that the walles of the inner court, of the Sanctuary should be destroyed, and hee pulled downe the monuments of the Prophets, and began to destroy them.

55 But at the same time Alcimus was plagued, and his enterprises were hindered, and his mouth was stopped: for hee was smitten with a palsey, and could no more speake, nor giue order concerning his house.

56 Thus dyed Alcimus with great torment at the same time.

57 And when Bacchides saw that Alcimus was dead, hee turned againe to the King, and so the land of Iuda was in rest two yeeres.

58 Then all the vngodly men held a counsil, saying, Behold, Jonathan and his company dwell at ease, and without care: wherefore let vs bring Bacchides hither, and hee will take them all in one night.

59 So they went and consulted with him.

60 Who arose and came with a great hoste, and sent letters pynelly to his adherents, which were in Iuda, to take Jonathan, and those that were with him: but they could not, for their counsellor was known unto them.

61 And they tooke fiftie men of the country, which were the chiefe workers of this wickednesse, and slew them.

62 Then Jonathan and Simon with their company departed vnto Beth-basin, which is in the wilderness, and repaired the decay thereof, and made it strong.

63 When Bacchides knew this, he gathered all his hoste, and sent word to them that were of Judea.

64 Then came hee and laid siege to Beth-basin, and fought against it a long season, & made instruments of war.

65 But Jonathan had left his brother Simon in the citie, and went forth into the country, and came with a certaine number, 66 And slew Odomerus and his brethren, and the children of Phasiron in their tents: so he began to slay, and increased in power.

67 Simon also and his company went out of the citie, and burnt by the instruments of war, 68 And fought against Bacchides, and discomfited him, & vnderd him sore, so that his counsellor and tourney was in vaine.

69 Therefore he was very wroth at the wicked men, that gaue him counsellor to come into the country, and slew many of them, and purposed to returne into his owne country.

70 Whereof when Jonathan had knowledge, hee sent ambassadours vnto him, to increate of peace with him, and that the prisoners should be deliuered.

71 Which thing he accepted, & did according to his desire, and made an oath, that hee would neuer doe him harme all the dayes of his life.

72 So hee restored vnto him the prisoners that hee had taken aforesaid out of the land of Iuda, and so returned and went into his owne land, neither did hee come any more into their borders.

73 Thus the sword ceased from Israel, and Jonathan dwelt at Machmas, and began there to gouerne the people, and destroyed the vngodly men out of Israel.

CHAP. X.

4. Demetrius desireth to haue peace with Jonathan, 18 Alexander also desireth peace with the Iewes. 48 Alexander maketh warre against Demetrius. 50 Demetrius is slaine. 51 The friendship of Ptolemies and Alexander.

Joseph. Ant. 2. 3.

In the hundredth and threescore yeere came Alexander the sonne of Antiochus Euphanes and tooke Ptolemies, and they receiued him, and there he reigned.

2 Now when Demetrius the king heard it, he gathered an exceeding great hoste, and went forth against him to fight.

3 Also Demetrius sent letters vnto Jonathan, with louing wordes, as though hee would preferre him.

4 For he said, We will first make peace with him, before hee fight with Alexander against vs.

5 Else he will remember all the euill that we haue done against him, and against his brethren and his nation.

6 And so hee gaue Jonathan leaue to gather an hoste, and to prepare weapons, and to be confederate with him, and commanded the hostes that were in the citie, to be deliuered vnto him.

7 Then came Jonathan to Jerusalem, and read the letters in the audience of all the people, and of them that were in the citie.

8 Therefore they were sore afraid, because they heard that the king had giuen him license to gather an armie.

9 So they that were of the citie, deliuered the hostages vnto Jonathan, who restored them to their parents.

10 Jonathan also dwelt at Jerusalem, and began to build and repaire the citie.

11 And he commanded the workmen to build the walles, and the mount Sion round about with hewen stone, to fortifie it: and so they did.

12 Then the strangers that were in the citie, which Bacchides had made, fled.

13 So that euery man left his place, & went into his owne country.

14 Onely at Beth-sura remained certaine which had forsaken the Lawe and the commandements: for it was their refuge.

15 Now when king Alexander had heard of the promises that Demetrius had made vnto Jonathan: and when it was told him of the battels and noble actes, which hee and his brethren had done, and of the paines that they had endured, 16 Hee sayde, Might we finde such a man? now therefore we will make him our friend and confederate.

17 Upon this he wrote a letter, and sent it vnto him with these wordes, saying, 18 KING ALEXANDER to his brother Jonathan sendeth salutation.

19 We haue heard of thee that thou art a very valiant man, and worthy to be our friend.

20 Wherefore this day we ordaine thee to be the hie Priest of thy nation, and to be called the Kings friend: (and hee sent him a purple robe, and a crowne of gold,) that thou mayest consider what is for our profit, and keepe friendship toward vs.

¶ Or, with vs. ¶ Or, take our part.

21 So in the seventh moneth of the hundredth and threescore yeere, upon the least day of the tabernacles, Jonathan put on the holy garment and gathered an hoste, and prepared many weapons.

22 Which when Demetrius heard, he was marvellous sorry, and said,

Joseph. Ant. 2. 3.

23 What haue we done that Alexander hath presented vs in getting the friendship of the Iewes for his strength?

24 Yet will I write and exhort them, and promise them dignitie and rewards that they may belyue me.

25 Whereupon hee wrote vnto them these wordes, KING DEMETRIUS vnto the nation of the Iewes sendeth greeting.

26 We haue heard that ye haue kept your covenant toward vs, and continued in our friendship, and haue not toyed with our enemies, whereof we are glad.

27 Now therefore remaine still, and keepe fidelitie toward vs, and we will recompense you for the good things that ye haue done for vs.

28 And will release you of many charges, and giue you rewards.

29 And now I discharge for your sake all the Iewes from tributes, and free you from the customes customs of salt, and the crowne taxes, and from the third part of the sode, 30 And from the halfe of the fruite of the trees which is mine owne duety, I so release them, that from this day forth, none shall take any thing of the land of Iuda, or of the three governments, which are added therunto, as of Samaria and of Galilee, * from this day forth for evermore.

31 Jerusalem also with all things belonging thereto, shall be holy and free from the tenches and tribunes.

32 Also I release the power of the castle which is at Jerusalem, and give it unto the high Priest, that he may set in it such men, as he shall choose to keepe it.

33 Whosoever I freely deliver every one of the Jewes that were taken away prisoners out of the land of Iuda throughout all my realme, and every one of them shall be free from tributes, yea, even such cattell.

34 And all the feasts, and Sabbaths, and new moones, and the dayes appointed, and the three dayes before the feast, and the three dayes after the feast, shall be dayes of freedom and liberty for all the Jewes in my realme.

35 So that in them no man shall have power to doe any thing, or to vex any of them in any manner of cause.

36 Also thirty thousand of the Jewes shall be written up in the Kings booke, and have their wages payed them as appertaineth to all them that are of the Kings armie: and of them shall be ordeined certaine to keepe the Kings strong holds.

37 And some of them shall bee set over the Kings most secret affaires, and their governours and their princes shall be of themselves, and they shall live after their owne lawes, as the King hath commanded in the land of Iuda.

38 And the three governments that are added unto Iudea from the country of Samaria, shall be joined unto Iudea, and they shall be as under one, and obey none other power, but the high Priest.

39 And I give Ptolemas and the borders thereof unto the Sanctuary at Jerusalem, for the necessary expences of the holy things.

40 Whosoever I will give every yere fiftene thousand sickles of silver of the Kings revenues, out of the places appertaining unto me.

41 And all the overplus which they have not payed for the things due, as they did in the former yeres, from henceforth they shall give it toward the workes of the Temple.

42 And besides this, the five thousand sickles of silver which they received yere of the account appointed for the entertainment of the Sanctuary, these yeres passed, such these things shall be released, because they appertaine to the Priests that minister.

43 Item, whosoever they be that live vnto the Temple at Jerusalem, or within the liberties thereof, and are indebted to the King for any manner of things, they shall be pardoned, and all that they have in my Realme.

44 For the building also and repairing of the workes of the Sanctuary, expences shall be given of the Kings revenues.

45 And for the making of the walles of Jerusalem, and fortifying it round about, that the holds in Iudea may bee built up, shall also the costs be given out of the Kings revenues.

46 ¶ But when Jonathan and the people heard these wordes, they gave no credite unto them, neither received them: for they remembered the great wickednesse that he had done in Israel, and how sore he had vexed them.

47 Wherefore they agreed unto Alexander: for hee was the first that had intreated of true peace with them, and so were confederate with him allway.

48 Then gathered king Alexander a great hoste, and camped over against Demetrius.

49 So the two kings joined battell: but Demetrius hoste fled, and Alexander pursued him and prevailed against them.

50 So that sore battell continued till the Sunne went downe, and Demetrius was slaine the same day.

51 ¶ Then Alexander sent Ambassadors unto Ptolemas the king of Egypt, with these words, saying,

52 For so much as I am come againe to my Realme, and am set in the throne of my fathers, and have gotten the dominion, & have destroyed Demetrius, and enjoy my countrey,

53 Seeing that I have even given him the battell, and hee and his armie is discomfited by me, and I sit in the throne of his kingdom, 54 Let vs now make friendship together, and give me now thy daughter to wife: so shall I be thy sonne in law, and give thee rewards, and do to her things according to thy dignity.

55 Then Ptolemas the king gave answer, saying, Wappy be the day wherein thou art come againe unto the land of thy fathers, and sittest in the throne of their kingdom.

56 Now therefore will I fulfill thy wishing: but meeete me at Ptolemas, that we may see one another, and that I may make thee my sonne in law, according to thy desire.

57 So Ptolemas went out of Egypt, with his daughter Cleopatra, and came unto Ptolemas in the hundredth threescore and two yere.

58 Where king Alexander met him, and he gave unto him his daughter Cleopatra, and married them at Ptolemas, with great glory, as the manner of kings is.

59 ¶ Then wrote king Alexander unto Jonathan, that he should come and meeete him.

60 So he went honourably unto Ptolemas, and there he met the two kings, and gave them great presents of silver and gold, and to their friends, and found favour in their sight.

61 And there assembled certaine prillient fellows of Israel, and wicked men to accuse him: but the king would not heare them.

62 And the king commanded that they should take off the garments of Jonathan, and clothe him in purple, and so they did: and the king appointed him to sit by him.

63 And said unto his Princes, Goe with him into the mids of the citie, and make a proclamation, that no man complaine against him of any matter, and that no man trouble him for any manner of cause.

64 So when his accusers saw his honour according as it was proclaimed, and that he was clothed in purple, they fled all away.

65 And the king suffered him to honour, and wrote him among his chiefe friends, and made him a duke, and pertaker of his dominion.

66 Thus Jonathan returned to Jerusalem with peace and gladnesse.

67 In the hundredth threescore and five yeere, came Demetrius the sonne of Demetrius, from Creta into his fathers land.

68 Whereof when king Alexander heard, hee was very sorie, and returned vnto Antiochia.

69 Then Demetrius appointed Apollonius the gouernour of Coelosyria, who gathered a great hoste, and camped in Iamila, and sent vnto Jonathan the high Priest, saying, 70 Darest thou, bring but alone, lift by thy selfe against vs? and I am laughed at, and reproched, because of thee: now therefore why dost thou haunt thy selfe against vs in the mountaines?

71 Now then, if thou trust in thine owne strength, come downe to vs into the plaine field, and there let vs try the matter together: for I haue the strength of cities.

72 Alke and learne who I am, and they shall take my part: and they shall tell thee that your foote is not able to stand before our face: for thy fathers haue bene twise chased in their owne land.

73 And now how wilt thou be able to abide so great an hoste of horsemen & footmen in the plain, where is neither stone, nor rocke, nor place to flee vnto?

74 When Jonathan heard the words of Apollonius, he was moued in his minde: wherefore hee chose ten thousand men, and went out of Jerusalem, and Simon his brother met him for to helpe him.

75 And hee pitched his tents at Ioppe: but they shut him out of the citie, for Apollonius garrison was in Ioppe.

76 Then they fought against it: and they that were in the citie, for very feare let him in: so Jonathan wanne Ioppe.

77 Apollonius hearing of this, tooke three thousand horsemen, with a great hoste of foote men, and went toward Azotus, as though hee would goe forward, and came immediately into the plaine field, because he had so many horsemen, and put his trust in them.

78 So Jonathan followed vpon him to Azotus, and the armie skirmished with his arriere band.

79 For Apollonius had left a thousand horsemen behinde them in ambush.

80 And Jonathan knew that there was an ambushment behinde him, and though they had compassed in his hoste, and shot darts at the people from the morning to the evening.

81 Yet the people stood still, as Jonathan had commanded them, till their horses were weary.

82 Then brought Simon forth his hoste, and set them against the band: but the horses were weary, and hee discomfited them, and they fled: so the horsemen were scattered in the field.

83 And they fled to Azotus, and came into the temple of Dagon their idole, that they might there saue themselves.

84 But Jonathan set fire vpon Azotus and all the citie round about it, & tooke their spoiles, and burnt with fire the temple of Dagon, with all them that were fled into it.

85 Thus were slaine and burnt about eight thousand men.

86 So Jonathan remoued the hoste from thence, and camped by Ascalon, where the men of the citie came forth, and met him with great honour.

87 After this went Jonathan and his hoste againe to Jerusalem with great spoiles.

88 And when King Alexander heard these things, hee began to doe Jonathan more honour, 89 And sent him a collar of gold, as the vse is to be giuen vnto such as are of the Kings blood: hee gaue him also Accaron, with the borders thereof in possession.

CHAP. XI.

1 The diffention between Ptolemus and Alexander his sonne in law. 17 The death of Alexander. 19 Demetrius reigneth after the death of Ptolemus. 22 Simon is besieged of Jonathan. 42 Demetrius seeing that no man resisted him, sendeth his armie against. 54 Tryphon moueth Antiochus against Demetrius.

AND the King of Egypt gathered a great hoste, like the land that lyeth vpon the sea shore, and many ships, and went about through deceit to obtaine the kingdome of Alexander, and to ioyne it vnto his owne Realme.

2 Vpon this he went into Syria with friendly wordes, and was let into the citie, and men came forth to meete him: for King Alexander had commanded them to meete him, because hee was his father in law.

3 Now when he entred into the citie of Ptolemais, he left bands and garrisons in every citie.

4 And when hee came nere to Azotus, they shewed him the temple of Dagon that was tumbled, and Azotus, & the suburbs thereof that were destroyed, and the bodies cast abroad, and them that hee had burnt in the battell: for they had made heapes of them by the way where he should passe.

5 And they tolde the King what Jonathan had done, to the intent they might get him euill will: but the King heid his peace.

6 And Jonathan met the King with great honour at Ioppe, where they saluted one another, and lay there.

7 So when Jonathan had gone with the King vnto the water that was called Eluiberus, he turned againe to Jerusalem.

8 So King Ptolemus rate the dominion of the citie by the sea vnto Seleucia vpon the sea coast, imagining wicked counsels against Alexander.

9 And sent Ambassadors vnto king Demetrius, saying, Come, let vs make a league betwene vs, and I will giue thee my daughter, which Alexander hath, and thou shalt reigne in thy fathers kingdome.

10 For I repent that I gaue Alexander my daughter: for he goeth about to slay me.

11 Thus he flattered Alexander as one that should desire his Realme.

12 And he tooke his daughter from him, and gaue her vnto Demetrius, and forsooke Alexander, so that their hatred was openly knowen.

13 Then Ptolemus came to Antiochia, where he set two crownes vpon his owne head, of Asia, and of Egypt.

14 In the meane season was king Alexander in Cilicia: for they that dwell in those places, had rebelled against him.

To Ieph. Ant.
13. cap. 7.

15 But when Alexander heard it, hee came to warre against him, and Ptolemys brought forth his host, and met him with a mighty power, and put him to flight.

16 Then fled Alexander into Arabia, there to be defended: so Ptolemys was exalted.

17 And Zibdi the Arabian smote off Alexanders head, and sent it unto Ptolemys.

18 But the third day after, king Ptolemys died, and they that were in the holds, were slaine one of another.

19 And Demetrius reigned in the hundred threescore and seven yeere.

20 ¶ At the same time gathered Jonathan them that were in Judea, to lay siege unto the castle which was at Jerusalem, and they made many instruments of warre against it.

21 Then went there certaine vngodly persons (which hated their owne people) unto king Demetrius, and told him that Jonathan besieged the castle.

22 So when he heard it, he was angry, and immediately came unto Ptolemys, and wrote unto Jonathan, that he should lay no more siege unto it, but that he should meet him, and speake with him at Ptolemys in all haste.

23 Neuerthelesse, when Jonathan heard this, hee commanded to besiege it: he chose also certaine of the Elders of Israel, and the Priests, and put himselfe in danger.

24 And tooke with him silver and gold, and apparell, and diuers presents, and went to Ptolemys unto the King, and found fauour in his sight.

25 And though certaine vngodly men of his owne nation, had made complaints vpon him, 26 Yet the king increased him as his predecessors had done, and promoted him in the sight of all his friends.

27 And confirmed him in the high priesthood with all the honourable things that he had afore, and made him his chiefe friend.

28 Jonathan also desired the king, that hee would make Judea free with the three governments, and the countrey of Samaria, and Jonathan promised him three hundred talents.

29 Whereunto the king consented, and gaue Jonathan writing of the same containing these wordes.

30 KING DEMETRIUS vnto his brother Jonathan, and to the nation of the Jewes sendeth greeting.

31 I have sent you here a copy of the letter, which we did write vnto our cosen Lathenes concerning you, that ye should see it.

32 King Demetrius vnto Lathenes his father sendeth greeting.

33 For the faithfulness that our friends the nation of the Jewes keepe vnto vs, and for their good will toward vs, we are determined to doe them good.

34 Wherefore we assigne to them the coasts of Judea, with the three governments, Apphema, and Lydda, and Ramatha (which are added vnto Judea from the countrey of Samaria) and all that pertaineth to all them that sacrifice in Jerusalem: both concerning the payments which the King tooke yere by yere, both for the fruits of the earth, and for the fruits of the trees.

35 As for the other things pertaining vnto us of the tithes and tributes which were due vnto vs, and the customes of salt, and crowntaxes, which were payd vnto vs, we discharge them of all from henceforth.

36 And nothing hereof shall be reckoned from this time forth and for ever.

37 Therefore see that ye make a copy of these things, and deliver it vnto Jonathan, that it may be set vp vpon the Holy Mount in an open place.

38 After this, when Demetrius the king saw that his land was in rest, and that no resistance was made against him, hee sent away all his host, every man to his owne place, except certain bands of strangers, whom he brought from the yles of the heathen: wherefore all his fathers house hated him.

39 Now was there one Tryphon, that had been of Alexanders part afore, which when he saw that all the host murmured against Demetrius, hee went to Simalcus the Arabian, that brought vp Antiochus the sonne of Alexander, 40 And lay siege vpon him, to deliver him this young Antiochus, that he might reigne in his fathers stead: hee tolde him also what great ruffe Demetrius had done, and how his men of warre hated him, and hee remained there a long season.

41 Also Jonathan sent vnto king Demetrius, to deliuer them out which were in the castle at Jerusalem, and those that were in the fortresses: for they fought against Israel.

42 So Demetrius sent vnto Jonathan, saying, I will not only doe these things for thee and thy nation, but if opportunitie serue, I will honour thee, and thy nation.

43 Now therefore thou shalt doe me a pleasure, if thou wilt send me men to helpe me: for all my armie is gone from me.

44 So Jonathan sent him three thousand strong men vnto Antiochia, and they came vnto the king: wherefore the king was very glad at their coming.

45 ¶ But they that were of the citie, such an hundred and twentie thousand men, gathered them together in the midst of the citie, and would haue slaine the king.

46 But the king fled into the palace, and the citizens kept the streets of the citie, and began to fight.

47 Then the king called to the Jewes for helpe, which came to him altogether, and went abroad thorow the citie, 48 And slew the same day an hundred thousand, and set fire vpon the citie, and tooke many spoiles that day, and deliuered the King.

49 So when the citizens saw that the Jewes had gotten the upper hand of the citie, and that they themselves were disappointed of their purpose, they made their supplication vnto the King, saying,

50 ¶ Grant vs peace, and let the Jewes cease from beating vs and the citie.

51 So they cast away their weapons, & made peace, and the Jewes were greatly honoured before the King, and before all that were in his realme, and they came againe to Jerusalem with great pray.

52 Then king Demetrius sat in the throne of his kingdom, and had peace in his land.

53 Neuerthelesse, he dissembled in all that ever he spake, and withdrew himselfe from Jonathan, neither did hee reward him according to the benedictions which hee had done for him, but troubled him very sore.

54 After this returned Tryphon with the young child Antiochus, which reigned, and was crowned.

55 Then there gathered unto him all the men of warre, whom Demetrius had scattered, and they fought against him, who fled, and turned his backe.

56 So Tryphon tooke the // beasts, and wan Antiochia.

57 And young Antiochus wrote vnto Jonathan, saying, I appoint thee to bee the chiefe Priest, & make thee ruler over the foure governments, that thou maist be a friend of the Kings.

58 Upon this he sent him golden vessels to be serued in, and gave him leaue to drinke in gold, and to weare purple, & to haue a collar of gold.

59 He made his brother Simon also captaine from the coastes of Tyzus vnto the borders of Egypt.

60 Then Jonathan went forth, and passed thow the cities beyond the flood, & all the men of warre of Syria gathered vnto him for to helpe him: so he came vnto Ascalon, and they of the cite receiued him honourably.

61 And from thence he went vnto Gaza: but they of Gaza shut him out: wherefore hee layde siege vnto it, and burned the suburbs thereof with fire and spoiled them.

62 Then they of Gaza made supplication vnto Jonathan, and he made peace with them, and took of the sonnes of the chiefe men for hostages, and sent them to Ierusalem, and went thow the countrey vnto Damascus.

63 And when Jonathan heard that Demetrius princes were come into Cadus, which is in Galile, with a great hoste, purposing to driue him out of the countrey.

64 Hee came against them, and left Simon his brother in the countrey.

65 And Simon besieged Beth-sara, and fought against it a long season, and shut it vp.

66 So they desired to haue peace with him, which he granted them, and afterward put them out from thence, and tooke the cite, and set a garrison in it.

67 Then Jonathan with his host came to the water of Geneslar, and betimes in the morning came to the plaine of Azor.

68 And behold, the hoste of the // strangers met him in the plaine, & had laid ambushments for him in the mountaines:

69 So that when they came against them, the ambushments rose out of their places and skirmished.

70 So that all that were of Jonathans side, fled: and there was not one of them left, except Battathias the sonne of // Absalomus, and Judas the sonne of Calpht the Captaines of the hoste.

71 Then Jonathan rent his clothes, and cast earth vpon his head, and prayed.

72 And turned againe to them to fight, and put them to flight, so that they fled away.

73 Now when his owne men that were fled saw this, they turned againe vnto him, and helped him to followe after all vnto their tents at Cadus, and there they camped.

74 So there were slaine of the strangers the same day about three thousand men, and Jonathan turned againe to Ierusalem.

CHAP. XII.

1 Jonathan sendeth ambassadours to Rome, 2 and to the people of Sparta, to renewe their covenant of friendship. 3 4 Jonathan putteth to flight the Prince of Demetrius, 40 Tryphon taketh Jonathan by deceit.

Jonathan now seeing that the time was meete for him, chose certaine men, and sent them vnto Rome, to establish and renew the friendship with them,

2 Hee sent letters also vnto the // Spartians and to other places for the same purpose.

3 So they went vnto Rome, and entred into the Senate, and saide, Jonathan the high Priest of the nation of the Iewes sent vs vnto you, for to renew friendship with you, and the bond of loue, as in times past.

4 So the Romanes gave them free passports: that men should leade them home into the land of Iuda peaceably.

5 AND THIS is the copy of the letters that Jonathan wrote vnto the Spartians, 6 Jonathan the high Priest with the Elders of the nation, and the Priests, and the rest of the people of the Iewes, send greeting vnto the Spartians their brethren.

7 Heretofore were letters sent vnto Dnias the high Priest from // Arius, which then reigned among you, that you would bee our brethren, as the copy hereunder written specifeth.

8 And Dnias increased the ambassage honourably, and receiued the letters: wherein there was mention made of the bond of loue and friendship.

9 But as for vs, we neede no such writings: for wee haue the holy bookes in our hands for comfort.

10 But yet beleefe, we thought it good to send vnto you, for the renewing of the brotherhood and friendship, lest we should be strange vnto you: for it is long since the time that ye lent vnto vs.

11 Wherefore wee remember you at all seasons continually, and in the feasts and other dayes appointed, when wee offer sacrifices and prayers, as it is meete and conuenient to thinke vpon our brethren.

12 And wee reioyce at your prosperous estate.

13 And though we haue bene smothered with great troubles and warres, so that the Kings round about vs haue fought against vs, 14 Yet would we not be grieuous vnto you, nor to other of our confederates and friends in these warres.

15 For wee haue had helpe from heauen, that hath succoured vs, and wee are deliuered from our enemies, and our enemies are subdued.

16 Yet haue wee chosen Dumenius the sonne of Antiochus, and Antivater the sonne of Tason, and sent them vnto the Romanes, for to renew the former friendship with them, and league.

17 Wee commanded them also to goe vnto you, and to salute you, and to deliuer you our letters concerning the renewing of our brotherhood.

18 And now ye shall doe vs a pleasure to giue vs an answer of these things.

19 And this was the copy of the Letters, which Attus the king of Sparta sent vnto Demetrius.

20 THE KING of the Spartians vnto Demetrius the high Priest sendeth greeting.

21 It is found in writing that the Spartians and Iewes are brethren, and come out of the generation of Abraham.

22 And now for so much as this is come to our knowledge, yet shall doe well to write vnto vs of your prosperitie.

23 As for vs we haue written vnto you, that your cattell and goods are ours, and ours are yours: these things haue we commanded to be shewed vnto you.

24 Nowe when Jonathan heard that Demetrius princes were come to fight against him with a greater hoste then afore, 25 Hee went from Jerusalem, and met them in the land of Hamath: for hee gaue them no space to come into his owne countrey.

26 And he sent spies vnto their tents, which came againe and tolde him, that they were appointed to come vpon him in the night.

27 Wherefore, when the Sunne was gone downe, Jonathan commanded his men to watch, and to be in armes ready to fight all the night, and sent watchmen round about the hoste.

28 But when the aduersaries heard that Jonathan was ready with his men to the battell, they feared, and trembled in their hearts, and kindled fires in their tents, and fled away.

29 Nevertheless Jonathan and his company knew it not till the morning: for they saw the fires burning.

30 Then Jonathan followed vpon them, but he could not ouertake them: for they were gone ouer the flood Eleutherns.

31 So Jonathan turned to the Arabians, which were called Zabedet, and slew them, and tooke their spoile.

32 Hee proceeded further also, and came vnto Danaius, and went thow all the countrey.

33 But Simon his brother went forth, and came to Acalan, and to the next holds, departing vnto Ioppe, and wanne it.

34 For he heard that they would deliuer the hold to them that tooke Demetrius part: wherefore he set a garrison there to keepe it.

35 After this came Jonathan home, and called the Elders of the people together, and desired with them for to build vp the strong holds in Iuda:

36 And to make the walles of Jerusalem higher, and to make a great mount betwixt the castle and the citie, for to separate it from the citie that it might be alone, & that men should neither buy, nor sell in it.

37 So they came together to build vp the citie: for part of the wall vpon the brooke of the East side was fallen downe, and they repaired it, and called it Capherna.

38 Simon also set vp Aida in Sephela, and made it strong with gates and barres.

39 In the meane time Tryphon purposed to reigne in Asia, & to be crowned when he had slaine the King Antiochus.

40 But he was afraid that Jonathan would not suffer him, but fight against him: wherefore he went about to take Jonathan, & to kill him: so he departed and came vnto Bethsan.

41 Then went Jonathan forth against him to the battell with fourty thousand chosmen, and came vnto Bethsan.

42 But when Tryphon saw that Jonathan came with so great an hoste, hee durst not lay hand vpon him.

43 But receiued him honourably, and commended him vnto all his souldiers, and gaue him rewards, and commanded his men of warre to be as obedient vnto him, as to himselfe:

44 And sayd vnto Jonathan, Why hast thou caused this people to take such trouble, seeing there is no warre betwene vs?

45 Therefore send them now home againe, and chuse certaine men to wait vpon thee, and come thou with me to Ptolemais: for I will giue it thee, with the other strong holds, and the other garrisons, and all them that haue charge of the common affaires: so will I returne, and depart: for this is the cause of my coming.

46 Jonathan beleued him, and did as hee sayd, and sent away his hoste, which went into the land of Iuda.

47 And retained but thre thousand with him, whereof he sent two thousand into Galilee, and one thousand went with himselfe.

48 Now as soone as Jonathan entred into Ptolemais, they of Ptolemais shut the gates, and tooke him, & slew all them with the sword, that came in with him.

49 Then sent Tryphon an hoste of footemen and horsemen into Galilee, and into the great plaine to destroy all Jonathans company.

50 But when they knew that Jonathan was taken, and slaine, and those that were with him, they encouraged one another, and came forth against them ready to the battell.

51 But when they which followed vpon them, saw that it was a matter of life, they turned backe againe.

52 By this meanes all they came into the land of Iuda peaceably, & bewailed Jonathan, and them that were with him, and feared greatly, and all Israel made great lamentation.

53 For all the heathen that were round about them, sought to destroy them.

54 For they said, Now haue they no captaine, nor any man to helpe them: therefore let vs now fight against them, and roote out their memory from among men.

CHAP. XLIIII.

1 After Jonathan was taken, Simon is chosen captaine, 17 Tryphon, taking his children and many for the redemption of Jonathan, killeth him and his children. 31 Tryphon killeth Antiochus, and possesseth the reabme. 36 Demetrius taketh Iruce with Simon. 43 Simon winneth Gaza. 50 He possesseth the towres of Sion. 53 He maketh his sonne Iohn captaine.

Now when Simon heard that Tryphon gathered a great hoste to come into the land of Iuda, and to destroy it,

2 And sawe that the people was in great trembling and feare, he came vp to Jerusalem, and gathered the people together.

know what great things I, and my brethren, and my fathers house haue done for the Law, and the Sanctuary, and the battels, and troubles that we haue seene.

4 By reason whereof all my brethren are flaine for Israels sake, and I am left alone.

5 Now therefore God forbid, that I should spare mine owne life in any time of trouble: for I am not better then my brethren.

6 But I will auenge my nation, and the Sanctuary, and our wines and our children: for all the heathen are gathered together to destroy vs of very malice.

7 In hearing these wordes the hearts of the people were kindled,

8 So that they cryed with a loud voice, saying, Thou shalt be our captain in stead of Judas and Jonathan thy brethren.

9 Fight thou our battels, and whatsoeuer thou commandest vs, we will doe it.

10 So he gathered all the men of warre, making hast to finish the walles of Ierusalem, and fortified it round about.

11 Then sent he Jonathan the sonne of Abshaloms with a great hoste vnto Ioppe, which diuoe them out that were therein, and remained there himselfe.

12 Tryphon also remoued from Idoles, making a great armie, to come into the land of Iuda, and Jonathan was with him as prisoner.

|| Or, Addus.

13 And Simon pitched his tents at Addis vpon the open plaine.

14 But when Tryphon knew that Simon stood vp in stead of his brother Jonathan, and that he would fight against him, he sent messengers vnto him, saying,

15 Whereas we haue kept Jonathan thy brother, it is for money that hee is owing in the kings account concerning the businesse that he had in hand.

16 Wherefore send now an hundred talents of silver, and his two sonnes for hostages, that when he is letten forth he will not turne from vs, and we will send him againe.

17 Neuertheless Simon knew that he dissembled in his wordes, yet commaunded he the money and children to be deliuered vnto him, lest he should be in greater hatred of the people of Israel:

18 Who might haue sayd, Because hee sent him not the money and the children, therefore is Jonathan dead.

19 So he sent the children and an hundred talents: but he dissembled and would not let Jonathan goe.

20 Afterward came Tryphon into the land to destroy it, and went round about by the way, that leadeth vnto Adora: but wheresoeuer they went, thither went Simon and his hoste.

21 Now they that were in the castle sent messengers vnto Tryphon, that hee should make haste to come by the wilderness, and to send them vittalles.

22 So Tryphon made ready all his horsemen: but the same night fell a very great snow, so that he came not, because of the snow: but hee remoued & went into the countrey of Galad.

23 And when he came neere to Balsama, he slew Jonathan, and he was buried there.

24 So Tryphon returned, and went into his owne land.

25 Then sent Simon to take the bones of Jonathan his brother, and they buried him in Modin his fathers citie.

26 And all Israel bewailed him with great lamentation, and mourned for him very long.

27 And Simon made vpon the sepulchre of his father and his brethren, a building high to looke vnto of betwen stone behind and before,

28 And set vp leuen pillars vpon it, one against another, for his father, his mother, and foure brethren, 29 And set great pillars round about them, and set armes vpon the pillars for a perpetuall memory, and carued shippes beside the armes, that they might be seene of men sayling in the Sea.

30 This sepulchre which he made at Modin, standeth yet vnto this day.

31 Now as Tryphon went forth with the young King Antiochus, he slew him traitterously, || Joseph. Ant.

32 And reigned in his stead, and crowned himselfe King of Asia, & brought a great plague vpon the land.

33 Simon also buist vp the castles of Iudea, and compassed them about with high towres, and great walles, even with towres, and gates, and barres, and layd vp vittalles in the strong holds.

34 Moreover, Simon chose certaine men and sent them to king Demetrius, that hee would discharge the land: for all Tryphons doings were robberies.

35 Whereupon Demetrius the King answered him, and wrote vnto him after this maner, 36 DEMETRIUS the King vnto Simon the ble. Priest, and the friend of Kings, and to the Elders, and to the nation of the Iewes, sendeth greeting.

38 So the things that we haue granted you, shall be stable: the strong holds which yee haue builded, shall be your owne.

39 Also we forgive the oversights, and faults committed vnto this day, and the crowne take that yee ought vs, and whereas was any other tribute in Ierusalem, it shall be now no tribute.

40 And they that are meete among you to be written with our men, let them be written vp, that there may be peace betwene vs.

41 Thus the yoke of the heathen was taken from Israel in the hundredth and seuenthy yeere.

42 And the people of Israel began to write in their letters and publike instruments, IN THE FIRST yeere of Simon, the high and chiefe Priest, gouernour and Prince of the Iewes.

43 In those dayes Simon camped against Gazza, and beleaged it round about, where he set vp an engine of warre, and approached neere the citie, and beat a tower and took it.

44 So they that were in the engine, leapt into the citie, and there was great trouble in the city.

45 In so much that the people of the city rent their clothes, and staid by vpon the walles with with these wines and children, and cried with a loud voyce, beseeching Simon to grant them peace, saying, 46 Deale not with vs according to our wickednesse, but according to thy mercy.

47 Then Simon pitied them, & would fight no more against them, but put them out of the citie, and cleaned the houses, wherein the idoles were, and so entered thereunto with psalmes and thanksgiving.

48 So when he had cast all the filthines out, hee set such men in it as kept the Law, and fortified it, and builded there a dwelling place for himselfe.

49 Now, when they in the castle at Jerusalem were kept, that they could not come forth, nor goe into the countrey, neither buy nor sell, they were very hungry, and many of them were famished to death.

50 Incomuch that they besought Simon to make peace with them: which he granted them, and put them out from thence, and cleaned the castle from filthinesse.

51 And upon the thirte and twenty day of the second moneth, in the hundred seventie and one yeere they entered into it with thanksgiving, and branches of palme trees, and with harpes, and with cymbals, and with viols, & with psalmes, and songs, because the great enemy of Israel was overcome.

52 And he ordeined that the same day should be kept every yeere with gladnesse.

53 And he fortified the mount of the Temple that was besides the castle, where he dwelt himselfe with his company.

54 Simon also seeing that John his sonne was now a man, he made him capitaine of all the hosts, and caused him to dwell in || Gazaris.

|| Or, Gaza.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Demetrius is overcome of Antiochus. 11 Simon being captaine, there is great quietnesse in Israel. 18 The covenant of friendship with the Romans, and with the people of Sparta is renewed.

IN the hundredth seventy and two yeere, gathered king Demetrius his hosts, and departed vnto Media, to get him helpe for to fight against Tryphon.

2 But when Antiochus the king of Persia and Media heard that Demetrius was entered with- in his borders, hee sent one of his princes to take him alive.

3 So he went and overcame the armie of Demetrius, and tooke him, and brought him to Antiochus which kept him in ward.

4 Thus all the land of Iuda was in rest, so long as Simon liued: for he sought the wealth of his nation: therefore were they glad to haue him for their ruler, and to doe him worship alway.

5 Simon also won the citie of Joppe to his great honour, to be an haven towne, and made it an entrance vnto the ples of the sea.

6 He enlarged also the borders of his people, and conquered the countreys.

7 Hee gathered vp many of their people that were prisoners, and hee had the dominion of Gazaris, and Beth-sura, and the castle, which hee cleaned from filthinesse, and there was no man that resisted him.

8 So that every man tilled his ground in peace, and the land gaue her fruits, and the trees gaue their fruit.

9 The Elders sate in the open places, and consulted al together for the Common wealth, and the yong men were honourably clothed and armed.

10 He provided vittalles for the cities, and all kind of munition, so that his glorious name was renowned vnto the end of the world.

11 Hee made peace throughout the land, and Israel had perfect mirth and joy.

12 For every man sate vnder his vine, and the fig trees, and there was no man to fray them.

13 There was none in the land to fight against them: for then the kings were overcome.

14 He helped all those that were in aduersitie among his people: hee was diligent to see the Law kept, and hee tooke away the vngodly and wicked.

15 He beautified the Sanctuary, and increased the vessels of the Temple.

16 When the Romans heard, and the Spartians had knowledge that Jonathan was dead, they were very sorry.

17 But when they heard that Simon his brother was made high Priest in his stead, and how hee had wonne the land againe with the cities in it, 18 They wrote vnto him in tables of brasse, to renew the friendship and bond of loue, which they had made with Iudas and Jonathan his brethren.

19 Which writings were read before the congregation at Jerusalem, and to is the copie of the letters that the Spartians sent.

20 THESE SENATORS and city of Sparta vnto Simon the great Priest, and to the Elders, and to the Priests, and to the residue of the people of the Jewes their brethren greeting, 21 When your ambassadours that were sent vnto our people, certified vs of your glory and honour, we were glad of their coming.

22 And haue registered their ambassage in the publike records in this maner, NVMENIVS the sonne of Antiochus, and Antipater the sonne of Iason, the Jewes ambassadours came vnto vs, to renew amitie with vs.

23 And it pleased the people, that the men should be honourably interated, and that the copie of their ambassage should be registered in the publike records, that it might bee for a memoriall vnto the people of Sparta, and a copie of the same was sent to Simon the chiefe Priest.

24 After this, Simon sent Numenius to Rome with a great shield of gold of a thousand pound weight to confirme the friendship with them.

25 Which when the people understood, they sayd, What thanks shall we recompense againe vnto Simon and his children?

26 For he and his brethren, and the house of his father haue stablished Israel, and overcome their enemies, and haue confirmed the libertie thereof: therefore they wrote this in tables of brasse, and set it upon pillars in mount Sion.

27 The copie of the writing is this. In the eight and twentieth day of the moneth Elul, in the hundredth seventy and two yeere, in the third yeere of Simon the high Priest.

|| August.

|| Or, Ierusalem,

28 In || Saramel in the great congregation of the Priests, and of the people, and of the governors of the nation, and of the Elders of the countrey, we would signifie unto you, that many battels haue bene fought in our countrey.

29 Wherein Simon the son of Mattathias (come of the children of Iacob) and his brethren put themselves in danger, and resisted the enemies of their nation, that their Sanctuary, and Law might be maintained, and did their nation great honour.

30 For Jonathan gathered his nation together, and became their high Priest, and is layd with his people.

31 After that would their enemies haue invaded their countrey, and destroyed their land, and lay their hands on their Sanctuary.

32 Then Simon resisted them, and fought for his nation, and spent much of his owne substance, and armed the valiant men of his nation, and gaue them wages.

33 He fortified also the cities of Iudea, and Bethsura that lieth vpon the borders of Iudea, (where the ordinance of their enemies lay sometime) and set there a garrison of the Iewes.

|| Or, Gaza, or, Gazara.

34 And he fortified Boppe, which lieth vpon the sea, and || Gazara that bordered vpon Azotus (where the enemies dwelt afore) and there he placed Iewes, & furnished them with things necessary for the reparation thereof.

35 Now when the people saw the faithfulness of Simon, and to what glory hee thought to bring his nation vnto, they made him their gouernour and the chiefe Priest, because he had done all these things, and for the vprightnesse and fidelitie that hee had kept to his nation, and that sought by all meanes to exalt his people.

36 For in his time they prospered wel by him, so that the heathen were taken out of their countrey, and they also which were in the city of David at Ierusalem, where they had made them a castle, out of the which they went, and despoiled all things that were about the Sanctuary, and did great hurt vnto religion.

37 And he set Iewes in it, and fortified it, for the assurance of the land and cite, and called vp the walles of Ierusalem.

38 And king Demetrius confirmed him in his hie Priesthood for these causes, 39 And made him one of his friends, & gaue him great honour.

40 For it was reported that the Romans called the Iewes their friends and confederates, and that they honourably receiued Simons ambassadors, 41 And that the Iewes and Priests consented that Simon should be their Prince and high Priest perpetually, till God raised vp the true Prophet, 42 And that he should be their captaine and haue the charge of the Sanctuary, and to set men ouer the workes, and ouer the Countrey, and ouer the weapons and ouer the fortresses, and that should make provision for the holy things.

43 And that he should be obeyed of every man, and that all the writings in the countrey should be made in his name, and that he should be clothed in purple, and weare gold,

44 And that it should not bee lawfull for any of the people, or Priests to breake any of these things, or to withstand his words, or to call any congregation in the countrey without him, or he clothed in purple, or weare a collar of gold:

45 And if any did contrary to these things, or brake any of them, he should be punished.

46 So it pleased all the people to agree that it should be done to Simon according vnto these words.

47 Simon also accepted it, and was content to be the high Priest, and the captaine, and the Prince of the Iewes and of the Priests, and to be the chiefe of all.

48 And they commanded to set vp this writing in tables of brasse, and to fasten it to the wall that compassed the Sanctuary in an open place, 49 And that a copy of the same should be layd vp in the treasure, that Simon and his sonnes might haue it.

CHAP. XV.

1 Antiochus maketh a covenant of friendship with Simon. 11 Tryphon is pursued. 15 The Romans write letters vnto kings and nations in the defence of the Iewes. 27 Antiochus refusing the helpe that Simon sent him, breaketh his covenant.

Metron, King Antiochus the sonne of Demetrius sent letters from the yles of the sea, vnto Simon the Priest and Prince of the Iewes and to all the nation.

2 Containing these words, ANTIOCHVS the King vnto Simon the great Priest, and to the nation of the Iewes, sendeth greeting.

3 For so much as certain vilsent men haue purged the kingdome of our Fathers, I am purposed to challenge the Realme againe, and to restore it to the old estate: wherefore I haue gathered a great hoste, and prepared ships of warre.

4 That I may goe through the countrey, and be auenged of them, which haue destroyed our countrey, & wasted many cities in the realme.

5 Now therefore I do confirme vnto thee all the liberties, wherof all the Kings my progenitors haue discharged thee, & all the payments, wherof they haue released thee.

6 And I giue thee leaue to coyne money of thine owne stampe within thy countrey,

7 And that Ierusalem and the Sanctuary be free, and that all the weapons that thou hast prepared, and the fortresses, which thou hast builded, and kepest in thine hands, shall be thine.

8 And all that is due vnto the King: and all that shall bee due vnto the King, I forgaue it thee, from this time forth for evermore.

9 And when wee haue obtained our kingdome, we will giue thee and thy nation, and the temple great honour, so that your honour shall be knowne throughout the world.

10 In the hundredth, twenty & fourth yeere, went Antiochus into his fathers land, and all the bands came together vnto him, so that few were left with Tryphon.

11 So the King Antiochus pursued him, but he fled and came to Doza, which lieth by the sea side.

12 For hee saw that troubles were toward him, him, and that the army had forsaken him.

13 Then camped Antiochus against Doza with an hundred and twenty thousand fighting men, and eight thousand horsemen.

14 So he compassed the citie about, and the ships came by the sea. Thus they pressed the citie by lande, and by sea, insomuch that they suffered no way to goe in nor out.

15 In the meane season came Pumentius, and his company from Rome, hauing letters writtē vnto the kings and countreyes, wherein were contained their words, 16 LVCIUS the Consul of Rome vnto king Ptolemeus sendeth greeting.

17 The Ambassadors of the Jewes are come vnto vs as our friends and confederats from Simon the high Priest, and from the people of the Jewes, to renew friendship, and the bonde of loue;

18 Altho haue brought a shield of gold weighing a thousand pound.

19 Therefore we thought it good to write vnto the kings of the countrey, that they should not go about to hurt them, nor to fight against them nor their citie, nor their countrey, neither to maintaine their enemies against them.

20 And we were content to receiue of them the shield.

21 If therefore there be any pestilent fellows fled from their countrey vnto you, deliuer them vnto Simon the high Priest, that hee may punish them according to their owne law.

22 The same things were writtē to Demetrius the king, And to Attalus, And to Archelus, and to Arsaces.

23 And to all the countreys, as to Samplames and to them of Sparta, and to Delus, and to Mithridatus, and to Syetion, and to Caria, and to Samos, and to Pamphilia, and to Lycia, and to Halicarnassus, and to Rodus, and to Phaselis, and to Cos, and to Sidon, and to Coryna, and to Gnidon, and to Cyprus, and to Cyrene.

24 And they sent a copy of them to Simon the high Priest.

25 So Antiochus the king camped against Doza the second time euer ready to take it, and make diuers engines of war, and kept Tryphon in, that he could neither go in nor out.

26 Then Simon sent him two thousand chosen men to helpe him with silver and golde, and much furniture.

27 neuertheless, he would not receiue them, but brake all the covenant, which hee had made with him afore, and withdrew himselfe from him.

28 And sent vnto him Athenobius one of his friends, to commune with him, saying, We withhold Ioppe, and Gazara, with the citie that is at Ierusalem the citie of my Realme, 29 Whose borders ye have destroyed, and done great hurt in the land, and haue the gouernment of many places of my kingdome.

30 Therefore now deliuer the citie, which ye haue taken, with the tributes of the places, that ye haue rule ouer without the borders of Iudea.

31 Or else giue me for them five hundred talents of silver, and for the harme that ye haue done, and for the tributes of the places other five hundred talents, if not, we will come and fight against you.

32 So Athenobius the kings friend came to Ierusalem, and when he saw the honour of Simon, and the capbord of gods and sūre place, and so great preparation, hee was astonished, and told him the kings message.

33 Then answered Simon, and said vnto him, We haue neither sūre nor other mens lands, nor withholden that which appertaineth to others: but our fathers heritage, which our enemies had vnrightrously in possession a certaine time.

34 But when we had occasion, we recovered the inheritance of our fathers.

35 And whereas thou requirist Ioppe and Gazara, they did great harme to our people, and thoroꝝ our countrey, yet will we giue an hundred talents for them. But Athenobius answered him not one word, 36 But turned againe angry vnto the king, and told him all these words, and the dignity of Simon, with all that he had seene: and the king was very angry.

37 In the meane time fled Tryphon by ship vnto Ptochias.

38 Then the king made Cendebeus captaine of the sea coast, and gaue him bands of footmen, and horsemen, 39 And commanded him to remooue the host toward Iudea, and to build up Cedron, and to fortifie the gates, and to warre against the people: but the king purshed Tryphon.

40 So Cendebeus came vnto Jamnia, and began to bere the people, and to invade Iudea and to take the people prisoners, & to slay them.

41 And he built up Cedron, where he set horsemen and garrisons, that they might make out-rides by the wayes of Iudea, as the king had commanded him.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Cendebeus the captaine of Antiochus host is put to flight by the sonnes of Simon. 11 Ptolemeus the sonne of Abubus killeth Simon and his two sonnes at a banquet. 25 Iohn killeth them that lie in wait for his life.

Then came Iohn by from Gazara, and told Simon his father, what Cendebeus had done.

2 So Simon called two of his eldest sonnes, Judas and Iohn, and said vnto them, I and my brethren, and my fathers house, haue euer from our youth vnto this day fought against the enemies of Israel, and the matters haue had good successe vnder our hands, and we haue deliuered Israel often times.

3 But I am now old, and ye by Gods mercie art of a sufficient age: be ye therefore in stead of me and my brother, and goe forth and fight for our nation, and the helpe of heauen be with you.

4 So he chose twenty thousand fighting men of the countrey with the horsemen, which went forth against Cendebeus, and rested at Modin.

5 In the morning they arose, and went into the plaine fields: and behold, a mighty great host came against them, both of footmen, and horsemen: but there was a river betwixt them.

6 And Iohn ranged his armie ouer against him, and when he saw that the people was afraid to goe ouer the river, hee went ouer first himselfe, and the men seeing him, passed thoroꝝ after him.

7 Then he diuided his men, and set the host.

men in the midst of the footmen.

8 For their enemies horsemen were very many: but when they blew the trumpets, Cendebeus fled with his host: whereof many were slaine, and the remnant gate them to the forresle.

9 Then was Judas Johns brother wounded: but John followed after them, till he came to Cedion, which Cendebeus had built.

12 (For he had married the daughter of the high Priest.)

13 Therefore he wared proud in his minde, and thought to rule the land, and thought to slay Simon and his sonnes by deceit.

14 Now as Simon went about thorow the cities of the countrey, and studied carefully for them, he came downe to Jericho with Battathias, and Judas his sonnes, in the hundredth skientie and seven peere, in the eleuenth moneth, which is the moneth Sabat.

15 Then the sonne of Abubus receiued them by treason into a little hold called Dochus, which he had built, where he made them a great banquet, and had his men there.

16 So when Simon & his sonnes had made good cheere, Ptolemeus stood by with his men and tooke their weapons, and entered into Simon in the banquet house, and slew him with his two sonnes and certaine of his seruants.

17 Whereby he committed a great villenie, and recompensed euill for good.

18 Then wrote Ptolemeus these things and sent to the king, that he might send him an hoste to helpe him, and so would deliuer him the countrey with the cities.

19 He sent other men also vnto Gazara, to take Iohn, and sent letters vnto the captaines to come to him, and he would giue them siluer, and gold and rewards.

20 And to Ierusalem he sent other to take it, and the mountaine of the Temple.

21 But one ran before, and told Iohn in Gazara, that his father & his brethren were slaine, and that Ptolemeus had sent to slay him.

22 When he heard this, he was sore astonied, and layd hands on them that were come to slay him, and slew them: for hee knew that they went about to kill him.

23 Concerning other things of Iohn, both of his warres, and of his noble acts (wherein hee behaved himselfe manfully) of the building of walles which he made, and other of his deedes, 24 Beholde, they are written in the Chronicles of his Priesthood, from the time that he was made high Priest after his father.

CHAP. I.

1 An Epistle of the Iewes that dwell at Ierusalem, sent vnto them that dwell in Egypt, wherein they exhort them to giue thanks for the death of Antiochus. 19 Of the fire that was bid in the pit. 24 The prayer of Nicanor.

We brethren the Iewes which be at Ierusalem, and they that are in the countrey of Iudea, vnto the brethren the Iewes that are thorowout Egypt, send salutation, and prosperitie.

2 God be gracious vnto you, and remember his couenant made with Abraham, and Isaac, and Iacob his faithfull seruants,

3 And giue you all an heart to worship him, and to do his will with a whole heart, and with a willing minde,

4 And open your hearts in his Law and commandments, and lend you peace,

5 And heare your prayers, and be reconciled with you, & neuer forsake you in time of trouble.

6 Thus now we pray here for you.

7 When Demetrius reigned in the hundredth threescore and nine yere, we Iewes wrote vnto you in the trouble and violence that came vnto vs in those yeres, after that Jason and his company departed out of the holy land and kingdom.

8 And burnt the porch, & shed innocent blood, Then wee prayed vnto the Lord, & were heard: we offered sacrifice and fine flour, and lighted the lampes, and set forth the bread.

9 Now therefore keepe ye the dayes of the feast of the Tabernacles in the moneth Challen.

10 In the hundredth, fourescore and eight yere, the people that was at Ierusalem, and in Iudea, and the counsell, and Judas, vnto Aristobulus king Ptolemeus master, which is of the stocke of the anoynted Priests, and to the Iewes that are in Egypt, sendeth greeting and health.

11 Inasmuch as God hath deliuered vs from great perills, we thanke him highly, as though we had overcome the king.

12 For he brought them into Persia by heaps that fought against the holy citie.

13 For albeit the captaine and the army that was with him, seemed invincible, yet they were slaine in the Temple of Manea, by the deceit of Manecas priests.

14 For Antiochus as though he would dwell with her, came thither, hee and his friends with him to receiue money vnder the title of a dowrie.

15 But when the priests of Manea had laid it forth, and he was entered with a small company within the Temple, they shut the Temple, when Antiochus was come in.

16 And by opening a priue doore of the hauit, they cast stones, as it were thunder, vpon the captaine and his, and haking bruised them in pieces, they cut off their heads, and threw them to those that were without.

17 God be blessed in all things, which hath deliuered vs by the wicked.

18 Whereas we are now purposed to keepe the purification of the temple upon the five and twentieth day of the month Chisleu, we thought it necessary to certify you thereof, that yet also might keepe the feast of the Tabernacles, and of the fire, which was given vs when Hieronias offered sacrifice, after that he had built the Temple and the altar.

Luit. 6. 13.
and 16. 12.

19 For when as our fathers were led away into Persia, the Priests, which sought the honour of God, took the fire of the altar privately, and hid it in a hollow pit, which was dyt in the bottome, and therein they kept it, so that the place was unknown vnto euery man.

20 Now after many yeeres when it pleased God that Hieronias should be sent from the king of Persia, hee sent of the posteritie of those Priests, which had hid it, to fetch the fire, and as they tolde vs, they found no fire, but thicke water.

21 Then commanded hee them to drawe it vp, and to bring it: and when the things appertaining to the sacrifices were brought, Hieronias commanded the Priests to sprinkle the wood, and the things layd thereupon, with water.

22 When this was done, and the time came that the Sunne shone, which afore was hid in the cloud, there was a great fire kindled, so that euery man marvelled.

23 Now the Priests, and all prayed, while the sacrifice was consuming: Ionathan began, and the other answered therunto.

24 And the prayer of Hieronias was after this manner: O Lord, Lord God, maker of all things, which art fearefull and strong, and righteous, and mercifull, and the onely and gracious King,

25 Onely liberall, onely lust and Almighty, and euertlasting, thou that deliuerest Israel from all trouble, and hast chosen the fathers and sanctified them, 26 Recieue the sacrifice for thy whole people of Israel, and preserve thine owne portion, and sanctifie it.

27 Gather those together, that are scattered from vs: deliuer them that serue among the heathen: look vpon them which are despised, and abhorred, that the heathen may know that thou art our God.

28 Punish them that oppresse vs, and with pride doe vs wrong.

Dent. 30. 5.

29 Plant thy people againe in thine holy place, as Moyses hath spoken.

30 And the Priests sang Psalmes therunto.

31 Now when the sacrifice was consumed, Hieronias commanded the great stones to bee sprinkled with the residue of the water.

32 Which when it was done, there was kindled a flame, which was consumed by the light, that shined from the altar.

33 So when this matter was knowne, it was told the King of Persia, that in the place where the Priests, which were led away, had hid fire, there appeared water, wherewith Hieronias and his company had purified the sacrifices.

34 The king cryed out the thing, and closed the place about, and made it holy.

35 And to them that the king favoured, hee gaue and bestowed many gifts.

36 And Hieronias called the same place

Ephthar, which is to say, purification: but many men call it Ephthar.

CHAP. II.

How Hieronias hid the Tabernacle, the Arke and the Altar in the hill. 23 Of the fire which Hieronias hid in one.

It is found also in the writings of Hieronias the Prophet, that he commanded them which were carried away, to take fire, as was declared, and as the Prophet commanded them that were led into captivity,

2 * Giving them a law, that they should not forget the commandements of the Lord, and that they should not erre in their mindes, when they saw images of golde and silver, with their ornaments.

3 These and such other things commanded hee them, and exhorted them that they should not let the law goe out of their hearts.

4 It is written also, how the Prophet, by an oracle that he had, charged them to take the Tabernacle and the Arke, and follow him: and when hee came vp into the mountaine where Moyses went vp, and saw the heritage of God,

5 Hieronias went fourth, and found an hollow caue, wherein he layd the Tabernacle, and the Arke, and the altar of incense, and so stopped the doore.

6 And there came certaine of those that followed him, to marke the place: but they could not finde it.

7 Which when Hieronias perceived, hee reproveth them, saying, As for that place, it shall bee unknowne, till the time that God gather his people together againe, and that mercy bee shewed.

8 Then shall the Lord shewe them these things, and the maiestie of the Lord shall appeare and the cloud also, as it was shewed vnder Moyses, and as * when Salomon desired, that the place might be honourably sanctified.

9 For it is manifest that hee, being a wise man, offered the sacrifice of dedication, and consecration of the Temple.

10 * And as when Moyses prayed vnto the Lord, the fire came downe from heauen, and consumed the sacrifice: so when Salomon prayed * the fire came downe from heauen, and consumed the burnt offering.

11 And Moyses sayd, because the sinne offering was not eaten, therefore it is consumed.

12 So Salomon kept those eight dayes.

13 These things also are declared in the writing and registers of Hieronias, and how hee made a library, and how hee gathered the actes of the Kings, and of the Prophets, the actes of David, and the epistles of the Kings concerning the holy gifts.

14 Even so Iudas also gathered all things that came to passe by the warres that were among vs, which things we haue.

15 Therefore if ye haue neede thereof, send some to fetch them vnto you.

16 Whereras wee then are about to celebrate the purification, we haue written vnto you, and ye shall doe well, if ye keepe the same dayes.

17 Wee hope also that the God which do liuener all his people, and gaue an heritage to them all, and the kingdom, and the Priesthood,

That is to say, a shining it is also called Nephi, or Nephthar, which is a

18 * As he promised in the Law, will shortly have mercy upon us, and gather us together from under the heaven into his holy place: for hee hath saved us from great perils, and hath cleansed the place.

19 As concerning Judas Maccabens and his brethren, the purification of the great Temple and the dedication of the altar, 20 And the warren against Antiochus Epiphanes and Eupator his sonne.

21 And the manifest signes that came from heaven unto those, which manfully stood for the Jewes religion: (for though they were but few, yet they ran thorough whole countreies, and pursued the barbarous armies.

22 And repaired the Temple that was renowned throughout all the world, and delivered the citie, and established the Lawes, that were like to be abolished, because the Lord was mercifull unto them with all lenitie.)

23 All this will assay to abridge in one volume those things that Jason the Cyrenian hath declared in five booke.

24 For considering the wonderfull number, and the difficultie that they have that would be occupied in the rehearsal of stories, because of the diversitie of the matters,

25 Wee have endeavored, that they that would read, might have pleasure, and that they which are studious, might easily keepe them in memorie, and that whosoever read them, might have profit.

26 Therefore to us that have taken in hand this great labour, it was no easie thing to make this abridgement, but required both sweat and watching.

27 Like as hee that maketh a feast, & seeketh other mens commoditie hath no small labour: so wee also for many mens sakes are very well content to undertake this great labour.

28 Leaving to the author the exact diligence of every particular, wee will labour to goe forward according to the prescript order of an abridgement.

29 For as hee that will build a new house, must provide for the whole building, but he that setteth out the plat, or goeth about to paint it seeketh but onely what is comely for the decking thereof.

30 Even so I thinke for us, that it appertaineth to the first writer of a story to enter deeply into it, and to make mention of all things, and to be curious in every part.

31 But it is permitted to him that will shorten it, to use few words, & to avoyd those things that are curious therein.

32 Here then will we begin the story, adding thus much to our former words, that it is but a foolish thing to abound in words before the storie, and to be short in the story.

CHAP. III.

3 Of the honour done to the Temple by the kings of the Gentiles, 6 Simon uttereth what transpire in the Temple, 7 Heliodorus is sent to take them away, 16 Hee is stricken of God, and healed at the prayer of Onias.

What time as the holy citie was inhabited with all peace, and when the lawes were very well kept, because of the godliness of Onias the high Priest, and hatred of wickedness, 2 He came to passe that even the kings did honour the place, and garnished the Temple with great gifts.

3 Inasmuch that Seleucus King of Asia, of his owne rents, bare all the costs belonging to the service of the sacrifices.

4 But one Simon of the tribe of Benjamin being appointed ruler of the Temple, contended with the high Priest concerning the inquiry committed in the citie.

5 And when he could not overcome Onias, hee gave him to Apollonius the sonne of Tharseas which then was gouvernour of Coelosyria, and Phenice.

6 And told him that the treasure in Jerusalem was full of innumerable money, which did not belong to the provision of the sacrifices, and that it were possible that these things might come into the kings hand.

7 Now when Apollonius came to the King, and had shewed him of the monie, as it was told him, the king chose out Heliodorus his treasurer, and sent him with a commandement, to bring him the foresayd money.

8 Immediately Heliodorus took his journey, although he would visit the cities of Coelosyria and Phenice, but in effect to fulfill the kings purpose.

9 So when he came to Jerusalem, and was courteously received of the high Priest into the citie, hee declared what was determined concerning the money, and shewed the cause of his coming, and asked if these things were so indeed.

10 Then the high Priest tolde him that there were such things laid by by the widowes and fatherlesse, 11 And that a certaine of it belonged unto Hircanus the sonne of Tobias a noble man, and not as that wicked Simon had reported, and that in all, there were but foure hundred talents of silver, and two hundred of gold.

12 And that it were altogether impossible to do this wrong to them that had committed it of trust to the holiness of the place and Temple, which is honoured through the whole world for holiness and integritie.

13 But Heliodorus because of the kings commandement given him, sayd that in any wise it must be brought into the kings treasure.

14 So he appointed a day, & went in to take order for these things: then there was no small griefe throughout the whole citie.

15 For the Priests fell downe before the altar in the Priests garments, and called unto heaven upon him which had made a Law concerning things given to be kept, that they should be safely preserved for such as had committed them to be kept.

16 Then they that looked the high Priest in the face, were wounded in their heart: for his countenance, and the changing of his colour declared the wrath of his minde.

17 The man was so wrapped in feare and trembling of the body, that it was manifest to them that looked upon him, what sorrow hee had in his heart.

18 Others also came out of their houses by heapes unto the common prayer, because the place was like to come unto contempt.

|| Or, the state & provision.

19 And the women, girt with sackcloth under their breasts, filled the streets, and the virgins that were kept in, came some to the gates, and some to the walles, and others looked out of the windowes.

20 And all held up their hands toward heaven, and made prayer.

21 It was a lamentable thing to see the multitude that fell downe of all sorts, and the expectation of the high Priest being in such anguish.

22 Therefore they called vpon the Almighty Lord, that he would keepe safe and sure the things which were laid vp for those that had deliuered them.

23 Neuertheless, the thing that Heliodorus was determined to doe, that did he performe.

24 And as hee and his souldiers were now there present by the treasury, he that is the Lord of the spirits, and of all power, shewed a great vision, so that all they which presumed to come with him, were astonish'd at the power of God, and fell into feare and trembling.

25 For there appeared vnto them an horse with a terrible man sitting vpon him, most richly habited, and he ran fiercely, and smote at Heliodorus with his foze feet, and it seemed that hee that sat vpon the horse, had harness of gold.

26 Moreover, there appeared two yong men, notable in strength, excellent in beauty, & comely in apparel, which stood by him on either side, and scourged him continually, and gaue him many foze stripes.

27 And Heliodorus fell suddenly vnto the ground, and was couered with great darkenes: but they that were with him, tooke him vp, and put him in a litter.

28 Thus he that came with so great compaignie, and many souldiers into the said treasury, was borne out: for hee could not helpe himselfe with his weapons.

29 So they did know the power of God manifestly, but he was dumbe by the power of God, and lay destitute of all hope and health.

30 And they praised the Lord that had honored his own place: for the Temple which a little afore was full of feare and trouble, when the Almighty Lord appeared, was filled with ioy and gladnesse.

31 Then straightway certaine of Heliodorus friends, prayed Onias, that he would call vpon the most high to graunt him his life, which lay ready to giue vp the ghost.

32 So the high Priest, considering that the king might suspect that the Jewes had done Heliodorus some euill, he offered a sacrifice for the health of the man.

33 Now when the high Priest had made his prayer, the same yong men in the same clothing appeared, and stood beside Heliodorus, saying, Gue Onias the high Priest great thanks: for, for his sake hath the Lord granted thee thy life:

34 And seeing that thou hast beene scourged from heauen, declare vnto all men the mighty power of God: and when they had spoken these words, they appeared no more.

35 So Heliodorus offered vnto the Lord sacrifice, and made great vowes vnto him which had graunted him his life, and thanked Onias, and went againe with his horse to the king.

36 Then testified hee vnto euery man of the great workes of God that he had seene with his eyes.

37 And when the king asked Heliodorus, who were meet to be sent yet once againe to Ierusalem, he said, 38 If thou hast any enemy, or traitour, send him thither, & thou shalt receive him well scourged, if hee escape with his life: for in that place, no doubt, there is a speciall power of God.

39 For hee that dwelleth in heauen, hath his eye on that place, and defendeth it, and hee beatech and destroyeth them that come to hurt it.

40 This came to passe concerning Heliodorus, and the keeping of the treasury.

CHAP. IIII.

1 Simon reporteth euill of Onias, 7 Iason obtaineth the office of the high Priest by corrupting the king, 27 and was by Menelaus defrauded by like bribing. 34 Onias is slaine traitorously by Andronicus.

This Simon now, of whom we spake afore, being a betrayer of the money, and of his owne natural countrie, reported euill of Onias, as though he had moued Heliodorus vnto this, and had beene the inuenter of the euill.

2 Thus was hee bold to call him a traitour, that was so beneficiall to the city, and a defender of his nation, and so zealous of the Lawes.

3 But when his malice increased so far, that through one that belonged to Simon, murders were committed,

4 Onias considering the danger of this contrition, and that Apollonius, as he that was the gouernour of Coelosyria and Idenice, did rage, and increased Simons malice,

5 Hee went to the king, not as an accuser of the citizens, but as one that intended the common wealth both priuately and publickly.

6 For he saw it was not possible, except the king tooke order, to quiet the matters, and that Simon would not leaue off his folly.

7 But after the death of Seleucus, when Antiochus called Epiphanes, tooke the kingdom, Iason the brother of Onias laboured by vnlawfull meanes to bee high Priest.

8 For hee came vnto the king, and promised him three hundred and threescore talents of siluer, and of another rent fourescore talents.

9 Besides this, hee promised him an hundred and fiftie, if hee might haue licence to set up a place for exercise, and a place for the youth, and that they would name them of Ierusalem, Antiochians,

10 The which thing when the king had granted, and he had gotten the superintendence, hee began immediately to draw his kinsmen to the customs of the Gentiles,

11 And abolished the friendly priuiledges of the Kings, that the Jewes had set vp by John the father of Eupolemus, which was sent Ambassadour vnto Rome, to become friends & confederates: hee put downe their lawes and policies, and brought vp new statutes, and contrary to the Law.

12 For he presumed to build a place of exercise vnder the castle, and brought the chiefe young men vnder their subiection, and made them weare hats.

1 In working some trecherie or forerie against him.

1 Or, that he would write the Antiochians that were at Ierusalem among them.

1 Or, huskins, in token of wantonnesse as the Gentiles did,

13 So there began a great desire to follow the manners of the Gentiles, and they tooke up the fashions of strange nations by the exceeding wickednes of Jason, not the high Priest, but the vngodly person, 14 So that the Priests were now no more diligent about the seruice of the altar, but despised the Temple, and regarded not the sacrifices, but made haste to bee partakers of the wicked expences at the play,^a after the casting of the stone.

15 For they did not set by the honour of their fathers, but liked the glozy of the Gentiles best of all.

16 By reason whereof great calamitie came vpon them: for they had then to bee their enemies and punishers, whose custome they followed so earnestly, and desired to be like them in all things.

17 For it is not a light thing to transgresse against the lawes of God, but the time following shall declare these things.

18 ¶ Now when the games that were vsed euery fife yeere, were played at Cyprus, the King being present, 19 This wicked Jason sent from Ierusalem men to looke vpon them, as though they had bene Antiochians, which brought three hundred drachmes of silver for a sacrifice to Hercules: albeit they that carried them, desired they might not be bestowed on the sacrifice, (because it was not comely) but to be bestowed for other expences.

20 So hee that sent them, sent them for the sacrifice of Hercules: but because of those that brought them, they were giuen to the making of gallies.

21 ¶ Now Apollonius the sonne of Menelaus was sent into Egypt because of the coronation of king Ptolomeus Philometor: but when Antiochus perceined that hee was euill affectioned toward his affaires, he sought his owne assurance, and departed from thence to Ioppe, and so came to Ierusalem, 22 Where he was honourably receiued of Jason, and of the city, and was brought in with torchlight, and with great shoutings, and so hee went with his hoste vnto Iheric.

23 Three yeres afterward Jason sent Menelaus, the foresaid Simons brother, to beare the money vnto the King; and to bring to passe certaine necessary affaires, wherof hee had giuen him a memorie.

24 But he, being commended to the King, magnified him for the appearance of his power, and turned the Priesthood vnto himselfe: for he gaue three hundred talents of silver more then Jason.

25 So he gate the kings letter patents, albeit hee had nothing in himselfe worthy of the high Priesthood, but bare the stomacke of a cruell tyrant, and the wrath of a wilde beast.

26 Then Jason which had deceiued his owne brother, being deceiued by another, was compelled to flee into the countrey of the Ammonites.

27 So Menelaus gate the dominion: but as for the money that hee had promised vnto the king, he tooke none order for it, albeit Sosistratus the ruler of the castle required it,

28 For vnto him appertained the gathering of the customes: wherefore they were both called before the king.

29 Now Menelaus left his brother Lysimachus in his stead in the Priesthood, and Sosistratus left Crates which was gouernour of the Egyptians.

30 ¶ Whiles these things were in doing, the Chaldeans and they of Balor made insurrection, because they were giuen to the kings concubine called Antiochis.

31 Then came the king in all haste to appease the businesse, leauing Andronicus a man of authority to be his lieutenant.

32 Now Menelaus, supposing that hee had gotten a conuenient time, stole certaine vessels of gold out of the Temple, and gaue certaine of them to Andronicus: and some he sold at Cyprus and in the cities thereby.

33 Which when Dnias knew of a surety, hee reprimanded him, and withdrew himselfe into a Sanctuary at Daphne by Antiochia.

34 Wherefore Menelaus, taking Andronicus apart, prayed him to slay Dnias: so when hee came to Dnias, hee counilled him craftily, giuing him his right hand with an oath: (howbeit hee suspected him, and perswaded him to come out of the Sanctuary) so hee slew him incontinently without any regarde of righteousness.

35 For the which cause not onely the Jewes, but many other nations also were grieved, and tooke it heauily, for the unrighteous death of this man.

36 ¶ And when the king was come againe from the places about Cilicia, the Jewes that were in the city, and certaine of the Greekes that abhorred the fact also, complained because Dnias was slaine without cause.

37 Therefore Antiochus was sorry in his mind, and he had compassion, and wept because of the modestie and great discretion of him that was dead.

38 Wherefore being kindled with anger, hee tooke away Andronicus garment of purple, and rent his clothes, and commanded him to bee led throughout the city, and in the same place where he had committed the wickednesse against Dnias, he was slaine as a murderer. Thus Lord rewarded him his punishment as hee had deserved.

39 ¶ Now when Lysimachus had done many wicked deeds in the city through the counsell of Menelaus, and the bruit was spread abroad, the multitude gathered them together against Lysimachus: for hee had caried out now much vessel of gold.

40 And when the people arose, and were full of anger, Lysimachus armed about three thousand, and began to vse vnlawfull power, a certaine tyrant being their Captaine, who was no lesse decayed in wit then in age.

41 But when they vnderstood the purpose of Lysimachus, some gate stones, some great clubs, and some cast handfuls of dust which lay by, vpon Lysimachus men, and those that inuaded them.

42 Whereby many of them were wounded, some were slaine, and all the other chased away: but the wicked Churchrobber himselfe they killed besides the treasury.

43 For these causes an accusation was layde against

^a This game was to try strength by casting a stone that had an hole in the mids, or a piece of metall,

^b Or, Olympian sports, which were games kept euery fife yeere,

^b That is, of them that measured the corne,

^c Or, commandments, against Menelaus.

44 And when the king came to Tyus, three men sent from the Senate pleaded the cause before him.

45 But Menelaus being now convinced, promised to Ptolemens the sonne of Dozimenus much money, if he would perswade the king.

46 So Ptolemus went to the King into a court, whereas he was to coole himselfe, and turned the Kings minde.

47 Inasmuch that he discharged Menelaus from the accusation (notwithstanding hee was the cause of all mischief) and condemned those poore men to death, which if they had told their cause, yet, before the Scribes, they should have been heard as innocent.

48 Thus were they loone punished vnjustly, which followed vpon the matter for the citie, and for the people, and for the holy vessels.

49 Wherefore they of Tyus hated that wickednesse, and ministered all things liberally for their burfall.

50 And so through the couetousnesse of them that were in power, Menelaus remained in authority, increasing in malice, and declared himselfe a great traitour to the citizens.

CHAP. V.

2 Of the signes and tokens seene in Ierusalem. 6 Of she and wickednesse of Iason, 11 The pursuit of Antiochus against the Iewes, 15 The spoiling of the Temple, 27 Maccabeus fleeth into the wilde, nesse.

ABout the same time Antiochus vnderooke his second voyage into Egypt.

2 And then were there seene thowout all the citie of Ierusalem forty dayes long; horsemen running in the ayre with robes of gold, and as bands of spearmen,

3 And as troupes of horsemen set in aray, encountering and coursing one against another with shaking of shields and multitude of darts, and drawing of swords, and shooting of arrows, and the glittering of the golden armour seene, and harnesse of all sorts.

4 Therefore euery man prayed, that those tokens might turne to good.

5 Now when there was gone forth a false rumour, as though Antiochus had been dead, Iason tooke at the least a thousand men, and came suddenly vpon the citie, and they that were vpon the walles, being put backe, and the citie at length taken,

6 Menelaus fled into the castle, but Iason slew his owne citizens without mercie, not considering, that to haue the aduantage against his kinsmen his greatest disadvantage, but thought that hee had gotten the victorie of his enemies, and not of his owne nation.

7 Yet he gave not the supererogatorie, but at the last received shame for the reward of his treason, and went againe like a bagabond into the countrey of the Ammonites.

8 Finally, he had this end of his wicked conuersation, that he was accused before Areta the king of the Arabians, and fled from citie to citie, being pursued of euery man, and hated as a forsaker of the Lawes, and was an abomination, as an enemy of his countrey and citizens, and was diuen into Egypt.

9 Thus he that had chased many out of their owne countrey, perished as a banished man, after that hee was gone to the Lacedemonians, thinking there to haue gotten succour by reason of kindred.

10 And hee that had cast many out vnburied was throwen out himselfe, no man mourning for him, nor putting him in his graue: neither was he partaker of his fathers sepulchre.

11 Now when these things that were done were declared to the king, he thought that Iudea would haue fallen from him: wherefore hee came with a furious minde out of Egypt, and tooke the citie by violence.

12 Hee commanded his men of warre also, that they should kill and not spare such as they met, and to slay such as went into their houses.

13 Thus was there a slaughter of young men, and old men, and a destruction of men and women and children, and virgins and infants were murdered:

14 So that within three dayes were slaine fourescore thousand, and fourty thousand taken prisoners, and there were as many sold as were slaine.

15 Yet was hee not content with this, but durst goe into the most holy Temple of all the world, hauing Menelaus that traitour to the lawes, and to his owne countrey, to be his guide, 16 And with his wicked hands tooke the holy vessels, which other kings had ginen for the garnishing, glory, and honour of that place, and handled them with his wicked hands.

17 So haughtie in his minde was Antiochus, that he considered not that God was not a little wroth for the finnes of them that dwell in the city, for the which such contempt came vpon that place.

18 For if they had not bene wrapped in many finnes, hee, alsoone as hee had come, had suddenly bene punished, and put backe from his presumption, as Heliodorus was, whom Seleucus the king sent to view the treasury.

19 But God hath not chosen the nation for the places sake, but the place for the nations sake.

20 And therefore is the place become partaker of the peoples trouble, but afterward shall it be partaker of the benefits of the Lord, and as it is now forsaken in the wrath of the Almighty so when the great Lord shall be reconciled, it shall be set up in great worship againe.

21 So when Antiochus had taken eigheteene hundred talents out of the Temple, hee gave him to Antiochia in all haste, thinking in his pride to make men saile vpon the dyeland, and to walke vpon the sea: such an high minde had he.

22 But hee left deputies to bere the people: at Ierusalem Philip a Phrygian by birth, in manners more cruell then he that set him there:

23 And at Garisin Andronicus, and with them Menelaus, which was more grievous to the citizens then the other, and was despisefull against the Iewes his citizens.

24 Hee sent also Apollonius a cruell prince, with an army of two and twenty thousand, whom he commanded to slay those that were toward mans age, and to kill the women, and the yonger sort.

25 So when he came to Ierusalem, he fained peace, peace, and kept him still vntill the holy day of Sabbath: and then finding the Jewes keeping the feast, hee commanded his men to take these weapons.

26 And so he slew all them that were gone forth to the shew, and running thorow the citie with his men armed, hee murdered a great number.

27 But Judas Maccabeus, being as it were the tenth, fled into the wilderness, and lived there in the mountaines with his company among the beasts, and dwelling there, and eating grasse, lest they should be partakers of the filthinesse.

CHAP. VI.

- 1 The Jewes are compelled to leave the Lawe of God.
4 The Temple is defiled. 13 The women cruelly punished.
28 The grievous paine of Eleazar.

Not long after this, sent the king an old man of Arpens, for to compell the Jewes to transgresse the lawes of the fathers, and not to be governed by the law of God,

2 And to defile the Temple that was at Jerusalem, and to call it the Temple of Jupiter Olympius, and that of Sarizim, according as they did that dwelt at that place, Jupiter that keepeth hospitality.

3 This wicked government was sore and grievous vnto the people.

4 For the temple was full of dissolution, and gluttony of the Gentiles, which dallied with harlots, and had to doe with women within the circuit of the holy places, and brought in such things as were not lawfull.

5 The altar also was full of such things, as were abominable and forbidden by the law.

6 Neither was it lawfull to keepe the Sabbath, nor to obserue their ancient feastes, nor plainly to confesse himselfe to be a Jew.

7 In the day of the Kings birth they were grievously compelled perforce euery moneth to banquet, and when the feast of Bacchus was kept, they were constrained to goe in the procession of Bacchus with garlands of Iule.

8 Moreover, though the counsell of Ptolemus, there went out a commandement vnto the next cities of the heathen against the Jewes, that the like custome, and banquetting should be kept.

9 And who so would not conformance themselves to the maners of the Gentiles, should be put to death: then might a man haue seene the present misery.

10 For there were two women brought forth that had circumcised their sonnes, whome when they had ledde round about the citie (the babes hanging at their breasts) they cast them downe headlong ouer the walles.

11 Some that were run together into dennes to keepe the Sabbath day secretly, were discovered vnto Philip, and were burnt together, because that for the reuerence of the honourable day they were afraid to helpe themselves.

12 Now I beseech those which reade this booke, that they be not discouraged for these calamities, but that they iudge these afflictions not to be for destruction, but for a chastening of our nation.

13 For it is a token of his great goodnes, not to suffer sinners long to continue, but straight-ways to punish them.

14 For the Lord doeth not long waite for vs, as for other nations, whom he punisheth when they are come to the fulnesse of their sinnes.

15 But thus he dealeth with vs, that our sinnes should not be heaped vpon to the full, so that afterward he should punish vs.

16 And therefore hee neuer withholdeth his mercy from vs: and though hee punish with aduersitie, yet doth hee neuer forsake his people.

17 But let this be spoken now for a warning vnto vs: and now will we come to the declaring of the matter in few words.

18 Eleazar then one of the principall Scribes, an aged man, and of a well fauoured countenance was constrained to open his mouth, and to eate swines flesh.

19 But hee desiring rather to die gloriously then to liue with hatred, offered himselfe willingly to the torment and spit it out:

20 As they ought to goe to death which suffer punishment for such things, as it is not lawfull to taste of for the desire to liue.

21 But they that had the charge of this wicked banquet, for that old friendship of the man, tooke him aside priuily, and prayed him that hee would take such flesh, as was lawfull for him to vse, and as hee would prepare for himselfe, and dissemble as though hee had eaten of the things appointed by the King, euen the flesh of the sacrifice.

22 That in so doing hee might bee deliuered from death, and that for the old friendship that was among them, he would receiue this fauour.

23 But hee began to consider discreetly, and as became his age, and the excellencie of his ancient peeres, and the honour of his gray haire, whereunto hee was come, and his most honest conuersation from his childhood, but chiefly the holy Law made and giuen by God: therefore he answered consequently, & willed them straight-ways to send him to the graue.

24 For it becommeth not our age, sayd he, to dissemble, whereby many yong persons might thinke that Eleazar being foure score yeeres old and ten, were now gone to another religion, 25 And so through mine hypocrisie (for a little time of a transitory life) they might bee deceived by me, and I should procure malediction, and reproch to mine old age.

26 For though I were now deliuered from the torment of men, yet could I not escape the hand of the Almighty, neither alive nor dead.

27 Therefore I will now change this life manfully, and will shewe my selfe such as mine age requirerh, 28 And so will leaue a notable example for such as be young to die willingly, and courageously, for the honourable and holy lawes. And when he had said these words, immediately hee went to torment.

29 Now they that led him, changed the loue which they bare him before, into hatred, because of the words that he had spoken: for they thought it had been a rage.

30 And as he was ready to giue the ghost because of the strokes, hee sighed, and said, The Lord that hath the holy knowledge, knoweth manifestly, that whereas I might haue beene deliuered from death, I am scourged, and suffer these these sore paines of my body: but in my minde I suffer them gladly for his religion.

31 Euen now after this manner ended he his life, leauing his death for an example of a noble courage, and a memorie of vertue, not onely vnto yong men, but vnto all his nation.

CHAP. VII.

The punishment of the seven brethren, and of their mother.

I Came to passe also that seven brethren, with their mother, were taken to be compelled by the king against the Law to taste swines flesh, and were tormented with scourges and whips.

2 But one of them which spake first, sayd thus, What seekest thou: and what wouldest thou know of vs: we are ready to die rather then to transgresse the lawes of our fathers.

3 Then was the King angry, and commanded to heate pannes and cauldrons, which were incontinently made hote.

4 And he commanded the tongue of him that spake first to be cut out, and to slay him, and to cut off the yemost parts of his body in the sight of his other brethren, and his mother.

5 Now when hee was thus mangled in all his members, he commanded him to be brought asture to the fire, and to frye him in the pan: and while the smoke for a long time smoked out of the pan, the other brethren with their mother exhorted one another to die courageously, saying in this maner:

6 The Lord God doth regard vs, & in deede taketh pleasure in vs, as Moyses declared in the long wherein hee testified openly, saying, That God will take pleasure in his seruants.

7 So when the first was dead after this maner, they brought the second to make him a mocking stocke: and when they had pulled the skinne with the haire ouer his head, they asked him if he would eate, or he were punished in all the members of the body.

8 But hee answered in his owne language, and sayd, No. Wherefore hee was tormented forthwith like the first.

9 And when hee was at the last breath, hee said, Thou murderer takest this present life from vs, but the King of the world will raise vs vp, which die for his Lawes, in the resurrection of euerlasting life.

13 After him was the third had in derision, and when they demanded his tongue, hee put it out incontinently, and stretched forth his hands boldly.

11 And spake manfully, These haue I had from the heauen, but now for the Law of God I despise them, and trust that I shall receiue them of him againe.

12 Insomuch that the King and they which were with him, maruelled at the yong mans courage, as at one that nothing regarded the paines.

13 Now when he was dead also, they bexed and tormented the fourth in like maner.

14 And when hee was now ready to die, hee said thus, It is better that wee should change this which we might hope for of men, and waite for our hope from God, that wee may be raised vp againe by him: as for thee, thou shalt haue no resurrection to life.

15 Afterward they brought the fifth also and tormented him,

16 Who looked vpon the King, and said, Thou hast power among men, and though thou bee a mortall man, thou dost what thou wilt: but thinke not that God hath forsaken our nation.

17 But abide a while, and thou shalt see his great power, how he will torment thee and thy seed.

18 After him also they brought the sixth, who being at the point of death, said, Deceiue not thy selfe foolishly: for wee suffer these things, which are worthy to be wondered at for our owne sakes, because we haue offended our God.

19 But thinke not thou, which undertakest to fight against God, that thou shalt be unpunished.

23 But the mother was marueilous about all other, and worthy of honourable memorie: for when she saw her seven sonnes slaine within the space of one day, she suffered it with a good will, because of the hope that she had in the Lord.

21 Pea, she exhorted euery one of them in her owne language, and being full of courage, and wisdom, stirred by her womanly affections, with a manly stomacke, and said vnto them,

22 I cannot tell how yee came into my wombe: for I neither gave you breath nor life: it is not I that set in order the members of your body,

23 But doubtlesse the Creator of the world, which formed the birth of man, and found out the beginning of all things, will also of his owne mercie giue you breath, and life againe, as yee now regard not your owne selues, for his lawes sake.

24 Now Antiochus thinking himselfe despised, and considering the iniurious words, while the yongest was yet aliuie, he did exhort him not onely with words, but swore also vnto him by an oath that hee would make him rich and wealthy, if he would forsake the lawes of his fathers, and that he would take him as a friend, and giue him offices.

25 But when the yong man would in no case hearken vnto him, the King called his mother, and exhorted that shee would counsell the yong man to saue his life.

26 And when he had exhorted her with many words, she promised him that she would counsell her sonne.

27 So she turned her vnto him laughing the cruell tyrant to scorn, and spake in her owne language, O my sonne, haue pitie vpon mee, that bare thee nine moneths in my wombe, and gaue thee sucke three yeres, and nourished thee, and tooke care for thee vnto this age, & brought thee vp.

28 I beseech thee, my sonne, looke vpon the heauen and the earth, and all that is therein, and consider that God made them of things that were not, and so was mankind made likewise.

29 Feare not this hangman, but shew thy selfe worthy such brethren by suffering death, that I may receiue thee in mercy with thy brethren.

30 While she was yet speaking these words, the yong man said, Whom waite yee for? I will not obey the kings commandement: but I will obey the commandement of the Law that was giuen vnto our fathers by Moyses.

31 And

31 And thou that imaginest all mischiefe against the Hebrewes, shalt not escape the hand of God.

32 For wee suffer these things because of our sinnes.

33 But though the living Lord be angry with vs a little while for our chaitening and correction, yet will hee be reconciled with his owne servants.

34 But thou, O man without religion, and most wicked of all men, list not thy selfe up in vaine, which art puffed up with vncertain hope, and likest thine hands against the seruants of God.

35 For thou hast not yet escaped the iudgement of Almighty God, which seeth all things.

36 My brethren that haue suffered a little paine, are now vnder the diuine Couenant of eueralasting life, but thou through the iudgement of God, shalt suffer iust punishments for thy pride.

37 Therefore I, as my brethren haue done, offer my body and life for the Lawes of our fathers, beseeching God, that he will soone be mercifull vnto our nation, and that thou by torment and punishment mayest confesse, that hee is the onely God.

38 And that for me and my brethren the wrath of the Almighty, which is righteously fallen vpon all our nation, may cease.

39 Then the king being kindled with anger, raged more cruelly against him then the others, and tooke it grieuously that he was mocked.

40 So he also died holily: and put his whole trust in the Lord.

41 Last of all after the sonnes, was the mother put to death.

42 Let this now bee enough spoken concerning the bankets, and extreme cruelties.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Indas gathereth together his hoste. 8 Nicanor is sent against Indas. 16 Indas exhorteth his souldiers to constancie. 20 Nicanor is overcome. 27 The Iewes giue thanks, after they haue put their enemies to flight, dismising part of the spoiles vnto the fatherlesse and vnto the widowers. 30 Timotheus and Baccides are discomfited. 35 Nicanor fleeeth vnto Antiochus.

Then Judas Maccabeus, and they that were with him, went priuily into the townes, and called their kinsfolkes and friends together, and tooke vnto them all such as continued in the Iewes religion: and assembled fixe thousand men.

2 So they called vpon the Lord, that hee would haue an eye vnto his people, which was vexed of euery man, and haue pittie vpon the Temple that was defiled by wicked men.

3 And that hee would haue compassion vpon the citie that was destroyed, and almost brought to the ground, and that he would heare the voyce of the blood that cried vnto him.

4 And that hee would remember the wicked slaughter of the innocent children, and the blasphemies committed against his Name, and that he would shew his hatred against the wicked.

5 Now when Maccabeus had gathered this multitude, hee could not be withstood by the heathen: for the wrath of the Lord was turned into mercie.

6 Therefore he came at vnawares, and burne by the townes and cities: yet hee tooke the most commodious places, and slew many of the enemies.

7 But specially hee used the nights to make such assaults, inasmuch that the bruit of his manlinesse was spread euery where.

8 So when Philipp saw that this man increased by little and little, and that things prospered with him for the most part, he wrote vnto Ptolemeus, the gouernour of Coelosyria and Phenice to helpe him in the kings bulincelle.

9 Then sent he speedily Nicanor the sonne of Patroclus, a speciall friend of his, and gaue him of all nations of the heathen no lesse then twenty thousand men to roote out the whole generation of the Iewes, and loyned with him Gorgias a capitaine, which in matters of warre had great experience.

10 Nicanor ordained also a tribute for the king of two thousand talents, which the Romanes should haue, to bee taken of the Iewes that were taken prisoners.

11 Therefore immediately he sent to the cities on the sea coast, prouoking them to buy Iewes to be their seruantes, promising to sell fourescore and ten for one talant: but he considered not the vengeance of Almighty God, that should come vpon him.

12 When Judas then knew of Nicanors comming, he told them that were with him, of the comming of the armie.

13 Now were there some of them fearefull, which trusted not vnto the righteousness of God, but fled away, and abode not in that place.

14 But the other sold all that they had left, and besought the Lord together to deliuer them from that wicked Nicanor, which had sold them or euer he came nere them.

15 And though hee would not doe it for their sakes: yet for the Couenant made with their fathers, and because they called vpon his holy and glorious Name.

16 And so Maccabeus called his men together, about fixe thousand, exhorting them not to bee afraid of their enemies, neither to feare the great multitude of the Grecians, which came against them vnrighteously, but to fight manly.

17 Setting before their eyes the iniurie that they had vniuilly done to the holy place, and the cruelty done to the citie by derision, and the destruction of the orders established by their fathers.

18 For they, said he, trust in their weapons and boldnesse: but our confidence is in the Almighty God, which at a becke can both destroy them that come against vs, and all the world.

19 Moreover, hee admonished them of the helpe that God shewed vnto their fathers, as when there perished an hundredeth and fourescore and siue thousand vnder Sennacherib.

20 And of the battell that they had in Babylon against the Salarians, how they came in all to the battell || eight thousand, with foure thousand Macedonians: and when the Macedonians were astonished, the eight thousand slew an hundredeth and twenty thousand though the help that was giuen them from heauen, wherby they had receiued many benefites.

21 Thus when he had made them bold with these wordes, and ready to die for the Lawes and and the country, he diuided his army into foure parts, 22 And made his owne brethren captaines ouer the army, to wit, Simon, and Ioseph, and Jonathan, giuing each one fiftene hundred men.

23 And when Eleazarus had read the holy booke, and giuen them a token of the helpe of God, Iudas which led the forward toyned with Alcanor.

24 And becaule the Almighty helped them, they slew about nine thousand men, and wounded and mained the most part of Alcanors host, and so put all to flight, 25 And tooke the money from those that came to buy them, and pursued them far: but lacking time, they returned.

26 For it was the day before the Sabbath, and therefore they would no longer pursue them.

27 So they tooke their weapons, and spoiled the enemies, & kept the Sabbath, giuing thanks and praising the Lord wonderfully, which had deliuered them that day, and powred vpon them the beginning of his mercy.

28 And after the Sabbath, they distributed the spoiles to the sicke, and to the fatherlesse, and to the widowes, and diuided the residue among themselves and their children.

29 When this was done, and they all had made a generall prayer, they besought the mercifull Lord to be reconciled at the length with his seruants.

30 Afterward with one consent they fel vpon Timotheus & Bacchides, and slew about twenty thousand, and wanne high and strong holds, and diuided great spoiles, and gaue an equall portion vnto the sicke, and to the fatherlesse, and to the widowes, and to aged persons also.

31 Moreover, they gathered their weapons together, and laid them by diligently in conuenient places, and brought the remnant of the spoiles to Jerusalem.

32 They slew also Philarches a most wicked person which was with Timotheus, and had bered the Jewes many wayes.

33 And when they kept the feast of Victorie in their country, they burnt Calisthenes that had set fire vpon the holy gates, which was fled into a little house: so he receiued a reward meere for his wickednesse.

34 And that most wicked Alcanor, which had brought a thousand Merchants to buy the Jewes, 35 Hee was through the helpe of the Lord brought downe of them whom hee thought as nothing, inso much that hee put off his glorious rayment, and fled ouerthwart the country like a fugitiue seruant, and came alone to Antiochia, with great dishonour through the destruction of his hoste.

36 Thus hee that promised to pay tribute to the Romanes, by meanes of the prisoners of Jerusalem, brought newes, that the Jewes had a defender, and for this cause none could hurt the Jewes, because they followed the Lawes appointed by him.

¶ Or, God their defender,

CHAP. IX.

1 Antiochus willing to spoile Persopolis, is put to flight.

5 As hee persecuteth the Jewes, hee is stricken of the Lord, 13 The famed repentance of Antiochus, 28 Hee dyeth miserably.

At the same time came Antiochus againe with dishonour, out of the Countrey of Persia.

2 For when he came to Persopolis, and went about to rob the Temple, and to subdue the city, the people ranne in a rage to defend themselves with their weapons, and put them to flight, and Antiochus was put to flight by the inhabitants and returned with shame.

3 Now when hee came to Cebatane, hee vnderstood the things that had come vnto Alcanor and Timotheus.

4 And then being chased in his fume, hee thought to impute to the Jewes their fault, which had put him to flight, and therefore commanded his chareriman to draine continually, and to dispatch the iourney: for Gods iudgement compelled him: for he had said thus in his pride, I will make Jerusalem a common burying place of the Jewes, when I come thither.

5 But the Lord Almighty, and God of Israel smote him with an incurable and inuisible plague: for as soone as he had spoken these words, a paine of the bowels that was remediless came vpon him, and sore torments of the inner parts,

6 And that most lustily: for hee had tormented other mens bowels with diuers and strange torments.

7 Howbeit hee would in no wise cease from his arrogancie, but swelled the more with pride, breathing out fire in his rage against the Jewes, and commaunded to haste the iourney: but it came to passe that hee fell downe from the charret that ranne swiftly, so that all the members of his body were bruised with the great fall.

8 And thus hee that a little afore thought he might commaund the floods of the Sea (so proud was he beyond the condition of man) and to weigh the high mountaines in the ballance, was now cast on the ground, and carried in an horrelitter, declaring vnto all the manifest power of God.

9 So that the woymes came out of the body of this wicked man in abundance: & whiles he was aloue, his flesh fell off for paine and torment: and all his armie was grieved at his smell.

10 Thus no man could beare because of his stinke, him that a little afore thought hee might reach to the starres of heauen.

11 Then he began to leane off his great pride and selfe will when hee was plagued, and came to the knowledge of himselfe by the scourge of God, and by his paine which increased euery moment.

12 And when he himselfe might not abide his owne stinke, he saith these words, It is meete to be subject vnto God, and that a man which is mortall, should not thinke himselfe equall vnto God through pride.

13 This wicked person prayed also vnto the Lord, who would now haue no mercie on him, 14 And said thus, that he would set at liberty the holy city vnto the which he made haste to destroy it and to make it a burying place.

15 And as touching the Jewes (whom hee had iudged not worthy to be buried, but would haue cast them out with their children men to be deuoured of the foules & wilde beasts) hee would make them all like the citizens of Athens.

¶ Mr 13. 23.

¶ Or, rottenness.

16 And whereas he had spoiled the holy Temple afore, hee would garnish it with great gifts, and increase the holy vessels, and of his owne rents beare the charges belonging to the sacrifices.

17 Yea, and that he would also become a Jew himselfe, and goe thorow all the world that was inhabited, and preach the power of God.

18 But for all this, his paines would not cease: for the iust iudgement of God was come vpon him: therefore despairing of his health, he wrote vnto the Jewes this letter vnder written, containing the forme of a supplication.

19 THE KING, and prince Antiochus vnto the Jewes his louing citizens, witherth much joy, and health and prosperitie.

20 If ye and your children fare wel, and if all things go after your mind, I giue great thanks vnto God, hauing hope in the heauen.

21 Though I lie sick, yet I am mindfull of your honour, and good will for the loue I beare you: therefore when I returned from the country of Persia, & fell into a sore disease, I thought it necessary to care for the common safetie of all,

22 Not distrusting mine health, but hauing great hope to escape this sicknesse.

23 Therefore considering that when my father led an hoste against the high countreyes, he appointed who should succeed him:

24 That if any controuersie happened contrary to his expectation, or if that any tidings were brought that were grieuous, they in the land might know to whom the affaires were committed, that they should not be troubled.

25 Againe, when I ponder how that the gouernors, that are borderers and neighbours vnto my kingdom, wait for all occasions, and looke but for opportunitie, I haue ordeined that my sonne Antiochus shall be king, whom I oft commended and committed to many of you, when I went into the high prouinces, and haue written vnto him as followeth hereafter.

26 Therefore I pray you, and require you to remember the benefices that I haue done vnto you generally, and particularly, and that euery man will be faithfull to me and to my sonne.

27 For I trust that hee will be gentle and loving vnto you according to my minde.

28 Thus the murtherer and blasphemers suffered most grieuously, and as he had intreated other men, so hee dyed a miserable death in a strange countrey among the mountaines.

29 And Philip that was brought by with him, carried away his body, who fearing the sonne of Antiochus, went into Egypt to Ptolemy Philometor.

CHAP. X.

1 Judas Maccabeus taketh the citie and the Temple. 10 the actes of Eupator. 16 The Jewes fight against the Idumeans. 24 Timotheus invadeth Iudea, with whom Judas seyneth battell. 29 Five men appeare in the aire to the helpe of the Jewes. 37 Timotheus is slaine.

Maccabeus now and his compayny, through the helpe of the Lord, won the Temple and the city againe,

2 And destroyed the altars, & chappels that the heathen had builded in the open places,

3 And cleansed the Temple, and made another altar, and burned stones, and tooke fire of them, and offered sacrifices, and incense two yeeres, and six monethes after, and set forth the lampes, and the shewbread.

4 When that was done, they fell downe flat vpon the ground, and besought the Lord, that they might come no more into such troubles: but if they sinned any more against him, that he himselfe would chasten them with mercy, and that they might not be deliuered to the blasphemous, and barbarous nations.

5 Now vpon the same day, that the strangers polluted the Temple, on the very same day it was cleansed againe, euen the five and twentieth day of the same moneth which is || Cha- || Or, November.

6 They kept eight dayes with gladnesse as in the feast of the Tabernacles, remembering, that not long afore they held the feast of the Tabernacles, when they liued in the mountaines and denmes like beasts.

7 And for the same cause they bare greene boughes, and faire branches and palmes, and sang Psalmes vnto him that had giuen them good successe in cleansing his place.

8 They ordained also by a common statute and decree, that euery yeere those dayes should be kept of the whole nation of the Jewes.

9 And this was the end of Antiochus called Epiphanes.

10 Now will we declare the acts of Antiochus Eupator, which was the sonne of this wicked man, gathering briefly the calamities of the warres that followed.

11 For when he had taken the kingdome, he made one Lysias, which had bin captaine of the hoste in Phenice and Coelosyria, ruler over the affaires of the Realme.

12 For Ptolemy was called Ptolemy, purposed to doe iustice vnto the Jewes for the wrong that had bene done vnto them, and went about to behaue himselfe peaceably with them.

13 For the which cause, he was accused of his friends before Eupator, and was called oft times traitour, because he had left Cyprus that Philometor had committed vnto him, and came to Antiochus Epiphanes: therefore seeing that he was no more in estimation, he was discouraged, and poisoned himselfe, and died.

14 But when Sozias was gouernour of the same places, he entertained strangers, and made warre oft times against the Jewes.

15 Moreover, the Idumeans that held the strong holdes which were meete for their purpose, troubled the Jewes, and by receiuing them that were driven from Ierusalem, tooke in hand to continue warre.

16 Then they that were with Maccabeus, made prayers, and besought God that he would be their helper, and so they fell vpon the strong holdes of the Idumeans,

17 And assaulted them sore, that they wanne the places, and slew all that fought against them on the wall, and killed all that they mette with, and slew no lesse then twentie thousand,

18 And because certaine (which were no lesse then then nine thousand) were fled into two strong castles, having all manner of things commended to sustaine the siege.

19 Baccabens left Simon and Joseph, and Jacobus also, and those that were with them, which were now to besiege them, and departed to those places which were more needfull.

20 Now they that were with Simon, being led with courtesie, were entreated for money (through certaintie of those that were in the castle) and tooke seventy thousand drachmes, and let some of them escape.

21 But when it was told Baccabens what was done, he called the governours of the people together, and accused those men, that they had sold their brethren for money, and let their enemies goe.

22 So he slew them when they were consuet of treason, and immediately wanne the two castles.

23 And having good successe, as in all the warres that hee tooke in hand, he slew in the two castles more then twentie thousand.

24 Now Timotheus whom the Jewes had overcome afore, gathered an armie of strangers of all sorts, and brought a great troupe of horsemen out of Asia, to winne Jewrie by strength.

25 But when he drew neere, Baccabens and they that were with him, turned to pray unto God, and sprinkled earth upon their heads, and girded their reins with sackcloth.

26 And fell downe at the foote of the altar, and besought the Lord to be mercifull to them, and to bee an enemy to their enemies, and to bee an adversarie to their adversaries, as the Law declareth.

27 So after the prayer they tooke their weapons, and went on further from the cite, and when they came neere to the enemies, they tooke herbe to themselves.

28 And when the morning appeared, they both joynd together: the one part had the Lord for their refuge, and pledge of prosperitie, and noble victorie, and the other tooke courage as a guide of the warre.

29 But when the battell waxed strong, there appeared unto the enemies from heauen five comely men upon horses with byssoles of golde, and two of them led the Jewes.

30 And tooke Baccabens betwixt them, and covered him on every side with their weapons, and kept him safe, but shot darts & lightnings against the enemies, so that they were confounded with blindness, and beaten downe, and full of trouble.

31 There were slaine of foote men twentie thousand and five hundred, and sixe hundred horsemen.

32 As for Timotheus himselfe, he fled unto Gazara, which was called a very strong holde, wherein Thebas was capitaine.

33 But Baccabens and his company layde siege against the fortress with courage for foure dayes.

34 And they that were within, trusting to the height of the place, blasphemed exceedingly, and spake horrible words.

35 Neuertheless, upon the fifte day in the morning, twentie young men of Baccabens company, whose hearts were inflamed, because of the blasphemies, came unto the wall, & with both hands smote downe the battlements.

36 Others also that climbed up upon the engines of warre against them that were within, let fire upon the towers, and burnt those blasphemers quick with the fires that they had made, and others brake up the gates, and received the rest of the army, and tooke the cite.

37 And having found Timotheus, they wanne him into a cage, & hauled him, and Chertan his brother with Apollonians.

38 When this was done, they praised the Lord with psalmes and thanksgiving, which had done so great things for Israel, and given them the victory.

CHAP. XII.

1 Lyfias goeth about to overcome the Jewes: 2 Simon cometh to the Jewes: 3 The letter of King Antiochus unto Lyfias: 4 A letter of the same unto the Jewes: 5 A letter of the Romans to the Jewes.

V Ery shortly after this, Lyfias the Kings Steward, and a kinsman of his, which had the gouernance of the affaires, took some diligence for the things that were done.

2 And when hee had gathered about fourescore thousand, with all the horsemen, he came against the Jewes, thinking to make the city an habitation of the Gentiles.

3 And the Temple would he haue to get money by, like the other temples of the heathens, for he would sell the Priests office every yeere.

4 And thus being puffed up in his minde because of the great number of footmen, and thousands of horsemen, and in his fourescore Elephants,

5 Hee came into Iudca, and drew neere to Beth-lura, which was a castle of defence, five furlongs from Ierusalem, and laid siege thereunto.

6 But when Baccabens and his company knew that he besieged the holds, they and all the people made prayers with weeping and teares before the Lord, that he would send a good Angel to deliuer Israel.

7 And Baccabens himselfe first of all tooke weapons, exhorting the other that they would scapard themselves together with him to helpe their brethren: so they went forth together with a courageous minde.

8 And as they were there besides Ierusalem, there appeared before them upon horsebacke a man in white clothing, shaking his hauberk of golde.

9 Then they praised the mercifull God all together, and tooke heart, inasmuch that they were ready, not onely to fight with men, but with the most cruell beasts, and to breake downe walles of yron.

10 Thus they marched forward in aray, having an helper from heauen: for the Lord was mercifull unto them.

11 And running upon their enemies like Lyons, they slew eleven thousand footmen, and sixene hundred horsemen, and put all the other to flight.

12 Many of them also being wounded, escaped naked, & Lyfias himselfe fled away shamefully.

fully, and so escaped.

13 Who as hee was a man of understanding considering what losse he had had, and knowing that the Hebrewes could not bee overcome because the Almighty God helped them, sent unto them,

14 And promised that he would consent to all things which were reasonable, and perswade the king to be their friend.

15 Maccabeus agreed to Lysias requests, having respect in all things to the common weale, and whatsoeuer Maccabeus wrote vnto Lysias concerning the Jewes, the king granted it.

16 For there were letters written vnto the Jewes from Lysias containing these words, LYSIAS vnto the people of the Jewes sendeth greeting.

17 John and Abessalom, which were sent from you, delivered me the things that you demand by writing, and required me to fulfill the things that they had declared.

18 Therefore what things soeuer were meete to be reported to the king himselfe, I haue declared them, and he granted that that was possible.

19 Therefore if yee behaue your selues as friends toward his affaires, hereafter also I will endeavour my selfe to doe you good.

20 As concerning these things, I haue given commandement to these men, & to those whom I sent vnto you, to commune with you of the same particularly.

21 Fare ye well, the hundred and eight and fortie yeere, the foure and twentieth day of the moneth Diocorinchius.

22 Now the kings letter contained these words, KING ANTIOCHVS vnto his brother Lysias sendeth greeting.

23 Since our father is translated vnto the gods, our will is, that they which are in our Realme, liue quietly, that euery man may apply his owne affaires.

24 We vnderstand also that the Jewes would not consent to our father for to be brought vnto the custome of the Gentiles, but would keepe their owne manner of liuing: for the which cause they require of vs, that we would suffer them to liue after their owne lawes.

25 Wherefore our minde is, that this nation shall be in rest, and haue determined to restore them their Temple, that they may be gouerned according to the custome of their fathers.

26 Thou shalt doe well therefore to send vnto them, and grant them peace, that when they are certified of our minde, they may be of good comfort, and cheerefully goe about their owne affaires.

27 And this was the kings letter vnto the nation, KING ANTIOCHVS vnto the Elders of the Jewes, and to the rest of the Jewes sendeth greeting.

28 If ye fare well, we haue our desire: we are also in good health.

29 Heliclus declared vnto vs that yone desire was to returne home, and to apply your owne business.

30 Wherefore, those that will depart, we give them free liberty, vnto the thirtieth day of the moneth Panthicus,

31 That the Jewes may be their owne maner of liuing and lawes, like as afore, and none of them by any manner of wayes to haue harme for things done by ignorance.

32 I haue sent also Heliclus to comfort you. 33 Fare ye well: the hundred and eight and fortie yeere, the fiftieth day of the moneth of Panthicus.

34 The Romanes also sent a letter containing these words, QVINTVS MEMMIVS, and Titus Paulius ambassadours of the Romanes, vnto the people of the Jewes send greeting.

35 The things that Lysias the kings kinsman hath granted you, we grant the same also.

36 But concerning that which he shall report vnto the king, send hither some with speed, when yee haue considered the matter diligently, that wee may consult thereupon, as shall be best for you: for we must goe vnto Antiochia.

37 And therefore make haste, and send some men, that we may know your minde.

38 Farewell: this hundred and eight and fortie yeere, the fiftieth day of the moneth of Panthicus.

CHAP. XII.

1 Timotheus troubleth the Jewes. 2 The wicked deeds of them of Ioppe against the Jewes. 3 Judas is auenged of them. 4 Hee setteth fire in the haven of Iamnia. 5 The pursuit of the Jewes against Timotheus. 6 Timotheus is taken, and let goe vnhurt. 7 Judas pursueth Gorgias.

When these couenants were made, Lysias went vnto the king, and the Jewes cilled their ground.

2 But the gouernours of the places, as Timotheus, and Apollonius the sonne of Senneus, and Hieronymus, and also Demophon, and besides them Picanor the gouernour of Cyprus, would not let them liue in rest and peace.

3 They of Ioppe also did such a vile acte: they prayed the Jewes that dwelt among them, to goe with their wines and children into the ships, which they had prepared as though they had ought them none at all.

4 And so by the common aduice of the citie, they obeyed them, and suspected nothing: but when they were gone forth into the deepe, they drowned no lesse then two hundred of them.

5 Now when Judas knew of this cruelty shewed against his nation, he commanded those men that were with him, to make them ready.

6 And hauing called vpon God the righteous Iudge, hee went forth against the murderers of his brethren, and set fire in the haven by night, and burne the shippes, and those that fled thence, he slew.

7 And when the citie was shut vp, he departed as though he would come againe, and roote out all them of the citie of Ioppe.

8 But when he perceived that the Iammites were minded to doe in like manner vnto the Jewes which dwelt among them, 9 He came vpon the Iammites by night, and set fire in the haven with the nanke, so that the light of the fire was seene at Ierusalem, vpon a two hundred and fortie furlongs.

10 Now when they were gone from thence nine furlongs, in their journey toward Timotheus, about fiftie thousand men of foote and

11 So the battell was sharpe, but it prospered with Judas through the helpe of God: the Nomades of Arabia being overcome, besoughte Judas to make peace with them, and promised to give him certaine || cattell, and to helpe him in other things.

12 And Judas thinking that they should inderde bee profitable concerning many things, granted them peace: wherupon they shooke hands, and so they departed to their tents.

13 || Judas also assaulted a citie called Caphis, which was strong by reason of a bridge, and fenced round about with walles, and had diuers kinds of people dwelling therein.

14 So they that were within it, put such trust in the strength of the walles, and in store of victuals, that they were the slacker in their doings, railing them that were with Judas, and reproching them: yea, they blasphemed and spake such words as were not lawfull.

Isa. 6. 20.

15 But Baccabens souldiers calling vpon the great Prince of the world (which without any || instruments, or engines of warre, did cast downe the walles of Iericho, in the time of Iesus) gave a fierce assault against the walles,

16 And tooke the citie by the will of God, and made an exceeding great slaughter, insomuch that a lake of two furlongs broad, which lay thereby, seemed to flow with blood.

17 Then departed they from thence, tenen hundred and fiftie furlongs, and came to Characa vnto the Iewes, that are called Tulent.

18 But they found not Timotheus there: for he was departed from thence, and had done nothing, and had left a garison in a very strong hold.

19 But Dosithheus, & Sosipater, which were captaynes with Baccabens, went forth, and slew those that Timotheus had left in the fortreffe, more then ten thousand men.

20 And Baccabens prepared and ranged his army by bands, and went courageously against Timotheus, which had with him an hundred and twenty thousand men of foot, and two thousand and five hundred horsemen.

21 When Timotheus had knowledge of Judas coming, hee sent the women and children, and the other baggage afoze, vnto a fortreffe called Carnion (for it was hard to besiege, and vneasse to come vnto, because of the straits on all sides.)

22 But when Judas first band came in sight, the enemies were smitten with feare, and a trembling was among them through the presence of him that seeth all things, insomuch that they fleeing one here, another there, were oftentimes hurt by their owne people, and wounded with the pointes of their owne swords.

23 But Judas was very earnest in pursuing, and slew those wicked men: yea, hee slew thirtie thousand men of them.

24 Timotheus also himselfe fell into the hands of Dosithheus and Sosipater, whom he besoughte with much craft to let him go with his life, because he had many of the Iewes parents, and the brethren of some of them, which, if they put him to death, should be despised.

25 So when he had assured them with many words, and promised that he would restore them without hurt, they let him go for the health of their brethren.

26 Then went Baccabens toward Carnion, and Arragation, and slew six and twenty thousand persons.

27 And after that hee had chased away and slaine them, Judas remooued the hoste toward Ephion a strong citie, wherein was Lyllas and a great multitude of altunations, and the strong young men kept the walles, defending them mightily: there was also great preparation of engines of warre, and darts.

28 But when they had called vpon the Lord, which with his power breaketh the strenght of the enemies, they wanne the citie, and slew six and twenty thousand of them that were within.

29 From thence went they to Scythopolis, which lieth six hundred furlongs from Ierusalem.

30 But when the Iewes which dwelt there, testified that the || Scythopolitans dealt louingly with them, and intreated them kindly in the time of their aduersitie,

|| Or, Scythopolis.

31 They gaue them thanks, desiring them to bee friendly still vnto them, and so they came to Ierusalem, as the feast of the weekes approached.

32 And after the feast called Pentecost, they went forth against Gorgias the gouernour of Idumea:

33 Who came out with three thousand men of foote, and four hundred horsemen.

34 And when they ioyned together, a few of the Iewes were slaine,

35 And Dosithheus one of the Baccabens, which was on horsebacke and a mighty man tooke Gorgias, and layd hold of his garment, and drew him by force, because hee would haue taken the wicked man alive: but an horseman of Thracia fell vpon him and smote off his shoulder, so that Gorgias fell into || Marisa.

36 And when they that were || with Eleazar, had foughten long, and were wearie, Judas called vpon the Lord, that he would shew him, fiftie to bee their helper, and Captaine of the field.

37 And then he began in his owne language, and sung Blaesnes with a loude voice, insomuch that straightwayes hee made them that were about Gorgias, to take their flight.

38 So Judas gathered his hoste, and came into the citie of Ddolla. And when the seventh day came, they cleansed themselves (as the custome was) and kept the Sabbath in the same place.

39 And vpon the day following, as necesse required, Judas and his company came to take vp the bodies of them that were slaine, and to bury them with their kinsmen in their fathers graues.

40 Now vnder the coates of euery one that was slaine, they found jewels that had been consecrate to the Idoles of the || Idumites, which thing is forbidden the Iewes by the Law. Then euery man saw that this was the cause wherefore they were slaine.

41 And so euery man gaue thanks vnto the Lord, the righteous Iudge, which had opened the things that were hid.

42 And

42 And they gaue themselves to prayer, and be-loughe him, that they should not vicerly be destroyed for the fault committed. Besides that, noble Judas exhorted the people to keepe themselves from sinne, forasmuch as they saw before their eyes the things which came to passe by the sinne of those that were blame.

43 And hauing made a gathering through the company, sent to Ierusalem about two thousand drachmes of silver, to offer a sinne offering, doing very well and honestly, that he thought of the re-urrection.

44 For if he had not hoped that they which were blame, should rise againe, it had bene superfluous and vaine, to pray for the dead.

a From this verse to the end of this chapter, the Greeke text is corrupt, so that no good sense, much lesse certaine doctrine can be gathered thereby. Also it is euident that this place was not written by the holy Ghost, both because it dissenteth from the rest of the holy Scriptures, & also the authour of this booke acknowledging his own infirmities, desireth pardon, if he haue not attained to that hee should. And it seemeth that this Iason the Cyrenyan our of whom he tooke this abridgement, is Ioseph Ben gorion, who hath written in Iewish five booke of these matters, & increasing this place, maketh no mention of this prayer for the dead. Lib. 3. cap. 19. For it is contrary to the custome of the Iewes euen to this day to pray for the dead. And though Iudas had so done, yet this particular example is not sufficient to establish a doctrine, no more then Zipporahs was to prove that women might minister the Sacraments, Exod. 4. 25 or the example of Razis, that one might kill himselfe, whom this authour so much commendeth, Chap. 14. 41.

45 And therefore he perceived that there was great fauour layed by for those that died godly. (It was an holy & good thought.) So he made a reconciliation for the dead, that they might be deliuered from sinne.

46 And he being apart with the Elders, tooke counsell to goe forth, afore the king brought his hoste into Iudea, and should take the citie, and commit the matter to the helpe of the Lord.

man should die such a death, and it was a most just thing that Gentilius should want buriall.

8 For because he had committed many sinnes by the altar, whose fire and ashes were holy: hee himselfe also dyed in the ashes.

9 Now the king raged in his minde, and came to Iewes himselfe more cruel vnto the Iewes then his father.

10 Which things when Judas perceived, he commanded the people to call vpon the Lord night and day, that it euer he had holpen them, he would now helpe them, when they should be put from their Law, from their countrie, and from the holy Temple:

11 And that he would not suffer the people which a little before began to recouer, to be subdued vnto the blasphemous nations.

12 So when they had done this altogether, and brought the Lord for mercy with weeping and fasting, and fasting downe three dayes together, Iudas exhorted euen to make themselves ready.

13 And he being apart with the Elders, tooke counsell to goe forth, afore the king brought his hoste into Iudea, and should take the citie, and commit the matter to the helpe of the Lord.

14 So committing the charge to the Lord of the world, he exhorted his souldiers to fight manfully, euen vnto death for the Law, the Temple, the citie, their countrie, and the common wealth, and camped by Bordin.

15 And so giuing his souldiers for a watch-word, The victory of God; he picked out the manliest young men, and went by night into the kings campe, and slew of the hoste foureteene thousand men, and the greatest Elephant with all that late vpon him.

16 Thus when they had brought a great feare, and trouble in the campe, and all things went prosperously with them, they departed.

17 This was done in the beake of the day, because the protection of the Lord did helpe them.

18 Now when the king had tasted the manliness of the Iewes: hee went about to take the holds by policie, 19 And marched toward Beth-sura, which was a strong hold of the Iewes: but hee was chased away, hurt, and lost of his men.

20 For Iudas had sent vnto them that were in it, such things as were necessary.

21 But Rhodocus which was in the Iewes hoste, disclosed the secrets to the enemies: therefore he was sought out, and when they had gotten him, they put him in prison.

22 After this, old the king commune with them that were in Beth-sura, and tooke truce with them, departed and Ioynd battell with Iudas, who ouercame him.

23 But when hee understood, that Phisip (whom he had left to be ouerser of his business at Antiochia) did rebell against him, he was astonished; so that he peried himselfe to the Iewes, and made them an orde to doe all things that were right, and was appeased toward them, and offered sacrifice and adorned the Temple, and shewed great gentleness to the place.

24 And embraced Baccabens, and made him captaine and gouernour from Borselmans vnto the Coereneans.

25 And thereafter,

CHAP. XIII.

1 The coming of Eupator into Iudea. 4 The death of Menelaus. 10 Maccabens going to fight against Eupator, moueth his souldiers vnto prayer. 15 He killeth fourscore thousand men in the tents of Antiochus. 21 Rhodocus the betrayer of the Iewes is taken.

In the hundredth forty and nine yeere, it was tolde Iudas that Antiochus Eupator was coming with a great power into Iudea,

2 And Lysias the steward and ruler of his affaires with him, hauing both in their armie an hundred and ten thousand men of foote of the Grecians, and five thousand horsemen, and two and twenty Elephants, and three hundred charretts set with bookes.

3 Menelaus also Ioynd himselfe with them, and with great deceit encouraged Antiochus, not for the safegard of the countrie, but because he thoughte to haue bene made the gouernour.

4 But the king of kings moued Antiochus minde against this wicked man, and Lysias encouraged the king, that this man was the cause of all mischance, so that the king commanded to bring him to Berea to put him to death as the manner was in that place.

5 Now there was in that place a tower of steeple high, full of ashes, and it had an instrument that turned round, and on euery side it soules downe into the ashes:

6 And there whosoever was condemned of sacrilege, or of any other greivous crime, was cast of all men to the death.

7 And so it came to passe that this wicked

|| Or, gave and took the right hand.

25 Neuerthelesse, when hee came to Beotians, the people of the cite were not content with this agreement: and because they were grieved, they would that hee should breake the covenants.

26 Then went Lysias by into the iudgement seat, and excused the fact as well as he could, and perswaded them, and pacified them, and made them wel affectioned, and came againe vnto Antiochia. This is the matter concerning the kings iourney, and his returne.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Demetrius moued by Alcimus, sendeth Nicanor to kill the Iewes. 18 Nicanor maketh a compass with the Iewes, 29 Which hee yet breaketh thorow the motion of the King. 37 Nicanor commandeth Razis to be taken, who slayeth himselfe.

After these perces was Judas informed that Demetrius the son of Seleucus was come by with a great power and navy by the hauens of Tripolis,

2 When he had won the countrey, and slaine Antiochus, and his lieutenant Lysias.

3 Now Alcimus, which had bene the high Priest, and wilfully desired himselfe in the time that all things were confounded, seeing that by no meanes hee could saue himselfe, nor haue any more entrance to the holy Altar,

4 Hee came to king Demetrius in the hundredth fiftie and one yere, presenting vnto him a crowne of gold, and a palme, and of the boughes which were vsed solemnly in the Temple, and that day he held his tongue.

5 But when he had gotten opportunitie, and occasion for his rage, Demetrius called him to counsell, and asked him what deuices or counsels the Iewes learned vnto.

6 To the which hee answered, The Iewes that be called Asideans, whose captaine is Judas Maccabeus, maintaine warres, and make insurrections, and will not let the realme bee in peace.

7 Therefore I, being deuiued of my fathers honour (I meane the high Priesthood) am now come hither,

8 Partly because I was well affectioned vnto the kings affaires, and secondly because I sought the profite of mine owne citizens: for all our people, though their rashnesse, are not a little troubled.

9 Therefore, O king, seeing thou knowest all these things, make provision for the countrey, and our nation which is abused, according to thine owne humanitie, that is ready to helpe all men.

10 For as long as Judas liueth, it is not possible that the matter should be well.

11 When hee had spoken these words, other friends also hauing euill will at Judas, set Demetrius on fire.

12 Who immediately called for Nicanor the ruler of the Elephants, and made him captaine ouer Judea, 13 And sent him forth, commanding him to slay Judas, and to scatter them that were with him, and to make Alcimus his priest of the great Temple.

14 When the heathen which fled out of Judea from Judas, came to Nicanor by flocks, thinking the harme and calamities of the Iewes to be their welfare.

15 Now when the Iewes heard of Nicanors coming, and the gathering together of the heathen, they sprinkled themselves with earth, and prayed vnto him, which had appointed himselfe a people for euer, and did alwaies defend his owne portion with euident tokens.

16 So at the commandement of the captaine, they remooued straightwayes from thence, and came to the towne of Delfan, 17 Where Simon Judas brother had soryned battell with Nicanor, and was somewhat astonished though the sudden silence of the enemies.

18 Neuerthelesse, Nicanor hearing the malignitie of them that were with Judas, and the bolde stomacks that they had for their countrey, durst not prooue the matter with bloodshedding.

19 Wherefore hee sent Pothidorus, Theodolus, and Matthias before to make peace.

20 So when they had taken long aduilement thereupon, and the Captaines shewed it vnto the multitude, they were agreed in one mind, and consented to the covenants.

21 And they appoynted a day, when they should particularly come together: so when the day was come, they set for euer man his scoole.

22 Neuerthelesse, Judas commaunded certaine men of armes to waite in convenient places: least there should suddenly arise any euill through their enemies: and so they communed together of the things wherupon they had agreed.

23 Nicanor, while hee abode at Ierusalem, did none hurt, but sent away the people that were gathered together.

24 Hee loued Judas, and fauoured him in his heart.

25 Hee prayed him also to take a wife, and to beget children: so hee married, and they liued together.

26 But Alcimus perceiuing the loue that was betwene them, & vnderstanding the covenants that were made, came to Demetrius & tolde him that Nicanor had taken strange matters in hand, and ordeined Judas a traitor to the realme to be his successor.

27 Then the king was displeased, and by the reports of this wicked man, hee wrote to Nicanor, saying, That hee was very angry for the covenants, commanding him that he should send Maccabeus in all haste prisoner vnto Antiochia.

28 When these things came vnto Nicanor, he was astonished and sore grieved, that hee should breake the things whereto they had agreed, seeing that that man had committed no wickednesse.

29 But because it was not commodious to him to withstand the king, hee sought craftily to accomplish it.

30 Notwithstanding, when Maccabeus perceived that Nicanor beganne to bee rough vnto him, and that hee entreated him more rudely then he was wont, hee perceived that such rigour came not of good, and therefore hee gathered a fewe of his men, and withdrew himselfe from Nicanor.

31 But the other persecuting that hee was presented by Maccabeus worthy policy, came into the great and holy Temple, and commanded the Priests, which were offering their usuall sacrifices, to deliuer him the man.

32 And when they sware that they could not tell where the man was, whom he sought, 33 Hee stretched out his right hand toward the Temple, and made an othe in this manner, If yee will not deliuer mee Iudas as a prisoner, I will make this Temple of God a plaine field, and will breake downe the Altar, and will erect a notable temple vnto Bacchus.

34 After these words hee departed: then the Priests lift up their hands toward heauen, and belought him that was euer the defender of their nation, saying in this manner, 35 Thou, O Lord of all things, which hast need of nothing, wouldest that the Temple of thine habitation should be among vs.

36 Therefore now, O most holy Lord, keepe this house euer undefiled, which lately was cleansed, and stop all the mouthes of the vnrighteous.

37 Now was there accused vnto Nicanor, Razis one of the Elders of Ierusalem, a loue of the Citie, and a man of very good report, which for his loue was called a father of the Jewes.

38 For this man aforesayd when the Jewes were minded to keepe themselves undefiled and pure, being accused to be of the Religion of the Jewes, did offer to spend his body and life with all constancie for the Religion of the Jewes.

39 So Nicanor willing to declare the hatred that hee bare to the Jewes, sent about five hundred men of warre to take him.

40 For hee thought by taking him to doe the Jewes much hurt.

41 But when this company would haue taken his castle, and would haue broken the gates by violence, & commanded to bring fire to burne the gates, so that he was ready to bee taken on euery side, he fell on his sword, 42 Willing rather to die manfully, then to giue himselfe into the hands of wicked men, and to suffer reproch vnworthy for his noble stocke.

43 Forwithstanding what time as he missed of his stroke for haste, and the multitude rushed in violently betwene the doozes, he ran boldly to the wall, and cast himselfe downe manfully among the multitude,

44 Which conueyed themselves lightly away, and gaue place, so that hee fell vpon his belly.

45 Neuertheless while there was yet breath in him, being kindled in his minde, hee rose vp, and though his blood gushed out like a fountaine, and he was very sore wounded, yet hee ran thorow the mids of the people,

46 And gate him to the top of an high rocke: so when his blood was utterly gone, he rooke out his owne bowels with both his hands, & threw them vpon the people, calling vpon the Lord of life and spirit, that he would restore them againe vnto him, and thus he died.

CHAP. XV.

1 Nicanor goeth about to come vpon Iudas on the Sabbath day. 5 The blasphemie of Nicanor. 14 Maccabeus expounding vnto the Jewes the vision, encourage them. 21 The prayer of Iudas, & Iudas, 30 Maccabeus comman-death Nicanors head and hands to be cut off, and his tongue to bee giuen to the foules. 39 The anthonie executeth himselfe.

Now when Nicanor knew that Iudas and his company were in the countrey of Samaria, he thought with all assurance to come vpon them, vpon the Sabbath day.

2 Neuertheless the Jewes that were compelled to goe with him, said, O kill not so cruelly and barbarously, but honour and sanctifie the day that is appointed by him that seeth all things.

3 But this most wicked person demanded, Is there a Lord in heauen, that commanded the Sabbath day to be kept?

4 And when they said, There is a liuing Lord, which ruleth in the heauen, who commanded the seventh day to be kept,

5 Then hee said, And I am mightie vpon earth to command them for to arme themselves, and to performe the kings businesse. Forwithstanding he could not accomplish his wicked enterprise.

6 For Nicanor lifted vp with great pride, purposed to set vp a memoriall of the victory obtained of all them that were with Iudas.

7 But Maccabeus had euersure confidence and a perfect hope that the Lord would helpe him,

8 And exhorted his people not to bee afralde at the coming of the heathen, but alway to remember the helpe that had bene shewed vnto them from heauen, and to trust now also that they should haue the victorie by the Almighty.

9 Thus he encouraged them by the Law, and Prophets, putting them in remembrance of the battels that they had wonne afore, and so made them more willing,

10 And stirred vp their hearts, and shewed them also the deceitfulness of the heathen, and how they had broken their othes.

11 Thus hee armed euery one of them, not with the assurance of shields and speares, but with wholesome words and exhortations, and shewed them a dreame worthy to bee beleued, and reioyced them greatly.

12 And this was his vision, He thought that he saw Onias, (which had bene the high Priest, a vertuous and a good man, reuerent in behauiour, and of sober conuersation, well spoken, and one that had bene exercised in all points of godlinesse from a child) holding vp his hands toward heauen, and praying for the whole people of the Jewes.

13 After this there appeared vnto him another man which was aged, honourable, and of a wonderfull dignitie, and excellencie aboue him.

14 And Onias spake and said, This is a loue of the brethren, who prayeth much for the people, and for the holy Citie, to wit, Ieremias the Prophet of God.

15 He thought also that Ieremias held out his right hand, & gaue vnto Iudas a sword of gold: and as he gaue it he spake thus, 16 Take this holy sword a gift from God, wherewith thou shalt wound the aduersaries.

17 And so being comforted by the words of Iudas, which were very sweet, and able to stirre them a As this priuate example ought not to bee followed of the godly because it is contrary to the word of God, although the author seeme here to approoue it: so that place as touching prayer, Chap. 12. 44. though Iudas had appointed it, yet were it not sufficient to proue a doctrine, because it is only a particular example.

them by to ballantnes, & to encourage the hearts of the young men, they determined to pitch no campe, but courageously to set vpon them, and manfully to assault them, and to trie the matter hand to hand, because the city, and the Sanctuary, and the Temple were in danger.

18 As for their wiues and children, and brethren and kinsfolkes, they set lesse by their danger: but their greatest and principall feare was for the holy Temple.

19 Againe they that were in the Citie, were carefull for the army that was abroad.

¶ Or, elephants

20 Now whiles they all waited for the triall of the matter, and the enemies now met with them, and the host was set in aray, & the beasts were separated into conuenient places, and the horsemen were placed in the wings:

21 Haccabaus considering the comming of the multitude, and the diuers preparations of weapons, and the fiercenesse of the beastes, held vp his hands toward heauen, calling vpon the Lord that doeth wonders, and that looked vpon them, knowing that the victorie cometh not by the weapons, but that hee giueth the victorie to them that are worthy, as seemeth good vnto him.

22 Therefore in his prayer he said after this maner, O Lord, * thou that didst send thine Angel in the time of Ezekias king of Iudra, who in the host of Sennacherib slew an hundred fourescore and foure thousand,

23 Send now also thy good Angel before vs, O Lord of heauens, for a feare and dread vnto them, 24 And let them be discomfited by the strength of thine arme, which come against thine holy people to blaspheme. Thus with these words he made an end.

25 Then Nicanor and they that were with him, drew neere with trumpets, and shoutings for ioi.

26 But Judas and his company praying and calling vpon God, encountred with the enemies.

27 So that with their hands they fought, but with their hearts they prayed vnto God, and slew no lesse then fife and thirti thousand men: for through the presence of God they were wonderfully comforted.

28 Now when they left off, and were turning againe with ioi, they understood that Nicanor himselfe was slain for all his armour.

29 Then they made a great shout and a crye, praising the Almighty in their owne language.

30 Therefore Iudas which was ever the chiefe defender of his citizens both in body and minde, and which bare euer good affection towards them of his nation, commanded to smite off Nicanors head, with his hand and shoulder, and to bring it to Ierusalem.

31 And when he came there, he called al them of his nation, and set the priests by the altar, and sent for them of the citie,

32 And shewed them wicked Nicanors head, and the hand of that blasphemous which hee had holden by against the holy Temple of the Almighty with proud brags.

33 He caused the tongue also of wicked Nicanor to be cut in little pieces, and to bee cast vnto the foules, and that the rewards of his madnesse should be hanged by before the Temple.

34 So euery man praised toward the heauen the glorious Lord, saying, Blessed bee hee that hath kept his place undefiled.

35 Hee hanged also Nicanors head vpon the high castle, for an euident and plaine token vnto all of the helpe of God.

36 And so they established altogether by a common decree, that they would in no case suffer this day without keeping it holy.

37 And that the feast should be the thirteenth day of the twelfth moneth, which is called Adar in the Syrians language, the day before Mardocheus day.

38 Thus farre as concerning Nicanors matters, and from that time the Hebrewes had the citie in possession. And here will I also make an ende.

39 If I haue done well, and as the story required, it is the thing that I desired: but if I haue spoken slenderly and barely, it is that I could.

40 For as it is hurtfull to drinke wine alone and then againe water: and as wine tempered with water is pleasant, and delighteth the taste: so the setting out of the matter, delighteth the eares of them that reade the story. And heere shall be the end.

¶ The summe of the whole Scripture of the Bookes of the Old and New TESTAMENT.

G O D.

THE bookes of the olde Testament doe teach vs, that the same God, whom Adam, Noe, Abraham, Isaac, Iacob, Dauid and the other fathers did worship, is * the onely true God, and that hee the same is Almighty and * euermlasting: who of his meere goodnesse hath created by his Word ^b heauen and earth, and all that is in them: From whom all things do come: without whom there is nothing at all: And that he is * iust and mercifull: who also ^d worketh all in all, ^e after his owne wil: To whom it is not lawfull to say, Wherefore doth he thus or thus.

Creation of man,

Sinne,

Moreover, these Bookes teach vs, that this very God Almighty, after he created all things, shope also Adam the first man, ⁸ to the image and spirituall similitude of himselfe, and that he did constitute him Lord ouer all things that he had created in earth. Which Adam by the enuie and fraude of the deuill, transgressing the precept of his Creator, ^h by this his sinne brought in such and so great sinne into the worlde, that we which be sprong from him by the flesh, ⁱ bee in nature the children of wrath, and thereupon we be made subiect and thrall to death, to damnation, to the yoke and tyranny of the deuill.

Christ promised.

Furthermore, we are taught by these excellent bookes, that God promised to ^k Adam, ^l Abraham, ^m Isaac, ⁿ Iacob, ^o Dauid, and to other Fathers of the olde time, that he would sende that blessed seede, his sinne Iesus Christ our Sauour, which should deliuer all those from sinne, and from the tyrannic of the deuill which by a liuely and working faith should beleue this promise, and put their trust in Iesus Christ, hoping that of him and by him, they should obtaine this deliuerance.

The Law.

Also they giue vs to vnderstand, that in the meane season, while those Fathers the Israelites ^u lived for the saluation, and deliuerance promised (for that the nature of man is such, so proud and so corrupt, that those would not willingly acknowledge themselves to bee sinners, which had neede of the Sauour promised) God the Creator gaue by Moses his ^v Lawe written in two Tables of stone: that by it, sinne & the malice of mans heart being ^w knownen, men might more vehemently thirst for the redemption of Iesus Christ, who should redeeme and deliuer them from sinne: which thing, neither the Lawe, nor yet the sacrifices and oblations of the Law did ^x performe. For they were shadowes and figures of the true oblation of the body of Christ: by which oblation all ^y sinne should be blotted out, and quite put away.

Christ God our Sauour came.

By the bookes of the new Testament we be taught, that Christ so afore promised (* which is God) aboue all things most blessed for euer) euen he, I say, was shadowed in the bookes of the olde Testament, and in sacrifices figured, that hee was ^z sent at the last from the Father, the selfe same time which the Father did constitute within himselfe: I say, ^a at that time when all wickednesse abounded in the worlde, then hee was sent: And this Iesus our Sauour being borne in the flesh, ^b suffered death, and rose againe from the dead. Which actes of his were not done by him in respect of the ^c good workes of any man (for we were all sinners) but that this God our Father should ^d appeare true, in exhibiting the abundant ^e riches of his grace which he promised, and that ^f through his mercie hee might bring vs to saluation.

A Lambe.
A Sacrifice.
Peace.
Adoption.

Whereupon it is evidently shewed in the ^g Newe Testament, that Iesus Christ, being the true ^h Lambe, the true ⁱ sacrifice of the worlde, ^j putting away the sinnes of men, came into this worlde to purchase grace and ^k peace for vs with the Father, ^l walking vs from our sinnes in his owne blood, and ^m should deliuer vs from the bondage of the deuill, whom by sinne we did serue: And so we should be ⁿ adopted by him to be the sonnes of God, made ^o heires with him of that most excellent and euermlasting kingdome.

The holy Ghost, Faith,

Now that we should acknowledge this singular and excellent benefit of God towards vs, almighty God ^p giueth vs his holy Spirit: the ^q fruit and effect of the which, is faith in God, and in his Christ. For without the holy Ghost, by which we are instructed and ^r sealed, neither can we beleue that God the Father sent Messias, nor yet that Iesus is Christ: For ^s no man (saith Paul) can say that Iesus is the Lord, but by the holy Ghost. The ^t same Spirit witnesseth to our spirit, that we are the children of God ^u and powreth into our bowels that Charitie which Paul describeth to the Corinthians. Furthermore, that holy Spirit doth giue vs hope, which is a sure looking for eternall life, whereof he himselfe is the certaine ^v token and pledge. Also he giueth vs other ^w spirituall gifts, of the which Paul writeth to the Galatians. Therefore the benefit of faith is not yet to be despised or litle to be set by. For by the means of this trust & ^x faith in Christ, which ^y worketh by charity, & sheweth it selfe forth by the works of charity, moving man thereto, we are ^z iustified and sanctified: that is to say, God and the Father of our Lord

Charitie, Hope.

The Summe of holy Scripture.

Good workes.

Christ our Master and teacher.
Bishop.
Mediatour.
Advocate.

Iudgement.

Eternall life.

Eternall fire.

To what intent the scriptures were written.

Christ the onely foundation.

Iesus Christ (which is made our Father also by him, being our brother) doeth accompt vs to be iust and holy through his grace, and through the merite of his Sonne Iesus Christ, not imputing our finnes to vs, so farre forth, that we should suffer the paines of hell for them.

Finally, Christ himselfe came into the world, to the intent that we through him being sanctified and cleansed from our finnes, following his will in good workes, should deny the things pertaining to the flesh, and freely serue him in righteousness and holiness all the dayes of our life: and that by good workes (which God hath prepared for vs to walke in) we should shew our selues to be called to his grace, and gift of faith: which good workes who so hath not, doth shew himselfe not to haue such a faith in Christ as is required in vs.

To Christ must we come, and follow him with a cheerefull minde that he may teach vs: For hee is our master, a lowly and humble of heart: he is to vs an example, whereby we must learne the rule to liue well.

Moreouer, he is our Bishop, & our high Priest, which did himselfe offer vp for vs his own blood, being the onely mediatour betweene God and men: Who now sitteth at the right hand of God the Father, being made our Advocate, making prayer and intercession for vs: who doubtlesse shall obtaine for vs whatsoever we shall desire, either of him, or else of his Father in his Name, if so be that we thus desiring, shall beleue that he will so do: for thus hath he promised. Therefore let vs not doubt, if we sinne at any time, to come with repentance (to the which he doeth inuite and stirre vs at the very beginning of his preaching) and with sure trust to the throne of his grace, with this beleefe, that we shall obtaine mercy. For therefore came he into the world, that he might saue sinners by his grace.

This is verly Christ Iesus, which shall come at a certaine time appointed by his Father, and shall sit in great maiestie to iudge all men, and to render to euery man the workes of his body according to that he hath done, whether it be good or euill: And he shall say to them which shall be on the right side, which in this world did looke for the good things to come (that is to say, life euermlasting): Come yee blessed of my Father, enioy the kingdome that hath bene prepared for you from the beginning of the world: but to them which shalbe on the left side, hee shall say, Depart from me ye cursed into euermlasting fire prepared for the deuill and his angels. And then shall the end bee, when Christ hauing vtterly vanquished all maner of enemies, shall deliuer vp the kingdome to God the Father.

To the intent that we might vnderstand these things, the sacred Bookes of the Bible were deliuered to vs by the goodnesse of God through his holy Spirit, with the preaching of that doctrine which is contayned in them, and with his Sacraments, by which the truth of this doctrine is sealed vp to vs: that we might vnderstand, I say, and beleue that there is one onely true God, and one Sauour Iesus Christ, whom (as he had promised) he hath sent: and that wee beleeuing, might haue in his Name life euermlasting.

Besides this foundation, no man can lay any other in the Church of Christ and vpon this foundation the Church doeth stand sure and stedfast. And Paul willet him to be accursed which shall preach any other faith and saluation, then by Iesus Christ, yea, though hee were an Angel from heauen.

For of him, through him, and for him, are all things: To whom with the Father and the holy Ghost be all honour and glory, world without end, Amen.

¶ Certaine

Certaine questions and answeres touching the doctrine of Predestination, the vse of Gods word and Sacraments.

Question.

Why doe men so much vary in matters of religion?

Answer.

Because all haue not the like measure of knowledge, neither do all beleue the Gospel of Christ.

Question.

What is the reason thereof?

Answer.

Because they onely beleue the Gospel and doctrine of Christ, which are ordeined vnto eternall life.

Question.

Are not all ordeined vnto eternall life?

Answer.

Some are vessels of wrath ordeined vnto destruction, as others are vessels of mercy prepared to glory.

Question.

How standeth it with Gods iustice, that some are appointed vnto condemnation?

Answer.

Very well: because all men haue in themselves sinne, which deserueth no lesse: and therefore the mercy of God is wonderfull in that he vouchsafeth to saue some of that sinful race, and to bring them to the knowledge of the truth.

Question.

If Gods ordinance & determination must of necessitie take effect, then what neede any man to care? for hee that liueth well, must needs be damned, if he be therunto ordeined and he that liueth ill, must needs be saued, if he be therunto appointed.

Answer.

Not so: for it is not possible, that either the elect should alwayes bee without care to doe well, or that the reprobate should haue any will therunto. For to haue either good will or good worke, is a testimony of the Spirit of God, which is giuen to the Elect onely, whereby faith is so wrought in them, that being graft in Christ, they grow in holinesse to that glory, whereunto they are appointed. Neither are they so vaine as once to thinke that they may doe as they list themselves, because they are predestinate vnto saluation: but rather they endeavour to walke in such good workes as God in Christ Iesus hath ordeined them vnto, and prepared for them to bee occupied in, to their owne comfort, stay and assurance, and to his glory.

Question.

But how shall I know my selfe to bee one of those whom God hath ordeined to life eternall?

Answer.

By the motions of spiritual life, which longeth onely to the children of God: by the which that life is perceiued, euen as the life of this body is discerned by the sense and motions thereof.

Question.

What meane you by the motions of spiritual life?

Answer.

I meane remorse of conscience, loyned with the loathing of sinne, and loue of righteousness: the hand of faith reaching vnto life eternall in Christ, the conscience comforted in distresse, and rayled vp to confidence in God by the worke of his Spirit, a thankfull remembrance of Gods benefits receiued, and the vsing of all aduersities as occasion of amendment sent from God.

Question.

Cannot such perish as at some time or other feele these motions within themselves?

Answer.

It is not possible that they should: for as Gods purpose is not changeable, so he repenteth not of the gifts and graces of his adoption: neither doeth he cast off those whom he hath once receiued.

Question.

Why then should wee pray by the example of Dauid, that hee cast vs not from his face, and that hee take not his holy Spirit from vs?

Answer.

In so praying we make protestation of the weaknes of flesh, which moueth vs to doubt: yet should not we haue courage to aske, if we were not assured that God will giue according to his purpose and promise, that which we requir.

Question.

Doe the children of God feele the motions aforesayd alwayes alike?

Answer.

No truly: for God sometime to prooue his, seemeth to leaue them in such soze, that the flesh ouermatcheth the spirit, whereof ariseth trouble of conscience for the time:

Questions and answers

yet the spirit of adaption is neuer taken from them, that haue once receiued it: else might they perish. But as in many diseases of the body, the powers of bodily life are letted: so in some assaults these motions of spirituall life are not perceiued, because they lie hidden in our manifold infirmities: as the fire couered with ashes. Yet as after sicknesse commeth health, & after cloudes the Sunne shineth cleare: so the powers of spirituall life will more or lesse be felt and perceiued in the children of God.

Question.

What if I neuer feel these motions in my selfe, shall I despair, and thinke my selfe a cast-away?

Answer.

God forbid: for God calleth his at what time hee seeth good: and the instruments whereby he finally calleth, haue not the like effect at all times, yet it is not good to neglect the meanes whereby God hath determined to worke the saluation of his. For as ware is not melted without heate, nor clay hardened but by meanes thereof: so God vseth meanes both to draw those vnto himselfe, whom he hath appointed vnto saluation, and also to bewray the wickednes of them whom he iustly condemneth.

Question.

By what meanes vseth God to draw men to himselfe, that they may be saued?

Answer.

By the preaching of his word, and the ministering of his Sacraments thereunto annexed.

Question.

What meane you by the word of God?

Answer.

I meane the doctrine of the Prophets and Apostles which they receiued of the spirit of God, and haue left written in that Booke, which we commonly call the Old and New Testament.

Question.

How may I be assured that it is the word of God, which that Booke containeth?

Answer.

By the maiestie of God appearing in that plaine and simple doctrine: by the purenesse, vprightnesse, and holinesse thereof: by the certaintie of euery thing therein affirmed: by the successe of all things according to it: by perpetuall consent which is to be seene in euery part thereof: by the excellencie of the matters vttered: But especially by the testimony of Gods Spirit, whereby it was written. who moueth the hearts of those in whom it resteth, to consent vnto the word, and reuerently to embrace it.

Question.

How doth this word of God serue to draw men vnto him?

Answer.

When it is so preached and heard, that men may vnderstand and learne what God teacheth: accept & receiue thankfully that which is thereby giuen, promised and assured: and bee moued with desire and diligence to doe that which it commandeth.

Question.

Do the Sacraments also serue to this end?

Answer.

Yea, verily: that by sight, taste and feeling, as well as by hearing we might be instructed assured, and brought to obedience.

Question.

How doth baptisme serue here vnto?

Answer.

It teacheth vs to put on Christ, that with his righteousness our sinfulness may be hidden: it assureth vs that wee are so grafted into Christ, that all our sinnes by him are washed away: it chargeth vs to die to sinne, to continue in the profession of Christ, and to loue each other.

Question.

Doth the Lords Supper also this vse?

Answer.

Yea doubtlesse: for it teacheth that the body and blood of Christ crucified, is the onely food of the new borne children of God: it assureth that Christ is wholly theirs to giue and to continue life spirituall and heauenly to body and soule, to nourish, strengthen, refresh, and to make cheerefull the hearts of the elect: it requireth thankfull remembrance of the death of Christ, vnitie among them that do profess him, with a free confession of his truth.

Question.

Why is not this vse of the Sacraments commonly knowne?

Answer.

Because they are abused for forme, for fashion, for custome and company, without regard vnto the word, whereunto they are so annexed, that they ought not vpon any necessitie by any person be seuered from it, which teacheth the right vse of euery thing.

Question.

I perceiue that nothing is more necessary then the word of God: therefore I pray you shew mee how I may attaine to some knowledge and profite thereby.

Answer.

By diligent hearing of such as preach it, by continual and orderly exercise of reading, and praying.

Question.

What orderly exercise thinke you most convenient to be vsed herein?

Answer.

Answers.

That as every day choise at the least, wee most commonly receive food to the nourishment of this corporall life, so no day bee let passe without some reading, in such sort that occasion thereby may bee taken to speake & gaine vnto God by prayer as hee in his word speaketh vnto vs: So that at the least two Chapters would bee orderly and aduisedly read every day, all other businesse, impediments and lets set apart.

Question.

This seemeth very easie to be done: what thinke you else requisite?

Answer.

That some special places of Scripture be so committed to memorie, that the minde may ever be furnished with some good matter against all temptations. To which end

I note these Scriptures vnto you, wherein to you may soyme other at your owne choise: Psalms 139, 37, 50. Clay 53. John 17. Rom. 8. I. Tim. 4.

Question.

But the Scriptures are hard, and not easie to vnderstande:

Answer.

Discourage not your selfe herewith: for God maketh them easie to such as in humilitie seeke him: and that hardnesse that you finde, serueth to moue you to the more diligence, and to make inquirie of such as haue knowledge, when any doubt ariseth. That which you perceiue not at one time, God shall reueale at another: So that you shall haue your growing in grace, knowledge, and godlinesse, to Gods glory and your owne comfort in Christ, whose Name for ever bee praised, Amen.

¶ The

The holy Gospel of Iesus Christ.

b according to Matthew.

a This word signifies good tidings, and is taken here for the story which containeth the joyful message of the coming of the Sonne of God, promised from the beginning.

b That is, written and taught by Matthew.

THE ARGUMENT.

IN this history written by Matthew, Marke, Luke, and Iohn, the Spirit of God so governed their hearts, that although they were foure in number, yet in effect & purpose they coesent, as though the whole had bene composed by any one of them. And albeit in stile & manner of writing they be diuers, and sometime one writeth more largely that which the other doth abridge: neuertheless in matter and argument, they all tend to one end, which is to publish to the world the fauor of God toward mankind through Christ Iesus, whom the Father hath giuen vs a pledge of his mercy and loue. And for this cause they entitle their story, Gospel, which signifies good tidings, forasmuch as God hath performed indeed that which the fathers hoped for. So that hereby we are admonished to forsake the world, and the vanities thereof, and with most affectionate hearts embrace this incomparable treasure freely offered vnto vs: for there is no ioy nor consolation, no peace nor quietnesse, no felicitie nor saluation, but in Iesus Christ, who is the very substance of this Gospel, and in whom all the promises are, Yea, and Amen. And therefore vnder this word is contained the whole new Testament, but commonly we vseth this name for the historie, which the foure Euangelists write, containing Christs coming in the flesh, his death and resurrection, which is the perfit & summe of our saluation. Matthew, Marke, and Luke are more copious in describing his life and death: but Iohn more laboureth to set forth his doctrine, wherein both Christs office, and also the vertue of his death and resurrection more fully appeare: for without this, to know that Christ was borne, dead, and risen againe, should nothing profit vs. The which thing notwithstanding that y three first touch partly, as hee also sometime intermedleth the historicall narration, yet Iohn chiefly is occupied herein. And therefore as a most learned interpreter writeth, they describe as it were, the body, and Iohn setteth before our eyes the soule. Wherefore the same apely termeth the Gospel written by Iohn, a key which openeth the doore to the vnderstanding of the others: for whosoever doeth know the office, vertue, and power of Christ, shall read that which is written of the Sonne of God come to be the Redeemer of the world with most profit. Now as concerning the writers of this historie, it is euident that Matthew was a Publican or custome gatherer, and was thence chosen of Christ to be an Apostle. Marke is thought to haue bin Peters discipule, and to haue planted the first Church at Alexandria, where he died the eight yere of the reigne of Nero. Luke was a Physitian of Antiochia, and became Pauls discipule, and fellow in all his trauailes: he liued fourescore and foure yeres, and was buried at Constantinople, Iohn was that Apostle whom the Lord loued, the sonne of Zebedeus, and brother of Iames: he died threefe ore yeres after Christ, and was buried neere to the citie of Ephesus.

17 So all the generations from Abraham to David, are fourteene generations: & from David vntill they were caried away into Babylon, fourteene generations: and after they were caried away into Babylon, vntill Christ, fourteene generations.

18 ¶ Now the birth of Iesus Christ was thus: When as his mother Mary was betrothed to Ioseph, before they came together, she was found with child of the holy Ghost.

19 Then Ioseph her husband being a iust man, and not willing to make her a publique example, was minded to put her away secretly.

20 But whiles he thought these things, behold, the Angel of the Lord appeared vnto him in a dreame, saying, Ioseph the sonne of David, feare not to take Mary thy wife: for that which is conceived in her, is of the holy Ghost.

21 And she shall bring forth a sonne, and thou shalt call his name Iesus: for he shall saue his people from their sinnes.

22 And all this was done that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken of the Lord by the Prophet, saying, 23 Behold a Virgine shall be with child, and shall beare a sonne, and they shall call his name Emmanuel, which is by interpretation, God with vs.

24 ¶ Then Ioseph being raised from sleepe, did as the Angel of the Lord had intoned him, and tooke his wife.

25 But hee knew her not, till shee had brought forth her first borne sonne, and he called his name IESVS.

¶ This name putteth him in remembrance of Gods promise to David.

Luke 2. 6.

a For there is another Beth-lehem in the tribe of Zebulun,

¶ When Iesus then was borne at Beth-lehem in Iudaea, in the dayes of Herode the King, beholde, there came wise men from the East to Ierusalem,

2 Saying, Where is the King of the Jewes that is borne? for we haue seene his starre in the East, and are come to worship him.

3 ¶ When King Herode heard this, he was troubled, and all Ierusalem with him.

4 And gathering together all the chiefe Priestes and Scribes of the people, he asked of them, where Christ should be borne.

5 And they said vnto him, At Beth-lehem in Iudaea: for so it is written by the Prophet,

6 And thou Beth-lehem in the land of Iuda, art not the least among the princes of Iuda: for out of thee shall come the gouernour that shall feed my people Israel.

7 ¶ Then Herode secretly called the wise men, & diligently inquired of them the time of the starre that appeared,

8 And sent them to Beth-lehem, saying, Go and search diligently for the babe: and when ye haue found him, bring mee word againe, that I may come also, and worship him.

9 ¶ So when they had heard the king, they departed: and loe, the starre which they had seene in the East, went before them, till it came, and stood ouer the place where the babe was.

10 And when they saw the starre, they reioyced with an exceeding great ioy.

11 And went into the house, and found the babe with Mary his mother, and fell downe, and worshipped him, and opened their Treasures, and presented vnto him giffes, euen gold, and incense, and myrrhe.

12 And after they were warned of God in a dreame, that they should not go againe to Herode, they returned into their countrey another way.

13 ¶ After their departure, behold, the Angel of the Lord appeareth to Ioseph in a dreame, saying, Arise, and take the babe and his mother, and flee into Egypt, & be there till I bring thee word: for Herode will seeke the babe to destroy him.

14 So he arose, and tooke the babe and his mother by night, and departed into Egypt.

15 And was there vnto the death of Herode, that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken of the Lord by the Prophet, saying, Out of Egypt haue I called my Sonne.

16 ¶ ¶ Then Herode seeing that he was mocked of the Wise men, was exceeding wroth, and sent forth, and slew all the male children that were in Beth-lehem, and in all the coasts thereof, from two yeres olde and vnder, according to the time which hee had diligently searched out of the Wise men.

17 ¶ Then was that fulfilled which was nour and preaching of his truth is hindered, or else it ought not to be broken.

k That which was prefigured by the deliuerance of the Israelites out of Egypt, which were Christs Church and his to.

is now verified, and accomplished in the head Christ.

15 The land of Zabulon and the land of Nepthalim by the way of the sea, beyond Iordan, Galilee of the Gentiles:

16 The people which sat in darkenesse, saw great light: and to them which sat in the region and shadow of death, light is risen vp.

17 From that time Jesus beganne to preach, and to say, Amend your liues: for the Kingdome of heauen is at hand.

18 And Jesus walking by the sea of Galilee, saw two brethren, Simon, which was called Peter, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea (for they were fishers.)

19 And he sayd vnto them, Follow mee, and I will make you fishers of men.

20 And they straightway leauing the nets followed him.

22 And they without tarrying, leauing the ship and their father, followed him.

23 So Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their Synagogues, and preaching the Gospel of the Kingdome, and healing every sicknesse, and euery disease among the people.

24 And his fame spread abroad through all Syria: and they brought vnto him all sicke people that were taken with diuers diseases and gripings, and them that were possessed with diuels, and those which were lunaticke, and those that had the palsey, and he healed them.

25 And there followed him great multitudes out of Galilee, and Decapolis, and Ierusalem, and Iudea, & from beyond Iordan

And when he saw the multitude, he went up into a mountaine: and when he was set, his Disciples came to him.

2 And hee opened his mouth and taught them, saying,

3 Blessed are the poore in spirit: for theirs is the Kingdome of heauen.

4 Blessed are they that mourne: for they shall be comforted.

5 Blessed are the meeke: for they shall inherit the earth.

6 Blessed are they which hunger and thirst for righteousness: for they shall be filled.

7 Blessed are the mercifull: for they shall obtaine mercy.

8 Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.

9 Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God.

10 Blessed are they which suffer persecution for righteousness sake: for theirs is the Kingdome of heauen.

11 Blessed are ye when men reuile you, and persecute you, and say all manner of euill against you for my sake, falsely.

12 Reioyce and be glad, for great is your reward in heauen: for so persecuted they the Prophets which were before you.

13 Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt haue lost his salour, wherewith shall it be salted? it is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be troden vnder foot of men.

14 Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on an hill, cannot be hid.

15 Neither doe men light a candle, and put it vnder a bushell, but on a candlesticke, and it giueth light vnto all that are in the house.

16 Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorifie your Father which is in heauen.

17 Thinke not that I am come to destroy the Law, or the Prophets. I am not come to destroy them, but to fulfill them.

18 For truly I say vnto you, Till heauen and earth perish, one iota, or one tittle of the Law shall not escape, till all things be fulfilled.

19 Whosoever therefore shall breake one of these least Commandements, and teach men so, hee shall be called the least in the Kingdome of heauen: but whosoever shall obserue and teach them, the same shall be called great in the Kingdome of heauen.

20 For I say vnto you, except your righteousness exceede the righteousness of the Scribes and Pharisees, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heauen. 21 ^m Ye haue heard that it was said vnto them of the olde time, ⁿ Thou shalt not kill: for whosoever killeth, shall be culpable of iudgement. 22 But I say vnto you, ^o Whosoever is angry with his brother, ^p vnadvisedly, shall be culpable of iudgement. And whosoever saith vnto his brother, ^q Raca, shall be worthy to be punished by the ^r Council. And whosoever shall say, ^s Foole, shall be worthy to be punished with hell fire. 23 If then thou bring thy gift to the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath ought against thee, 24 Leaueth thee thine offering before the altar, and goe thy way: first bee reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift. 25 Agree with thine aduersary quickly, whyles thou art in the way with him, lest thine aduersary deliuer thee to the iudge, and the iudge deliuer thee to the Sergeant, and thou be cast into prison. 26 Verily I say vnto thee, thou shalt not come out thence till thou hast payed the vtmost farthing. 27 ^t Ye haue heard that it was said to them of old time, ^u Thou shalt not commit adultery. 28 But I say vnto you, that whosoever looketh on a woman to lust after her, hath committed adultery with her already in his heart. 29 ^v Therefore if thy right eye cause thee to offend, plucke it out, and cast it from thee: for better it is for thee, that one of thy members perishe, than that thy whole body should be cast into hell. 30 Also if thy right hand make thee to offend, cut it off, and cast it from thee: for better it is for thee that one of thy members perishe, than that thy whole bodie should be cast into hell. 31 It hath bene sayd also, ^w Whosoever shall put away his wife, let him giue her a testimoniall of diuorcement. 32 But I say vnto you, ^x Whosoever shall put away his wife (except it be for fornication) ^y causeth her to commit adultery: & whosoever shall marry her that is diuorced, committeth adultery. 33 Againe, ye haue heard that it was said to them of olde time, ^z Thou shalt not forswear thy selfe, but shalt performe thine othes to the Lord. 34 But I say vnto you, ^a Swear not at all, neither by heauen, for it is the throne of God: 35 Nor yet by the earth, for it is his footstool: neither by Ierusalem: for it is the city of the great King. 36 Neither shalt thou swear by thine head, because thou canst not make one haire white or blacke.

37 ^b But let your communication be ^c Yea, Nay, nay. ^d For whatsoeuer is more then these, commeth of euill. 38 ^e Ye haue heard that it hath been sayd an ^f eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth. 39 But I say vnto you, ^g Resist not euill: but whosoever shall smite thee on the right cheeke, turne to him the other also. 40 And if any man will sue thee at the law, and take away thy coate, let him haue thy cloake also. 41 And whosoever will compell thee to go a mile, go with him twaine. 42 ^h Giue to him that asketh, and from him that would borrow of thee, turne not away. 43 Ye haue heard that it hath been said, ⁱ Thou shalt loue thy neighbour, and ^j hate thine enemy. 44 But I say vnto you, ^k Loue your enemies, blesse them that curse you: doe good to them that hate you, ^l and pray for them which hurt you, and persecute you, 45 ^m That ye may be the children of your Father that is in heauen: for hee maketh his sunne to arise on the euill and the good, and sendeth raine on the iust and vniust. 46 ⁿ For if you loue them which loue you, what reward shall you haue, Doe not the ^o Publicanes euen the same? 47 And if ye be friendly to your brethren onely, what singular thing doe ye? doe not euen the Publicanes likewise? 48 ^p Ye shall therefore bee perfect, as your Father which is in heauen is perfect.

deliuer vs from euil: for thine is the kingdome, and the power, and the glory, for euer, Amen.

14 For if ye doe forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgiue you.

15 But if ye doe not forgiue men their trespasses, no more will your father forgiue you your trespasses.

16 Moreover, when ye fast, looke not sowre, as the hypocrites: for they disfigure their faces, that they might seeme vnto men to fast. Merely I say vnto you, that they haue their reward.

17 But when thou fastest, anoint thine head, and wash thy face,

18 That thou seeme not vnto men to fast, but vnto thy father which is in secret, and thy Father which seeth in secret, will reward thee openly.

19 Lay not by treasures for your selues vpon the earth, where the moth and canker corrupt, and where theues dig thorrow, and steale.

20 But lay by treasures for your selues in heauen, where neither the moth nor can-ker corrupteth, and where theues neither dig thorrow nor steale.

21 For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.

22 The light of the body is the eye:
if then thine eye be single, thy whole bodie shall be light.

23 But if thine eye be wicked: then all thy body shall bee darke. Wherefore if the light that is in thee be darkenes, how great is that darknes?

24 No man can serue two masters: for either hee shall hate the one, and loue the other, or else hee shall leane to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serue God and riches.

25 Therefore I say vnto you, Bee not carefull for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drinke, nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the life more worth then meate? and the body then raiment?

26 Behold the fowles of the heauen: for they sow not, neither reape, nor carry into the barnes: yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better then they?

27 Which of you by taking care, is able to adde one cubite vnto his stature?

28 And why care ye for raiment? Learne how the lilies of the field doe grow: they labour not, neither spin:

29 Yet I say vnto you, that euen Salomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

30 Wherefore if God so clothe the grasse of the field, which is to day, and to morrow is cast into the oven, shall he not doe much more vnto you, O ye of little faith?

31 Therefore take no thought, saying,
What shall we eat? or what shall we drinke?
or wherewith shall we be clothed?

32 (For after all these things seeketh the Gentiles) for your heavenly Father knoweth that ye haue need of all these things.

33 But seeketh ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things shall be ministred vnto you.

34 Care not then for the morrow: for the morrow shall care for it: selfe: the day hath enough with his owne griefe.

23 And then will I professe to them, I vnto a foolish man, which hath builded his house vpon the sand:

27 And the raine fel, and the floods came and the windes blew, and beate vpon that house, and it fell, & the fall thereof was great.

28 And it came to passe when Iesus had ended these wordes, the people were astonied at his doctrine.

29 For hee taught them as one hauing authoritie, and not as the Scribes.

C H A P. VIII.

1 Christ healeth the leper. 5 The Centurion saith 11 The vocation of the Gentiles. 14 Peters mother in law. 19 The Scribe that would follow Christ.
20 Christs pouerty. 24 Hee stilleth the sea and the winde. 31 And driveth the deuils out of the possessed into the swine.

NOW when hee was come downe from the mountaine, great multitudes followed him.

2 And loe, there came a leper and worshipped him, saying, Master, if thou wilt, thou canst make me cleane.

3 And Iesus putting forth his hand touched him, saying, I will, be thou cleane: and immediately his leprosie was cleansed.

4 Then Iesus sayd vnto him, Seest thou tell no man, but goe, and shew thy lesse vnto the Priest, and offer the gift that Moses commanded, for a witnesse to them.

5 When Iesus was entered into Capernaum, there came vnto him a Centurion, beseeching him,

6 And said, Master, my seruant lieth sick at home of the palsey, & is grievously pained.

7 And Iesus sayd vnto him, I will come and heale him.

8 But the Centurion answered, saying, Master, I am not worthy that thou shouldest come vnder my rooffe: but speake the word onely, and my seruant shall be healed.

9 For I am a man also vnder the autho-ritie of another, & haue souldiers vnder mee:
and I say to one, Goe, and he goeth: and to another come and bee with me: and to my seruant, Doe this, and he doeth it.

10 When Iesus heard these things, he marvelled and said to them that followed him, Verily I say vnto you, I haue not found so great faith euen in Israel.

11 But I say vnto you, that many shall come from the East and West, and shall sit downe with Abraham, and Isaac, and Ia-cob in the kingdome of heauen.

12 And the children of the kingdom shall be cast out into utter darkenesse: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

13 Then Iesus sayd vnto the Centurion, Goe thy way, and as thou hast beleued, so be it vnto thee. And his seruant was healed the same houre.

14 And when Iesus came to Peters house, he saw his wines mother layd downe, and sicke of a feuer.

15 And he touched her hand, and the feuer left her: so she arose, & ministered vnto them.

16 When the euen was come, they brought vnto him many that were possessed with deuils: and he cast out the spirits with his word, and healed all that were sicke,

17 That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Elias the Prophet, saying, He tooke our infirmities, & bare our sicknesses.

18 And when Iesus saw great multitudes of peoples about him, he commanded them to goe ouer the water.

19 Then came there a certaine Scribe, and sayd vnto him, Master, I will follow thee whither soeuer thou goest.

20 But Iesus sayd vnto him, The foxes haue holes, and the birds of the heauen haue nestes, but the Son of man hath not where to rest his head.

21 And another of his disciples sayd vnto him, Master, suffer me first to go, and bury my father.

Iesus sheweth him that hee is farre wide from that he looketh for for in stead of worldly wealth, there is but pouertie in Christ i Luke maketh mention of three, which were hindered by world respect from comming to Christ. k To succour and helpe him

23 And when he was entred into the ship, his disciples followed him, 24 And beholde, there arose a great tempest in the Sea, so that the ship was covered with waues: but he was asleepe.

25 Then his disciples came and awoke him, saying, Master, saue vs: we perish.

26 And he layd vnto them, Why are ye fearefull, O ye of little faith? Then he arose and rebuked the windes and the sea: and so there was a great calme.

27 And the men maruelled, saying, What man is this, that both the windes and the Sea obey him?

28 And when hee was come to the other side into the countrey of the Gergesenes, there met him two possessed with deuils, which came out of the graues very fierce, so that no man might go by that way.

29 And beholde, they cryed out, saying, Iesus the sonne of God, what haue wee to doe with thee? Art thou come hither to torment vs before the time?

30 Now there was a farre off from them a great herd of swine feeding.

31 And the deuils besought him, saying, If thou cast vs out, suffer vs to goe into the herd of swine.

32 And he sayd vnto them, Goe. So they went out, and departed into the herde of swine: and beholde, the whole herde of swine was carryed with violence from a steepe downe place into the Sea, and died in the water.

33 Then the herdmen fled: and when they were come into the citie, they tolde all things, and what was become of them, that were possessed with the deuils.

34 And beholde, all the citie came out to meete Iesus: and when they saw him, they besought him to depart out of their coastes.

C H A P. IX.

1 He healeth the palsey, 5 and forgiveth sinnes. 9 He calleth and visieth Matthew. 13 Mercie. 15 He answereth the Pharises and Iohns disciples. 16 Of the new cl. s. and new wine. 22 He healeth the woman of the bloody issue. 25 He raiseth Iairus daughter. 29 Giveth two blind men their sight. 33 Maketh a dumb man to speake. 53 Preacheth and healeth in diuers places. 38 And exhorteth to prayers for the aduancement of the Gospel.

When he entred into a ship, and passed ouer, and came into his owne citie.

2 And loe, they brought to him a man sicke of the palsey, lying on a bed. And Iesus seeing their faith, said to the sicke of the palsey, Sonne, be of good comfort: thy sinnes are forgiven thee.

3 And beholde, certaine of the Scribes sayd with themselves, This man blasphemeth.

4 But when Iesus saw their thoughts, he sayd, Wherefore thinke ye euill things in your hearts?

Because they did maliciously refuse Christ, who offered himselfe to them.

5 For whether is it easier to say, Thy sinnes are forgiven thee, or to say, Arise, and walke?

6 And that ye may know that the Sonne of man hath authoritie in earth to forgive sinnes, (then sayd hee vnto the sicke of the palsey,) Arise, take vp thy bed, and goe to thine house.

7 And he arose, and departed to his owne house.

8 So when the multitude saw it, they maruelled, and glorified God, which had giuen such authoritie to men.

9 And as Iesus passed forth from thence, hee saw a man sitting at the receipt of custome, named Matthew, and sayd to him, Follow me. And hee arose, and folowed him.

10 And it came to passe as Iesus sate at meate in his house, beholde, many Publicanes and sinners, that came thither, sate downe at the table with Iesus and his disciples.

11 And when the Pharises saw that, they sayd to his disciples, Why eateth your Master with Publicanes and sinners?

12 Now when Iesus heard it, he sayd vnto them, The whole need not a physician, but they that are sicke.

13 But goe pee, and learne what this is, I will haue mercy, and not sacrifice: for I am not come to call the righteous, but the sinners to repentance.

14 Then came the disciples of Iohn to him, saying, Why doe we and the Pharises fast oft, and thy disciples fast not?

15 And Iesus layd vnto them, Can the children of the marriage chamber mourne as long as the bridegrome is with them? But the dayes will come when the bridegrome shall bee taken from them, and then shall they fast.

16 Moreover, no man pierceth an old garment with a peece of new cloth: for that that should fill it vp, taketh away from the garment, and the breach is worse.

17 Neither doe they put new wine into olde vessels: for then the vessels would breake, and the wine would bee spilt, and the vessels should perish: but they put new wine into new vessels, and so are both preserved.

18 While hee thus spake vnto them, beholde, there came a certaine ruler, and worshipped him, saying, My daughter is now deceased, but come and lay thine hand on her, and she shall liue.

19 And Iesus arose, and followed him with his disciples.

20 And beholde, a woman which was diseased with an issue of blood twelue yeres came behind him, and touched the hemme of his garment.

21 For shee sayde in her selfe, If I may touch but his garment onely, I shall bee whole.

25 And when the maistide were put forth, he went in and rooke her by the hand, and the maide arose.

26 And this bruit went throughout all that land.

27 And as Iesus departed thence, two blind men followed him, crying, and saying, O Sonne of Dauid, haue mercy vpon vs.

28 And when he was come into the house, the blinde came to him, and Iesus sayd vnto them, ^m Beleue yee that I am able to doe this? And they said vnto him, Yea, Lord.

29 Then touchd hee their eyes, saying, According vnto your faith be it vnto you.

30 And their eyes were opened, and Iesus charged them, saying, See that no man know it.

31 But when they were departed, they spread abroad his fame throughout all that land.

32 ^c And as they went out, behold, they brought to him a dumbe man possessed with a deuill.

33 And when the deuill was cast out, the dumbe spake: then the multitude marvelled, saying, The like was neuer seene in Israel.

34 But the Pharises sayd, ^e He ^e casteth out deuills through the prince of deuills.

35 ^c And ^e Iesus went about all cities and townes, teaching in their Synagogues, and preaching the Gospel of the ^e kingdom, and healing euery sickness and euery disease among the people.

21 And in his Name shall the Gentiles trust.

22  Then was brought to him one possessed with a deuil, both blinde and dumbe, and he healed him, so that he which was blind and dumbe, both spake and saw.*

23 And all the people were amazed, and sayd, Is not this the Sonne of Dauid?

24 *But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, * This man calleth the deuils no other wise out, but through Beelzebub the prince of deuils.*

25 But Iesus knew their thoughts, and sayd to them, Euery kingdome diuided against it selfe, shall be brought to nought: and euery cite or house diuided against it selfe, shall not stand.

26 So if Satan cast out Satan, he is diuided against himselfe: how shall then his kingdome endure?

CHAP. XIII

3 The state of the kingdome of God set forth by the parable of the seeds, 24 Of the tares, 31 Of the mustard seeds, 33 Of the leaven, 44 Of the treasure hid in the field, 45 Of the pearles, 47 And of the net. 57 The Prophet is condemned in his own country.

The same day went Iesus out of the house, and late by the sea side.

2 And great multitudes resorted vnto him, so that hee went into a shippe, and late downe: and the whole multitude stood on the shore.

3 Then he spake many things to them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow.

4 And as he sowed, some fell by the wayes side, and the foules came and deuoured them vp.

5 And some fell vpon stony ground, where they had not much earth, & anon they sprung vp, because they had no depth of earth.

6 And when the sunne rose vp, they were parched, and for lacke of rooting, withered away.

7 And some fell among thornes, and the thornes sprung vp, and choked them.

8 Some againe fell in good ground, and brought forth fruit, one corne an hundred fold, some sixtie fold, and another thirtie fold:

9 Hee that hath eares to heare, let him heare.

10 Then the disciples came, and sayd to him, Why speakest thou to them in parables?

11 And he answered, and said vnto them, Because it is giuen vnto you to know the secrets of the kingdome of heauen, but to them it is not giuen.

12 For whosoever hath, to him shall be giuen, & he shall haue abundance: but whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken away, euen that he hath.

13 Therefore speake I to them in parables, because they seeing, doe not see: and hearing, they heare not, neither understand.

14. So in them is fulfilled the prophetic of Elatas, which prophetic saith, By hearing, ye shall heare, and shall not understand, and seeing ye shall see, and shall not perceive.

15. For this peoples heart is waxed fat, and their eares are dull of hearing, and which their eyes they have winked, lest they should see with their eyes, and heare with their eares, and should understand with their hearts, and should returne, that I might heale them.

16. But blessed are your eyes, for they see: and your eares, for they heare.

17. For verily I say unto you, that many Prophets and righteous men have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them, and to heare those things which ye heare, and have not heard them.

18. Heare ye therefore the parable of the sower.

19. Whensoever a man heareth the word of the kingdome, and understandeth it not, the euill one commeth, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart: and this is hee which hath receiued the seede by the way side.

20. And hee that receiued seede in the stonie ground, is hee which beareth the word, and incontinently with ioy receiuerh it.

21. Yet hath hee no root in himselfe, and dureth but a season: for as loone as tribulation or persecution cometh because of the word, by and by he is offended.

22. And he that receiuerh the seed among thornes, is hee, that beareth the word: but the care of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches choke the word, and he is made unfruitfull.

23. But hee that receiuerh the seede in the good ground, is hee that beareth the word, and understandeth it, which also beareth fruit, and bringeth forth, some an hundred fold, some sixty fold, and some thirtie fold.

24. Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdome of heauen is like unto a man, which sowed good seede in his field.

25. But while men slept, there came his enemy, and sowed tares among the wheate, and went his way.

26. And when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also.

27. Then came the seruants of the householder, and said unto him, Master, sowest thou not good seed in thy field: from whence then hath it tares?

28. And hee said to them, The enuious man hath done this. Then the seruants sayd unto him, Wilt thou then that we goe, and gather them up?

29. But hee said, Nay, lest while ye goe about to gather the tares, ye plucke up also with them the wheate.

30. Let both grow together until the harvest, and in time of harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye first the tares, and binde them in sheaves to burne them: but gather the wheate into my barnne.

31. Another parable hee put forth unto them, saying, The kingdome of heauen is like unto a graine of mustard seed, which a man taketh and soweth in his field:

32. Which in deed is the least of all seeds: but when it is growen it is the greatest among herbes, and it is a tree, so that the birds of heauen come and build in the branches thereof.

33. Another parable spake he to them, The kingdome of heauen is like unto leaven, which a woman taketh and hideth in three peckes of meale, till all be leavened.

34. All these things spake Iesus unto the multitude in parables, and without parables spake he not to them.

35. That it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the Prophet, saying, I will open my mouth in parables, and will utter the things which have been kept secret from the foundation of the world.

36. Then sent Iesus the multitude away, and went into the house. And his Disciples came unto him, saying, Declare unto vs the parable of the tares of the field.

37. Then answered he, and said to them, He that soweth the good seede, is the Sonne of man.

38. And the field is the world, and the good seede, they are the children of the kingdome, and the tares are the children of the wicked.

39. And the enemy that soweth them, is the deuill, and the harvest is the end of the world, and the reapers be the Angels.

40. As then the tares are gathered and burned in the fire: so shall it be in the end of this world.

41. The Sonne of man shall send forth his Angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdome all things that offend, and them which doe iniquity.

42. And shall cast them into a furnace of fire. There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

43. Then shall the iust men shine as the Sunne in the kingdome of their Father. Hee that hath eares to heare, let him heare.

44. Again, the kingdome of heauen is like unto a treasure hid in the field, which when a man hath found, hee hideth it, and for ioy thereof departeth, and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field.

45. Again, the kingdome of heauen is like to a merchant man that seeketh good pearles.

46. Who hauing found a pearle of great price, went, and sold all that he had, and bought it.

47. Again, the kingdome of heauen is like unto a drave net cast into the sea, that gathereth of all kindes of things.

48. Which, when it is full, men draw to land, and sit and gather the good into vessels, and cast the bad away.

Then came to Iesus the Scribes and Pharisees, which were of Ierusalem, saying,

2. Why do thy disciples transgresse the tradition of the Elders? for they wash not their hands when they eat bread.

3. But he answered and said unto them, Why doe ye also transgresse the commandement of God by your tradition?

4. For God hath commanded, saying, Honour thy father and mother: and hee that curseth father or mother, let him die the death.

5. But ye say, Whosoever shall say to father or mother, By the gift that is offered by me, thou mayest haue profit.

6. Though hee honour not his father, or his mother, shall be free: thus haue ye made the commandement of God of no authority by your tradition.

7. Hypocrites, Elias prophesied well of you, saying,

8. His people draweth mee vnto me with their mouth, and honoureth mee with the lippes, but their heart is farre off from mee.

9. But in vaine they worship me, teaching for doctrines mens precepts.

10. Then he called the multitude vnto him, and said vnto them, Heare and vnderstand.

11. That which goeth into the mouth defileth not the man, but that which cometh out of the mouth, that defileth the man.

12. Then came his disciples, and said vnto him, Perceivest thou not that the Pharisees are offended in hearing this saying,

13. But he answered and said, Every plant which mine heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted vp.

14. Let them alone: they be the blinde leaders of the blinde: and if the blinde lead the blinde, both shall fall into the ditch.

15. Then answered Peter, and said to him, Declare vnto vs this parable.

16. Then said Iesus, Are ye yet without vnderstanding?

17. Perceivest ye not yet, that whatsoever entereth into the mouth, goeth into the belly, and is cast out into the draught?

18. But those things which proceede out of the mouth, come from the heart, and they defile the man.

19. For out of the heart come euill thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false testimonies, flanders.

20. These are the things which defile the man: but to eat with vnwashen hands, defileth not the man.

21. And Iesus went thence, and departed into the coasts of Tyrus and Sidon.

22. And behold a woman, a Canaanite came out of the same coasts, and cried saying vnto him, Haue mercy on mee, O Lord, the sonne of David: my daughter is miserably vexed with a deuill.

23. But hee answered her not a word: Then came to him his disciples, and besought him, saying, Send her away, for she cryeth after vs.

24. But he answered, and said, I am not sent, but vnto the lost sheepe of the house of Israel.

25. Yet she came and worshipped him, saying, Lord helpe me.

26. And he answered, and said, It is not good to take the childrens bread, and to cast it to the whelpes.

27. But she said, Truth, Lord: yet inured the whelpes eat of the crumbs, which fall from their masters table.

28. Then Iesus answered, and said vnto her, O woman, great is thy faith: be it to thee, as thou desirest. And her daughter was made whole at that houre.

29. So Iesus went away from thence, and came nether vnto the sea of Galilee, and went vp into a mountaine and satte downe there.

30. And great multitudes came vnto him, hauing with them halfe, blinde humbe, maimed, and many other, and cast them downe at Iesus feet, and hee healed them.

31. Inasmuch that the multitude wondered, to see the sunbe speake, the maimed whole, the halfe to goe, and the blinde to see: and they glorified the God of Israel.

32. Then Iesus called his disciple vnto him, and said, I haue compassion on this multitude, because they haue continued with me already three dayes, and haue nothing to eate: and I will not let them depart fasting, lest they faint in the way.

33. And his disciples said vnto him, Whence should we get so much bread in the wilderness, as should suffice so great a multitude?

34. And Iesus said vnto them, How many loaves haue ye? and they said, Seven, and a few little fishes.

35. Then he commanded the multitude to sit downe on the ground,

36. And tooke the seven loaves, and the fishes, and gaue thanks, and brake them, and gaue to his disciples, and the disciples to the multitude.

37. And they did all eate, and were satisfied:

1 The Pharisees require a token. 6 Iesus warneth his disciples of the Pharisees doctrine. 16 The confession of Peter. 19 The keyes of heauen. 24 The faithfull must beare the crosse. 25 To winne or lose the life. 27 Christs coming.

Then came the Pharisees and Sadducees, and did tempt him, desiring him to shew them a signe from heauen.

2 But he answered, and said vnto them, when it is evening, yee say, faire weather: for the skie is red.

3 And in the morning yee say, To day shall be a tempest: for the skie is red and lowering. Hypocrites, yee can discerne the face of the skie, and can yee not discerne the signes of the times?

4 The wicked generation, and adulterous seeketh a signe, and there shall no signe be giuen it, but the signe of the Prophet Jonas: so he left them and departed.

5 And when his disciples were come to the other side, they had forgotten to take bread with them.

6 Then Iesus said vnto them, Take heed and beware of the leauen of the Pharisees and Sadducees.

7 And they thought in themselves saying, It is, because wee haue brought no bread.

8 But Iesus knowing it, sayd vnto them, O yee of little faith, why thinke you thus in your selues, because yee haue brought no bread?

9 Doe yee not yet perceiue, neither remember the five loaves, when there were foure thousand men, and how many baskets tooke ye vp?

10 Neither the seuen loaves when there were foure thousand men, and how many baskets tooke ye vp?

11 Why perceiue yee not, that I said not vnto you concerning bread, that yee should beware of the leauen of the Pharisees and Sadducees?

12 Then understood they that he had not said, that they should beware of the leauen of bread, but of the doctrine of the Pharisees, and Sadducees.

13 Now when Iesus came into the cauls of Cesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Whom do men say that I the Sonne of man am?

14 And they said, Some say, Iohn Baptist: and some, Elias: and others, Jeremias, or one of the Prophets.

15 He sayd vnto them, But whom say yee that I am?

16 Then Simon Peter answered, and said, Thou art the Christ the Sonne of the living God.

17 And Iesus answered, and said to him

Blessed art thou, Simon, the sonne of Ionas: for flesh and blood hath not reuealed it vnto thee, but my Father which is in heauen.

18 And I say also vnto thee, that thou art Peter, and vpon this rocke I will build my Church: and the gates of hell shall not overcome it.

19 And I will giue vnto thee the keyes of the kingdome of heauen, and whatsoeuer thou shalt bind vpon earth, shall be bound in heauen: and whatsoeuer thou shalt loose vpon earth shall be loosed in heauen.

20 Then he charged his disciples, that they should tell no man that he was Iesus the Christ.

21 From that time forth Iesus began to shew vnto his disciples, that he must go vnto Ierusalem, and suffer many things of the elders, and of the High Priests and Scribes, and be slaine, and rise againe the third day.

22 Then Peter tooke him aside, and began to rebuke him, saying, Master, pittie thy selfe: this shall not be vnto thee.

23 Then he turned backe, and said vnto Peter, Get thee behinde me, Satan: thou art an offence vnto me, because thou understandest not the things that are of God, but the things that are of men.

24 Iesus then saide to his Disciples, If any man will follow me, let him forsake himselfe, and take vp his crosse and follow me.

25 For whosoever will save his life shall lose it: and whosoever shall lose his life for my sake, shall finde it.

26 For what shall it profit a man, though he should win the whole world, if he lose his owne soule? or what shall a man giue for recompense of his soule?

27 For the Sonne of man shall come in the glory of his Father with his Angels, and then shall he giue to euery man according to his deedes.

28 Verily I say vnto you, there be some of them that stand here, which shall not taste of death till they haue seene the Sonne of man come in his kingdome.

4 Then answered Peter, and said to Iesus, Master, it is good for vs to be here: if thou wilt, let vs make here three Tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moyses, and one for Elias.

5 While hee yet spake, behold, a bright cloud shadowed them: and beholde, there came a voyce out of the cloud, saying, This is my beloued Sonne, in whom I am well pleased: heare him.

6 And when the disciples heard that they fell on their faces, and were sore afraid.

7 Then Iesus came and touched them, and said, Arise, and be not afraid.

8 And when they lifted up their eyes, they saw no man save Iesus onely.

9 And as they came downe from the mountaine, Iesus charged them, saying, Shew the vision to no man, until the Sonne of man rise againe from the dead.

10 And his disciples asked him, saying, Why then say the Scribes that Elias must first come?

11 And Iesus answered, and said vnto them, Certainly Elias must first come, and restore all things.

12 But I say vnto you, That Elias is come already, and they knew him not, but haue done vnto him what soeuer they would: likewise shall also the Sonne of man suffer of them.

13 Then the disciples perceiued that he spake vnto them of Iohn Baptist.

14 And when they were come to the multitude, there came to him a certaine man and kneeled downe to him,

15 And said, Master, haue pittie on my sonne: for he is lunatike, and is sore vexed: for oft times he fallerh into the fire, and oft times into the water.

16 And I brought him to thy disciples, and they could not heale him.

17 Then Iesus answered, and said, O generation fitchlesse and crooked, how long now shall I bee with you? how long now shall I suffer you? bring him hither to mee.

18 And Iesus rebuked the deuill, and hee went out of him, and the childe was healed at that houre.

19 Then came γ disciples to Iesus apart, and said, Why could not we cast him out?

20 And Iesus said vnto them, Because of your vnbeleefe: for verily I say vnto you, if ye haue faith, as much as is a graine of mustard seed, ye shall say vnto this mountaine, Remoue hence to yonder place, and it shall remoue: and nothing shall bee vnpossible vnto you.

22 And as they abode in Galile, Jesus said vnto them, The Sonne of man shall be deliuered into the hands of men, 24 And when they were come to Capernaum, they that receiued poll money, came to Peter, and said, Doeth not your master pay tribute?

25 He said, Yes. And when he was come into the house, Iesus prevented him, saying, What thinkest thou Simon? of whom doe the Kings of the earth take tribute or poll money: of their children, or of strangers?

26 Peter said vnto him, Of strangers. Then said Iesus vnto him, Then are the children free.

27 Neuertheless, lest we should offend them, goe to the sea, and cast in an angle, and take the first fish that cometh vp, and when thou hast opened his mouth, thou shalt finde a peece of twenty pence: that take, and giue it vnto them for me and thee.

2 And Iesus called a little childe vnto him, and set him in the midst of them,

3 And said, Verily I say vnto you, except ye be conuerted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdome of heauen.

13 ¶ Then were brought to him little children, that hee should put his handes on them, & pray, and the disciples rebuked them, 14 But Iesus said, Suffer the little children, and forbid them not to come to me: for of such is the kingdome of heauen.

15 And when hee had put his handes on them he departed thence.

16 ¶ And behold, one came and said vnto him, Good master, what good thing shall I doe, that I may haue eternall life?

17 And hee said vnto him, Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, euen God: but if thou wilt enter into life, keepe the commandments.

18 He said vnto him, Which? And Iesus said, These: Thou shalt not kill: Thou shalt not commit adultery: Thou shalt not steale: Thou shalt not beare false witness.

19 Honour thy father and mother: and, Thou shalt loue thy neighbour as thy selfe.

20 ¶ The young man sayd vnto him, I haue obserued all these things from my youth: what lacke I yet?

21 Iesus said vnto him, If thou wilt be perfect, goe, sell that thou hast, and giue it to the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in heauen, and come and follow me.

22 And when the young man heard that saying, hee went away sorrowful: for he had great possessions.

23 ¶ Then Iesus said vnto his disciples, Verely I say vnto you, that a rich man shall hardly enter into the kingdome of heauen.

24 And againe I say vnto you, It is easier for a camel to goe thorow the eye of a needle, then for a rich man to enter into the kingdome of God.

25 And when his disciples heard it, they were exceedingly amazed, saying, Who then can be saved?

26 And Iesus beheld them, and said vnto them, With men this is impossible, but with God all things are possible.

27 ¶ Then answered Peter, and said to him, Behold, we haue forsaken all, and followed thee: what shall we haue?

28 And Iesus said vnto them, Verely I say vnto you, that when the Sonne of man shall sit in the throne of his Maiestie, ye which followed mee in the regeneration, shall sit also vpon twelve thrones, and iudge the twelve tribes of Israel.

22 And whosoever shall forsake houses, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my Names sake, hee shall receiue an hundredfold more, and shall inherite everlasting life.

¶ Of the kingdome of heauen is like vnto a certaine household, which went out at the dawning of the day to hire labourers into his vineyard.

2 And he agreed with the labourers for a penie a day, and sent them into his vineyard.

3 And hee went out about the third houre, and sawe other standing idle in the market place,

4 And said vnto them, Goe ye also into my vineyard, and whatsoeuer is right, I will giue you: and they went their way.

5 Againe he went out about the first and ninth houre, and did likewise.

6 And he went about the eleuenth houre, and found other standing idle, and sayd vnto them, Why stand ye here all the day idle?

7 They sayd vnto him, Because no man hath hired vs. He said vnto them, Go ye also into my vineyard, and whatsoeuer is right, that shall ye receiue.

8 ¶ And when euen was come, the Master of the vineyard said vnto his steward, Call the labourers, and giue them their hire, beginning at the last, till thou come to the first.

9 And they which were hired about the eleuenth houre, came and receiued euery man a penie.

10 And when the first came, they supposed that they should receiue more, but they likewise receiued euery man a penie.

11 And when they had receiued it, they murmured against the master of the house, 20 Then came to him the mother of Zebedeus children with her sons, worshipping him, and desiring a certaine thing of him.

21 And he said vnto her, What wouldst thou? She said to him, Grant that these my two sons may sit, the one at thy right hand, and the other at thy left hand in thy kingdome.

22 And Iesus answered, and sayd, Yee knowe not what yee aske. Are yee able to drinke of the cup that I shal drinke of, and to be baptized with the baptisme that I shal be baptized with? They said to him, We are able.

24 And when the other ten heard this, they disdained at the two brethren.

25 Therefore Iesus called them vnto him, and said, Ye know that the lords of the Gentiles haue domination ouer them, and they that are great, exercise authoritie ouer them.

3 And if any man say ought vnto you, saye, that the Lord hath need of them, and straightway he will let them goe.

4 All this was done, that it might bee fulfilled which was spoken by the Prophet, saying,

6 So the disciples went, and did as Iesus had commanded them.

7 And brought the asse & the colt, and put on them their clothes, and set him thereon.

8 And a great multitude spread their garments in the way: and other cut downe branches from the trees, and strewed them in the way.

9 Moreover, the people that went before, and they also that followed, cried, saying, Hosanna the sonne of David: blessed be he that cometh in the Name of the Lord, Hosanna thou which art in the highest heauens.

10 And when hee was come into Ierusalem, all the city was mooued, saying, Who is this?

11 And the people said, This is Iesus the Prophet of Nazareth in Galilee.

12 And Iesus went into the Temple of God, and cast out all them that sold and bought in the Temple, and ouerthrew the tables of the money changers, and the seates of them that sold doves.

13 And said to them, It is written, Mine house shall be called the house of prayer: but ye haue made it a denne of theeves.

24 Then Iesus answered, and said vnto them, I also will aske of you a certaine thing, which if yee tell mee, I likewise will tell you by what authoritie I doe these things.

26 And if we say, Of men, we feare the people: for all hold Iohn as a Prophet.

27 Then they answered Iesus, and said, We cannot tel. And he said vnto them, Neither tell I you by what authoritie I doe these things.

28 But what thinke ye? A certaine man had two sonnes, and came to the elder, and said, Sonne, goe, and worke to day in my vineyard.

29 But he answered, and said, I wil not: yet afterward hee repented himselfe, and went.

30 Then came he to the second, and sayd likewise. And he answered, and said, I will sir: yet he went not.

31 Whether of them twaine did the will of the father? They said vnto him, The first. Iesus said vnto them, Verily I say vnto you, that the Publicanes and the harlots shall go before you into the kingdome of God.

32 For Iohn came vnto you in the way of righteousness, and ye beleueed him not, but the Publicanes and the harlots beleueed him, and ye, though yee saw it, were not moued with repentance afterward, that yee might beleue him.

33 Heare another parable. There was a certaine houlholder, which planted a vineyard, and hedged it round about, and made a winepresse therein, & built a towre, and let it out to husbandmen, and went into a strange countrey.

34 And when the time of the fruit dytwe neere, hee sent his seruants to the husbandmen to receiue the fruits thereof.

35 And the husbandmen tooke his seruants, and beat one, and killed another, and stoned another.

36 Again hee sent other seruants, more then the first: and they did the like vnto them.

37 But last of all he sent vnto them his owne sonne, saying, They will reuerence my sonne.

38 But when the husbandmen saw the sonne, they said among themselves, This is the helpe come let vs kill him, and let vs take his inheritance.

39 So they tooke him, and cast him out of the vineyard, and slew him.

40 When therefore the Lord of the vineyard shall come, what wil he do to those husbandmen?

41 They said vnto him, He wil cruelly destroy those wicked men, and will let out his vineyard vnto other husbandmen, which shall deliuer him the fruits in their seasons.

42 Iesus said vnto them, Read ye neuer in the Scriptures, The stone which the builders refused, the same is made the head of the corner? This was the Lords doing, and it is marvellous in our eyes.

43 Therefore say I vnto you, the kingdome of God shall be taken from you, and shall be giuen to a nation which shall bring forth the fruits thereof.

44 And whosoever shall fall on this stone, he shall be broken: but on whomsoever it shall fall, it will grind him to powder.

46 And they seeking to lay hands on him, feared the people, because they tooke him as a Prophet.

4 Again he sent forth other seruants, saying, Tell them which are bidden, Behold, I haue prepared my dinner: mine oxen and mine fatlings are killed, and all things are ready: come vnto the marriage.

5 But they made light of it, and went their wayes, one to his farme, and another about his merchandise.

6 And the remnant tooke his seruants, and mistreated them sharply, and slew them.

7 But when the king heard it, hee was wroth, and sent forth his warriours, and destroyed those murderers, and burnt by their cite.

14 For many are called, but few chosen.

15 Then went the Pharises and tooke counsel how they might tangle him in talke.

16 And they sent unto him their disciples with the Herodians, saying, Master, we know that thou art true, & teachest the way of God truly, neither carest thou for any man: for thou considerest not the person of men.

17 Tell us therefore, How thinkest thou? Is it lawfull to give tribute unto Cesar, or not?

18 But Jesus perceived their wickednes, and said, Why tempt ye me, ye hypocrites?

19 Shew me the tribute money. And they brought him a penny.

20 And he said unto them, Whose is this image and superscription?

21 They said unto him, Cessars. Then said he unto them, Give therefore to Cesar, the things which are Cessars, and give unto God, those things which are Gods.

22 And when they heard it, they marvelled, and left him, and went their way.

23 The same day the Saduces came to him (which say that there is no resurrection) and asked him, 24 Saying, Master, Moses said, If a man die, having no children, let his brother marry his wife, and raise up seed unto his brother.

25 Now there were with us seven brethren, and the first married a wife, and de- ceased: and having no issue, left his wife un- to his brother.

26 Likewise also the second, and the third unto the seventh.

27 And last of all the woman died also.

28 Therefore in the resurrection, whose wife shall she be of the seven? for all had her.

29 Then Jesus answered, and said unto them, Ye are deceived, not knowing the Scriptures, nor the power of God.

30 For in the Resurrection they neither marry wives, nor wines are bestowed in ma- riage, but are as the Angels of God in hea- ven.

31 And concerning the resurrection of the dead, have ye not read what is spoken unto you of God, saying, 32 I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob: God is not the God of the dead, but of the living.

33 And when the people heard it, they were astonished at his doctrine.

34 But when the Pharises had heard that hee had put the Saduces to silence, they assembled together.

35 And one of them which was an ex- pounder of the Law, asked him a question, tempting him, and saying, 36 Master, which is the great comman- dement in the Law?

37 Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, with all thy soule, and with all thy mind.

38 This is the first and the great Com- mandment.

39 And the second is like unto this, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thy selfe.

40 On these two Commandments han- deth the whole Law and the Prophets.

41 While the Pharises were gathered together, Jesus asked them, 42 Saying, What thinke ye of Christ? Whose Sonne is he? They said unto him, Dauid.

43 He said unto them, How then doth Da- uid in spirit call him Lord, saying, 44 The Lord said to my Lord, Sit at my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footstool?

45 If then Dauid call him Lord, How is he his sonne?

46 And none could answer him a word, neither durst any from that day forth aske him any more questions.

26 * Thou blind Pharisee, cleanse first the inside of the cup and platter, that the outside of them may be cleane also.

27 * Alas be to you Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: for ye are like vnto whitened tombes, which appeare beautifull outward, but are within full of dead mens bones and of all filthinesse.

28 So are ye also: for outward ye appeare righteous vnto men, but within ye are full of hypocritie and iniquitie.

29 * Alas be unto you Scribes & Pharisees, hypocrites: for ye build the tombes of the Prophets, and garnish the sepulchres of the righteous,

30 And say, If we had bene in the dayes of our fathers, we would not haue bin partners with them in the blood of the Prophets.

thers.

33 * O serpents, the generation of vipers, how should ye escape the damnation of hell?

34 * Therefore behold, I send vnto you Prophets, and wisemen, and Scribes, and of them ye shall kill and crucifie: and of them shall ye scourge in your Synagogues, and persecute from citie to citie.

35 * That vpon you may come all the righteous blood that was shed vpon the earth, from the blood of Abel the righteous, vnto the blood of Zacharias the sonne of Barachias, whom ye slew betwene the Temple and the altar.

36 * Verily I say vnto you, all these things

37 * Jerusalem, Jerusalem, which killest the Prophets, and stonest them which are sent to thee, how often would I haue gather-

38 Behold, your habitation shall bee left

Hee will returne no more to them as a teacher, but as a Judge, when as they shall bee compelled to confesse (although too late)

18 And hee that is in the field, let not him returne backe to fetch his clothes.

19 And woe shalbe to them that are with child, and to them that giue sucke in those dayes:

20 But pray that your flight be not in the winter, neither on the Sabbath day.

21 For then shalbe great tribulation, such as was not from the beginning of the world to this time, nor shall be.

22 And except those dayes should be shortened, there should no flesh bee saved: but for the elects sake, those dayes shall be shortened.

23 * Then if any shall say vnto you, Lo, here is Christ, or there, beleeue it not.

24 For there shall arise false Christs and false prophets, and shall shew great signes and wonders, so that if it were possible, they should deceiue the very elect.

25 Behold, I haue told you before.

26 Wherefore if they shall say vnto you, Behold, hee is in the desert, goe not forth: Behold, hee is in the secret places, beleeue it not.

27 For as the lightning commeth out of the East, and shineth into the West, so shall also the coming of the Sonne of man bee:

28 * For where soeuer a dead carkeis is, thither will the Eagles resort.

29 * And immediately after the tribulations of those dayes, shall the Sonne be darkened, and the Moone shall not giue her light, and the starres shall fall from heauen, and the powers of heauen shall be shaken.

30 * And then shall appeare the signe of the Sonne of man in heauen: and then shall all the kindred of the earth mouerne, and they shall see the Sonne of man come in the cloudes of heauen with power and great glory.

31 * And hee shall send his Angels with a great sound of a trumpet, and they shall gather together his elect from the four winds, and from the one end of the heauen vnto the other.

32 Note learne the parable of the figge tree: when her boughs is yet tender, and it bringeth forth leaues, ye know that summer is neere.

33 So likewise yee, when yee see all these things, know that the kingdome of God is neere, even at the doores.

34 Verily I say vnto you, this generation shall not passe, till all these things bee done.

35 * Heauen and earth shall passe away, but my words shall not passe away.

36 But of that day and houre knoweth no man, no not the Angels of heauen, but my Father onely.

37 But as the dayes of Noe were, so likewise shall the coming of the Sonne of man bee.

38 * For as in the dayes before the flood, they did eate and drinke, marrie, and giue in marriage, vnto the day that Noe entred into the Arke.

39 And knew nothing till the flood came, and tooke them all away: so shall also the coming of the Sonne of man bee.

40 * Then two men shalbe in the field, the one shall bee receiued and the other shall be refused.

41 Two women shall be grinding at the mill: the one shall be receiued, and the other shall be refused.

42 * Make therefore: for yee know not what houre your Master will come.

43 * Of this he saith, that if the goodman of the house knew at what watch the thief would come, he would surely watch, and not suffer his house to be digged thorow.

44 Therefore be yee also ready: for in the houre that yee thinke not, will the Sonne of man come.

45 * Who then is a faithfull seruant and wise whom his Master hath made ruler ouer his householde, to giue them meate in season.

46 Blessed is that seruant, whom his master when he commeth, shall finde so doing.

47 Verily I say vnto you, hee shall make him ruler ouer all his goods.

48 But if that euill seruant shall say in his heart, My master doth deferre his coming, 49 And beginneth to smite his fellowes, and to eat, and to drinke with the drunken.

50 That seruants Master will come in a day, when hee looketh not for him, and in an houre that he is not ware of, 51 And will cut him off, and giue him his portion with hypocrites: there shall bee weeping and gnashing of teeth.

h The master receiveth him into his house to giue him part of his goods and commodities.

Then the kingdome of heauen shall be likened vnto ten virgins, which tooke their lampes, and went to meete the bridegrome.

2 And fise of them were wise, and fise foolish.

3 The foolish tooke their lampes, but tooke none oyle with them.

4 But the wise tooke oyle in their vessels with their lampes.

5 Now while the bridegrome carryed long, all slumbered and slept.

6 And at midnight there was a cry made, Beholde, the bridegrome commeth: goe out to meet him.

7 Then all those virgins arofe, and trimmed their lampes.

8 And the foolish said to the wise: Giue vs of your oyle, for our lampes are out.

9 But the wise answered, saying, Wee feare lest there will not be enough for vs and you: but go ye rather to them that sell, and buy for your selues.

10 And while they went to buy, the bridegrome came: and they that were ready, went in with him to the wedding, and the gate was shut.

11 Afterwards came also the other virgins, saying, Lord, Lord, open to vs.

12 But he answered, and said, Verily I say vnto you, I know you not.

13 Watch therefore: for ye know neither the day nor the houre, when the Sonne of man will come.

14 For the kingdome of heauen is as a man that going into a strange country, called his seruants, and deliuered to them his goods.

15 And vnto one hee gaue fise talents, and to another two, and to another one, to euery man after his owne abilitie, & straightway went from home.

16 Then he that had receiued the fise talents, went and occupied with them, and gained other fise talents.

17 Likewise also, hee that receiued two, he also gained other two.

18 But hee that receiued that one, went and digged in the earth, and hid his masters money.

19 But after a long season, the master of those seruants came and reckoned with them.

20 Then came hee that had receiued fise talents, and brought other fise talents, saying, Master, thou deliueredst vnto mee fise talents: behold, I haue gained with them, other fise talents.

21 Then his master said vnto him, It is well done good seruant and faithfull, thou hast bene faithfull in litle, I will make thee ruler ouer much: enter in into thy masters joy.

22 Also he that had receiued two talents, came and said, Master, thou deliueredst vnto mee two talents: behold, I haue gained two other talents with them.

23 His master said vnto him, It is well done good seruant, and faithfull, thou hast bene faithfull in litle, I will make thee ruler ouer much: enter in into thy masters joy.

24 Then hee which had receiued the one talent, came and said, Master, I knew that thou wast an hard man, which reapest where thou sowedst not, and gatherest where thou strawedst not:

25 I was therefore afraid, and went and hid thy talent in the earth: behold, thou hast thine owne.

26 And his master answered, and sayd vnto him, Thou call seruant and slothfull, thou knewest that I reape, where I sowed not, and gather where I strawed not.

27 Thou oughtest therefore to haue put my money to the exchangers, and then at my coming should I haue receiued mine owne with vantage.

28 Take therefore the talent from him, & giue it vnto him which hath ten talents.

29 For vnto euery man that hath, it shall be giuen, and he shall haue abundance, and from him that hath not, ruen that he hath, shall be taken away.

30 Cast therefore that vnprofitable seruant into utter darkenesse: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

31 And when the Sonne of man cometh in his glory, and all the holy Angels with him, then shall he sit vpon the throne of his glory.

32 And before him shall bee gathered all nations, and he shall separate them one from another, as a shepheard separateth the sheepe from the goates.

33 And hee shall set the sheepe on his right hand, and the goates on the left.

34 Then shall the King say to them on his right hand, Come ye blessed of my Father: inherit ye the kingdome prepared for you from the foundations of the world.

35 For I was an hungry, & ye gaue me meate: I thirsted, and ye gaue me drinke: I was a stranger, and ye lodged me:

36 I was naked, and ye clothed me: I was sick, and ye visited me: I was in prison, and ye came vnto me.

37 Then shall the righteous answer him, saying, Lord, when saw wee thee an hungry, and fed thee? or athirst, and gaue thee drinke?

38 And when saw wee thee a stranger and lodged thee? or naked, and clothed thee?

39 Or when saw wee thee sick, or in prison, and came vnto thee?

40 And the King shall answer and say vnto them, Verily I say vnto you, In as much as ye haue done it vnto one of the least of these my brethren, ye haue done it to me.

41 Then shall he say vnto them on the left hand, Depart from me ye cursed into euellasting fire, which is prepared for the deuill and his angels.

42 For I was an hungry, and ye gaue me no meate: I thirsted, and ye gaue me no drinke:

43 I was a stranger, and ye lodged mee not: I was naked, and ye clothed mee not: sick, and in prison, and ye visited me not.

44 Then shall they also answer him, saying, Lord, when saw wee thee an hungry, or a stranger, or naked, or sick, or in prison, and did not minister vnto thee?

CHAP. XXVI.

3 Conspiracie of the Priests against Christ. 10 He exceib Adagaleon. 26 The institution of the Lords Supper. 31 The disciples weakenesse. 48
The treason of Iudas. 62 The sword. 64 Because Christ calleth himselfe the Sonne of God, he is iudged worthy to die. 69 Peter denieth, and repenteth.

And it came to passe when Iesus had finished all these sayings, hee layd vnto his disciples,

2 Ye know that within two dayes is the Passouer, and the Sonne of man shall bee deliuered to be crucified.

3 Then assembled together the chiefe Priests, and the Scribes, and the Elders of the people into the hall of the hie Priest, called Calaphas,

4 And consulted how they might take Iesus by subtely, and kill him.

5 But they said, Not on the feast day, lest any bryde be among the people.

6 And when Iesus was in Bethania, in the house of Simon the leper,

7 There came vnto him a woman, which had a boze of very costly oyntment, & pow-red it on his head, as he sat at the table.

8 And when his disciples saw it, they had indignation, saying, What needed this waste?

9 For this oyntment might haue bene solde for much, and bene giuen to the poore.

10 And Iesus knowing it, sayde vnto them, Why trouble ye the woman? for she hath wrought a good worke vpon me.

11 For ye haue the poore alwayes with you, but me shall ye not haue alwayes.

12 For in that he powred this oyntment on my body, hee did it to me.

13 Verily I say vnto you, Wheresoeuer this Gospel shall be preached throughout all the world, there shall also this that she hath done, be spoken of for a memorie of her.

14 Then one of the twelue called Judas Iscariot, went vnto the chiefe Priests,

15 And said, What wilt ye giue mee, and I will deliuer him vnto you? And they appointed vnto him thirtie pieces of siluer.

16 And from that time hee sought opportunitie to betray him.

17 Now on the first day of the feast of vneleuened bread, the disciples came to Jesus, saying vnto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eate the Passouer?

18 And he said, Goe into the citie to such a man, and say to him: The master sayeth,
My time is at hand: I will keepe the Passouer at thine house with my disciples.

19 And the disciples did as Iesus had giuen them charge, & made ready the Passouer.

20 So when the euen was come, hee late downe with the twelue.

21 And as they did eat, he said, Verily I say vnto you, that one of you shall betray me.

22 And they were exceeding sorrowfull, and beganne every one of them to say vnto him, Is it I, Master?

23 And he answered, and said, He that hath dipped his hand with me in the dish, hee shall betray me.

24 Surely the Sonne of man goeth his way, as it is written of him: but woe be to that man, by whom the Sonne of man is betrayed: it had bene good for that man, if he had neuer bene borne.

25 Then Iudas which betrayed him, answered, & said, Is it I, Master? He said vnto him, Thou hast sayd it.

26 And as they did eate, Iesus tooke the bread: and when hee had giuen thanks, he brake it, and gaue it to the Disciples, and said, Take, eate: this is my body.

27 Also he tooke the cup, and when hee had giuen thanks, hee gaue it them, saying,
Drinke ye all of it.

28 For this is my blood of the new Testament, that is shed for many, for the remission of sinnes.

29 I say vnto you, that I will not drinke henceforth of this fruit of the vine, until that day, when I shall drinke it new with you in my Fathers kingdome.

30 And when they had sung a Psalm, they went out into the mount of Olues.

31 Then said Iesus vnto them, All ye shall be offended by me this night: for it is written, I will smite the Shepheard, and the Sheepe of the flocke shall be scattered.

32 But after I am risen againe, I will goe before you into Galilee.

33 But Peter answered, and said vnto him, Though that all men should be dissen-ded by thee, yet will I neuer be offended.

34 Iesus said vnto him, Verily I say vnto thee, that this night, before the Cocke crow, thou shalt denie me thrise.

35 Peter said vnto him, Though I should die with thee, yet will I not denie thee. Likewise also said all the Disciples.

36 Then went Iesus with them into a place which is called Gethsemane, and said vnto his Disciples, Sit ye here, while I goe and pray.

37 And he tooke Peter, & the two sonnes of Zebedeus, and began to waite sorrowfull, & grievously troubled.

38 Then said Iesus vnto them, my soule is very heauie euen vnto the death: tary ye here, and watch with me.

39 So he went a litle further & fel on his face, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if it be possible, let this cup passe from me: ne-uertheless, not as I will, but as thou wilt.

40 After, he came vnto the disciples, and found them asleepe, & said to Peter, What? could ye not watch with me one houre?

41 Watch, and pray, that ye enter not into temptation: the spirit is ready, but the flesh is weak.

45 Then came he to his Disciples, and said vnto them, Sleepe henceforth, and take your rest: behold, the houre is at hand, and the Sonne of man is giuen into the hands of sinners.

46 Rise, let vs goe, behold, he is at hand that betrayeth me.

47 And while he yet spake, lo Judas one of the twelve, came, & with him a great multitude with swords and staves from the high Priests and Elders of the people.

48 Now he that betrayed him, had giuen them a token, saying, Whomsoever I shall kisse, that is he, lay hold on him.

49 And forthwith he came to Iesus, and said, God laue thee, Gallee, and kissed him.

50 Then said Iesus vnto him, Friend, wherfore art thou come? Then came they, and laid hands on Iesus, and tooke him.

51 And behold, one of them which were with Iesus, stretched out his hand, and drew his sword, and strooke a seruant of the high Priest, and smote off his eare.

52 Then said Iesus vnto him, Put vp thy sword into his place: for all that take the sword, shall perish with the sword.

53 Either thinkest thou that I cannot now pray to my Father, and he will giue me more then twelue legions of Angels?

54 Now then should the Scriptures be fulfilled, which say, that it must be so?

55 The same houre said Iesus to the multitude, See hee come out as it were against a chiefe with swords and staves to take me: I sate dayly teaching in the Temple among you, and ye tooke me not.

56 But all this was done, that y Scriptures of the Prophets might bee fulfilled.

57 Then all the disciples forsooke him, & fled.

58 And they tooke Iesus, & led him to Calaphas the hie Priest, where the Scribes and the Elders were assembled.

59 And Peter followed him a far off vnto the hie Priests hall, and went in, and sate with the seruants to see the end.

60 Now the chiefe Priests and the Elders, and al the whole Council sought false witness against Iesus to put him to death.

61 But they found none, and though many false witnesses came, yet found they none: but at the last came two false witnesses.

62 And sayd, This man sayd, I can destroy the temple of God, and build it in three dayes.

63 Then the chiefe Priest arose, and said to him, Answerest thou nothing? What is the matter that these men witness against thee?

64 But Iesus held his peace. Then the chiefe Priest answered, and said to him, I charge thee by the liuing God, that thou tell vs if thou bee the Christ the Sonne of God.

64 Iesus sayd to him, Thou hast said it: neuertheless I say vnto you, hereafter shall yee see the Sonne of man sitting at the right hand of the power of God, and come in the clouds of the heauen.

65 Then the hie Priest rent his clothes saying, He hath blasphemed: what haue we any more need of witnesses? behold, now ye haue heard his blasphemy.

66 What thinke yee? They answered, and sayd, He is worthy to die.

67 Then spat they in his face, and buffeted him: and other smote him with their rods, 68 Saying, Prophecie to vs, O Christ, who is he that smote thee?

69 Peter sate without in the hall: and a maid came to him, saying, Thou also wast with Iesus of Galilee.

70 But he denied before them all, saying, I wote not what thou sayest.

71 And when he went out into the porch, another mayd saw him, and said vnto them that were there, This man also was with Iesus of Nazaret.

72 And againe he denied with an oath, saying, I know not the man.

73 So after a while, came vnto him they that stood by, and said vnto Peter, Surely thou art also one of them: for euen thy speech betrayeth thee.

74 Then began he to curse himselfe, and to sweare, saying, I know not the man. And immediately the cocke crew.

75 Then Peter remembered the words of Iesus, which had said vnto him, Before the cocke crow, thou shalt deny me thrise. So he went out, and wept bitterly.

55 And many women were there, beholding him a farre off, which had followed Iesus from Galile, ministering vnto him.

56 Among whom was Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James and Ioses, and the mother of Zebedeus sonnes.

57 And when the euen was come, there came a rich man of Arimathea, named Ioseph, who had also himselfe been Iesus disciple.

58 Hee went to Pilate, and asked the body of Iesus. Then Pilate commanded the body to be deliuered.

59 So Ioseph tooke the body and wrapped it in a cleane linnen cloth, 60 And put it in his new tombe, which hee had hewen out in a rocke, and rolled a great stone to the doore of the sepulchre, and departed.

61 And there was Mary Magdalene, and the other Mary sitting ouer against the sepulchre.

63 And said, Sir, we remember that that deceiver said, while he was yet aliu, With in three dayes I will rise.

64 Command therefore that the Sepulchre be made sure until the third day, lest his Disciples come by night, and steale him away, and say vnto the people, Hee is risen from the dead: so shall the last error bee worse then the first.

Now in the end of the Sabbath, when the first day of the weeke began to dawne, Mary Magdalene, and the other Mary came to see the sepulchre.

2 And behold, there was a great earthquake: for the Angel of the Lord descended from heauen, and came and rolled backe the stone from the doore, and sat vpon it.

3 And his countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow.

4 And for feare of him the keepers were astonied, and became as dead men.

5 But the Angel answered, and sayd to the women, Feare yee not: for I know that ye seeke Iesus which was crucified:

6 He is not here, for he is risen, as he said: Come, see the place where the Lord was layd,

7 And goe quickly, and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead: and behold, hee goeth before you into Galile: there ye shall see him: loe, I haue told you.

8 So they departed quickly from the sepulchre, with feare and great ioy, and did runne to bring his disciples word.

9 And as they went to tell his disciples, behold, Iesus also met them, saying, God saue you. And they came, and tooke him by the feete, and worshipped him.

10 Then Iesus said vnto them, Bee not afraid: Goe, and tell my brethren, that they goe into Galile, and there shall they see me.

11 Now when they were gone, behold, some of the watch came into the citie, and shewed vnto the high Priests all the things that were done.

12 And they gathered them together with the Elders, and tooke counsell, and gaue large money vnto the souldiers, 13 Saying, Say, His disciples came by night, and stole him away while we slept.

14 And if the gouernour heare of this, we will perswade him, and saue you harmelesse.

15 So they tooke the money, and did as they were taught: and this saying is now sed among the Jewes vnto this day.

16 Then the eleuen Disciples went into Galile, into a mountaine, where Iesus had appointed them.

17 And when they saw him, they worshipped him, but some doubted.

18 And Iesus came and spake vnto them, saying, All power is giuen vnto me in heauen, and in earth.

CHAP. I.

2 The office, doctrine and life of Iohn the Baptist.
9 Christ is baptized, 13 and tempted, 14 He preacheth, 17 calleth the fishers, 23 Christ healeth the man with the the vncleane spirit. 27 New doctrine, 29 Hee healeth Peters mother in law. 34 The devils know him. 41 Hee cleanseth the leper, and healeth diuers others.

In the beginning of the Gospel of Iesus Christ, the Sonne of God:

2 As it is written in the Prophets, * Behold, I send my messenger before thy face which shall prepare thy way before thee.

3 The voice of him that cryeth in the wilderness, is, Prepare the way of the Lord, make his paths straight.

4 * Iohn did baptize in the wilderness, and preach the baptisme of amendment of life for remission of sinnes.

5 And all the countrey of Iudea, and they of Ierusalem went out vnto him, and were all baptized of him in the riuer Iordan, confessing their sinnes.

6 * Now Iohn was clothed with camels haire, and with a girdle of a skin about his loynes: and he did eate * Locusts and wild honey.

7 * And preached, saying, A stronger then I cometh after mee, whose shoes latchet I am not worthy to stoupe downe, and vncloose.

8 Trueth it is, I haue baptizd you with water: but hee will baptize you with the holy Ghost.

9 * And it came to passe in those dayes, that Iesus came from Nazaret a citie of Galilee, and was baptized of Iohn in Iordan.

10 And as soone as hee was come out of the water, Iohn saw the heauens clouen in twaine, and the holy Ghost descending vpon him like a doue.

11 Then there was a voice from heauen, saying, Thou art my beloued Sonne in whom I am well pleased.

12 * And immediatly the Spirit departed him into the wilderness.

13 And hee was there in the wilderness fortie dayes, and was tempted of Satan: hee was also with the wilde beastes, and the Angels ministred vnto him.

14 * Now after that Iohn was committed to prison, Iesus came into Galilee, preaching the Gospel of the kingdome of God.

15 And saying, The time is fulfilled, and the kingdome of God is at hand: repent and beleue the Gospel.

16 * And as hee walked by the the Sea of Galilee, he saw Simon, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the Sea, (for they were fishers.)

17 Then Iesus said vnto them, Follow me, & I will make you to be fishers of men. To draw them

18 And straightway they forsooke their nets, and followed him.

19 And when hee had gone a little further thence, hee saw James the sonne of Zebedeus, and Iohn his brother, as they were in the ship, mending their nets.

20 And anon hee called them: and they left their father Zebedeus in the ship with his hired seruants, and went their way after him.

21 * So they entred into Capernaum, and straightway on the Sabbath day he entred into the Synagogue, and taught.

22 And they were astonished at his doctrine: for hee taught them as one that had authoritie, and not as the Scribes.

23 * And there was in their Synagogue a man which had an vncleane spirit, and hee cryed, 24 Saying, Ah, what haue wee to doe with thee, O Iesus of Nazareth? Art thou come to destroy vs? I know thee what thou art, even that holy One of God.

25 And Iesus rebuked him, saying, Hold thy peace, and come out of him.

26 And the vncleane spirit tare him, and cryed with a loud voice, and came out of him.

27 And they were all amazed, so that they demanded one of another, saying, What thing is this? What new doctrine is this: for hee commaundeth the foule spirits with authoritie, and they obey him.

28 And immediatly his fame spread abroad throughout all the region bordering on Galilee.

29 * And as soone as they were come out of the Synagogue, they entred into the house of Simon and Andrew, with James and Iohn.

30 And Simons wifes mother lay sicke of a feuer, and anon they told him of her.

31 And he came and tooke her by the hand, and lift her vp, and the feuer forsooke her by and by, and she ministred vnto them.

32 And when euen was come, and the Sunne was downe, they brought to him all that were diseased, and them that were possessed with devils.

33 And the whole citie was gathered together at the doore.

34 And hee healed many that were sicke of diuers diseases: and hee cast out many devils, and suffered not the devils to say that they knew him.

35 And in the morning very early, hee rose day, Iesus aroose and went out into a solitary place, and there prayed.

36 And Simon, and they that were with him, followed after him.

38 Then he said vnto them, Let vs goe into the next townes, that I may preach there also: for I came out for that purpose.

39 And hee preached in their Synagogues throughout all Galilee, and cast the devils out.

40 ¶ And there came a leaper to him, beseeching him, and kneeled downe vnto him, and said to him, If thou wilt, thou canst make me cleane.

41 And Iesus had compassion, and put forth his hand, and touched him, and said to him, I will be thou cleane.

42 And as soone as hee had spoken, immediately the leprosie departed from him, and he was made cleane.

43 And after hee had giuen him a strait commandement, he sent him away forthwith, 44 And said vnto him, See thou say nothing to any man, but get thee hence, and shew thy self to the Priest, and offer for thy cleansing those things which Moyses commanded, for a testimoniall vnto them.

45 But when he was departed, he began to tell many things, and to publish the matter: so that Iesus could no more openly enter into the citie, but was without in desert places: and they came to him from euery quarter.

CHAP. II.

3 He healeth the man of the palsey. 5 Hee forgiveth sinnes. 14 Hee calleth Lewis the custome. 16 Hee eateth with sinners 18 Hee excuseth his disciples, as touching fasting, and keeping the Sabbath day.

After a few dayes hee entred into Capernaum againe, & it was noised that he was in the house.

2 And anon many gathered together, in so much that the places about the doore could not receiue any more: and he preached the word vnto them.

3 And there came vnto him that brought one sicke of the palsey, borne of foure men.

4 And because they could not come neere vnto him for the multitude, they vncouered the rooffe of the house where hee was: and when they had broken it open, they let downe the bed wherein the sicke of the palsey lay.

5 Now when Iesus saw their faith, hee said to the sicke of the palsey, Sonne, thy sinnes are forgiven thee.

6 And there were certaine of the Scribes, sitting there, and reasoning in their heares, 7 Why doeth this man speake such blasphemies? Who can forgive sinnes, but God onely?

8 And immediately when Iesus perceived in his Spirit, that thus they thought within themselves, hee said vnto them, Why reason ye these things in your hearts?

9 Whether is it easier to say to the sicke of the palsey, Thy sinnes are forgiven thee: or to say, Arise, and take vp thy bed, and walke?

10 And that yee may know, that the Sonne of man hath authoritie in earth, to forgiue sinnes, (he sayd vnto the sicke of the palsey)

11 I say vnto thee, Arise and take vp thy bed, & get thee hence into thine owne house.

12 And by and by he arose, & tooke vp his bed, and went forth before them all, inasmuch that they were all amazed, & glorified God, saying, We neuer saw such a thing.

13 ¶ Then hee went againe toward the sea, and all the people resorted vnto him, and he taught them.

14 ¶ And as Iesus passed by, he saw Lewis the sonne of Alphæus sit at the receipt of custome, and said vnto him, Follow me. And he arose and followed him.

15 ¶ And it came to passe, as Iesus sate at table in his house, many Publicanes and sinners sate at table also with Iesus, and his disciples: for there were many that followed him.

16 And when the Scribes and Pharisees saw him eate with the Publicanes and sinners, they sayd vnto his disciples, How is it, that hee eateth and drinketh with Publicanes and sinners?

17 Now when Iesus heard it, he said vnto them, The whole haue no need of the physician, but the sicke: I came not to call the righteous, but the sinners to repentance.

18 ¶ And the disciples of Iohn & the Pharisees did fast, and came and said vnto him, Why doe the disciples of Iohn and of the Pharisees fast, and thy disciples fast not?

19 And Iesus said vnto them, Can the children of the marriage chamber fast, whyles the bridegrome is with them? as long as they haue the bridegrome with them they cannot fast.

20 But the dayes will come, when the bridegrome shall bee taken from them, and then shall they fast in those dayes.

21 Also no man seweth a piece of new cloth in an old garment: for els the new piece taken away the filling vp from the old, and the breach is worse.

22 Likewise, no man putteth new wine into old vessels: for els the new wine breaketh the vessels, and the wine runneth out, and the vessels are lost: but new wine must be put into new vessels.

23 ¶ And it came to passe as hee went thorow the corne on the Sabbath day, that his disciples as they went on their way, began to plucke the eares of corne.

24 And the Pharisees said vnto him, Behold, why doe they on the Sabbath day that which is not lawfull?

25 And he sayd to them, Haue ye neuer read what Dauid did when he had neede, and was an hungred, both he, and they that were with him?

26 Now hee went into the house of God, in the dayes of Abiathar the hie Priest, and did eate the shewbread, which were not lawfull to eate, but for the Priests, and gaue also to them which were with him?

27 And he said to them, The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath.

28 Therefore the sonne of man is Lord also of the Sabbath.

AND * hee entred againe into the Synagogue, and there was a man which had a withered hand.

2 And they watched him whether hee would heale him on the Sabbath day, that they might accuse him.

3 Then he said vnto the man which had the withered hand, Arise: stand forth in the mids.

4 And hee said to them, Is it lawfull to doe a good deed on the Sabbath day, or to doe euill: to save the life, or to kill? But they held their peace.

5 Then he looked round about on them angrily, mourning also for the hardnesse of their hearts, and said to the man, Stretch forth thine hand: And hee stretched it out: and his hand was restored as whole as the other.

6 And the Pharisees departed, and straightway gathered a Councill with the Herodians against him, that they might destroy him.

7 But Iesus auoyded with his disciples to the Sea: and a great multitude followed him from Galilee, and from Iudea, 8 And from Ierusalem, and from Idumea, and beyond Iordan, and they that dwelled about Tyrus and Sidon, when they had heard what great things hee did, came vnto him in great number.

9 And he commanded his disciples, that a shippe should waite for him, because of the multitude, lest they should throng him.

10 For hee had healed many, insomuch that they pressed vpon him to touch him, as many as had // plagues.

11 And when the vnckeane spirits sawe him, they fell downe before him, and cryed, saying, Thou art the Sonne of God.

12 And he sharply rebuked them, to the end they should not vtter him.

13 * Then hee went vp into a mountaine, and called vnto him whom he would, and they came vnto him.

14 And hee appointed twelue that they should be with him, and that hee might send them to preach, 15 And that they might haue power to heale sicknesses, and to cast out deuils.

16 And the first was Simon, and hee named Simon, Peter.

17 Then James the sonne of Zebedeus, and Iohn. James brother, (and named them Boanerges, which is the sonnes of thunder)

22 * And the Scribes which came from Ierusalem, said, He hath Beelzebub, and through the prince of deuils hee casteth out deuils.

23 But he called them vnto him, and said vnto them in parables, How can Satan drive out Satan?

24 For if a kingdome be diuided against it selfe, that kingdome cannot stand.

25 Or if a house be diuided against it selfe, that house cannot continue.

26 So if Satan make insurrection against himselfe, and be diuided, hee cannot indure, but is at an end.

27 No man can enter into a strong mans house, and take away his goods, except hee first binde that strong man, and then spoile his house.

28 * Verily I say vnto you, all finnes shall be forgiven vnto the children of men, & blasphemies, wherewith they blaspheme:

29 But hee that // blasphemeth against the holy Ghost, shall neuer haue forgiveness, but is culpable of eternall damnation.

30 Because they said, He had an vnckeane spirit.

31 * Then came his // brethren and mother, and stood without, and sent vnto him, and called him.

32 And the people late about him, & they said vnto him, Behold, thy mother and thy brethren seeke for thee without.

33 But hee answered them, saying, Who is my mother and my brethren?

34 And he looked round about on them, which late in compasse about him, and said, Behold my mother and my brethren.
